U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER

Sunny and mild with 78 high. Yesterday's high, 76; low, 55.

The Daily Tar Heel

OLYMPIC

He, Editor Farber, that is, was one of the multitudes at Helsinki. Details in Personally, p. 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER I CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, Sept. 24, 1952 EIGHT PAGES TODAY

Korean Veterans Among Fall's 5,500

NEWS IN BRIEF

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—While Sen. Richard M. Nixon was telling the American people the whys and the hows of his $18,235 expense fund on radio and TV, The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said yesterday that one of the contributors to the fund got help from Nixon's office in claiming a tax refund, valued at $500,000 to $600,000, from the government.

The St. Louis paper said Dana C. Smith, administrator of the expense fund, received aid from an assistant of Nixon's in pressing the claim.

Meanwhile, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower didn't mention Nixon in an Ohio speech, but struck out against the "mess in Washington." In Washington, talk of Senators William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Harry F. Cain (R-Wash.) as possible successors for Nixon spread. Also mentioned for the vice-presidential Republican spot is Sen. Robert A. Taft. Reports that Nixon would quit have not been confirmed.

★

NEW YORK—Over 8,000,000 members of the Amercian Federation of Labor will be urged to vote for Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson in November. Endorsement of the Democratic presidential aspirant came when the 71st annual A. F. L. convention unanimously adopted a report calling on members to take a political stand for Stevenson. It's the first time since 1924 that the union has backed a presidential candidate.

★

BLED, Yugoslavia—At the invitation of Winston Churchill, Marshall Tito will probably visit Britain, it was revealed yesterday.

★

ST LOUIS—The president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union traced corruption in government back to the repeal of the 18th Amendment yesterday as the WCTU prepared here for its 78th annual convention. Mrs. Leigh Colvin said "Drink is the first step of the individual away from religion and ethics."

★

WASHINGTON—The Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday said it had found embezzlements totaling $10,000,000 in government-owned grain. It added that Agriculture Department employes had not profited personally by them.

Tarnation Humor Mag Seeks Staff

Tarnation, Carolina's humor magazine is back this fall after a year of rest.

This year it will operate on money derived from individual subscriptions rather than from the block fees as in the past.

A staff is now the most serious need of Tarnation, says Editor Tom Alexander. There are places, he emphasized, for people in all of the departments necessary to magazine publication: writing, cartooning, drawing, make-up, layout, advertising, business managing, editing, typing, circulation and subscription.

Those interested are asked to attend a meeting to be held in Roland Parker Lounge No. 3 on the second floor of Graham Memorial tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Foreign Students

All foreign students at the University are invited to a tea in their honor at 4:30 this afternoon in the main lounge of Graham Memorial, student union building.

Among those attending will be campus and University leaders.

Relief Seen

Housing Shortage Still On

By Mike Soper

The campus housing shortage should be eased in three to four weeks, Housing Officer James E. Wadsworth said yesterday.

The first aim, he said, will be to clear the crowded basement of Cobb Dormitory, which is currently filled to an emergency capacity of 102. The four story, $1,000,000 dorm has room accommodations for 413 students.

Wadsworth also hopes to assign rooms shortly to the overflow of upper-classmen, now being assigned to the basement of Joyner.

It was the practice at Carolina from 1946 to last year to permit three men to occupy rooms built for two, Wadsworth said. It was thought that the additional rooms in Cobb would make such measures unnecessary this year. Wadsworth noted that the shortage will be over too soon to justify creating three-man rooms again.

He estimated about 100 men failed to make reservations last spring, thinking there would be plenty of space. There isn't.

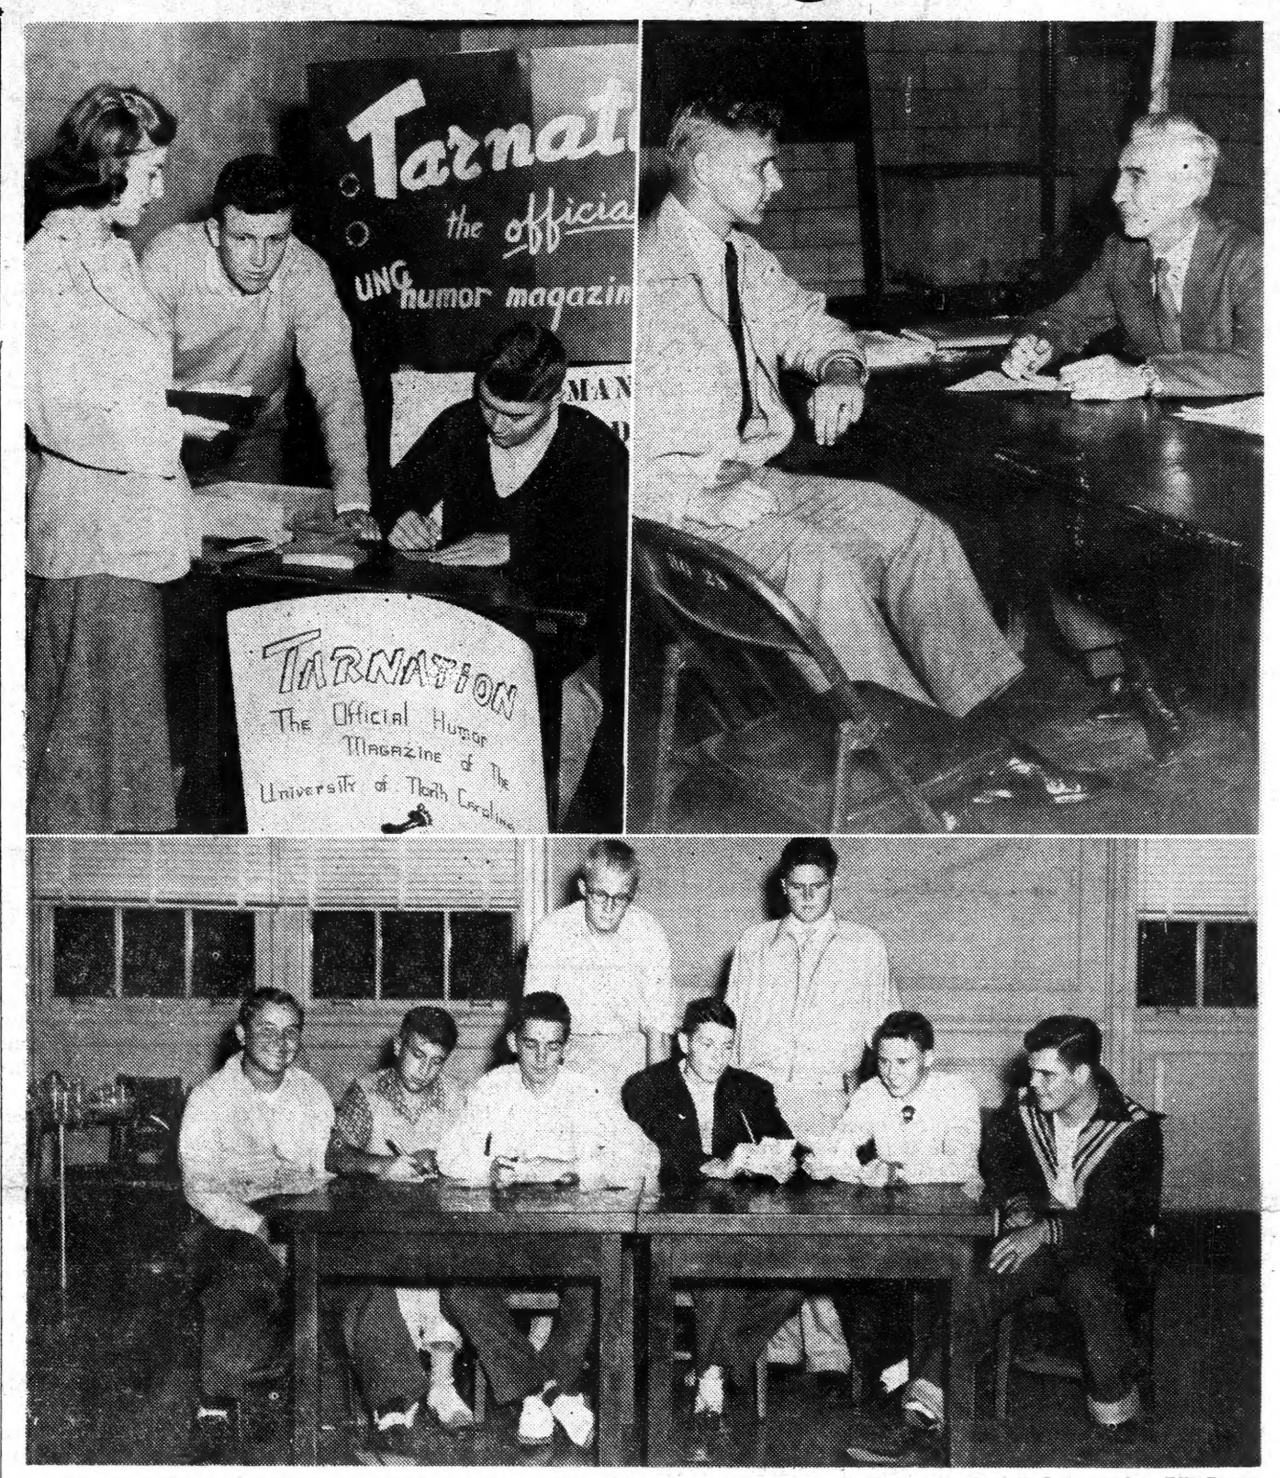
Wadsworth explained that the room shortage largely was due to the influx this fall of third year medical and dental students. There also has been a large number of returning Korean veterans, he said.

The Housing Officer expects some space to be made available when expectant draftees called to service and fraternity pledges vacate their rooms.

Best Yet

Harassed Housing Officer James E. Wadsworth took time out the other day to carefully explain the housing shortage to his caller on the phone.

Wadsworth cheerfully concluded, "Cobb is the best basement we've ever had to put students in."



All Invited To Coed Ball Friday Night

All students are invited to attend the semi-formal Coed Ball Friday night from 9 to 12 o'clock in Woollen Gymnasium.

An annual affair, the Coed Ball is presented in honor of new women students to introduce them to social life at Carolina. All students desiring dates are asked to contact the date bureau which will be open between 11 o'clock and 1:30 today through Friday in the Y Court. Dee Breslow is chairman of the bureau.

Nancy Ripple, dance chairman, yesterday said the Duke Cavaliers led by Pete Hull will furnish music and decorations will consist of posters from all last year's campus activities. Robbins, and Town and Campus, local stores, are furnishing two formally dressed mannequins which will be suspended behind the orchestra stand.

Committee chairmen for the dance are Rachel Williams, programs; Gerry Snyder, invitations; Joan Jacobi, posters, and Nancy Ripple, decorations. Dormitory, sorority and fraternity housemothers will serve as chaperones.

IT WAS THE DAY BEFORE SCHOOL STARTED AND EVERYBODY was busy. Daily Tar Heel staff photographer Bill Stonestreet got the situation summed up in these three photos. At top left, Lawrence Madry (seated) takes down the name of a coed for a subscription to Tarnation, campus humor mag due back this fall after a year's absence. Col.F. Carlyle Shepard (top right), veterans' adviser here, goes over the schedule of Frank Lukoski, Durham. Lukoski is one of scores of vets registering this fall under the Korean GI Bill. In the bottom photo is a group of freshman camp leaders. Front row left to right are Charles Jones, Kinston; James W. Goldenberg, Lawrence, L. I., N. Y.; Bob Lindley, Chapel Hill; Bennett Myers Jr., Winston-Salem; Freeman Grant, Bethesda, Md., and Bob Suttle, Charlotte. Back row left to right are Tom Spain, Morristown, N. J. and Bobby Brawley, Landis.

New GI Bill Pays For 89 Enrolled Here

Over 600 Frosh Indicate Desire To Join Greeks

By Ted Kemp

Warriors turned students here yesterday for the second time in six years as the University readied itself for a hefty enrollment of 5,500. Included are 89 Korean veterans.

Registration was complete last night although the figures were not. However, Admissions Director Roy Armstrong said he expected this fall's student body to number about 5,500.

Veterans returning from the Korean War found the same shortage at UNC their World War II contemporaries faced when they came back—housing. (See story in column two.)

The Korean GI's are getting substantially the same government-paid educational benefits that the vets of the last World War got. The new GI Bill (Public Law 550) allows a vet to change his major only once, however, where the old bill (PL 316) had no such restriction.

While universities throughout the nation face a drop of eight to 10 per cent in this quarter's enrollment compared to last year, UNC is down only about 200 students or about three and a half per cent. If draft calls run the same, officials predict the enrollment will drop to about 5,000 by next spring.

Registration took an average of 45 minutes for the freshman, while his lucky preregistered upperclassmen quickly filled out minor forms and left Woollen Gym with class admission tickets.

For the first time this year, freshmen were given the chance while registering to indicate if they would like to join a fraternity. More than 600 of the 900 said they would.

And freshmen and upperclassmen alike got the chance at a double-barrelled literary combination. Hawkers for the Carolina Quarterly, literary magazine, and Tarnation, reborn humor mag, were at the gym from 9 until 5 o'clock each day trying to interest purchasers. Salesmen reported good results.

Dr. Logan Wilson Gets Texas Job

Dr. Logan Wilson, acadamic vice-president and provost of the Consolidated University, will leave the first of February to return to his native state as president of the University of Texas.

Dr. Wilson came to Chapel Hill a year ago from Tulane University where he was graduate chairman of sociology and dean of Newcombe College since 1944. He holds a B. A. degree from the University of Texas and an M. A. and Ph. D. from Harvard University.

The most heavily endowed state university in the country, the University of Texas consists of 12 schools and colleges and has a student enrollment of 12,842 last year.

DTH, Yack Meets

The Daily Tar Heel staff meeting will not be held tomorrow as planned. Meeting time for interested staffers will be announced soon.

Students who wish to work on the 1953 Yackety Yack yearbook staff should attend the meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Yack office, second floor, Graham Memorial.

Dick Murphy Chosen NSA Head, Second UNC Student So Honored

A national organization representing 800,000 American students has reached down into Chapel Hill for the second time in three years to pick a man to lead the association for the coming year.

Dick Murphy, Carolina graduate and former attorney-general of the student body, was elected president of the National Student Association by a vote of acclamation at the August Congress held at the University of Indiana at Bloomington.

Murphy is the second Carolina man to head NSA, a five-year-old federation of over 300 American student governments. Al Lowenstein was national president for the school year 1950-51, and is now heading Students for Stevenson.

Another Carolina student, Ken Barton, was named Regional Chairman of the Virginia-Carolinas for the next 12 months. He succeeds Barry Farber, editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

Murphy has been active in NSA since its birth in 1947. He served on the committee to draft the association's constitution and later was Regional Chairman. Last year he represented NSA on the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO.)

Murphy came to the Bloomington Congress from his home in Baltimore, intending to decline all nominations and return to Carolina graduate school in the fall, according to members of his Carolina delegation. He finally permitted his name to be placed on the ballot when it became obvious he was the choice of the Congress, local delegates said.

His duties for the coming year will take the former campus leader from coast to coast addressing student legislatures and regional assemblies. In January he will fly to Copenhagen to represent the students of America at an international conference of student organizations.

At Carolina, Murphy served in the Legislature and was a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece.

Di, Phi Schedule Meets This Week

The Dialectic Senate will meet tonight at 8 o'clock for open debate on the non-deferment of college students. Meeting place is third floor, New West building.

The Philanthropic Assembly will meet tomorrow at 8 o'clock in New West building.

Daily Tar Heel Gets Summer Face Lifting

Today's Daily Tar Heel is a major revision of the one you were receiving when you left school in June.

"We hope the students like it." Editor Barry Farber said yesterday. "The department editors spent a good deal of the summer mulling over ideas and negotiating for new features. Their work is now up for approval."

Major change is from the five-column tabloid to a standard-size newspaper. This allows for a more attractive presentation of news, pictures and features, and a better dispersement of advertising, according to Managing Editor Rolfe Neill.

Neill pointed out the paper will be running a daily Washington column by Drew Pearson, a veteran of 20 years of Capital reporting. Added to Pearson is the pen and brush political cartoons of Herbert Block, who draws under the name Herblock. He is one of the country's leading cartoonists.

Daily coverage also will include the telephoto pictures of United Press' worldwide coverage, Neill said.

New Hospital Starts Here, Offers Degree

The $5,000,000 North Carolina Memorial Hospital opened officially Sept. 2, again bringing to the campus a four year course leading to an M.D. degree.

The spacious, white faced structure was put into operation without fanfare of any sort—in fact workmen adding finishing touches and assembling equipment scarcely were aware that the first patient had been received, attendants said.

For the present, only 100 of the 400 beds will be put into service, according to Dr. Robert R. Cadmus, the hospital's director. He added that additional rooms will be opened when needed.

Students admitted to the School of Medicine in 1950 will be able to finish the complete course for the M.D. degree without transfer. In 1910 the first four-year University School of Medicine was discontinued after 10 years of operation. The last two years then taken at Raleigh.

The $5,000,000 appropriation for the state's newest hospital was provided by the 1947 and 1949 State Legislature. Equipment took more than $800,000 of the funds. The hospital will have a service staff of 200, in addition to 100 doctors.

An oval arrangement of corridors provides that all rooms will face the outside of the building.

517365

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
News Ed. ..... Jody Levy
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Ruth Hincks, Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Marc Gittleman.
Sports Staff—Tom Peacock, Eddie Starnes.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Howdy

From the halls of the medical school, to the shores of Hogan's Lake, the staff wishes a happy new school year to all participants of Chapel Hill's four-year plan.

Whether you're a freshman on the ground floor on the way up, or a senior at the top of the stairs on the way out, your newspaper will be on the inside looking out for you step by step.

This is the year of elections, Olympics, and a split-T formation for Carolina. It is also the year of a seven-column DAILY TAR HEEL to give you bigger helpings of the world stew, hot off the press.

We want to be your guide by keeping you posted six days a week every quarter of the way until you mustleave us. Whoever you are, whatever you purpose at the University, wherever you come from, you are of interest to us and we want to be interesting to you.

No news is bad news to THE DAILY TAR HEEL, so your ideas and contributions are of front-page importance in our department. Remember that whatever you don't say may be held against you in the quality of your newspaper. Let us hear from you.

To the football squad, we say good punting; to the sororities and fraternities we say good hunting; to the freshmen, welcome; to the sophomores, welcome back; to the juniors, welcome back again; to the seniors, welcome back once more.
—B. B.

Express Yourself

For the next nine months the editors of this paper will be shooting their opinions into your face at the rate of six volleys per week. Sometimes you will say our editorials are the zenith of lucid, intelligent thinking. (Meaning you agree.) Other times you'll claim we have rocks in our heads, meaning you happen to embrace an opposite point of view.

At any rate, why confine your reactions and counter-attacks to that mellow area inside your own cranium? Drop us a line instead so the campus, the community, and the great world beyond can bask in the radiance of your self expressed thoughts.

We're anxious to hear what you, the students, have to say on everything from the library to the Kenan seating arrangement to the Berlin Air Lift. If you like the way some particular facet of Carolina life is being run you might inject a few well chosen accolades via our editorial pages. On the other hand if you feel that a certain situation in our academic community is abominable and could stand improvement, just sharpen your tongue, cruise over the target, and drop a few adjectives on it.

So if at any time you get the urge to drip honey, splash vitriol, or merely present some pertinent comment, you can rest assured that your offerings will be warmly received by the Editors.

We ask that your letters be typewritten, if possible, and double spaced with ample margins. We must know your name and address which we will withhold upon request. Usually letters are limited to 350 words, although we will gladly allot you more space if we feel you have a message of graphic import to our readership.

Our address is: THE DAILY TAR HEEL; Chapel Hill, N. C. Don't let us monopolize the conversation all year long.

Off Campus

From the Daily Kansan, University of Kansas

BIG NIGHTSHIRT PARADE SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY

Plans for the annual Nightshirt parade to be held Friday night were announced today by the All student Council traditions committee. It will include the traditional snake dance down Massachusetts Street and a bonfire rally at South Park. Dress for the paradte will be anything from pajamas to nightshirts.

May we wear blankets in case it's cold and do the sack dance?

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS
1. Capital of France
6. Hue
11. Anything crushed to a pulpy mass
12. Supposed
14. Adjusted to form a line
15. Pave again
16. Free
17. Mends
19. Obtain
20. Cease
22. By birth
23. Nothing more than
24. Fisher for eels
26. Wall decorator
28. Vehicle on wheels
30. Younger man
31. Larger
35. Massive
39. Bereft
40. Result of infection
42. County road
43. Goal
44. Inn
46. Meadow
47. Glides
49. Reveler
51. Pertaining to old age
52. Finishers
53. Has an opinion
54. Long grassy stalks

DOWN
1. Refined
2. White crystalline powder
3. Went swiftly
4. Frozen
5. Type of automobile
6. Pertaining to the eyeball
7. Opens: poet.
8. Part of the mouth
9. Wild ass of Asia
10. Venerate
11. Resolve into elements
13. Prevent from action
18. Corded fabric
21. Kind of nut
23. Honor
25. Rodent
27. Knave of clubs in loo
29. Rests
31. Amorphous transparent substance
32. Disturbed
33. Type of fur
34. Track worn by a wheel
36. Seasoned
37. Gibes
38. Divisions of time
41. Negro tribe of Cape Verde
44. Tiller
45. Row
48. Decease
50. Poem

A	C	T		B	E	E		E	L	E	C	T
D	O	R		E	L	M		D	O	L	O	R
E	N	A	M	E	L		M	I	G		M	I
	S	C	A	N		N	I	T		A	P	E
S	T	E	W		V	A	N		B	I	R	D
H	I	D		M	A	T	A	B	E	L	E
E	T		S	E	C	U	R	E	D		H	O
	U	N	A	W	A	R	E	S		P	E	W
S	T	O	W		T	A	T		C	O	N	E
E	I	R		H	E	L		M	A	S	S
N	O		A	O	D		S	E	P	T	I	C
S	N	A	I	L		H	O	T		A	V	A
E	S	S	A	Y		E	W	E		L	E	D

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

by Barry Farber — Personally

A funny thing happened in Helsinki this summer.

Around the middle of July five hundred athletes followed by a hundred thousand happy sports fans from seventy one nations put their hates, prejudice, and ideology under wraps and congregated in the cozy capital of Finland to match skill, speed, and muscle in a radiant spirit of Olympic harmony.

In Korea jet fighters and bombers were busy peppering the enemy with block busters and gasoline jelly blobs while glaring negotiators played "truce or consequences" in a blood-soaked puptent near Panmunjom. And the Communists staged monster pep rallies in Paris and Rome while in Teheran a wispy little premier named Mossadegh threatened to ignite the simmering oil of the middle east. Jews and Egyptians spat four-letter oaths back and forth across a desert barricade and down in the Malayan jungles the mournful cry of the chimp and parakeet was punctuated by the gasp of the flame thrower and the shrill whine of the heavy mortar.

But Helsinki wasn't interested. For three weeks this sub-arctic sanctuary for sports lovers forgot about the Iron Curtain, Malik's veto, the prisoner of war muddle, and the charges of germ warfare and young boxers and swimmers from England, Argentina, and America took advantage of this time out in the Cold War to swap snapshots, T-shirts, and shaggy dog storries with high hurdlers from Moscow, Prague, and Warsaw. For a brief interlude the laughing, hand-shaking javelin throwers from Minsk and Minneapolis, Budapest and Baltimore made monkeys out of their elder diplomats who so far have been able to do nothing better than stumble into a U.N. chamber, exchange grunts, and then throw pieces of Asia at each other.

If a casual visitor from Mars circling the Earth had poked his head out of a flying saucer over Helsinki, the Olympic spectacle would have ruptured his cosmic eyeballs out of their sockets and left them dangling by the optic nerve.

"What a looney planet!" he might have uttered. "On one side of this swirling mudcake everybody's slinging dynamite, daggers, and dead cats at each other. Then a few healthy delegates from each country slip away to a huge stadium up north; they meet, they shake, and first thing you know they put on short pants and start jumping around in a sawdust pit together."

Our interplanetary tourist wouldn't have been the only one puzzled by what went on when belligerent East and West temporarily set aside their feuding and played games instead. For instance, who in Helsinki ever dreamed that Russian and American yacht crews would sit together in the crepe-decorated cellar of a Finish castle chewing sirloin and quaffing cognac while Arabs and Israelis joined in frivilous folk dancing down at a barbeque beach party thrown by the French and Germans? And who could help but blink and blink again at the sight of two students, one from the University of Leningrad, the other from Cornell, down on both knees helping a South Korean boy adjust the weights on his iron barbell?

The Olympic story has been told in millions of words in dozens of languages by every newspaper on seven continents, but there's still enough untapped drama and intrigue to keep hack writers batting away at the Remingtons until Gabriel blows that high note. So I've decided to rip out a few pages from my logbook to bring you my description of a Communist rally in London, an Eisenhower rally in Oslo, Olympic Helsinki, a grand Tar Heel reunion on the banks of the Baltic, an interview with the Bulgarian gymnastic squad, a two hour train ride through Soviet Russia, and a two week ocean voyage with refugees from Communist terror.

(To Be Continued)

There were 398 school bus accidents in North Carolina last year which injured 116 children.

Last year there were 176 children under 15 years of age injured in bicycle accidents on North Carolina streets and highways.

"Hey—That's My Fountain Pen"

by Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

ABOARD THE EISENHOWER CAMPAIGN TRAIN—Ike Eisenhower had settled down to whistle-stopping with the verve and gusto of Harry Truman when the $16,000 Nixon bombshell hit him. After a hesitant and faltering start during the first part of his trip, the general had really learned how to harangue the crowds and seemed to like the hustings.

Then suddenly came the word that his side-kick, the candidate for vice-president and the man who had been held up to the public as the model young man of America, had received $16,000 a year for expenses from a "Millionaires' Club" in California while serving in the Senate.

For a time it took most of the campaign wind out of Ike's sails. He looked pretty grim the next morning when he spoke at little midwest towns along the way. Ike went through the usual motions but you could see his heart wasn't much in it anymore.

Back in the rest of the train, Eisenhower's advisers discussed the pros and cons of Nixon's "expense" gift.

According to normal tax practice, income used for living expenses is taxable. It cannot be tax-exempt as Senator Nixon treated it, and, therefore, he opened himself up to a charge of income-tax evasion—if the Justice Department wanted to deal with Nixon the same way the Republicans have demanded that it deal with others. Likewise those who gave the expense gifts to Nixon would be vulnerable—in case they deducted the money from their own income taxes.

Finally, it is against the law for any member of Congress to accept a fee or gift in connection with any claim, legislation or case against the U. S. Government. It is quite possible that some members of California's so-called Millionaires club could have had government contracts, or could have filed for a radio or television station, or could have had other matters pending against the government on which Nixon used his influence.

In this case he would be open to criminal prosecution and a jail sentence of two years. Sen. Barton of Kansas once went to jail in such a case, while the criminal division of the Justice Department recommended the prosecution of Congressman Gene Cox, of Georgia, a Democrat, for taking a gift of stock in connection with a call he made to the Federal Trade Commission to secure a radio license in Albany, Ga.

Meanwhile, newsmen, most of them representing pro-Eisenhower papers, asked press secretary Jim Hagerty for a statement.

"No comment at this time," replied Hagerty usually one of the most obliging men in the world.

"But this is something the American people have a right to know about," pressed Vance Johnson of the San Francisco Chronicle, a paper supporting Eisenhower and Nixon.

Ed Folliard of the Washington Post, also an Eisenhower paper, backed him up, as did others.

"I'm not going to get a statement for all you Democratic papers," gibbed Hagerty, half joking.

"But I happen to represent a paper which strongly supports your candidate—at least momentarily," shot back Johnson.

Hagerty couldn't help himself. He knew that the general was in the rear of the train at that moment with Senators Calson of Kansas and Seaton of Nebraska, two of his closest advisers, trying to decide what to do.

Next morning Hagerty came forth with the General's statement which many construed as strong support of Nixon though Ike also said he would talk to his Vice Presidential running mate.

A moment later, the train stopped for a usual whistle-stop appearance. Ike was grim as he stepped out on the rear platform. But he went through with his corruption routine.

"We have to get rid of people who regard public office as an opportunity to get rich and aggrandize themselves," he said. "I believe the cure has to come from top to bottom. I sincerely believe I can do the job with the men I gather around me in Washington."

General Eisenhower looked stern indeed as the train pulled on to the next whistle-stop on the Midwest Prairies.

Strangely absent from the Eisenhower train are some of his original boosters. Sen. Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, who first started the draft-Ike movement and made speech after speech last winter when the general was still in Paris, is not only absent but unmentioned. Duff is not a Taft admirer.

Also missing is Paul Hoffman, former head of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee and one of the most effective organizers in helping Ike win the nomination. Hoffman also is not an admirer of Taft's. Reports persist that he has broken with Ike, not personally but politically.

Also missing is Herbert Brownell, the Dewey campaign manager who, along with Dewey, did so much to beat the Taft forces at Chicago. During the convention, Ike never made a move without consulting Brownell. His most frequent remark then was: "What do we do next, Herb?"

In New York, Brownell sometimes drops around to Ike's headquarters at the Hotel Commodore. But the calls are not frequent and Herb always comes up by a back elevator.

The political backers of any candidate are bound to change, as his views change, but the complete turnover of the men around Eisenhower has been a little quicker than usual.

On Campus

(The editors have invited Bill Roth, director of Graham Memorial Building, to introduce the new students at Carolina to the program of activities and available facilities of our student union center. Roth is serving his second year as Graham Memorial director.—ED.)

There is little that remains to be said to the many new students in the way of welcome. Counselors, advisers, administrative officials, and old students have made many welcoming speeches, they have shaken many hands, and, by this time, the "newcomers" feel somewhat like "oldtimers."

In short, the new academic year is underway, and, once again, the University has rolled out the carpet to a new crop of soon-to-be alumni.

But now that you are here, well-settled, and ready to embark upon a career, we would like to re-state a welcome to the use of facilities in Graham Memorial.

The building, and everything that is in it, is for the use of the student body, old students and new students alike. The class of '56 has already taken advantage of the reading, TV, radio and lounging facilities of the spacious GM Lounge. They have had tea and cookies with us on the front porch, and now, we hope that they will get acquainted with the remainder of the building.

If you "don't know from nothing," if you want to reserve a room in GM for a meeting, if you want to check out some records for a little listening pleasure, or if you just want to shoot the breeze, then you should come by the Information Office of Graham Memorial. If you like the music and lights soft and low, then the Rendezvous Room in the basement is just the ticket. All you have to do is watch The Daily Tar Heel for doings in that quarter.

We can practically guarantee that you will be able to stir up a good bridge game, chess game or checker game if you come by the Lounge and make known your intentions. (Check out the necessary paraphernalia from the Office.)

And, if your leisure hours begin to hang heavy upon you, there are possibilities along the upstairs hallway which is lined with under-staffed offices. The procedure is simple: merely walk past the open office doors at a slow pace, and, occasionally, an arm will snake out and grab you. The Daily Tar Heel like the Yackety Yack loves Company.

The Carolina Quarterly, for the veddy, veddy practicioners of the haute culture, is to be found on the left mezzanine as you enter. The Travel Agency, if you are thinking of leaving in a hurry, can be found on the right mezzanine ditto. Tarnation, the "humor" magazine is starting to whomp up a funny batter in what used to be the kitchen, on the main floor, to the left as you come in.

But our main claim to fame is the Student Government offices. On the main floor, right, is the office of the President of the Student Body, Ham Horton. Upstairs, the ofices of the other student government personnel are located. We recommend that you not arrive in the various Council offiecs as a culprit, but that you choose the route of getting elected.

So, once again, here's to the class of '56, and a new year, and a bigger and better Student Union program.

In the United States last year, nearly 87,000 child pedestrians were killed or injured by motor vehicles. Almost 30,000 of them were under 5.

Campus Favorite

L'l Abner

Starts Tomorrow

Four Appointed To Staff Posts In Education

Tarbet, Skretting, Parker, Anderson Chosen For Here

Four appointments to the staff of the School of Education recently were announced by Chancellor Robert B. House and Dean Guy B. Phillips.

The new members of the staff are Dr. Donald G. Tarbet from the University of Missouri; Dr. J. R. Skretting, from the State University of Iowa; Don H. Parker, formerly for 14 years in the personnel division of Sears Roebuck and Company, and William P. Anderson, principal of the Mangum Consolidated School in Durham county last year.

Before going to the University of Missouri, where he recently completed work for his doctorate, Dr. Tarbet, whose appointment as assistant professor is for one year, formerly taught at Washington University (Missouri) and Central Missouri State College. Dean Phillips said he has "contributed significantly to all the institutions with which he has been connected."

He has also served as a director of music and teacher of social studies in three high schools of Missouri and as a high school principal in Warrensburg High School, Mo.

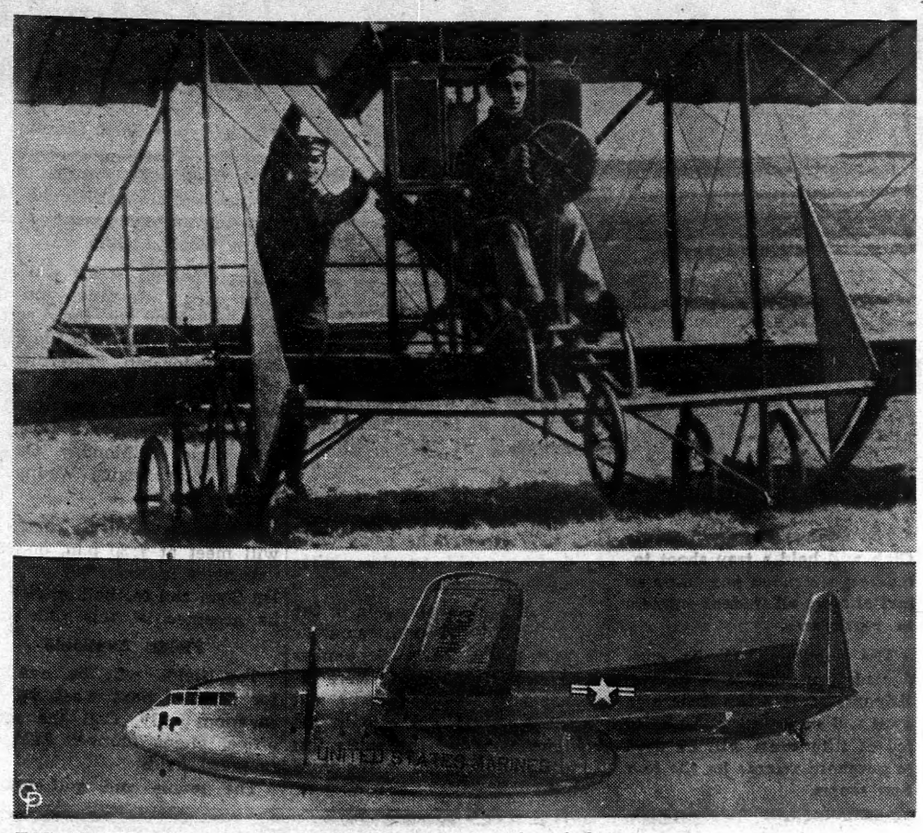
At the University here he will teach in the general field of secondary education and social studies.

Dr. Skretting, a native of Wisconsin, comes directly from the State University of Iowa where he has just completed requirements for the Ph.D. degree with honors. His major fields were political science and education. He took his B.A. degree at Beliot College and did some graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Skretting has had experience as a teacher of social studies in the Clinton (Wisconsin) High School and the University High in Iowa City.

He has had wide experience with the National Council for Social Studies and has contributed a number of significant articles in the field of social studies.

Dr. Skretting is now representing the University of North Carolina at an Economic Education Work-Conference at New York University. He was selected for this scholarship by New York University.



Dr. Skretting, whose appointment is for one year as assistant professor, will work directly with the teachers in the social studies with materials and methods and in directing of student teaching. In addition, he will work with students in the orientation program in the School of Education. He and Mrs. Skretting will come to Chapel Hill about September 1.

Parker will come to the School of Education as a visiting lecturer on the Staff of the Bureau of Educational Research and Service for 1952-53.

A native of New York State, he took his A.B. and M.A. degrees at the University of Florida and has done work toward his doctorate.

He has had a wide range of experience as an instructor in educational phychology and as a reading consultant.

Old And New Marine Aircraft

FORTY YEARS OF PROGRESS IN Marine Corps aircraft is illustrated in the pictures above. At top is Lt. Alfred Cunningham's plane, the "Noisy Nan," which represented the modest beginnings of the Leathernecks' air wing. At bottom is the Fairchild R4Q, already battle-proved in Korea, where it has become the UN's biggest mover of personnel and supplies into forward combat areas.

Dr. Jaffe Attended Chemistry Conference

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

BRYN MAWR, Penn., Sept. 23—Dr. H. H. Jaffe of the University of North Carolina Chemistry Department recently attended the fourth conference on reaction mechanisms held here.

About 150 chemists attended.

Inspection For AFROTC This Week

Col. Franklin G. Pruyn and Lt. Colonel Claude C. Carter, liaison team members from headquarters, Air University Command, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., will inspect the AF ROTC unit Friday and Saturday.

Colonel Carter is on leave from his teaching duties in the University School of Business Administration. He returned to temporary active duty with the Air Force last year.

The two Air Force officers established a temporary base here a week ago in order to conduct visits to other educational institutions in Virginia and Pennsylvania, as well as North Carolina, during the latter half of the month.

The Air University Command, responsible for the administration and operation of the AF ROTC program at 187 universities and colleges throughout the country, has established 10 liaison teams.

39 Nurses Enter Here For Training

Thirty-nine young women, 29 of them North Carolinians, will enter the freshman class of the University School of Nursing this fall—the first class to begin its four-year course in the new Memorial Hospital.

The School of Nursing which began operation last fall under the guidance of Dean Elizabeth Kemble will soon have its own separate Nursing School building, but for the fall quarter members of both the first and second year classes will be housed in the Hospital. This is necessary, Dean Kemble explained, because of an increase in the enrollment of coeds in the University.

Entering student nurses will take regular courses along with other students in the University, and as their course of study progresses they will take more and more specialized nursing classes. Upon reaching their fourth year here they will receive clinical experience in nursing, through observation and experience in nursery schools, rural hospitals and other community health agencies, as well as in the Hospital here.

Entering nurses this fall from North Carolina are Anne P. Allen, Farmville; Elaine Allison, Black Mountain; Laura Jean Bryant, Durham; Jessie Mck. Carraway, Farmville; Ruth Louise Corwin, Spencer; Billie Bruce Dobbs, Charlotte; Lois J. Eifort, West End; Evelyn J. Farmer, Hughes; Elizabeth A. Hamilton, Raleigh; Betty Jane Harris, Ahoskie; Judith L. Hinson, Sanford; Betty C. Hunt, Lexington; Jane D. Kelly, Durham; Jane McN. King, Williamson; Lucy A. Lancaster, Windsor;

Mary L. Lewis, Asheville; Sarah L. McCarter, Burlington; Dorothy G. McNeely, Morganton; Peggy P. Needham, New Bern; Sulvia M. Renshaw, Asheville; Emily L. Robeson, Laurinburg; Sarah E. Seawell, Merry Oaks; Sandra A. Shaw, Durham; Sally M. Smith, Wrightsville Beach; Jane C. Snyder, Winston-Salem, and Katherine H. Widman, Jacksonville.

From out of state: Donna E. Overholt, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Natalie Salter, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Sara Elizabeth Usher, Hartsville, S. C., and Gwendolyn M. Wait, Rochester, N. Y.

At Playmaker Get Together

Selden To Talk

Students, members of the University faculty and residents of Chapel Hill will be guests of the Carolina Playmakers at their traditional first get-together of the season tomorrow at 7.30 p.m. in the Playmakers Theater.

Highlight of the informal gathering will be the annual illustrated talk, "Adventures in Playmaking," given by Samuel Selden, chairman of the Department of Dramatic Art. Slides will be shown depicting 34 years of Playmaker history.

The schedule of productions and other activities of the season also will be announced.

As a producing group, the Carolina Playmakers is not confined to students in the department.

Greeting——

Classes 53-54-55

In our picturesque University town of Chapel Hill, September is the season of the meeting . . . the greeting . . . the getting acquainted with new faces and new challenges. And we, at ROBBINS, would like to add our personal welcome to every individual and family now calling Chapel Hill home.

In this season of excitement and opportunity, we are proud to offer you the excitement of America's most beautiful fashions and accessories, direct from the pages of your favorite fashion magazine. And we very cordially invite you to take advantage of the opportunity offered you by ROBBINS' quarantee of every customer's complete satisfaction.

In the heart of Chapel Hill you may shop in an atmosphere of good taste and elegance in a store presenting all the essentials of a well-integrated, fashionable wardrobe. May we look forward to meeting you soon?

Robbins

September Sale . . . SAVE $1.25

RYTEX FLIGHT
PRINTED STATIONERY

Double the Usual Quantity

200 single sheets, 100 envelopes
or 100 double sheets, 100 envelopes
or
100 large flat sheets, 100 envelopes

$3.50 VALUE FOR $2.25

For the boy or girl who is college bound . . . for everyone in the family . . . and for gifts.

RYTEX FLIGHT is a medium-weight fine quality paper for air mail or regular mail. Choice of White or Blue paper with envelopes lined in Blue. Name and address in Block or Script lettering in Blue ink.

Visit Our Plant In Carrboro
For Type And Paper Samples

•

See Our Selection Of Christmas Cards
The Finest In Chapel Hill

Colonial Press, Inc.

PHONE 3336 CHAPEL HILL

MAIL ORDER COUPON

COLONIAL PRESS, INC.
Box 1170, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Please place my order for_____ boxes RYTEX FLIGHT at $2.25 a box, printed as follows:
Name_____
Street_____
City_____ State_____
SPECIFY THE FOLLOWING:
Color Paper_____ Size Sheet_____ Lettering Style_____
Please place my order for_____ (quantity) BILL-PAYING ENVELOPES at $_____ printed as follows:
Name_____
Street_____
City_____ State_____
ORDERED BY_____ ☐ Charge
Street_____ ☐ Cash Enclosed
City_____ State_____ No C.O.D.'s

Write Additional Orders on Separate Sheet of Paper

PRINTED WITH YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS IN BLUE INK

100 FOR $1.25

250 FOR $2.50

500 FOR $4.25

Heavy quality WHITE vellum envelopes with NAME and Address printed in Blue ink in Block style lettering.

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

We Cage A Cager

With a schedule of 10 football games staring us in the face and excitement over the prospects of the illustrious T formation overrunning Kenan Stadium this is hardly a time to be thinking of basketball. But when you consider that one of the most fortunate happenings in the Carolina sports field during the past few years concerns basketball then we just have to put the pigskin away for a second and think about the round ball boys.

Our cage fortunes have been anything but bright the past two years but with the hiring of Frank McGuire, late of Saint John's in New York, they can go in only one direction—up.

Considering our late record in the hoop game the wiseacres have come out with the "How did We get Him?" routine. It all goes back to the last week of May.

Tom Scott who came here in 1947 and did a respectable job while here, resigned at that time to take that once-in-a-lifetime job as coach of the fabulous Phillips Oilers, the perennial rulers of AAU basketball (with the exclusion of this past season).

What To Do? What To Do?

His un-expected resignation left us high and dry. The sports writers came out with "What to do? What to do?" What we did do and what we got for our efforts made the worst of the Case and/or State haters weep with joy.

Coach McGuire had done an outstanding job at St. John's and to the casual observer it seemed that he could write his own ticket at that school, especially after his amazing success in the NCAA tournament last winter. It was hard to imagine why he would come here.

But what a lot of people overlooked was the fact that McGuire wanted to come back to Chapel Hill just about as bad as we wanted a coach.

He had been here when the Navy took over the campus during the days of the past war and as has happened to many of our campus career collegians the atmosphere here at Chapel Hill just got in his blood and he couldn't get away from the place.

He made a casual remark to that effect last March when he was in Raleigh for the NCAA quarter-finals (in which his Redmen downed top-rated Kentucky) and it didn't take the Woollen Gym forces long to call him on that statement. He accepted.

The Proof Is In The Tasting

But whatever his reason for coming to Chapel Hill, his move is one that brings joy from here to the fringes of Raleigh and the cold stone walls of Duke. We've taken the short end too many times during the past few years. If we can't make up for lost time under Coach McGuire then we'd better try pat-ball.

His job at St. John's is proof positive of his coaching ability. Although St. John's has always been near the top in the yearly basketball rankings, McGuire's last season at St. John's was probably the best.

He brought his Redmen to Raleigh last March with few fans expecting him to go far. The luck of the draw was supposed to be the regulator of his success there. If St. John's met Kentucky in the first round, it bowed out then. Certainly it could go no further than the second game.

As it turned out Kentucky and Saint John's both won their first round games—the Wildcats impressively against Penn State and the Redmen anything but that against N. C. State.

But the next night it was a different story. St. John's which had lost to the Kentuckians earlier in the season at Lexington by a colossal 40-point margin, controlled the game throughout and dropped the Wildcats.

A Near Miss

Everything after that was almost anti-climaxal. McGuire and his Redmen headed west and it wasn't until gigantic Clyde Lovelette and his Kansas teammates stopped them in the final did St. John's give up its task of winning the NCAA championship and gaining a position on the US Olympic team.

The amazing part of it is that McGuire did not have the material comparable to any of the three teams favored to win the NCAA—Kentucky, Kansas, and Illinois. He had a scrappy ball club, indeed, but what made it rise to heights was what he got out of his players—certainly the yardstick for measuring a coach's ability.

All of which brings us down to the fact that we're lucky to have Coach McGuire with us and with the deepest apologies to Rosemary Clooney we might say "If you like us half as much as we love you" then everything ought to be fine.

And now back to Mr. Snavely.

Seixas Defeats Sedgman; Ward Wins British Amateur

By Vardy Buckalew

Two former Carolina athletic greats got their share of the international sports limelight this summer.

Harvey Ward won the British Amateur golf tournament by beating millionaire Frank Stranahan 6 and 5 and Vic Seixas, number one U. S. amateur tennis player teamed up with Mervyn Rose of Australia and won the National Doubles title, beating the team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, the world's number-one amateur combination.

Seixas also won the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament this week and in the finals he beat Frank Sedgman of Australia, regarded as the top amateur player in the world. The score was 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. Sedgman was the defending champion in the tournament and the victory was a big upset. Sedgman had won the Wimbledon and the U. S. singles titles this summer, among others, and seemed unbeatable. Seixas played brilliantly although at times Sedgman appeared to be off his game.

Seixas played in several other tournaments this summer but did not meet with the success he had in the two previously mentioned. In the Wimbledon tournament he was beaten by the veteran Herb Flam from California. He made up for this defeat in the Pacific Southwest tournament, however, beating Flam in the semifinals. Seixas teamed up with Jaraslov Drobny of South Africa in the Wimbledon doubles but they were eliminated in the third round.

In the national singles tournament Seixas was upset by Ken Rosenwall, a 17-year-old youth from Australia, whom Seixas had praised as a future star in a speech made in Chapel Hill last spring.

Ward's activities were not confined to the British amateur tourney but although he came close he was never able to win another major tournament.

He met Stranahan again in the finals of the Western amateur tournament in early September but this time the tables were reversed and Stranahan won out 3 and 2. Ward was also in the National Amateur in Seattle this summer but lost out in the third round.

Trap Shoot

The Orange County Wildlife Club will hold a trap shoot tomorrow afternoon and offers an invitation to all student gunners to participate.

The shooting will be conducted from 4:00 to 6:30. Participants must bring their own guns and ammunition. An entry fee of fifty cents will be used to purchase awards for the four best scores.

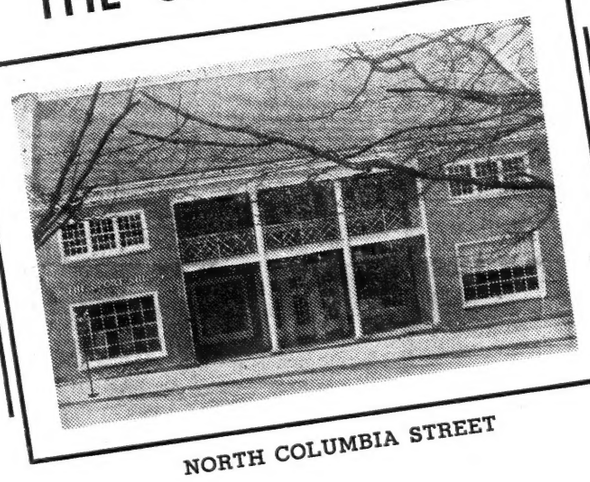
UNC Mural Program Starts; Tag Football Steals Show

The famous North Carolina intramural program gets underway next week with entries in the campus tag football, tennis, and golf tournaments being accepted in Woollen Gym.

Tag Football steals the spotlight with fraternities and dormitories vying for their respective division titles and the campus championship. Fraternity entries close on Monday, September 29, with play beginning on Wednesday, October 1. Dorm entries close on Monday, October 6, and play begins Wednesday, October 8.

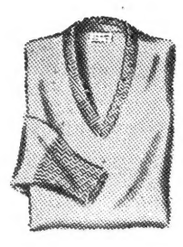
Fraternity mural managers will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Monday night in room 304 of Woollen Gym and football entries will be accepted at this time only.

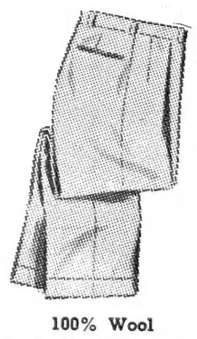
Fields Available

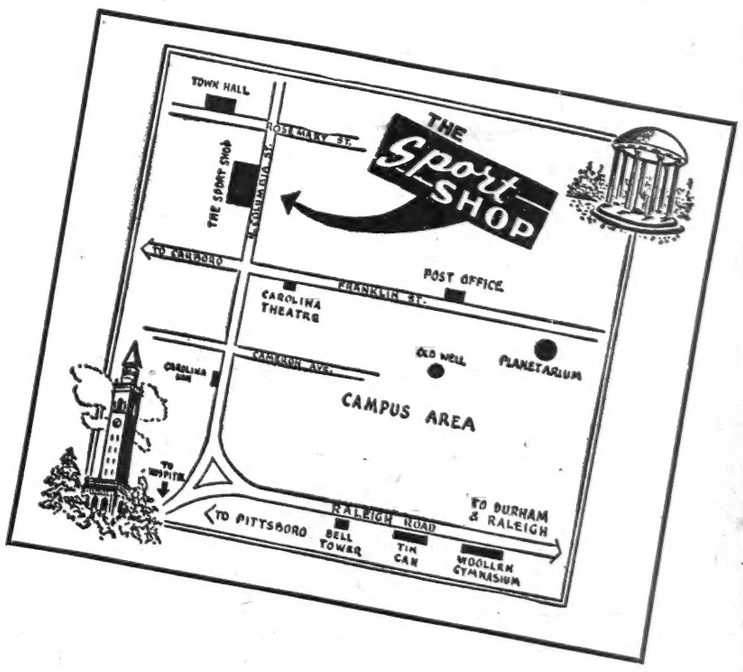


Tag fields will be available for practice next week by reservations only. Call the mural office, phone number 9424, for reserved fields.

The tennis and golf tournaments are individual entries and not on an organization basis. Tennis competition will be conducted in the open division in both singles and doubles while the novice division will be limited to singles play. Entry sheets are posted at the tennis courts and in Woollen Gym, and will be closed October 2.







An eighteen hole qualifying scorecard must be turned in to the Golf Shop at Finley course no later than Saturday, October 4, for the golf tournament. The tournament will be based on a single elimination match play basis. Entrants will be placed in a flight with players of their own ability.

Genuine Engraved Letterhead's
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

WELCOME STUDENTS
Shop At BERMAN'S
FOR ROOM FURNISHINGS
WE HAVE....
Blankets – Sheets – Spreads – Shoe Bags – Scatter Rugs – Towels – Laundry Bags – Window Shades – Curtain Rods – Drapery Material.
For Your Personal Needs
WE HAVE...
Raincoats – Dresses – Rubber Footwear – Shoes – Arrow and Wings Shirts – Crosby Square Shoes – Shower Shoes.
BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE
—Open All Day Wed.—

AUTHENTIC University FASHIONS FOR MEN
THE SPORT SHOP

NORTH COLUMBIA STREET
WELCOME
FRESHMEN AND UPPER-CLASSMEN

WHETHER YOU'RE A FRESHMAN OR DOING POST-GRADUATE WORK . . . YOU'LL FIND THE CLOTHES YOU WANT TO WEAR . . . AT THE PRICE YOU WANT TO PAY . . . RIGHT HERE AT THE SPORT SHOP . . .
SCHOOL OPENING SPECIALS

University Oxford SHIRTS
Long favored by well-dressed men - about - the campus these finely detailed white oxford shirts are requisites.
$3.95

100% Pure Chinese Cashmere Sweaters
Undeniable "must" for campus wear. V - neck, pullover. Styles in all colors and sizes.
$22.50

100% Wool FLANNEL SLACKS
All-around campus favorite smartly tailored to perfection . . . to please the most discriminate collegiate.
$9.95
YOU'LL FIND THESE AND MANY OTHER FAMOUS LABELS AT THE SPORT SHOP
• ARROW SHIRTS
• VARSITY TOWN CLOTHES
• HICKOK BELTS
• JANTZEN SWEATERS
• ALLIGATOR COATS
• CASHMERE SWEATERS
• INTERWOVEN SOCKS
• SWANK JEWELRY
• CAMPUS - TOGS
• DON RICHARD CLOTHES

FREE PRIZES
FOR ALL STUDENTS . . . COME IN AND REGISTER FOR OUR BACK-TO-SCHOOL CONTEST. YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE PRESENT TO WIN! YOU DON'T HAVE TO BUY ANYTHING TO WIN!
FREE CONTEST
THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.
Bills mailed home

Tar Heels, More Familiar With T, Await Texans

'Horns Favored After Win; Quarterback Still Doubtful

By Tom Peacock

The North Carolina Tar Heels open their season here Saturday against heavily favored Texas, with the Tar Heels needing a win to even the series between the schools at 2-2.

Carolina will be using the split T formation Saturday for the first time in history, and a new assistant coach, George Barclay, will be helping to direct it.

Texas opened its season last week, routing Louisiana State 35-14 on a wet field and giving every indication that the Longhorns will be the team to beat in the Southwest Conference.

Switch To T

The Tar Heels switch to the T has been complete, and they took to it fairly well in spring practice, but Barclay and head coach Carl Snavely are still in the dark about a quarterback.

Three returnees, Charlie Motta, Dick Lackey, and Carmen Annillo all have seen a lot of action at the quarterback slot, but a freshman, Marshall Newman, may get the starting berth this Saturday. Newman was an All-Stater from Clinton last year.

Backs Look Good

The Tar Heels look good in the other backfield positions, with a host of hard runners returning plus an occasional new face. Larry Parker and Connie Gravitte, last year's brightest freshmen plus John Gaylord, a fullback with a 3.5 rushing average last year are among the candidates for right half. Co-captain Bud Wallace is returning at fullback, but Harold "Bull" Davidson may end up in that slot. Bob White and Billy Williams are the top candidates for left half.

Carolina's line should be greatly improved over last year's, with most of the men returning and another year of experience under their belts. Tackle was hit the hardest by graduation, and is still a problem to the coaches. Co-Captain George Norris, Carolina's pre-season candidate for All-America, is the leading left end, but he was used principally on defense last year. Lou Darnell and Jeff Newton are also outstanding at left end.

Others Vie

Francis Fredere and Don McCormick are vieing for the left tackle post, and two conversions seem to be leading at left guard. Chuck Ellenwood, a freshman end, and George Foti, outstanding freshman blockingback, are the converted guards. Center is another question mark, with the graduation of Andy Miketa leaving that spot wide open. Bill Kirkman and Doug Bruton are the top contenders.

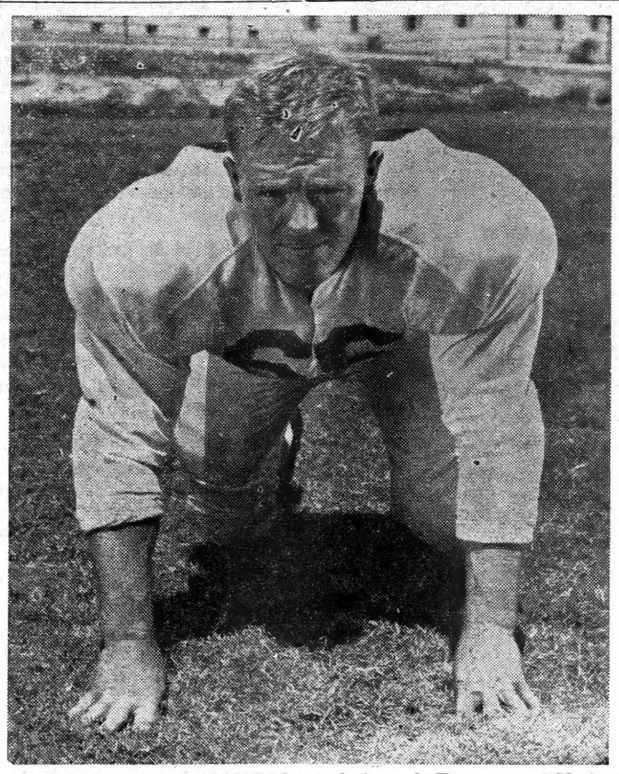
The right side of the line looks good, with Tom Higgins and Will Alexander holding down right guard, and Ken Yarborough and Thad Eure leading right tackles. Right end is undecided, with Dick Starner, Benny Walser, and Bill Baker, plus others in the fight.

Soccer Team Pointing For Heavy Slate

With Captains Ben Tison and Barry Kalb leading the way, the Carolina soccer team is planning a successful season. Coach Alan Moore has a ten game schedule, with Penn State highlighting it.

Coach Moore has ten returning lettermen. Besides Tison and Kalb, the returning lettermen are: Renny Randolph, Gerry Russell, Burnie Burnston, Hoppy Hopkins, Dave Cole, Don Gladstone, Harry Pawlick, and Jim Bunting. However, according to Coach Moore, all positions are open.

Eddie Foy, last year's All-American, and Bud Sawyer will be hard to replace. Buddy Myer, Bob Issiacs, Al Norburg, and Tenny Elting, who were moved up from last years physical education class, are looking very good in practice.



With high spirits prevailing, the team is preparing for a rough ten game schedule, opening with Roanoke College at Salem, Va. The big game of the season will be with Penn State, which will be played at 9 o'clock Nov. 8. before the football game with Virginia.

The schedule is as follows:

Oct. 8—Roanoke College at Salem, Virginia.
Oct. 14—N. C. State at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 17—Roanoke College at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 22—Virginia at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 28—Washington & Lee at Lexington, Virginia.
Nov. 1—Duke at Durham.
Nov. 8—Penn State at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 12—N. C. State at Raleigh.
Nov. 15—Maryland at College Park, Maryland.
Nov. 19—Duke at Chapel Hill.

Wake Forest will be represented by another heavy and experienced line on both offense and defense this fall. The defensive unit will average around 212, the offense 206.

The Carolina football team sports a Split-T attack this fall. It's the first Tar Heel team in history to use this offense.

THE FROWNING GIANT pictured above is Texas guard Harley Sewell, a 220-pound behemoth. As a double-duty lineman last year he played more minutes than any player on the Longhorn squad, 372 to be exact. He has played two seasons as a regular and was virtually a unanimous selection for the all-Southwestern team last season.

Longhorns' Scoring Punch Sinks LSU, 35-14, In Rain

The University of Texas football team, annually a high-scoring outfit, gave fair warning to this year's opponents that the 1952 squad would be no exception as it plowed to a 35-14 victory over Louisiana State last Saturday night.

A steady rain failed to stop Quarterback James T. Jones and his Longhorn mates as they kept the ball in LSU territory most of the night. Jones passed to end Tom Stolhandske for the first Texas score and added two more personally before letting the other Texans show their ability with a pigskin.

Grabs Fumble

Defensive halfback Pod Price grabbed an LSU fumble in mid air and raced 15 yards to post the Texans to a 28-0 lead before the Bayou Tigers could find a scoring punch.

Two quick LSU touchdowns, engineered by the breakaway running of Russ Gautreaux, narrowed the Texas lead to fourteen points, but linebacker Jim Barton stopped a third drive by intercepting a wayward Tiger pass and dashing 35 yards for the final score of the game.

Two Texas backs whom Carolina players will well remember, Gib Dawson and Richard Ochoa, failed to score in the victory but their brilliant running kept the Longhorn attack moving. Dawson and Ochoa gained 144 and 128 yards rushing, respectively, in the stinging 45-20 defeat the Tar Heels suffered at the hands of Texas last year. Dawson scored two touchdowns in that game, and Ochoa and Jones both scored one.

John Gaylord, Carolina right halfback, was one of the Tar Heels' most effective fullbacks last season.

Eddie Allen Has Job As Tulane Editor

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23—Eddie Allen, formerly of the Charlotte Observer sports desk, is the new sports editor of the Tulane University News Bureau.

Until recently a sports columnist and staff writer for The Observer, Allen assumed his new duties at Tulane on Aug. 15.

An alumnus of the University of North Carolina, the new Tulane sports publicist served as president of the Tri-State League Baseball writers Association. In addition to covering professional and major Southern Conference sports, he also conducted a column in The Observer for several years.

He has had considerable experience in radio broadcasting, including his own baseball program.

In addition to sports writing, Allen served on the state, city and wire desks of The Observer.

He was accompanied to New Orleans by Mrs. Allen and their four-year-old daughter.

Almost half a million persons throughout the world use the Universal Air Travel Plan, a charge account system enabling air transportation to be purchased on credit.

Cleveland Loses To Move New York Nearer Pennant

The Cleveland Indians were virtually eliminated from the American League pennant race yesterday afternoon when they were defeated by the Chicago White Sox, 10-1.

Big Mike Garcia, the Indian's most effective pitcher to date, was knocked out in the first inning as the White Sox scored five runs.

Cleveland now has three games left to play and trail the New York Yankees by 1½ games. The Yankees, who were rained out yesterday, have six games left to play. Should the Indians win their three remaining games New York would be assured of at least a tie by winning three of their last six games. They can now win the pennant by winning four of their last six regardless of what Cleveland does.

In another American League game yesterday, Philadelphia beat Washington, 4-3.

In the National League the New York Giants, six games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers with six games left to play, were rained out in an afternoon double-header with the Boston Braves. Brooklyn went into a twilight - night double - header needing only one win to clinch the pennant.

Marshall Newman, Carolina freshman quarterback from Clinton, was reared on a dairy farm.

Carolina Caravan

Texas, With Three Captains, Rated "Fastest Team" By Scouts Gill, Camp

By Jake Wade

Texas, fabulous land of giants, is Carolina's first date for the 1952 football season, in case you hadn't heard. And it definitely is a super-duper, deluxe opener, in case you hadn't put your mind to it. That's Saturday, right here at home. Fans, with sound taste, will be here from far and wide.

We've been getting ready. Monday morning I dropped by the daily conclave of coaches. Entering the room, a typical gridiron laboratory, flanked with the usual blackboards showing the usual hieroglyphics, a mass of o's and x's, I was a little startled at what I saw.

There, standing in a row across the room, leaning with hands on knees, as though any minute they might charge right through the window into the middle of highway 54, were assistant coaches George Barclay, Jim Gill, Jim Camp, George Radman, Ted Hazelwood, Walt Pupa and Art Weiner.

Three Captains

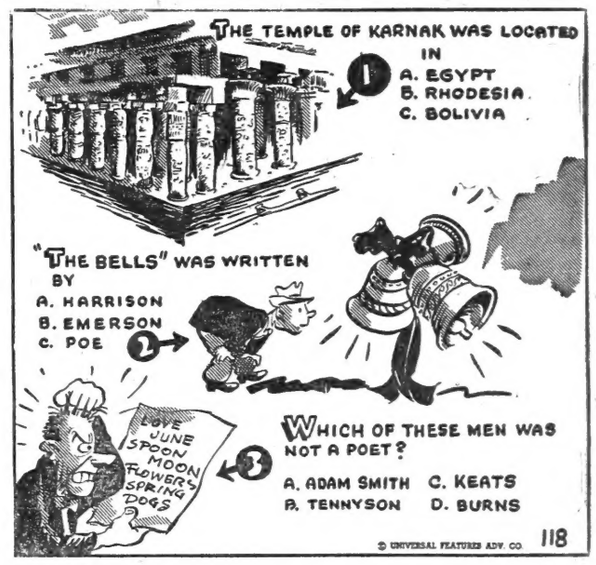
Head Coach Carl Snavely faced his old warriors in familiar stances and stroked his chin, apparently in deep concentration. Then he calmly took a ruler from his pocket, got on his knees, and measured the distance between these assorted packages of brawn and brain. He restored the ruler to his pocket, walked 10 paces to the rear and doodled again on one of the blackboards. The company was dismissed. I withdrew quietly.

Texas has three captains, no kidding, which probably is not so surprising at that, Texas being Texas . . . And orders were received here to install not the customary one, but two telephone loops to the Texas bench from the guest box cubicle observatory in which visiting coaches operate their scout telephones . . .

Seems that one communication system will be used for relaying advices to the offensive platoon, the other to the defensive forces . . . You can't get ahead of Texans, for whom it's always double, triple or nothing . . . Texas is the largest university in the South, and its main building, located in the center of the campus, is 27 stories high . . . Naturally.

Friends are Foes

Dana X. Bible, Texas athletic director and former head coach for many years, is an old friend of "Coach Bob" Fetzer, Carolina's retired athletic director . . . This friendship led to the current football series between these two universities . . . While Texas has played the Tar Heels three times, the Longhorns have never seen them operate from the Split-T . . . Last year the Tar Heels teased them a little by lining up in the T before shifting to the single wing . . . In the three games played a total of 140 points have been scored, 86 by Texas and 54 by North Carolina.



The other time Texas played here, that happy day in 1948 when the Tar Heels won by 34-7, more than 20 private airplanes landed cargoes of Texans in 10-gallon Stetsons, orchids, minks and diamonds, at the Chapel Hill airport . . . A few came without tickets, unaware that the game was a sellout, and were unable to see the contest . . . The game this year may be a sellout by the time of the 2:30 kickoff but tickets are now available.

Fast Team

Our scouts, Jim Gill and Jim Camp, are convinced Texas has one of the speediest football teams in the nation . . . "I be-

(See CARAVAN, Page 8)

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

WELCOME FRESHMEN . . . make our friendly, modern store your school supply headquarters. Visit our fountain for real fountain treats. We serve breakfasts and sandwich lunches. For the solution to the quiz, you'll find Egypt, Poe, and Adam Smith to be correct.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER Sutton's DRUG STORE Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

WELCOME
TO THE HILL
CLASS OF '56
AND
UPPER-CLASSMEN

Come in and browse around as others have done since 1924

We have in store for you:
SUITS – SPORT COATS – TOPCOATS
by Southwick
Raewin
Botany 500

SHIRTS
by Arrow
Manhatten

SWEATERS
by Rercre
Catalina

PAJAMAS & UNDERWEAR
by Cooper
Hanes
Pleetway

SHOES
by Taylor-Made

REMEMBER . . .
Shop where you are always welcome

JACK LIPMAN
"Serving the College Man Since 1924"

Welcome Students

MacGREGOR – GOLDSMITH
Athletic Equipment

Flip-It HATS

BAR EQUIPMENT

SPORTSWEAR

PHONO - RECORDS

Davis TENNIS RACKET

Rolfs Leather Goods

Carolina Sport Shop
– Franklin Street –

Oct. 15 Is Date For Fulbright Hopefuls

Competition for the 1953-54 Fulbright awards will be held October 15, Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt, chairman of the local Fulbright Committee and Kenan Professor of Spanish, said yesterday.

The awards, open to seniors and graduates, are for one year of foreign study and include transportation, tuition, books, and maintenance for the academic year.

Selection of the recipients is made on a national competitive basis, and the countries for which the awards are available are Australia, Austria, Belgium and Luxembourg, Burma, Denmark, Egypt, France, Greece, India, Iran, Iraq, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, Union of South Africa and the United Kingdom.

Additional information and forms for application may be obtained from the local Fulbright Committee composed of John N. Crouch, Kenan Professor of Botany; Nicholas Jay Demerath, Professor of Sociology and Research Professor in the Institute for Research in Social Science and Dr. Leavitt.

Scholarships Are Listed By 2 Groups

Announcement was made yesterday of two scholarship funds open to interested students.

Eastman Kodak Co. will award 19 fellowships, each providing $1,400 plus an allowance for tuition and fees, during the school year 1952-53. Twelve of the fellowships are in chemistry, four in chemical engineering and three in physics.

They are offered to 18 U. S. institutions, including the University of North Carolina, which will select a research student in the last year of study for his doctorate. Basis of selection will be the student's demonstrated ability in his major, a high degree of technical promise, soundness of character and personal traits, and financial need.

Graduate fellowships are available in 16 South American countries for the 1953-54 academic year. They are given under the terms of the Convention for Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations.

The convention provides for an annual exchange between the United States and each of the signatory republics—Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru and Venezuela.

Further information may be obtained by writing to the International Education Programs Branch Office of Education, Federal Security Agency, Washington 25, D. C.

GOV. ADLAI STEVENSON presents son Adlai Jr. with his second lieutenant's commission at ceremonies at the U. S. Marine Base, Quantico, Va. One of 600 Marines who received bars, young Stevenson also accepted commissions for his platoon. The governor, Democratic presidential nominee made a major address that night in Richmond.

Planetarium's Show On Flying Saucers

"Flying Saucers" is being presented in Morehead Planetarium daily at 8:30 p.m., on Saturdays at 3, 4 and 8:30 p.m. and on Sundays at 2, 3, 4 and 8:30 p.m. through October 6.

This new presentation comes in response to many inquiries, and as a result of widespread public interest concerning mysterious objects seen in the sky during the past five years, manager Tony Jenzano says.

Each adult visitor will receive a flying saucer "report sheet" to fill out and return should he sight a heavenly apparition—at some future date.

In this presentation, astronomical and physical phenomena, which have provided plausible explanation to many saucer reports, are taken into account. Special effects designed to reproduce such phenomena will be used throughout the performance.

An official helium-inflated weather balloon eight to 10 feet in diameter, supporting an aluminum foil radar tracking device, will be sent aloft in the Planetarium chamber at each performance. Visitors will see meteors, a Bolide or fireball, a comet and reproductions of strange objects photographed by eye-witnesses in other parts of the country.

On August 13, Robert Gegner, Ronald Roy and Guy Davenport, all of Fort Bragg, spotted and tracked a strange star-like object in the sky. Ed Higgins, of radio station WDNC in Durham, has provided an exclusive-transcribed interview of their story which, with other narrations, will be included in every performance.

The principle used to create the fantastic light phenomenon in a Bell jar by Noel Scott, physicist at Fort Belvoir, Va., will be described with the visual aid of the Planetarium's 40 inch glass discharge tube conducting a potential of 4,000 volts through its low pressure area to produce the ionization effect.

Region Post Given Nurse At Carolina

Miss Jean Rebentisch of the School of Public Health, has been named as Regional Vice-Chairman of the newly organized Nursing Fellowship Fund for this area.

At the same time Miss Rebentisch announced the appointment of Miss Barbara Landauer of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Oteen as State Chairman for North Carolina.

The Nursing Fellowship Fund was created last summer at the biennial nursing convention in Atlantic City by and for nurse educators to provide the opportunity for advanced education to qualified nurses who would otherwise not be able to avail themselves of such an educational experience. The country has been divided into six regions and funds raised from each region will revert to that area. The national committee will award as many $2,000 fellowships as the amount raised will permit.

Beginning the middle of September, 18,000 nurse educators will be asked by mail to contribute to the fund. Candidates will study at the Division of Nursing Education of Teachers College, Columbia University in New York. This will mark the first time that nurses have organized themselves into a national fund raising committee for the advancement of their own professional training.

Although initially only nurse educators will be solicited, voluntary contributions from all are welcome. Headquarters for the Nursing Fellowship Fund are at 525 West 120 Street, New York 27.

710 Drivers Lose Permits During August

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

RALEIGH, Sept. 23—For driving drunk 710 North Carolina motorists lost their legal driving privileges in August, the Department of Motor Vehicles reported today. Another 109 were convicted of the same offense for the second time.

The regular monthly summary of violations requiring the surrender of drivers' licenses contained 79 convictions for speeding over 75 mph; 73 for reckless driving; 71 for two offenses of speeding over 55 mph, and 59 for driving after license revoked.

Miscellaneous convictions included the following: two offenses of reckless driving, 35; transporting liquor, 45; unsatisfied judgment, 32; larceny of automobile, 35; driving after license suspended, 27; habitual violator, 14, and hit and run, 13.

During the month 117 persons lost their licenses for failing to maintain proof of financial responsibility.

Study Grants Being Offered By Mexico

The Mexican government, through a U. S.-Mexican agency, is offering 17 grants to American students for study in Mexico during the academic year beginning March 1, 1953.

Eleven scholarships are at the graduate level, paying tuition and 800 pesos monthly. Six undergraduate scholarships pay 700 per month. Preference will be given junior and senior year students in the awarding of the undergraduate scholarships.

Applications, which must be in by October 15, may be obtained from the Institute of International Education, 1 E. 67th St., New York 21, N. Y.

Poetry Anthology Asks Student Work

Original verse may now be submitted to the National Poetry Association for publication in the 10th Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Manuscripts must be typed or written in ink on one side of a sheet. The student's name, school and address must appear on each manuscript.

Entries are to be sent to National Poetry Association, 3210 Selby Avenue, Los Angeles.

Dr. Hammersley Will Talk Here Friday

Dr. John M. Hammersley of Oxford University will speak Friday at 4 p.m. in Phillips Hall on "Some Recent Developments in the Theory of a Random Variable."

SCOOP!

We Have Used Copies Of

BOWMAN & BACH: Economic Analysis and Public Policy 2nd Edit.

KERN: Essentials of Plant Biology

CRAVEN-JOHNSON: The U. S., Experiment in Democracy.

TUNICK AND SAXE: Fundamental Accounting

—— AND MANY MORE ——

We Have Special Prices On:

FINCH & TREWARTHA: Elements of Geography — 3rd ed. $3.95

SAMS AND McNAIR: Problems in Reading and Writing. $2.00

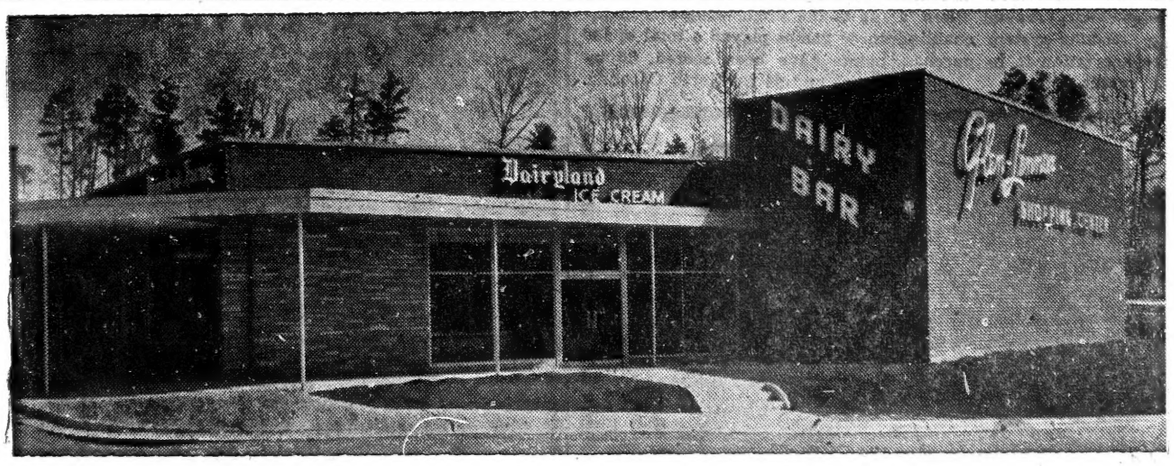
SHORT: Four Great American Novels 75c

LEAVITT & STOUDEMIRE: Vamos A Leer 25c

You Always Get A Better Deal From Your Independent Bookseller.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Chapel Hill, N. C.



WELCOME BACK!

TOWN & CAMPUS

wishes to extend a cordial welcome to all students. As we enter into our first fall season we will give you style and quality with our Clothes. Drop in and browse around at your leisure.

Imported & Domestic SPORT JACKETS ..... 27.50 up
FLANNEL SLACKS ..... 9.95 up
Flannel, Worsted, Gabs
SUITS ..... 50.00 up
SPORT SHIRTS ..... 3.95 up

"Where CAROLINA Men Meet"

We extend a most cordial invitation for students and members of the faculty of U.N.C. to visit our beautiful Dairy store, fountain and grill. We manufacture our own ICE CREAM — rich and of premium quality — over 25 flavors to choose from — paved parking area for over 100 cars — OPEN FROM 9 A.M. TO 11 P.M. ——

Dairyland Farms Inc.

The Home of Fine Ice Cream —— Located in Glen Lennox Shopping Center

PHONE 28851 P. O. Box 908

Now! From the makers of Parker "51" the world's most wanted pen...

3 brand-new PARKER "21" pens

...at new attractive prices!

Start off school in a breeze with one of these smart new Parker 21's. Smart styling... better writing features seldom offered at even twice the price.

Copr. 1952 by The Parker Pen Company

Parker "21" — With metal slip-on cap. Hooded point. Colors: Black, Blue, Green and Red. $5.75

Parker "21" DeLuxe — A luxurious pen with solid engraving on metal cap and clip. 4 colors. $7.50

Parker "21" Custom — 12K rolled gold plate cap and clip—only gold capped pen near the price. $10.00

Writing's fun with the New "21"! You glide through schoolwork on a super-smooth point of Octanium, the wonderful new 8-metal alloy. Ink is specially metered to prevent skips and blots.

What's more, the "21" stores more ink in a new-type reservoir which you can see through. And Parker's exclusive, full-length hooded point protects against smudgy fingers. Choose your new Parker "21" for school now!

Also see the economy pen value of the year...PARKETTE—$3.50

NROTC Exam Set Dec. 13

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The Navy announced today that nationwide competitive examinations will be held Dec. 13 for students wishing to enter the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program next year.

Applicants must be high school seniors or graduates and between the ages of 17 and 21. Students accepted will be deferred from the draft during their college course but must agree to serve for the three years in the Navy or Marine Corps after graduation.

Examination applications may be got at UNC at the Armory on South Columbia St., or by writing the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J.

Vic Vet says

For full information contact your nearest VETERANS ADMINISTRATION office

Push-Button War Is Not Reality Yet

Charles Milner Off For Iranian Position

Charles S. Milner, associate director of the University Extension Division, has been granted a leave of absence to accept an assignment in Iran.

His services were requested by the Iranian government and he left this week under the auspices of the U. S. Department of State. Milner taught audio-visual education here and will teach similar courses in his new assignment at the University of Tehran.

Missile Test Only Portent Of Real Thing

Two Advantages Seen In Latest Korean Tryouts

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

The headline was enough to make your heart leap:

"US Fires First Guided Missile in Combat."

The reporters and the Navy experts were obviously and understandably enthusiastic.

But the details left something of a gap between presently available weapons and the push-button warfare which we have been predicting ever since World War II.

What actually happened September 11 was that the Navy took an old light bomber, installed radio controls something like those which have been used for years, put a television camera and broadcasting apparatus in the nose, strapped a bomb under the belly, and sent it off with a mother plane to guide it to its target.

There were two major advantages over ordinary bombing tactics, and one appendage which was primarily a thrill for the sponsors and a promise for the future.

The pesonnel in the mother plane could stay safely out of a major flak area, an important factor in these days which complicated planes and tactics require long training of intelligent men of a type not too easy to find. The test was made in an area where there was practically no worry about enemy interceptor planes. Under ordinary circumstances in modern war, both planes would have been in danger instead of the robot only. And harrassment by enemy fighters might easily have broken the mother plane's control of the missile-carrier.

The second advantage was that the real pilot of the missile, seated in the mother plane, had a kamikaze view of the target through the television eye, making for accuracy in the last moments of the robot's approach which would be unknown to ordinary bombing. But the bomb carrier was slow by modern conceptions and just as prone to being shot down as a piloted machine, meaning that it is no more likely to reach its target. On this point, pilot saving remains the great advantage.

Whether the Navy missile is more effective than the Army missile, which is more like a bomb or shell launched directly from a mother plane, is a matter on which there is not sufficient public information for comparision.

The thrill and a portent for the future, when there is a real push-button war, lay in the television room aboard the carrier from which the robot was launched. There, apparatus followed the action all the way. Real push-button war will come when missiles are launched and guided to their targets directly from home base.

Korean Vets Warned To Be Sure Of Major They Want To Pursue

Veterans planning to train under the Korean GI Bill should give careful thought to their choice of a training program, for under the law they'll be allowed to change their course no more than once.

The purpose of the new GI education and training program is to help a veteran reach a definite identified goal, says the Veterans Administration. The goal may be purely educational such as obtaining a college degree; professional, such as becoming a doctor, or vocational such as training to be a carpenter.

Before a post-Korean veteran even applies for training under the new GI Bill, he should have clearly in mind just what his goal in life might be, the VA advises.

If a veteran makes his single change of course before his deadline for starting training under the new GI Bill, he will not need the VA's approval. However, if his progress was unsatisfactory, he will have to show VA that it was not because of his own misconduct, neglect or lack of application.

If he wants to change courses after his deadline—and has never made a change before—he will need the VA's approval. This may be granted, under the law, if VA finds that: (1) he has not been making satisfactory progress in his present program through no fault of his own, and the program he wants to change to is more in keeping with his aptitudes and previous training, or (2) the program to which he wants to change is a normal progression from his present program.

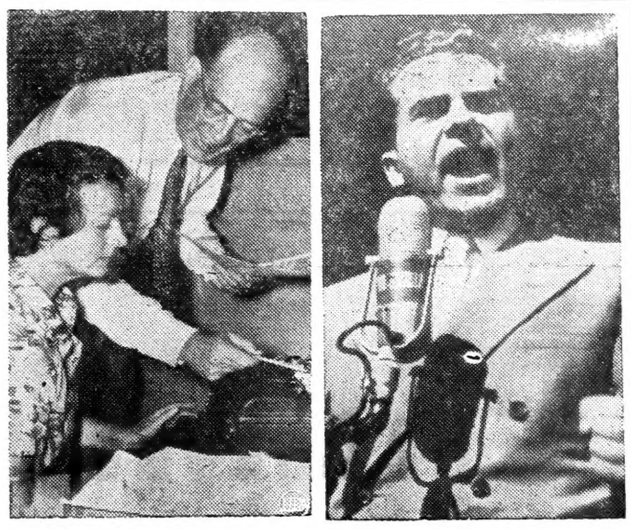
College Rolls Down This Fall, Elementary Up

Draft Seen Cutting College Enrollments By 8 To 10 Percent

Colleges and universities are in for a decrease in enrollment of between eight and 10 per cent. The reason is simple—Selective Service.

In the year starting July 1, 1952, the Defense Department expects to call 610,100 men—a rate of 50,000 per month. This collegiate enrollment decrease follows a pattern started when veterans, going to school under the GI Bill, began graduation. In 1950 college enrollment suffered a 10 percent decrease and dipped another 8 percent in 1951. This is resulting in higher tuition costs in Eastern colleges—a good area for measuring collegiate trends—of $100 to $150 a year.

But children are the immediate problem of elementary educators and quite a problem they are. During the 1952-53 school year 26,164,000 children will be attending elementary schols in this country and another 6,236,000 will attend high school. While this gain of 1,691,000 in the last year staggers educators at those levels, they can look for no let-up for several years.

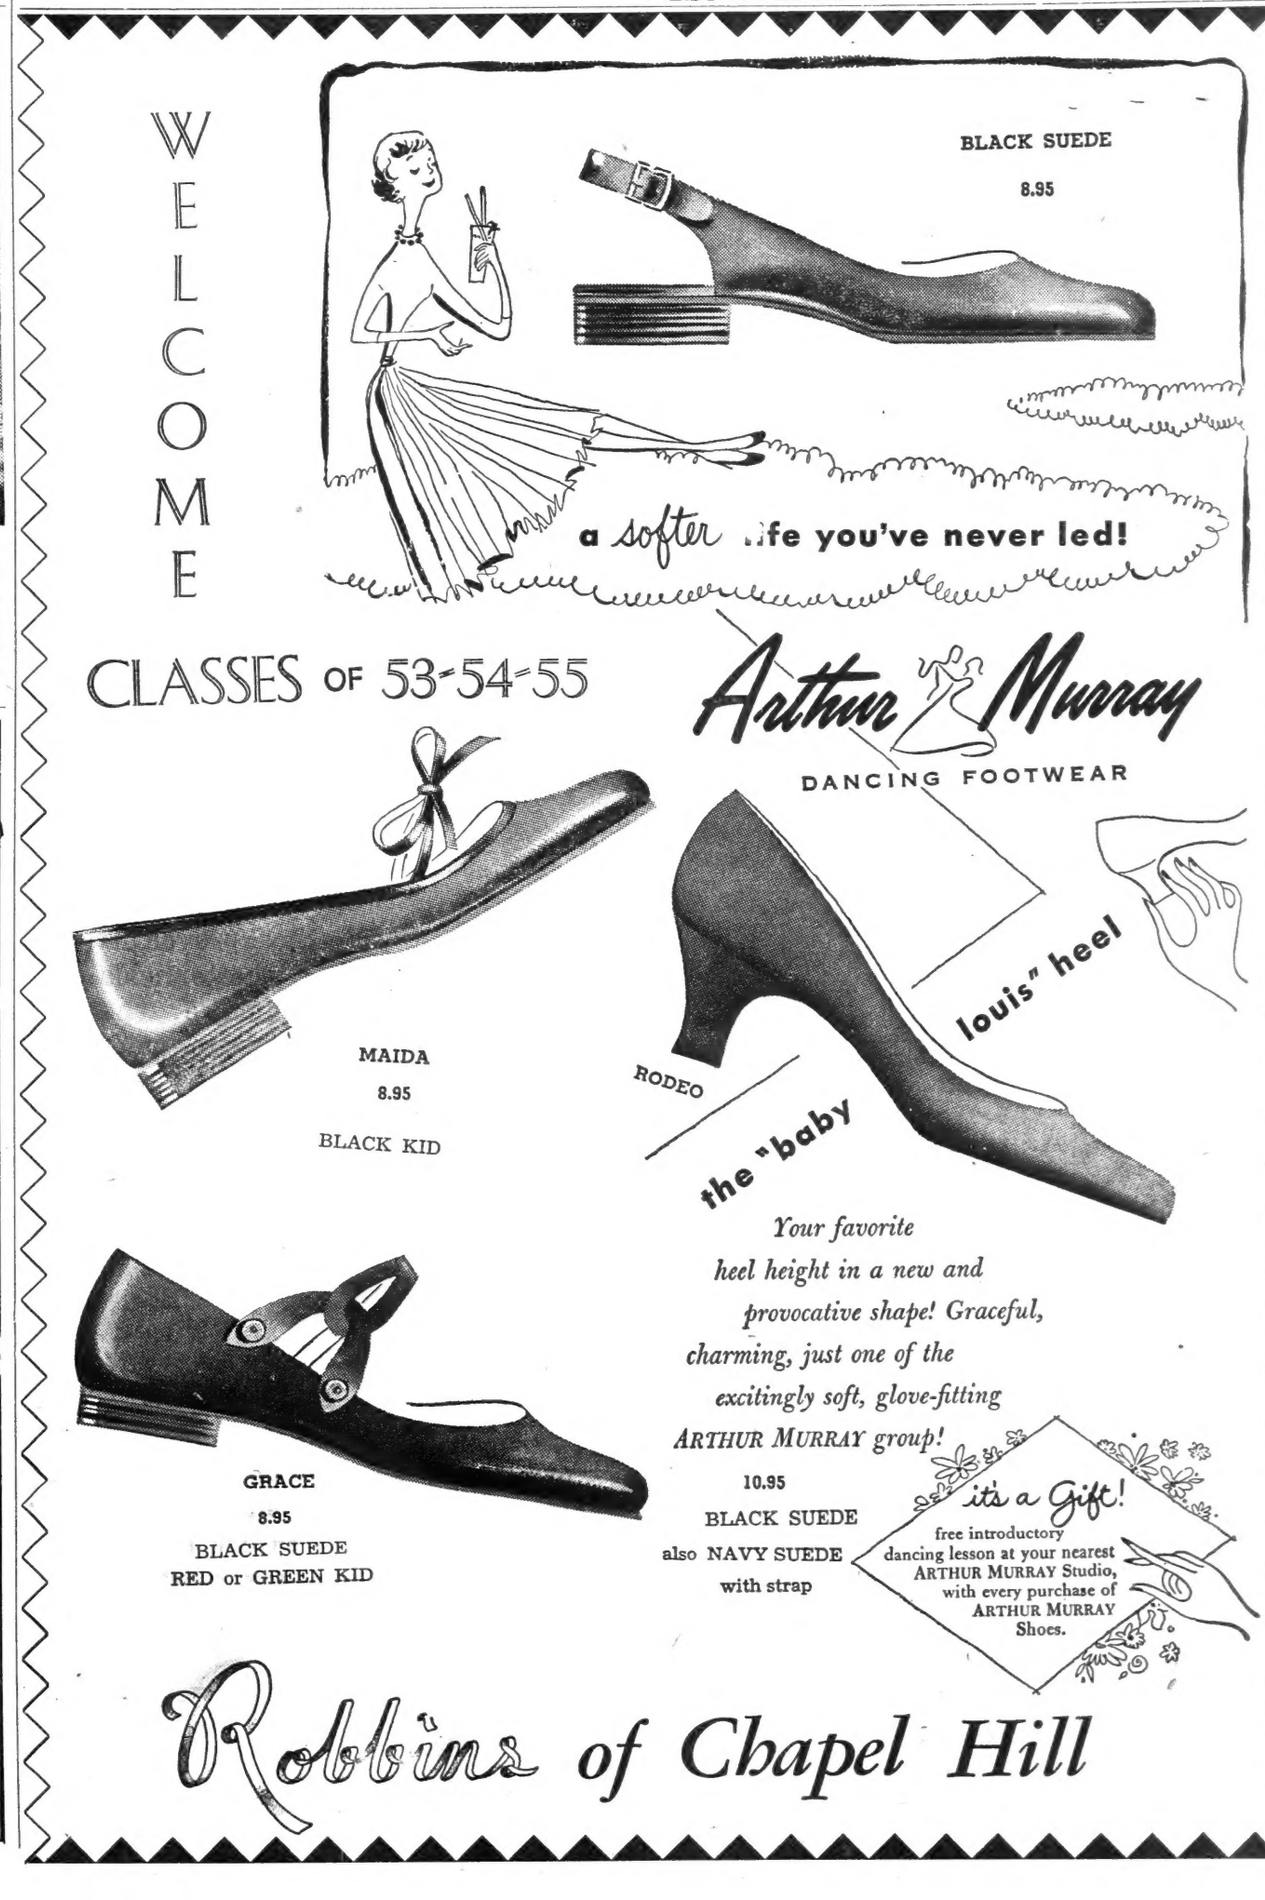


Compulsory education laws in effect over the nation for the past 34 years help keep students in school as others become old enough to start their formal education.

As a result of all these increased enrollments and potential future increases our educational institutions are caught short on three counts—finances, teachers, and buildings.

Office of Education figures show that 53,000 new classrooms will be needed to take care of the increase this year. The country will need 600,000 new classrooms before 1960.

New schools are shooting up and old schools are expanding all over the nation, but the demand is just too great for the supply. Construction has been blocked by lack of funds of shortage of critical materials in some instances. As a result, nearly 50 percent of the nation's large cities have been forced to postpone much needed building programs. Sixty-one percent of the nation's classrooms are overcrowded. One student out of five attends school in a building that does not meet minimum fire-safety conditions.



The New York Times believes that the extended growth of citizen's committees interested in public schools will lead to better times in the world of education. 5,000 of these committees have been organized in the past three years. It warns that the Korean conflict and national defense program are creating new hazards for the schools and that some of the gains of recent years are being threatened.

PASSADENA Attorney Dana Smith and his secretary finish preparing the list of names of people who contributed to the special expense fund for Republican vice-presidential nominee Richard Nixon. Smith was trustee for the fund which amounted to $18,235 over a two-year period. Sen. Nixon himself is shown at right as he spoke out from his campaign train at Chico, Calif., where he described the disclosure as a "typical left wing smear." The fund was brought to light by the Democratic national chairman, Stephen Mitchell.

—Caravan—

(Continued from page 5)

lieve it is the fastest team I have ever seen," says Gill, somewhat disenchanted . . . The Tar Heels have been notably shy of that thing called speed in recent seasons, but the 1952 team seems to be a little better equipped than its predecessors . . . .

If our team in espionage have it sized up right, Tar Heel defensive tackle Tom Higgins will have one of the biggest assignments in Kenan Saturday . . . Seems that the Longhorns like to unleash their fury at the sector Higgins presides over . . . That's all right with Coach George Barclay, who believes that old Hig has the equipment to be one of the finest tackles in the nation . . . He has given every indication in pre-season practice that he wants to play football this fall . . .

Absolutely FREE!

We will develop and print any 8 or 12 exposure roll black and white film ~ Jumbo size ~ at no charge to you!

We make this offer to introduce the high quality of our work and the fast service we render. Prints returned in colorful, plastic bound albums.

College Photo

BOX 777 RICHMOND, VA.

THIS ADVERTISEMENT MUST BE SENT WITH ORDER

Offer Expires SEPT. 30, 1952

GET A Kodak Camera FOR THE NEW School Year

Don't miss getting a picture record of schoolmates and school activities. We have KODAK and BROWNIE cameras from $2.85.

Stop in and ask to see the Kodak Duaflex II Camera, Kodet Lens, which sells for $14.50. Prices include Fed. Tax.

FOISTER'S

Camera Store, Inc.

Dr. Conant Speaks

Public Schools Facing Financial Crisis Soon

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 23—How are we going to finance an adequate public-school program in the face of the vast increase in students?

This should be first on the agenda of the educational problems facing the American public, says America's No. 1 man in education in the next issue of Newsweek Magazine.

In a cover story on Dr. James Bryant Conant of Harvard, and his role as the nation's outstanding educator, Newsweek reports his views on the future of American education.

With unprecendented enrollments adding to already bulging classrooms, the American people are going to have to make highly important decisions in the next five to ten years, Dr. Conant states in the article. We need to spend much more money on our schools to meet the expanded programs required and the people of each town, city and state must be made ware of the reasons for the increased costs.

Dr. Conant suggests that Federal aid to public education be re-examined; that we recognize the need for remaking the curriculum and in so doing explore vigorously and at once the success of some high schools with "work experience programs." He also suggests that we develop the principle of the comprehensive high school with a common core of studies and differentiated special programs, and that we not expand our four-year programs in colleges and universities as he thinks many people prolong their education. Dr. Conant discusses community, or two-year, colleges which he hopes would come to have the same prestige as the four-year college and afford everybody a chance to go to college, but mainly to a two-year institution giving some such degree as Bachelor of General Studies.

Mesta Home

MRS. PERLE Mesta, American minister to Luxembourg, smiles for the birdie on her recent arrival in New York aboard the liner America. Asked what the people in Luxembourg though of Gen. Eisenhower, she said: "Ike is loved in that country," then added, "And so is Margaret Truman."

Draft Poll Shows Ideas Of Students

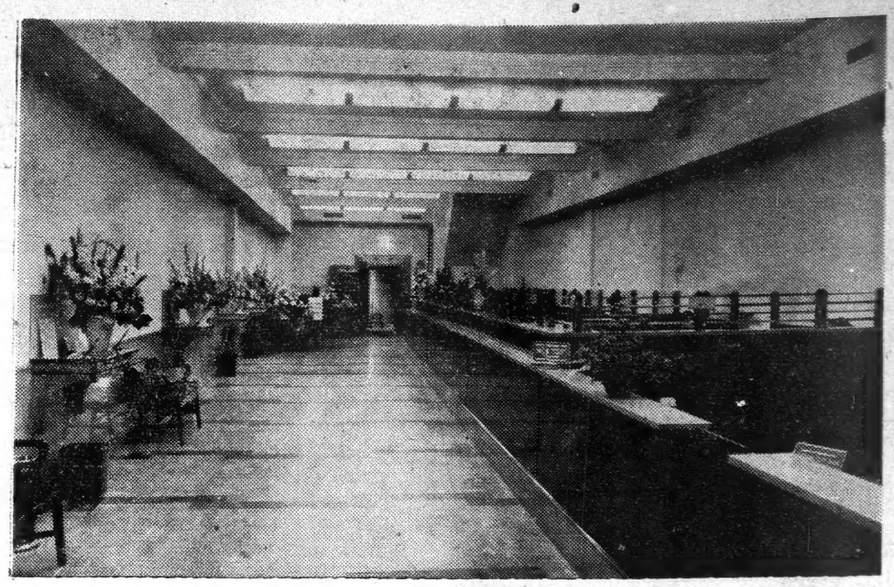
Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 23—The average American college student reacts to military service the same way as the average American adults reacts to paying his income tax.

The Social Science Research Center of Cornell University sent questionnaires to 11 colleges and universities across the country to determine how college students have reacted to the Selective Service Act and the Korean conflict. UNC was included.

The finding analyzed by Cornell social scientists, showed that the students' attitudes toward being called into military forces are generally negative. As the income-tax-paying adult he meets his obligation, even though he doesn't necessarily like it.

The report shows 90 percent of the students would return to college if inducted before they finished school. Only one in four thought that military service wuld cause a major disruption in his life, said Edward Suchman, member of the analyzing staff.



Only a few are altering their courses to postpone service. Less than 5 percent of those questioned said military service led them to change their major fields, or influenced them in choosing their major field.

A minority of the students felt the threat of military service made it necessary to get more fun out of college but the majority saw more importance in getting good grades, said Mr. Suchman.

The students took greater interest in community and world problems and in developing the ability tto get along with different kinds of people.

The students adjusted to the new situation readily. "Plans are being modified or postponed," said Prof. Suchman, "rarely dropped."

The report continues that much of the acceptance of teh Selective Service policy may be attributed to the preferential treatment of college students as well as the fact that they have a clear-cut idea of what is ahead of them.

. . . the new lobby of the Bank of Chapel Hill

WELCOME TAR HEELS!

We extend a warm welcome to students and faculty, both new and old, as the University begins another year. You are so much a part of our community that nothing quite fills the gap you leave during the summer holidays.

During the summer we have been busy increasing our facilities and service. Most of our facilities have been doubled, as you will realize the moment you step into our new lobby. We invite you to make use of our banking services, better and faster services than we have ever been able to offer before.

Student accounts are welcome regardless of size.

The Bank of Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL OLD WELL CARRBORO

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED: FEMALE 8A

URGENTLY NEEDED: EXPERIENCED office girl as assistant and receptionist in professional office. Good pay. Interview arranged. State qualifications and experience. Write P. O. Box 1291 Chapel Hill. Charge 1x1

FOR SALE 6B

ENCYCLOPEDIA AMERICANA: 1904 edition, 16 vols., ¾ leather binding, in fine shape—$25.00—The Intimate Bookshop, 205 E. Franklin St. Charge 1x1

HELP WANTED 8

TUTORS IN ALL SUBJECTS: SEND postcard to Roy McKnight, Woollen Gym. Give name, phone number, local mailing address, and best qualified subjects. Charge 1x1

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

If you have had newspaper and ad make-up or linotype operation experience, and you want part time work, apply Colonial Press, Inc. Plant located in Carrboro. Phone 3336 for appointment or come in person for interview.

Frank R. Thomas. Supt.

MILTON Welcomes You with the Smartest Clothes in The Entire South. Our Fashion Scoops Enable You To Be Better Dressed For Considerably Less.

Our Shell Cordovan prices are the lowest in the entire South—Our Custom Original fully leather lined genuine shell cordovan with prestitched welt—guaranteed to give you the same wear as any $25.00 shoe, only	$14.95
College Hall Suits in oxford gray, skipper blue	$49.95
College Hall suits in Brooks Cut of imported Shetlands in small herringbones	$55.00
Imported Shetlands Sport Coats	$39.95
Pacific Worsted flannel slacks, several rich shades—only	$13.95
Our Exclusive Windsor Worsted flannel slacks, made of Australian wool, none finer	$16.95
40% Cashmere sweaters in 9 rich shades	$12.50
Full fashioned pullover sweaters of choice GeLong Austrailian Lambswool, can't tell it from cashmere	$13.95
Extra choice selection of full length hand framed imported from Austria socks	$3.00
Our new exclusive rounded button down basket weave shirts	$5.00

You can count on MILTON'S for exclusive creations at budget prices

Bills Mailed Home At Your Request

MILTON'S

Clothing Cupboard

163 EAST FRANKLIN

CHESTERFIELD

FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE

TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy—nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization — no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger—contains considerably more of the same tobaccos—enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs little more.

LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE in AMERICA'S COLLEGES

Buy CHESTERFIELD—MUCH MILDER

Copyright 1952, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER

Sunny and mild today with 78 high. Yesterday's high, 78; low, 56.

The Daily Tar Heel

SNOOK

For him or against him, you'll read him. Don't miss Nonplus today on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 2 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, Sept. 25, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—Sen. Richard M. Nixon appeared almost certain yesterday of staying on the Republican ticket as Dwight D. Eisenhower's running mate. Following Nixon's speech of Tuesday night in which he gave an elaborate account of his personal finances in connection with the charges that have been made against him, top GOP officials, including Committee Chairman Arthur Summerfield, stated that they felt confident that Nixon would remain on the ticket. The final decision, however, was left to Eisenhower.

★

WASHINGTON — T. Lamar Caudle yesterday quoted ousted Atty. Gen. Howard McGrath as having said before a House subcommittee investigating the Justice Department, that he had enough information about a "White House clique—to blow the place sky high." Caudle told reporters that McGrath refused to elaborate on the "clique" which he credited with his removal from office. He did, however, give the committee a list of names which included that of Joseph Short, presidential press secretary who died last week.

★

BALTIMORE—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said yesterday that he still will not give the names of those who contributed to or received money from a special cash fund he set up to supplement the pay of some Illinois state officials. He said that there was no need to reveal any names, and that it would be publicity that they did not deserve and a breech of good faith on his part.

New Officers Join Local NROTC Unit

Two officers, recently on sea duty, have reported for duty as assistant Professors of Naval Science on the staff of the local NROTC Unit.

Lieutenant Lloyd Rudasill White, Jr., USN, will instruct seniors in Naval Machinery. Lieutenant White is a qualified submarine officer. Prior to reporting to the unit he was engineer officer of the Submarine Cusk, the Navy's first guided missile submarine. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1945 and since graduation has served in the Destroyer Purdy, during the occupation of Japan, the Destroyer Miles C. Fox and the Submarine Chivo.

Lieutenant Garette E. Lockee, USN, has reported for duty as freshman instructor. He recently served as executive officer of the Destroyer Minesweeper Ellyson. Subsequent to graduation in 1943 from the University of South Carolina, where he was a member of the NROTC program, Lt. Lockee has served in the Destroyer Laws, participating in the Pacific engagements of the Caroline Islands, New Guinea, Marianas, Phillipines, Formosa, China Coast, Iwo Jima, Okinowa and Japan.

Texas VIP's

Texas VIP's will be on hand Saturday for the kick-off game of the season, it was learned yesterday.

Among the visitors will be Chancellor and Mrs. James P. Hart, Regent and Mrs. William Darden, and Regent James Rockwell. Dr. Logan Wilson, vice-president of the Consolidated University and president elect of the University of Texas, made the announcement.

Congressman Homer Thornberry (D-Texas) notified Dr. Wilson that he and several other Texas Congressmen will come to the game from Washington.

USING PRE-FABRICATED LOGS cut in Korea, these GIs of the 2nd Division build bunkers, little realizing that they would be driven off Old Baldy in a bitter battle with the Reds, then win the hill again a few days later. The logs weigh 600 pounds each. Meanwhile, in Korea yesterday, Gen. Mark Clark met with his top land, sea and air commanders but declined to reveal the reason for the high level confab.—NEA Telephoto.

Presidential Race Resembles '95 Era

Many parallels may be drawn between the Eisenhower-Stevenson campaign and those of the ear of Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, according to Dr. Charles S. Sydnor of Duke University.

A marked coincidence between political events of 1952 and 1795 are contained in "Gentlemen Freeholders," a book by Dr. Sydnor being published by the University of North Carolina Press this week.

Dr. Sydnor refers, at one point, to the election for the Virginia Assembly in 1795 when John Marshall, who was an avowed bystander, was drafted and elected. The nomination of Governor Adlai Stevenson as the Democratic candidate for the presidency repeats a political phenomenon despite the drastic evolution of political practices of the past 157 years, he says.

"Each generation," Dr. Sydnor writes, "has tried to improve and refine political processes. The caucus systeem was replaced by the convention, the convention by the primary, eetc. . . in the faith that each change would bring democracy closer to perfection."

The presidential candidates, senators, and congressmeen in the coming election will face many of the same dilemmas that the great Virginia statemen faced, he thinks.

"This generation of Virginians did not delay doing essential tasks until they could reshape and perfect the political instrument at hand, Dr. Sydnor says. "They were not ignorant of some of the defects and crudities of their political processes; but they never lost sight of large public issues while they tinkered with the machine.

"They were wise enough to know that it could never be perfected to such a point that it would automatically turn out a good product. They knew no way for democracy to work except for men of good will to labor inessantly at the job of making it work."

Swiss Visit, Comment On South's Life

Up North two and two make four; down South it's four and a half.

That's the way a group of Swiss students on tour at the University figured it.

"Up North everything is two dimensional," said 25-year-old Hans Keller of Switzerland who was the spokesman for the 13 students who are trying to learn all they can about America. "Up North two and two make four—bang, bang, bang!" he said.

"Down South everything has depth, color, atmosphere and everything we Europeans like. I'm sure down here two and two make four and a half."

The tall, rosy cheeked Swiss with short cropped blonde hair spoke with hardly a trace of an accent and used plenty of American slang. The only distinguishing thing about him was his short white pants and a dark blue polo shirt.

Why the students were over here was explained this way.

"The U.S. National Students Association and the Swiss equivalent have a Travel Agency and they 'cooked up this deal' for us."

Cooked up?

"Yes," he said smiling. "After all we've been in America for nearly three months."

Policy On Hazing Explained By Investigating Committee

Dental School Getting Ready For Milestone

Clinical Practice Scheduled To Start For Class Of '54

Two years ago, in the fall of 1950, the first class of dental students was admitted to the University School of Dentistry. On Monday, this same group will to be the first to receive clinical instruction in Denistry in the State of North Carolina.

"The program, as is customary in Schools of Dentistry, is to have students perform the service to patients under the close supervision of the faculty," Dean John C. Braver explained yesterday.

Students are well prepared, Dean Braver said, to begin work with patients having had: at least three years of college work; a thorough screening by the Committee on Admissions for the study of dentistry; and then at least two years of instruction in the science and techniques of Dentistry prior to their clinical experiences.

Anyone may receive information between the hours of 10 am and 1 pm on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and from 2 pm to 4:30 pm Monday through Friday.

Saturday mornings are reserved for special treatment and for emergency care. The morning clinical hours will change from time to time depending upon class schedules. However, the Tuesday and Thursday morning schedule will prevail to January, 1953.

"Upon arrival in the School of Dentistry, the patient is directed to the information window, where each individual desiring an examination is registered," Dean Braver said.

"This new school is provided with the most modern clinical facilities for all types of dental service," Dean Braver exlained. There are seperate, complete facilities for white and for Negro patients, he added.

There is a ten-chair children's clinic, with "Junior" chairs, to be used exclusively for child patients, generally from the age of two to twelve.

A nominal charge, reduced from the usual dental practice fees, will be made for the various types of services. Such a reduction in fees is consistent with practice in teaching clinics in other Schools of Denistry in various parts of the country.

The first class of dental students will graduate from the University in June, 1954. Prior to practice, each dentist who desires to practice in this state must complete successfully the examinations of the Board of Examiners of the State of North Carolina.

IF You Will Help

International Students Learn Football Via Y

Upperclassmen will get an opportunity Saturday to help their fellow students from foreign countries understand the game of football.

The YMCA yesterday said it has planned a special introductory program and asked interested students to volunteer their services. The Y requested volunteers to leave their names at the Y office today and tomorrow.

The plan for Saturday morning is for the helpers to report to the Y lobby at 9:45 to receive name tags. This will be followed at 10 o'clock by a movie and explanation of the game at Gerrard Hall with Bob Isaacs of the physical education staff in charge. Next, the international students will be introduced by Parsu Amersey, president of the Cosmopolitan Club. At 11 o'clock final plans will be made between the North American students and the international students on where to meet before game time.

Carolina students serving as guides will not need to come the first hour of the morning meetings, Y officials said.

YDC Asking Students To Join Up

The Young Democrats have launched their fall election drive it was announced yestereday by co-chairman Al House and John Sanders. Already over 150 new members have signed up for the YDC, they said. It is hoped that over 1000 will join by the time of the local rally, the pair said.

The first meeting of the YDC will be held next Monday night in Gerrard Hall at 7:30. Every interested student is invited to attend. Membership in the YDC is open to all between the ages of 18 and 40 who are interested in the Democratic Party.

Sanders listed the purposes of the YDC as to stimulate in young people an interest in government and the party, to get all of age to register and vote, and to maintain a continuing interest in political affairs after the election.

The YDC is a nation-wide organization which was born in North Carolina in 1928. That year O. Max Gardner rallied the young Democrats of the state behind the Democratic presidential nominee, Al Smith, despite the disaffection of many of the party leaders.

VA Has Openings For Engineers

The Veterans Administration has immediate vacancies for engineers in Washington, D. C. and throughout the country, VA said yesterday.

No experience is required the VA said, but a college degree in civil, general, mechanical or construction engineering is essential. Beginning salary is $3,410 a year.

Interested applicants may apply by mail to the Department Personnel Officer, Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C.

Playmaker Tryouts Set For Friday

Tryouts for "Death of a Salesman", the first of five major productions scheduled by the Carolina Playmakers for the 1952-53 season, will be held in the Playmakers Theater tomorrow at 4 and 7:30 pm. The informal auditions are open to all.

Written by Arthur Miller and first produced early in 1949, "Death of a Salesman" has been honored with the New York Drama Critics Circle Award and the Pulitzer Prize.

The play is a tragedy of the little man overcome by his own insignificance. It requires a cast of eight men and five women. For those interested in reading the script in advance, copies will be available in the reserve reading room of the Library.

Thomas Patterson, assistant director for the Playmakers will stage the play. It will be presented five evenings opening October 22 and running through October 26.

John Parker Leaves For German Tour

John A. Parker, head of the Department of City and Regional Planning, left yesterday for a month's study tour of German cities as a guest of the German Federal Republic.

Prof. Parker is one of 14 Americans in the field of local administration, planning and reconstruction invited by the German government.

Parker is a member of the Board of Governors of the American Institute of Planners, Secretary-Treasurer of the Southeastern chapter of the American Institute of Planners, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Regional Development Council of America.

Glenn Harden's DTH Editorial Brings Inquiry

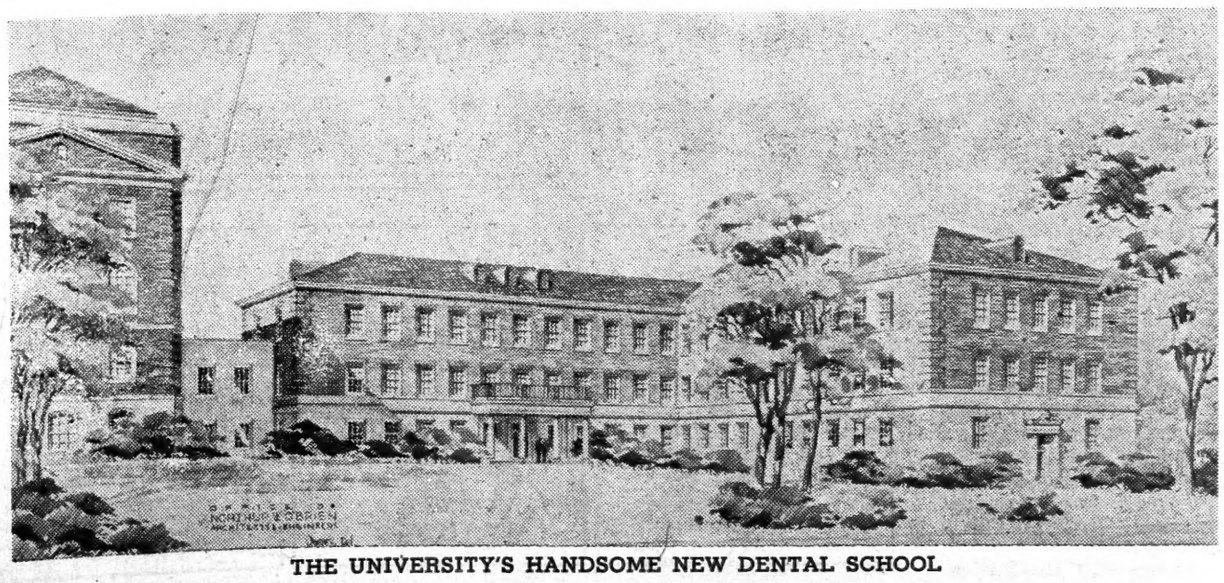
Group Suggests Handing Violators To Men's Court

UNC social fraternities will enter into rushing activities this year with the benefit of a studied definition of the word "hazing".

A Chancellor's Committee on Hazing at The University of North Carolina has devoted weeks of labor and an eighty-eight page report to the clarification of this much-discussed issue. Instances of unusual initiation practices were investigated and recommendations were made regarding the handling of such cases in the future.

The investigation arose out of charges made last March by former Daily Tar Heel Editor Glenn Harden that "actual physical torture" had occurred in fraternity "Hell Weeks" and cases which warranted prosecution under state law had consistently gone unpunished.

The committee recommended principally a rearrangement of the procedure followed when hazing occurs. It suggested, "When a case of fraternity hazing is reported (usually through the Dean of Students Office) to the Interfraternity Council Court, at the same time the incident should be reported to the Men's Honor Council."



The committee further questioned the effectiveness of the punishment for a first offense by a fraternity. The Interfraternity Court is presently authorized to fine a member organization $100 for the first violation.

The committee pointed out that social organizations other than fraternities are not regulated by a student agency comparable to the IFC. It was suggested that the student government give consideration to the need for initiating some form of adequate regulation for the corporate conduct of such organizations.

A chief recommendation of the Chancellor's Committee was the inauguration of a program of "education" for the student body for the purpose of setting forth a "realistic understanding of the principles and agencies of student government and the vital role the individual student plays in maintaining them."

During the course of the inquiry into hazing during the year 1951-52 it became evident that cases of "actual physical torture" were virtually absent during that period, having consistently decreased in number over the past few years.

No teachers reported knowledge of hazing during 1951-52, but some spoke of cases which occurred in previous years. These cases came to the attention of instructors when students missed classes and gave elaborate descriptions of "rides" which they had been forced to take the night before.

THE UNIVERSITY'S HANDSOME NEW DENTAL SCHOOL

Wires To Nixon Cause Hustle

WASHINGTON—One of the greatest telegraphic jams in history was set off by Sen. Nixon's speech Tuesday night. Western union still had not recovered yesterday from the flood of messages from all parts of the country and abroad. So great was the deluge that all W. U. functions such as bookkeeping were suspended so that all personel could be assigned to handling the telegrams.

TV For Internes

Internes of the new North Carolina Memorial Hospital may view operations over a private TV system.

The four-foot wide floodlights to illuminate the hospital's operating tables have been equipped with facilities for a television camera. The internes would watch from a private theater room.

Dr. Robert R. Cadmus, director of the hospital, said the television may be installed in the near future.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
News Ed. ..... Jody Levy
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Ruth Hincks, Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Marc Gittleman.
Sports Staff—Tom Peacock, Eddie Starnes.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet.

Freedom Unlimited

Having recently returned from a national conference of collegiate editors, we are prepared to declare without fear of contradiction that our Daily Tar Heel enjoys the most absolute freedom of expression of any college publication in the world. Perhaps other student newspapers can boast of the same degree of freedom that we do. None can boast of more.

The Daily Tar Heel is student-run, student-written, and student-censored from the first capital letter of the banner headline to the final period on the back page bottom right. No paternalistic "faculty advisor" peeps over our shoulder to ensure that our writings "conform" with policy and dictates handed down from above. Neither are we pestered by any "supervisory committee" with darting red pencils weaving a mosaic pattern over our "objectionable" copy. In fact, as far as we can remember, nothing even so strong as a mild suggestion has been beamed our way from South Building, the Board of Trustees, or any other center of authority.

Coupled with this rare measure of self-government is a responsibility on our part to bring you the news as we see it, interpreted according to our conscience, and presented with prudence tempered with fundamental common sense.

Our freedom is guaranteed by a University administration unaccustomed to meddling in student affairs. Whether or not we fulfill our share of the obligation will be determined during the next nine months.

Ham Horton

Presidential Memo

We couldn't possibly start a column without mentioning first of all the top-notch job done this summer by a happy go lucky, perrenially smiling boy from Rocky Mount, who is always insisting that he's going to "take it easy next quarter". It's our good fortune that it's always "next" quarter, and not "this' quarter, because we've learned to lean on Bob Gorham when we want a job especially well done. And Bob's job as Orientation Chairman has been magnificent, to put it mildly. A new orientation counsellor's handbook was printed, complete with Bob's own Gorhamesque philosophical footnotes, for the first time in our memory a picnic for the freshmen was held, and most important of all, the group Bob chose for his committee and the counsellors they chose were just the type boys to introduce a new class to Carolina.

Bob spent the better part of his summer preparing for the Freshman orientation program, and from South building on down the unanimous opinion is that it was time well spent. Thanks Bob!

Flowers should also be tossed to Mr. J. S. Bennett for his work this summer is giving us social rooms in the upper Quad. All four dorms had walls knocked out between two rooms, which gives the boys there the elbow room they need to live in the splendor to which they would like to become accustomed. If you get a chance, drop by one of the upper quad dorms and look in—they're really elegant.

The people around the "Y" tell me that Harry Phillips also did a service to the sweltering summer school students. Harry seems to have produced several square dances and a particularly successful watermelon feast. Harry heads a committee for student government that we hope will give us a similar program the year around.

"Tarnation's back and the man responsible for the dastardly act more than anyone else is Tom Alexander. We were a bit apprehensive when we returned to campus—thought Tom might have given up the idea as being too much to attempt. But instead found Tom brandishing advertising contracts and spouting plans for a great little humor mag. Incidentally, Tom's somewhat of a celebrity. Had his picture on the lead article of the Sat. Evening Post last week! Ah fame!

Next week you may be interested in coming to the first legislature meeting. What with dorm redistricting, an annual chestnut, coming up, it might be worth dropping in.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1. Evil
4. Extreme danger
9. Feminine pronoun
12. Row
13. Scent
14. Mow
15. Take unscrupulously
17. Knock
18. Carried
19. Married
21. Speedy
23. Proceed
25. One circuit around a race track
27. Prepare leather
28. Steamship: abbr.
30. Spontaneous
33. Female pig
34. Pack
35. Pedal digit
36. Withered
37. Open with a lever
38. Toward the fore
40. Compass point
41. Hawaiian food
42. To: Scot.
43. Old English pronoun
44. Station
46. Stimulate: slang
48. Discussion of fictitious causes for practice
50. Label
52. Relate
55. Possess
56. Essential character
58. Understand
59. Tiny
60. Crucial
61. Man's nickname

DOWN

1. Small marsh
2. Swiss river
3. Tie
4. Parent: colloq.
5. Make a mistake
6. Bellow
7. Anxious
8. Note of the scale
9. Supplied with shoes
10. Possessive pronour
11. Female sheep
16. Underneath
18. Gain
20. River barrier
22. Moccasin
23. Pants
24. Extravagant
26. Inspired by love of country
28. Regretful
29. Person from Sweden
31. Plaything
32. Also
33. Ocean
36. Pleasing to the taste
38. Dandy
39. Faucet
41. Fondle
44. Completed
45. Forbidden by social usage
47. Annoyance
48. Cut down
49. Be in debt
51. Obtain
53. American general
54. Guided
56. Note of the scale
57. Concerning

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

S	L	E	D		C	E	N	T		P	E	N
H	A	V	E		A	R	E	A		O	R	E
O	V	E	N		P	R	E	T	E	R	I	T
P	A	R	T	I	E	S		T	A	T
			I	N	S		T	E	R	R	O	R
A	T	O	N	E		B	A	R		A	G	E
L	O	R	E		O	U	R		P	I	L	E
A	N	I		U	R	N		F	A	T	E	D
R	E	G	E	N	T		C	U	R
		I	R	I		M	A	N	A	G	E	R
P	I	N	A	S	T	E	R		P	O	L	O
O	R	A		O	I	S	E		E	R	S	E
E	E	L		N	E	S	T		T	E	E	S

Barry Farber

Personally Olympic Diary

STRATOHOPPING THE ATLANTIC

ALOFT, June 24—I'm in the cocktail belly lounge of a giant BOAC Stratocruiser happily humming at twenty thousand feet above the western coast of Ireland and I don't mind admitting I'm as nervous as a nudist crossing a barbed wire fence. I despise anything that takes me off that ever-loving Earth for as long as a split-second; elevators, ferris wheels, and upper berths included.

The only reason I chose to fly to Europe for the Olympic Games in Helsinki is because it's cheaper. (The National Student Association runs charter flights across the ocean for impoverished students every summer at a cost equal to that of third-class ship travel.—End commercial.)

Some people claim they like to fly. I think I'd rather dangle by my heels over an erupting volcano, fight Rocky Marciano with one are tied behind me, or walk barefooted over radioactive plutonium. I don't have claustrophobia or altitude sickness and I'm not susceptible to the bends. I'm just a coward. From the minute I step into the graceful fusilage until I'm safely in bed at my destination I'm as jittery as a sword swallower with the hiccups.

It was a dark, misty morning when sixty frisky, giggling students piled into this silver Stratocruiser at New York's International Airport. We taxied to the far end of the concrete strip knifing our way through damp layers of persistent fog prior to the take-off.

"Aren't we going to wait 'til the smog lifts?" I asked the stewardess trying to appear as though I didn't care in the least whether we waited or shot right up into the vortex of a hurricane.

"Oh, no," she gurgled. "We'll be over it all in just a few minutes," she added thinking she was making me happier.

I fastened the seat belt and opened the little booklet the air line gives you which proves that flying with BOAC is 500% safer than driving a used Pontiac over a rusty drawbridge. I'm sure the drumming palpitations of my heart were sketching curliques on the seismograph at Fordham as we kissed the ground farewell and leaped skyward. The other kids were knitting, singing, and playing five-hand canasta. I was chewing my fingernails so much my stomach needed a manicure. I uncorked my large flask of Portuguese wham wine and went at it with a zeal.

Two hours later we were over the ocean, which looked like a vast desert of gleaming tin foil, and for the first time I noticed I was sitting beside a beautiful girl. She, too, seemed pertified with fear so I lent her one of the eight life jackets I was wearing.

"Dull trip," she finally muttered. I drank to that.

"Read anything exciting lately?" she continued.

"Sure," I snapped showing her the BOAC brag-booklet. "If we're forced down at night between the longitudes forty-five and sixty a navy destroyer will leave Halifax and pick us up."

"Why are you drinking so much?" she asked. "Not scared, are you?"

"Of course not," I belched. "My uncle got married last night in Denver."

She traded seats with the elderly wife of a history professor who soon fell asleep. The only friends I have up here are my four cartons of cigarettes. They're a big comfort to me on any flight. I chain-smoke and they help me measure distance. For instance, from New York to Gander, Newfoundland is twelve Camels and nine Pall Malls. Gander to London is forty Camels, ten Kools, and eight Pall Malls—provided you don't stop for supper, which I don't. From London to Paris is a mere handful of slow burning Luckies. You can't puff as fast as before because your mouth feels and tastes like it's been fit snugly over the exhaust pipe of a speeding Greyhound all day.

At three a.m. the stewardess nudged me in the short ribs and whispered, "Would you like a cup of tea?"

I screamed. I thought she said, "We're falling into the sea."

Within two more hours we're scheduled to land in London, at which time my fear will evaporate as though touched by the magic wand of a fairy princess. I'll jerk away the safety belt, curse the air line for being eight minutes late, and stalk down the rampway with arrogance enough to dwarf an Alp.

"Only way to travel," I'll say to the first nervous passenger I meet in the waiting room. Then I'll bark at the redcaps to hustle my baggage through customs and make my way downtown to the hotel feeling as brave as a Bulgarian stevedore and as cosmopolitan as a comet.

'They Really Ought To Put In Revolving Doors'

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON.—A lot of people have been wondering how dynamic Dick Nixon, 39 years old and a newcomer in politics, managed to latch on to the No. 2 spot on the Republican ticket at Chicago.

The story is one of an extremely astute and opportunistic young man plus the hit-and-miss habits of a political convention in picking its candidates—especially the Vice-President.

Nixon, a resident of Whittier, California, near Pasadena, had come to know an automobile salesman in Pasadena, Paul Hoffman, who later became President of Studebaker and took over the most important reconstruction job in the world—head of the Marshall Plan. Last winter Hoffman became one of the three top advisers to General Eisenhower and head of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee.

Prior to the Chicago convention, Eisenhower cohorts were casting around for a way to wean the powerful California delegation away from Governor Warren and over to Ike. Nixon was approached by Hoffman as to how this could be done. Naive at politics, Hoffman even suggested that Nixon himself run for President in the California primary, with the idea of weakening Warren's hold on California's 76 votes.

However, Nixon, not anxious to buck either Governor Warren or Congressman Tom Werdel, who had already been drafted by old-guard Republicans to run against the Governor, declined. Instead he suggested that he would become a delegate from California and work from within to switch Warren delegates over to Eisenhower on the second ballot.

Nixon figured that as a senator, he would be given the courtesy of picking ten delegates, and with this as a nucleus he could make sure that California was in Eisenhower's column before the balloting had gone more than one round.

In order to stir up Eisenhower sentiment in California, Nixon sent out 25,000 letters to registered GOP voters, asking:

"Who is your choice for president, assuming that Governor Warren is not nominated?" This mailing job may have been one expense to which the so-called Millionaires' Club donated. Governor Warren, however, got wind of the Nixon Plebiscite, and never having caerd much for the ambitious young senator from California, a mutual friend, Bernard Brennan, also a member of the Millionaires' Club, put the quietus on Nixon's vote-results.

However, Nixon arrived at Chicago with a tacit understanding from Paul Hoffman that he woul do his best for Ike inside the California delegation and that Ike, in turn, would give him favorable consideration for the Vice Presidency. At Chicago, Nixon more than kept his word.

It was he who swung California over to the Eisenhower point of view when it came to the debate over the Langlie Amendment, and it was he who literally grabbed the microphone away from Senator Knowland, when it came to the hot debate over seating the Georgia delegation.

After Ike was nominated, Paul Hoffman kept his word. So with Hoffman backing him and a friendly nod from Governor Dewey, plus Dick's record on Hiss and the plan to open up on Governor Stevenson's deposition for Hiss, the young Senator from California had the number 2 spot on the Republican ticket in the bag.

★

Lost And Found

A French news agency in Saigon, Indo-China reports that over two hundred elephants used in road construction have "mysteriously disappeared."

Gee, fellows. Did you look everywhere?

Harry Snook

NONPLUS

(The editors are happy to welcome such a provocative and controversial columnist as Harry Snook back to regular appearance in The Daily Tar Heel. During his years on the Carolina journalistic scene Harry has been denounced by some as a clear and present threat to western civilization and hailed by others as the glimmering trumpet of a brave new era.

(He has been praised, attacked, applauded, assailed, and spat at. He has never been ignored.—ED)

Reader, be forewarned!

If you're an average person, Nonplus will infuriate you during the next year. This column is convinced you're a liability to the human race.

You know little about the important issues of life. Your serious endeavor is apathetic to the point of being nil. Your fun is superficial and destructive. And you have the gall to be extremely smug about everything.

The hell of it is that you know this. When you think about it, you do something about it. But you don't waste much time thinking.

Nonplus will try to provoke you to thought.

Sex is a sure-fire subject. Everyone's interested in sex, but most people have only a perverted understanding of it. When something as fundamental as sex is so easily distorted, it's not surprising how all human relations get so snarled.

Dishonesty and ignorance have made complicated and vulgar something that is utterly simple, naturally beautiful and vastly important. Nonplus can blast away at conventional sex attitudes and enjoy a worthy cause.

Then there's religion.

Humans are innately religious and most of them recognize the absolute necessity of faith. But look at the sticky mess most of us erect in the name of faith.

It is astounding to witness the childish and suicidal efforts of those who substitute church attendance for religion, dogma for faith and ritual for genuine humility. With our churches we seem to have chained ourselves to phantom gods that make it impossible to enjoy the life we have or to make improvements.

Exposing the deceit hidden within many church structures won't be difficult. Hitting superficial Christians where it hurts will be a pleasure.

Campus affairs, including our hypocritical "honor" system, are certain to get many lusty whacks in Nonplus. Too few of the students at large are aware of the power of student government, wielded by a handful of self-glorified do-gooders. Calling for a lot of publicity is the role of the university administration in manipulating student government as a tool for its own devices.

Great things are happening at Carolina. Many projects and quite a few individuals deserve attention and credit. Nonplus will ferret out as many of these as possible.

But the column's primary function is to criticize.

There are plenty who shout their own virtues, butter up others for theirs and generally muddy the waters of progress. Because someone's toes always get mashed when there's criticism, everyone's too eager to overlook matters that need corrective attention.

Nonplus isn't.

LET US EXTEND A CORDIAL WELCOME TO NEW STUDENTS ENTERING AND OLD STUDENTS RETURNING

We offer the best in:

☆ R.C.A. VICTOR RADIO Entertainment
☆ TABLE and CLOCK RADIOS
☆ PHONOGRAPHS Single or three speeds
☆ PORTABLES

HARRIS & WILSON

RADIO and TELEVISION — SALES and SERVICE

9-6906 504 W. Franklin St. 9-6906

GET A Kodak Camera FOR THE NEW School Year

Don't miss getting a picture record of schoolmates and school activities. We have KODAK and BROWNIE cameras from $2.85.

Stop in and ask to see the Kodak Duaflex II Camera, Kodet Lens, which sells for $14.50. Prices include Fed. Tax.

FOISTER'S Camera Store, Inc.

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Crystal Gazing

Stanley Woodward is a football expert. And because of his position of prominence when the autumnal leaves start turning pigskin brown he publishes a football pictorial, in it choosing an all-american team, selecting the weekly grid winners, and picking sectional conference leaders. What he has to say about Texas is anything but appealing to Tar Heel fans.

Woodward places the Longhorns among the top 20 teams in the nation. He says they will be the runner-up to Texas Christian in the Southwestern Conference. And come December he expects fullback Dick Ochoa, halfback Gib Dawson, and end Tom Stolhandske to be members of the all-Southwestern team.

This in itself is enough to make the staunchest of Tar Heel fans weep. But to make matters worse we have to consider that all of this information was compiled and printed before the Texans played LSU last weekend. Playing in the rain and doing very little passing the Longhorns trounced the Bengals, 35-14. At the same time TCU lost to Kansas which would probably make Mr. Woodward reverse his earlier opinion that Texas would be runner-up in the Southwest.

More Trouble

And in addition to the above mentioned players a few more threats were added to the list of those to watch. Quarterback T. Jones established himself right smartly in that position by passing to Stolhandske (one of four passes completed by the Texans) for one touchdown and then personally accounting for two more.

But let's get back to Mr. Woodward and see what he has to say about our Tar Heels. Not having the first hand information on our adeptness with the new T in a regular game he was not able to go on at length about our possibilities. It seemed that he was basing his account on our lack of success last year. He placed us as definite underdogs against the Longhorns.

We'll have to go along with him on that account. We will be underdogs come Saturday for Texas has been rated by some (Paul Williamson, among others) as the nation's top team of those who opened the season early last weekend.

Something Extra

But something extra which will have to be taken into consideration is the liking that the Tar Heels have taken to the T formation. The team has yet to be tried on its handling of the new formation except in scrimmages and practice games. But one thin thing which makes this year's outfit better than last season's is its outlook and enthusiasm in working with the T.

It may be a less experienced Carolina team which comes out on Kenan Field Saturday but it will be an enthusiastic one. A little spirit goes a long way toward erasing the mistakes of inexperience.

The Longhorns are fast and tough but they should know they've been in a ball game by the time the bell tower breaks forth with Hark the Sound on Saturday.

Odds and Ends

The Tar Heels are using a new system of choosing captains this season. Captains will be appointed for each game as it comes about with the season captain being elected by the team at the end of the year.

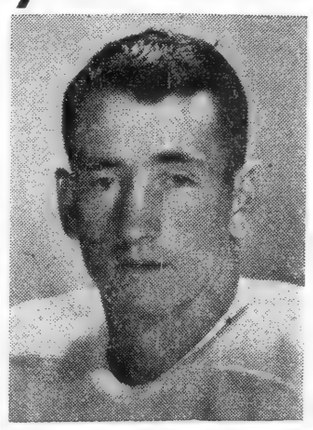
Two highly-deserving players have been appointed to lead the Tar Heels against Texas. Bud Wallace, senior fullback from Kinston, and George Norris, one of the Conference's best ends will be head men Saturday.

The Texas team is scheduled to arrive at 7:00 tonight. A light workout which may be of interest to Carolina fans will be held tomorrow afternoon in Kenan Stadium.

It grows more doubtful that Charlie Motta will be able to go Saturday thus leaving it open to Carmen Anillo and Lou Britt to handle the quarterbacking with Annillo probably getting the starting nod.

SOCCER PLAYERS

Coach Al Moore has issued a plea for soccer players. With every position on the team "wide open" Moore hopes that all interested players will report to Fetzer Field this afternoon at 3:00. Practice will be held at that time every weekday.



Carolina Football Team In High Spirit As Snavely Practices Hard For Opener

By Tom Peacock

The Carolina football team's spirits and hopes were high as it ran through a fast and hard practice yesterday evening in preparation for Saturday's opener with Texas.

There was little contact in the semi-secret practice with head coach Carl Snavely and his assistant George Barclay stressing offense. Charlie Motta, the previous number one quarterback, ran through a few plays in the practice, but he won't be able to play against the Longhorns. Motta hurt his ankle last week.

The rest of the squad will be in good physical condition for the game, trainer Fitz Lutz reported, and Snavely isn't taking chances on a practice injury late in the week.

GIB DAWSON
Texas Speedster

There are still plenty of seats left for the game, and from present indications there will not be a sellout in Kenan Stadium. The crowd might reach 35,000.

Yesterday Coach Snavely worked principally with the backfield, with Annillo, Britt, Newman, and Motta all passing from quarterback in Carolina's split-T. Annillo will probably start Saturday, but Britt especially will see a lot of action.

Line Looks Good

Barclay worked with the Tar Heel offensive line, and the boys looked good against Texas' tricky defense. How Carolina's coaches expect to stop the Texas power and speed packed backfield is a secret known only to them, but the feeling among thee team is that it can whip the Longhorns.

Snavely stopped contact after a rugged workout Tuesday. The team worked on most phases of the game, with kickoff returns, extra points, and defense being stressed.

Full Code Of Ethics For Football Coaches Drawn Up For 1953; Approval Expected

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A code of ethics under which football coaches face drastic reforms is revealed in the latest issue of Newsweek magazine, out today.

Not scheduled for presentation to the full membership of the American Football Coaches Association until January, the code was recently completed and has already been approved by the Association's board of trustees, the magazine says.

Among the highlights of the code, based on information Newsweek secured from "sources other than the compilers" are:

"It shall be unethical for coaches to pick weekly game winners or to participate in football polls or rating systems."

"On-and off-the record criticisms of officials to players or the public shall be considered unethical." During a game "Coaches should be as inconspicuous as possible."

"To show (movies of) critical plays to sportswriters, sportcasters, alumni, and the public which may incite them to label officials as incompetents, must be considered unethical conduct."

According to Newsweek, the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches Association in Cincinnati last January unanimously voted to formulate, adopt and enforce a code of ethics for their work. If, as expected, the code is approved next January (to be effective beginning in 1953), it will not lack for the instruments of effective enforcement, the magazine says.

"Violations will be investigated by the committee on ethics, and its report and recommendations will be passed on to an annually appointed, five-man board of review with the power to suspend and expel members."

Rabb Seeks Mural Heads

Has your dorm elected its intramural manager yet?

Intramural director Walter Rabb said yesterday that all managers and tag-football teams must be registered by Oct. 6, the date for the first managers' meeting. Mr. Rabb also emphasized that football eligibility lists must be handed in by this time. Dorm tag-football teams begin play Oct. 8.

Fraternity mural managers will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m., and all entries must be in by that time. Fraternity football teams will begin play Oct. 1.

Teams may reserve field for practice starting Monday by calling the intramural office.

SUAB

All students interested in working on the Student Union Activities Board will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the SUAB office in Graham Memorial.

FOOTBALL SALESMAN

A meeting of all football program salesmen will be held today, Thursday, at 4:00 in Room 304 of Woollen gymnasium.

In the event of a class conflict you are requested to contact Bill Kucyk in 315 Woollen gymnasium before 4:00 p.m.

OFFICIALS NEEDED

Students desiring work as tag football officials are requested to contact the Intramural office at 315 Woollen gymnasium.

All officials will be required to attend an officials clinic which begins Monday, September 29th.

County Wildlife Club Schedules Trap Shoot Today

The Orange County Wildlife Club will hold a Trap Shoot to which all Carolina students are invited. The event, which is scheduled for Hogan's Lake from 4:00-6:30, will take place today.

Walter Rabb, who is the president of the Club disclosed yesterday that if enough students take interest in the event, it may be added to the Intramural curriculum.

Students who enter today are to bring their own guns and ammunition. An entry fee of fifty cents will be charged each contestant. The money is to be used to purchase awards for the four best scores.

Bait Casting may also be added to the Intramural program if enough students show interest, Rabb added.

Welcome to Class of 1956

Electric Construction Company

169 E. Franklin Street
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Raleigh Memorial Auditorium
THURSDAY EVENING Oct. 2
Tickets On Sale At
THIEM RECORD SHOP
$3.75 - $3.25 - $3.08 - $2.50 - $2.00
$1.75 - $1.50

U. N. C.

You are invited to

WEST FRANKLIN LUNCHEONETT

formerly

BOB SMITH'S

Wine — Beer on Draft and Bottles
Good Sandwiches

Let our experts
FALL-CONDITION
Your car!

It's time right now to check and adjust your car's vitals for efficient cold weather operation.

Drive in Today for
- Complete Lubrication
- Brake Adjustment
- Drain, check and refill cooling system
- Engine Tune-up

Our expert shop men are eager to serve you

CASTON MOTOR CO.

419 W. Franklin St. — Phone 9-421

DODGE · PLYMOUTH
DODGE Job-Rated TRUCKS

While You Were Away

During the Summer your old pals at the Intimate Bookshop have continued their search for good reading at moderate prices. Here are a few we've nicked off for your temptation:

Incredible Tale—by Gerald W. Johnson. The story of the Average American in the first fifty tumultuous years of this century. Published at $3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Doppelgangers, by H. F. Heard. The author of "A Taste for Honey" has turned out a swell bit of psychological science-fiction. Published at $2.75.
Our Special $1.25

Harvard Advocate Anthology Here's an encouraging collection including the undergraduate writings of Franklin D. Roosevelt, John Reed, Conrad Aiken, T. S. Eliot, Norman Mailer and a host of others who once sweated out the same sort of exams you'll be facing in a month or so. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.89

Dictionary of Word Origens, by Joseph T. Shipley. An authoritative guide to the better use, understanding, history and background of the English language. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Benjamin Franklin's Autobiographical Writings, selected and edited by Carl Van Doren. The famous Autobiography amplified and carried forward to the time of Franklin's death by the use of letters and other autobiographical writings. Published at $6.00.
Our Special $1.25

Four Portraits, studies of the Eighteenth Century by Peter Quennell. Portraits of James Boswell, Edward Gibbon, Laurence Sterne and John Wilkes. An outstanding English import.
Our Special $1.25

That Old-Time Religion by Archie Robertson. From the Button Baptists to Father Divine this book follows the development of personal religion, with sympathy but not without humor. Was $3.00.
Our Special $1.25

The Promise by Mildred Cram. Here is a tender, slightly sentimental story. It's so short you can read it in a half-hour's browse, but to read it is to want it always! Published at $1.50.
Our Special 75c

Come In! Browsing's Still Free and We Like Your Corny Humor.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

Advertisement by Henri, Hurst & McDonald, Inc.

Dr. Percy Bysshe Stodge, renowned English Literature professor, says

"I want to have Wordsworth you about underwear!"

With a devilish gleam in his eye, Professor Stodge tells his students, "Dafoe we go any further, let me tell you about real Jockey brand comfort. You'll never find a Chaucer pair of shorts anywhere, Keats. Byron or two pair and see for yourself!"

Enjoy the smooth, snug fit that is exclusively Jockey's!

13 separate contoured pieces are carefully crafted into one smooth-fitting garment.

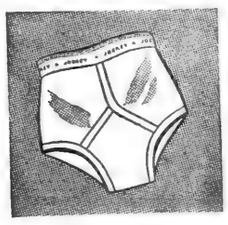
Newly-developed heat resistant rubber in waistband outlasts other leading brands by 40%.

No sag or bind around the legs.

Unique Jockey no-gap front opening.

Jockey Shorts

Jockey T-Shirts



all underwear gives you coverage but only

Jockey® BRAND
gives you full comfort!

Made only by Coopers® Kenosha, Wisconsin

Say othello to comfort
try Jockey® Brand Shorts

$1.20

JACK LIPMAN'S

Made by Coopers®

"SERVING THE COLLEGE MAN SINCE 1924"

Typewriters
Adding Machines
SALES–SERVICE
RENTALS
New and Used
Your Underwood Agent
ROWE TYPEWRITER COMPANY
103½ W. Parris St.
Ph. 5-3901 DURHAM, N. C.

Program Salesmen

There will be a meeting of all program salesmen this afternoon at 4:00 in room 304 of Woollen Gym.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

GRAHAM MEMORIAL
BARBER SHOP
OPEN
9:00 A.M. — 6:00 P.M.
3 Barbers On Duty
ECONOMICAL
Located in the Basement
of
Graham Memorial
QUICK

COAL
and
OIL
for prompt delivery
call
BENNETT & BLOCKSIDGE
105 E. FRANKLIN ST.
PHONE 6161

Watching Prices?
Want Value?
Then Try One Of
Our Famous Banana
Splits, At A Special
Price Of
45c
— 55c Value —
The Dairy Bar
203 E. FRANKLIN ST. PHONE 9-8581

What Goes On Here

Card Board

The Card Board will meet tonight at 7:30 in William Wolfe Lounge, Graham Memorial. Members are requested to bring athletic pass books.

Alpha Phi Omega

The Campus Projects Committee of Alpha Phi Omega will hold a meeting tonight at 9 o'clock in the chapter room, located in the YMCA building.

Travel Agency

The Travel Agency, on the south mezzanine of Graham Memorial is now open, providing schedules and reservations for all types of transportation to any point in the world. Manager Gene Cain is at his desk Monday through Friday from 2 to 4.

University Band

University Band Director Earl Slocum said the first rehearsal will be held this afternoon at 4:30 in Hill Z.

Tarnation

There will be a Tarnation staff meeting this afternoon at 3 in Roland Parker Lounge on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Glee Clubs

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will hold their initial meetings next week in the Choral Room of Hill Hall. The men will meet Monday at 5, and the women will meet at the same hour on Tuesday. All students interested in choral singing are invited.

Interest Cards

All freshmen who have not filled in cards indicating their desire to participate in rush week may do so by going by the Dean of Student's office at their convenience.

Y Tea-Off Honors New Campus Coeds

A "Tea-Off", an informal tea to introduce new coeds to the functions and purposes of the YWCA on campus, was held yesterday from 2 to 4 o'clock at the Y.

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED: FEMALE 8A

URGENTLY NEEDED: EXPERIENCED office girl as assistant and receptionist in professional office. Good pay. Interview arranged. State qualifications and experience. Write P. O. Box 1291 Chapel Hill. Charge 1x1

FOR SALE 5B

ENCYCLOPEDIA AMERICANA: 1904 edition, 16 vols., ¾ leather binding, in fine shape—$25.00—The Intimate Bookshop, 205 E. Franklin St. Charge 1x1

SEND THE DAILY TAR HEEL HOME and let your parents know what is happening on campus. $4.00 per year—$1.50 per quarter—Carolyn Reichard, Subscription Mgr. —210 Graham Memorial

N. C.—D. T. H.

HELP WANTED 8

TUTORS IN ALL SUBJECTS: SEND postcard to Roy McKnight, Woollen Gym. Give name, phone number, local mailing address, and best qualified subjects. Charge 1x1

BOY WANTED TO WORK IN SUBscription Department. Weekly Salary. See Carolyn Reichard —210 Graham Memorial or call Daily Tar Heel office 23371.

N. C. —Staff

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

If you have had newspaper and ad make-up or linotype operation experience, and you want part time work, apply Colonial Press, Inc. Plant located in Carrboro. Phone 3336 for appointment or come in person for interview.

Frank R. Thomas, Supt.

Charlotte Austin

YDC Rally At Hillsboro Next Month

The Young Democrats Club of Orange County will sponsor a pre-election political rally and barbeque feast Oct. 13 at Schley Grange Hall, located four miles north of Hillsboro, YDC president Donald Stanford said yesterday.

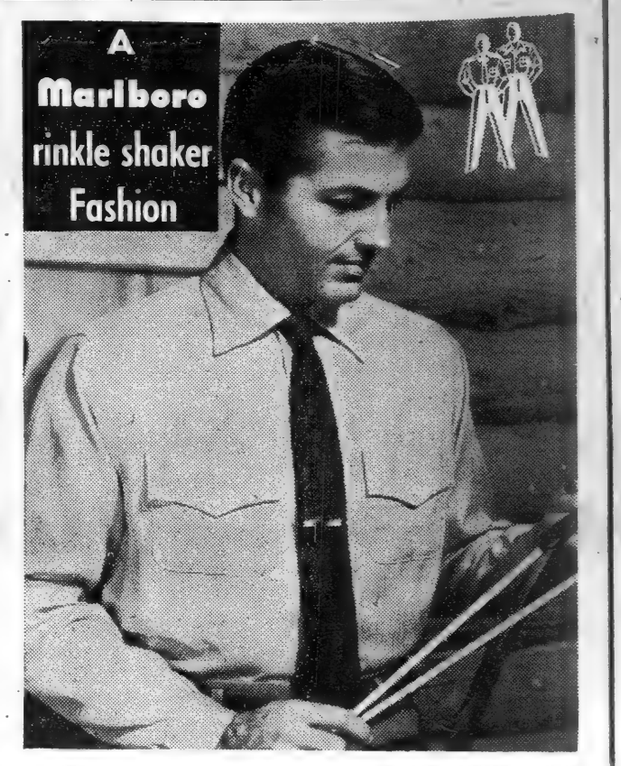
The rally will begin at 6:30 p.m. Featured speaker of the evening will be Governor nominee Bill Umstead.

The rally is open to the public. The admission fee of $1 includes YDC membership. Tickets are on sale throughout the town and campus from YDC members.

Others expected to participate in the program are Congressman Carl T. Durham, County Democratic Executive Committee chairman Mrs. Charles W. Stanford; State Senator Ralph Scott of Alamance; Orange County Rep. John Umstead Jr., and a number of local and county officials.

Social Work Exams Scheduled By State

The North Carolina Merit System Council yesterday announced that Public Welfare Examinations will be given October 18. Seniors finishing in December and March who are interested in social work in North Carolina should file applications by midnight, September 26.



The Sensational Stars of
THE PRINCE WHO WAS A THIEF
TONY CURTIS
PIPER LAURIE
SON OF ALI BABA
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
TODAY and FRIDAY
Varsity

Starlet Will Introduce Film Here

Charlotte Austin, brown-haired amber-eyed beauty staring in the new Columbia musical, "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder," will arrive here at 11 a.m. Saturday.

A caravan from the Sigma Nu house will meet her and escort her to Robins Store where she will meet the public. She will lunch at the Sigma Nu house. Miss Austin will attend the football game and be introduced at half-time.

She will appear on stage at the Varsity Theatre at 7:40 and 9:30 between showings of "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder."

Rinkle Shaker Cloud Mist Buttoneer
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

DROP BY THE
TOWN & CAMPUS
for many national known brands
as advertised in Esquire

Esquire says:
welcome
back
NO. CAROLINA
What'll it be in college styles,
a deerstalker hat or a jacket
with the belt in the back?
When it comes to fashion,
Esky knows the answer . . .
just as he knows what's right in good grooming and what's "write" for good school work. And Esky says look to the name brands listed at right. They're the same ones you saw advertised in Esquire as
"Back to Campus" suggestions.
Check what you have . . . see what you need. Here are your best buys of the new term.
© Esq., Inc.

APPAREL
Air-O-Magic Shoes
Alligator Rainwear
Allen Edmonds Shoes
American Gentlemen Shoes
Baracuta Rainwear
Bass "Weejuns"
Bostonian Shoes
British Walkers
California Sportwear
Catalina Sweaters
Champ Hats
City Club Shoes
Clarks of England Desert Boots
Coopers Hosiery
Coopers Sportswear
Cricketeer Jackets
Cush-N-Crepe Soles
Cutter Cravat Ties
Daks Slacks
Dobbs Hats
Drexel Socks
Dynel Processed Socks
Eagle Clothes
Edgerton Shoes
Falcon "Chill-Dodger" Jacket
Field & Stream Jackets
Florsheim Shoes
Foster Sportswear
Freeman Shoes
Hammonton Park Clothes
Harriswear Stormcoats
Harris Tweeds
House of Crosby Square Shoes
Interwoven Socks
Jantzen Sweaters
Jarman Shoes
A. D. Juilliard (Blazer Stripe Jacket by White Stag)
Kroy Processed Socks
Lackawanna Slacks
Lamb Knit Sweaters
Lee Hats
Los Angeles Sportogs "Sun Sudes"
Mansfield Shoes
Marlboro Shirts
Masterbilt Slacks
J. B. Laskin—(Mouton Lamb Coats)
Mavest Sport Jackets
Mayfair Slacks
Milium (Aircraft Jacket by Shirtcraft)
Nunn-Bush Shoes
Nyla-Q-Cord Underwear
Pacific Mills (Surretwill Suits)
Paris Garters
Phi-Bates Shoes
Pleetway Pajamas
Portis Hats
Rand Shoes
Rajafome Soles
Rainfair Raincoats
Robert Reis Underwear
Sportswear by Revere
Roblee Shoes
Rock Knit Topcoats
After Six Evening Wear
Rugby Knitting Mills
Simmons "Mr. Slim" Tie Clips
Schaefer Suits
Scully Suede Jackets
Shelby Shoes
Sport Chief Jackets
Stetson Hats
Stormster Coats
Sundial Shoes
Swank Accessories
Taylor-Made Shoes
Timely Clothes
Top-O-Mart Clothes
Van Heusen Shirts
Walk-Over Shoes
Wembley Ties
Westbrooke Clothes
Weyenberg Shoes
Wings Shirts
Winthrop Shoes
"Yorktown" Shoes by Gardiner
TOILETRIES
Vitalis Hair Tonic
Suave Hair Dressing
Gillette Razor & Dispenser
Mennen Cream Hair Oil
Seaforth Shave Lotion
LEATHER & LUGGAGE
Samsonite Luggage
Dopp Kit
Car Sac
Prince Gardner Fine Leather Accessories
JEWELRY
Keepsake Diamonds
Lamont Watches
Parker Pen
MISCELLANEOUS
Barca Lounger Chair
Eastman Kodak Cameras
S. M. Frank Pipes
Miller High Life Beer
Rogers Imports (Pipes)
Portland Woolen Mills (Blankets)
Setwell Hangers
Shop Pak Projector
Sir Walter Raleigh Tobacco
V M Phonographs

THE MERRITTS
Invite the
New and Old Students
To Come Out to The Pines for the Best in Good Food
Pleasant atmosphere and Courteous Service
—Party and Banquet Facilities for Large or Small Groups

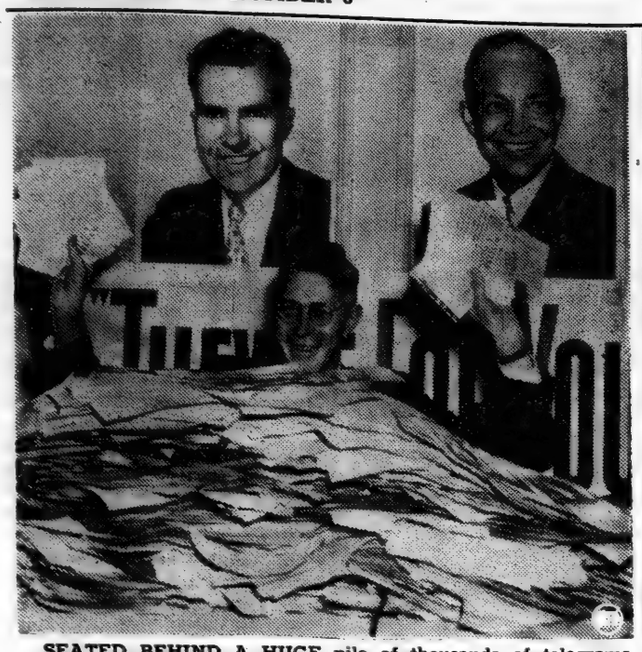
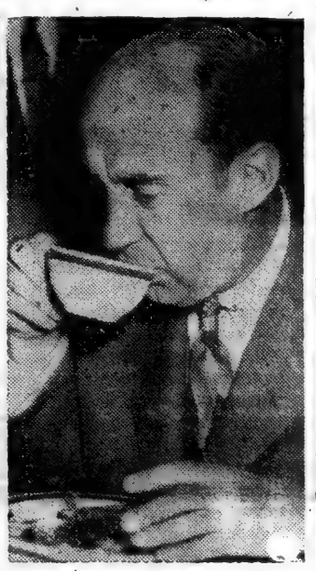
THE PINES
Raleigh Road Phone 9-5539

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49



WEATHER
Cloudy and mild today with 78 high. Yesterday's high, 75; low, 55.

The Daily Tar Heel



FIRST
Keep up with your roommate by reading Society Editor Deenie Schoeppe's first fall column on p. 4

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 3 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, Sept. 26, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

BUDGET CALLS FOR AUDITORIUM

SEATED BEHIND A HUGE pile of thousands of telegrams received by Republican National Committee in support of Senator Nixon, Wayne J. Hood, executive director of the GOP National Committee predicted in Washington that General Eisenhower would respond "to the will of the people." Governor Stevenson (below) was reported yesterday to have used a fund of "$100,000 or more" to supplement the salaries of appointed Illinois state employees. Stevenson thus far has refused to comment.—NEA Telephotos.

NEWS IN BRIEF

CHARLOTTE—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, making his second bid for Southern votes, will cross North Carolina twice today, addressing thousands of Tar Heels at Charlotte and Winston-Salem.

Final preparations for the Ike visit were rushed to completion yesterday at state Republican headquarters. Workers, who already had draped Charlotte's Trade and Tryon streets in red, white and blue bunting, put finishing touches on the speaker's platform and temporary seats in Memorial Stadium. More than 20,000 Eisenhower backers are expected to crowd the stadium this morning at 8:30 o'clock.

★

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, silent on political sunds and G.O.P. "vindication" sessions, took a look yesterday at Dixie campaign schedules and chances of patching up political troubles in the Southland. Stevenson aides told a reporter that through the middle weeks of October the Illinois governor will be jumping back and forth from his Springfield base to key spots both in the South and in the Middlewest.

★

NEW YORK—The Scripps-Howard newspapers said yesterday in a dispatch from Chicago that a former Illinois state official had told about a political fund of "$100,000 or more" obtained by Gov. Adlai Stevenson. The dispatch said this was in addition to the political fund which Stevenson says was used to supplement the salaries of appointed state employees.

★

WASHINGTON—Russia's new ambassador told President Truman yesterday the Soviet Government is "striving to maintain friendly political, economic and cultural relations" with the United States. The envoy, George N. Zarubin, presented his credentials to Truman at the White House in a three-minute face to face meeting.

Blood Needed

The refrigeration unit on the Hospital blood bank cut off Wednesday night with the resulting loss of 32 pints of blood, Joseph P. Greer, Assistant Director of the University Hospital, said yesterday.

Hospital authorities, eager to replenish their depleted stock as soon as possible, asked anyone interested in donating blood to call the blood bank at telephone 9031, extension 321, as soon as possible. All blood donated will be credited to the donor's account at University Hospital for a period of three years.

Nightshirt Fling Down Franklin

Pajama Parade On Main Street To Highlight Pep Rally Tonight

by Bob Slough

Bring your own PJ and meet at the YMCA tonight at 7:30.

There's going to be a parade (not a party) and the PJ is pajamas (not drinks). Nevertheless, Head Cheerleader Bo Thorpe still expects plenty of spirit for the kick off pep rally of the 1952 football season.

"For years our cheering section has been great," Thorpe said yesterday, "and this year it's going to be even better."

Plans call for the parade to form at the Y Court at 7:30 and then move off for a snake dance of pajama-clad students down the main street of Chapel Hill.

"Carolina is the greatest place in the world and we want to let everybody know it," Thorpe said. "Believe me, we're going to have a heck of a good time doing it."

Thorpe said there will be a card stunt demonstration for new students at the pep rally in Memorial Hall immediately following the parade. "The pep rally will be over soon enough for students to go to the Coed Ball," he said.

Other features of the rally will be a clown stunt by Tommy Temple and Johnny Holland, and music by the University Band.

"We've already had two pep rallies for freshmen orientation and they really had the spirit," Thorpe said. "When we blend this new spirit with the old, it should be a great mixture," he added.

"New students should not worry about doing the card stunts because there will be plenty of old students to help them," Thorpe said.

Assisting Thorpe this year will be Sue Carter, Linda Smith, Teensy Matthews, Barbara Sanford, Johnny Poindexter, Clyde Camp, Tommy Rogers, Harry Aycock, and Donnie Thomas.

Hey Frosh, Only Four Days Left

Freshmen have just four more days to have pictures taken for the 1953 Yackety Yack, said Managing Editor Bob Colbert, yesterday.

The last day freshmen can have pictures made is next Wednesday. From October 2 to October 8, sophomores will be photographed and from October 9 through October 15, juniors will have pictures made. The schedule calls for seniors to have pictures made from October 16 through October 22.

Men should wear coats and ties and women should wear white blouses. All pictures will be taken in the Rendezvous Room between the hours of 2 and 9 p.m.

Student Union, Social Rooms Also Included

Intramural Field And Tennis Courts Among Main Items

By Jody Levey

A new student union building and an armory-auditorium with seating capactiy for the entire student body are included in a $7,000,000 budget request for permanent improvements to be submitted Monday.

Another large item in the budget is the $198,000 to complete the dorm social room in existing buildings and to renovate men's dorms.

The budget will be presented by President Gordon Gray and Controller William D. Carmichael, Jr., at the Advisory Budget Commission meeting in Raleigh Monday, South Building officials said yesterday.

Other big items on the proposed budget are a new Institute of Government building, an addition to Peabody Hall and equipment, an intramural athletic field and tennis courts.

Bringing the total of improvements on the main campus to about $5,665,000 will be the renovation of Bingham Hall, excavation for basements of Murphy, Swain, Saunders, Peabody and Hill Halls to provide more classroom space, seats for Memorial Hall, a water tank, equipment for the new chemistry building and fire escapes on six buildings.

Improvements totaling $2,538,000 will be asked for the Division of Health Affairs including a new pharmacy building, a new public health building, an addition to clinic space in the hospital, remodeling medical library and third floor of the Medical School building, equipment for the new wing now under construction and for the cancer research laboratory.

The Executive Committee of the Consolidated University of North Carolina Board of Trustees approved a budget September 8 for the 1953-55 biennium. The State Legislature will vote on the budget when it meets in January.

IFC Warns New Men Of Silence

Some 600 Carolina freshmen and transfer students who expressed a desire to join social fraternities this week are now remaining at a conspicious distance from their prospective brothers in observance of an 18-day "strict silence" period.

An Interfraternity Council handbook, edited by Lewis Ripps, has been given to each man wishing to pledge one of the Greek organizations. The manual contains a schedule of rushing activities, IFC rules governing them and several bits of advice from various campus officials.

The new men are warned particularly against communicating in any manner other than formal salutation with fraternity men, fraternity alumnus or any agent of a fraternity. Strict silence began the first day of the quarter and will continue through Sunday, October 12.

Other important rules for the rushees are:

A new student must visit each fraternity from which he has received an invitation on the first or second night of the rushing period.

A rushee must observe the regulated hours of rushing.

Frosh Tell Board Likes And Dislikes

A new wrinkle in extracurriculars appeared in orientation of new students this week.

Individual activities cards were given to all new students by the Student Union Activities Board. All campus organizations are listed on the cards and new students checked those which interested them. SUAB is now tabulating the cards and will give the names of interested students to each organization, Chairman Ken Penegar said yesterday.

Organized last April, SUAB grew out of recommendations made at the student government clinic held at Camp New Hope.

The purpose of SUAB is twofold, said Penegar. The Coordination Council, one of 12 branches of SUAB, is composed of heads of every student organization, meeting periodically to schedule events and avoid conflicts. A calendar giving dates and hours will be published by SUAB, said Penegar.

The second function of SUAB is to get more students in direct participation in campus activities centering around the student union. The individual activities cards filled out by new students are the first step in this program.

"SUAB needs volunteer workers to carry out its program," said Penegar. A meeting for all interested will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the SUAB office in Graham Memorial.

Morehead Has Exhibit On Student Unions

A collection of photographs of student union buildings at various schools throughout the country will be on exhibit in the display room of the Morehead Planetarium until next Wednesday.

Graham Memorial is sponsor of the exhibit, which aims to show students what facilities other schools have in this line. The exhibit is in connection with efforts to obtain a new student union building here at Carolina.

Still Short, Some Rooms Available

The campus housing shortage is improving somewhat, Housing Officer James E. Wadsworth said yesterday.

He pointed out that nearly 100 rooms had been made available during the day by the evacuation of unauthorized occupants.

Conditions are not yet satisfactory, however, Wadsworth said. He has been able to do nothing to ease the crowded basement of Cobb Dormitory, and has been forced to place small groups in the basements of Alexander and Joyner.

Wadsworth added that a man will be assigned to guard the belongings of the occupants of Cobb basement during the football game Saturday.

He requested the cooperation of the students in reporting all room changes to the Housing Office.

Tarnation Has Meet, Hears Editor

Two ingredients for the success of humor magazine Tarnation are contributions and hard work, said Editor Tom Alexander at yesterday's organizational meeting in Graham Memorial.

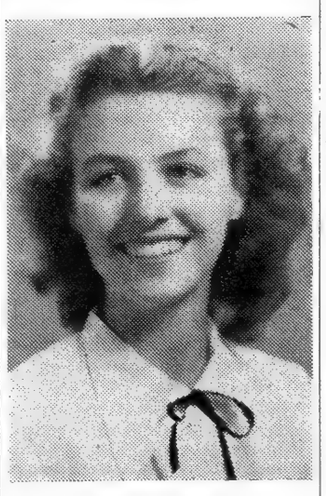
The new Tarnation came one step closer to reality when 60 students turned out in an attempt to determine the talent available.

Alexander announced a meeting for writers, both those present and others interested, at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Tarnation office, ground floor of Graham Memorial.

Publication date for the first issue is scheduled for the middle of November. The deadline for contributions is October 15.

The present staff includes Jim Lindley, business manager; Wallace Pridgen, advertising manager, Miss Mickey Rouse, exchange editor.

Texas Team Arrives Here For Big Game



Bob Phillips and John Patseavouras, representing the Monogram Club, met the University of Texas football team when it arrived at Raleigh-Durham airport yesterday at 4:35 p.m.

Marcello Harrer Is Named Women Students' Adviser

Miss Marcella C. Harrer of Chapel Hill has been appointed personnel adviser to women in the Dean of Women's Office to succeed Mrs. Emery B. Denny Jr., who resigned earlier this month.

Miss Harrer has been assistant personnel adviser since January, 1950, working with the interviewing program and advising women students and on student activities. Before joining the women's office staff, she was secretary to the vice-president of Henry Holt and Company, New York book publishers.

Daughter of the late Dr. G. A. Harrer, long-time head of the University Classics Department, and Mrs. Harrer, she graduated here in 1948. As a student she was active in Chi Delta Phi, honorary literary society; the Glee Club; the Choral Club; Town Girls Association, and was elected to The Valkyries, women's honorary organization, and Phi Beta Kappa. While on the University staff, she has taken graduate work in comparative literature and education.

SUE STOKES

Secretary Sue Stokes Back At Y

A familiar face to many UNC students is that of Miss Sue Stokes, a '49 graduate who has returned to her former position as assistant secretary of the YWCA.

Miss Stokes, just back from 15 months in Europe, replaces Miss Dickie Ennis, now with the YWCA at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge.

While in Europe Miss Stokes spent 11 months in Naples, Italy, and made trips to England, France, Switzerland Greece, Spain and Morocco. Previous to her travels she served as assistant secretary of the Y and worked with the Y-Teen organization in Chapel Hill for two years.

As a student at UNC, Sue was president of the Interdormitory Council and a member of Women's Honor Council, Valkyries and the Y Cabinet.

Grail Dance Set Tomorrow

The Order of the Grail will hold its first dance of the fall quarter tomorrow night in the Naval Armory from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Tickets for the dance, which will be informal, will be on sale in the Y Court throughout today, and at the Armory door tomorrow night. The prices are 75 cents per couple and $1 each for stags.

Music will be furnished by the Duke Ambassadors. Featured with the band will be Miss Jean Tew, who won the Miss Durham title this year, and has been heard on recordings from WPTF's "Our Best To You."

Extra Yacks Now Sought

Don't throw in the towel yet.

If you didn't get a 1952 Yackety Yack and still want one, you can get it soon.

Editor Hugh Gale yesterday said the Yack will purchase 1952 annuals for $3, two-thirds of the actual cost. As soon as the Yacks are purchased, Gale will announce when students can get them.

The purchasing was authorized by the Publications Board Wednesday night at its first meeting of the year. The board also approved of a seven column Daily Tar Heel to run on an indefinite experimental basis.

Ceylon Offers Scholarships

The University of Ceylon in Peradeniya is now offering two fellowships covering tuition, board, and double room to graduate students for the academic year beginning June 1953.

Fields of study suggested to candidates for the fellowships are Pali and Buddhism, Indian Philosophy, Economics, Geography, History of Ceylon, and Sociology.

Applications, on forms to be secured from the U. S. Student Program of the Institute of International Education, must be filed, with all supporting documents, not later than January 15, 1953.

DTH Meeting

The Daily Tar Heel will hold a staff meeting for interested students Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Roland Parker Lounges, second floor, Graham Memorial.

Managing Editor Rolfe Neill yesterday asked those interested in any phase of journalism to attend the meeting.

Saving Soldiers' Lives

UNC Helping In Korea

by Tom Parramore

The University is helping to save our soldiers' lives in Korea.

A series of experiments are being conducted by the Physics Department here to furnish data toward the development of stronger armor for our men and equipment. Dr. A. V. Masket is supervising the work in conjunction with the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington.

By means of ballistics equipment and cathode ray oscillographs, a complete dynamical history is obtained that tells the penetration story of special handmade bullets fired into different armor types. Currently being tested are plates of special treated steel and plastics as well as combinations of the two.

Measurement of speeds at intervals of one-millionth of a second are now being recorded and studied.

Dr. Masket also is working with the Atomic Energy Commission on experiments testing the effects of cosmic rays. By means of skyhook balloons, photographic emulsions are carried as high as 100,000 feet where the atmosphere is so rarified that rays strike the emulsion with undiminished energy, Dr. Masket noted.

The emulsions provide valuable information on cosmic rays which cannot be obtained in the laboratory.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dave Moose, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ellen Downs.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

We're Not Saying

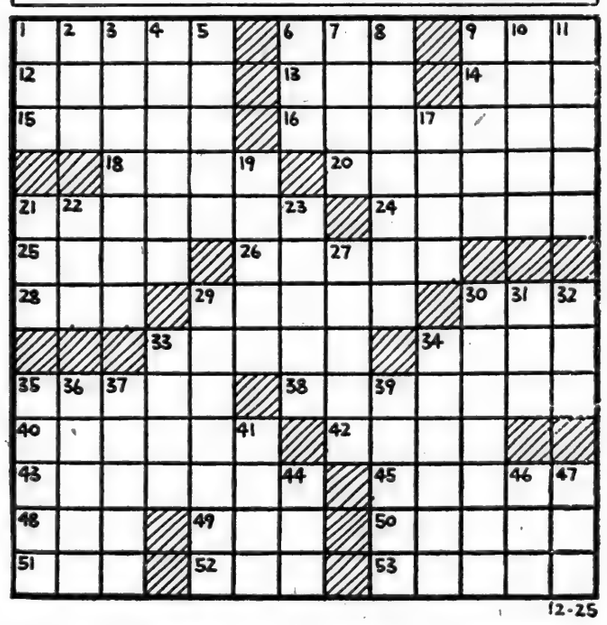
A national election is only thirty-nine days off and the editors of THE DAILY TAR HEEL have been beseiged, berated, and bewildered by scores of curious partisans who want to know if we plan to throw our editorial weight behind one of the presidential candidates; if so, which one; if not, why not?

We feel obliged to present a positive declaration of intentions which will explain our somewhat unusual behavior pattern during the coming weeks.

First of all, the editorial policy of THE DAILY TAR HEEL is vested exclusively in the Editor and whomever he may choose to consult. Here we are confronted with a paradox, because the minute this newspaper leaves the city limits of Chapel Hill (and it goes from Hong Kong to Helsinki) the editorial pundits are interpreted as representative of the entire University from the lofty dome of South Building to the lowest niche in the Lower Quad. Therefore we deem it unappropriate, imprudent, and even unethical for us to superimpose our partisan political views onto the left hand columns of this page and pawn them off as the sanctified voice of the University of North Carolina.

Actually, some of us like Ike, some like Adlai, some like both, and some like neither. Regardless of how much we might like to usurp space to further the man of our choice, we feel that the decks should be cleared to allow maximum freedom of expression for all political points of view—and not merely those of a minority in a strategic position.

Elsewhere on this page you will see an article devoted to the enhancement of one political organization on the campus. Other groups are invited and urged to make use of our columns to present their case and solicit student membership. We shall endeavor to balance the space allotted to each side to a degree approaching absolute mathematical equality.



So the floor is now open for you to make known your political sentiment via our Letters to the Editor section. THE DAILY TAR HEEL will mirror the partisan feelings of all who wish to be heard and act as a referee rather than as a high-handed thought leader.

Glad To See You Back

Thrusday afternoon found the Roland Parker lounges in Graham Memorial brimming with new volunteers in rip the shrowds off Tarnation, defunct campus humor magazine, and get back into business again. THE DAILY TAE HEEL commends President Ham Horton and Editor Tom Alexander for nourishing the Tarnation revival from the planning to the galley proof stage within the span of a summer vacation.

We now extend moral support to our long dormant sister publication plus best wishes for a happy reincarnation.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

12-25

HORIZONTAL
1. idolize
6. of that thing
9. beer
12. part of coat
13. shelter
14. pikelike fish
15. white poplar
16. having threadlike marks
18. torture
20. of milk
21. rattle
24. river in England
25. abhor
26. giant armadillo
28. expression of assent
29. doer
30. exclamation of simulated shock
33. pale
34. range
35. divest
38. of the side
40. dull gray
42. wide awake
43. meantime
45. animal of Madagascar
48. speck
49. watering place
50. muse of lyric poetry
51. Assam silkworm
52. auditory organ
53. remake

VERTICAL
1. wing
2. flatfish
3. work
4. pertain
5. choose
6. bad
7. lime tree
8. legislator
9. size of type
10. ancient language
11. found
17. unbleached
19. fore-and-aft rigged vessel
21. rolled tea of Central Asia
22. ballad
23. musteline animal
27. pertaining to tone
29. slander
30. overseer
31. herb eve
32. greedy fish
33. officer in attendance on President
34. adore
35. glide
36. course
37. weight unit of India
39. doorkeeper
41. drink from juice of E. Indian palm
44. spoil
46. Shoshone
47. line

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

12-25

Average time of solution: 26 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber Personally Olympic Diary

EVENING AT THE THEATER

LONDON, June 26—I went to a little theater last night down in the twisted alleys of twilight London.

It was a most unusual theater, with propaganda banners instead of advertising displays decorating the entrance. And the patrons of this little theater came for neither culture, relaxation, nor entertainment. They came only to join their screaming comrades in a blazing orgy of hatred against Wall Street, the American Army, and the people of the United States.

Suppertime found me down in a Soho cellar cafe breaking in a new ulcer with a tortured flounder and some cremated French fries when British journalist John Clews (the same chap who accompanied me through Yugoslavia last fall) ambled over with one of his quaint suggestions for a pleasant evening.

"How would you like to take a ringside seat at a Communist 'Hate America' rally?" asked Clews. I admitted I would like to very much.

"Come along, then," he said, glancing at his watch. "I'll take you right into the crater of the volcano."

A half hour's ride on the tram and the tube (streetcar and subway) put us in front of a dingy little auditorium on Goldington Street. A crimson banner proclaimed we were entering the Unity Theater, an amateur playhouse whose productions picture America as a land of warmongering, baby-killing, blood hucksters and play up the Soviet Union as a dedicated defender of peace and a radiator of eternal bliss.

A placard informed us that the purpose of the Unity Theater is "to foster the art of the drama in accordance with the principle that true art, by effectively presenting and truthfully interpreting life as experienced by the majority of the people, can move the people to work for the betterment of society."

Strangely enough, these "truthful interpreters of life" were determined that nobody should view their "effective presentation of art" except card-carrying members of the Communist Party or affiliated organizations, which meant that I had to wait quietly outside while Clews (himself an avowed anti-Communist) tiptoed backstage to execute his peculiar brand of gate-crashing magic.

Clews has had an uncanny knack for being where he doesn't belong. He has travelled more extensively throughout the Communist world than any other non-Marxist alive and he knows more international secrets than a Hungarian headwaiter. It was Clews who warned Bill Oatis to take the first train out of Prague months before the American correspondent was seized by the Czech police. It was Clews who gave His Majesty's government first-hand information on the Chinese military build-ups near the Manchurian border and again it was Clews who predicted the purge of Romanian boss Ana Pauker three weeks before the message came from Moscow.

He seems utterly immune to the cold war red tape and travel restrictions that plague the inquiring journalist in countries behind the Iron Curtain. Last summer he was sipping saki in a Peiping, China dope din after having been shown through the Kremlin by Moscow officialdom. Hotel stickers from Warsaw, Prague, and Budapest were still fresh on his suitcase as he waxed his skis at a Rumanian mountain resort last fall before going on to Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. Clews crosses the bayonet border of Germany and Czechoslovakia with anti-Communist documents easier than most of us can get across Orange County line with a fifth of Seagrams. so it came as no great surprise to me when he emerged a few minutes later with a pair of tickets in the front balcony.

Inside we could hear a tired organ wheezing the strains of the Communist "International." A newsboy was selling copies of the London Daily Worker. An attractive brunette was busy thrusting Communist leaflets into eager hands. We gave her two shillings for popcorn and a program and then marched "into the crater of the volcano."

(To Be Continued)

Greetings

Drew Pearson The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington.—General Eisenhower is scheduled to speak in Baltimore tonight in clarification of the reasons why he embraced some of the isolationists of the Republican Party and tolerated such extremists as Senator Jenner of Indiana and Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin.

The inside story of the General's relations with this wing dates back to his first arrival in the U. S. shortly before the Chicago convention. At that time his personal prejudices were vigorously opposed to the GOP isolationists and extremists.

But his counselors, reminding him that he was a novice at politics, urged that he antagonize no one, but concentrate only on the goal of winning the nomination. After he was nominated, they said, there would be time to do his political weeding.

That was why the General, in his maiden address at Abilene, trod so delicately, embraced even the MacArthur wing of the party.

But in Denver last Summer, Ike had another showdown with the extremists—this time over McCarthyism.

His old friend Paul Hoffman had been asked to testify against McCarthy and in defense of General George Marshall in the Benton-McCarthy libel suit. Hoffman asked Eisenhower if the testimony would be embarrassing. Ike replied that it would not.

He also indicated that he might testify against McCarthy himself.

This leaked back to Authur Summerfield, Republican National Chairman, who immediately went into a huddle with the General.

Summerfield pointed out that if Eisenhower opposed McCarthy he would also have to oppose Senator Jenner. And if he opposed Jenner he would also have to oppose Senator Cain of Washington, who has consistently sided with McCarthy.

Summerfield argued at length and convincingly. In the end Eisenhower concurred.

When Ike got to Indianapolis, home of Senator Jenner, he experienced one of the most awkward moments of his life.

Jenner had made a speech on the Senate floor Sept. 15, 1950, calling George Marshall a "front man for traitors" and a "living lie."

"Either he is an unsuspecting stooge or an actual conspirator with the most treasonable array of political cutthroats ever turned loose in the executive branch of the government," said the Senator from Indiana.

Eisenhower no doubt remembered, as he arrived in Indianapolis, how this same George Marshall had taken him to a map of North Africa early in World War II, without telling him anything about the proposed North African invasion.

"What do you think of it?" Marshall asked.

"It looks O.K. to me," replied the younger man.

"You'd better think so," shot back Marshall, "You're going to be in command."

Marshall, then chief of staff, had promoted Ike up from lieutenant colonel to lieutenant general in the space of about a year, sent him to North Africa, then on to England to command the greatest invasion army in history. And during the tug-of-war between Eisenhower and MacArthur as to whether Europe or the Pacific should get more material, Marshall always threw his weight to Eisenhower.

So Ike, now running for president, was ushered into the same room with the Senator from Indiana who had called his friend and benefactor a "front for traitors" and a "living lie."

Marshall had been unable to defend himself when Jenner attacked him, for speeches in the senate are beyond the reach of the courts or a libel suit. So Marshall's friends had hoped that General Eisenhower when he returned would utter some word in his defense.

However, he didn't. Perhaps he couldn't. Perhaps in the new role of politician he was too anxious to please his mentors, the men who coached him what to do and whom to greet.

The "gentleman from Indiana" made the most of the General's embarrassment, holding up Ike's hand while the cameras clicked, getting in front of the photographers at every opportunity. Ike moved over to another part of the platform, but Jenner followed him. Finally the General sat down.

Speaking later, he endorsed "all" the ticket in Indiana.

Ike has another isolationist problem in Michigan, where Congressman Charles Potter, now running for the Senate, is just the opposite of the late Senator Vandenberg, whose seat Potter is trying to win. Congressman Potter voted against Eisenhower's Mutual Security funds at the very time Ike was in Europe trying to build up the defense against Communism . . . Governor Schricker of Indiana, now running for the Senate, is cutting the head of his ticket, Stevenson. He's leaving Adlai's name off the billboards . . . Eisenhower forces were all ready to oust Congressman Carroll Reece as the Republican leader of Tennessee. But after the Taft breakfast, they got a phone call to continue Congressman Reece in command . . . Eisenhower has a new ghost writer, Brigadier General Robert Cutler. This makes five different teams of ghostwriters for Ike, one headed by C. D. Jackson of Fortune Magazine, another by Stanley High, who once wrote for Franklin Roosevelt, another by Gabriel Hauge, another by Arthur Vandenberg, Jr.

Young Democrats

(The following is written by a member of the campus Young Democratic Club. The Daily Tar Heel welcomes columns of a similar nature from campus organizations of any political complexion.—ED.)

The Young Democratic Clubs of America welcome into membership all present and prospective members of the Democratic Party. The only requirement is an allegiance to the essential principles of the national Democratic Party.

Like its senior counterpart, the YDC has an extensive heirarckical organization, extending in full form from the precinct, up through the county, congressional district, and state levels to the national organization. While the YDC elects its own officers. and sets its own policies, free from dictation by the senior party, we maintain a close working relationship with the Democratic organization at all levels, bottom to top.

Essentially, the object of the YDC is to bind together into an effective working organization the younger Democratic voters and not-quite-yet voters. Within the clubs, people of like political views can get to know each other, and to join their energies and enthusiasms in working for the betterment of government, state, federal, or local. YDC serves as a training ground for all of those interested in political activity, whether as active participants in the great game of politics, or simply as voters who want to know what goes on, and to have some part in it.

Politics we look upon as the art (or business, if you will) of government, and we know that neither government nor politics will be any better than those participating. We accept the party system of American politics as both an existent fact and as the most effective means available for the maintenance of the strength and integrity of our democratic form of government. A voter can have influence on the selection of candidates for most political offices, and sustained influence on the course of political affairs, only through affiliation with and active participation in one of the major parties. The independent can usually do no more than vote on the candidates presented for his consideration by the established parties, and thus such influence as he has is a single-shot affair, incapable of demanding of the candidate voted for that he carry out his promise, once in office.

We call ourselves Young Democrats because we have great respect for the accomplishments of the Democrtaic Party over its century and a half of striving for the well-being of all the American people, and because we have faith that it bears high promise of the further achievement of those goals which most of the American voters have ajudged desirable.

While the YDC takes no official part on one side or the other in party primary contests, it does seek impartially to get the candidates and their views as widely known to the public as possible. One of its particular concerns is to get the new first-voters registered—Democratic if possible, but registered anyway. There is of course, no restriction on the activities of members of YDC as individuals in support of any candidate or faction within the Party.

Once the slate is chosen, the real work of the Young Democrats begins. As believers in the necessity of political parties, the YDC as an organization supports the Party ticket, once chosen. By its constitutions-nationai, state, and local-the YDC is committed to the backing of the ticket of the regular Democratic Party. We believe this is essential to the maintenance of party responsibility and accountability in government. It is not a slavish adherence to the ticket and the party, come what may. The exit is always open to those who basically disagree with the Democratic Party or its candidates on fundamental issues. But we believe that only through a strong, active. alert. and forward-looking participation in the activities of the Democratic Party, can it be made and maintained as the instrument through which the people of the state and the nation can obtain the kind of self-government they deserve.

The YDC here at Carolina will be resuming operations on Monday night. We invite all of you who wish to share in its opportunities, and in the work which will go along with them, to join with us.

Express Yourself

Editor:

The board of directors and the executive staff are extremely grateful of the generous contribution made to the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults from funds made available through the spring campaign of the Campus Chest. These funds will go a long way in meeting some of the urgent needs of the many handicapped children of North Carolina.

To Mr. Allen Tate, Jr., chairman of the Campus Chest, his co-workers, and the entire student body of the University of North Carolina, we extend our sincere appreciation.

D. Hiden Ramsey, President

Rolfe Neill The Livespike

Chapel Hill aborigines and their descendants make a cult of referring to and trying to preserve this place as the quaint village where the state teaches the arts and humanities and trains zealous young men in the healing sciences. No tree is axed, no house torn down that the fervent band doesn't start bewailing the passing of "the village."

Louis Graves, venerable editor of the Chapel Hill Weekly, has been here most of the time since his barefoot days so it is natural that he should act as spokesman for this long-live-the-village congregation. In any week's issue usually there can be found some item referring to the diminishing village. So it was with surprise that we noted recently that Mr. Graves seemingly endorsed abolishing one of the customs that is the mark of any village—community spreading of lunches under the old oak, aspen, sweet gum etc., trees.

The Merchants Association here this fall is asking football visitors not to bring their lunches, but to eat at any of Chapel Hill's restaurants. Now this is an understandable point of view from the merchant, not, however, from Mr. Graves.

In the news item he carried on it, the Weekly editor said in part: "For some years it has been the tendency of Chapel Hill's football crowds to arrive as late as possible, unpack and eat lunches on the streets and parking lots, and leave town as soon as possible after the game . . ." The remainder of the article is in a vein that does not endorse this practice.

It is odd that Mr. Graves should preside in condemning "lunch on the University grounds"—surely an event looked forward to by every visiting family and certainly one of the folksiest customs we have.

At the 24th International Congress Against Alcoholism held recently in France, delegates left behind them this wake of facts:

The French spend 10 percent of their average budget on drink.

France has the world's largest percentage of alcoholics—22 per-1,000 inhabitants, while the U. S. has 10 and England but three.

A Southern farmer was introducing his family boys to the president.

"Seventeen boys," he said, "All are Democrats, but John, the little rascal, he got to reading."

Carolina Eleven Stresses Passing In Last Practice

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Quarterbacking

Coach Carl Snavely's switch from the single wing to the split-T formation for the 1952 season has caused talk and speculation from Wilmington to Asheville ever since he made the announcement last year and capable George Barclay made his way back to his old alma mater to add his personal touch toward making the switch complete.

Certainly, after two disappointing seasons most Tar Heel fans felt that the switch would guarantee a few more wins in the Carolina victory pot. Most of the boys on the team had played the T while in high school and the coaches figured it wouldn't be too great a change for them.

But now as the time grows near to try a little Texas rodeoing the question as to who will be the man to lead the Longhorn roping is as clouded as it was last spring. Who's going to be our quarterback?

It looked for awhile that Charlie Motta was going to answer that question for us. When the team came back early to straighten out the running of the T it seemed the little junior from Teaneck, N. J. would qualify for the job. He handled the ball well, was smooth on his pitchouts and had improved his passing over the work he had shown in last spring's drills.

It'll Happen Every Time

But then came what all coaches dread but know must come—a scrimmage injury to a player they are counting on. Motta injured his right ankle a week ago last Wednesday and although the hurt isn't enough to keep him out for the whole season, it doesn't look as though he'll get to see much, if any, action tomorrow.

Thus the riddle of quarterback, quarterback, who's got our quarterback has been reopened. Practice has done little to distinguish between the candidates.

Carmen Annillo seems to be the man right now. Annillo is probably the best passer of the candidates, including Motta. He is smooth on his handoffs and as good as they come when it comes to selection of plays. His weakness seems to be on his pitchouts.

Lou Britt, another New Jersey product, has shown equal promise. His pitch outs, which sometimes can make or break the T formation, are probably handled a little better than Annillo's. He will certainly see action tomorrow.

The third Parillian protege is a freshman, Marshall Newman. He shows plenty of promise and handles the ball well, but lacks the experience that will be necessary to guide the Tar Heels against Texas.

Not Judgment Day Yet

But you can't pass judgment on any of them until we see them in actual game. One of the three may take over for good—or we might have to wait for Motta to try again. Time and Texas will tell.

What was expected to be a weak link in the Carolina forward chain has certainly soldered together well.

We lost five tackles from last year's squad—and that position had been one of the strongest of the team. That left us only two lettermen at the position—Tom Higgins and Ken Yarborough—certainly not an appealing picture.

But now it seems that Coach Snavely, who has usually been blessed with numerous good tackles, can quit his worrying about that position. Yarborough and Higgins have both improved and, like the rest of the team, are more eager than ever to play.

In addition gigantic Francis Fredere, a 228 pounder, has come through and seems to be ready to start at offensive left tackle. Then, too, Snavely has Thad Eure, Tom James, and Roland Perdue to back them up.

Texas tried numerous off and over-tackle plays against LSU and there's no reason it shouldn't try the same against us tomorrow. Barring early-game injuries, the Longhorn backs ought to be corralled pretty well when they get on the wrong range tomorrow.

Art Weiner Helps Prep For Texas

by Tom Peacock

The addition of former Carolina All-American end, Art Weiner, to the Tar Heel football coaching staff has taken a load of problems off head coach Carl Snavely's mind.

Weiner was scheduled to report to the Dallas Texas professional team, but a knee injury has kept him sidelined this season.

Coach Snavely devoted most of yesterday's practice, the last before Carolina opens here except for a very light workout today, to passing and pass defense. Weiner has proved invaluable in whipping the ends into shape for the game with the Southwest's best team, rugged Texas.

Unless there is a last minute change, Carmen Annillo will start against the Longhorns at the quarterback slot in Carolina's split-T. Annillo has been given the edge over Louis Britt and freshman Marshall Newman, the other candidates since Charlie Motta's ankle injury.

Jeff Newton was the only Tar Heel not suited up for yesterday's practice, and he will be back in the lineup today. Newton was ill from food poisoning.

End Benny Walser looked especially good in the passing drill. Walser faked the defense well, and often went way up in the air for circus catches. Even though Walser wasn't named on the tentative starting list, he may still win a berth by gametime.

Snavely's main problem now is to stop the powerful Texas offense that shamed LSU last week. The Longhorns arrived here yesterday evening, and will go through a light workout at 2 o'clock on Navy Field today. The Tar Heels will work out after Texas.

Sexias Defeated By 18-Year-Old

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 25—The No. 1 tennis player in the nation, North Carolina's Vic Sexias, lost to an 18-year-old University of California student here yesterday, 6-1, 6-4, in a stunning upset.

The upset followed Sexias' defeat of the Wimbledon champion, Frank Sedgeman, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in the Pacific Southwest championship. Cliff Mayne, a member of the National Intercollegiate doubles championship team, handed Sexias the stinging defeat in the fourth round of the Pacific Coast championship.

Mayne is one of the smallest and lightest contestants in tournament tennis.

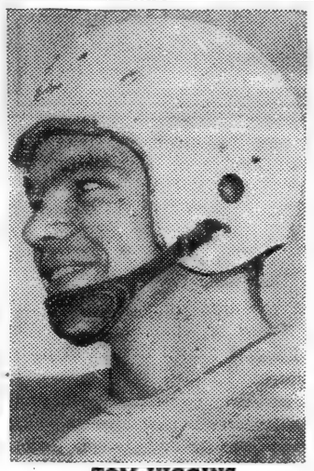
MURAL OFFICIALS

Bill Kucyk at the Intramural office is still in dire need of tag football officials. He asks that all boys interested contact him at his office, 315 Woollen Gym.

UNC Harriers Drill Today

Coach Dale Ransom has issued a call for all cross-country candidates, both varsity and freshman, to report for workouts this afternoon at Fetzer Field.

Some varsity aspirants, including ten lettermen from last year's squad, have been practicing and taking light workouts since earlier this month.



Morris Osborne and Bobby Webb, co-captains, will lead the UNC harriers through a rugged eight meet schedule which includes four dual meets with Southern Conference foes, two non-conference contests, the Big-5 Championships, and the Conference meet in early November.

State College will provide the opposition for the Tar Heels in the opening meet at Raleigh Oct. 7. Carolina then returns home for three straight matches meeting Davidson, Duke and Maryland in that order. Tennessee will play host to the Heels Nov. 1. A week later the Cavaliers of Virginia invade the local woods for UNC's final dual meet.

After only a day's rest, Carolina will compete at Raleigh for the Big 5 title. November 17 will see the Tar Heels at Richmond in competition for the SC Championship.

KEN YARBOROUGH
Our Solutions to . . .

TOM HIGHGINS
. . . the Tackle Problem

Blue Devils In Dallas To Play SMU Tonight

The Duke football team, rated in pre-season predictions as the top team of the Big Four, goes into action again tonight against SMU, a traditionally strong team in the always-tough Southwestern Conference. Duke defeated Washington & Lee last Saturday 34-0.

Wake Forest, also with one game under its belt, will open its Southern Conference play tomorrow in a game with William and Mary. The Deacons suffered a heart-breaking defeat at the hands of Baylor last week when a last minute field goal beat them 17-14.

They will be facing a formidable foe in the Indians who defeated VMI last week 34-13. William and Mary has a standout quarterback, Ed Mioduszewski, who is in contention for All-America honors, and they are capable of handing the Deacons their second straight setback.

Tomorrow night the North Carolina State Wolfpack, led by Alex Webster, last year's conference leader in scoring, will open its season against George Washington. The feature of the game will be a personal duel between Webster and Bino Barreira, an outstanding back for the Colonials last season.

Both will be running from the split T for the first time and the results should be interesting. Webster gained 1,256 yards last year from the tailback position in the single wing.

The Blue Devils should be hard pressed to live up to their pre-season notices at SMU. They looked good in routing W & L last week but the opposition was not too strong.

Worth Lutz started the game at quarterback in place of the ailing Jerry Barger and was the outstanding offensive performer of the afternoon. He completed four passes in four attempts and looked good on his runs.

Wake Forest has several outstanding performers returning this season, among them being captain Jack Lewis at end. Also back is Joe Koch who is the most versatile player on the squad. He plays quarterback, fullback and halfback on offense and also is an excellent linebacker on defense.

Large Crowd Anticipated For Longhorn Encounter

A crowd of 35,000 or 40,000 is anticipatd for the Texas tilt tomorrow at Kenan Stadium. Vernon Crook, head of the University's ticket bureau, reports that advanced sales have already approached 35,000. Sales at the gate will depend largely upon the weather.

Advanced sales for the Duke game have been surprisingly good. Both sides of the stadium have been sold out, with the only remaining seats being in the west end.

Sales for the three other home encounters with N. C. State, Wake Forest, and Virginia are lagging somewhat behind last year's preseason purchases, but have been picking up recently.

Sales for the homecoming game with the Cavaliers and the Deacon clash are about the same, with the State game slightly behind. Larger crowds are expected for the Wolfpack and Wake Forests games than for homecoming, however, due to the larger attendance of students from these schools.

Gate five, located at the southwest corner of Kenan Stadium, will once again serve as the student gate. Students who have bought tickets for dates will be allowed to take their dates through the student gate, and the dates will be assigned seats in the student section.

JV Gridders Meet Bragg Away Today

The actual season opener for Carolina football will be this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Fort Bragg when the Jayvees take on the powerful army team.

Quarterbacking the junior Tar Heels will be Ed Loughlin, freshman from Henderson. Loughlin has showed promise in practice, and the game will tell much about his ability.

Jayvee coach Walt Pupa will take 40 men to Fort Bragg with him, and it is a toss up as to whether the Tar Heels will continue last years excellent record.

Leading the Jayvees in the backfield wlil be Maurice Young, senior back from Bellefonte, Pa. Young saw a good deal of action with the varsity last year, and should make a good showing against Bragg. Harry Anderson, sophmore end from Asheboro is also expected to do well today.

In 18 previous appearances against its first three 1952 football opponents Texas has a won lost-tied record of 9-8-1. The marks are 6-5-1 with LSU, 2-1-0 with Carolina and 1-2-0 with Notre Dame.

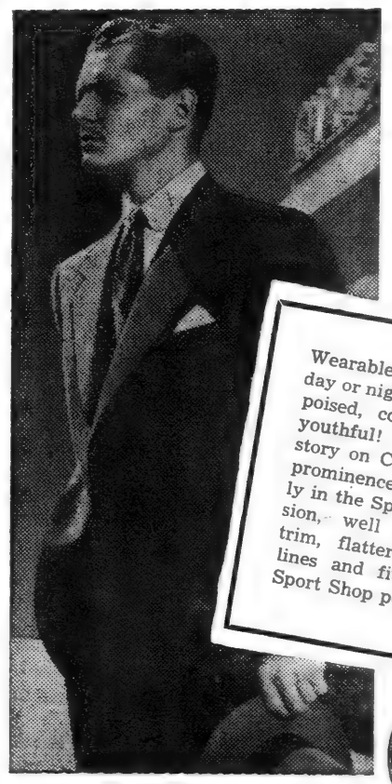
Yanks In!

The New York Yankees clinched at least a tie for the American League pennant yesterday by dropping the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, at Fenway Park.

The Yanks scored one run in the top of the ninth to sweep the three games series from the Bosox. They need to win only one more game or have Cleveland, which was idle yesterday, lose one to win their fourth straight pennant.

Raleigh Memorial Auditorium
THURSDAY EVENING OCT. 2
Tickets On Sale At THIEM RECORD SHOP
$3.75 - $3.25 - $3.08 - $2.50 - $2.00
$1.75 - $1.50

GET A Kodak Camera FOR THE NEW School Year



Don't miss getting a picture record of schoolmates and school activities. We have KODAK and BROWNIE cameras from $2.85.

Stop in and ask to see the Kodak Duaflex II Camera, Kodet Lens, which sells for $14.50. Prices include Fed. Tax.

FOISTER'S
Camera Store, Inc.

This Season's Color Sensation!

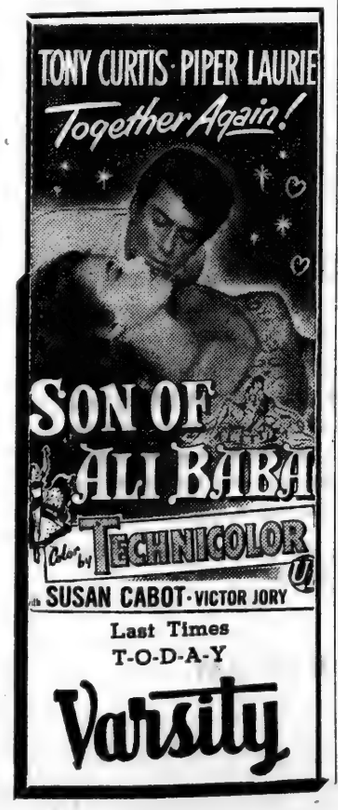
Charcoal Grey
FLANNEL SUITS

Wearable most anywhere day or night, informal yet poised, conservative yet youthful! That is the story on Charcoal Gray's prominence . . . especially in the Sport Shop version, well tailored on trim, flattering, natural lines and fitted to The Sport Shop perfection.

BILLS MAILED HOME

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

NOTICE!



TODAY

MR. YEARBY, representative for THE STORR SCHAEFER TAILORING COMPANY, Cincinnati, will be in our store showing a fall selection of over 400 patterns of SUITS and SPORT JACKETS.

You are cordially invited to drop in and see his selection of fine tailored clothes.

TOWN & CAMPUS
"Where CAROLINA Men Meet"

COAL
and
OIL
for prompt delivery
call
BENNETT & BLOCKSIDGE
105 E. FRANKLIN ST.
PHONE 6161

B.S.U. Members Party Tomorrow

The boys who wear the Blue and White Saturday afternoon in Kenan Stadium may not know it but their showing in the Texas tilt will have an important bearing on the Carolina Baptist Student Union. If the Tar Heels win, B. S. U. members, guests, and visitors will hold a victory party. If the Texans triumph, the affair will be one of consolation.

Win, lose, or draw, the social event will be held at 7 o'clock in the Baptist Church.

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

New faces, new sorority houses, new Tar Heel—and we've got lots that's new in this department too. Good to be back and get the word on all you people.

First of all, many congratulations and best wishes to Rolfe and Rosemary Neill who were married this July. Mrs. Neill is the former Rosemary Boney, a WC graduate from Clinton, N. C. and Rolfe, Tar Heel managing editor, is a Phi Delt from Columbus, Ga.

And many more join the ranks. From the Sigma Nu house, Bill Isler of Miami married KD Donna Hauck of Aberdeen, S. D. Chi O Joan Palmer, McKeesport, Pa. and Sigma Nu Al Donald of Ridgwood, N. J. will be married Oct. 18.

From the ATO's over at the Snake Farm (well that's what the sign on the front of the house says) we have a new idea—a hangover room. It's said to be painted with stripes and hideous colors for people with hideous heads.

TEP's are wasting no time getting started on the parties. They had a get-acquainted beer party last nite for the Lambda Chi's, Theta Chi's, ATO's and AKPsi's. They're also planning a big 'un after the Texas game.

Wearing the SAE pin of Cart Carmichael, Durham, is Doris Morris, also of Durham. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Haywood. She's the former Betty Bowles, Chi O. Both are from Statesville.

A wedding on schedule for this week is that of Beta Bill Rand, Carlisle Pa. who'll marry Betty Allison, Statesville. Seems like the Beta's have certainly had their share of these weddings. Few more were Bill McLinden, Greensboro, who married Ann Whittington, Charlotte, and Bill McKay who married Clara Howell. Both are from Fayetteville.

Nother SAE got married—Scotty Cramer, Charlotte, and Nancy Arnott, New Haven, Conn.

Chi Omega's are mighty proud of that new house of theirs—and have a right to be. It's at 307 Franklin.

The Tri Delts will be changing their location about December. They'll move to West Cameron. There's much news in that house too. Tri Delt Sally Trowbridge, Ft. Lauderdale will marry Phi Delt George Blackwelder, Hickory, in December. Pat George, Chapel Hill, is now Mrs. John Dortch. John's a Kappa Sig from Camaguay, Cuba. Also Carol Cantrell, Etouah, Tenn. married Jim Camp of Danville, Va. He's backfield coach of the UNC football team.

And flash from the Philosophical Society of 1779 (alias the "Ugly Club"). It will have its first meeting of the year Sunday, 1 o'clock at Hogan's Lake.

Another partying crew. The Chi Phi's will have a small pahty at the Saddle Club in Durham this aft. Tomorrow their alums are invited to a party at the house after the game.

Saint A's will have all grads over after the game for a party and the Kappa Psi's are entertaining with an open house after the game.

Kappa Psi Ralph Ashworth, Fuquay Springs, pinned Daphne Adams, WC, also of Fuquay Springs.

Deke Lee Wiley (you'll meet him, new coeds) will entertain the brothers and their dates at a cocktail party and dinner after the game tomorrow.

And here is news. A Deke got pinned. Jean Summers, a St. Mary's girl from Raleigh is wearing the pin of Tommy Stokes, also Raleigh.

ADPI's entertained the Chi Psi's with an informal get-together at the ADPI house.

Jenny Polk, Tri Delt of Atlanta is now Mrs. Dave Finch. Dave is a Phi Delt here and is from Zebulon.

Another after-the game party is scheduled by the Phi Delts. They're expecting quite a few alumni to be there.

Sigma Nu's Stan Smith and Al Poppleton had the distinction of being the only boys to attend the YWCA tea Tuesday. In fact, they wrote name cards for all the new coeds!

Phi Gam Kenton Crueser is engaged to Duke coed Jackie Brownlee of Atlanta.

More yet. Phi Kappa Sig Mike Hogan married Helen Malloy this summer. They're both from Philadelphia.

Lambda Chi alums will be entertained with a homecoming party after the game tomorrow.

Chi Phi Norman Hullryde of Gastonia married Ann Bergh of Limestone this summer and Frank Kinard, Newberry, married Mary Mac Neese, Durham.

Well, this Sigma Chi list beats all. Bob Henning married Joan Davis and Arlin Harris married Lois Clark. These are only the Winston-Salem ones. Last year's UNC quarterback Skeet Hesmer married Mabel Taylor of Kinston, N. C.; and Rod McKnight married Betty Jean Lorance, Charlotte. Engaged are Buddy Pope, Mt. Olive and Connis Edwards, Snow Hill; Kemp Clendenin, Greensboro and Addie Belle Clemmons, also of Greensboro; and Junior Seawell, Ashboro and Patty Krutz.

The Sigma Chi's will have a pre-game party tomorrow a.m. at the Carolina Club.

Vice president of Theta Chi Neil Glenn is now married to Virginia Jones, Mt. Olive.

Phi Delta Chi's will have a farewell party this weekend for alum Bill Randall.

Zeta Beta Tau's will also party after the game and have a buffet supper. More news from that direction is the engagement of Joan Bierman, Miami, to ZBT Barry Colt of Maplewood, N. J., and new pinups Ted Frankel, Atlanta and Sedelle Simons of WC. Also pinned are Jim Buyer, East Orange, N. J., and Audrey Reheis, Newark, N. J. She's a student nurse.

Zeta Psi Jimmy Barnes is pinned to a St. Mary's girl, Katherine Whitford, New Bern.

Wearing diamonds at the Pi Phi house are Joyce Dickman, Arlington, Va. who's engaged to Jack Keller, ATO from Princess Anne, Md., Helen Gustafson who became engaged last week to Warren McChesney (both of St. Petersburg, Fla.) and Alice Hazlett, Chapel Hill, engaged to Jonas Kessing Chi Psi, also from The Hill.

Dean Of Law Is Speaker At Reception

Dean Henry P. Brandis of the University of North Carolina Law School was the principal speaker at the law association reception held last night in the law school courtroom.

The reception was held as a part of the law school's orientation program. All law students, their wives and guests were invited to attend.

Dean Brandis introduced the faculty and staff members.

Other speakers were Hershell Keener of Lenoir who discussed the Law Review, Bernard Crowell of Hendersonville who spoke on the legal fraternities, and Mrs. James R. Trotter of Chapel Hill who discussed the Law Wives Association.

Miss Alice Forsythe of Greensboro was in charge of arrangements for the reception.

Mossadegh Gives Britain Ultimatum

LONDON—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran has given Great Britain a 10-day ultimatum to accept his terms for settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, the Foreign Office said yesterday. Mossadegh did not say what action he would take if Britain did not comply.

Glee Club Tryouts To Be Next Week

Tryouts for the men and women's glee clubs will be held on Monday and Tuesday respectively at 5 o'clock.

There will be two meetings each week for both groups. The men will meet on Monday and Wednesday and the women will meet on Tuesday and Thursday.

This year's officers are Eddie Hickman of Enfield and Pat Adylette of Elizabeth City, the men's and women's presidents respectively. Sally Sente from Chapel Hill is the executive secretary for the combined clubs.

Many plans have been laid for the coming year. Some of the plans are the University Day Concert, a Christmas Concert, and a possible concert at State College. Also the Glee Clubs plan an extensive tour of eastern North Carolina during the winter quarter.

Also
Cartoon—Latest News
TODAY
Carolina

Genuine England Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 — CHAPEL HILL

Typewriters
Adding Machines
SALES—SERVICE
RENTALS
New and Used
Your Underwood Agent
ROWE TYPEWRITER COMPANY
103½ W. Parris St.
Ph. 5-3901 DURHAM, N. C.

WELCOME BACK
STUDENTS & FACULTY
It Is Always a Pleasure to Serve You
TYLER'S ESSO SERVICENTER
West Franklin Street and Church
Phone 8221
LET'S GO WITH ESSO

CLASSIFIEDS

RIDES WANTED 1B

WANTED DAILY RIDE TO DURHAM Mon.-Friday. Working hours 8:30-5. Mrs. A. Dwight Price. 140 Kings Street Victory Village. Ch. 1x1

WANTED TO BUY 24A

BRIGGS' LAW OF NATIONS POLITical Science 141 text Call 9-6781 after 6 P. M. N. C. Staff

HELP WANTED 8

TUTORS IN ALL SUBJECTS: SEND postcard to Roy McKnight, Woollen Gym. Give name, phone number, local mailing address, and best qualified subjects. Charge 1x1

BOY WANTED TO WORK IN SUBscription Department. Weekly Salary. See Carolyn Reichard —210 Graham Memorial or call Daily Tar Heel office 23371. N. C. —Staff

PROOFREADER FOR DAILY TAR Heel. Four hours per night, six nights per week. Contact Colonial Press in Carrboro.

FOR SALE 6B

ENCYCLOPEDIA AMERICANA: 1904 edition, 16 vols., ¾ leather binding, in fine shape—$25.00—The Intimate Bookshop, 205 E. Franklin St. Charge 1x1

SEND THE DAILY TAR HEEL HOME and let your parents know what is happening on campus. $4.00 per year—$1.50 per quarter—Carolyn Reichard, Subscription Mgr. —210 Graham Memorial N. C.—D. T. H.

HELP WANTED: FEMALE 8A

URGENTLY NEEDED: EXPERIENCED office girl as assistant and receptionist in professional office. Good pay. Interview arranged. State qualifications and experience. Write P. O. Box 1291 Chapel Hill. Charge 1x1

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

If you have had newspaper and ad make-up or linotype operation experience, and you want part time work, apply Colonial Press, Inc. Plant located in Carrboro. Phone 3336 for appointment or come in person for interview.

Frank R. Thomas, Supt.

While You Were Away

During the Summer your old pals at the Intimate Bookshop have continued their search for good reading at moderate prices. Here are a few we've nicked off for your temptation:

Incredible Tale—by Gerald W. Johnson. The story of the Average American in the first fifty tumultuous years of this century. Published at $3.50. Our Special $1.00

Doppelgangers, by H. F. Heard. The author of "A Taste for Honey" has turned out a swell bit of psychological science-fiction. Published at $2.75. Our Special $1.25

Harvard Advocate Anthology Here's an encouraging collection including the undergraduate writings of Franklin D. Roosevelt, John Reed, Conrad Aiken, T. S. Eliot, Norman Mailer and a host of others who once sweated out the same sort of exams you'll be facing in a month or so. Published at $5.00. Our Special $1.89

Dictionary of Word Origens, by Joseph T. Shipley. An authoritative guide to the better use, understanding, history and background of the English language. Published at $5.00. Our Special $2.49

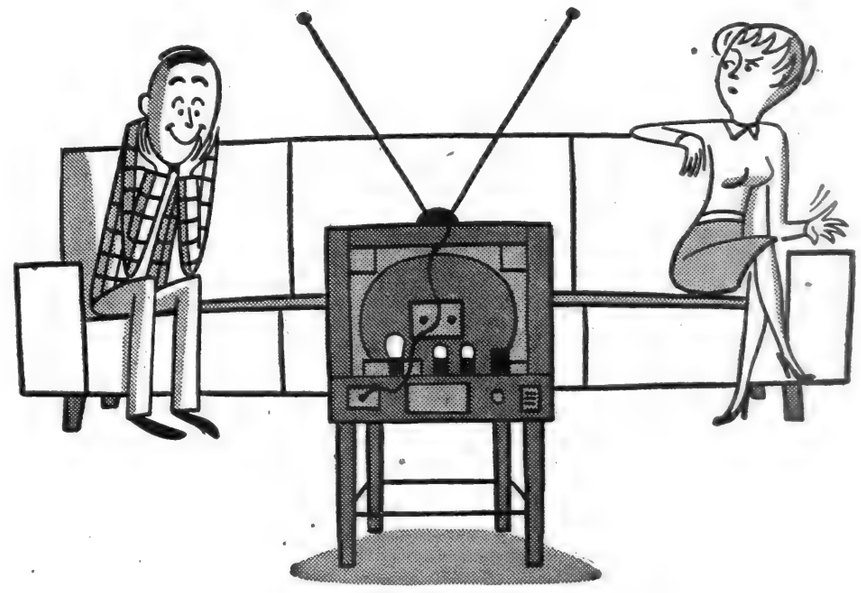
Benjamin Franklin's Autobiographical Writings, selected and edited by Carl Van Doren. The famous Autobiography amplified and carried forward to the time of Franklin's death by the use of letters and other autobiographical writings. Published at $6.00. Our Special $1.25

Four Portraits, studies of the Eighteenth Century by Peter Quennell. Portraits of James Boswell, Edward Gibbon, Laurence Sterne and John Wilkes. An outstanding English import. Our Special $1.25

That Old-Time Religion by Archie Robertson. From the Button Baptists to Father Divine this book follows the development of personal religion, with sympathy but not without humor. Was $3.00. Our Special $1.25

The Promise by Mildred Cram. Here is a tender, slightly sentimental story. It's so short you can read it in a half-hour's browse, but to read it is to want it always! Published at $1.50. Our Special 75c

Come In! Browsing's Still Free and We Like Your Corny Humor.



THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

GOODBYE to Old-Fashioned "Spill-Light" Bed Lamp!
HELLO to a Modern-Looking, Modern-Acting Beauty!
the NOVA
Easy-Swivel BED LAMP
HITS the SPOT
2.95

Bright modern style that combines beauty with the ultimate in bed lamp utility. Spots the light (and plenty of it) just where it's wanted! In chartreuse, rose, ivory and bronze. Thumb screw clamp.

BENNETT & BLOCKSIDGE
105 East Franklin Telephone 6161

MODERN TRIANGLE
A BOY...A GIRL...TV

Let's face it. Living rooms are still in style. But a third party is inching its way in to form a crowd.

And no wonder. Few can resist this miracle that has brought the world and set it down in front of you. Living history, flowing past your eyes. Politics. U. N. sessions. Sports. Spot news. Personalities.

We in the Bell System help to put you in this front-row seat on history. Bell Laboratories research contributed to TV development. Now our radio-relay systems and coaxial cables carry the images between cities and across the country.

Our part in TV transmission is only one among dozens of activities that keep us in the front line of modern communications. They are all reasons, we believe, why college people should find out what the Bell System has to offer in the way of opportunities.

Why don't you ask your college placement office about it?

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

UNC / SW
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

WEATHER
Some cloudiness and mild with high today of 75. Yesterday's high, 77; low, 58.

The Daily Tar Heel

CHURCH
The church of your choice and its services. See page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 4 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

TAR HEELS OPEN WITH RUGGED TEXAS TODAY

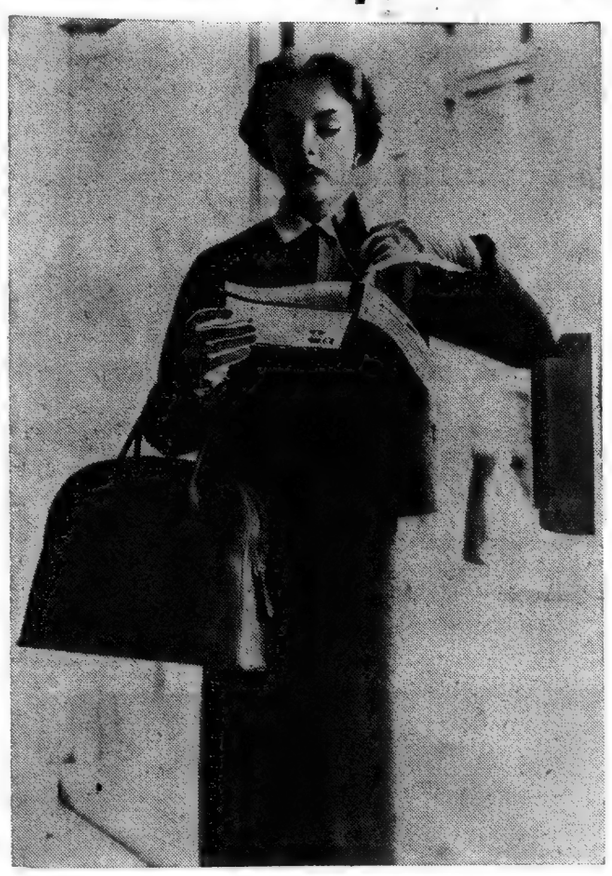
NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL, Korea—American Sabre jets shot down four Communist MIG-15 jets and damaged three others yesterday. It set a new record in claims against enemy jet fighters for a single month by claiming 55 destroyed, six probably destroyed and 51 damaged.

★

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL—General Dwight D. Eisenhower was met with a thunderous chant of "We like Ike" as he swept a political path across the Old North State yesterday aboard his special train. This whirlwind tour marked the general's second crack at the traditionally Democratic South. Still evading a detailed discussion of the touchy civil rights issue, he promised, however, that if elected he would "bring into government the finest women and men of whatever color, race or creed this country has.

★



SPRINGFIELD, Ill.— Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson yesterday announced that he would make public today the list of contributors and beneficiaries to his controversial fund to augment salaries of top state officials. He said there were "eight or nine" officials who received money from the fund and that he had contacted all of them Thursday night to discuss making the fund public.

★

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Acheson said yesterday that Gen. Eisenhower was guilty of misquoting him and misrepresenting his views. He also said that the general "tortures the facts." Along with the accusations, Acheson related an account of how Eisenhower had supported a Far East defense line that did not include Korea, and yet blamed him for the start of the war.

Fad Facts For New Gals

Coeds Hep To New Styles

HERE'S A GAL whose whole appearance spells style. Her green tweed suit with boxed jacket is straight from the pages of Harper's Bazaar. Her accessories point up the editor's report that "leather is big fashion news." The zippered bag and cordseamed gloves are made of tan pigskin—a perfect leather in color and texture to go with rugged tweeds.

By Deenie Schoeppe
Society Editor

You've heard what the fashion magazines say are "musts" for the college girl: the "debutante slouch," the "midday effect," the fitted coat. Now the question most new coeds are asking is, "What does the Carolina Coed wear?"

As the main event of the day is the game, 'spose we begin there.

Football games generally call for suits or wool dresses (weather permitting), hose and flats or heels, as you like. However, it's a long hike over hill and dale to the stadium which makes the going not so good in heels, car or no car.

For the Grail dance after the game, some people like to change into something dressier, though many will keep on the clothes they've worn to the game.

Next on the agenda is Rush Week. The Pan-Hel handbook tells you all you need to know, but here are a few last minute reminders; the first parties on Monday and Tuesday nights are dressy—heels, hose, dressy dresses and gloves. At the rest of the parties you'll be fine in sweaters and skirts.

On all occasions the Carolina coed is in step with the latest fashion, with informality the order of the day. For weeknight dates you'll see mostly sweaters and skirts when the date includes movies, the Goody Shop or the Rathskeller. For dancing, dinner dates and most weekend dates, dressier suits and dresses, as the occasion demands.

As for accessories, the wide leather belt is a great favorite. The new heavy medallions and other large jewelry are quite popular also. Loafers and saddle shoes are still holding their own, though different colored flats in kid or suede are worn quite a bit.

For that extra dash of color, bright scarfs are often added to suits or sweaters.

But whatever you wear, wherever you go, that Carolina spirit will always be in style.

Graham Memorial Offers Facilities

Graham Memorial, student union, offers Carolina students many opportunities and facilities to make their stay in Chapel Hill pleasant and profitable.

Graham Memorial is probably best known for its main lounge on the first floor where the students may gather to chat or read the latest magazines. The basementof the building houses, is the popular Rendezvous Room where couples may dance and have refreshments. There is also a woodshop in the basement where anyone may come to work and a barber shop where haircuts cost only seventy five cents.

Other facilities include a darkroom for those interested in photography and a travel agency which is open from 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock daily. The travel agency will make train, bus, or plane reservations for any student and also will make arrangements for special groups who would like to charter a private bus.

Manager Bill Roth urges all students to feel free to drop in any time and take advantage of these opportunities.

Roth also called attention to the special exhibit now on display in Morehead Planetarium The display is composed of pictures of the student unions and their furnishings at other schools.

The University is asking for a new student union in the permanent improvements which go before the Advisory Budget Committee this Monday in Raleigh.

DUKE AMBASSADORS

Miss Durham At Grail Shag

The Order of the Holy Grail will hold its first dance of the fall quarter tonight at the Naval Armory from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Tickets for the dance, which will be informal, will be on sale at the Armory tonight. The prices are 75 cents per couple and $1 each for stags.

Music will be furnished by the Duke Ambassadors. Featured with the band will be Miss Jean Tew, who won the Miss Durham title this year, and has been heard on recordings from WPTF's "Our Best To You."

DTH Meeting

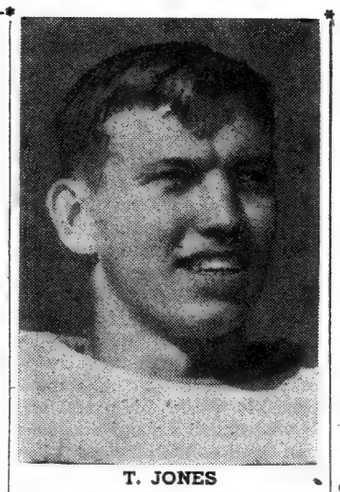
A meeting for all students interested in working for The Daily Tar Heel will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Roland Parker Lounges, second floor of Graham Memorial.

Students interested in any phase of journalism are urged to attend this meeting.

International Students Set Meet Today

International students are invited to attend this mornings activities of the International Students Program. Here is the complete schedule.

9:45—Report in YMCA Lobby for name tag.



10—Movie and explanation of the game of football—Gerrard Hall.

10:45—Brief introductions by Parsu Amersey, president of Cosmopolitan Club.

11—Coffee in the YMCA Lobby. Meet companion for the afternoon.

1—Everyone meet at YMCA and go to game together.

Sponsors of the program were afraid the information has not reached many of the students due to the rush of registration. Students who will not be able to attend the morning's activities due to class conflict are urged to meet with the rest of the group at 1 p.m. in front of the YMCA and attend the game.

T. JONES
. . . Longhorn Quarterback

Ex-Columnist Bill Buchan Dies At 27

Bill Buchan, longtime Daily Tar Heel columnist, news writer and friend of all, died unexpectedly of a heart attack Thursday in Jacksonville. He was 27.

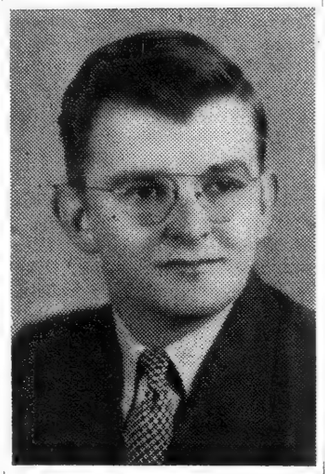
A native of Aberdeen, Bill had worked in Jacksonville for The News and Views since June, 1950. He served in World War II and returned to Chapel Hill where he enrolled in the University.

Bill wrote a column for The Daily Tar Heel called This 'n That, a collection he gathered in his nocturnal ramblings. He carried on in his column with an imaginary character named Wilbur Amberson who was as much a personality as Bill himself.

Rolfe Neill, managing editor of The Daily Tar Heel, only yesterday received a letter from Bill written about three hours before his unexpected death. As usual he was doing something for somebody else, asking that we give a freshman a tryout for the staff.

Bill was planning to come to today's game and "see everybody before the weekend is over."

He is survived by his father, H. C. Buchan Sr., Charlotte, and four brothers, Lee of Aberdeen, John of Fayetteville, and Ralph and Carl of North Wilkesboro.



Funeral was held yesterday at Bethesda Presbyterian Church at Aberdeen. Burial was in Old Bethesda Cemetery.—RN.

Charlie Bernard Ill With Jaundice

Charlie Bernard is at it again—or still.

The young assistant director of admissions has spent more time in hospitals the last three months than Dr. Kildare. Now he has a colorful case of yellow jaundice.

Charlie was floored June 4 by coronary thrombosis and spent four weeks telling pretty nurses about Chapel Hill. After a couple of months he began feeling pretty good again and got in a fight with some foreigner named Influenza and his friend Virus.

BILL BUCHAN

'We Major In Minors'

Youth Center Replaces Popular Hangout For Carolina Students

By Sam Holmes

"It's just a case of switching from beer bottles to baby bottles."

Ben Schreiber, operator of Harry's Delicatessen for nine years and who, with his wife now is operating a children's wear shop at the same location, was talking.

The words were for old time Tar Heels who returned this fall to find one of the town's popular spots for food and jazz piano converted to, The Youth Center.

Schreiber said he gave up the operation of Harry's because he was tired of working a 15-hour day and because it didn't afford the kind of family and social life he wanted.

He denied the rumor he was forced to close because police found beer on the table at Harry's after the curfew hour of midnight last spring. He said that when the police found the beer on the table it was just two minutes past midnight, and that it was there only because of an oversight.

The place was being cleaned up and he was working on his books at the time, he said, and he stated that the ABC Board in Raleigh quashed the case when he explained the full facts.

When he decided to close Harry's, Schreiber said, he still wanted to live in Chapel Hill, and after a survey of the town's business possibilities decided on the children's wear shop. The store, modernistic in design, opened September 2, and business has been good.

The Schreibers' new motto is, "We Major in Minors."

Split-T Party Will Feature Name Talent

Tar Heels Test New Formation For First Time

By Tom Peacock

Head Football Coach Carl Snavely will unveil the brand new North Carolina split-T formation this afternoon at 2:30 when the Tar Heels open their season against the Texas Longhorns before an expected crowd of 35,000 in Kenan Stadium.

The Texans are highly favored to win today, with a smashing 35-14 victory over Louisiana Satte already to their credit.

TEXAS	Pos.	North Carolina
Massey	le	Kocornik
Lansford	lt	Fredere
Sewell	lg	Foti
McDonald	c	Mullens
Branch	rg	Patterson
Genthner	rt	Yarborough
Stolhandske	re	Adler
Jones	qb	Annillo
Dawson	lh	White
Pace	rh	Parker
Ochoa	fb	Wallace

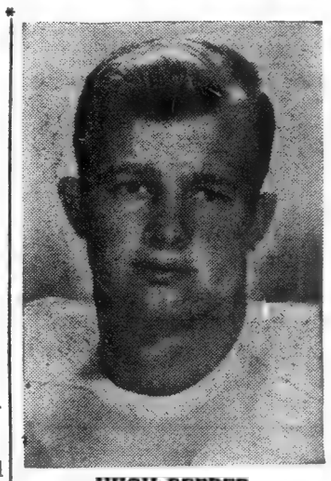
Longhorn head coach Ed Prices' charges shot to the top of the list of teams in the Southwest this week, while Carolina is rated no better than third in the Southern Conference.

The Tar Heels will be using the split-T for the first time in history today, Snavely previously being one of biggest advocates of the single wing. Texas also uses the split-T, so the two teams will be using the same formation for the first time in this game, the fourth of the series.

Quarterbacking Carolina in its bid to even the series at two games apiece will be junior Carmen Annillo of Union City, N. J. Annillo, who earned the starting position after the injury of Charlie Motta, is considered more than capable in the difficult key spot of the split-T.

Texas is loaded this year with both speed and power, and three Longhorns have been picked on many of the pre-season All-Americas. Left halfback Gib Dawson, was All-Southwest Conference last year, led the Conference in scoring, and is practically a unanimous choice on pre-season All-Americas.

Fullback Dick Ochoa, 200 pounds and a dash man, is also touted as the best in the country, and the third Texas preseason All-America, 210 pound and Tom Stolhandske, has been rated the best in the southwest for two yeats.



Handling the team from the quarterback spot in the Texas split-T is T. Jones, who scored two touchdowns and passed to teammate Stolhandske for another last week against LSU.

There is no lack of power in the North Carolina backfield, but the Tar Heels have much less speed than Texas. Snavely foresaw the slowness as far back as last spring when Carolina switched to the T. The fastest man in Carolina's backfield is right half Chal Port, a senior from Mifflington, Pa., and he isn't slated to start this afternoon.

In addition to Annillo, Carolina will have three hard running, experienced backs in the lineup, Annillo being the only non-letterman. At left half is 21-year-old junior Bob White of Lyndhurst, N. J., a letterman who saw a lot of action last year. Co-captain Bud Wallace, senior from Kinston, starts at fullback, and will do the Tar Heel's punting for the second straight year. Wallace had a 39.9 yard average last year.

Rounding out the Carolina backfield at right half is sophomore Larry Parker, a defensive

(See TAR HEEL, page 3)

HUGH REEDER
. . . Longhorn Center

Cowgirl Tells Of Texas U. Life, Campus

By Anne Chambers
Daily Texan Editor

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 26—No matter what the football score, Texas wins from North Carolina.

Next semester the third University of Texas president to come from Tar Heel territory will assume office—Dr. Logan Wilson—indicating, as a compliment, that Texas accepts only the best, naturally.

Our best and loudest cheers won't be at the game Saturday, though. Few of us wranglers will be able to trade our "hosses" or Cadillacs in for an Airplane in time to reach that North Caroilna frontier for the opening kick-off.

Seriously, however, the University of Texas is neither a country club, nor a dude ranch.

Our 12,000 students, coming from even the remotest parts of the vast Texas empire, are hard-working (not specifying at what), typical American youth.

We study only when absolutely necessary until seniors or even graduates. Our playtime is spent at Barton's Springs, the coldest swimming water south of the North Pole, or at coffee time in the Chuckwagon, student cafeteria.

On warm, sunny days (which means year-round) we head for Lake Austin to fish, swim, and learn how to disengage ourselves gracefully from water skis. Parties run from the very formal to the nightly beer-busts. We promenade and spend our few paltry pennies on the Drag, otherwise known as Guadalupe Street. If we are still bored, there are some 250 clubs or organizations we could join. And then there are other things . . .

The University of Texas once was confined to Forty Acres, but the Main University has since doubled its size and expanded into eight branches located in other parts of the state.

The most famous and favored building at the campus in Austin however, is the Tower, a 27-story structure which has hidden rooms that the architect probably doesn't even know about. When Texas comes out on top of game scores, the Tower lights are orange, and the building is a tall, colorful symbol of victory.

We hope it will be so Saturday night.

Damage Slight

An early Wednesday morning blaze caused approximately $1,500 damage to the Carolina Club on the Greensboro highway just outside of Chapel Hill, operator Charlie Stancil said yesterday.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor at about 7 a.m. and was brought under complete control by the local fire department about 9 o'clock. The fire was believed to have been started by a short circuit on a wire leading to a refrigerator compressor.

The club will be reopened for customers by Monday.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dave Moose, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ellen Downs.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Welcome Longhorns

The eyes of Texas are upon us. So are their tackles and halfbacks.

We're hoping they won't be the lone stars out there on the football field, but whatever happens, we're glad to have the Longhorns back on Tar Heel soil again. —B.B.

In Our Churches

BAPTIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m., Student Bible Class with Dr. P. H. Epps; 11 a.m. Morning Worship, "Developing Moral Fibre," special music by Mrs. David Herring, soloist and choir; 6 p.m. BSU Supper Forum with Dr. Arnold Nash on "Christian Faith and Life's Decisions."

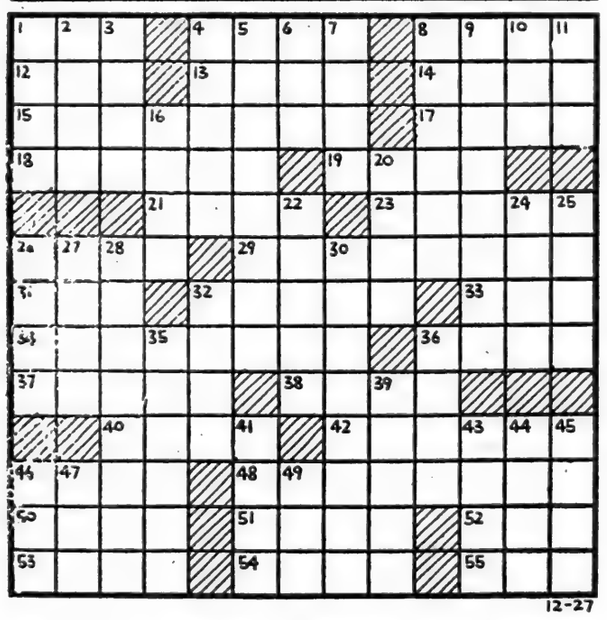
CATHOLIC: Sunday, Mass at 8 and 9:30 a.m. in Gerrard Hall. Reception for new students in the Rendzvous Room of Graham Memorial 5 p.m.

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN: Sunday, Rededication Service for the recently renovated sanctuary at 11 a.m.; Sermon by the Rev. R. L. Jackson and a talk by W. T. Scott Supt. of the Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches; 7:30 p.m. program of special music with Mr. Thomas Potter as baritone soloist.

EPISCOPAL: Sunday 8 a.m. Holy Communion; 9:30 a.m. Student Bible Discussion group, 11 a.m. Worship service with sermon by the Rev. D. W. Yates; 6 p.m. Canterbury Club; 8 p.m. Evening Prayer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: Sunday 11 a.m. Worship service in the lecture room of New West.

QUAKERS: Sunday 11 a.m. Worship service in the Grail room of Graham Memorial.



JEWISH: Sunday 7:30 p.m. special High Holy Day services for the Day of Atonement, services continued Monday at 10 a.m.

LUTHERAN: Sunday, 9:45 a.m. Sunday School; 11 a.m. Morning worship "The Witness Bearing Church" by the Rev. E. C. Cooper; 6:15 p.m. student supper meeting with topic "Why Am I Here?"

METHODIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m. student Bible Class; 11 a.m. morning worship "Is It Worth the Price?" by the Rev. W. M. Howard; 6 p.m. Wesley Foundation supper meeting.

PRESBYTERIAN: Sunday, morning worship services at 9:45 and 11 a.m. with the Rev. C. M. Jones; 6 p.m. student group meets for supper with topic "Why Believe in God?"

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

12-27

HORIZONTAL
1. personal pronoun
4. flesh food
8. feminine name
12. equivalence
13. river in Italy
14. footless animal
15. estrange
17. want
18. aft parts of ships
19. leading performer
21. a king of Israel
23. feminine name
26. female horse
29. gave forth radiance
31. before
32. East Indian palm
33. in excessive degree
34. conjectures
36. interdicts
37. forcibly
38. network
40. frosted
42. rambled
46. meat from pig
48. indicate
50. Cain's brother
51. sway drunkenly
52. French author
53. brood of young pheasants
54. spreads for drying
55. secreted

VERTICAL
1. mineral springs
2. stop
3. Great Lake
4. bread from heaven
5. obliterations
6. insect
7. pedal digits
8. British Dominion
9. short humorous opera
10. fish eggs
11. annex
16. Gaelic
20. caudal appendage
22. more recent
24. masculine name
25. commotions
26. flat table-land
27. lily
28. mended
30. abandoned
32. skeletal part
35. preserve, as with brine
36. emit light
39. labors
41. refuse
43. crush into pulp
44. case for small articles
45. act
46. woodland spirit
47. Japanese sash
49. born

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

12-27

Average time of solution: 25 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber — Personally — Olympic Diary

LONDON, June 26 (Con't)—The stage curtain of the Unity Theater, London's Communist playhouse, was actually a giant map of Europe with the western part shaded and the slogan "Free World" plastered over Russia and the satellite states in brilliant crimson. Around the fringes of the map the word "peace" was spelled out in eighteen languages.

Promptly at 7:30 p.m. the lights dimmed and the entire cast marched back and forth across the stage singing "Bau Auf," the East German Communist Youth Anthem. The program indicated the play, entitled "Barriers Across Europe," was to be a "factual" dramatization of an incident involving British students on their way to the East Berlin Youth Festival to join with exhuberant comrades from all nations under the red flag to annihilate American imperialism and build a new socialist world of peace and abundance. It seems Wall Street got word of the pilgrimage and ordered American troops in Austria to grab the youngsters and throw them into a concentration camp.

For the next two hours we were treated to a swashbuckling extravaganza in which American soldiers, shouting the most extreme obscenities, slapped British students with rifle butts, forced a young Communist girl to lie on the railroad tracks until a train hit her, stabbed a French woman in the busom because her papers weren't in order, clubbed a Negro youth into unconsciousness because he asked to use the bathroom, and impatiently asked their sergeant "When are they going to let us drop our bacteria on those g— d— Reds?" The theater was sparsely populated but the few partisans present giggled with delight at each gory episode. Every time an American officer sank his hobnailed boot into a Negro's bloodied face we heard such comments as "Quite good," "Splendid portraval."

During the intermission we chatted with a chap from Australia, who naturally assumed we were both devoted followers of Mark and Lenin. He was delighted to learn I was from Dixie, or "lynch-land."

"You'll adore our next act," said the Aussie with an elfish smirk. "It concerns the treatment of colored people in your section of America."

The curtain for act two rose to find the young prisoners behind barbed wire lounging around on the jagged rocks the Americans had given them for pillows and discussing the eventual outcome of the "class struggle." A Negro boy rose and took the full spotlight.

"You don't know what suffering really is," he intoned. "Down where I live the white folks treat us worse than swine. The Ku Klux Klan is everywhere. They lynch over a hundred of us every year. Nobody's safe."

He then cleared his throat and gave a melodious rendition of "Strange Fruit," a ballad describing "Blood on the leaves, blood on the roots, black bodies hanging from the trees." The audience applauded vigorously.

There followed a climax that would make Hopalong Cassidy wilt with envy. A band of blueshirted saviors from Czechoslovakia broke through the compound gates and rescued the British martyrs while the American guards lay stone drunk in a ditch. Soon they were all safely within the borders of the "Peoples' Democracy," the Yankee torturers were robbed of their prey, Stalin was in his Kremlin, and all was right with the world.

As we rambled homeward through the subway tube after the final curtain of the volcanic "Hate America" orgy I directed a pointed remark to Clews, which bordered on the tactless, reflecting dismay that our American dollars had failed to instill even a mild degree of gratitude into British hearts. He chuckled.

"Anti-Americanism does exist in England, but the proof of the pudding is simply this," said Clews. "Jack Benny played tonight in London's largest theater before a packed house of friendly Britons. The Unity Theater, capacity of five hundred, was two-thirds empty."

"Well, What's New?"

Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington — General Eisenhower's period of indecision regarding his Vice-Presidential running-mate was due largely to the fact that he was torn between a crossfire of advice from two groups of backers.

One was the professional politicians who accompanied him on the train. These, led by GOP National Chairman Arthur Summerfield, fought hard to keep Nixon on the ticket. With him were Senator Seaton of Nebraska, Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia; While Milton Eisenhower, the General's brother, a non-professional, was emphatically in favor of dropping Nixon and General Wilton Persons, one of Ike's old military friends, was on the fence.

But the enthusiastic amateurs who got on the train during its stops en route urged that Nixon be taken off. These were the leaders who had rounded up the big write-in votes for Eisenhower during the primaries, who sometimes had voted Democratic and who represented the independent bloc which can swing an election.

They felt that the General must give an example to the nation, must show that he meant business right at the start by cleaning out any taint or even suspicion of corruption. They argued that if the Nixon "expense gifts" had been known at Chicago he would not have been nominated, and that if the General put action to words the election would be in the bag.

One factor which hampered Eisenhower's decision was the fact that his advisers kept the Nixon news from him for 18 hours. Though they got the first query on the New York Post story via the United Press on Thursday afternoon, they did not tell the General about it until next morning.

And since the General seldom reads the newspapers carefully, he did not learn the bad news—even though his advisers sat up until 3 a.m. at Omaha trying to decide what to do while the man chiefly concerned slept peacefully in the next car, blissfully ignorant that the worst political story in fifty years of Presidential Campaigns was about to break over his head.

Next morning, the General was told what had happened and at first it was suggested that perhaps Senator Nixon should fly to Kansas City or St. Louis to talk things over. Finally it was decided that Senator Seaton of Nebraska would get off the train at the next stop and phone Nixon—which he did.

Nixon, when reached by telephone, had some strong opinions. He asked that no action be taken until he could give a full statement, and he put some of his staff on the phone to tell of the big crowds he'd been getting. They indicated that the people around Eisenhower had buck fever. The thing to do, they urged, was to play down the story and proceed as if nothing had happened.

Harry Snook — NONPLUS

I like Ike.

But not because he is better qualified for the presidency than Stevenson. Not because his views coincide with mine, or because his views definitely are superior to those of his opponent. And not because Ike is a bigger, better person than Stevenson.

Eisenhower may score on all of these points. He may score on none.

On the basis of countless news articles, I am fairly convinced that both nominees are fine men. Each possesses many qualifications for the office.

Ike, however, differs from Stevenson in a respect that looms large and distinct.

Stevenson is the Democratic Party's candidate. This party takes credit for rescuing the nation from the Great Depression. Unbiased economists and businessmen can point to the economic status in 1938 as irrefutable proof of the New Deal's failure.

Stevenson's supporters hope to perpetuate in office the party which has controlled the administration of our government for over twenty years. This party has backed the relentless extension of central control to the point where federal employes who want to keep their jobs can almost swing the elections alone.

Stevenson is the personal choice of the man who tried usurping the United States Constitution. Truman ignored established law in dictatorially seizing the steel industry. And Truman pushed Stevenson into the nomination although the people at large clearly expressed an overwhelming preference for Estes Kefauver.

Stevenson's party has allowed the cost of living to reach an all-time high despite the greatest volume of production ever. His party has given us the highest taxes in our history without any reduction in the national debt.

And Stevenson represents the party which tossed China to the Communists. This party threw Americans into a peninsular war which they are not allowed to win, but in which they are being killed and wounded.

This party which backs Stevenson has set a real record of corruption, one made possible by the entrenchment of two decades.

Ike is a Republican, yes. More than this, Ike is the standard bearer of the only group which can possibly oust the Democrats from power.

Ike is our hope.

Raleigh Memorial Auditorium
THURSDAY EVENING OCT. 2
Tickets On Sale At THIEM RECORD SHOP
$3.75 - $3.25 - $3.08 - $2.50 - $2.00
$1.75 - $1.50

Who is he?

This chap represents thousands of young, red-blooded sons of great American families. He is ready to stand on his own, to carry his share of responsibility. He is preparing for a bright future and desires to train further toward his success. He wants peace, security, and a full life for his family and home. If need be, he is ready to defend his rights and his country. When called on to serve in defense of American liberties, he will be fully trained and equipped to fly and fight with the U. S. Air Force.

This is what he will do—

Today's college man will plan to stay in school and graduate if at all possible. If he is faced with early entrance into military service and possesses at least two years of college, he will enlist as an Aviation Cadet in the U. S. Air Force and choose between becoming a Pilot or Aircraft Observer. After a year of the world's best instruction and training, he will graduate into a real man-sized job and wear the wings of America's finest flying fraternity. Commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force, he will begin earning nearly $5300 a year. His future will be unlimited!

How he qualifies—

He is between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried and in good physical condition, especially his eyes, ears, heart and teeth. After he has graduated from a recognized university or college, or has earned at least two years of college credits, he is eligible to enter the Aviation Cadet Training Program and will receive immediate processing for assignment to training. By sending for an Aviation Cadet application now, this Most Important Young Man in America Today will help bring about a peaceful tomorrow.

WHERE To Get More Details
Visit your nearest U. S. Air Force Base or write direct to Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.
PILOT | AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

U.S. AIR FORCE

Junior Varsity Gridders Edge By Fort Bragg, 7-0

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Fix Bayonets

AS OUR TWO-FISTED, grimey-faced cinema soldiers are prone to say, "This is it!" Today's the day that Messers Snavely and Barclay unveil the Carolina split T formation and dedicate it to the betterment of Carolina football.

We've been waiting since last spring's Blue-White game to see exactly how our version would stand up in intercollegiate football and we couldn't have picked a more acidic tester than our opponents this afternoon—Texas.

The Longhorns, according to the opinion of the expert—and some not so expert—should win by three touchdowns. They displayed shotgun speed last week end in routing a good LSU team, 35-14, and it's that very same speed we will have to watch today.

The Texans have a flock of hare-like backs that can break open the ball game with a slight swivel of the hip. Whether we win today depends on whether we can zig when they zag.

We're Not Hurtin'

THE TAR HEELS have a fleet of good backs, too, not quite as fast as Texas, perhaps, but good enough to get the ball down to and over the goal line. We should do a good bit of scoring today—enough to win a most ball games. Whether we score enough to win this one will depend on our ability to stop the Longhorn backs.

Our defensive line has shaped up pretty well. Our main losses were at tackle but it seems that this position has knitted back together solidly. If the ends and the tackles—the two positions which should get the brunt of the Texas attack—can hold, then we might see an upset even more pleasing than the Texas game of 1948 when a Choo-Chooed Carolina team won, 34-7.

Our main job is to hold their backs within the secondary. If those Texas speedsters get past that, to give chase will be about as futile as the greyhound's job of catching the mechnical rabbit.

As the case last year, you can expect a lot of scoring on the part of both teams. Our scouts, Jim Gill and Jim Camp, who saw the LSU game last week end, say that the Texas weakness, if they must have a weakness, is the defense.

Passing Fancy

JUDGING FROM OUR spirited practice with the running of the T and going on the assumption that the Texas defense is somewhat weak, then we ought to give the Longhorns a hard day of it. Our backs may not be as fast as the Texans but they are all hard runners. Catching a knee from a running Bud Wallace is something few opponents have relished.

Then, too, we have to consider the passing end of the game. Texas completed four out of 14 against LSU but that game was played in the rain. T. Jones, the Texas quarterback, is known to be a dependable passer. In reserve the Longhorns have Bunny Andrews, an erratic performer sometimes, but one who can hit a gnat in the eye when he is on.

Our passing is pretty well taken care of, too. Carmen Annillo, who will probably start today, is cool enough to do the job and can get plenty of help from Lou Britt.

Thus it seems that the team which can put up the best defense should come out on top. In his attempt to get the split-T running smoothly, Coach Snavely has sacrificed some work on his defensive lineup. He's got most of his good men in that line back from last year, though, and it shouldn't prove too much of a problem.

Texas will be favored by three touchdowns this afternoon, but—well, let's see how the score stands around about 4:30.

Wallin Scores Lone Tally On Two-Yard Line Plunge

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

FORT BRAGG, Sept. 26—George Wallin plunged over from the two-yard line early in the fourth quarteer here today to lead the University of North Carolina Jay Vees to a 7-0 victory over a determined, hard-fighting Fort Bragg eleven. Charlie Poindexter added the extra point.

Wallin's score was the climax to a Carolina offensive field day which saw the Baby Tar Heels demonstrate the real power and effectiveness of George Barclay's version of the split-T formation.

The Jay Vee backfield of Wallin, Billy Hawks, Ernie Liberati, and Maurice Young ran smoothly in the inauguration of the T at UNC.

But the offense did not take all the glory as a heavy, spirited defensive outfit stopped the Army boys in their tracks on most occasions. The only Fort Bragg threat came minutes after the Carolina score when they penetrated the UNC deefense and pushed the younger Tar Heels back to the four-yard line.

But the fighting Carolinians dug in and forced a Bragg back to fumble with E. C. Smith recovering. The visitors were not in trouble the remainder of the way.

Thee first three quarters were close all the way as each team engaged in an exchange of punts. runbacks and a sprinkling of passes. Carolina provided the only threat, charging deep into Bragg territory midway of the second period only to lose the ball on downs.

The Carolina lineup.

OFF.	DEF.
E—Lane	Weatherspoon
E—Lambert	Truss
T—Maultsby	Alexander
T—Koman	Saunders
G—Marcocalus	McCormick
G—Crahan	Scolars
C—Lee	Reaves
B—Liberati	Mangum
B—Hawks	Pomdexter
B—Wallin	Williams
B—Young	Murray

Score by periods:

Fort Bragg	0	0	0	0	0—0
Carolina	0	0	0	7	7—7

Scoring: Carolina—Wallin . Extra Point: Poindexter.

Track Schedule

Oct. 7 N. C. State (Raleigh)
Oct. 11 Davidson (here)
Oct. 17 Duke (here)
Oct. 25 Maryland (here)
Nov. 1 Tennessee (Knoxville)
Nov. 8 Virginia (here)
Nov. 10 Big 5 championships (Raleigh)
Nov. 17 Southern Conference Meet (Richmond)

Tar Heels Unveil Split 'T' Against Longhorns Today

(Continued from page 1)

standout in his freshman year.

Carolina started its rivalry with Texas in 1947, absorbing a 34-0 loss at Austin. The Tar Heels came back in 1948 to smash Texas 34-7, the worst Longhorn defeat in modern football. Last year Texas took a 2-1 edge by trouncing Carolina 45-20, again in Austin.

Motta's injury is the only one on the Tar Heel squad, and there is a slight chance that he will get in for a few plays despite the ailing ankle. The Texas squad is intact.

The North Carolina probable starting offensive line has only two lettermen, right tackle Ken Yarborough and right end Tom Adler, but Snavely and his offensive assistant George Barclay think the line will make a good showing. Junior Dick Kokornick, 19, of West Orange, N. J. will start at left end, while Francis Fredere, a 228 pound, 6 ft 4¼ in. monster is slated for left tackle. George Foti, a converted blockingback, is left guard, and 215 pound junior, Dave Mullens will start at center on offense. Sophomore Ed Patterson, greatly improved, is the starting right guard.

The Carolina defense seems to be the answer to the outcome of the game. The defensive line has excelled all through practice and can be depended upon, so the question is whether the secondary can stop Jones' passing and Dawson's running.

MANAGERS MEET

There will be a meeting of all fraternity intramural managers Monday night at 7:30 in room 304 of Woollen Gym. Tag football entries will be accepted at this time only.

Game Time
TODAY
2:30 O'CLOCK

CAROLINA
TODAY
WARNER BROS. PRESENT
RAY BOLGER
"Where's Charley?"
TECHNICOLOR
ALLYN McLERIE — JOHN HOWKS, JR. — DAVID BUTLER
LATE SHOW TONIGHT
SUNDAY-MONDAY

WARNER BROS. PRESENT
BURT LANCASTER
The Crimson Pirate
TECHNICOLOR

Vic Huggins '25 says:

It will pay you to visit HUGGINS HARDWARE in CHAPEL HILL before the game.
See our smart Fascinating Store full of good tools, gadgets, utensils and gifts.
You select 'em, We'll mail 'em!

HUGGINS HARDWARE Says
BEAT TEXAS!

HUGGINS HARDWARE ASKS 5 QUESTIONS ABOUT EVERY ITEM WE SELL—

You'll Likely Find It At HUGGINS HARDWARE
Let's GO CAROLINA

Sutton's DRUG STORE
CHAPEL HILL, N.C.
"Your Wallgreen Agent"

LACOCK'S Shoe Shop
For Better Shoe Repairs

Carolina Sport Shop

LEDBETTER-PICKARD

WE'RE ALL BACK OF YOU
Carolina

WENTWORTH & SLOAN
East Franklin Phone9-3331

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

CAROLINA BARBER SHOP
"Where Clipping Is Legal"

TOWN and CAMPUS

Typewriters
Adding Machines
SALES—SERVICE
RENTALS
New and Used
Your Underwood Agent
ROWE TYPEWRITER COMPANY
103½ W. Parris St.
Ph. 5-3901 DURHAM, N. C.

We Want to Thank All Our Old and New Customers for Bearing With Us During Our Opening Rush

We can assure you that our unusual items are well worth waiting for. All who know our merchandise realize that it's quite distinctive yet budget priced.
Oxford gray all wool slacks $11.95
Our exclusive Italian full fashioned sweaters in 14 decorator's colors, such as Copper canyon, Cherry red, true Carolina blue, Eggshell, Navy, rich forest green, and many other fabulous tones $16.95
Just received large shipment of our famous repp ties $2.50
Don't forget our Custom Original Genuine Shell Cordovan shoes $14.95
Bills Mailed Home at Your Request
Milton's Clothing Cupboard

I GO POGO
Is Here Again!
$1.00
INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS

Yackety Yack

Pictures will not be taken today but will be resumed at 2 p.m. Monday afternoon. Freshmen are reminded to wear coats and ties. Pictures are being taken in the Rendezvous room of Graham Memorial.

Student Party

The Student Party invites all interested students to its first meeting of the year Monday night at 9 o'clock in the Roland Parker Lounges.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will hold its first meeting of the fall quarter Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the choral practice room at Hill Hall.

The Men's Glee Club will hold its first meeting of the new school year Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Reader Needed

A blind student needs a reader for his courses. The state fund provides 75 cents an hour for this service. Interested students are asked to phone the Sociology Dept. (9-8066) or contact Arthur Miller at 32 Old West.

6-6

Naval Research Unit 6-6 will hold a meeting in the projection room of Swain Hall next Wednesday night at 7:30. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames Society composed of wives of Dental School students and the Spurgeon Dental Society will be hosts at an open house to be held tomorrow at 7:30 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. All new dental school students, their wives and faculty members and their wives and all office personnel in the dental school are invited.

Cosmopolitans

The UNC Cosmopolitan Club will meet Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial. International and interested American students are invited to attend.

Howling Hurricane Swings Out To Sea

MIAMI, Fla. —Upstart Charlie the season's third hurricane, developed howling 115-mile per hour winds yesterday as it began a gradual swing away from the mainland.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster at the Miami Weather Bureau. said "the present course of the hurricane indicates it will not hit land."

Marines On Campus To Form Organization

A club for Marines on campus will be organized at a meeting at 8 p.m., Thursday, October 9 at the Naval Armory.

Maj. Frank C. Caldwell, USMC Marine Officer Instructor in the NROTC, yesterday said that the organization will be named the "Semper Fidelis Club." It will be open to all Platoon Leaders Class and Officer Candidate Course students, NROTC Marine Candidates and Reserve Marine students.

The club's objectives will be to hold seminars concerning Marine Corps doctrines and policies, to stimulate an interest in the Marine Corps on this campus, to stage club social events, and to receive outstanding guest speakers, particularly from the Armed Forces.

It is planned to have one meeting monthly, probably on the second Thursday of each month. The business of the initial meeting will consist of the election of the year's officers, formulation of a constitution and by-laws, and discussion of this year's plans.

Interested personnel may contact either John Poindexter, Senior PLC, at Room 439 Cobb Dormitory, or Jim Eagan, Senior NAOTC Marine Candidate at 314 Lewis Dormitory.

CHARLOTTE AUSTIN

Starlet Here For Full Day Of Activities

Pretty Charlotte Austin, 18-year-old star of the Columbia picture "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulders," is scheduled to arrive here today at 11 o'clock for the opening of her new picture at the Varsity Theater.

The vivacious singing and dancing beauty who is from Charlotte, will face a full schedule which begins with a caravan of Sigma Nu brothers who will escort her to the Sigma Nu house. An appearance at Robbins store, where she will sign autographs, will be followed by lunch at the Sigma Nu house.

Later she will be presented to the fans at half time of the Texas-UNC football game by two women members of the armed forces. She will represent the WACs and WAFs as an honorary recruiter.

At 7:40 and 9:30 in the evening, she will appear at the Varsity Theater and sing several songs.

While You Were Away

During the Summer your old pals at the Intimate Bookshop have continued their search for good reading at moderate prices. Here are a few we've nicked off for your temptation:

Incredible Tale—by Gerald W. Johnson. The story of the Average American in the first fifty tumultuous years of this century. Published at $3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Doppelgangers, by H. F. Heard. The author of "A Taste for Honey" has turned out a swell bit of psychological science-fiction. Published at $2.75.
Our Special $1.25

Harvard Advocate Anthology Here's an encouraging collection including the undergraduate writings of Franklin D. Roosevelt, John Reed, Conrad Aiken, T. S. Eliot, Norman Mailer and a host of others who once sweated out the same sort of exams you'll be facing in a month or so. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.89

Dictionary of Word Origens, by Joseph T. Shipley. An authoritative guide to the better use, understanding, history and background of the English language. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Benjamin Franklin's Autobiographical Writings, selected and edited by Carl Van Doren. The famous Autobiography amplified and carried forward to the time of Franklin's death by the use of letters and other autobiographical writings. Published at $6.00.
Our Special $1.25

Four Portraits, studies of the Eighteenth Century by Peter Quennell. Portraits of James Boswell, Edward Gibbon, Laurence Sterne and John Wilkes. An outstanding English import.
Our Special $1.25

That Old-Time Religion by Archie Robertson. From the Button Baptists to Father Divine this book follows the development of personal religion, with sympathy but not without humor. Was $3.00.
Our Special $1.25

The Promise by Mildred Cram. Here is a tender, slightly sentimental story. It's so short you can read it in a half-hour's browse, but to read it is to want it always! Published at $1.50.
Our Special 75c

Come In! Browsing's Still Free and We Like Your Corny Humor.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

TODAY & SUNDAY

Varsity

LATE SHOW TONITE

"HORIZONS WEST"

Starring

ROBERT RYAN • JULIA ADAMS

Color by Technicolor

SPECIAL ATTRACTION!

TONITE ONLY

(Sat., Sept. 27)

On Our Stage

IN PERSON

at 7:40 and 9:30

Carolina's Own

CHARLOTTE AUSTIN

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED: FEMALE 8A

URGENTLY NEEDED: EXPERIENCED office girl as assistant and receptionist in professional office. Good pay. Interview arranged. State qualifications and experience. Write P. O. Box 1291 Chapel Hill. Charge 1x1

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SEND THE DAILY TAR HEEL HOME and let your parents know what is happening on campus. $4.00 per year—$1.50 per quarter—Carolyn Reichard, Subscription Mgr. —210 Graham Memorial

N. C.—D. T. H.

FOR SALE 6B

ONE SINGER SEWING MACHINE treadle Guarenteed. One Minnesota sewing machine treadle. Good condition. Call 9-5708.

(1-9451-1)

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

GET A Kodak Camera FOR THE NEW School Year

Don't miss getting a picture record of schoolmates and school activities. We have KODAK and BROWNIE cameras from $2.85.

Stop in and ask to see the Kodak Duaflex II Camera, Kodet Lens, which sells for $14.50. Prices include Fed. Tax.

FOISTER'S
Camera Store, Inc.

FOOTBALL GAME!

OPENING Don't miss it!

CAROLINA vs. TEXAS

SATURDAY SEPT. 27

AT KENAN STADIUM

Fowler's FOOD STORE

We're Wishing you a WINNING SEASON TAR HEELS

DURHAM
Corner of Roxboro & Club Blvd.
Phone 1234

CHAPEL HILL
West Franklin St.
Phone F-416

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER

Sunny and continued mild today with 78 high. Yesterday's high 77; low, 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

CRITIQUE

Sports Editor Biff Roberts replays yesterday's game. See page 3.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 5 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

TAR HEELS DROWNED IN TEXAS T PARTY, 28-7

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—Russian troops have been seen in North Korea, south of the Yalu River boundary which the UN is forbidden to cross, it was told yesterday by a surrendered North Korean security officer. Until his desertion this month, the prisoner was security officer for the armistice talks at Panmunjom. The officer said he saw about 20 Russians dressed in Chinese Communist uniforms who were installing an anti-aircraft battery at a Red airfield in June, 1951. He said he did not know whether the Russians fired the battery. Meanwhile, all Korea fell under a UN Naval blockade yesterday.

★

WASHINGTON—Officials here said today that the Kremlin might force the removal of George F. Kenan, U. S. ambassador to Russia. It was indicated Moscow's unparalleled propaganda attacks on Kenan might be a prelude to withdrawing his credentials.

★

SAN JOSE. Costa Rica—President Otilio Ulate resigned last night because Congress accused him of trying to block an investigation of the army.

★

ROME—Spanish philosopher and poet George Santayana, who was educated at Harvard University and wrote all of his many works in English, died in a convent here yesterday. He was 89. His best known work is the novel, "The Last Puritan."

★

WASHINGTON—Some 60,000,000 Americans went off daylight saving time at 2 o'clock this morning which means turning the clock back for an hour.

★

PARIS—Prince Aly Kahn and Rita Hayworth slept late yesterday morning after their first night under the same roof in more than a year. The prince arrived at his plush villa in the fashionable Neuilly suburb of Paris late Thursday after racing 575 miles in 12 hours from his home near Cannes.

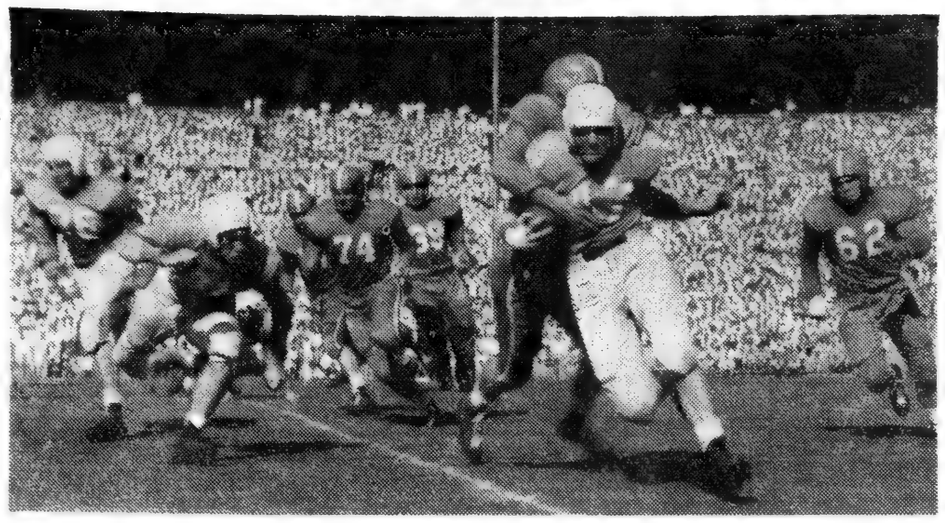
★

MIAMI—The fourth big blow of the hurricane season brewed slowly in the Carribbean Sea yesterday as hurricane "Charlie" carried its howling 125 miles per hour winds away from the U.S. seaboard.

★

SEATTLE—By fueling in flight, jets based at American fields in other countries are within range of Russia, it was revealed here yesterday by Undersecretary of Air Roswell L. Gilpatric.

★



FORT BRAGG—2nd Lt. Charles N. (Chuck) Hauser, University of North Carolina alumnus, has been appointed Reconnaisance and Survey Officer and Assistant Intelligence Officer (S-2) of the 758th Field Artillery Battalion here, it was announced yesterday. Lt. Hauser has been serving as the assistant executive officer of Battery B of the same unit, a 240 millimeter howitzer outfit.

Free Pictures

"Frankly," Editor Hugh Gale said yesterdya, "I'm worried."

And he had good reason to be there are only three days left for freshmen to have their pictures taken for the Yackety Yack and only 60 of 900 have showed up thus far.

Coats and ties for the boys, white blouses for the girls, Gale said. Picture taking resumes tomorrow from 2 p.m. on in the Rendezvous Room, Graham Memorial. There is no charge.

TEXAS HAD THEIR T down to a T yesterday afternoon, and this 53-yard runback of the kickoff by Tar Heel Bob White after Texas' first score did little to offset the Longhorns' onslaught. The actors, from left to right above; are Ken Yarborough (UNC 76), Dick Kocornik (UNC 61), Dick Gawlick (UT 74), Ken Anglin (UT 39), Texas tackler Ed Kelly, White, and George Allen (UT 62).—Daily Tar Heel photo by Cornell Wright.

Coach Price Has His Say

Coach Ed Price of Texas said after the game:

"I thought we played a very good football game. It was above average for us. Our passing was sharper and our defense was better organized. We ran better at L. S. U. last week (Texas won 35-14). Our runs were longer. But the Carolina defense stopped the long runs. Stolhandke, Genthner and Sewell were good in our line, I thought.

"Carolina has a fine ball club. They are at the point right now that we were last year. this time in starting with the Split-T. After our opening game last year I talked with Don Faurot who started all this Split-T stuff and he told me to hang on. 'It will come in time,' he said. He predicted about the third game for a starting Split-T squad and it worked for us. I think and hope it will for Carolina. I was impressed with their hustle and I know that (Charlie) Motta was missed. You can't play without that number one quarterback."

Grey Fox Talks, Too

Coach Carl Snavely said: We're not quite ready for a team like Texas. They are fast and resourceful. We had a few lapses but I can understand them with a new system and so many sophs and freshmen. I was disappointed in spots but I think we'll get better. Coach Price has a fine ball club and it's a privelege to play against them.

Marines To Start Club

A club for Marines on campus will be organized at a meeting at 8 p.m., Thursday, October 9 at the Naval Armory.

Maj. Frank C. Caldwell, USMC Marine Officer Instructor in the NROTC, yesterday said that the organization will be named the "Semper Fidelis Club." It will be open to all Platoon Leaders Class and Officer Candidate Course students, NROTC Marine Candidates and Reserve Marine students.

The club's objectives will be to hold seminars concerning Marine Corps doctrines and policies. to stimulate an interest in the Marine Corps on this campus. to stage club social events, and to receive outstanding guest speakers, particularly from the Armed Forces.

To 79 International Students

Horton Says 'Welcome, Suh!'

The University again this year is host to a large number of international students.

Eleven such students who attended in previous years are remaining in residence here, while an additional 68 registered for the first time, making a total of 796.

The information was released yesterday by Dr. S. E. Leavitt, adviser to international students, and Col. F. Carlyle Shepard, assistant adviser.

Ham Horton, president of the student body, welcomed the new students, saying: "I appreciate this opportunity to extend to our interntaional fellow students a most cordial welcome on behalf of the student body. It will be a pleasure for us to work with them in class, to live with them in the dorms, and to teach them how lucky they are to become Tar Heels and Rebels. Welcome, suh!"

Students who attended the University last year and are remaining are Ram Singh, India; Khosrow Bassiti, Iran; Purshottam Amersey, India; Alfred Descloux, Switzerland; Enrique Carlos Ezcurra, Argentina; Fang - wen Wang, China; Dina Salvatori, Brazil; Aziz H. Hinein, Egypt; Paul Noble Somerville, Canada; Mr. Jean Souweine, Belgium, and Elizabeth K. Goldie-Smith, England.

New students are Mrs. Aleymma George, India; Chanti Swarup Gupta, India; B. A. Sreenivasa Iyengar, India; Tadepalli V. Narayana, India; K. C. Sreedharan Pillia, India; K. V. Ramachandran, India; Shio Nandan Sahay, India; Jose Francisco Molina, El Salvador; Mrs. Avizonis Angele, Lithuania; Mollie V. Sexton, England; James F. S. Russell, England; Mohamed Tewfik Abd-El-Aziz, Egypt; Aziz Habashy Hinein, Egypt; Roshdy Fam Mansour, Egypt; Gertrude Bauneister, Bavaria.

Willie Boller, Germany; Helmuth Deicher, Germany; Hans Franzen, Germany; Franz Anton Freitag, Germany; Antje Luise Dendtler, Germany; Ilse Garbsch, Germany; Edith Ingeborg Goldschagg, Germany; Rudolf Ernest Greb, Germany; Fritz Hartmann, Germany; Martin Hirschfelder, Germany; Maria Margareta Ingenerf, Germany, Eberhard Kindiger, Germany; Eberhard F. Koehler, Germany; Hans Eckhart Kummer, Germany; Hans Gurgen Lambers, Germany; Erna Klise Martha Liebaug, Germany; Rose Elfriede Luginger, Germany.

Elizabeth Poegaeler, Germany; Albert Foellmann, Germany; Guenther George Pusch, Germany; Martha Agnes Schaefer, Germany; Tuenther Otto Trommer, Germany; Otto Heanrich Vehrenkamp, Germany; Dr. John C. Cassel, Union of South Africa; Maria Louisa Fernandez, Brazil; Taeko Fujita, Japan; Sho Maruyama, Japan.

Sadao Morita, Japan; Hiroshi Takano, Japan; Joyce Marie Dunn, Australia; Angel Ganoza, Peru; Carlos Labarthe Baca, Peru; Eduardo Garcia, Columbia; Jorge Alberto Nantilla, Columbia; S. Zafar Haidri, Pakistan; S. Hamid Hasan Naqavi, Pakistan; Frank Richard Harman, Burma; Atifa Jabry, Lebanon; Rolf Reuben Klasmer, Israel; Enrique Mandiola Chile; Alvaro Mendoza, Venezuela.

Mufid Said Nashashibi, Jordan; Chian Beng NG, Singapore; Emmanuel Papaermanuel, Greece; Edison Rivera, Costa Rica; Jean Mandeville Rosevear, Spain; Yngvar Senstad, Norway; Quen Chang Tso, Formosa; Heikichi Urasaki, Ryukyus Island, Japan; Jirawoot Viruchagool, Thailand; Miguel Toral Viteri, Ecuador; A. E. Sarhan, and Charles Samuel Coval.

Nose In News

Jones Jolts Fagged Fans; Zest Zooms

By Lt. Chuck Hauser

Spirits were getting low toward the end of yesterday's football fracas, and the crowd in the student section demand—and got—the one man they knew could inject a shot of the old-time Tar Heel feeling into things.

And when Durwood "Nose" Jones ascended the platform and called for "Hark the Sound" to be sung so it could be heard in Texas, his followers answered him in true Carolina fashion.

"I don't even want the band to play, Nose shouted. "They make too much racket. Just want to hear you sing." They sang.

Nose Jones, who led cheers in the famous Norm Sper cheering squad in the fall of 1948 and took over the squad toward the end of the season last year, was in demand again. To this old Tar Heel, he was right up there where he belonged.

For a while I sat on the Texas side of the stadium, and the cheering from the opposite stands sounded sluggish, to be kind about it. In the third quarter things picked up, and toward the end of the fourth quarter a "Blue and White" roared across the field and rocked the pine trees looming up behind me. My binoculars told me Nose was at work again.

The people sitting to my rear were optimistic at the start of the game. "Old Snavely's got something up his sleeve this year," they chortled to one another.

But it was a different story after the half. Like rats deserting the foundering ship, they sniveled after the half that it was time to start talking about one-way tickets back to Cornell. I left my seat and headed for a more loyal section of the stadium.

Elizabeth City's champion high school musicians vied for honors during the half with the Carolina card section. It was strictly a two-ring circus affair, with both rings getting cheers and appreciation from the crowd of 40,000 in Kenan Stadium.

"Jones Pork Sausage" floating around in the air several thousand feet up was another familiar sight yesterday. And to inaugurate the new season, Mr. Jones painted his airplane a garish green.

Missing: The gentleman (apparently from Texas) who entranced the Y Court crew Friday morning with his git-tar strumming and singing.

Did anyone say anything about having a spot of T?

Longhorns Score In Three Periods

T. Jones Has Field Day: Tallies One, Passes For Two More In Opening Tilt

By Tom Peacock

The University of Texas methodically ground out a 28-7 football win over a game but outplayed North Carolina team here yesterday before a crowd of 40,000 fans in Kenan Stadium.

The Longhorns dominated the play throughout the game, scoring in three quarters while holding the Tar Heels to 85 yards gained both in the air and on the ground. T. Jones made a strong bid for All-America honors with his near-perfect handling of the Texas split-T, and the Tar Heels couldn't stop the other Texas backs. Gib Dawson, Dick Ochoa, and Dan Pace.

Jones had a field day, scoring one of the Longhorns touchdowns himself, and passing for two more. He flipped a short pass to Doug Cameron for the second Texas score after running for the initial touchdown, and on a pass play covering 65 yards he hit Tom Stolhandske for the third. Ed Quinn bucked over for the last Longhorn touchdown, and the Texans also scored a safety.

The only bright spots of the game for Carolina were the puting of Bud Wallace and the quarterbacking of freshman Marshall Newman, who passed for the lone Tar Heels touchdown late in the last quarter.

With the Tar Heels behind 28-0 and four minutes left in the game, Doug Cameron of Texas fumbled Dick Lackey's punt on the Texas 30, and George Norris recovered for Carolina. Newman went in to run the team for the first time and promptly hit Jeff Newton with a pass on the 14-yard line. On the following play, Newman ran to his left, sidestepped a tackler, and flipped a pass to Ken Keller in the end zone to keep the Longhorns from getting a shutout. Tom Adler converted to make the score 28-7, Texas, with 3:25 seconds left in the game.

After exchanging punts early in the first quarter. Texas took the ball on its own 28 and Jones limbered up his passing arm. The Longhorn quarterback ran one play to the 35, then hit Dawson on the Caroilna 45, and Dawraced down to the 23-yard line before he was stopped. Jones threw again, this time to Tom Stolhandske on the 11-yard line. Pace cracked to the nine, and then Jones kept the ball on an option play around right end for the score. Ingraham's attempt for the conversion was wide, Texas taking a 6-0 lead with 4:23 left in the first quarter.

The Longhonrs struck again (See INEXPERIENCED, page 3)

Carolina Has Great Team, Price Asserts

By Paul Cheney

Coach Ed Price of the victorious Texas Longhorns thought his charges were at their best in conquering the Tar Heels yesterday by a three touchdown margin.

At the same time Coach Price opined that Carolina has a very fine football team, one which will improve as the season progresses.

Price stated that the Longhorn passing game was much improved over last week's opening game performance against LSU. However, the game against the Tigers was played in a steady downpour at Baton Rouge, which somewhat accounts for the improved aerial attack yesterday. On the otherhand the Longhorn mentor thinks the Tar Heels have a sounder ground defense than LSU. Texas was not able to get off as many long distance runs yesterday as they did last week.

The Texas players singled out for special recognition by their coach were end Tom Stolhandske, guard Harley Sewell, and tackle Charles Genther. Price thought that Tom Higgins and George Norris were outstanding defeners for the Tar Heels.

Statistics

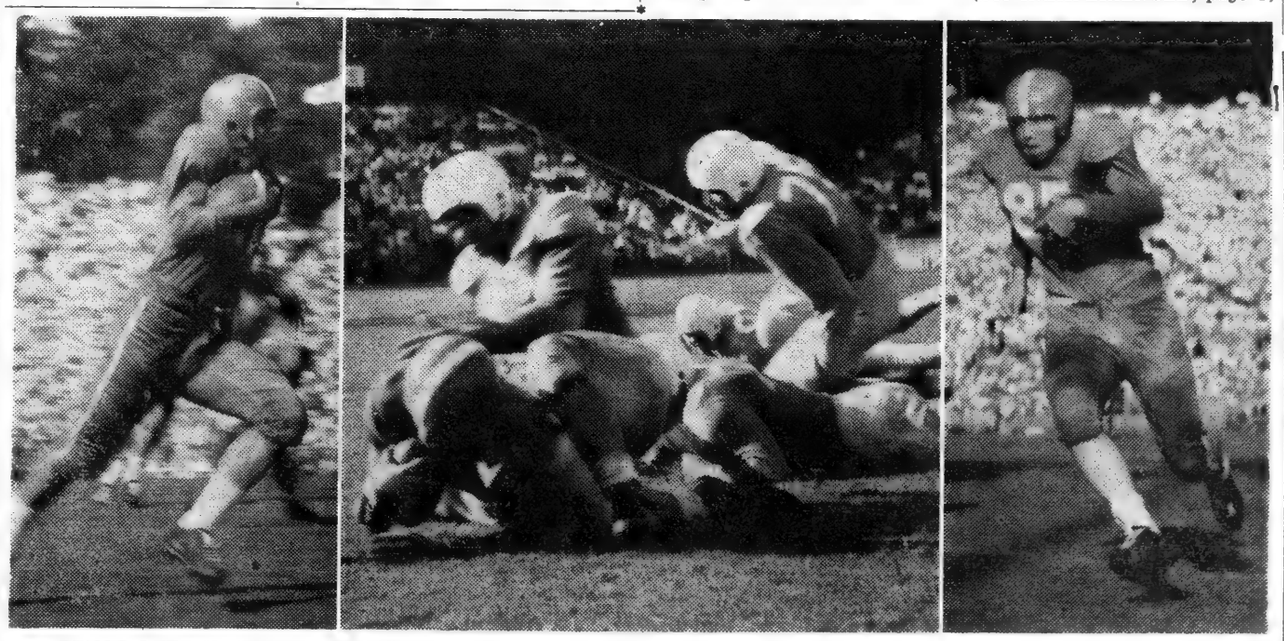
First Down	19	8
Rushing Yardage (net)	193	33
Passing Yardage (net)	193	53
Passes Attempted	15	13
Passes Completed	7	5
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	3	11
Punting Average	34.8	43.8
Fumbles Lost	4	3
Yards Penalized	20	45

Lineups

TEXAS

Left Ends Massey, Spring; Left Tackles Lansford, Petrovich, Cawlik; Left Guards Sewell, Reeder, Leath; Centers McDonald, Barton; Right Guards Branch, Barney, Flinn, Johnson; Right Tackles Genthner, McGraw, Polk, Finchum; Right Ends Stolhandske, Moon, Kitchens, Georges; Quarterbacks Jones, Andrews, Raley, Graham; Left Halfbacks Dawson, Parkinson, Quinn, Anglin, Burket; Fullbacks Ochona, Matthews, White, Kelley, Ingraham; Right Halfbacks Pace, Miller, Rosner, Price, Smith, Miller.

NORTH CAROLINA



Left Ends Kocornik, Norris, Adler; Left Tackles Fredere, Higgins; Left Guards Foti, Hursh; Centers Mullens, Seawell, Bruton, Kirkman; Right Guards Patterson, Neville, Gregory; Right Tackles Yarborough, McCreedy, Eure; Right Ends Starner, Mainer, Walser, Frye, Newton. Quarterbacks Annillo, Williams, Newman, Britt; Left Halfbacks White, Lackey, Bullock, Keller Gravitte; Fullbacks Wallace, Cooke, Davidson, DeWeese; Right Halfbacks Parker, Port, Gaylord, Worrell.

Scoring Summary

TEXAS	6	7	0	15	28
N. CAROLINA	0	0	0	7	7

Texas Scoring: Jones, Cameron, Quinn. Conversion: Dawson 2. Stolhandske. Safety.

N. Carolina Scoring: Keller Conversion: Adler.

TEXAS LEFT HALFBACK BOB RILEY (left photo) returns a Carolina punt 20 yards to the Carolina 14 yards line in the first period of yesterday's game. The play carried 20 yards. Tom Higgins, Miles Gregory, and a third unidentified Carolina lineman down Texas's "T" Jones (center photo) after a short gain in the third quarter. Tom Stolhandske (right photo) begins a 40 yard dash to the third Texas touchdown. It came in the fourth period. Stolhandske grabbed a T. Jones pass near the midfield stripe and skirted the sidelines for the score.—Daily Tar Heel photos by Cornell Wright.

Come On Up

The Daily Tar Heel will hold an organizational meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon for those interested in working on the staff.

The meeting will be held in the Roland Parker Lounges, Graham Memorial. Positions are open in all phases of journalism.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus ..... LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dave Moose, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ellen Downs.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

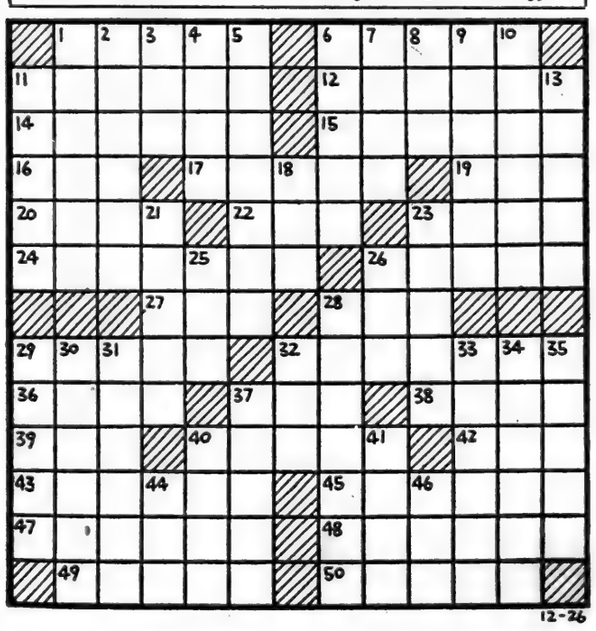
Night Editors for this issue: CH, BF, RN.

Once Upon A Time

I MET A MAN ONCE WHO SAID:

I missed out on my college days. You see, I didn't enter into it quite all the way. I never really got acquainted with a professor. Or even a textbook. Not seriously. I never learned the thrill of digging fosils on a mountain side. Or working till dark over a test-tube. Or getting on the trail of something in the library and searching it down feverishly for hours. I told myself that people who did that sort of thing are queer. And I said that professors were dull and I complained about the classes. I could learn more out of school, I said. I slid through some way without even letting my mind grow curious. And, it's funny, but do you know I feel kind of regretful now when I talk to a scholar. Or go to a library. Or wander through a museum. I missed out on all of that. And I find myself wishing I could go back to college and live those days over again.

I MET A MAN ONCE WHO SAID:



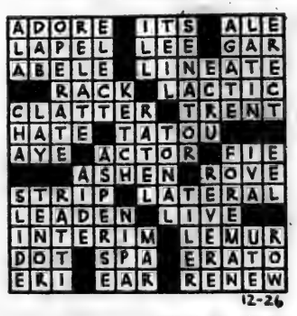
I missed out on my college days. You see, I didn't enter into it quite all the way. Working my through school took all my time, or I told myself it did. The fellows my way used to go bumming around at night and sometimes they'd ask me to go along, but I had to study. It seemed to me a lot of foolishness, the way they used to hang around the college drug store, or loiter on the library steps, or go to snake dances or rallies. I even missed the football games. Froth, I called it. Wasted time; I was in school to study. And, it's funny, but you know I turned away now every time I see a group of college men gathered in a drug store or on a corner of the campus. And every time I see two old college chums slap each other on the back and say, "Remember the time that we . . ." I gulp a little because I missed out on all that, and I find myself wishing I could go back to college and live those days over again.

I MET A MAN ONCE WHO SAID:

I missed out on my college days. You see, I didn't enter into it quite all the way. I was afraid, I guess. I wanted to try for a part in the school play once, but I didn't; I intended to. I went up to the room the night they were reading the parts, but I didn't go in. There were so many there who were better than I, and I turned away and went down the hall. I wanted to try for the football team, too, but I told myself I was light and turned away from the practice field. And It's funny, but do you know that I can't go to see a football game now, because I see myself out on the field or on the stage as I might have been if I hadn't been afraid. And I find myself wishing I could go back to college to live those days over again.

—The Miami Hurricane

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer



12-26

HORIZONTAL
1. underneath
6. crook
11. Spanish seaport
12. reveled
14. positive poles
15. mad
16. breach
17. public warehouse
19. wind direction (abbr.)
20. arrow poison
22. thing, in law
23. biting
24. golf game attendants
26. bear heavily
27. sick
28. river in England
29. steal along
32. blots out
36. raised with exertion
37. continuous loud noise
38. quoit
39. be in debt
40. becomes dim
42. Greek letter
43. leaner
45. harvesting machine
47. absentee without leave
48. importunate
49. dispatches
50. United States Civil War general

VERTICAL
1. tropical fruit
2. ran away secretly
3. youth
4. S-curve
5. spendthrift
6. jaunts
7. fermented grape juice
8. ancient name of Nio
9. posture
10. a game
11. necromancy
13. actions
18. bronze coin
21. Roman magistrate
23. provided with weapons
25. kind
26. close comrade
28. central mass
29. inadequate
30. citadels
31. broad highway
32. prefix: two
33. tilted
34. ancient Jewish ascetic
35. border
37. grimes
40. repair
41. plant formation changes
44. light brown
46. Moslem official title

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

12-26

Average time of solution: 23 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Tune In

Duke University will officially open its Duke Football Network Saturday with a broadcast of the season's opener with Washington and Lee.

—News Item.

Have you heard the latest news yet? Duke has taken to the air . . . They are sending their own games out to the nation . . . They provide their own announcers, and they have no need of sponsors; they just spend their whole darn time deifying their blue monsters, 'cause there's no one to dispute their adulation . . .

They monopolize the broadcasts with their football players' broad pasts . . . from their day of birth to their matriculation . . . There's just one thing I've been fearing: That the day is quickly nearing . . . when their mikemen in their praise of Duke so avidly are cheering, they'll forget to name the college which the Dukes are bravely smearing . . . and I'll tune them off and find another station!

—McCorkle

Express Yourself

Where's POGO?

Editor:

After passin' the summer-like season scattered over the whole U. S. and A., us Tar Heel type o' critters A*rrives back to find a NEW and FULL sized Dainty Tar Hoot—but—a D and TH completably neglecticizing to guv properable AtenTION to that GEE-Rate champeen of SOUTHERN, SOUTHERN, suh, tradition, and the ONLY candidate for the presidency of the U. S. and A. what is innocent an' naive an' dupe enough for the job.

Us is, to quote that candidate, HISSELF, "fraught with farce—trapped in tragedy—decked in despair." CROSS IRRESPONSIBILISM, us calls it! By WILLY DINGO, us points the finger bone of righteous IN*DIG*NA*TION at you editor varmints, and DEEmands that you give us back, to quote our friend B. T. Bridgeport, that "citizen who TOWERS above the crowd, a figure admired and BELOVED my ALL," the lovabobble and cuddable POGO, the POSSUM. Or as Churchy La Femme recently put it so well, "How pierceful grows the lazy yon!

How myrtle petaled thou!

For Spring hath sprung the cyclotron,

How high browse thou, brown cow?"

Drear and dizzimally yours,

A Tar Heel Tad

We traded Pogo for Pearson. Anybody else unhappy?—Eds.

A teacher in a Moscow kindergarten was briefing her youngsters on the gloriously high standard of living enjoyed by those fortunate enough to dwell within the confines of the Soviet Union.

"Tell us, little Ivan," she began. "Who gave us this wonderful school building with a playground, workshop, and exquisite shrubbery?"

"Comrade Stalin," answered the cherub.

"And who gave us this magnificant city with skyscrapers. museums, and broad boulevards?" continued the teacher.

"Comrade Stalin," came the reply.

"And who has transformed our one desolate homeland into a socialist paradise of peace and plenty?"

Once again little Ivan uttered the magic password.

"Excellent," beamed the teacher. "Now tell the class, do you have a portrait of Comrade Stalin on your wall?"

"No."

"Why not?" snapped the shocked, indignant tutor.

"We don't have a wall." whimpered Ivan. "Our family lives in the middle of the room."

"And Now For A Change In Tempo —"

Tommy Sumner

VITRIOL

"Undoubtedly some of the 182 projects would not be under construction today if Congress had had reliable information from the Corps of Engineers, developed by competent engineering and planning."

This statement is from a congressional report investigating excessive costs of construction projects of the U. S. Army Engineers. It seems that the engineers have a habit of making an estimate which is based on chance approval rather than cost of construction and then going ahead and spending the funds in order to make it necessary to commit more to rescue the first.

An example of this technique was a certain Missouri Valley dam project. The original estimate was exceeded by over 3,000%—more than thirty times the estimate.

More recently there was a little air base project started over in Africa. It isn't finished yet—about half done—so the present estimate is only 50% over the original. The difference amounts to about a dollar for every bureaucrat, taxpayer and child in the nation.

One might expect that the results of would be of superfine quality. Does it happen? Uh-uh, the runways (laid six months ago) of those African bases are already breaking up.

With all that gravy the engineers should be downright obese compared with certain five percenters.

And as if this weren't enough they appear to have decided that certain watersheds are out of fashion and should adopt the new look, tailored to fit by the engineers.

Despite the impressive evidence to the contrary and the lack of favorable conditions they have decided that certain areas are convenient sites to practice building huge dams. Just what the need for engineers who are experts in building dams on unlimited budgets is in combat is not quite clear.

Nor is it quite clear why there is a need to destroy millions of dollars worth of fertile farmland to build a flood control system which is demonstrably inadequate as well as far more costly than more efficient methods. Perhaps it will boost farm prices by forcing less fertile land into use and relieving the world of its overburdening food surplus.

Somehow my own mercenary motives keep intruding upon my consideration of this altruism. I keep remembering that every time the government spends a billion dollars it costs me ten plus the hidden taxes.

OLD BOOKS

From Paper-Backs At 2 for 25c On Up To Rare Items. Come See.

Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Welcome Back Students!

You are Invited To Make VARLEY'S Your Headquarters For The Coming School Year, Taking Advantage Of Wearing The Latest In Fashion & Economical Buying——

Varley's
MEN'S SHOP

Ed Yoder

Freshman Camp

To most of Carolina's freshman newcomers, Wednesday, Sept. 17, was the big day—the first day of college. Early in the afternoon on that day, however, another group, easily distinguishable by the rather haggard and unusual air imparted by several days of rustication, made their appearances.

For them, the new life was not just beginning. They were already well on the way in pursuit of Carolina Tradition.

I think that I was lucky to have been a member of this group—of the approximate 170 boys who attended the University Y.M.C.A. camp at New Hope, seven miles from Chapel Hill.

For us, Orientation Week gave knowledge to be stored, not upon a vacuum of ignorance, but upon an already-sound foundation of the spirit, love, cordiality, and loyalty of Carolina.

Remembering the upperclassmen and faculty members who had come to Camp New Hope to talk, sing, laugh, and meditate with us, we felt that we had gained a head start upon the later-arriving freshmen toward the love of the campus and the school. And there were few who had not made many first acquaintances that will lead to lifelong friendships.

Under the direction of Y.M.C.A. board, students, faculty and administration leaders, the Freshman Camp got underway Sunday, Sept. 14.

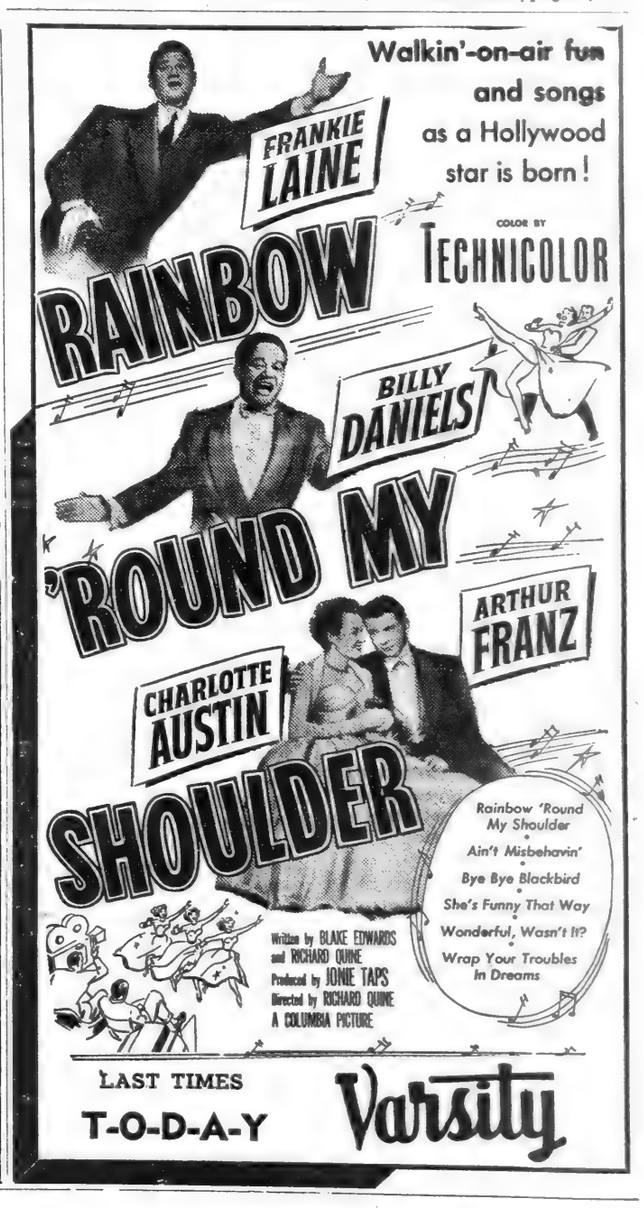
Most of us who had come to Carolina had expected friendliness and helpfulness to be qualities of those leaders whom we were to meet. Yet, the actuality of these expectations surpassed our hopes.

We learned something of the "Carolina Spirit." We became familiar with the magnetism and wonder of this sincerity that binds men with traditions and with a optimism toward the future, not only for themselves, but for the world.

We had mental glimpses of the inspiration of a Thomas Wolfe, a Joseph Caldwell, a James Knox Polk, a Frank P. Graham, and of the meditation that is the fruit of a literal melting pot that molds, from men, buildings, and idealism, the substance of a great state, and of a nation.

Of the many activities of the Freshman Camp program, there were but a negligible few that did not meet with the hearty approval of the campers. From the high regard of "Men and Traditions at Carolina," as interpeted by Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong, and "The Expression of Religion in our College Experience," by Dr. Preston Epps, of the Department of Greeek, to the singing of "Hark the Sound," one could sense that here, in this open environment of camp, were being shaped the men who would exalt Carolina and all of its meaning to an upper stratum of their minds and hearts.

What phase of Carolina life could not be complete without discussions, informal debates, and interest-inspired forums? Certainly, these things were not omitted at Camp New Hope.



Great impressions were left, as persons, from members of the faculty, administration, Y.M.C.A. and student body, led groups of freshmen in hashing over topics that would be vital to them in the future.

Some questions were answered. Some, upon the never-ending topics of such things as student and national government, religious life, and politics, were covered thoroughly, then left to the decision of the individual.

Vice President Logan Wilson's final night address, "Faculty and Students—Co-workers in a Community of learning," was the summation of the freshman camp atmosphere, the realization of the campus's freedom, the allied responsibilities, and wakefulness to the fact that the student's twenty four hours are his own.

Out of the intellectually broadening facets of the camp

(See FRESHMEN, page 3)

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Experience Is The Best Teacher

The value of experience is priceless. A beaten but game bunch of Carolina football players found that out yesterday afternoon when it bowed to a potent Texas team.

With the benefit of two years experience at running the split T attack and already having erased opening game errors by whipping LSU last weekend, the Longhorns dominated the game throughout. It was just an example of a strong experienced team being better than an inexperienced good team.

It looked for awhile, after a first half of agonizing football, that we had finally realized that the Texans put their pants on the same way we do. A defense which had played a commendable first half drew even stingier during the third period and our offense began to click for the first time.

But then our suspenders broke and again the Longhorns caught us with our pants down before we could recover our composure. a 13-0 half-time score had grown to 26-0

A Little Balm

THE FINAL-QUARTER touchdown, ending with a pass from freshamn quarterback Marshall Newman to Jeff Newton, did something to ease the situation but that's all—the more experienced Longhorns had it all the way.

Texas had it all the way—that is with the exception of the first two plays of the game. After the Longhorns had edged over the line a little too far on the opening kickoff, Bob White took the second try and seemed on his way to a TD before he was pulled down from behind. Then on the first play from scrimmage he cracked over tackle for three yards and it looked as though the Tar Heels might be on their way.

But overeagerness halted this move when a 15-yard penalty threw us back. From then on the Texans ran the show until the third quarter.

Lou Britt, inserted in the quarterback position during the third quarter, looked as though he might get our offense going—and he did for awhile. But then our mistakes from inexperience caught up with us again.

King Kong's Clutches

THAT LEFT IT UP to Newman, who had played a steady defensive game, to get us moving. After George Norris had recovered the Texas fumble of the kick after safety on the Longhorns' 30, Newman went to work. Freshman Ken Keller ran the ball to the 20. Then Newman passed to Jeff Newton on the 14 for a first down. On the first play the young quarterback ran to his left, spotted Keller in the end zone and threw. Keller hawled the ball in, squeezing it like a co-ed for our only score.

There was little doubt that we were up against a great team. T Jones, who has not received the previous recognition he deserves, was as smooth a quarterback as could be desired. His ability to hold the ball until he was hit and then cooly pass off, an outstanding characteristic of a great quarterback, was amazing. Too many times the Longhorns made extensive yardage after it seemed that Jones had been tackled.

The heralded Gib Dawson was not used too extensively yesterday but he did add enough to the damage. It was hard-running fullback Dick Ochoa that made the ground give, though. Ochoa, who recovered 128 yards against us last year, led the Texans this time with 77 for an average near four yards a try.

It was comforting though to see Buddy Wallace booting the ball just as well, if not better, as he used to do. His punting was our best offensive weapon in the first half and his quick kick in the second quarter from his own 18 to the Texas five was a thing of beauty.

For those of us who had too high hopes for the Tar Heels and their T, the loss was disappointing. But you have to remember that it was a great team we played yesterday. The Texans were more experienced and as Texas coach Ed Price put it, "After our opening game last year (in which the Texans scored but one touchdown to defeat Kentucky, 7-6) I talked with Don Faurot, who started all this Split T stuff and he told me to hold on. 'It will come in time,' he said. He predicted about the third game for a starting split-T and it worked for us. I think and hope it will for Carolina."

I think and hope so too, Mr. Price.

Managers Meet

Fraternity intramural managers will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in room 304 of Woollen Gym to discuss the upcoming tag football games. Tag entries will be accepted at that time only.

Dorm managers will meet the following Monday at the same time and place.

—Freshman—

(Continued from page 2)

life, blended with the numerous swims, ping pong, soft ball, and volley ball games that contributed toward a goal of well-roundedness, came the knowledge of the University.

Inexperienced Carolina Drops Opener

(Continued from page 1)

five minutes later. Bob Raley took a Wallace punt on the Texas 30. reversed his field, picked up blocking, and ran to the Carolina 35-yard line. Three moreJo passes accounted for most of the remaining yardage. He threw to Stolhandske on the 20 for a first down, to Pace on the seven for another, then pitched out to the left to Cameron, who pranced over for the score. Dawson converted, giving the Longhorn's a 13-0 lead with 42 seconds gone in the second period.

The Tar Heel defense buckled down for 29 long minutes. with Wallace's punting the main factor in keeping Carolina out of trouble. The Carolina defensive line was nearly inpenetrable. with tackle Tom Higgins playing sparkling ball. But a touchdown pass from Jones to Stolhondske just as it seemed the Longhorns were stopped broke Carolina's back. Stolhandske scored with less than four minutes gone in the last quarter. The Texas second string recovered a Tar Heel fumble a few minutes later on the Carolina 30-yard line, and shortly afterwards reserve fullback Billy Quinn scored for the last Longhorn touchdown.

The last Texas score came less than a minute later when Carolina quarterback Dick Lackey fumbled in his end zone and teammate Keller fell on it for a safety and two points for the Longhorns.

The Texas' defense was playing better than even Texas coach Ed Price predicted, and that coupled with the machine-like perfection of the Longhorn offense was too much for Carolina. The Tar Heels gained but eight yards on the ground during the short time they had the ball in the first half.

The lack of Charlie Motta was felt by Carolina, with starter Carmen Annillo not quite good enough to give Carolina a driving punch. In the second half Lou Britt took over the key position in Carolina's split-T, but he could do little more than Annillo. When Newman finally came in to engineer a score, the Longhorns had their second string defense in the game.

Carolina reached Texas territory only three times. and the Tar Heels could never stage a sustained drive. Texas won the toss and elected to kick. and after one kick was called back, Carolina half back Bob White took the second Texas try on his own 12-yard line and raced to the Texas 35 before a shoestring tackle by Ed Kelly brought him down. Texas took over on a fumble by Annillo.

Shortly after the start of the second half Bud Wallace punched over to the Longhorn 47-yard line, but Texas quickly stopped the drive. The other time Carolina made it to the other side of the midfield stripe was when Junior Seawell recovered a Texas fumble to set up the lone Carolina score.

Wallace was continually saving the Tar Heels with tremendous kicks, and once when Carolina was trapped on its 18, Wallace

(See FOOTBALL, page 4)

SEE THE

WALCOTT vs. MARCIANO

FIGHT

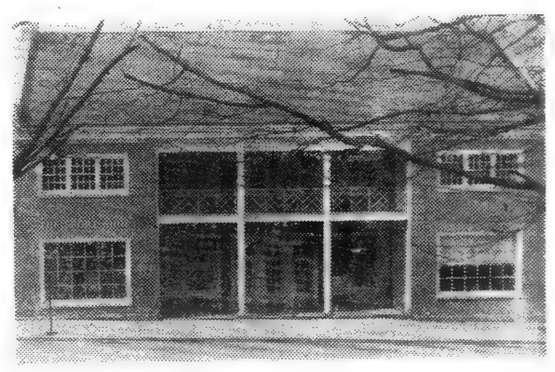
MONDAY — TUESDAY

AT THE

VARSITY THEATRE

FOOTBALL CONTEST

WIN CASH PRIZES EACH WEEK!



Pick The Winners . . . . each week in

THE DURHAM SUN

WIN A DOLLAR!

Football Fans, here's your chance to have some fun and win some cash too. All you have to do is to pick the winning teams during the football season; no scores need be listed, just the winning teams. Each week a list of the football games scheduled for the coming Saturday will appear in a special contest entry blank in The Durham Sun's sports section. You pick 'em right, mail your list to The Sun, and win a dollar. Try to out-guess the experts . . you'll enjoy it.

GET YOUR COPY AT NEWSSTANDS AND DINING HALLS TODAY!

Here Are The Winners Of Our SCHOOL OPENING CONTEST

1—J. C. Golding	$14.95 Slacks
2—Buddy Heins	$6.50 ARROW Sport Shirt
3—Hubbard Pate	$5.95 ENRO Sport Shirt
4—Joe Freeman	$4.50 ENRO Shirt
5—M. O. Register	$3.95 ARROW Shirt
6—N. B. Sinclair	$3.95 Sport Vest
7—J. M. Tyler	$3.50 Wool Sox
8—James A. Graig	$2.50 Silk Tie
9—Tom Burgiss	$2.00 Silk Tie
10—Jim Crouch	$1.00 Esquire Argyles

Thanks To All Those Who Came To Register

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

PRINTS

To Make Your Room Civilized

- AUDUBON
- DEGAS
- MIRO
- PICASSO

Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

— WELCOME —

For Expert Barbering

3 Barbers On Duty

VISIT

TAR HEEL BARBER SHOP

—Basement Next To Sutton's—

. . . But only Time will Tell . . . . . .

CAMEL leads all other brands by billions of cigarettes per year!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Test CAMELS for 30 days for Mildness and Flavor

CAMELS are America's most popular cigarette. To find out why, test them as your steady smoke. Smoke only Camels for thirty days. See how rich and flavorful they are — pack after pack! See how mild CAMELS are — week after week!

New Freshman Group Will Meet Tomorrow

The Freshman Friendship Council will hold its first meeting at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow in Lenoir Hall.

The group will serve as a forum for discussion of freshman problems and as a center for freshman with common interests, Chairman Zack Waters said. He extended a special invitation to coeds.

Waters said that the meeting will feature a program entitled "Fraternity or Independent".

Groups Told To Sign Now For Yack Space

All organizations wishing to have space in the 1953 Yackety Yack should come by the Yack office on the second floor of Graham Memorial between the hours of 2 and 5 tomorrow afternoon to sign contracts and check layouts.

Any organization or fraternity failing to do so will not be included, Business Manager Russ Cowell said.

SP Meeting

The Student Party invites interested students to its initial meeting of the fall at 9 o'clock tomorrow night in Roland Parker Lounges, Graham Memorial.

Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill Hall.

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames and Surgeon Dental Societies will be hosts at open house tonight at 7:30 in the main lounge, Graham Memorial. New dental personnel and affiliates are invited.

Cosmopolitan

The Cosmopolitan Club will meet at 4:30 this afternoon in the Rendezvous Room, Graham Memorial. International and interested North American students are invited.

YDC

The Young Democrats Club will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in Gerrard Hall for an organizational meeting to include election of officers. There will be a general discussion of fall campaign plans.

UP Meeting

The University Party will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Roland Parker Lounge 1, Graham Memorial. Interested students are invited.

Residence Council

The Women's Residence Council will meet tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the Women's Honor Council room, second floor, Graham Memorial.

Yacks Wanted

Students wishing to sell their 1952 Yackety Yacks should bring them by the yearbook office in Graham Memorial any day this week between 2 and 5 p.m. The Yack will pay $3 for books in good condition.

Elections Board

The Elections Board will meet at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow in Roland Parker Lounge 1, Graham Memorial.

University Club

The University Club will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Roland Parker Lounge 1, Graham Memorial.

—Football—

(Continued from page 3)

quick-kicked 77 yards, 61 of them in the air. He had a 43.5 average and had to kick out of bounds twice.

Texas didn't score from early in the second period to early in the fourth period. Higgins and Norris had thrown Jones for long losses back to the Texas 35. and the Longhorns appeared stopped, but Jones wound up and threw to Stolhandske. The big end caught it on the Carolina 40, hesitated for a key block, and raced down the sidelines to increase the Texas lead to 19-0. Dawson's conversion was again bad.

The Longhorns scored again a few moments later when Hugh Reeder recovered Britt's fumble on the Carolina 25. With Bunny Andrews directing, the Texas second string drove for a score in seven plays with Ed Quinn going over from the four. Dawson converted, giving Texas a 26-0 lead.

With less than four minutes to go, Lackey intercepted Andrews' pass on the Carolina one. and ran it back to the nine. On the next play Lackey fumbled in the end zone and Texas scored a safety for a 28-0 lead. Lackey punted from the 20, and Seawell recovered Cameron's fumble to set up Carolina's touchdown. The Tar Heels scored with less than four minutes left and ended up on Carolina on the short end of a 28-7 score.

Doug Lockridge adn Tom Palmer, co-captains of Fort Jackson's 1952 football team are both assigned to the same organization—the 8th Division Military Police Company.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 9336 - CHAPEL HILL

FOR FLOWERS or GIFTS
Your First Thought
IS
UNIVERSITY FLORIST
—130 East Franklin—
"flowers-by-wire Worldwide"

LaMarick's Cold Wave Special!

LaMarick Custom Creme Oil Cold Waves . . . Nationally famous professional permanent.
$12.50 Value
$5.95

LaMarick Deluxe Creme Oil Wave for softer, longer lasting permanent.
$15.00 Value
$6.95

LaMarick Super Deluxe Creme Oil Frigid Cold Wave . . . new, natural-looking permanent.
$25.00 Value
$9.95

MR. ANGELO
IN OUR DURHAM SALON

Each Permanent Wave Includes
- Personality Hair Cut
- Shaping, Tapering, Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curls
- Oil Neutralizer
- Helene Curtis Creme Rinse
- Setting
- Free Consultation on All Work

We feature only professionally and nationally advertised products, or products by nationally known manufacturers such as Fashion-Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Breck, Clairol, Revlon, Flexa-Wave and LaMarick Frigid Cold Wave.

All permanents individually priced and opened before you. This is for your protection as our customers. Request this always in your beauty salon.

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
Phone Durham 29201

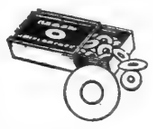
HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
Phone Raleigh 3-1726
LaMarick Shops

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

SEND THE DAILY TAR HEEL HOME and let your parents know what is happening on campus. $4.00 per year—$1.50 per quarter—Carolyn Reichard, Subscription Mgr. —210 Graham Memorial

N. C.—D. T. H.



HELP WANTED: FEMALE 8A

SALESGIRLS AND OFFICE HELP needed. Call Robbins 9-477.

(ch. 1x1

SCHOOL SUPPLIES . . . THE Kind That Make Learning Easy

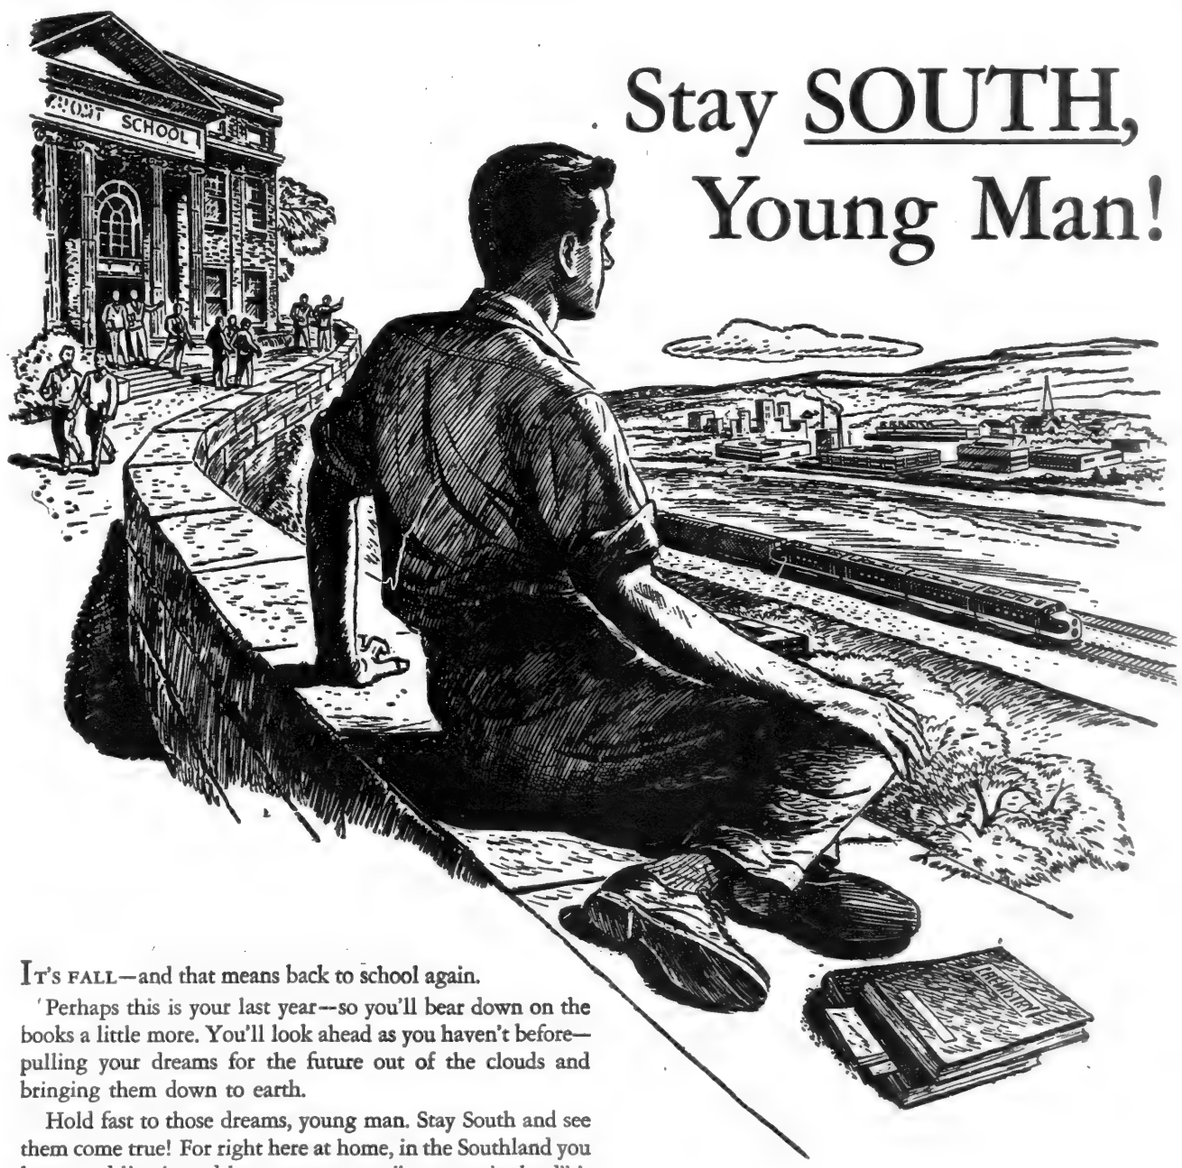
If Your Fountain Pen Leaks, It Not Only Inconveniences You —— It Impedes Your Progress At U. N. C. —— So, Drop By For The Pen Yon Need —— Also Drop By and See Our——

- NOTEBOOKS
- PENCILS
- TYPEWRITER EQUIPMENT
- GREETING CARDS
- STATIONARY



LEDBETTER - PICKARD
157 E. Franklin St. Phone 4611

There's something magnetic about men who wear Arrow White Shirts

Arrow Gordon Dover: popular button-down oxford, $4.50.

ARROW
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

It's FALL—and that means back to school again.

Perhaps this is your last year—so you'll bear down on the books a little more. You'll look ahead as you haven't before—pulling your dreams for the future out of the clouds and bringing them down to earth.

Hold fast to those dreams, young man. Stay South and see them come true! For right here at home, in the Southland you know and live in and love, a great new "opportunity-land" is coming of age, where dreams can take root and grow into reality.

In Southern industry, agriculture and commerce, new frontiers are opening up on every hand. Here, horizons are limitless for young men of courage, competence and vision. You are the youth of the South today. You will be the leaders of the South tomorrow.

Look ahead—stay South, young man!

Henry A. DeButts
President

THE SOUTHERN SR SERVES THE SOUTH

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Also
LATEST
News

Today and Monday
CAROLINA

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER

Partly cloudy and mild today with 80 high. Yesterday's high, 76; low, 59.

The Daily Tar Heel

TASK

Sports Editor chews Sports Editor. The details in Down in Front on page 3.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 6 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

POLITICAL NOTABLES TO ADDRESS STUDENTS

★ ★

Gordon Gray Pleads Case For Physical Improvements

Requests Million For Student Union

By John Jamison

RALEIGH, Sept. 29—"For some strange reason the State has done little for student activities at Chapel Hill," said President Gordon Gray here this morning in presenting the 1953-54 budget requirements of the Consolidated University.

Gray, speaking before the Advisory Budget Commission, pleaded the case for the physical improvements needed at the three institutions.

He recommended for the University at Chapel Hill a $1,200,000 allocation for a student union building, pointing out that up to now facilities for student activities at UNC have been provided from private funds and are seriously insufficient because of increases in enrollment since their construction.

An auditorium-armory capable of accommodating the entire student body, was recommended at $1,500,000. This building would provide an assembly hall for the Student Entertainment series and lectures to the student body sponsored by various organizations on campus.

As it was presented today, the proposed budget for the Consolidated University totals over 18 million dollars.

Gray complained with special vigor about the seats in Memorial Hall. "Those seats are the same ones which were used in the first building to occupy that site. They are now about 67 years old." Forty-six thousand, one hundred dollars has been recommended for providing new seats for this auditorium.

The budget request submitted today will be studied in detail by the Commission. This group will make any changes in the recommendations which seem necessary and will present the revised request or the total request to the General Assembly in January.

Should the projected budget pass the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly construction of the various buildings still would probably not get under way until July 1, 1953, the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Chief items regarding permanent improvements at Woman's College were an art building, $950,000; General College classroom building, $750,000; addition to the music building, $478,000, and a new dormitory, $500,000.

Another item for WC was termed "security measures in Market St. Woods Area, $60,000." This would include moving the main campus entrance to Market Street and surrounding the woods with some type of growing fence.

"This would give the Woman's College campus an integrity which it does not now enjoy," Gray said.

Improvements recommended for State College included a General College classroom, $780,000; military science building, $600,000; an addition to Thompson Gymnasium, $500,000, and facilities for the School of Design, $540,000.

A total of $2,538,000 was requested for the Division of Health Affairs at Chapel Hill. Chief item in this division would provide $1,010,000 for a new pharmacy building and equipment.

'They Got Oil'

Aldai's Not Demos' Only Funny Boy

As spokesman for yesterday's budget request before the Advisory Budget Commission in Raleigh, President Gordon Gray was obliged to say a few words about his own salary.

Upon the advise of a Trustee committee, Gray pointed out to the commission that he was offered a salary of $17,500 to become president of the consolidated University. His present salary is $12,360. This was mentioned along with a request for general increases in the salaries of top-level administrators in the University.

In the course of his explanation Gray pointed out that Dr. Logan Wilson, vice-president of the University, will receive a salary higher than any mentioned in yesterday's meeting when he becomes president of the University of Texas.

Gov. W. Kerr Scott was heard to say, "They got oil in Texas."

Night Spot Getting Set To Reopen

The Carolina Club will reopen tonight after a $1,500 fire closed its doors last Wednesday morning.

Don Forbes, co-owner, pointed out yesterday afternoon that the Chapel Hill Fire Department is not permitted to leave the city limits, so the owners, along with a host of helpful neighbors, hooked up a garden hose and extinguished the blaze, but not before it had done considerable damage.

Forbes said 300 feet of ceiling in the main room have been replaced along with the cash register and a number of signs that were melted during the fire.

To celebrate the reopening tonight, couples will be treated to all the drought beer they can consume during the evening. A price tag of $2.48 was attached to the offer.

Frosh Have 2 More Days

Managing Editor of the Yackety Yack Bob Colbert was pleased yesterday for the first time in weeks—some freshmen actually showed up in coat and tie to have pictures made for the 1953 yearbook.

Tomrorow is the last day for freshmen to have pictures made. Time for the settings tomorrow is from 2 until 9 o'clock in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

With the freshmen down and the rest of the student body yet to go Colbert will be faced with the same old problem—nobody comes around to have their picture made.

No Drinking

Coeds are reminded to observe the Interfraternity Court rule prohibiting the drinking of alcoholic beverages on fraternity property.

Phin Horton, spokesman for the IFC, yesterday said although there were no reports of violations this past week-end, the IFC thought it best to remind coeds of the rule.

NEWS IN BRIEF

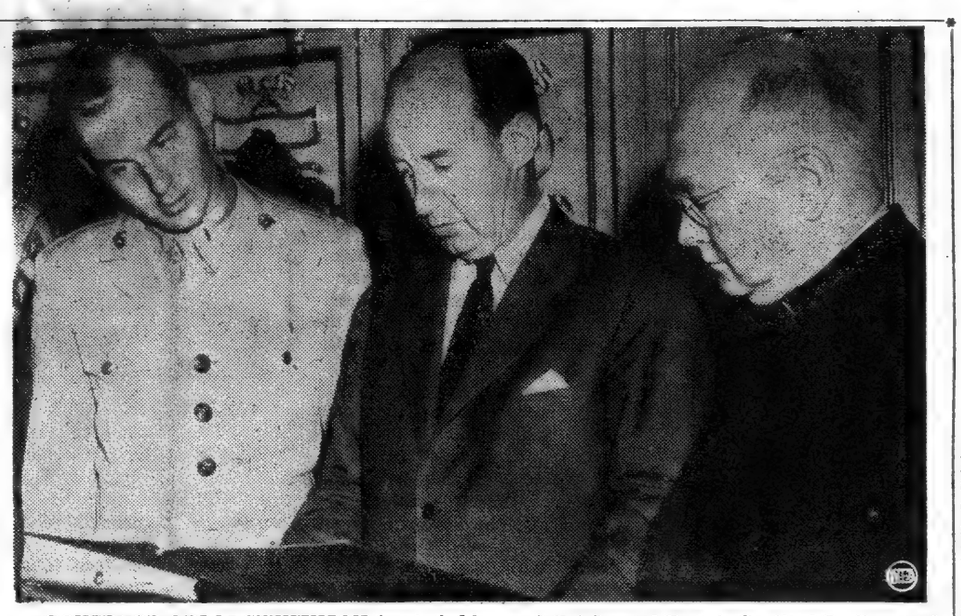
NEW YORK—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced yesterday that he will make public his entire financial situation. The Republican presidential candidate thus accepted an implied challenge from Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic presidential nominee, to bare the status of his finances

Stevenson made public Sunday his income and tax payments for the past 10 years. (See related picture on page four.)

★

WASHINGTON—Former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath denied yesterday a Congressional charge that he sabotaged the administration's anti-corruption drive last spring. McGrath was ousted from President Truman's cabinet a few hours after he had summarily fired Newbold Morris as chief corruption hunter. A House Judiciary subcommittee has been trying ever since to find out just what happened.

★



ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN — President Truman yesterday bitterly denounced Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's charges of corruption in government by calling him a 'front man for an unholy crew" of lobbyists using that issue as "a political football." Truman tore loose wtih one of his most scathing attacks on the Republican presidential nominees in a whistle stop-speech at Fargo, N. D., where he told a trainside crowd they'd better hesitate about returning the Republicans to power if they "want to avoid a third world war."

★

PARIS—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway disclosed yesterday a serious lack of Allied air base facilities in Western Europe and put the major share of the blame on France. The Allied commander in chief said that even by next summer the Allies will not have the "rock-bottom minimum" of airfields needed for defense against any Russian attack.

★

SEOUL, Korea — Rampaging American Sabre jets knocked down two Communist MIG-15 jet fighters yesterday and damaged two more in a force of 150 which tried desperately to halt Allied fighter-bomber strikes in northwest Korea. Yesterday's air victories brought the Sabres' September toll to 60 MIG's destroyed, seven probably destroyed and 55 damaged.

GOVERNOR ADLAI STEVENSON (center), his son, Adlai Jr., and Francis Cardinal Spellman, of New York, study a page in the famed Guttenberg Bible during a luncheon engagement. Stevenson was in New York to address the AFL convention, and again refused to comment on the plight of Senator Richard M. Nixon.—NEA Telephoto.

Good Book's Gonna Be Better

New Version Of Bible Will Say Things So All Can Understand

By Tom Parramore

A new version of the Bible will take the dullness out of Scripture study.

The lowdown on the new edition was heard yesterday from Dr. Bernard Boyd, head of the Religion Department here. He spoke to a YWCA Cabinet meeting.

The most striking change in the new edition, which goes on sale today, is that it largely is in poetry, Dr. Boyd said. He said the reason for this is that "we become poetic in the endeavor to express feelings and truths which are so deep as to be nearly unexpressible.

"I become poetic when I talk of Jesus because it is the strongest thing I know. Just so for a Jeremiah or a Luke. They were talking about eternal truths which refuse the limitations of mere prose."

Dr. Boyd's talk included a discussion and evaluation of the new Bible. He blamed the dullness of present day Bible study partly on professors, partly on students for not being able to transfer a written page into a living experience, and partly on the editors of our present Bible who have made pages too thin, printing too small, and form too unintelligible for clear understanding.

He said that changes in the new Bible have been made only to clarify ambiguous statements.

"It says things in the kind of words you and I hear everyday," he commented.

Dr. Boyd opened his lecture by urging "practicing the precedence of God" despite the multiplicity of college interests. He said other interests should not be disregarded but that religion should be primary. He also suggested the beginning of a program of regular Bible reading, which would be infinitely easier with the new version.

"There are only three religious alternatives for the modern man," Boyd stated. "These are Buddhism, Mohammedanism, and Christianity."

He went on to explain that Christianity was the only locical choice of the three, since the other two religions do not necessarily depend on the existence of a God, and that we must believe in an ominpotent if we accept the fact that we live in "an intelligent and intelligible universe. The Bible is the book which is the special medium of the devine revelation", Dr. Boyd added.

Two Hospitalized With Injuries

Kappa Sigma pledge and a fraternity brother remained in the hospital here last night after being seriously injured Saturday night in an automobile accident on Highway 54 as they returned from Greensboro.

Kappa Sigs reported Charlie Spillane, Savannah, Ga., and Hal Farrell, a pledge from Graham, were injured when their car wrecked about 12 mile from Chapel Hill. Two others riding were not seriously hurt, the fraternity spokesmen said.

No Murderers Among Them

Chapel Hill Policemen Search For 10 Escapees

A search for 10 convicts who sawed their way out of the Orange County prison camp near Hillsboro Sunday was concentrated yesterday here and in Durham.

None of the 10, one of whom is a Durham man, had been captured by early yesterday afternoon.

An all-night search through the rural countryside failed to turn up new traces of the fleeing fugitives who pulled a perfectly-executed Sunday night break.

Police here and at Durham maintained close watches at bus and railroad stations. Authorities expected the fugitives to make for Durham and Chapel Hill where by mingling with thousands of newly-arrived students they would be difficult to spot.

Brack Craig, veteran superintendent of the camp, reported that bloodhounds apparently followed a group of the escapees along the railroad tracks and footpaths almost to Carrboro before the trail vanished in a Negro section some two miles from Chapel Hill.

State Prisons Director Walter Anderson described the fugitives as "mostly burglars and highway robbers." He said none of them apparently was armed and "I don't believe there were any murderers among them."

198 Coeds Attend Rush Week Kickoff

One hundred and ninety eight new coeds attended the Panhellenic Tea Sunday afternoon, indicating their desire to go through rush.

The tea officially opening sorority rush week at UNC was held from 4 to 6 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Traditionally a dressy affair, the tea was attended by Dean Katherine K. Carmichael, Panhellenic advisers, members of all sorority advisory boards and Panhellenic representatives from each sorority on campus.

Yesterday was scheduled as a day of rest with individual rush parties beginning today and ending tomorrow. Each sorority will have three parties tonight and tomorrow night. All girls are invited to these first parties.

Invitations will be picked up throughout rush at the Panhel post office in the Horace Williams Lounge, Graham Memorial. At the time invitations are picked up, rushees also may sign up for the time at which they wish to attend each party.

Thursday and Friday there will be five parties, so one sorority must be omitted. Three of these parties will be on Thursday night and two on Friday night.

Saturday is a day of rest and four parties are on the agenda for Sunday. By decreasing the number of parties in this gradual way, Panhellenic hopes to give both rushees and sorority members plenty of time to make decisions, its officers say.

Next Monday there will be only three parties followed by a day of rest on Tuesday. On Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 8 and 9 there will be a dinner party each night, and on Friday Oct. 10. All girls intending to pledge a sorority will sign preferential lists on which they will write their first and second choice. Preferentials will also be signed at the Panhel post office.

Danziger Welcomes German Profs, Guests

Seventeen German exchange teachers and other guests were welcomed by the Danzigers with food and German songs yesterday in the Old World Restaurant.

The group is at UNC under the exchange teacher plan of the United States Office of Education. Four of their seven months in the United States will be spent in Chapel Hill as special observers.

Estes Kefauver Will Speak This Winter

Franks, McCarthy, Lehman, FDR Jr. Also May Come

Some of the country's top political notables will bring students a personal report on current affairs in speeches scheduled to be given here this year.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), French Ambassador Henri Bonet and Secretary of Army Frank Pace are some of the well-known figures who will speak in Chapel Hill under the auspices of the Carolina Forum.

The kick-off speech of the year will be October 21 or October 28. The speaker has not been chosen, Forum Chairman Ken Penegar said yesterday, but will be either Secretary of Navy Dan Kimball; Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg; Vice-Admiral Turner Joy recent negotiator for the Korean truce talks, or Admiral William Fechteler, Chief of Naval Operations.

Pace will be in Chapel Hill on December 4; Humphrey will speak sometime in January, and Charles E. Wilson, former defense mobilizer, will talk, on January 22.

The former First Lady, who spoke here in February, 1950, will return again this February. Kefauver, defeated candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, will be here in late January or early February. Bonnet and the Assistant Secretary of State for the Far East Dean Rusks will also speak here during winter quarter, said Penegar.

Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador, Senator Henry C. Lodge, Jr. (R-Mass.), Senator Joseph R. McMarthy (R-Wis.), Senator William Benton (D-Conn.), Senator Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.) Senator Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Congressman Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (D-N.Y.) are tentatively scheduled for this year, Penegar said.

Men's Dorms Elect Tonight

Nominations for men's dorm officers will be made tonight at dorm meetings, IDC President Paul Somerville said yesterday.

Candidates for officers of president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and inter-dormitory council representive will be selected tonight. Dorm elections will be held next Wednesday.

Officers of IDC were elected last spring. They are President Paul Somerville, Conner; Vice-president Bill Acker, Ruffin; Secretary W. D. Gerley, Graham; Treasurer John Ingle, Graham.

Ring Sale

Sale of official UNC class rings will be held Thursday from 2 until 4:30 p.m. in the Y Lobby.

Ralph Craver, Grail ring chairman, yesterday requested all seniors to place their orders promptly to facilitate delivery.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus ..... LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace PridgenNews Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev BaylorCirc. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue BurressSoc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dave Moose, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ellen Downs, Tom Parramore.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.

Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Tom Peacock.

Chloe!

Prior to Saturday's game a multitude of visitors were futilely combing the campus trying to locate friends, acquaintances, sisters, and ex-roommates who were well dispersed throughout the dormitories, fraternity houses, and private rooms in town.

There was no central bureau with names and addresses of all the students neatly indexed to supply information. Despite the gallant efforts of the YMCA, the student directory won't roll off the presses for several weeks so in many cases it was just a timely coincidence when searcher and searchees managed to get together.

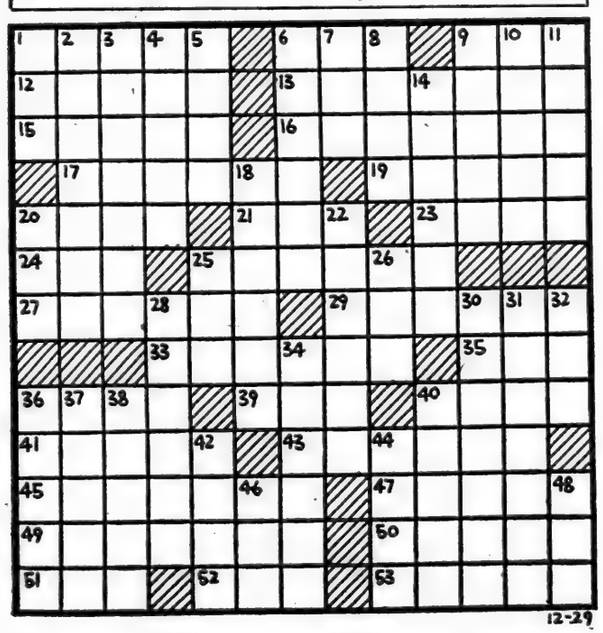
For years guests have left Chapel Hill with only one complaint—"It's impossible to find anybody."

Take a hypothetical case. A coed from Cornell drives into Chapel Hill one night and tries to look up a sophomore she met on a houseparty at Wrightsville Beach last spring. Or it might be somebody with an important notice or an emergency message.

South Building is usually vacant before five p.m. which eliminates that mean of locating a student. Copies of the student directory are frequently hard to come by, and even if one can be found chances are excellent that the student's address is outdated. The visitor's only recourse is to grab a telephone, make himself comfortable, and launch a haphazard manhunt.

The campus stands in need of a central agency, bureau, office, or secretariat which is equipped to provide up-to-date addresses of students and faculty members from morning until midnight.

THE DAILY TAR HEEL recommends that an early session of the Student Legislature address itself to the problem of helping our friends find us and emerge with a workable solution for speedy implementation.



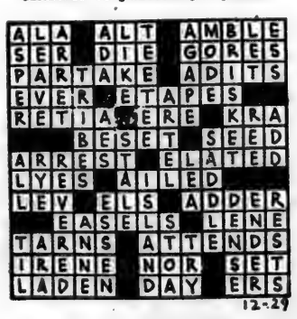
Athens Paper Please Copy

Okay, so the Tar Heels lost last Saturday.

The Boys in Blue were decisively impaled upon the jagged Longhorns of the invaders from Texas.

So what? Let us all bear in mind that there's many a camp fire the forest rangers thought were extinguished that ended up burning down three thousand acres of timber.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer



12-29

HORIZONTAL
1. multitudes
6. anecdotes
9. cyprinoid fish
12. ward off
13. settles
15. sister of Circe
16. instruments for opening
17. encircler
19. chagrin
20. stop
21. allow
23. short-eared mastiff (her.)
24. mountain aborigine
25. interment
27. blasted
29. cubic metric units
33. Black Sea port
35. epoch
36. section
39. river in Brazil
40. masculine name
41. combine
43. barrel hoops
45. retaliation
47. goddess of love
49. reviser
50. accustom
51. eternity
52. ocean
53. Dutch painter

VERTICAL
1. son of Noah
2. ate too much
3. seats near altar
4. river in England
5. male caribou
6. worshiper
7. cotton fiber knots
8. high cards
9. standard of perfection
10. true skin
11. Ruhr capital
14. breathe in
18. evader
20. possesses
22. French painter
25. couch
26. Luzon Negrito
28. decayed
30. income from property
31. obliteration
32. river in Poland
34. Canaanite chieftain
36. thick soup
37. wind: comb. form
38. split
40. happening
42. completes
44. class of birds
46. to the right
48. Japanese coin

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

12-29

Average time of solution: 27 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber Personally Olympic Diary

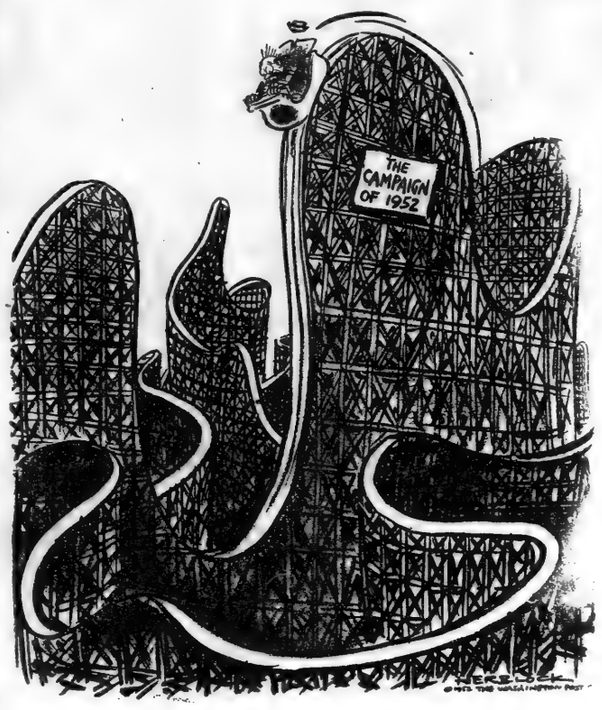
ABOARD THE S.S. AALLOTAR (Off the coast of Soviet Estonia enroute to Helsinki), July 17—Try to picture seven hundred tourists from twenty five nations, armed with the animated Olympic spirit plus barrels of tax free whiskey, jammed into a Finnish ferry boat designed to accomodate less than half that number and you may get a hazy idea how it fells to be part of the international pilgrimage to Helsinki.

This floating Mardi Gras steamed out of Stockholm harbor carrying a bulging cargo of sports lovers on their last lap of a tiring journey from all parts of the planet; America, Argentina, South Africa, and New Zealand. The first chug of the engines found over seventy five people trying to get comfortable in a stern-size cubicle that would ordinarily hold thirty —provided they were all thin, had no baggage, and knew each other well. By high noon the cosmopolitan mass of humanity had gravitated into every available cubic inch of space, including hallways, showers, and toilets, to brace themselves for the twenty hour voyage across the Baltic Sea. By suppertime nobody even bothered to say "excuse me" when he found his foot lodged between another passenger's shoulder blades.

At first everybody just stared at his neighbor. Then those who could leap the language barrier began to argue. Arguing comes quite naturally for weary, irritated travellers who find themselves in such uncosy juxtaposition with equally irritated travellers of twenty five different nationalities. A Swede and a Norwegian argued over who belonged at table six. A Greek and a Belgian argued over who belonged in Cabin twenty eight. A Yugoslav and an Italian argued over who belonged in Trieste.

A Mexican accidentally splattered catchup over a Parsian's white summer frock. The Moslem swore vengeance in the name of Allah. The Mexican snarled and told the hapless Moslem to point his miserable mutt toward Mecca and meditate.

At eight o'clock the doors of the saloon swung open and the multilinguial hordes proceeded to drown their differences in a tidal wave of alcohol. Everybody became old friends at once. Four Australians hoisted a bewildered Arab onto their shoulders and guided him through the lyrics of "Waltzing Matilda" as a Brazilian tried gallantly to follow the melody on his ukulele. The Mexican was showing the Moslem how to dance a fandango while a swarthy Syrian and an Israeli swapped shashlik recipes. A drunk Texan asked the purser if he was on the right boat. A drunk Swede drifted from table to table asking every woman under forty five to marry him. A drunk Portuguese bought two bottles of expensive champagne and gleefully poured the contents over the elderly passengers trying to sleep on the deck below.



Out on deck a rusty victrola wheezed Strauss waltzes and American hill-billy tunes as the ladies and gentlemen, few of whom could understand each other, danced and pranced back and forth with all the dignity they could muster on a wet floor that rolled thirty degrees every fifteen seconds.

At two a.m. the Arctic sun rose in full glory and the sleepy passengers scurried about with blankets, sleeping bags, towels, table cloths, and ponchos looking for a few vacant feet of floor space. An even hundred exhausted travellers lay entwined on the frigid after deck in a gnarled pattern resembling a Portuguese mosaic. Whenever one person shifted his position to avoid arterial strangulation, everybody else had to wake up, shift in the same key, and start all over again.

At four o'clock a steward tapped me on the shoulder and asked if I would like to climb up to the bridge and take my first glimpse of Soviet Russia. A dim pin point of light on the southern horizon marked the Baltic frontier of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

"It looks much better from this side," said an Estonian refugee as the "Aallotar" veered northeast toward free Helsinki.

Wheeee!

Drew Pearson The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — General Eisenhower commented ruefully on how easily the public changes its mind and cracked a joke about southern prejudice and the Pope at his private luncheon with Maryland's Governor Theodore "the mouth" McKeldin.

The two men and their wives were served behind the guarded doors of Eisenhower's private railroad car which comes equipped with its own kitchen and a special chef to cater to the General's tastes.

As the campaign train clickety-clacked across Maryland, Ike got to musing about his evangelical running mate, Senator Dick Nixon. The General remarked that public opinion on Nixon had reversed overnight and drew a comparison with the late General George Patton. Ike recalled that Patton had been a national heel after he slapped a hospitalized G.I., then overnight became a national hero as he drove spectacularly through Germany.

"And both of them had tears in their eyes when I met them," said Eisenhower.

This reminded McKeldin of a man who had been bitterly opposed to Patton until he learned that old "Blood and Guts" was a Virginian. After that the Virginian became a Patton rooter.

"That reminds me," said the General, still munching on an after-dinner apple. about a confused Virginian who had been listening to Anti-Catholic propagainst Al Smith during the 1928 campaign. "I'm going to vote against this fellow Smith." argued the Virginian, "to keep Mr. Pope from running the country."

"But," argued a Democratic politician, "Mr. Pope is married to a lady from Virginia."

"Oh, well. then, that's different," replied the southerner.

Note: Mamie Eisenhower had little to say during the luncheon, except to comment that they were both having a good time but were in bad need of a rest.

The Eisenhower-Nixon talk was an extremely healthy thing from the point of view of Republican harmony, because signs of bad blood had been developing between the two top GOP running-mates.

Newspapermen covering the Nixon trip either ignored it or played the story down. However, Nixon's aides were boiling at Eisenhower for even entertaining the thought that he be dropped from the ticket. That was why Nixon deliberately ignored the General's telegram requesting him to see him "at once."

Instead, the potential next vice-president of the United States flew not to the Eisenhower train but to Missouri, Mont. And when newsmen queried the Nixon entourage in Los Angeles as to why he wasn't going to see Ike immediately, Nixon's press secretary James Bassett bluntly replied: "We are going to Montana."

Nixon's strategy was first to show that he was not a boy candidate to be pushed around; second, to let public sentiment build up in favor of keeping him on the ticket.

Furthermore, it was no accident that Nixon asked his listeners to send telegrams to the Republican National Committee, not to the General. He knew its members, most of them professionals, would be much more sympathetic. Also Nixon's staff made it all too clear to the newspapermen around them that they bitterly resented the General's telegram from Cleveland that "my personal decision will be based on a personal conclusion."

Press secretary Bassett has been one of the most zealous Nixon aides. and was one of those who virtually took the telephone away from his chief in Portland, Ore.. to tell Senator Seaton of Nebraska aboard the Eisenhower train that Ike advisers should get some backbone. This was why Bassett was brought into the picture when the two candidates finally met at Wheeling.

Originally it was arranged for Eisenhower and Nixon to meet in Rooms 782 and 784 in Wheeling's McClure Hotel. Mrs. Eisenhower and her elderly mother, Mrs. Dowd, were down the hall in rooms 790-792, while the security guard was in room 780 next to the General. However, when the two candidates learned of the crowds outside the hotel. the two men went to the special train instead.

There they talked for an hour. They did not. however, discuss the $18,000 expense fund which had set the politics of the nation almost on its ear. Not a word was said about it. Their main decision was to concentrate the campaigns on what they decided to call the "big three'—Korea, Communism and corruption.

Republican surveys have shown that these three issues have made the biggest impact on the voters, of which the most important is Korea.

Only way in which the $18,000 fund was touched upon indirectly was because Eisenhower had been provoked at Nixon for not clearing his first statements. He urged closer cooperation. And since Ike had an early whistle-stop appearance, Senator Seaton of Nebraska paternally insisted he go to bed.

After this, Bassett and Jim Hagerty, an old campaigner under Governor Dewey. joined the conference.

Bassett, puffing a big cigar, made the compartment resemble the Blackstone Hotel's famous smoke-filled room. Finally candidate Nixon asked Bassett for a cigar, leaned back and smoked what he said was the first cigar of his campaign. He was feeling a lot better.

Note—There have been other cases where the president and vice-president, though members of the same party clashed. Most famous is probably the case of Calvin Coolidge and Vice-President Charley Dawes. Dawes was even suspected of arriving late for an important tie vote in the Senate in order to thwart his chief in the white house.

Harry Snook NONPLUS

"What say. Jim, 'nother pitcher?"

"Sure, might as well. Got th' whole quarter ahead for study."

While his roommate gets the sixty cents' worth of light, Jim is thinking. This is not unusual for a freshman, but Jim is a sophomore and should know how to ward off such rare moods. But then sometimes a students gets to be a senior before he never thinks anymore.

When Quip returns with the beer, he sees Jim's face all screwed up and knows he's in for it. Jim, however, carefully pours his glass full with a minimum head before he begins to talk.

"You know. Quip," he says then, "I been wondering about people and how come they're kinda backward.

"Take politics. Everybody talks about how sad politics is these days. There're a lot of crooks in office, and all these investigations. And you don't know who to vote for because all the politicians make so many promises you know they can't live up to 'em. Everybody sees this and cusses a little about it.

"Then we get out and vote for the fellow that made the most promises."

"Yeah," Quip answers in very lackluster fashion. "What's that got to do with sex, huh?"

"That's what I'm telling you. It's sex, too.

"You go around and hear complaints about the obscene magazines and the vulgar movies and how the billboards use too much cheesecake.

"But whatever's got the most sex with it, that's what most people buy or read or go see."

Quip doesn't say anything when Jim quits talking long enough to fill up with suds again and he's hoping his friend's thinking spell has run its course.

"There's religion." Says Jim emphatically, and Quip lets out a big sigh.

"The biggest SOB I know at home is an elder in my church. He's downright fanatical about Jesus on Sunday mornings, and you'd never know he'd heard the name any other time during the week.

"But what really gets me is how you'd expect things to be different at a university like this. You'd think this'd be one place where people would practice what they learn. But it isn't.

"This here so-called honor system.

"You gotta sign a little card saying you're honorable. Tell me, just tell me, who wouldn't sign it? It's like those I'm-No-Communist pledges—the commies jumped at the chance to sign 'em.

"And where does honor come in?

"Does anybody take your word for an absence? Hell no, you got to have a signed excuse. I know a fellow that woke up one morning with a terrible cold and ended up with flu because he had to go to the infirmary in the rain for an excuse."

"Yeah. it's a bunch of crap," Quip interrupted. "What say we turn in, huh?"

"Yeah, guess that's a good idea."

Express Yourself

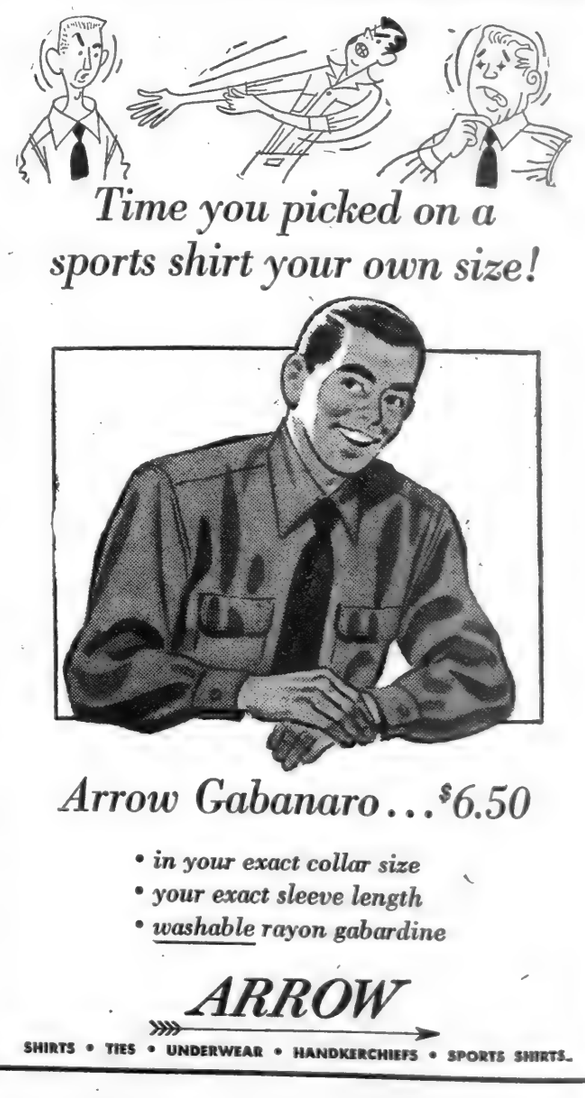
From the Heart

Editor:

On behalf of the Durham-Orange County Heart Association I wish to thank the Campus Chest for its generous donation to our fund in 1952. It was this donation which finally put us over the goal set for this year. The Heart Association is very grateful to the individual donors who made this allotment possible.

Sincerely,
Lois Foote Stanford, M.D.
President, Durham - Orange County Heart Association

A Texas farm hand being inducted into the Army was asked by the sergeant if he belonged to any party whose aim was to overthrow the government.



"Yes," snapped the Texan. "The Republican."

The impatient driver of a new Buick with Massachusetts licence plates was futilely trying to honk his way through a traffic jam in a small town in southern Georgia.

"Hey, Bud," he shouted to a shuffling pedestrian. "What's the hold up?"

"It's like this," drawled the southerner contemptuously. "We've just caught another Yankee and there's going to be a lynching."

I GO POGO
Is Here Again!
$1.00
INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
OPEN EVENINGS

Gaylord, Williams, Walser Sidelined With Injuries

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Cornering Horner

JACK HORNER, SPORTS editor of the Durham Morning Herald, has seen a lot of Carolina football games. Like the rest of us he sat through the past two seasons waiting for Tar Heel victories which never came. Game by game you could read his Sunday morning account of the affairs and actually see the cogs turning in his head. It was obvious that he was dissatisfied.

But this past Sunday, the day after our Tar Heels were defeated by Texas, 28-7, Horner let the throttle lose on his get-rid-of-Carl-Snavely move. The Durham scribe, who seems to have become anti-everything since the Southern Conference presidents clamped down on bowl participation, has been known to be anti-Snavely in the past couple of years, but his column Sunday was a little bit too far out of line.

A good sports editor can base much of his success on his many contacts and the information these contacts can supply him. Horner has had such good contacts in the past, but this time he either ran into a rummy of a rumor or did some wild dreaming before he wrote his Snavely smear. His criticisms of King Carl were not only unjust but untrue.

Fairy Tales

AFTER OFFERING CONGRATULATIONS to the Tar Heel defensive line, Horner dug up some whoppers to belittle our Carolina coach. The Horner corner states that if it hadn't been for president Gordon Gray, Snavely would have been relieved after last season's disappointing year. According to the Herald heralder, alumni all but had Coach Carl out the front door of Woollen Gym before president Gray put his foot down. Sez Horner:

"It was president Gray who saved Snavely near the tail end of last season, if you don't remember. He stepped in and prevented the head coach from getting the gate before the schedule was completed.

"President Gray put his foot down and told those who wanted a change, it was no go.

The former Winston-Salem publisher also let the throat-cutters know that come what may, Snavely would be around to coach the 1952 Tar Heels."

Now all of the above would make a tremendous story if titled "Horner In Wonderland" but the fact remains that what he says just isn't so. There were plenty of cries of "scuttle Snavely" from the bleacher seaters, but things didn't go that far among the Carolina athletic ranks.

With this fallacy already established in his head and in his column, the rest of Horner's reasoning is wordy but whacky.

The Save of Snave

AS REASON FOR THE SAVE of Snave, Horner hints that the SC presidents' move to steer clear of the bowl games (in which movement President Gray was a leader) would be crossed. One of the main reasons the presidents made that move was to take pressure off the coaches and Horner says the removal of Snavely would have been incongruous with President Gray's action against the bowl games. Horner may not have the style of a Mickey Spillane but his plot is just as ficticious as one of the Mike Hammer variety.

A smart coach like Carl Snavely, who has compiled a record of 145 wins, 71 losses, and 16 ties in 25 years of coaching just isn't kicked out after having one or two bad years. There was a lot of hollering about our two-year record after last season but it didn't penetrate that far through he walls of Woollen Gym—and certainly not to South Building.

Horner strays further from the straight and narrow with a short discussion of Assistant Coach George Barclay. According to the Durhamite, the hiring of Barclay was a concession to the warhooping alumni if they would leave Coach Carl's scalp. The fact that he was hired after Snavely had decided to switch to the split T, because he was the best man available to polish up the switch, completely evades Mr. Horner's grasp.

Back To Earth

THE DURHAM SCRIBE finally comes back to earth in his closing paragraphs and gives our team a slight pat on the back—one which it certainly deserves. Quoting Coach Ed Price of Texas, Horner finally concludes that we might have a fair year of it.

He finally faces the facts, as so many others of us might, that we were up against a great ball club Saturday, one which Coach Snavely calls the best to appear in Kenan Stadium since he's been here—and that takes in quite a few good country ball clubs.

Then, too, Mr. Horner realizes that we were minus our first string quarterback the entire game. He chides us for our lack of offense last Saturday—when we gained a total of 85 yards running and passing—but the absence of Charlie Motta certainly had a lot to do with our inability to move.

Horner ends his column with a pat on his own back for picking the score, 28-7, on the nose in his Friday morning column. Congratulations, Mr. Horner, but remember this business of collecting scalps is pretty bloody. Sometimes the scalper loses a little hair himself when he picks on somebody bigger than he is.

Motta Back In Lineup For Georgia

By Tom Peacock

Last Saturday's game with Texas put three more North Carolina football players on the injured list, but the probable addition of quarterback Charlie Motta to the lineup for this week's game with Georgia is a bright spot for the Tar Heels.

Fullback John Gaylord will miss two or more weeks because of a broken middle finger on his left hand, and it is doubtful if end Benny Walser and back Billy Williams will be ready Saturday. Walser hurt his left elbow, while Williams injured his left ankle.

Will Be Missed

All three players will be sorely missed, and both Walser and Williams will be back if possible. Gaylord was a pleasant surprise for Carolina Coach Carl Snavely last year, and the young junior from Charlotte was expected to see a lot of action. Williams started last Saturday against Texas, playing safety position, and Walser has been looking increasingly good.

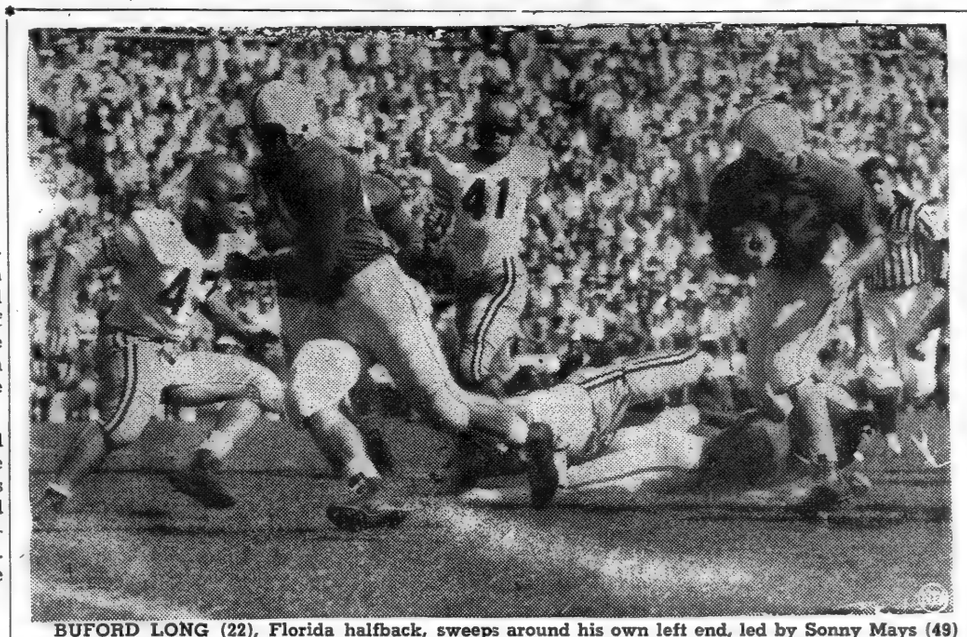
The 28-7 loss to Texas has made the Tar Heel camp grim, but far from disheartened. The Longhorns are currently the number one team in the nation, and may be there at the end of the season. Snavely considered Texas the best team ever to set foot in Kenan Stadium.

Not Too Disappointd

Carolina coaches weren't too disappointed with the team's first try at the split-T, and the addition of first string quarterback Motta brightens the situation and although it still pains him, he doesn't intend to miss the Georgia game.

The Tar Heels worked out long and hard yesterday, and the pace should increase today. Coach George Barclay sent the line through some bruising practice, while George Radman concentrated on passing and pass defense. With one game under its belt, the team should be better adapted to the difficult new formation, and Tar Heel hopes still run high.

Sports Staff



There will be a meeting of The Daily Tar Heel sports staff this afternoon at 2:30 in the Sports office, second floor of Grahma Memorial.

All old staffers and those wishing to try out for the staff are urged to attend.

FALL BASEBALL

Coach Walter Rabb announced yesterday that there will be a meeting of all candidates for fall baseball today in room 304 of Woollen Gym. Coach Rabb welcomes any interested freshman.

In his first two years, Harry Mallios, U. of Miami back, has gained more yardage than all save seven Hurricane backs gained in their entire Miami careers.

BUFORD LONG (22), Florida halfback, sweeps around his own left end, led by Sonny Mays (49) Florida guard, to gain four yards in Saturday's Georgia Tech-Florida game at Atlanta. Long was stopped a couple of steps later by linebacker Larry Morris (47) and Bill Thaden (41). Tech edged by the Gators, 17-14.

Prospects Fairly Bright For Booters

In an interview with soccer coach Al Moore yesterday, it was learned that prospects for the coming season are fairly bright.

Moore felt that the loss of Eddie Foy, last year's All-American, would be somewhat offset by the steady play Renny Randolph has shown in practice. Randolph has been working well with Tom "Hoppy" Hopkins, a leading candidate for the inside left post. Renny has been playing inside right.

Junior Drew Patterson has also looked good in the front line. Co-captain Barry Kalb, who made All-Southern Conference last year, will bulwark the defense from his left fullback position.

The team will be without the services of soph Jerry Russell, last year's high scorer, until the start of the season due to the unexpected death of his father. However, Coach Moore feels that Jerry will be able to pick up where he left off despite his lack of practice.

Among the new faces, is Dickie Harrall, lacrosse star, who has looked good in practice.—M. G.

Tennis Squad Opens Fall Practice With Team Intact; To Play Virginia

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina tennis team opened its fall practice yesterday and Coach John Kenfield has issued a call for all interested persons to report to him on the varsity courts any time after two o'clock in the afternoon.

The prospects for the coming year appear to be pretty good as the fall warmup gets under way. The practice will continue until the weather makes further play outdoors impossible, and will include a match with Virginia on Saturday, November 8, before the football game with that school.

Also included in the fall schedule will be several practice matches between the varsity and the new freshmen. These will give Coach Kenfield some idea about the makeup of the team which will compose the starting lineup in the spring when the regular season starts.

Last year the last two positions in the singles and the third doubles were weak and Coach Kenfield is counting on the new men to give him added depth. Among the freshmen are three lefthanders, and it appears that there will be a battle royal for many positions on the team.

Every man from last year's team is returning, including the Southern Conference singles champ, Del Sylvia, and the Conference doubles champions, Herb Browne and Bob Payne. Sylvia will be a senior this year while Browne and Payne will be returning for their second year.

Other returning players are Sam Handel, Bill Izlar, Ronnie Kerdasha, and Dick Sapp.

OFFICIALS MEET

There will be a tag officials meeting this afternoon at 4:00 in room 301-A of Woollen Gym.

All students interested in officiating should report to Bill Kucyck, intramural director, at that time. Kucyck said yesterday that it is not necessary for an official to be a physical education major.

Typewriters
Adding Machines
SALES—SERVICE
RENTALS
New and Used
Your Underwood Agent
ROWE TYPEWRITER COMPANY
103½ W. Parris St.
Ph. 5-3901 DURHAM, N. C.

The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

THE SPORT SHOP
BRINGS YOU ANOTHER FIRST IN CHAPEL HILL

GENUINE SHELL CORDOVANS WITH THE NEW THICK BLACK CUSHION CREPE SOLES . . . CUSTOM MADE FOR US BY —WINTHROP— ONLY 13.95

You'll be amazed at the good looks, comfort, and the long wear these shoes will give you. We guarantee our price on these custom designed shoes to be the lowest you'll find anywhere. Come in today and see for yourself.

TODAY AND WEDNESDAY
Carolina
—Also—
Color Cartoon
Coming
"Tales of Hoffmann"

Six Future Opponents, Including Georgia, Earned Weekend Wins; Pack, Gamecocks Fell

By Paul Cheney

From the looks of this past week-end's football results the Tar Heels will be in for some more stiff competition for the next nine Saturdays.

Of the next nine opponents to meet Carolina this season only two met defeat last week, while one tied. N. C. State and South Carolina were soundly trounced, with Notre Dame tying Pennsylvania.

The Georgia Bulldogs, who will meet the Tar Heels in Athens this Saturday, eased by a surprising Tulane eleven 21 - 16 at New Orleans.

The Bulldogs were pitched to victory by Junior quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, whose hurling helped overtake the Tar Heels at Kenan Stadium last year. This is the second victory of the season for Georgia, having defeated Vanderbilt in the season's opener.

State Loses

North Carolina State, Carolina's Kenan Stadium opponent the following week, did not fare so well. Coach Horace Hendrickson's debut was spoiled to the tune of 39-0 by George Washington. The Wolfpack failed to penetrate to underdog Colonials' offense a single time, while being almost powerless against a heretofore unheralded G. W. attack.

Wake Forest had quite a scare before finally subduing William and Mary 28-21 at Williamsburg. The passing of quarterback Sonny George plus breakaway runs by Larry Spencer, Bobby Fredrick, and Billy Churm enabled the Deacons to overcome the surprising attack of the Indians, which was propelled by All-Southern Ed Mioduszewski.

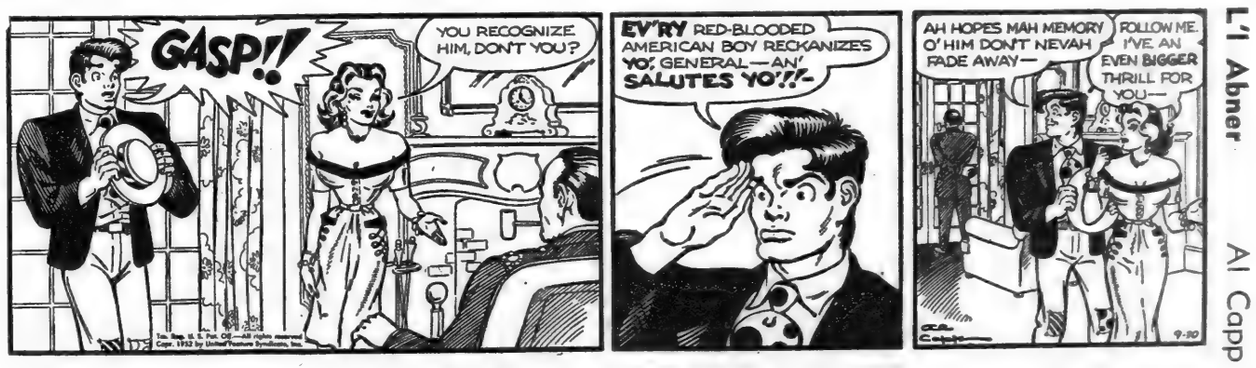
Humiliating Loss

South Carolina's Gamecocks dropped a dissappointing 28-7 decision to Army. The loss was all the more humiliating because three of the four regular Cadet backs were on the sidelines with injuries.

Tennessee, sixth ranked in the nation, had considerable difficulty with Mississippi State before gaining a 14-7 victory. The Vols took advantage of a fourth quarter Maroon fumble to score the winning tally.

Virginia's Cavaliers continued to exhibit the class which enabled them to finish last season in fine fashion. The Virginians downed Vanderbilt 27-0. Coach Art Gue-

(See OPPONENTS, page 4)



Series Opens In Brooklyn Tomorrow

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

New York, Sept. 29—The World Series between the Yankees and the Dodgers gets underway tomorrow and the pre-game speculation has it that the rival managers, Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Charley Dressen of the Dodgers, will start Allie Reynolds and Joe Black respectively.

The Yankees will be seeking their fourth straight world cham-

(See, SERIES, page 4)

What Goes On Here

SP Caucus

There will be a caucus of Student Party Legislators tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Yack Space

All organizations wishing to have space in the 1953 Yack should send a representative to the Yack office on the second floor of Graham Memorial. See Business Manager Russ Cowell to sign contracts. No contracts will be signed after October 10, and any organization failing to sign will not be included in the annual, Cowell said.

Y Camp Pictures

Freshmen who ordered group pictures of students attending YMCA freshman camp may pick them up at the Y information office.

Alpha Phi Omega

There will be a meeting of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, in Roland Parker 1 at 7 p.m. today. There will be an election of a secretary and rushing plans will be discussed.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club will hold its first meeting of the year tonight at 7 o'clock at the clubroom. Those who won letters in the past spring quarter also are invited.

Pi Delta Phi

Pi Delta Phi, French honor society, will hold its first weekly supper meeting tonight at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall. All interested in speaking French are invited.

Quarterly Staff

There will be a meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Quarterly office for all those interested.

Golden Bears

The Golden Bears will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Shack.

Just Received

Our

Famous

Women's

Italian Sweaters

Five unusual styles in baby pink, blue and yellow; pure white; black; rust; cinamon; apple green; eggshell; cherry red; light olive green.

All Full Fashioned

Priced from 11.95 to 17.95

Milton's Clothing Cupboard

163 E. Franklin St.

Study Group Lists Prizes For Posters

Travel and Study Inc. of New York yesterday released a list of prizes offered for the winning designs in poster competition for students tours to Europe.

Open to undergradute and grads, prizes of $50, $30 and $20 will be awarded. Designs should illustrate or suggest student travel to Europe and be centered around a slogan of not more than six words. Last year's prize-winning poster carried the caption: "You can't hitch-hike to Europe." The posters should not be more than 13½ by 10 inches.

Mademoiselle Story Features Two Grads

"Mademoiselle Magazine" recently featured two alumni of the Law School in the story "Legally Married."

Elizabeth and Clyde Robbins of Greensboro were featured in the lawyer marries lawyer article. The couple met and married while in Chapel Hill. They now practice law together in a Greensboro firm.

Sports Shorts

U. of Miami enters 1952 with a record of 35 wins, 18 losses and three ties in intersectional play. Boston U and Marquette are 1952 Miami grid foes from outside Dixie.

★

Joe Schultz, senior from Philadelphia, failing for two years to win a letter at end and guard at U. of Miami, has found himself at tackle and opens the 1952 season as starting regular on offense.

★

Only four starting offensive players at the U. of Miami are seniors. The defensive units has three starting seniors.

★

Bob Taro of Nutley, N. J., flashy sophomore halfback at the U. of Miami, has already attracted the eye of major league scouts for his brilliant shortstopping in baseball.

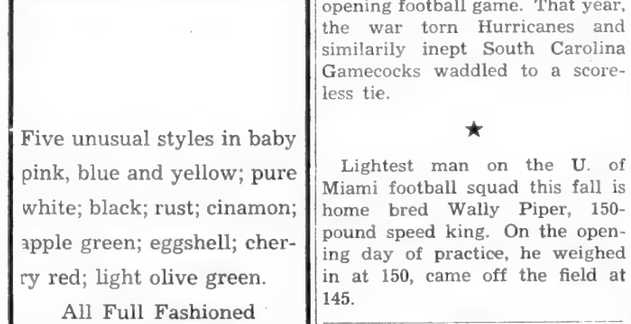
★

Not since 1944 has the University of Miami been shutout in an opening football game. That year, the war torn Hurricanes and similarily inept South Carolina Gamecocks waddled to a scoreless tie.

★

Lightest man on the U. of Miami football squad this fall is home bred Wally Piper, 150-pound speed king. On the opening day of practice, he weighed in at 150, came off the field at 145.

CLASSIFIEDS



HELP WANTED: FEMALE 8A

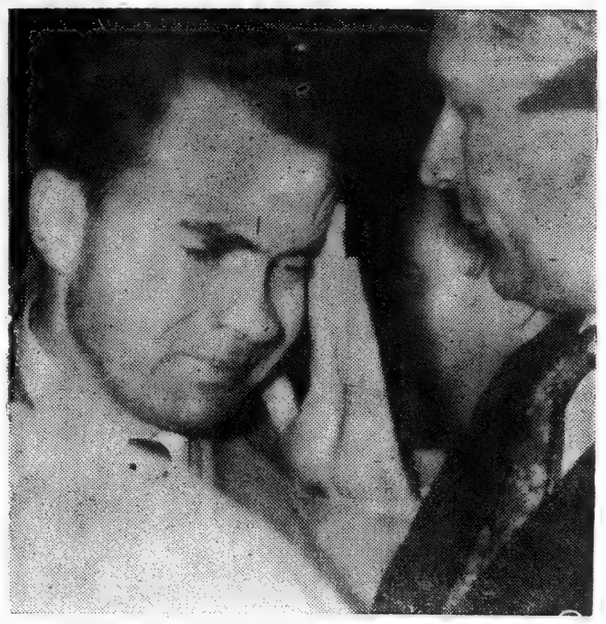
PART TIME OR FULL TIME SEAMSTRESS Smith-Prevost Cleaners. Phone 3531. (chg. 1x1

WANTED-PART TIME OR FULL TIME seamstress. Smith-Prevost Cleaners Phone 3-531.

FOR SALE

1952 MODEL MOTOROLA BEDSIDE radio. Like new. $30 Call Bill Irvin—310 Mangum. Phone 1-9452-2

—Plus—



"THE MOB"

Starring

BRODERICK CRAWFORD

Last Times T-O-D-A-Y

Varsity

SENATOR RICHARD NIXON is shown as he broke down and cried recently following his speech in Wheeling, W. Va. Running mate General Eisenhower met the California Senator in West Virginia and told him, "You're my boy." The round-robin fund, fund, who's having fund, went into another round yesterday when Eisenhower said he would make public his income after being called upon to do so by his opponent, Gov. Adlai Stevenson. See related story in World in Brief, page 1.—NEA Telephoto.

Gloomy Predictions

George Jean Nathan Makes Fall Forecast

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Sept 29—George Jean Nathan makes gloomy predictions for fall drama.

Returning to Theatre Arts magazine after a summer vacation, he forecasted in his "Monthly Critical Review" that some actor or actress would be greatly overpraised for a mediocre or bad performance because of some critic.

"Prejudice in favor of an actor or, more often, an actress of course plays its part," he said. "Even the best of critics cannot entirely rid himself of such partiality, as witness the case of Bernard Shaw."

George Spelvin, Theatre Arts' gadfly for drama critics, hit at the gossip columnists, charging them with hypocrisy concerning last summer's vice scandals. According to Spelvin, they had created the very "Cafe Society" they pretend to deplore.

In another article, film critics are accused of prejudging "The Thief," a picture without dialogue. The film's makers Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse. Critics claim the lack of dialogue is a publicity "gimmick." Greene and Rouse insist they know when they wrote the story that it had to be without dialogue.

"We wanted to tell the story in the pure motion picture form . . . to be distinguished from the old silents where mouths would move but—you could hear no voices. In "The Thief," not one of the characters talks for the good and simple reason that they have nothing to say."

NROTC Officers Announced

Capt. J. S. Keating, USN, Professor of Naval Science, announced yesterday the selection of NROTC Midshipmen officers to serve during the fall quarter.

The battalion staff will consist of NROTC Capt. J. Arthur Eagan, Portsmouth, Va.; Commander William S. Pregnall, Charleston, S. C.; Lieutenant Commander James C. Goodwin, Waynesville; Lt. Junior Grade William D. Smith, Bethel; Lt. Junior Grade Joseph A. Arnold, Atlanta and Chief Petty Officer Jerome W. Bolick, Conover.

The Drums and Bugle Corps will consist of NROTC Lt. Junior Grade Edward A. Stevens, Houston, Texas.

The "A" Company Staff will be composed of NROTC Lt. Walter T. Porter, Emerson; and Lt. Junior Grade Henery B. Patterson, Hickory.

The First Platoon will be headed by NROTC Ensign Herbert B. Cohn, Chattanooga, Tenn.

NROTC Ensign Lewis F. Camp, Charlotte, N. C. will lead the Second Platoon.

The Third Platoon will be led by NROTC Ensign William S. James, Chatham, Va.

The "B" Company Staff will be composed of NROTC Lt. Lloyd V. Hinton, Washington, D. C.; and Lt. Junior Grade Earle D. Litzenberger, Bethlehem, Pa.

The "B" Company First Platoon will be headed by NROTC Ensign Clarence A. Poppleton, Summerville, S. C.

The Second Platoon of the "B" Company will be headed by NROTC Ensign Edward W. V. Webster, Rodgewood, N. J.

The Third Platoon will be led by NROTC Ensign John M. Peek, Roanoke, Va.

The "C" Company staff will be composed of NROTC Lt. Joel S. Watkins, Warren, Ark.; Lt. Junior Grade Edmund M. Waller, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The First Platoon of the "C" Company will be headed by NROTC Ensign Barry H. Rizzo, Monmouth Beach, N. J.

The Second Platoon will be led by NROTC Ensign Thomas E. Beck, Washington, D. C.

The Third Platoon will be headed by NROTC Ensign John T. Bennet, Philadelphia, Pa.

—Opponents—

(Continued from page 3)

pex unveiled a new backfield star to go along with Mel Roach and Hal Hoak in senior quarterback Roger Harding.

Notre Dame fought to a 7-7 draw with Pennsylvania. The Irish defense resembled that of the great teams of the late forties, but their attack was not up to snuff. The Irish pretty well dominated the first half, but penetrated Quaker territory only once in the last two periods.

Worth Lutz pitched the Duke Blue Devils to a well-earned 14-7 victory in the Cotton Bowl last Friday night. Lutz's two touchdown throws came on the last plays of each half.

Coach Andy Gustafson's Miami Hurricanes, the Tar Heel's final opponents of the season, did as expected in soundly thumping VMI in the Orange Bowl last Saturday night.

—Series—

(Continued from page 3)

pionship and are an 8-5 choice to win. The Dodgers have the power at the plate but the Yankees excell in the pitching department, and that is what usually counts in a short series.

New York has three top pitchers in Reynolds, Vic Raschi, and Eddie Lopat and that lineup is expected to be enough to carry them through in five or six games.

The Dodgers don't have a 20-game winner on their staff and will be depending mostly on Black, prime candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors, who carried the Brooklyn pitching staff on his back for most of the latter part of the season.

The series opens at Ebbetts Field and the Dodgers will be trying for their first world championship in five starts.

Robert Aldridge, halfback candidate at the University of Miami, has won a berth on the freshman football squad although his high school had no football team and he has had no experience.

U. of Miami played only two of its 1952 grid foes—Florida and Kentucky—last year.

Di Senate To Debate Senatorial Immunity

The Dialectic Senate will debate tonight a resolution calling for the abolishment of Senatorial immunity.

The meeting is open to visitors, and the rostrum will be open to anyone who desires to speak on the resolution. The meeting will be held on the third floor of New West.

Capt. Keating Lists Marine 1953 Grads

Professor of Naval Science Capt. John S. Keating, USN, announced yesterday the following Marine Candidates. The men will be commissioned 2nd lieutenants in June, 1953.

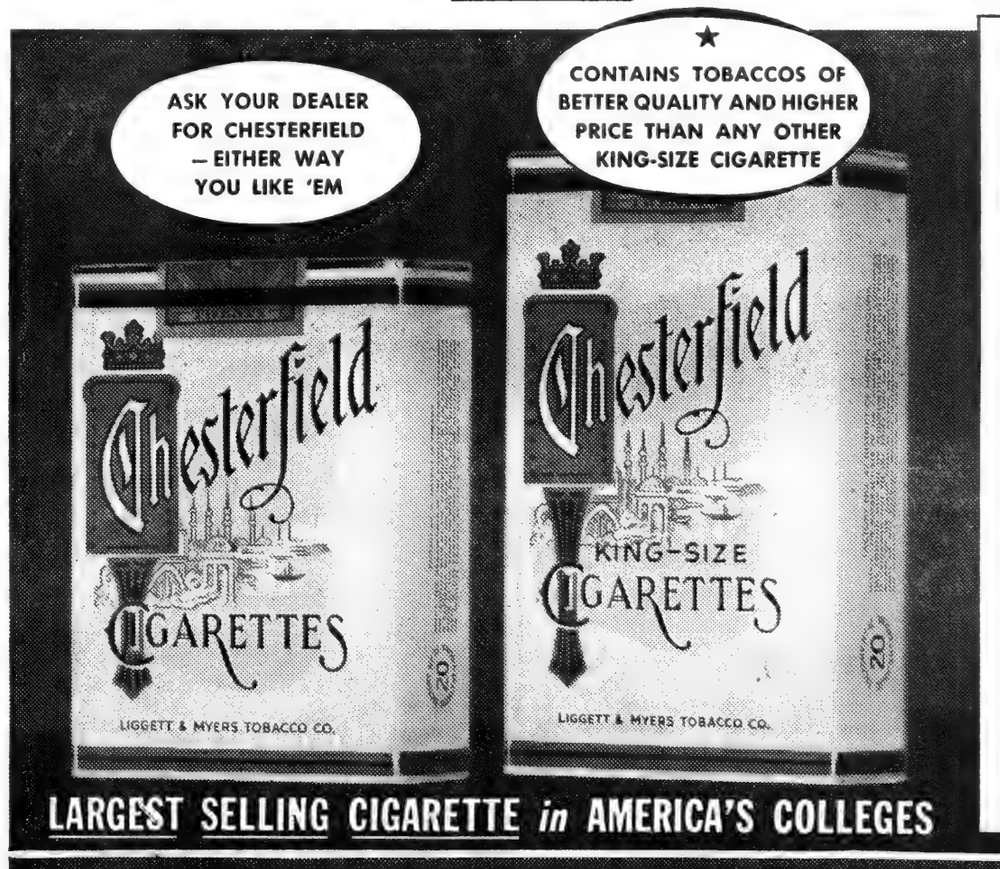
The Seniors are Arthur James Eagan, Portsmouth, Va.; James Chester Goodwin, Waynesville; Walter Travis Porter, Emerson; Joel S. Watkins, Warren, Ark.; Earle Litzenberger, Bethlehem, Pa.; Donald Cary Carroll, Chapel Hill; William A. J. Rankin, Reidsville, and Barry H. Rizzo, Monmouth Beach, N. J.

The Juniors consist of John F. Gaylord, Charlotte; Harvey F. Bradshaw, Greenville; James Rufus Warren, North Charlston, S. C.; Charles Cunningham Seabrook, Charleston, S. C.; Richard Curtwright Carmicheal, Durham; Thomas M. Stokes, Jr., Raleigh; Roy Albert Rumbough, Mars Hill; Ned Arthur Beeker, Asheboro, and Paul T. Chase, Chapel Hill.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads

FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE

$15.00 FOR 1000



THE COLONIAL PRESS

PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

CHESTERFIELD

FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE

TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE in AMERICA'S COLLEGES

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy—nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization — no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger—contains considerably more of the same tobaccos—enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs very little more.

Buy CHESTERFIELD—Much Milder

Copyright 1952, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

U.N.C
Serial
Chapel
8-31-49

WEATHER

Fair and warm today with 85 high. Yesterday's high, 84; low, 55.

The Daily Tar Heel

DANCE

Swing your partner and all that. See story on dancing, page 4.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 7 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—The Army has unveiled a new 85-ton atomic gun and shown that it can roll nimbly across fields into position to fire super-explosive barrages within 20 minutes. The gun, which is the world's first atomic artillery piece, was put through its paces at a special preview at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Grounds recently.

There was talk at the demonstration of a 20-mile range for the 280 millimeter weapon. This discloses how compactly the Atomic Energy Commission scientists now are able to build atomic missiles which at one time could barely be crowded into the bomb bay of a B-29.

★

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN—President Truman accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday of having endangered the country as commanding general in Europe by grave "blunders" which left America unaware of Russia's threat to world peace. Meanwhile the GOP hit back quickly at President Truman for charging that Gen. Eisenhower's 1945 advice "did a great deal of harm." Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md) recalled that Mr. Truman had told a whistle-stop crowd at Eugene, Ore., on June 11, 1948: "I got very well acquainted with Joe Stalin and I like old Joe—he is a decent fellow."

★

SEOUL—A highly placed U. S. Eighth Army officer said yesterday there are several thousand Russian troops in rear areas of North Korea serving in a "support capacity."

The officer, who was not identified, said in an interview that the Russians were technicians and advisors and probably manned modern radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns manufactured in the Soviet Union.

★

WASHINGTON — Gen. Walter Bedell Smith said yesterday he cannot understand "why anyone should get excited" about his statement that there probably are some Communists in the Central Intelligence Agency. The CIA director, who unwittingly tossed a bombshell into the political campaign Monday, sought to calm the furor by assuring the public that any Reds who may have infiltrated his agency are in minor jobs where they cannot do any "serious harm."

★

HILLSBORO—Nine of the 10 prisoners who escaped from the Orange County prison camp Sunday night were still at large yesterday afternoon. State and county police continued to comb Orange County in search for th eremaining fugitives. Howard D. Long, 29, surrendered peacefully Monday night, quietly joining a work detail returning to the camp. He had been sentenced to five to seven years for highway robbery from Guilford County in April, 1950.

Art Gallery Offering Pictures For Rental

Students interested in renting one or more of the popular masters collection in Person Hall Art Gallery are invited to do so beginning today.

The collection includes works raniging from Rembrandt, Holbein and Brueghel to more recent masters Picasso, Brasque, Derain and others. The rental charge is 25 cents per month and is payable when the picture is taken out.

Yack Pictures

Students who have snapshots they would like to put in the 1953 Yackety Yack should bring them by the Yack office in Graham Memorial.

The office is open from 2 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. Snapshots will be returned if desired.

A Trust Position

Dick Nixon Named To Demo Post

Richard Nixon was elected treasurer of the Young Democratic Club here this week.

But this Dick Nixon is not the one of $18,235 fame. A distant cousin of the Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, young Nixon is a freshman from Charlotte—and "a Democrat from way back."

John Sanders of Four Oaks was elected president; Al House of Hobgood, first vice-president; Wanda Lou Philpott, Beckley, W. Va., second vice-president, and Cathy Holmes, Hertford, secretary.

Speaking to some 200 members of the organization, including Hubert Olive, son of the recent gubernatorial candidate, Sanders said:

"There are entirely too many students on this campus for Eisenhower. We must wean away those students who, in the words of Bill Umstead, 'in good faith but bad judgment,' plan to vote Republican."

The organization was told of a county-wide rally and barbeque to be held October 13 at hte Schley Ranch near Hillsboro. It is expected that Governor-elect William B. Umstead will address the rally.

Debate Team Meeting Set Today At 4

The Debate Squad will hold its first meeting of the school year today at 4 o'clock in the Roland Parker Lounges, second floor of Graham Memorial.

Bruce Marger, president of the Debate Council, yesterday said the national collegiate debate topic was the same used by the North Carolina Intramural Debaters last year.

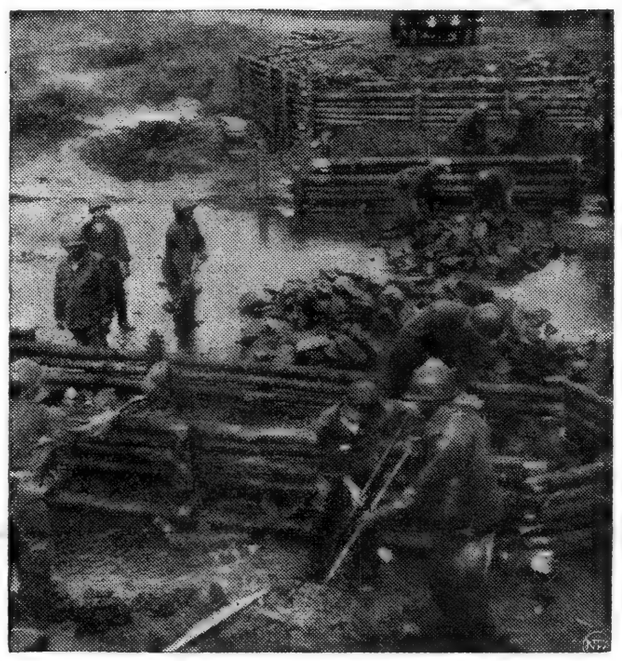
The topic is Resolved: That Congress Should Enact Fair Employment Practices.

Marger added that the participants of last year had no difficulty in getting material on the topic. He emphasized that all interested students should attend the meeting as the Debate Squad has numerous opportunities for everyone this year.

Many tournaments are planned and extensive visits from other schools are anticipated, he said.

Consolidated University's Day Slated

With 1,200 Woman's College girls and delegations from State and Carolina, Consolidated University Day will get under way here Saturday, October 11.



First on the schedule is a meeting at 10 a.m. of the three delegations consisting of 11 members from each of the schools. They will have lunch with the trustees of the Consolidated University.

The big event of the day will be the football game between State and Carolina. Following the game there will be a reception at Graham Memorial for students of the three schools. A Grail dance at Woollen Gym will climax the day.

Consolidated University Day is sponsored by the Consolidated University Council with the purpose of drawing the students at the three schools closer together.

Tom Sully of Carolina is president of the group and Marilyn Habel, also of UNC, is secretary.

RELATIVELY UNNOTICED, the Korean War goes on. In the top picture a soldier points out the grave of the only known Russian to die in the Korean conflict. He is buried in the "non-belligerent" area of the UN military cemetery at Pusan. He was shot down early in September when he bore into a UN formation in "a hostile manner." UN engineers (bottom photo) work in ankle-deep water to complete a new bridge on the supply line to old Baldy.—NEA Telephotos.

Land Tract Set Aside For Botanical Garden

The University has set aside a 90-acre tract of land on its Mason Farm property for a new botanical garden, it was learned here yesterday.

Prof. H. R. Totten of the University Botany Department, who is also a member of the school's Building and Grounds Committee, said the idea was the outgrowth of many years planning.

However, he added that he was not at liberty yet to give out any further specific information on the project.

Last week, Governor Scott appointed a University Trustees' Committee composed of Miss Gertrude Carraway of New Bern, chairman, B. B. Everett of Palmyra and John Q. LeGrand of Chapel Hill, to study the proposal.

University and State College representatives are to confer under trustee direction to see that there is no repitition of expenditures on the new garden here and the proposed Josephus Daniels Memorial Arboretum at State College in Raleigh.

Dr. W. C. Coker, retired chairman of the Botany Department, has been planning the new garden with the assistance of Professor Totten.

The proposed arboretum will be set up in the vicinity of Finley Golf Course off the Raleigh Road on Mason Farm about two miles east of Chapel Hill.

Foreign Schooling Gets VA Go Ahead

Is it possible to attend a foreign school under the new Korean GI Bill?

Yes, says the Veterans Administration in a recent decision. If the vet is eligible for college and the foreign school is approved, it's all right, the VA says.

Air ROTC Enrollment Is 869 For Quarter

Present figures indicate that 869 students have enrolled for courses in Air Science and Tactics in the Air Force ROTC unit at the University.

The announcement was made yesterday by Colonel Jesse J. Moorhead, Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

"If the present trend continues," Colonel Moorhead said, "It is logical to predict a Corps of Cadets numbering more than a thousand beginning in the fall quarter, 1953."

To Have Pics Made

Last Day For Frosh

Freshmen who want their pictures in this year's Yackety Yack had better take notice.

Today's the last day for having the picture made. There is no charge. The procedure is simple appear at the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial between 2 o'clock this afternoon and 9 o'clock tonight. Among other things, boys should wear white shirts and ties, and girls don white blouses.

Repeat: today is the last day for freshmen to have their Yack pictures taken.

Tomorrow sophomores start the process. Same place, same time, same outfits. See you there.

Policies On Rebate Canceled By New Trustee Regulation

No rebates will be given to students on books purchased at the student book store this year because of a policy adopted by the Board of Trustees.

Adopted by the board last May, the policies are to control the merchandising operations on the three campuses of the Consolidated University and the award of grants-in-aid from the profits of the operations.

A manual of the policies adopted states: "No discounts shall be given on any purchase made in any of the campus stores of the Consolidated University by any student, faculty or staff member, or any other person."

Heretofore, the only rebates given students of the Consolidated University, were to students at UNC. State College in Raleigh and Woman's College in Greensboro did not give discounts.

South Building officials explained yesterday that the Trustees felt that any privilege allowed at one institution must be allowed at the other two. The student book store at WC could not afford to grant the ten percent rebates. This necessarily prevents rebates at any of the schools.

Ruling Controls Merchandising At State Schools

The opinion of the Trustees, after questioning students and administration representatives, was that little objection would be expressed at Chapel Hill if the book store profits were used entirely for scholarships, officials said.

The Trustees also set up at each of the three institutions a Campus Stores Committee to be advisory to the Assistant Controller-Business Manager.

The committee consists of three students appointed each year by the President of the Student Body and three Faculty Members appointed each year by the Chancellor.

Meeting at least once each month with the assistant controller-business manager and the campus stores manager, it is the duty of the committee to see that the stores' management and the administration may have the benefit of all student and faculty complaints, criticisms and suggestions.

UNC students appointed by President Ham Horton to serve on the committee are Thad Eure, Ed Singleton, and Al Bryant.

Dharmasakti Will Speak Here Tonight

Dharmasakti (Dhamasak) Sanya of Thailand will give the first of two campus lectures tonight at the YMCA World Understanding Supper Forum Series in Lenoir Hall.

The lecture, scheduled for the second floor dining room, is sponsored by the YMCA World Relatedness Commission. Various speakers will be heard from time to time throughout the year for the purpose of promoting greater understanding of the nations of the world and world problems.

Sanya attended the Law School of the Ministry of Justice and the Inns of Court in London.

He has written books on criminal procedure, company law and property law, all of which are used as text books by the law faculty of the University of Moral and Political Sciences in Thailand.

The forum, open to all interested students, townspeople, and faculty members, will begin at 6 o'clock. Those attending the forum should go through the cafeteria line by 5:30 and carry their trays to the second floor dining room.

Sanya will speak tomorrow at 7:30 in the court room of the Law School. The Thursday night speech is sponsored by the Law School Association.

Men's Dorms Select New Officers Tonight

IDC President Paul Somerville yesterday said nominations for men's dorm officers will be held tonight.

Candidates for president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and interdormitory council representative will be selected tonight and the dorm elections held next Wednesday.

Time for the meeting was incorrectly stated in Tuesday's Daily Tar Heel.

RELAXING for a few minutes while en route to the first of his whistle stop speeches, President Truman casts an interested eye to a newspaper telling of the campaign. The give-'em-hell President was doing just that yesterday in his speeches; see News in Brief, column one.—NEA Telephoto.

Big Deal For Card Sharks

Students interested in working with the card board are asked to attend the board meeting in Graham Memorial tomorrow night at 7:30.

Board President Jim Stegall says there is an urgent need for ushers and students to hand out cards at the football games.

Sweaters will be awarded to those students who work in a yet-to-be-specified number of games. All the lowdown will be furnished at the meeting.

Six Germans Are Studying Student Life

Orientation continues for six German exchange students on campus under the auspices of the State Department.

Headed by Dr. Fritz Hartmann the group will study the philosophy of student life, especially student government, in a democratic community.

Carolina is one of the few universities in the country selected for the exchange program. The importance of student government here was given as one of the reasons for the selection.

The Germans, all from Goitingen University, will take part in the Student Legislature, Interfraternity Council activities, student publications, with some possibly running for office on the campus. They entered the University through regular registration and are carrying a normal course load.

The men—Dr. Hartmann, Otto Vehrenkamp, Helmuth Deicher, Hans-Jurgen Lambers and Eberhard Kindiger—are living in Connor Dormitory with North American roommates. Miss Martha Schaeffer is the only woman in the group and is living in Kenan.

Italian Here To Lecture On Music

Federico Ghisi ,eminent Italian musicologist and composer, will present two lectures on early Italian music tomorrow and Friday evenings at 8:30 in the auditorium of Hill Hall.

The lectures are sponsored by the University Music Department and will be illustrated with records and slides. Admission is free.

Tomorrow's lecture is entitled "Italian Ars Nova Music, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries." Subject of the second lecture will be "Musical Festivities and Shows in Florence during the Renaissance."

Ghisi was born in Shanghai, China, but completed his education in Italy at the Conservatory of Turin. Since that time he served as lecturer at the University of Florence. He is noted both as a composer of symphonic, vocal, and chamber works, and as the author of several scholarly works on Renaissance Italian music and musical festivities.

UP To Hold Supper Meet Tomorrow

The University Party will meet in the large meeting room upstairs in Lenoir Hall tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

The purpose of the get-together is to coordinate the general plans of the party and the legislators, Jerry Cook, organizer of the social, said yesterday.

All University Party members and legislators are asked to attend. All other persons interested in the UP are invited, Cook said.

The main topic of discussion among the UP politicians probably will be the controversial bill on redistricting the campus—a bill passed last year by the Legislature, but vetoed by President Henry Bowers. Ham Horton will lead the discussion and will explain the plan.

Persons attending the supper will go through the line to get their meals, and continue to the meeting room upstairs to eat.

Patience

"Patience," he said yesterday.

Circulation Manager Don Hogg explained to aroused Daily Tar Heel subscribers that their papers have been late or not there at all because of:

1. Unprecedented mechanical breakdowns, or

2. Insufficient address.

Won't you give us a break and your address? he asked.

Library
Dept.
Ill. N.
C.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus ..... LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks. Ed Yoder, Jerry Reese, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dave Moose, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ellen Downs, Tom Parramore.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Tom Peacock.

Open Season

Sororities at Carolina observed open season on unaffiliated coeds last night as the fall rushing program got under way. The remainder of the high-tension period will see apprehensive young ladies sipping punch in immaculate reception rooms while the actives, decked out in all their radiant plumage, circulate among the prospectives to see that the congenial conversation is unblemished by awkward lulls.

To the lady Greeks we say, good hunting. To the neophytes we say, may your social ship find a cosy berth in the harbor of its choice. And to those whose sweaters remain unadorned by a dainty, crisp pledge ribbon, we say absolutely nothing. You've been around here long enough by now to realize that the fun, frolic, social activity, and camaraderie of Chapel Hill is by no means monopolized by those houses whose alabaster portals bear the Greek insignia.

Express Yourself

He's Unhappy, Too

Editor:

So! You traded POGO for Pearson, eh? Well, yes!. Somebody else is unhappy. Namely me. I don't see Drew running for President of the U. S. and A. and as far at I know, Pearson hasn't been tagged as one of the greatest of natural-born philosophers either. Oh, I'm on to your game, you sly and crafty dreaditor, you. You want Pearson because he takes up more SPACE, but so does air. I think you'll find others who agree with me that this aniboble, POGO, says more in less space than Pearson ever will. I know not what course others may take, but as for me I GO POGO.

R. L. Reincke

And More Pogo

Editor:

In answer to your question, "Anybody else unhappy" (in the substitution of Pearson for Pogo)? Good Gosh, YES!

In a sense, Walt Kelly is this generation's Will Rogers. He pokes fun at those customs, institutions, and people that should be poked fun at. Some folks may be piqued, but no one is really hurt in the process. I think Pogo is funny as hell.

Pearson belongs to all generations, and yet no generation would claim him if it had the option. He is Senator Joe's counterpart, though Joe doesn't even like him.

Whereas "Pogo" is based on humor and insight into people, Pearson's column is based on narrowmindedness, fabrication, and, at best, distortion of the facts.

Give us back Pogo, and leave Pearson to the bored housewives. You've got guys on the Daily Tar Heel who can write better anyhow, though that is hardly a compliment.

Outragedly yours,
A. Z. F. Wood, Jr.

Annoying

Dear Sir:

Wandering into the 'Y' for a pack of Cigarettes between classes today and who grabs me but a Camel salesman. After I got him to turn loose my shirt (that took about five minutes) it wasn't hard to get away. Camels are as good as any cigarette to me but they'll never sell that way.

The question is why do we have to put up with salesmen in the 'Y' at all? In their position in the doorway, you can't get by until they want you to. If the 'Y' is to be operated for the students, lets keep the salesmen behind the counters.

Neal Reichle

Glad To Meet You

Editor:

I write this letter in the defense of my name and my loyalty to the school of my choice.

In an article written by Lt. Chuck Hauser for the Sunday edition of your wonderful paper, I am referred to as "the gentleman (apparently from Texas)." The article itself was quite a compliment and I wish to thank the writer, but to be called a Texan when I am a North Carolinian, born and bred, is a little more publicity than I like.

My name is Herbert R. Dowd, Jr. I am a junior transfer from Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee. A Kappa Sigma, I am living in the fraternity house here. Playing the guitar, singing and yodeling is a hobby of mine that I enjoy. The boots, big belts, etc. all go along with it. And if the people here at Carolina enjoy this type of entertainment just half as much as I enjoy rendering it, well . . . . we'll get along fine.

In closing I would like to add that if ever at any time I may be of any assistance to you or your staff, the pleasure would be all mine. . . .

Herbert R. Dowd, Jr.

Whose Paper?

Editor:

Yes—I too am a Pogo fan, and truly believe he should be put back in the D.T.H. Last year when Al Capp married L'l Abner, in a statement he made in LIFE, he said that the American People have lost the ability to laugh at themselves. Now truly, POGO is something that makes people laugh at themselves, if people understand him. Walt Kelly has some great philosophy in his column, again, if people understand him. Pearson, his rather poor substitute, may appeal to some, but I, for some unknown reason, unless you would consider the above reasons, thing that POGO is a better thing to carry in your, and our, paper. (I am beginning to think the latter isn't as true as the former.) After the panic that POGO caused on campus last spring, when practically everybody was wearing a POGO button, how can you take him out of the DAILY TAR HEEL? How many times has that book store across the street been sold out of I GO POGO, Walt Kelly's latest book???

R. Mallett II

(Our Pogo policy is based on abject adherence to the whims and fancies of the owners of this paper—meaning you out there. No anti-possum faction has usurped the power of The Daily Tar Heel since last spring. It was our considered opinion that the students wanted a change of pace from Pogo to someone as meaty, provocative, and controversial as Drew Pearson. Convince us that we're wrong and Pal Pogo will stage a triumphant return.—ED.

Barry Farber
Personally
Olympic Diary

HELSINKI, July 18—Olympic Helsinki is like a valiant young magician trying to squeeze the Queen Mary into a dixie cup.

Nearly a hundred thousand tourists speaking thirty five languages and dialects are combing the once tranquil boulevards and neat alley ways of the Finish Capital grubbling for food that isn't there, rooms that are already occupied, and tickets that have long since been bought, folded, and lovingly tucked into wallets and pocketbooks from Boston to Bangkok.

A normal city might knuckle under and surrender to the chaos, but Helsinki has assumed her burden as host to the 1952 Olympics with typical Finnish grace. Office buildings, school houses, abandoned street cars, and even an abattoir have been converted into dormitories to house the international influx. The Finns have mobilized their war-surplus field kitchens to drive through the mobs and pass out chunks of bread and salami. Prices are fantastically low and tips are vigorously refused.

Americans generally think of Finland as "that little country that paid us back." To a Russian, Finland means a spunky rockpile up north whose handful of white-clad ski troops harassed and humiliated everything the Red Army could throw their way back in 1940. If a Broadway producer were to drop in on Helsinki today he would think it was a summer stock road company rehearsing the Tower of Babel scene from Genesis.

Americans, Armenians, Greeks, Dutch, Danes, and Egyptians are running around radiating a cacophony of language with the same effervescent gusto as sophomores at an out-of-town football game.

I'm standing on the corner of Mannerheim and Alexander Streets which use to be a placid quadrangle where the elder burgers could lounge around and pitch bread crusts at the pigeons. Today the place looks and sounds like a Brazilian Mardi Gras being held on the shop floor of a boiler foundry.

A drink stand is selling Coca-Cola, for the first time in Baltic history, and the Hungarian swimming team is lined up behind the Americans to enjoy their first taste of the "ruddy Capitalistic nectar." A screaming street car conductor is trying to shake off clusters of riders hanging onto the rear railing who can't understand what he's saying and wouldn't pay any attention if they could. Some of the Russian lady discus throwers are standing like a range of lesser Himalayas before a department store window admiring a Scandinavian selection of silver plate and fur stoles.

In fact, the whole panorama is not unlike Chapel Hill three hours before the kickoff on a sunny fall Saturday. Bands are blaring, flags of all nations flutter in the Baltic breeze (the Finns are careful to fly the Russian flag and Old Glory at the same level). Men who live on opposite sides of the ocean and have never met suddenly embrace and slap each other on the spine, united by tankards of tax-free cognac. People shove, old folks mutter, children gape, and cheerleaders run around in monogrammed sweaters shouting "Let's go, Bulgaria."

International bartering is rampant. Three American girls giggle over their newly acquired Stalin emblems as a Russian wrestler makes his way through the crowd wearing a giant "I like Ike" button. A G.I. on leave from Germany gives a spearmint life-saver to a grinning Turk, who puts it in his mouth, lights a cigarette, and tries to blow smoke rings through the hole. Silk fezzes from Egypt, wooden shoes from Holland, and Indian handicraft from South America circulate at par value. Black Communist smoke from Yugoslav cigars trickles through American T-zones as the Slavs exhale the bluish haze of free enterprise Chesterfields.

An Indonesian high hurdler summed it up like this: "They ought to let the athletes sit in the parliaments of the world and make the diplomats run around a cinder track all day. Then peace, fellowship, and teamwork would be the keynote and war would be shoved to the sidelines to wither and die."

Drew Pearson
The Washington
Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Gen. Eisenhower's income taxes, when and if published, will contain some small and interesting enterprises that the public doesn't know about. There's nothing wrong about them, but the public doesn't ordinarily think of a five-star general investing in a lipstick company or a restaurant.

However, Eisenhower has a stock interest in the "Charm-More" Company which puts out lipsticks. He was one of the original investors when the company was first organized.

He also owns part of a Howard Johnson restaurant in Washington, D. C. George Allen, the former White House jester got Ike into this deal, along with another famous Democrat, Ed Pauley, the big California oil man. The restaurant is located in downtown Washington.

Ike also has his farm in Gettysburg, which he bought through George Allen.

Only embarrassing thing in Ike's income tax returns in addition to the generous capital gains tax which the Treasury let him pay on the $1,000,000 received on his book, is an exemption on his house received while president of Columbia.

In 1948 the General wrote the Treasury asking that his house, plus 12 servants and upkeep not be considered as income since he was required by the university to live there. The Treasury ruled in his favor, gave him tax exemption on his Columbia expenses.

In contrast, the Treasury has balked at letting waiters, waitresses, bellhops, chamber-maids, who also may have to live in hotels, deduct their meals and lodging. These must be treated as taxable income, except under certain circumstances.

For instance, waiters in restaurants do not have to treat as income a noon-day luncheon served while they are on duty; but cannot deduct dinner at the end of the day if served to them when their work is over.

Nurses who have to live in hospitals were finally given more favorable treatment than waiters, though only after a long treasury wrangle; whereas Eisenhower got his ruling without any trouble.

The man who gave him the rulings on both the book, which saved him about $500,000, and the house at Columbia was Charles Oliphant, who resigned after bitter criticism by Republican congressmen.

Note—At Columbia, Eisenhower received his regular army pay of $15,751, plus three aides or stenographers, plus a car, in addition to Columbia University remuneration.

The Eisenhower train is far better organized than Governor Stevenson's entourage. Little is left to chance around Eisenhower, especially the advance men who precede the train with banners, signs and even balloons.

In contrast, the Stevenson party hasn't even always arranged for hotel reservations.

The fact that most of the advisers around the Democratic candidate are Harvard graduates caused Mike Reilly, former White House Secret Service man now guarding Stevenson, to remark:

"Harvard is going to have to start a new course—'How To Select a Presidential Candidate.'"

There was some frantic backstage manipulating aboard the Eisenhower train as it rolled into Maryland. The general had been tipped off that Edward Grammer, on trial for murdering his wife, then putting her in a runaway automobile, would try to subpoena Eisenhower as a character witness.

This started some urgent telegrams to Maryland authorities beginning at 3 a.m. Finally, Maryland's Secretary of State dug up an old law which held that a man need not testify as a character witness if he signed an affidavit that he didn't know the defendant. Eisenhower promptly signed such an affidavit and quit worrying about process-servers.

Friends of Senator Kem of Missouri are planning a last-minute sneak attack on Stuart Symington, now running against Kem for the senate. They will charge that Symington was once convicted for stealing an automobile in Baltimore.

Of course, politics can be pretty dirty. But the real facts are that Symington, when seventeen years old, went for a ride with two other boys in a car belonging to their next-door negihbor. That was in the days when there weren't so many automobiles. Unfortunately the boy who was driving ran the car into a ditch. The neighbor naturally got sore and the three boys were fined $25 each.

However, the neighbor, Harry Dorsey Watts, learning that the incident might be used against Symington in the Senate race, wrote him a letter:

"Your father," he wrote, "one of my closest friends, immediately got together with the parents of the other boys and paid me in full for the damage. The incident was only a prank, and it's absurd that it could be considered anything else 34 years later."

Note—One man who really tried to clean up Washington is Symington—regardless of any joy-riding in his youth.

The Institute of Public Opinion head by Dr. George Gallup recently put the following question to people from coast to coast in such a way as to represent a balanced cross-section of people in all walks of life:

"Which presidential candidate—Eisenhower or Stevenson—do you think could handle the Korean situation best?"

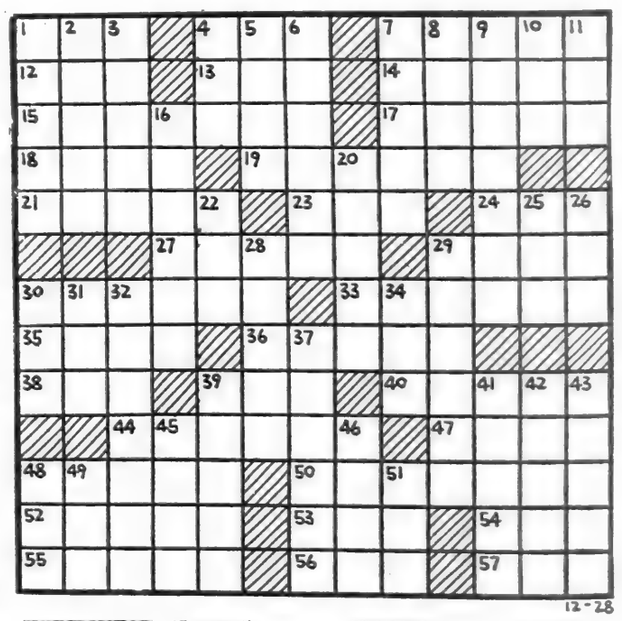
Sixty-seven per cent of the people interviewed replied they thought Eisenhower could. Nine per cent said Stevenson could, five per cent said it would make no difference and 19 per cent had no opinion.

The Korean situation is a very important one. The lives of the young men of America are at stake if not the life of the Nation itself—The Greenville (S.C.) Observer.

Al House
On The House

The magic of the name "Ike" Eisenhower is of tremendous force in this presidential election which gives evidence of being the closest and most exciting election since Wilson's narrow victory in 1916. The emotional plan of the Republican campaign apparently is predicated on Eisenhower standing on his own popularity and being careful to avoid taking definite stands on issues that might alienate large blocs of voters, particularly in key states. His popularity is evidenced by the huge enthusiastic throngs that have greeted him wherever he went—even in the heretofore solidly Democratic South. Just how many in those huge throngs would actually vote for him and how many were there out of desire to see the great General are unknown quantities.

Such is the nature of the Eisenhower candidacy and the Republican ticket; it is an unknown quantity which, while millions of voters will applaud, when it comes to the decision of to whom to entrust our government, will not purchase with their ballots. Unquestionably the Republican party could not have chosen a finer candidate, from the standpoint of ability to win voters. But as one has already indicated, the "face of Eisenhower on the Republican Elephant just isn't big enough to hide the rest of the elephant with its 20 year record of reaction, isolationism, and opposition to New Deal policies written all over it."



While it is heralded that Ike represents a new, fresh approach in the G.O.P., it is inescapably true that the same element of the party that nominated Dewey in 1944 and 1948 prevailed again in 1952. The Eisenhower forces at Chicago charged that Taft was trying to steal the convention with fraudulently obtained delegates in Louisiana, Texas, and Georgia. What moral right did the Convention, in plenary session, have to overrule the state machinery, the Republican National Committee and Credentials Committee and take away the votes from Taft and hand them and thus the nomination to Eisenhower. Those charges and counter-charges of the "Big Steal" at Chicago deeply hurt the Republican party; the wounds are still sensitive and have left something of a cleavage in the G.O.P.

But Senator Taft (Mr. Republican) has now seemingly won the upperhand in the campaign and is dictating the terms of his support to Eisenhower. Evidence of Taft's ascendancy is the "joint" statement emanating from the Taft-Eisenhower meeting, which Taft later admitted he drafted himself and Ike only suggested minor changes. Of course, Taft, the master political statesman, went into the meeting with the statement already prepared, while Eisenhower, the political newcomer, was caught unprepared, and afraid to lose Taft's support, assented to the joint statement.

Eisenhower later said he was "in complete agreement with Senator Taft on domestic issues" and that their differences on foreign policy was "only a matter of degree." Is it a matter of degree that Taft was willing to sacrifice Greece and Turkey to Communism in 1947, opposed aid to those countries, opposed N.A.T.O., opposed Mutual Security Administration, the Point Four Program, and other programs designed to strengthen the free world today to prevent an atomic war tomorrow? Is it a matter of degree that Taft, who ridicules our "halt-Communist-aggression-here" policy in Korea, the same policy which Eisenhower defended before the campaign, and which is attacked today?

Eisenhower is in "complete agreement with Senator Taft on domestic issues." Does that mean that Ike supports Taft's opposition to the extension of parity prices to farmers, to an extension of Social Security benefits, to public housing projects, public power development and even (believe it or not) to an extension of the services of the Soil Conservation Service? All these things the G.O.P. blandly labels as "creeping Socialism leading us down the road to Communism." Is it necessary to point out that the closest this country ever came to turning to Communism was in 1931 when 13,000,000 people walked the streets unemployed and were willing to turn to anything. They were saved from the necessity of even considering such by the New Deal of Roosevelt.

Will the American public stick with the Democratic party or will it buy the unknown quality—the magic name of Eisenhower. It'll be an interesting election.

12-28

HORIZONTAL
1. wing
4. high, in music
7. move with swaying motion
12. Anglo-Indian weight
13. expire
14. stabs
15. participate in
17 entrances
18. in any case
19. public storehouses
21. networks
23. before
24. Malayan peninsula
27. harass
29. germ
30 take into custody
33. puffed up
35. alkaline substances
36. suffered
38. Bulgarian coin
39. street railways (abbr.)
40. viper
44. folding frames for pictures
47 smooth
48. mountain lakes
50 waits upon
52. goddess of peace
53. correlative of neither
54 harden
55. loaded
56. period of time
57. bitter vetch

VERTICAL
1. former Turkish coin
2. depart
3. authoritative decree
4. feminine name
5. similar
6. South American monkey (var.)
7. primitive Christian love feast
8. fashion
9. breast of quadruped
10. allow
11. S-shaped worm
16. clans
20. Russian independent union
22 bronze money
25 female ruff
26. annex
28. insipid
29. seat for rider
30 entire amount
31. Gypsy gentleman
32. venerated
34. meadow
37 land body
39. capital of Ruhr
41. thick
42. finisher
43. takes ease
45. feminine name
46 portico
48. sesame
49. macaw
51. endeavor

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

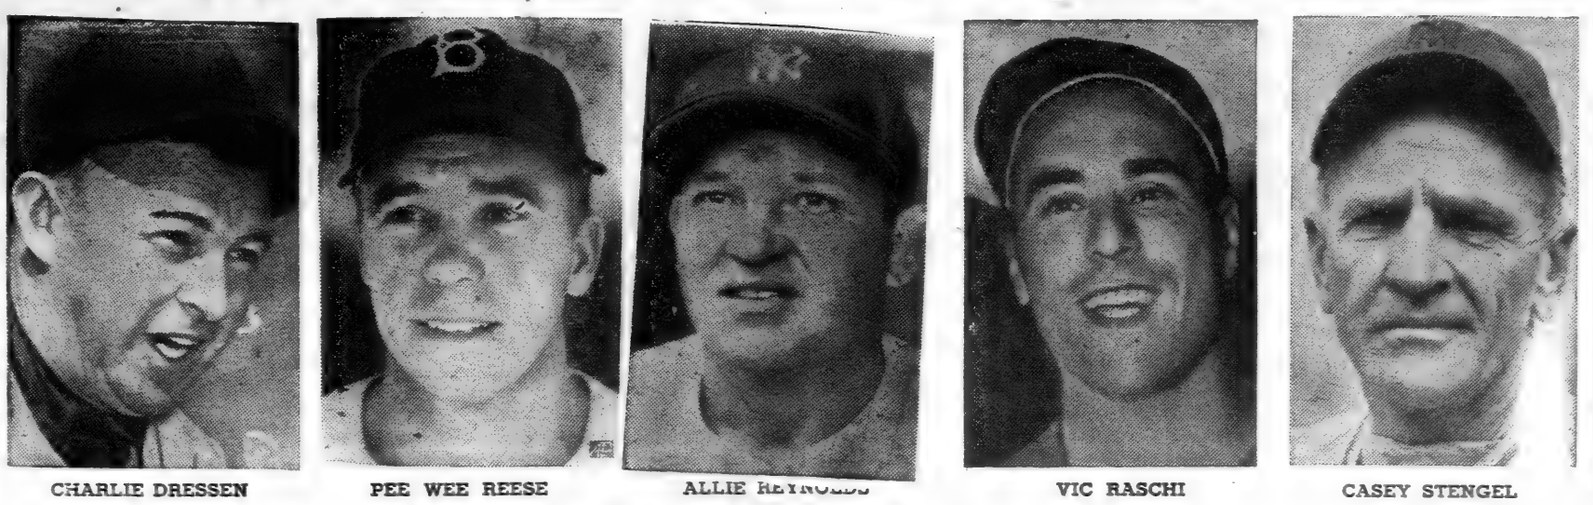
S	H	E	■	M	E	A	T	■	C	O	R	A
P	A	R	■	A	R	N	O	■	A	P	O	D
A	L	I	E	N	A	T	E	■	N	E	E	D
S	T	E	R	N	S	■	S	T	A	R	■	■
■	■	■	S	A	U	L	■	A	D	E	L	A
M	A	R	E	■	R	A	D	I	A	T	E	D
E	R	E	■	B	E	T	E	L	■	T	O	O
S	U	P	P	O	S	E	S	■	B	A	N	S
A	M	A	I	N	■	R	E	T	E	■	■	■
■	■	■	I	C	E	D	■	R	O	A	M	E	D
P	O	R	K	■	I	N	T	I	M	A	T	E
A	B	E	L	■	R	E	E	L	■	S	U	E
N	I	D	E	■	T	E	D	S	■	H	I	D

12-28

Average time of solution: 21 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Reynolds Opposes Black Today In Series Opener

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL.



NEW YORK, Sept. 30—The World Champion New York Yankees will begin the defense of their title tomorrow at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn when the 1952 World Series gets under way.

As usual, the Yankees are heavy favorites to take the series and it is expected that they will win in five or six games. They have been installed as such heavy favorites mainly because of their superior pitching staff.

Casey Stengel of the Yankees will start the big chief, Allie Reynolds, a 20-game winner this year, and generally conceded as the best money pitcher in the game today.

Manager Charlie Dressen will try to take the important first game with his ace reliefer and candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors, Joe Black.

The decision to start Black is definitely a gamble on Dressen's part, for if Black is unable to come through with a win,, the team will have lost temporarily the great relief pitching which carried it through the latter part of the season.

CHARLIE DRESSEN PEE WEE REESE ALLIE REYNOLDS VIC RASCHI CASEY STENGEL

. . . The two opposing World Series managers are pictured here with three of their star players. Yank Manager Stengel has chosen to start Reynolds into today's opening game at Ebbetts Field.

Dressen has also announced that he will start Carl Erskine in the second game against the Yankee's Vic Raschi. Erskine's record for the season was 14-6 including one no-hitter against the Cubs. Raschi's record was 16-6, and he, like Reynolds, has a reputation for being able to win the big ones.

In the third game, which will see the series shift to Yankee stadium, Stengel has announced that he will start left-hander Eddie Lopat. Dressen will counter with Preacher Roe, also a southpaw.

At the plate the Dodgers seem to have the edge with such hitters as Jackie Robinson, Andy Pafko, Duke Snider, Roy Campanella, and Gil Hodges. However, it is usually superior pitching which holds the upper hand in a short series.

The Yankees have two veteran players in Yogi Berra and Phil Rizutto, who usually come through with amazing regularity when a hit really counts. The rest of the Yankee attack will depend mostly on the hitting of Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle, and Gene Woodling.

This series will be the fourth in a row for the Yankees and they will be seeking their fourth straight win. On the other hand, the Dodgers will be trying to break a six year monopoly of American League victories. Not since 1946 when the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Boston Red Sox has a National League team won the world championship.

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

The World Serious

EVERY YEAR AROUND this time, when football fans are feverishly working over the sports pages and the parlay cards, a final breath of summer sweeps down from Yankee Stadium in New York, carries itself over the South, Midwest and on out to the West Coast, and like a truant officer raiding the old swimming hole, drags back millions of sport fans to their radios and TV sets for one final look at our National pastime. In short—the World Series—or World Serious, as some of our Ring Lardnerian fans from Brooklyn might call it—is once more upon us.

The staging of the championship of the world is back at the same old theatres which have produced so many thrilling plays before, Ebbets Field and Yankee Stadium. Whether the script remains the same will have to be determined a few days hence. The Yanks and the Dodgers, who started the subway series business which has proved to be the rule regulating the championship of the World in many of the recent years, are back at it again and it's anybody's guess who will win. And like every other year, anybody is guessing.

Pardoned Losers

THE DODGERS, who gained a reprieve this season after an unpardonable blowing of the pennant last year, will have the benefit of playing in their home park when the Series opens at Ebbetts Field this afternoon. From the looks of things they will need everything including a few Brooklyn sinks to stop the Yankees. The smart boys up East are saying the Yankees will sweep the Series, as is their usual procedure, and are offering 8-5 odds that they will. And they say the champs can do it in five or six games.

Now, this business of picking the winner ought to be left up to those in New York and thereabouts who are close enough to the scene to know what is going on, but from Brooklyn to Buenos Aires people will be thrusting their opinions on you—and Chapel Hill is no different. From this corner it looks like the Yankees in five games.

To the Brooklyn and National League fans this may sound like blasphemy, but to me it sounds like common sense. The Yanks are defending champions and when you stick with the champion to win, you can only lose once.

Here's The Pitch

AS MOST OTHERS will tell you, the answer should hinge on the pitching, and the Yankees have a clear cut edge there. Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees has decided to go along with his top money pitcher, Allie Reynolds, today and the Dodgers' Chuck Dressen has come back in a gamble with rookie reliefer Joe Black to get the Bums off right. This is a gamble that could wreck any and all chances Brooklyn has of winning. If Black goes the distance, then the big Negro will be of little use as a reliefer later in the series.

Dressen has some good hurlers but whether they can match the Yankees is another question. Carl Erskine has been the Brooks' top starter but has had trouble with a sore arm. He will probably go tomorrow. Preacher Roe is a toughy, too, when he's had his rest, and he will probably go the day after. What happens after that is up to manager Dressen.

The Yanks, on the other hand have the money pitchers who mark up their outs in dollar signs. Allie Reynolds, the Big Chief of the staff, is one of the best in the business, and his cohort, Vic Raschi, who will probably follow him tomorrow, has the same kind of blood in him. Then Stengel can come with Ed Lopat, who started slowly this season but who did a strengthening job in the Yankees drive for the pennant. Reynolds should be ready to go again for the fourth game, but if he isn't, Stengel has some good second liners who can move in—more than Dressen can boast.

Can't Beat 'Em—Join 'Em

BUT DON'T GET the idea I'm a Yankee lover. It's just that both of my teams are gazing over the train schedules to Florida for next year's spring training. I've been pulling against the Yanks for as long as I can remember. It's just gotten to the point of joining them when you can't beat them.

The rest of the positions are pretty even. Both teams have the best outfields in their respective leagues. Phil Rizzuto and Pee Wee Reese are probably the best in their position as shortstops and there is little to distinguish between Yogi Berra and Roy Campanella as catchers.

Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers gets the nod over Billy Martin at second and Brook Billy Cox a shade over Gil McDougald at third. If that sways you to the Dodgers, which it might, it's just a matter of the old Brooklynese saying, "You pays yer money and you takes yer cherce."

I'll still go with the Yanks in five games, though. But if it takes them six to clinch it or even seven, or if the Dodgers should take it in five, well—that's baseball.

Lewis Awards Announced

Plaques, honoring the late Kay E. Lewis, will be awarded this year to the outstanding intramural managers in both the fraternity and dormitory divisions, the mural department announced yesterday.

Lewis, who was an outstanding intramural athlete and manager the gym for his fraternity, Sigma Chi, died last spring of Hodgkins disease. He was a senior.

Bill Kucyck, intramural director, will send the plaques to the Lewis' home in Beaver, Pa. before putting them on display at the gym.

Georgia's Bratkowski Causes Carolina More Pass Worries

By Tom Peacock

The North Carolina football team will see another one of the finest quarterbacks in the country this Saturday when it meets the Georgia Bulldogs led by Zeke Bratkowski.

Bratkowski pulled last year's Carolina-Georgia game out of the fire for the Bulldogs by throwing three touchdown passes in the second half, and the 21-year-old junior has led Georgia to two wins this year.

Sets New Record

Bratowski set a new Southeastern Conference record for passing yardage last year, compiling 1,578 yards for an average of 157.8 yards per game. Bratkowski's principle receiver, Harry Babcock, led the Conference in receiving last year, and the two are considered the best pass combination in the south.

Zippy Morocco, another principle in last season's loss to the Bulldogs, will lead the running game in Coach Wally Butts split-T formation from left half. Fullback Fred Bilyeu and right half Lauren Hargrove round out the powerful backfield.

The Bulldogs opened the season by whipping Vanderbilt, 19-7, and then squeezed past Tulane last week in the last half minute, 21-16. Bratkowski passed for the winning touchdown in the last 30 seconds of the game.

Carolina head coach Carl Snavely bore down in preparation for the game yesterday, putting the Tar Heels through a long and hard practice. Snavely had rotating offensive and defensive scrimmages, plus passing drills and rugged line work.

Motta Practices

Quarterback Charlie Motta continued to work on his injured ankle, and he is expected to be ready for Saturday's contest. End Benny Walser and back Billy Williams were dressed, but not in heavy equipment. Their condition is still doubtful.

Carolina coaches hope to iron out the majority of the bugs in the Tar Heel split-T by game time, but other teams that have switched to the formation have found that it sometimes takes as much as three hard games to get the T down pat.

The Tar Heels will probably go through their last hard workout today, and will start tapering off with a light practice tomorrow.

Not since 1944 has the University of Miami been shutout in an opening football game. That year, the war torn Hurricanes and similarily inept South Carolina Gamecocks waddled to a scoreless tie.

Eight Games Slated For Tag Opening

A total of 27 fraternities have announced plans to field a team in the intramural tag football program, Intramural Director Bill Kucyk stated yesterday.

Nine of the organizations will field two clubs, bringing the number of competing teams to 36. The teams are divided into six leagues and will play the teams in their respective leagues one time during the regular season. Champions in each league will then play in a single elimination tournament to decide the champion for the fraternity division.

Play will get underway tomorrow afternoon. Kucyk stated the schedule would be completed before Thanksgiving, provided the weather extends a little cooperation.

Teams that will compete in League One are Delta Psi, Phi Delt-1, Phi Kap Sig, SAE-2, Delt Sig Pi, and Kap Psi. League Two will be composed of Theta Chi, SAE-1, ATO, ZBT, DKE-2, and Zetes-2.

Clubs scheduled to play in League Three are Beta-2, Sig Nu 1, Kap Sig, Pi Kap Phi, Sig Chi-2, and Phi Delt Chi. League Four will feature Lamb Chi, Beta-1, Pika, Pi Lamb Phi, Zetes 1, and KA. League Five contains Phi Gam-1, AK Psi, SPE, DKE-1, Sig Nu-2, and Chi Psi-1. Fraternities slated to participate in League Six are Chi Phi, Sig Chi-1, Chi Psi-2, Phi Gam-2, TEP, and Phi Delt-2.

Tomorrow's Schedule

4:00—Field 2, Theta Chi vs. Zeta Psi-2; Field 3, SAE-1 vs. DKE-2; Field 4, ATO vs. ZBT; Field 5, Sig Nu-1 vs. Sig Chi-2.

5:00—Field 2, Beta-2 vs. Phi Delt Chi; Field 3, Kap Sig vs. Pi Kap Phi; Field 4, Lamb Chi vs. KA; Field 5, Beta-1 vs. Zeta Psi-1.

Junior Varsity Will Meet South Carolina Jayvees

Coach Ted Hazelwood's junior varsity eleven will take on its second foe of the young season when it journeys to Columbia this Saturday to face the South Carolina Jayvees.

The bulk of the 40 man squad, victor last week over Fort Bragg, 7-0 will be composed of freshman varsity prospects. The rest of the team will be made up of veterans who are part time varsity performers.

Among the latter group will be backs George Wallin, Gus Young, Ernie Liberati, and Billy Hawks, tackle Don McCormick and guard Wilson Alexander.

Included among the frosh contingent will be four Pennsylvanians, guard Marcopolous, center Koman, and half backs Murray and Lamereaux. Aonther northern import is Lane, an end from New Jersey.

The most promising North Carolina freshmen are quarterback Laughlin from Hendersonville, guard Maultsby from Chapel Hill, Saunders a guard from Winston-Salem, Bob Williams a halfback from Fort Bragg, and ends Lee and Shoalers.

(See Jay Vee, page 4)

GUARANTEED ENTERTAINMENT!

We will gladly refund the full admission price of your ticket if you don't agree with us that this is first class entertainment.—The Management.

THE narrow MARGIN

"A sleeper... worthy of being bracketed with 'The Lady Vanishes' and 'Night Train'". —Time Magazine

"A model of electric tension". —N. Y. Times

WITH CHARLES McGRAW · MARIE WINDSOR · JACQUELINE WHITE

Produced by STANLEY RUBIN · Directed by RICHARD FLEISCHER

Screenplay by EARL FELTON

T-O-D-A-Y and Thursday

Varsity

What happened to the old rah rah spirit?

IT WENT OUT WITH RACCOON COATS and rumble seats. And we say good riddance.

Today's college man doesn't die a thousand deaths when the school loses the big game. And his clothes are no longer flashy, fancy and gaudy.

For his apparel, he looks to Manhattan® to reflect his quiet, self-assured manner . . . his insistence on quality, comfort and casualness.

Like this button-down Oxford with just the proper roll to the collar. Or this fine white piqué with an eyelet tab collar with just the right degree of difference.

We understand the modern college man. We concentrate our efforts, not on fads, but on making a better shirt. Ask for Manhattan . . . and you'll see how true this is

Manhattan®

Shirts, neckwear, underwear, pajamas, sportshirts, beachwear and handkerchiefs

What Goes On Here

SUAB

A meeting of the Student Union Activity Board will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Roland Parker Lounges 1 and 2 of Graham Memorial. Immediately following the general meeting of SUAB the Student-Faculty Relations committee will meet.

Unitarian Fellowship

The Unitarian Fellowship of Chapel Hill will meet on Sunday night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

Fulbright Fellowships

The deadline for placing applications for Fulbright Fellowships is set for October 31. In an earlier release given The Daily Tar Heel, the date was incorrectly announced as October 15.

Stray Greeks

There will be a Stray Greek meeting in Alderman Parlor at 7 o'clock tonight.

AAUP Meeting

The local chapter of the American Association of University Professors will meet tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the Faculty Lounge o fthe Morehead Building.

TODAY

Carolina

three top-notch
FALL BOOKS

Ernest
HEMINGWAY
The Old Man and the Sea....$3.00

John
STEINBECK
East of Eden $4.50

Henry
MILLER
The Books In My Life.....$5.00

You'll always find the live new books at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

GOP PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE Dwight D. Eisenhower, accompanied by his wife, pauses for a handshake with a tiny unidentified admirer after attending church services in New York City.—NEA Telephoto.

Have Two Feet Of Fun, Dance With Pretty Hon

The Carolina Square and Folk Dance Club, with only a small nucleus remaining from last year's group, will hold its first meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Women's Gym.

Miss Ruth Price of the Women's Physical Education Department yesterday pointed out that "the Club's purpose is primarily to have fun. In addition, its members strive to learn more about American dances as they are done in various sections of the country and also to learn something about folk dances of other nations.

"Everyone is invited. Don't let lack of experience hold you back. There are only three prerequisites for having fun—two feet and a desire to learn," Miss Price added.

Sports Shorts

U. of Miami enters 1952 with a record of 35 wins, 18 losses and three ties in intersectional play. Boston U and Marquette are 1952 Miami grid foes from outside Dixie.

★

Joe Schultz, senior from Philadelphia, failing for two years to win a letter at end and guard at U. of Miami, has found himself at tackle and opens the 1952 season as starting regular on offense.

★

Only four starting offensive players at the U. of Miami are seniors. The defensive units has three starting seniors.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

1952 MODEL MOTOROLA BEDSIDE radio. Like new. $30 Call Bill Irvin—310 Mangum. Phone 1-9452-2

HELP WANTED

WANTED IMMEDIATELY: SODA Fountain Help. Mrs. Clark 5531.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

Press Convention For High School

High school journalists from some 40 schools throughout the state will meet here Friday and Saturday for the 11th annual North Carolina Scholastic Press Institute, Walter Spearman said yesterday.

Spearman, University professor in the School of Journalism, said about 250 students are expected for the opening session in Gerrard Hall. Gary Williams of Raleigh will preside over the opening session.

Friday night's feature address will be given by Barry Farber of Greensboro, editor of The Daily Tar Heel. He will discuss "Tar Heel Journalist Abroad." This will be followed by a reception for the visiting high school journalists.

The entire day Saturday will be devoted to practical discussion groups on editorial writing, feature writing, makeup, news writing, sports, advertising and photography. Among the speakers will be Worth Bacon, Winston-Salem; Hugh Morton, Wilmington; Charles Craven, Raleigh; Bill Hackney, High Point; Walter Carroll, Chapel Hill; Harrie Keck, Charlotte, and Miss Lola Mustard of the School of Journalism.

A special session on yearbook problems and solutions will be held Saturday morning from 10 until 11 o'clock in 111 Murphey Hall. Hugh Gale, editor, and Bob Colbert, managing editor, of the Yackety Yack, will speak.

Joe Parker, Sam Holmes, Jerry Epps, Gene Watson, members of the Press Club, will take students on tours of the campus Saturday afternoon.

Adlai Defends Korean Stand

SPRINGFIELD—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, defending the administration's action in Korea, declared Monday night that when the Communists crossed the 38th Parallel "that was the testing point for freedom throughout the world." But now, he added, the Republicans "attempt to make you believe that it (U.S. action in Korea) was almost an act of treason."

MRS. CHARLES O'QUINN (left), and Mrs. John S. Varner (right), told police they were in love with each other's husbands and were on their way to Reno to obtain divorces so they could remarry, when they were picked up in Denver, Colorado on bad check charges. Each couple has one child.—NEA Telephoto.

Anderson, Chekhov Star In Film Tomorrow

"Specter of the Rose," film presentation with Judith Anderson and Michael Chekhov, will be shown at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Backstage ballet life of a dancer overcome by insanity is the theme which is presented with tongue-in-cheek eloquence and played with relish.

The Student Union Activities Board will sponsor this free presentation. Five other films in the series will be shown at a later date to those with film membership cards, available for $1.

A Professor For 42 Years

Cobb Dorm Has Name Of Former Geologist

Cobb Dormitory, UNC's newest and largest dorm, was named for geologist Collier Cobb.

The million dollar, four-story structure on Country Club road next to the Monogram Club, accomodates 413 students. It has 16 tiled bathrooms and on the first floor are two large lounges with terrazo floors. It was designed by architect Watts Carr of Durham.

Cobb, a celebrated geologist, was a member of the faculty for 42 years from 1892 until he died in 1934. As a child he was known as a prodigy, owning and editing his own newspaper at the age on nine. At 14 he was teaching school in Ansonville and Lilesville. After attending college at UNC and at Wake Forest, he did graduate work at Harvard.

He joined the UNC faculty in 1892 from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He resigned as head of the Geology Department in 1932 but continued teaching part-time until his death in November 1934.

His widow, Mrs. Mary Gatlin Cobb, still makes her home in Chapel Hill. His son, Collier Jr., is a member of the Trustees' Building Committee, and his daughter, Miss Mary Cobb, is head of the Correspondence Bureau.

Charles Winston New Cadet Colonel

Air ROTC Officers Named

Cadet Charles M. Winston has been promoted to the rank of Cadet Colonel and will command the 1st AF ROTC Wing at the University, Colonel Jesse J. Moorhead, Professor of Air Science and Tactics, said yesterday.

James A. Bell Jr., was appointed Cadet Lt. Colonel and will be the Executive Officer, second in command of the Cadet Wing which now has a strength of 869 cadets.

Appointed to Cadet Colonel Winston's staff are Cadet Majors Robert E. Shaw, adjutant; Kenneth G. Anderson, operations officer; Charles A. Collins, supply officer; Alan R. Perry, personnel officer; Eugene D. Foushee, comptroller, and Robert B. Jackson, special services and public information officer.

Promoted to the rank of Cadet Lt. Colonel and placed in command of the three groups are Lyman B. McLawhon; H. Jay Zink, and Jere P. DuBose. Group adjutants are Cadet 1st Lt.'s William L. McCord; Herbert Spaugh and James M. Peerson. Group personnel officers are Cadet 1st Lt.'s Alvin B. Samuel, Thomas A. Sully and John H. Debnam.

Cadet Major William T. Milburn was named to command the AF ROTC Band, with the assistance of Cadet Captain John R. Way, and Cadet 1st Lt. Alva W. Stewart.

Promoted to the rank of cadet major and named to command the nine squadrons which compose the wing were Jacob H. Froelich, Douglas W. Ayres, Theodore G. Frankel, Frank A. Daniels, Kenneth W. Mostella, Ronald S. Prince, Bryan T. Watlington, Lewis A. Ennis and John F. Prescott.

Squadron Adjutants include Cadet 1st Lt.'s John S. Cramer, Lloyd B. Moon, Garth Payne, Thomas M. Wooten, Fred A. Price, Nelson T. Fletcher, Jerry D. Wall, Ormond H. Dunphey and Avery M. Cooke.

Each squadron is composed of two flights. Flight commanders promoted to the rank of cadet captain were Charles L. Haywood, Hal C. Sigman, John N. Fountain, Solomon G. Cherry, Thomas W. Thomas, George D. Ferrell, Frank L. Hood, William L. Harper, Ben G. Redding, Eldon P. Allen, Chalmer M. Port, Bill S. Lester, Thomas G. Hopkins, Elisha L. Bryan, Needham B. Correll, Thomas D. Johnston, Robert L. Phillips and Clarence O. Kelly.

The wing's crack drill squadron is commanded by Cadet Major Robert P. Midgett, who will be assisted by Cadet M/Sgt William H. Carr, drill master, and Cadet M/Sgt. Kenton B. Creuser, 1st Sergeant.

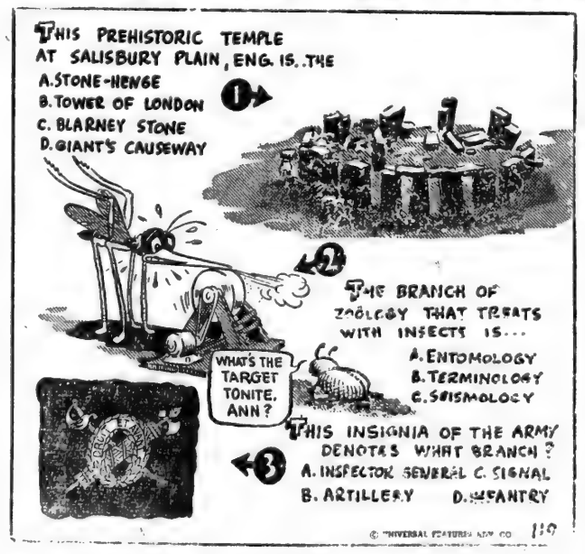
English Club Slates Meeting

The graduate English Club will hold its first meeting of the year today at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the Library to welcome new members. Refreshments will be served.

Established last spring, the English Club is looking forward to another varied schedule of programs of interest to graduate students in English. An address by Prof. Benjamin Boyce of Duke University highlights the fall schedule, which also will include a student paper, a faculty discussion panel, and a Christmas entertainment. All graduate students are invited to join the club and are asked to attend the first meeting.

The steering committee for this year is headed by Thaddeus Seymour and consists of Barbara Bennett, Dick Goldsmith, Bill Goodykoontz, Bob Hooper, Lee Potter, Henry Rosenberg, Lamarr Stephens, Brad Stroup and Tom Walker.

—Jay Vee—



(Continued from page 3)

The Tar Babies gained 400 yards rushing in triumphing over Fort Bragg last week. The soldiers were mostly veteran ex-college players.

The Carolina Javees take on the Virginia junior varsity at Charlottesville on Oct. 17. The following week-end they meet Wake Forest at Burlington. The only home game of the season will be against Maryland on Oct. 31. The season closes with Duke at Durham on Thanksgiving day.

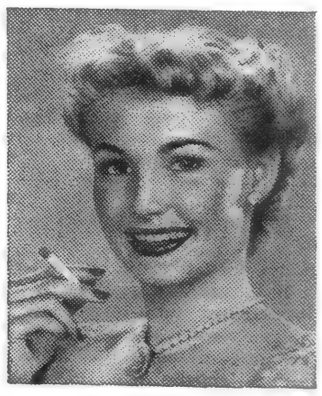
Bob Taro of Nutley, N. J., flashy sophomore halfback at the U. of Miami, has already attracted the eye of major league scouts for his brilliant shortstopping in baseball.

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

Men, are you baffled by toiletries problems and the answers to the quiz? SUTTON'S DRUG STORE has the answer to both: Stone Henge, Entomology and Inspector General for the quiz . . . and nationally advertised toiletries.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN



CAMEL leads all other brands by billions of cigarettes per year!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Test CAMELS for 30 days for Mildness and Flavor

CAMELS are America's most popular cigarette. To find out why, test them as your steady smoke. Smoke only Camels for thirty days. See how rich and flavorful they are — pack after pack! See how mild CAMELS are — week after week!

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER

Fair and warm today with 85 high. Yesterday's high, 90; low 60.

The Daily Tar Heel

SUAB

A new combination of the alphabet. See edit on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 8 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

UNC MAY GET EDUCATIONAL TV PROGRAMS

SEC Will Present Fred Waring's Orchestra

THIS PORTENT OF AWFUL things to come is the Army's new 85-ton atomic gun. This power-packed monster can roll nimbly across fields into position and be ready to fire within a few minutes. Overall length of the unit, including its two transporters, is 84 feet, two inches. Each of the six-wheeled engine cabs can operate completely independently of the other, but when the carriage and mount assembly are attached, the forward unit has control of the throttle and brakes for both units. In the second of two views (bottom), a civilian gunnery expert is at the lanyard of the 280 mm. piece. Projectile and powder charge are loaded by a hydraulic system but the job can be done by hand. Range is 20 miles.—NEA Telephotos.

Nadine Connor, Marine Band Also Booked

Leathernecks Will Open Series On November 17

The Student Entertainment Committee will present Fred Waring's Orchestra and Chorus, Nadine Connor, the United States Marine Band and Ogden Nash to University students this year, Chairman Bob Simmons of the group announced yesterday.

The Marine band will open the series of programs on Nov. 17 with a concert in Memorial Hall. On Jan. 8, Fred Waring, his orchestra and chorus, will present a concert with his famous "Festival of Song" theme.

Nadine Connor, Metropolitan Opera Company soprano will be here on April 7, and Ogden Nash, world famous humorist, will make his debut on the campus on April 7.

A non-profit organization, the SEC gets its funds from the Legislature. Last spring it was voted $5,000 and now has used all of it but $150 to schedule entertainment. It is seeking an additional $600 to further its program and will ask the Legislature for this amount tonight.

All SEC presentations are in Memorial Hall and are free to University students. Block fees paid by the students pay for the presentations. Prices for townspeople and others will be $1 plus tax.

Student committee members are Bill Brain, Walt Ernst, Al Neely and Bill Watt. Other members are Dr. W. S. Newman of the Music Department, Dr. O. T. Mouzon of the Commerce Department and Prof. Samuel Selden of the Dramatic Arts Department.

Redistricting Bill Gets Airing Tonight

The Student Legislature is scheduled to get a bill tonight that would expand the present two voting districts of the men's dormitories into five districts.

President Ham Horton yesterday said that it is essential that this proposal be passed tonight to be put in effect by election time.

The ruling is that any proposed change must be passed 45 days before the time of election. He added that he felt this change would bring about a closer relationship between legislator and student which he felt was necessary for true representation of the students.

He said in the present system, it is practically impossible for the legislators to meet all students in the two districts. He stated that with the legislators having to canvass only about one-fifth of the original number of students that the present system demands, more intelligent voting will be procured.

Chairman of the Student Party, Ken Barton yesterday said he was interested in including Cobb Dormitory in the elections laws so it could vote. but that he wanted to wait until a later date to completely redistrict the campus so the UP and the SP could reach a compromise on their different redistricting bills.

If something is not changed tonight, Cobb will not be able to vote in the fall elections.

Also on tap for tonight's meeting are requests from The Daily Tar Heel and the Student Entertainment Committee for additional funds.

SUAB Meets Tonight In Graham Memorial

A mass meeting of all students participating in this year's Student Union Activities Board program will be held tonight at 7:30 in Roland Parker Lounges One and Two of Graham Memorial, Ken Penegar, chairman of the group said yesterday.

Letters have gone out to 400 new students who indicated an interest in SUAB, Penegar said. "All other students are urged to attend tonight's meeting, for committee appointments will be made to the following committees: tournaments, music, receptions, film, calendar, student-faculty, office, forum, public relations, display, special services and outings," the SUAB chairman said.

Currently serving as chairmen of some of the committees are Don Geiger, Wanda Philpott, Jody Levy, Harry Phillips, Joyce Doughty, Henry Lowet, Nita Anderson, and Mary Brown.

Already under way are activities in the tournaments committee, which is sponsoring the weekly football-score contests; the films committee, having its first movie tonight; the public relations committee and the display committees.

"The office staff has been busy all week tabulating the information on the student activities card filled out during orientation," Penegar said. This information will be passed on as soon as possible to the organizations concerned.

Penegar also said the other main function of SUAB, the coordinating council, will begin its work of bringing together all student organization leaders in order to better direct the campus activity program and to aid in maintaining the campus calendar as soon as invitations to its membership has been extended to all major student organizations.

12 Test Films Being Shot In Swain Hall

Final Say Rests With Legislature, Board Of Trustees

By John Jamison

"The most effective teaching tool ever invented"—television—may soon be directed to North Carolinians from an educational TV station located in Chapel Hill.

A set of 12 kinescope films is now under production in the main studio of Swain Hall. These consist of lectures and demonstrations by professors from all three branches of the Consolidated University.

A kinescope is a film recording made especially for airing TV shows. Its popularity owes itself to the fact that by its use programs may be broadcast after their actual production and may be edited to any extent desired.

Preston H. Epps, UNC professor in the classics, will lecture in his field. Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government here, will be featured in a program from the institute building. A kinescope will be made showing various new agricultural techniques developed at State College.

Does all this mean then, that the University is going to get or about to get a TV station? It all depends, according to Dr. Logan Wilson, on the Trustees and the Legislature—or private gifts. It's their decision, he said.

Dr. Wilson, vice-president of the Consolidated University and chairman of the University Committee on Television, said the experimental kinescopes are being produced at a cost of $6,000. They will be used to demonstrate TV potentialities to everyone concerned with the program, especially the state legislature, he said.

"It is a tribute to Gordon Gray's foresight," Dr. Wilson said, "that he realized the enormous potential of educational television." Gray has been studying for some time the medium which appeals to "the total sensory perception of sound and vision."

The Federal Communications Commission has allowed eight channels in North Carolina for non-commercial TV. The only one of these designated to operate on a frequency capable of being received now is the channel assigned to Chapel Hill.

This gives it a particular value, Dr. Wilson said. "The commercial operators are waiting to pounce if the University does not act."

Aside from the high-cost, no-profit aspect of teaching by TV a major deterrent to its complete acceptance is a feeling among certain trustees and faculty members that other things are needed much more by the University, Dr. Wilson said.

Film Series Begins With Free Movie

The campus' newest organization, the Student Union Activities Board, is currently sponsoring six weekly films known as the Art Film series.

The first of this series will be shown in the main lounge of Graham Memorial tonight at 8 o'clock. It is entitled "Specter of the Rose" and will be admission-free. After tonight, however, the films only will be open to those students holding film membership cards which will be on sale tonight for $1.

One of these films will be shown each Wednesday night at 8 o'clock for the next six weeks. The films, all of which are of the better type, will average about 80 minutes showing time.

The schedule of remaining films to be shown is October 9, "Distant Journey"; October 16, "Jennie Lamour"; October 23, "The Magic Horse"; October 30, "Lucrezia Borgia," and November 6, "Dance Film Festival."

Graphic Arts Staff Member Wins Contest

A staff member of the Institute for Social Research received $500 this week for writing the lyrics to a prize-winng song.

William K. Hubbell, supervisor of the Graphic Arts Section of the institute, wrote the lyrics to "Another Day With You", which was recently awarded the first prize of $1,000 in a contest sponsored by National Fine Arts Award, Inc. Hubbell shared the prize money with Robert W. Miles Jr., who wrote the music. Miles is doing radio work in New York City with the National Committee For A Free Europe.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PARIS—U.S. Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball said yesterday that the United States has lauched its first true guided missile warship and it is "only a question of time" until atomic-powered aircraft carriers are developed. Kimball said the Navy has developed guided missiles far in advance of those tested in Korea and that "we are in a position to use these effectively if need be". The secretary declined to name the guided missile vessel, which he said was designed mainly for anti-aircraft defense. He said others, to be ready later, would be able to direct such missiles against sea and ground targets.

★

WASHINGTON—Soft coal operators yesterday sought government approval of a big pay raise they fought vainly against granting John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers. Northern soft coal producers planned to submit their new one year contract with the union to the Wage Stabilization Board today for approval. They hoped to get the board's okay before Oct. 15.

★

CHEJU ISLAND—G.I. guards with blazing guns killed 45 Chinese POWs and injured 120 others in quelling a riot yesterday. The prisoners were celebrating the third anniversary of China's Communist regime when some fanatics turned the jubilee into an attack on their guards.

Elections Due

Chairman Jerry Cook of the Elections Board yesterday said campus offices elections will be held November 18.

The offices include the freshman and sophomore class officers, 25 members for the Student Legislature, three juniors for the Women's Honor Council, and two juniors, one sophomore, and one freshman for the Men's Honor Council.

Runoffs will be held on November 25.

Playmakers To Offer 'Death Of A Salesman'

Carolina Playmaker productions for the 1952-53 season were announced recently by Director Samuel Selden.

"Death of a Salesman," Broadway hit, is first on the schedule—October 22-26, and will be directed by Thomas Patterson of the Playmaker staff.

Other productions include "The Inspector General," directed by Prof. Harry Davis, December 3-7; "Princess Ida," William Hardy, director, February 6-8; "The Good Woman of Setzuan," Kai Jurgensen, director, February 25-March 1, and "Lysistrata," Foster Fitz-Simons, director, May 22-24, (Forest Theatre selection).

Chapel Hill Jaycees Run Golf Course

A couple of Chapel Hill Jaycees have given UNC students a chance to participate in local community affairs. And it doesn't hurt either.

Bill Alexander and Ted Danziger, who ran the Ranch House miniature golf course last summer have turned it over to the local Junior Chamber to run.

Proceeds from the course will go into the JC's treasury earmarked for their community fund. This fund has provided Chapel Hill with such things as the street markers and the trees planted along Franklin Street. The current project is to provide a community cabin for civic groups such as the Boy Scouts, to meet in.

Jaycees will be on hand to operate the course from 3 in the afternoon until the last golfer leaves. They will operate it until cold weather forces them to close.

The miniature golf course, which is next to the Ranch House and a half mile from town on the Airport Road, will give away each afternoon a pair of theater passes to the lowest scorer. Admission is two bits, all of which goes to the community fund.

Opening Play Cast Named

Thomas Patterson, assistant director of the Carolina Playmakers, yesterday named his cast for Arthur Miller's Pulitzer-prize-winning drama, "Death of a Salesman," which will open the season here October 22.

Playing the role of salesman—Willy Loman, is William Trotman of Winston-Salem, with Mary Long of Chapel Hill as his wife Linda. Their sons, Biff and Happy, will be played by James T. Pritchett, Lenoir, and Donald Treat, Waterbury, Conn.

Others cast in the play are Milton Beyer, Alden, N. Y., as Bernard; Anne Miller, Albany, Ga., as the woman; Walter Creech, Chapel Hill, as Charley; John Bonitz, Jr., Greensboro, as Howard Wagner; Jan Carter, Washington, D. C., as Jenny; Paul Anisko Elizabeth, N. J., as Stanley; Mary Helen Crain, Durham, as Miss Forsythe, and Judith Taylor, Laurenceville, N. J., as Letta.

Humor Mag's Subscriptions Only 2,000

Tarnation subscriptions now total only 2,000, Managing Editor Jackie Brooks said yesterday.

"We feel it isn't worth while to put out the magazine for just 40 percent of the student body, said Miss Brooks. "We don't think that we can put out the quality of magazine that we want and that the campus deserves without more subscriptions."

In an effort to push circulation, Tarnation will give a 10 percent cash refund to fraternities and sororities having 100 percent subscription. Tarnation is completely dependent on subscriptions and advertising for financial support this year, Miss Brooks said, explaining that the humor magazine receives no funds from block fees.

Publication date for the first

(See HUMOR, page 4)

Sophomores Pose Today For Yack

Today is the first day for sophomores to have their pictures taken for the Yackety Yack.

The photographing is being done in the basement of Graham Memorial from 2 p.m. until 9 at night. The second year students have through Monday to have their yearbook snaps taken.

White shirts and ties for the gents, blouses for the ladies.

Ghisi's Music Lecture To Be Given Tonight

A music lecture by Federico Ghisi, eminent Italian musicologist and composer, will be given in Hill Hall at 8:30 tonight.

The lecture is entitled "Italian Ars Nova Music, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries."

A second lecture is scheduled for tomorrow night. The lectures are illustrated with records and slides. Admission is free.

HILLSBORO—Police continued to search yesterday for seven of 10 convicts who escaped from Orange County prison camp Sunday night.

UNC Graduate Wins Wave Recruit Honor

Nancy Applewhite Lewis, SA, USN, 1951 UNC graduate, has been chosen honor recruit of the Wave Recruit Training Command in Bainbridge, Md.

Enlisting as a Wave in June 1952, she is the only North Carolinian to receive this distinction. Miss Lewis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Lewis of Enfield, N. C.

Attention Frosh

All organizations, fraternities and sororities who have not previously contracted for space in the 1953 Yackety Yack yesterday were asked to do so by Business Manager Russ Cowell.

Cowell said October 10 is the deadline and no contracts will be signed after that date.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus ..... LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Jerry Reece, Allen Savitz, Tom Parramore, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ed Yoder, Jennie Lynn.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Bob Slough

SUAB

SUAB is the Student Union Activities Board, newest organization on campus and potentially the most functional of Carolina's numerous committees.

SUAB will serve a two-fold purpose, according to Ken Penegar, President of the organization. First of all, it will coordinate campus activities by bringing together the leaders of all student organizations who will keep each other informed of the schedules and programs of the various groups. This method, it is hoped, will alleviate mix-ups, such as having two lectures, one concert, ninety-seven meetings and a dance on the same evening.

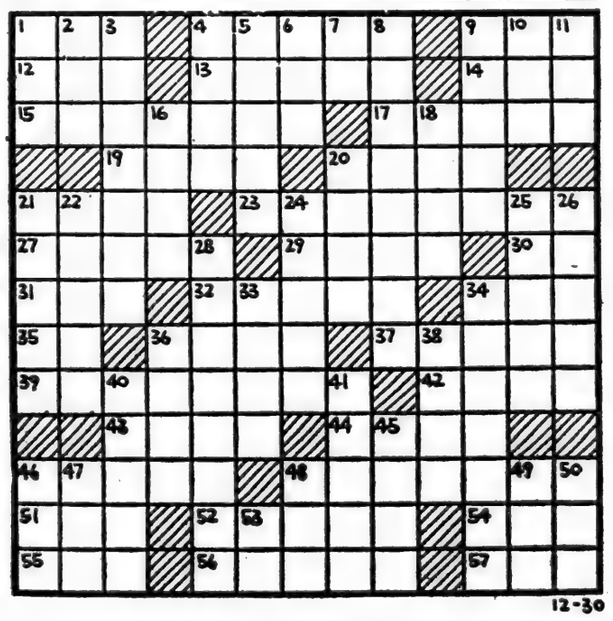
The idea was perpetrated in response to lamentations from The Daily Tar Heel, South Building, student organizations, and in general, everybody concerned. SUAB was proposed at the Student Government Clinic last spring and was adopted by the Graham Memorial Board of Directors.

Another purpose of this coordinating robot is to augment the program of the student union by bringing more students into direct participation in Graham Memorial activities. The work will be done by the coordination council and the chairmen of twelve committees representing various interest fields on campus.

We say that the first signs of recovery from "student apathy" are apparent. A full recovery is possible. —SB.

Room For Several Hundred

Now it has been done. The bleachers problem has been solved.



Yes, the Athletic Association has made it possible for the men students to sit with their foreign dates (imports) at the football games. Heretofore, the boys dating imports sat in the student section and watched the team make all the passes while their dates sat on the opposite side of the stadium.

Now the imports are back in the game. By a simple transaction at the ticket window over at the gym, all the girls can enjoy all the privileges of a full-fledged coed.

Maybe someday, the coeds can enjoy all the privilege of the imports at other campus social events.

Send The Daily Tar Heel Home

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

12-30

HORIZONTAL
1. variety of lettuce
4. feminine name
9. queen of the fairies
12. not employed
13. variety of corundum
14. former European coin
15. be in force
17. lease again
19. steeps flax
20. heap
21. lower foreleg
23. retards
27. stops
29. sister of Ares
30. moon-goddess
31. salutation
32. listens
34. by
35. personal pronoun
36. strays from truth
37. vestige
39. pleads
42. sweetsop
43. frees
44. native of Poland
46. scouted
48. reddish purple
51. corrode
52. growing out
54. spread for drying
55. ogle
56. thick
57. mournful

VERTICAL
1. head
2. possessive pronoun
3. barren
4. flesh food
5. wrong
6. Babylonian god
7. symbol for erbium
8. lyric writer
9. affray
10. high card
11. except
16. opening
18. large deer
20. young salmon
21. chagrin
22. refuge
24. lowest
25. female relative
26. afflictions
28. torn into particles
33. epochs
34. government grants
36. Great Lake
38. harsh respiratory sound
40. threadbare
41. gaiters
45. curved molding
46. observe
47. discharge obligation
48. adult male
49. beverage
50. annex
53. symbol for neon

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

H	O	S	T	S		A	N	A		I	D	E
A	V	E	R	T		D	E	C	I	D	E	S
M	E	D	E	A		O	P	E	N	E	R	S
	R	I	N	G	E	R		S	H	A	M	E
H	A	L	T		L	E	T		A	L	A	N
A	T	I		B	U	R	I	A	L
S	E	A	R	E	D		S	T	E	R	E	S
			O	D	E	S	S	A		E	R	A
P	A	R	T		R	I	O		E	V	A	N
U	N	I	T	E		S	T	A	V	E	S
R	E	V	E	N	G	E		V	E	N	U	S
E	M	E	N	D	E	R		E	N	U	R	E
E	O	N		S	E	A		S	T	E	E	N

12-30

Average time of solution: 34 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

—Barry Farber—
Personally
Olympic Diary

HELSINKI, July 19—I got up on the wrong side of the world this morning.

Or at least I thought so when the opening day of the Olympic Games found me without tickets, without clothes (The Finnish railways accidentally gave my baggage to a Hungaran named Fazer.), and without money (Helsinki banks won't cash a check without a passport—which I lost.) With my luck, I think if I ever went into the hat business little babies would start being born without heads.

At noon I was up in my hotel room trying to learn enough Finnish to get downstairs when the desk clerk phoned and offered to lend me a pair of Swedish navy dungarees until Mr. Frazer saw fit to repatriate my luggage. I slipped on an old Carolina monogram sweater and hopped a tram out to the Olympic Stadium. That's where the fun started.

The ticket situation looked hopeless. The Olympic committee had been sold out since early May and over a hundred thousand people were bitterly fighting for the seventy thousand seats. The Finnish Army had a triple cordon rigged around the three gates; the outer gate, the inner gate, and the inner-inner gate. I stood there half-hoping somebody would drop dead so I could haggle with his heirs over his ticket, or maybe a millionaire countess would fall in love with me and invite me to sit in her guest box, when suddenly one of the guards spotted my NC monogram, snapped to attention, and saluted. He called over three of his buddies, who also saluted, and together they proceeded to escort me through the players' entrance.

I caught on quick. They thought I was a participant in the Games and they were anxious to show off their northern hospitality. I didn't have the heart to disillusion them. Instead I told them I was a halfback on the Swiss soccer team and acted hurt because they didn't show up sooner.

They convoyed me to what would be the upper card section in Kenan Stadium and shoved aside a group of tuxedoed diplomats shouting "Make way for the athlete." (This sweater routine worked faithfully all through the Games. Gate keepers, street car conductors, and hot dog salesmen all refused my money at the sight of the Carolina monogram. It was embarrassing when the little Finnish children, who also thought I was an Olympic ace, clustered around for autographs. When I tried to explain I was just another tourist they thought I was being modest and prodded me all the harder. There was nothing to do but grab a pencil and sign my name between the scrawled signatures of Mathias and Zatopek.)

The Olympic ceremony opened with a welcoming speech by Finnish President Paasikivi and was followed by a lustrous parade of athletes from seventy one nations. Then a sensational fiasco exploded which was largely ignored or underplayed by the world press.

Immediately after the lighting of the Olympic torch by Paavo Nurmi, Finland's long distance wizard of the 20's, a willowy figure in white drifted down from the bleachers under the scoreboard waving a scroll over her head and raced past the guards onto the track. The teams broke ranks to cheer the snowy apparition onward as she made her way unobstructed to the speakers' platform. Even the well rehearsed officials thought it was all part of the act until the "Lady in White," Fraulein Barbara Pleyer of Stuttgart, Germany seized the field mike and began to speak on peace through Communism.

The crowd was shocked into silence as the chairman of the Olympic Committee leaped from his box, darted across the cinders to the platform, and began struggling with the frenzied woman who was fending him off successfully with one hard holding the mike with the other, kicking policemen with both feet, and shouting her message to the world all at the same time.

Finally the Finnish Army managed to lead the spirited young lady from the field and the show went on according to the program.

'Things Weren't Tough Enough'

—Drew Pearson—
The Washington
Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—After General Eisenhower spent two days at a New York film studio recording radio and TV "spots" for the wind-up of his campaign, the Republican high command is at odds regarding their use. More specifically, they are at odds on how to raise the money to buy the radio and TV time for their use.

The subject came up at a meeting of top GOP money-raisers in New York recently, at which Lloyd Dalzell, dynamic, young tugboat operator, offered to raise $600,000 to $800,000.

"I will raise the money, but only to be used for the General's spot announcements," he said.

However, others were skeptical; not over Dalzell's ability to raise money, but over the same issue which has caused friction inside the Republican party in the past—local leadership vs. National leadership.

Winthrop Aldrich, head of the Chase National Bank and brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, was afraid that Dalzell's money-raising would conflict with local money-raising. He feared he would tap the same moneyed people that local leaders will have to tap. Others agreed. Even if the national ticket should lose, they argued, Republican organizations must be kept strong locally and local tickets must be elected.

Jock Whitney, who once served in the Roosevelt administration and married Jimmie Roosevent's ex-wife, took the opposite view. He felt nothing was more important than raising money for the spot radio and TV time.

These consist of radio recordings and TV kinescopes in which Eisenhower answers current political questions. They are to be used in the last three weeks of the campaign to "saturate" key states in the East and Midwest, which Truman carried in 1948 by only a narrow margin.

This idea was evolved by Rosser Reeves, ace advertising specialist for the Ted Bates Agency. Cooperating with him was Mike Levin of the Erwin-Wasey Agency. Later Fred Rudge of Fisher, Rudge & Neblett came in.

Note—Presiding over the finance meeting was Sidney Weinberg, head of the giant banking house of Goldman-Sachs. Born in Russia, brought up in Brooklyn, Weinberg is a director of more corporations than he can recite himself, got to know Gen. Lucius Clay during World War II days in Washington, later got Clay his job with Continental Can. It was through Clay that Weinberg got on the Eisenhower bandwagon.

Dynamic Dick, the GOP vice-presidential hopeful, can certainly rub newspaper editors and publishers the wrong way.

Holding a press conference with the top editors at Oklahoma City last week, Nixon declined to answer questions, gave editors the brush-off.

Commented Wheeler Mayo, publisher of the Sallisaw Times and Claremore Daily Progress:

"Never in my 20 years of owning and operating newspapers and as past president of the Oklahoma Press Association have I witnessed the snubbing that Nixon gave the press.

"Oklahoma editors were called by special invitation for the specific purpose of attending a question-and-answer conference. It was a fiasco.

"Editors found that they had been called to a stacked meeting to witness and be impressed by a 15-minute glamour-boy show in which Nixon acted three parts—his own moderator, interrogator and the answerer of his own questions.

"His refusal to answer questions, in contrast with Sparkman's give-and-take of the day before, made Nixon look silly."

Note—The point most newsmen and the public want Nixon to explain is how he paid $20,000 down on his Washington house, while also buying a house in California, after his wife wrote in the Saturday Evening Post that they sometimes didn't have enough money to buy postage.

Jim Hagerty, press aide to Eisenhower and one of the best in the business, may be eased out. He's been the subject of considerable private debate among the General's advisers, so much so that John Foster Dulles, a good friend of both Ike and Governor Dewey, has been in touch with Dewey regarding the situation.

Hagerty is a veteran of many presidential campaigns, having been righthand man to Governor Dewey. He is popular with newsmen, but has one handicap—the General doesn't know him well. And the General doesn't feel comfortable with people he hasn't known a long time.

For one thing, Hagerty can't get to see him on important questions which should be given the press without delay. Eisenhower's friends keep a tight wall around him, anxious to conserve his strength.

The man who would take Hagerty's place, if he leaves, is Maj. Gen. Wilton G. Pearsons, an old friend of Ike's, who is an expert at getting along with people in tight places. During part of the war he was the Army's top lobbyist on Capitol Hill, had the job of smoothing the ruffled fur of congressmen.

Following the lead of Spain and Colombia, Peron's dictatorship in Argentina has now started cracking down on freedom of worship. It is doing this by revoking the preaching permits of Protestant pastors on trumped-up political charges.

Rev. Julio N. Sabanes, Uruguayan minister of the Central Methodist Church in Buenos Aires, and Rev. Angel Sainz, an Argentine pastor of the United Protestant Church at the fashionable seaside resort of Mar Del Plata, were both notified by the Peron government a few days ago that they would no longer be permitted to conduct services.

Significantly, the charge sounded like the pretexts of Communist regimes to eliminate independent religions.

The two Protestant pastors were formally accused by the Argentine Ministry of Foreign Relations and Worship with having denounced the high cost of living.

—Harry Snook—
NONPLUS

"You ought to write about the infirmary."

My fellow student was dead serious. With several minutes before class and a lot of curiosity, I waited to hear his story.

"That place is the best argument against socialized medicine you'll ever find," he went on. I was doubly interested now because I could guess the train of his thought.

"Don't like the way it's run, huh?" I prompted him.

"It's lousy," he said. "Let me tell you what happened to me.

"I sprained my arm during summer school and trotted out to the infirmary. The nurse at the desk is talking with some guy when I go in. He seems a nice, quiet fellow who isn't too handy with words. He's trying to get the dope on filling out some papers, but the nurse is so damned snippy with him that he never makes her understand. I mean she was snippy, too—even I can see his problem, but she never tries. Finally she resents him saying 'I don't think you understand what I'm after in a very quiet voice, nice. 'You just go somewhere else with your troubles,' she tells him.

"Then she rattles some papers on her desk and the guy leaves. After a coupla minutes she notices me standing beside the desk. 'What do you want?' she asks.

"I tell her I want to see a doctor, that I've hurt my arm. She tells me the doctor will see me soon's he can, and that's all she says.

"So I sit down in chair outside the doctor's door and wait.

"He finishes up with a patient about ten minutes later. He's alone in his office, I think about about going in. The nurse sees what I'm thinking and says she'll let me know when.

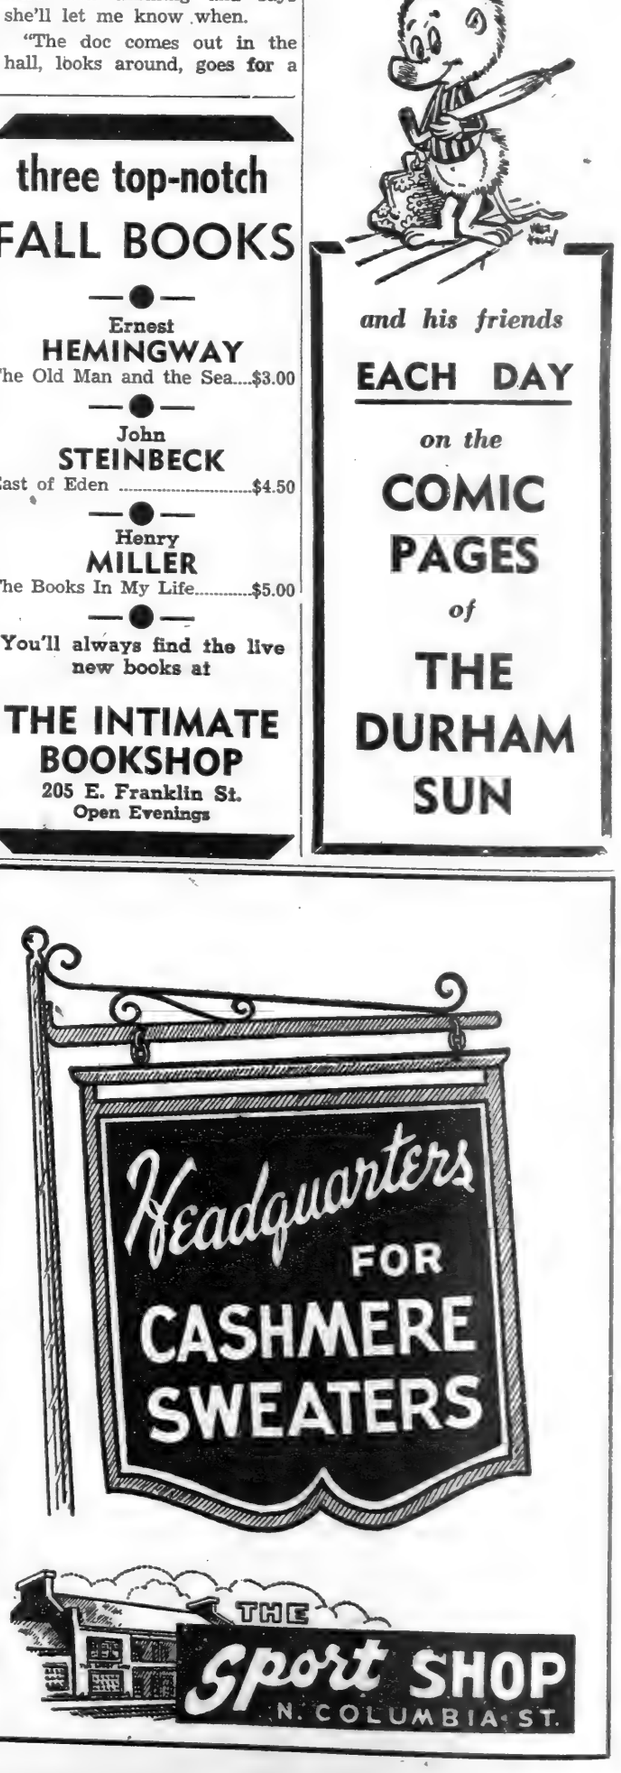
"The doc comes out in the hall, looks around, goes for a drink of water. This pregnant woman comes up and takes a chair across the hall. When the doc comes back, he asks if she wants to see him and she tells him no, that she just came for a shot. The nurse goes to help her, the doc goes back in his office and I sit there.

"I've been there about 40 minutes when I hear the doc talking over the phone to some friend. I ask the nurse how soon the doc can see me and she snaps at me: 'Are you in a hurry?'

"She says wait, so I wait. The doc comes out in the corridor again to talk with some other docs. The nurse doesn't say a thing.

"After I waited almost an hour, I went down town to a private doc and got fixed up right away.

"That'll show you what I mean. It's happened to me before and I've heard other students talk about it. They get your money in advance and then they don't give a damn. Treat you like they thought you cluttered up the place."



"Yeah," I agreed with him. "It's happened to me, too."

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

three top-notch
FALL BOOKS
Ernest HEMINGWAY
The Old Man and the Sea....$3.00
John STEINBECK
East of Eden $4.50
Henry MILLER
The Books In My Life....$5.00
You'll always find the live new books at
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Meet POGO

and his friends
EACH DAY
on the
COMIC PAGES
of
THE DURHAM SUN

Robinson, Snider, Reese Homer To Beat Yanks, 4-2

Black's Six-Hitter Bounces Reynolds In Series Opener

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

BROOKLYN, Oct. 1.—Brooklyn Dodger bats boomed this afternoon in Ebbets Field to the tune of three home runs, and when the smoke had cleared the Dodgers had won the first game of the 1952 World Series 4-2.

Joe Black, the Dodger rookie relief pitcher from Plainfield, New Jersey, was given the starting assignment by manager Charlie Dressen, and he came through in magnificent style. Black held the Yankees to six hits while striking out six.

Black's story is an amazing one as this was only the third game which he has started all season. He has been brilliant in relief, appearing in 56 games during the regular season and posting a record of 15-4. His performance today was his best by far to date.

Allie Reynolds, the great pitcher for the Yankees, pitched a good ball game but he made two costly errors. He threw home run pitches to Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider, Robinson's coming with the bases empty, and Snider's coming with Pee Wee Reese on second ahead of him.

Reynolds and his relief, Rae Scarborough, gave the Dodgers only six hits, the same number that the Yankees got, but the home runs were the big difference.

Reynolds Lifted

Reynolds was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Scarborough came on to pitch the last inning against the Dodgers. He surrendered a third Dodger home run to Pee Wee Reese which didn't figure in the outcome of the game.

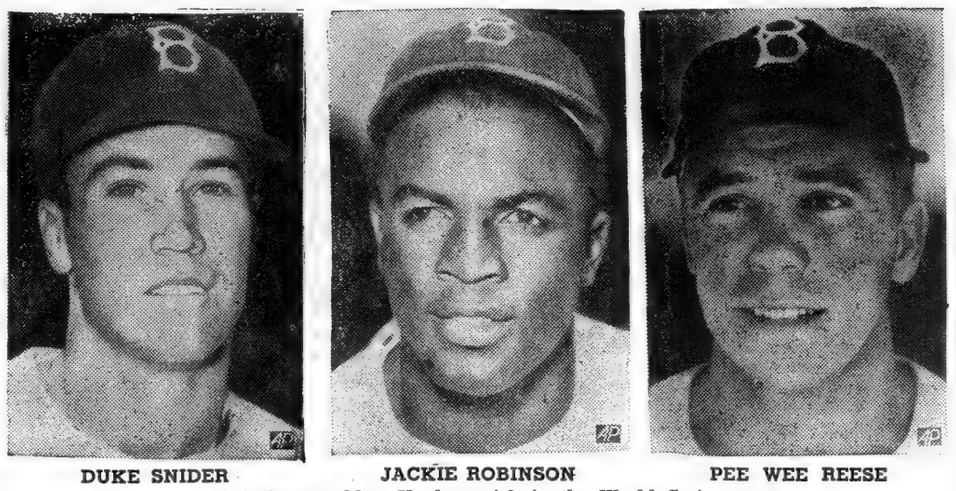
This was the second World Series loss for Reynolds as compared with four victories.

Jackie Robinson opened the game's scoring by hitting his homer in the second inning with nobody on. Roy Campanella followed with a single off the right field wall but he was thrown out later attempting to steal second.

The Yankees didn't take long to bring matters back to equality as Gil McDougald, Yankee third baseman, hit a homer with the bases empty in the top half of the third inning.

Serious Jam

The game rocked along on an even keel like this for several innings with neither team able to send a man down the last 90 feet from third to home, although both threatened.



In the fourth Black got into his most serious jam of the afternoon. Phil Rizzuto opened with a single to left. Mantle laid down a perfect bunt and beat Black's throw to first for a hit. With nobody out, Yogi Berra forced Mantle at second with Rizutto going to third.

Joe Collins then lined one to Furillo in right who cut loose a perfect throw to hold Rizutto at third. Black then eased out of the difficulty by forcing Irv Noren to ground out to Robinson at second.

The Dodgers also threatened in the fourth when Snider lifted a high fly which hit the top of the 40-foot screen in right field for a double. Robinson then drew a walk but Campanella hit into a short - to - second - to - first double play to end the inning.

The jig was up for the Yankees in the sixth when the Dodgers scored two runs. The first two men up were easy outs but Reese drilled a single to left. Then Snider came up and drove one far over the clock in right-center field for the runs that the Dodgers needed to win.

New York pulled up to within one run of the Dodgers in the eighth when Gene Woodling, hitting for Reynolds, tripled to right-center. He scored on a fly by Hank Bauer but that was the last gasp of the defending champions this afternoon as Black finished up strong, striking out Noren to end the inning.

DUKE SNIDER JACKIE ROBINSON PEE WEE REESE

. . . Their homers blast Yankees, 4-2, in the World Series opener

Champs Open Defense For Mural Crown

It will be the champion and the quarter-finalists against each other this afternoon when teams representing Beta Theta Pi and Zeta Psi take the field in one of the opening day games of the tag football program.

The Betas edged Zeta Psi, 2-0, in the playoffs last year and went on from there to defeat the Med School for the intramural championship. This game could easily decide the league winner again this year, as the clubs are reputed to be the so-called powers of the loop once more. The squads battle it ut at 5:00 p.m. on field five.

Others Listed

Other opening day games in the Fraternity Division will see Theta Chi and Zeta Psi playing on field 2; SAE and DKE tangling on field 3; ATO and ZBT on field 4; and Sig Nu taking on Sig Chi on field 5. Each of these games will get underway at 4:00 p.m.

Three other games are scheduled at 5:00 o'clock. The slate calls for Beta-2 and Phi Delt Chi on field 2; Kap Sig and Pi Kap Phi on field 3, and Lamb Chi and KA on field 4.

The Dormitory Division will not get underway for several days, although a meeting of team managers is scheduled for next week. Champions of each division meet at the end of the regular season to determine the intramural champion.

Twenty-seven fraternities are represented in their division, with several of the groups fielding two teams. The division is divided into six leagues, with six teams in each loop.

Kistler, Kozar Picked To Lead Devil-Vol Clash

DURHAM—Oct. 1—Two powerful fullbacks, Jack Kistler of Duke and Andy Kozar of Tennessee, will be seen in action here Saturday afternoon when the two old rivals clash in the 16th renewal of a historic Southern rivalry.

Kistler, currently the top rushing back in the Southern Conference and ranked No. 4 in the national collegiate rushing figures, will be matching wits with an equally tank-like rusher in Kozar, who is remembered well in Duke Stadium for his outstanding play here two years ago when the Vols scored a resounding 28-7 victory.

Both are Pennsylvanians, Kistler from Ardmore and Kozar from St. Michael. Both are hard-running big men, Kistler weighing 210 and Kozar 197.

Last Scrimmage Held Before Georgia Game

By Tom Peacock

Carolina's Tar Heels went through their last day of scrimmage yesterday in preparation for Saturday's football game with the slightly favored Georgia Bulldogs.

Hard defensive and offensive workouts featured the long practice, with many plays being run time and time again to insure perfection.

Trainer Doc White expects the team to be in good physical shape, with quarterback Charlie Motta in the lineup and Billy Williams possibly back in shape. End Benny Walser definitely will be unable to play Saturday because of an elbow injury.

Go On Road

The Tar Heels will be looking for their first win when they take the road to meet Georgia in Athens, after losing their first start to Texas last week, 28-7.

Carolina was without the services of Motta, the first string quarterback, and were using a new formation, the split-T, for the first time in history.

Coach Carl Snavely will begin tapering off today, and will probably have little or no contact in practice. The team is in good shape, and Snavely has no desire to be hampered by a practice injury.

Defense Works

Coaches Snavely, Gill, and Radman spent most of their time working with the defensive team against the jayvee offense, while Barclay concentrated on putting a high polish on the Tar Heel T. Quarterbacks Marshall Newman and Lou Britt both looked good on pass plays and handling the ball, and Sonny Ridenour did a good job taking the injured Williams' place in the defensive backfield.

Georgia has remained undefeated in two previous starts, one against Vanderbilt, the other against Tulane, and the inter-conference contest should be a thriller. The game is one of the three the Bulldogs play at home this year.

Stars Returning

Coach Wally Butts of Georgia has a nucleus of good men returning this year, the same men that scored three touchdowns in the last quarter to defeat Carolina in last year's hotly fought contest.

Quarterback Zeke Bratkowski is the best in the Southeastern Conference, and his favorite receiver, Harry Babcock, is an All-Conference end. Bratkowski established a new record for passing yardage in the Conference last year.

The leading Georgia runner is back again this year also. He is Zippy Morocco, a fleet left half back that is particularly effective in broken field running. Fred Bilyeu, a hard hitting fullback that gave the Tar Heels a fit last year will also be starting for the Bulldogs.

Carolina Caravan

Chapel Hill Stays The Same After Loss To Longhorns

By Jake Wade

On Sunday here people went to church as usual, young lovers strolled in the sunshine, students and villagers quietly talked over the 28-7 football loss to Texas and the results of other games, some of the latter surprising and even startling.

Naturally, there was some disappointment expressed over the Tar Heels failing to get an offense cooking against the Longhorns and also over their pass defense weaknesses and other mistakes. Yet in my set no one seemed unduly disturbed. People just talked quietly about the brilliant Texas team and hopefully looked for future improvement in the home forces.

Business the Same

So this week business down town carried on as usual.

Jimmy at Jeff's glowed over Duke's fine work against Southern Methodist, peddled books and brews, and speculated on the World Series.

The Shack's distinguished clientele listened to new stories, not all of them about football. Haberdasher Jack Lipman 'lowed that the fishing ought to be good at Carolina Beach and haberdasher Bob Cox said he'd never seen the likes of that devastating Texas guard, Harley Sewell, meanwhile sorting a new shipment of neckties. Nobody seemed to be mowed down.

The Tar Heels had been thoroughly spanked, but it hadn't changed the cheery dispositions of Leroy and Agnes as they waited on customers, also neither weeping nor wailing, at their suburban beanery.

More Patients

The Library had lost none of its customers, with the campus apparently still thirsting for knowledge. The new hospital admitted more patients. Classroom lecturers were as wise and witty as ever.

Meanwhile the football squad listened to the usual critiques from coaches, may have been a little surprised to hear some praise, too. Coaches called them a willing gang with talents and skills bound to show in the future.

The Tar Heels were outclassed by a superior team last Saturday, that's all. The defeat was accepted, as it should have been, with good grace. No dynasty collapsed and none will. Now it's Georgia and eight other teams it will be difficult to master. But none of those games have been lost, as of this deadline.

Getting down to cases, it was obvious to the grand crowd of 40,000 that the Tar Heels have a quarterback problem to lick. By far the smoothest of the operators against the Longhorns was Marshall Newman, who pitched craftily for the one touchdown managed by the vanquished.

Newman has earned the starting call against Georgia at Athens Saturday. The quarterback job is his from here out until a better man shows.

Unless there are unexpected developments, Bob White, Larry Parker and Bud Wallace are the other starting backs and Newman will be expected to call on all of them for their specialties. Newman is a smart cookie who makes A's on his courses and has imagination on the football field. A little more of the latter was needed last week.

Other fences are being mended, inventories and self-examinations are the order. The show will go right on.

Wallace Leads Conference Punters With 42.5 Mark

Carolina's Bud Wallace, runner-up last year for the best punting average in the Southern conference, has jumped out in front in the averages this year.

Wallace punted ten times against Texas last week and had an average of 42.5 yards. This gives him a 2.4 yard lead over his nearest pursuer, Bobby Renn of Davidson.

Red Smith of Duke, last year's leader, is in ninth position with an average of 37.3 yards for 11 punts.

1. Wallace, N. C.	1	10	42.5
2. Renn, Davidson	2	17	40.1
3. Chapman, Citadel	2	9	40.1
4. Robbins, So. Car.	2	9	39.1
5. Koch, Wake Forest	2	14	38.7
5. Sturgess, W&M	2	7	38.1
7. Hood, Richmond	2	11	37.7
8. Fox, Geo. Wash.	1	6	37.7
9. Smith, Duke	2	11	37.3
10. Pringels, Furman	2	10	36.2

SUAB Grid Contest

Only one entry is permitted for each contestant.

Put a check beside each team you think will win. Write "TIE" in each blank where tie is predicted. Prediction must be made for all 20 games or entry will be disqualified.

Predict score of Carolina-Georgia game.

Blanks must be placed in the entry box in the main hall of Graham Memorial by Saturday Noon, Oct. 4.

Prizes will be awarded to the winner of the contest.

The prizes will be:

One carton of cigarettes and two tickets to the Carolina Theater.

——Alabama	——Miami
——Baylor	——Wash. State
——Calif.	——Minn.
——Ga. Tech	——S.M.U.
——Mich.	——Stanford
——N. C. State	——Davidson
——Ohio State	——Purdue
——T.C.U.	——Arkansas
——Vanderbilt	——N'western
——Clemson	——Maryland
——Army	——S. Cal.
——Bos. Col.	——W. Forest
——Duke	——Tenn.
——Illinois	——Wisconsin
——Mich. State	——Oregon S.
——N. Dame	——Texas
——Rice	——L.S.U.
——U.C.L.A.	——Wash.
——Auburn	——Miss.
——Oklahoma	——Pitt.

Pick the score.

——N. Carolina Georgia——

Name .....

Address .....

NOTICE

Students & All ROTC Students

★ Khaki Pants, All Sizes and Prices
★ Brown or Tan Shoes
★ Khaki Sox ..... 3 for $1.00
★ Rugby All-Wool Slipover Sweaters $3.98
★ Men and Boys Dungarees Western Style, 11 oz., All Kinds.
★ Tennis and Basketball Shoes
★ White Tennis Oxfords $2.98
★ Shoes by U. S. Keds, B. F. Goodrich and Ball Band ..... $2.98 to $5.98
★ Men's Fruit of Loom Underwear Shorts & "T" Shirts ..... 69c or 3 for $2.05
Cotton or Rayon

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

119 East Franklin St. Open All Day Wed.

SEE FOR YOURSELF

See how you can get a Quicker, Closer shave in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry

Sunbeam SHAVEMASTER

Come in and make this test. Find out for yourself what this Sunbeam can do.

Factory Representative In Our Store.

THURSDAY Oct. 2nd
FRIDAY Oct. 3rd
1-5 P.M.

TOWN & CAMPUS

The Mightiest Adventure of Them All!

HORIZON PICTURES presents HUMPHREY BOGART · KATHARINE HEPBURN in "THE AFRICAN QUEEN"

Actually filmed in the Splendors and Dangers of the Belgian Congo.

Color by TECHNICOLOR with ROBERT MORLEY

—Also— Color Cartoon TODAY

Carolina

All 19th Century Pix

Growth Of Photography Depicted In Person Show

"Landmarks in Photography," a selection of 30 original photographs from the collection of the George Eastman House, will be on view at Person Hall from Saturday through October 22.

All the pictures were taken in the 19th century. They range from early portrait studies by David Octavius Hill and Robert Adamson in Edinburgh made before 1884 to the pioneer action photographs of Muybridge taken with special multilens cameras in 1885.

The photographs have been chosen to show the pictorial development of photography but illustrate as well the various techniques of daguerreotype upon metal plates, calotype or paper negatives, prints from wet collodion negatives and the earliest work with dry plates.

Documentation of the Crimean War and the Civil War is represented as well as early architectural photographs taken for the French Government and still life and landscape subjects. The exhibition was selected by Beaumont Newhall, curator of the George Eastman House.

THIS DESIGN FOR SAFE escape from planes going 2,000 miles an hour has been proposed by the Douglas Aircraft Co. The entire forward part of an advanced fighter operating in the outer atmosphere would be shot clear by an explosive action in the plane. A parachute then would open to stabilize the section in its fall to earth. The sealed capsule would float on water.—NEA Telephoto.

Girls Drive School Buses

When North Carolina's school busses hit the road again this fall 800 of the 5,200 student drivers were girls. Eighty-five per cent of the state's busses are operated by students and approximately 16 per cent of these student drivers are femmes.

North Carolina, one of the first states to use the student-driver plan, is highly pleased with the system. As put by C. C. Brown, director of the State Board of Education's transportation division: "The youngsters have justified our faith in them, and have proved our system."

As to the driving ability of girls, Brown said, "Teen-age girls have proved to be excellent drivers. They are dependable, take responsibility seriously, and handle the big busses well."

Test Dates Listed For Law Hopefuls

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

PRINCETON, N. J. Oct. 1—The Law School Admission Test, required of applicants for admission to a number of leading American law schools, will be given at more than 100 centers throughout the United States on the mornings of Nov. 15, and Feb. 21, April 25, and Aug. 8, 1953.

During 1951-52, over 6,800 applicants took this test, and their scores were sent to over 100 law schools.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each law school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Law School Admission Test and when. Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to next year's classes are advised ordinarily to take either the November or the February test, if possible.

The Law School Admission Test, prepared and administered by the Educational Testing Service, features objective questions measuring verbal aptitudes and reasoning ability rather than acquired information. It cannot be "crammed" for. Sample questions and information regarding registration for administration of the text are given in a bulletin of information.

Personnel Change Listed By House

Changes in faculty and administration personnel were released recently by Chancellor Robert B. House.

Prof. Bernard H. Boyd is now chairman of the Religion Department and George E. Nicholson has been pormoted to chairman of the Department of Statistics. Maurice Whittinghill and William L .Engels were advanced to professors in the Department of Zoology.

Promoted from assistant professor to associate in history are James E. King, Frank W. Klingberg and Cornelius O. Cathy. James R. Caldwell received the position of assistant professor in history, Kerro Knox, assistant professor in chemistry, and Everett D. Palnatier, associate professor in physics.

The 1952-53 University personnel includes a number of newcomers to Chapel Hill as well as a class of '20 and a class of '26 graduate of UNC.

Everett W. Hall has been named Kenan Professor of Philosophy and chairman of the department. Taking his A.B. and M.A. from Lawrence College and his Ph.D. at Cornell he was Phi Beta Kappa and has published a number of essays and articles.

Eugen Merzabacher, now assistant professor in physics, studied at the University of Istanbul and received his Ph.D. from Harvard.

Named as associate professor in the Nursing School is Ruth Lingberg who attended the University of Pennsylvania and received her M.S. in education there. Ester Sump, also an associate professor in nursing, has an M.A. from Western Reserve University.

Robert Alexander Ross is now professor and head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology, School of Medicine. His B.S. is from UNC and his M.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

The following have been appointed to positions in the School of Medicine: Louis Gordon Welt, M.D. from Yale University, assistant professor in the Department of Medicine; Newton D. Fisher, assistant professor in surgery; Charles Anthony Bream, M. D. from Temple University, assistant professor in radiology; Richard Beverly Raney, M. D. from UNC, professor in surgery; Edward C. Curnen, M. D. from Harvard, professor and chairman, Department of Pediatrics. Dr. Curnen is a member of the staff of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Paul Vinton, D.M.D. from Tufts College, is now associate professor of prosthidonatics in dentistry; C. Clark Cockerham, Ph.D. at Iowa State College, assistant professor in biostatistics, School of Public Health; Robert Nelson, D.D.S. and M.S. from the State University of Iowa, associate professor in orthodontics; Edward Coleman Frank, M.D. from Wayne University, associate professor of psychiatry.

Sarah Rebecca Reed, B.L.S. and M.A. from the University of Illinois, assistant professor in the School of Library of Science; William Earl Fahy, Ph.D. from the University of Rochester, assistant professor, Institute of Fisheries Research; Austin Betty Williams, Ph.D. from the University of Kansas, assistant professor, Institute of Fisheries Research.

Richard L. Beard, Ph.D. from Ohio State, associate professor, School of Education; John Walter Thibaut, Ph.D. from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, associate professor of Social Psychology, and Frank J. McGuire, B.S. from St. Johns University, basketball coach.

Leaves of absence have been granted for the academic year to Arnold Nash, Grey Professor of the Department of Religion who is in India for study and lecture. Leaves have been given to Charles F. Milner, assistant professor, University Extension Division; Marvin L. Granstrom, Department of Sanitary Engineering; William J. Daniel, Department of Psychology; Clemens Sommer, professor, Department of Art.

Resignations have been accepted from Rhoda Hunter Wynn, Department of Radio; Dan M. McGill, School of Business Administration and C. Robert Walter, Jr., Department of Chemistry.

Literary Mag Deep In Red; Is Optimistic

The Carolina Quarterly, UNC's literary publication, is in a deep hole, said editor Tom Lloyd yesterday.

"As it stands now the Quarterly needs $1,600 for its yearly budget and has only $450," said Lloyd. "Although we have hardly any money, we will publish. If necessary we'll sell out. The literary tradition of the University will not die this year—come what may," said the optomistic editor.

"Last year the Student Government gave $500 and was willing to hand over an additional $500 if necessary. This year everyone is short of money and the Quarterly is left in the cold," he continued.

Three hundred and forty out of 5500 students subscribed last week, compared to almost 500 last year.

"Yesterday at the first meeting of the Quarterly a number of new faces appeared," said Lloyd.

Other editors for the '52-'53 Quarterly are Barbara Hulse, associate editor; Arthur Cogswell, associate editor; Charlotte Davis, fiction editor, Bill Watt, poetry editor and Julia Shields, business manager.

Chapel Hill Court Meets Friday Morning

Chapel Hill Recorder's Court did not meet Tuesday morning as scheduled but will convene tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The courtroom is on the second floor of the City Hall Building.

What Goes On Here

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet tonight at 6 o'clock for supper in the upper dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Yack

All students interested in working on this year's Yackety Yack advertising section meet in the Yack office at 4 o'clock today.

AAUP

The local chapter of the American Association of University Professors will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Faculty Lounge of the Morehead Building. Dean Guy Phillips will talk on "Summer School Salary Policies." John Umstead, Orange County representive in the State Legislature, will discuss probable salary proposals to the forthcoming Legislature.

Square Dancing

The first meeting of a square and folk dancing club will be held at 4 o'clock in the Women's Gym today.

BSU Party

The Baptist Student Union will hold a poster party tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. Refreshments will be served at the church.

Clare Boothe Luce Says Reds Stole Weapons

NEW YORK — Former Rep. Clare Boothe Luce says American soldiers in Korea are "facing weapons developed for our use, and stolen by the Communists who have infiltrated into our government."

The Republican one-time Congresswoman from Conneticut adds that Reds "have been growing and thriving in the organism of the Democratic Party for the last 20 years."

Mrs. Luce conducted a 30-minute program on radio and television networks. The program was sponsored by the Republican National Committee.

—Humor—

(Continued from page 1)

issue of the revived Tarnation is tentatively set for November 15.

Staff appointments yesterday were announced by Editor Tom Alexander of Waynesville. Jackie Brooks, new coed from Michigan City, Ind., is managing editor; Jim Lindley, Greensboro, business manager; Wallace Pridgen, Wilson, advertising manager; Edna Knighton, Montgomery, Ala., circulation manager and Mickey Rouse, Raleigh, exchange editor.

Rainfall To Be Subnormal

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WASHINGTON—The Weather Bureau said yesterday that its 30-day outlook for October calls for temperatures to average above normal over the western half of the nation with greatest departures west of the "Continental Divide."

"Subnormal rainfall is indicated over most of the nation except east of the Appalachians and in the Southwest where normal to locally greater than normal amounts are predicted."

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

1952 MODEL MOTOROLA BEDSIDE radio. Like new. $30 Call Bill Irvin—310 Mangum. Phone 1-9452-2

Watch That Fat Man With A Gun!

THE narrow MARGIN

Excitement! Thrills! Danger!

"A sleeper... worthy of being bracketed with 'The Lady Vanishes' and 'Night Train'". —Time Magazine

"A model of electric tension". —N. Y. Times

CHARLES McGRAW with MARIE WINDSOR
JACQUELINE WHITE

Produced by STANLEY RUBIN
Directed by RICHARD FLEISCHER
Screenplay by EARL FELTON

Last Times

T-O-D-A-Y

Varsity

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

Has a New Shipment of

MADEMOISELLE SWEATERS

Slip Over—Solid and Fancy Colors, Long & Short Sleeve

Long Sleeve Cardigan

Orlon—Many colors and All Sizes

Official Girl Scout Shoes

On-Call Nurse Oxfords, White with Wedge Heels

New Shipment of Dresses by Martha Manning, Trudy Hall, Georginia

Tennis Oxfords for Ladies

Blue-White-Red

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

—Open All Day Wednesday—

A Restaurant Meal ... What A Wonderful Change!

Come on in and relax over a delicious meal, cooked to perfection and graciously served. A welcome refresher any day of the week.

Hospitality Month

We're celebrating Hospitality Month with specially tempting menus for your dining pleasure.

- BRADY'S GRILL -

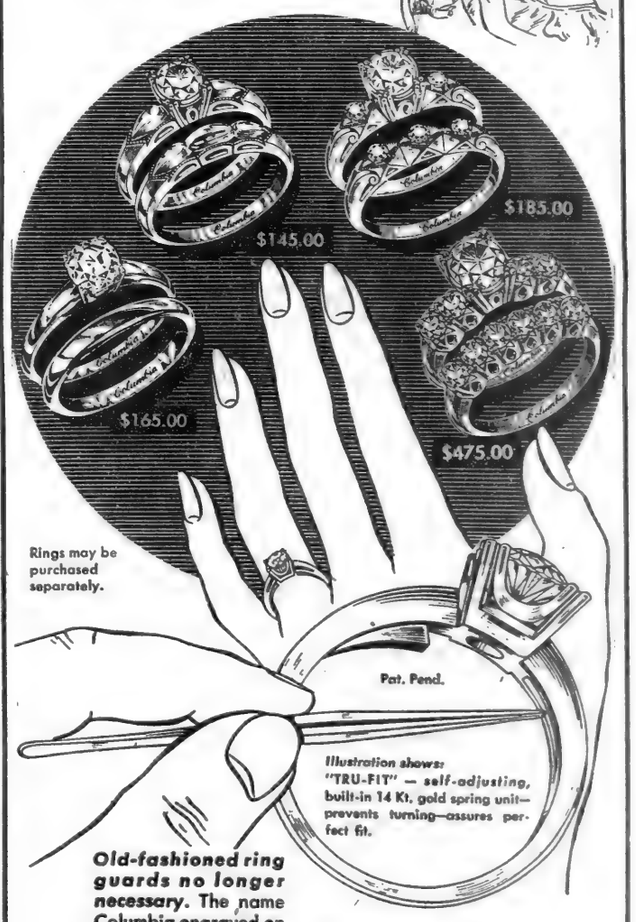
Durham Highway Open 12 to 12

COME OUT TO

THE PINES

Often For The Finest In Good Food And Service

Use Our Spacious Dining Room for Those Special Occasions . . .



For Reservations Phone 9-5539

THE PINES

—Out The Raleigh Road—

When you give a Columbia "TRU-FIT" Diamond Ring you are giving the BEST and getting the MOST for your money!

Rings may be purchased separately.

Illustration shows: "TRU-FIT" — self-adjusting, built-in 14 Kt. gold spring unit—prevents turning—assures perfect fit.

Old-fashioned ring guards no longer necessary. The name Columbia engraved on your diamond ring has been a mark of distinction through the years . . . a name that denotes unsurpassed quality, style, and value. Complete assortment of styles from $100 to $5000.

Murdock's JEWELERS

Temporarily Located in the Building with Carolina Drapery Shop on West Franklin St.

Opposite Bus Station—Chapel Hill, N. C.

Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Yankees Even World Series By Taking 7-1 Victory

See Story on Page 3

WEATHER

Fair but cooler today with 73 high today. Yesterday's high, 86; low 55.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 9 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

EFFECT

Sports Editor Biff Roberts looks into polio and beyond. Results are on page 3.

POLIO FORCES CANCELATION OF TWO GAMES

Douglas To Be Speaker Here

WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS

Eisenhower, McGrath Also May Give Talks

Justice William O. Douglas and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan have accepted Carolina Political Union invitations to speak here, Bob Pace, secretary of the group announced yesterday.

Pace said there is also a possibility that Richard Nixon, Republican running mate of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, may also come to the campus. J. Howard McGrath has tentatively accepted an invitation to speak, Pace added.

Gov. Williams is not scheduled to speak until next spring, but Douglas will be here in November.

The CPU, a non-partisan discussion group organized by Prof. E. G. Woodhouse, will meet Sunday night in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. A chairman will be named at that time, Pace said.

Topic for the meeting will be "Pacificism" and a faculty member will help with the discusion. "The meeting is open to everybody and freshmen are especially urged to attend," Pace concluded.

Yugoslavian Cosmopolitan Prexy Elect

Tony Jurecic, an international student from Yugoslavia is the new president of the Cosmopolitan Club. He succeeds Parsu Amersey of India.

Other officers elected were Paul Somerville of Canada as vice president; Alfred Descloux of Switzerland as treasurer, and Mike Papas of Greece as secretary.

The new officers already have met to work out some of the problems which face the management of a group of this type. Ideas for future meetings include music, folk dancing, speakers from various nations, picnics and movies, Jurecic said.

Jurecic expressed a desire to have more North Americans in attendance in the future. Only a handful of U. S. students showed up at the initial meeting, he said.

The avowed purpose of the cosmopolitan group is to bring together international students and U. S. students as well as create friendship among them. It was founded in 1948 with assistance of the YMCA.

Meetings are held in Graham Memorial every Sunday at 4 pm.

Playmaker Ducat Sale Opens Today

Season tickets for the five Carolina Playmakers' productions go on sale today.

A 20 percent discount is given to buyers of season tickets, John W. Parker, Playmaker business manager said yesterday. Season ticket holders are also given advance notice of ticket sales so that seats may be reserved before release to the public, he said.

Tickets include admission to "Death of a Salesman," "The Inpector General," "Princess Ida," "The Good Woman of Setzuan" and will also entitle holders first choice of seats for "John Brown's Body," starring Judith Anderson, Raymond Massey and Tyrone Power, and for "Emlyn Williams as Charles Dickens."

Directory

Mimeographed copies of the student section of the student directory will be available today in the Y at $1 a copy.

The complete directory will be ready in five weeks.

Coeds Note Rush Change

A revamped sorority Rush Week schedule goes into effect today because of the polio complications. The new schedule follows:

Today—Two 45 minute parties-7 to 8:45 p.m.

Saturday—Day of rest.

Sunday—Four 45 minute parties 7 to 10:45 p.m.

Monday—Day of rest.

Tuesday—Three 45 minute parties-7 to 9:45 p.m.

Wednesday—Day of rest.

Thursday—Dinner party-6 to 8 p.m.

Friday October 10—Dinner party 6 to 8 p.m.

Saturday October 11—Rushees sign preferential list in Dean of Women's office between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Rushees are to pick up bids at the Panhellenic post office tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m.

Dormitory Adviser's Bicycle Goes Astray

Jim Wallace, Mangum Dormitory adviser, reported the loss of a bicycle Monday between the hours of 11 and 12 p. m.

Regulations On Voting Are Listed For Students

As the kickoff of its fall "get-out-the-vote" campaign, the Carolina Young Democratic Club yesterday asked all eligible students to register in time to vote in the November elections.

"New-voter registration is one of the main tasks of our organization," John Sanders, YDC president said. "It is our conviction that the greater the extent of voter participation, the more certain we are getting the type of public leadership our states and nation deserve."

Sanders explained the voting process in North Carolina, especially as it applies to students.

"Any North Carolina resident is eligible to vote who will be 21 years old by November 4, and who has resided in the state for one year and in the precinct in which he wants to register for four months at the time of the general election. Election registrars will be at the polling place in each precinct on October 11, 18 and 25," he said.

"North Carolina provides an absentee voting arrangement for those unable to get to their home precincts on election day," Sanders continued. "The YDC will furnish full instructions, including absentee ballot application blanks, to all who are interested."

"Married students and others who consider Chapel Hill their home, but who are not yet registered, should contact the local registrars and qualify for voting. Their names and addresses can be obtained from the Town Hall. Out-of-state residents should obtain information on absentee voting procedure from their home states."

"Remember, if you aren't registered, you can't vote," Sanders advised. "And if you are eligible to register and vote and don't, you have no right to complain about what happens in government for the next four years."

Printed Bible Anniversary Is Observed

The 500th anniversary of the printed Bible is being celebrated by the University Library with a special exhibit which will continue for about five weeks.

One of the focal points in the exhibit is a copy of the New Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible which went on sale this week.

Also included in the display, filling four show cases, are a leaf from the Gutenberg Bible, a leaf from a 15th century Bible, the one-half by one inch "world's smallest Bible," a facsimilie of Tyndale's New Testament, the 1611 King James edition, the Latin vulgate edition, the renowned "He" Bible, the Bay Psalm Book, and "the most beautiful book in America", the Book of Hours.

The new Bible took 23 of the world's foremost Bible scholars 22 years to complete.

BULLETIN

The N. C. State College Athletic Council will meet at 7:30 a.m. today to decide whether or not the State football team will be permitted to play a double - header tomorrow — one game with Georgia University at 2, another with Davidson at 8.

The game with Georgia would be a measure of courtesy to UNC whose tilt in Athens was canceled by health authorities.

The first wish of State was to postpone its Davidson engagement until next week when both squads have open dates. However this arrangement was not agreed to by Davidson officials.

Status Of Cobb Is Left Vague By Legislature

The first fall session of the Student Legislature floundered around in a parliamentary quagmire for two hours last night on the topic of redistricting without a single bill reaching the floor for consideration.

The Legislature, meeting in Gerrard Hall for the first time after abondoning the Dialectic Senate chamber, heard leaders of both the University Party and the Student Party plead for suspension of the rules so action could be taken on incorporating the new Cobb Dormitory into an established district in time for the fall elections. Three times this move was stymied by the opposing party.

Ed Stevens, veteran UP floor leader, touched off the blocking duel by proposing that districts be subdivided to allow for more efficient campaigning and closer er contact between students and their representatives. Student Party legislators killed the move to suspend the rules and offered a counter-proposal. After the third attempt to force immediate action failed, Henry Lowett (SP) pleaded for a compromise so the status of Cobb Dormitory could be determined.

Julian Mason, floor leader of the SP, pointed out that Cobb would fall into Town Men's District 1 pending final decision by the Legislature.

Vice President Jim McLeod, chairman, was constantly forced to bang his gavel to restore order to the bewildered assembly.

After the session Stevens announced his resignation of the post of UP floor leader. A party caucus elected Jack Stilwell, Charleston sophomore, to succeed Stevens.

(See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

NEWS IN BRIEF

ON TRUMAN TRAIN—President Truman, speaking on the Pacific Coast yesterday, termed Dwight Eisenhower's statement that a sizeable tax cut was possible as "just a damn lie." The president continued to denounce Ike as unfit for the presidency because of his military background and "inexperience". Truman added that the Eisenhower idea that Federal spending can be drastically reduced was "sheer poppycock" and "the lowest kind of demagoguery". The long friendship between the two appeared to be on the verge of break-up as latest reports are that Eisenhower's temper had flared at the bitter remarks.

★

CHEJU ISLAND, KOREA—American soldiers on Wednesday broke up a planned mass outbreak of Chinese Communist prisoners. Maj. Gen. Thomas Herren, commander of the Korean communications zone, said that the prisoners intended to break out and join Red guerillas in the Cheju mountains. Fifty-one prisoners were killed in a short battle with only two American soldiers being injured.

★

ROXBORO — Another escaped convict from the Hillsboro prison camp was captured yesterday near here. Five of the 10 long-term prisoners who broke out Sunday are still at large.

Profs To Get Full Summer Pay, No Cuts

UNC instructors who stuck to their jobs throughout the summer months will be paid in full for their services despite a deficit incurred by the summer sessions.

It was feared, in fact expected, that the faculty members employed in summer school would be forced to take a good-sized cut in pay. However an announcement from the Consolidated University administration yesterday assured everyone concerned that he will be paid the amount he expected to receive before it became evident that there would be a deficit.

"We have requested appropriations for future summer sessions," Gordon Gray said yesterday. "We have every hope that the requests will be granted, and that in the future all salary commitments will be on a contractual basis and paid in full."

President Gray pointed out that much credit for the restoration of full salaries was due to W. D. Carmichael, controller of the Consolidated University, and Claude Teague, business manager.

One Grid Player, 3 Others Stricken

Attempts Will Be Made To Re-Schedule Georgia And State Later This Season

By Biff Roberts

The University yesterday canceled its next two football games, with Georgia and N. C. State, as the result of illness of four students with polio.

After a meeting yesterday morning between officials, it was decided to cancel the games as a preventive measure against the spreading of the disease.

Only one of the four students is a member of the football team. He is Harold "Bull" Davidson of Murphy, whose condition has been described as acute. He has had no paralysis yet, however.

Two members of the cross country team also have the disease. They are John Robert (Bob) Barden Jr. of Newark, N. J., and Richard Lee Bostian of Raleigh. Barden was Coach Dale Ranson's top runner last year as a freshman. Bostian's father is associate dean of the Agriculture School at N. C. State.

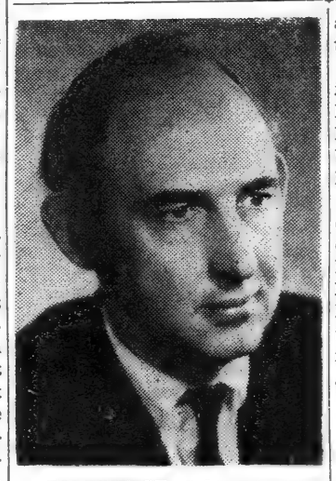
The fourth patient is Robert Nash "Pete" Higgins of Tampa, Fla., a letterman on last year's swimming team.

The condition of all patients is progressing satisfactorily Dr. E. McG. Hedgpeth, University physician, said yesterday.

Barden was the first to be stricken, becoming ill on September 12. He was followed by Higgins, Bostian and finally Davidson on Tuesday of this week.

Dr. Hedgpeth said the football team's most recent exposure was Tuesday night when Davidson became ill. Although the incubation period for polio ranges between three days and two weeks, Dr. Hedgpeth and health officials decided the precautions should be taken for a full two weeks.

C. P. Erickson, Director of Athletics, yesterday said the possibility of re-scheduling the two varsity games will be looked into. He hopes it can be worked out for the first two Saturdays in December. However, contracts with the two schools to this effect have not been made, he said.



The Athletic Department also was forced to cancel a junior varsity game with South Carolina scheduled for tomorrow night in Asheville.

The official statement, issued by the committee which met yesterday morning, read in part:

"As a measure of safeguard and precaution for the protection of its opponents' players as well as its own, the University of North Carolina has canceled its next two football bames with the University of Georgia and North Carolina State College, as the result of illness of four students with polio."

The athletic department has canceled all intramural activities

(See POLIO, page 2)

COLUMNIST and news correspondent W. C. Burton will address a banquet session of the 11th annual State Scholastic Press Institute here tomorrow night. High School journalists from all over N. C. will be in attendance.

University students are asked by health officials to do two things to help combat polio:

1. Do not leave Chapel Hill for two weeks except in case of an emergency.

2. Do not undertake unnecessary work or exercise. This is to avoid fatigue.

Prof. Eaton's Short Story Is Horored

A short story by Prof. Charles Edward Eaton is included in "The Best American Short Stories of 1952," an annual anthology published by Houghton Mifflin Company.

"The Motion of Forgetfulness is Slow" is Eaton's story, which has a Brazilian background. Eaton is preparing a collection of stories for publication based on his experiences in Brazil where he was vice-consul at the American Embassy in Rio de Janeiro from 1942 to 1946.

Eaton was awarded the Ridgely Torrence Memorial Award for the most distinguished book of lyric poetry published in 1951. He is now in Connecticut on leave of absence.

BA Buildings To Open Soon For Students

The University's new School of Business Administration will be open to students within the next several weeks.

According to current plans the main building, which is located in the center of the buildings will be open by the first of November. The other two buldings will be open by the first of the winter quarter.

Bingham Hall now houses the Department of Business Administration and Economics. Bingham will be turned over to the Department of Arts and Sciences after it has been installed with new lighting facilities.

The main building will contain the administration offices and the graduate school which includes the new course leading to a masters degree in Business Administration. There is also an auditorium in this section which will seat 454.

Votes No For Absent Prexy

Columbia Spectator Anti-Ike

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, OCT. 2—Columbia University's student newspaper yesterday endorsed Gov. Stevenson for the presidency and declared its opposition to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the university's own president on leave.

Eisenhower's "great crusade" has now become "a great disenchantment," the paper declared in a front page editorial signed by eight members of its editorial board. "The hopes of millions of Americans who once believed in Einsenhower's great crusade have now been shattered," said the paper.

The editorial also criticized Eisenhower's backing of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Sen. William Jenner (R-Ind).

Eisenhower in his presidential campaign has forsaken "principle for expediency" and shown himself a "plodding, orthodox, unimaginative thinker," the paper said. It charged he had mishandled the Nixon affair, in which his running mate accepted an $18,235 privately-donated office fund.

"Much of Eisenhower's great reputation stems from his alleged ability to make emergency decisions judiciously," the editorial said, "but in the great political test of this ability, General Eisenhower allowed a television soap opera rather than a careful exploration of the facts to be submitted to the American people as evidence."

The newspaper, Columbia Daily Spectator, is published by undergraduate journalism students, without faculty supervision or control.

Frosh Pictures

Thanks to Yack Editor Hugh Gale, frosh have one more day in which to get their mugs snapped for the yearbook. Today is that last day.

Photographers will be in the basement of Graham Memorial from 2 p. m. until 9 p. m. White shirts, coats and ties for the gents, white blouses for the sweet young things.

Sophomores have through Wednesday to face the birdie.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus ..... LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Jerry Reece, Allen Savitz, Tom Parramore, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ed Yoder, Jennie Lynn.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: John Jamison

No Cause For Alarm

The University yesterday took prompt action in canceling its next two football games when four athletes, one a football player, were diagnosed as having polio.

Before this action was taken Dr. Hedgpeth, University physician, consulted some of the most eminent medical opinions in the world, who were unanimous in their recommendation that the Georgia and State games be dropped and the intramural program temporarily curtailed.

The Daily Tar Heel reemphasizes that there is at present no cause for alarm. These drastic measures were implemented so that the situation could be effectively arrested before spreading to hazardous proportions.

The medical authorities of the University advise the students to adhere to three cardinal principles of polio control.

1. Don't overexert yourself. A run down physical condition wields less resistance against the polio virus. Get plenty of rest and follow common hygienic procedures.

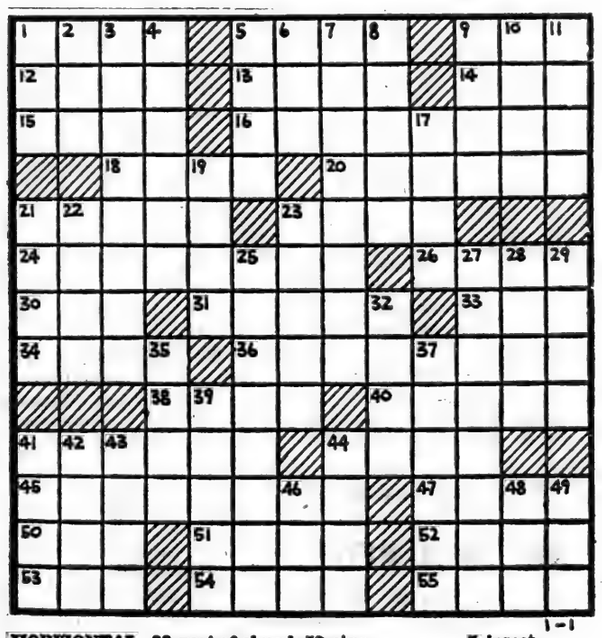
2. Don't leave Chapel Hill unless absolutely necessary for the next two weeks. (Until the period of incubation is past.) This is to prevent the virus from spreading outside the community.

3. Accept the situation as a matter of fact. Follow your daily routine without radical changes and rest assured that the best modern medical facilities will be constantly available.

We feel the students owe a debt of gratitude to the administration and the University physicians whose swift reaction has ensured maximum protection for all concerned.

Now Hear This

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has issued advice to communities where polio exists.

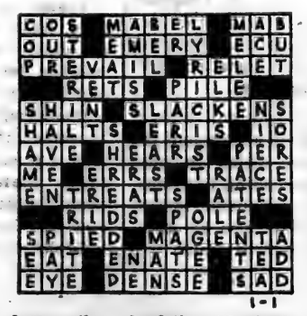


First of all, the foundation suggests that students continue to associate with their usual companions. They have already been exposed to whatever polio virus may be in that group, and they may have developed immunity against it.

Secondly, all health habits should be observed carefully. Polio virus may be carried through the mouth so dirty drinking glasses and other unsanitary conditions should be avoided.

General physical condition should be kept in tip top shape. Headaches, fever, sore throats, upset stomachs, tenderness and stiffness of the neck and back should be brought to the attention of a physician. Anyone showing such symptoms should be put to bed and separated from others in the same house.

Fatigue and chill lower resistence to disease and should be avoided.



The Foundation adds that Polio time is the time to stay at home and not to leave the community without good cause.

HORIZONTAL
1. engrossed
6. artificially produced
9. European bird
12. regiment in Turkish army
13. begin
14. since
15. place for buying and selling
16. man who leaves will
18. settlement in Greenland
20. coat of mammal
21. adjuster to musical pitch
23. greater amount
24. warehouse
26. ready money
30. scene of judgment of Paris
31. angle (external)
33. fish delicacy
34. lounge
36. prank
38. part of church
40. country between Tibet and India
41. washer for pistons
44. basis of soups
45. agreeing
47. mature
50. man's name
51. malarial fever
52. sign
53. beak
54. smooth breathing
55. aromatic plant

VERTICAL
1. stuff
2. wing
3. of fathers or mothers
4. giggle
5. insect
6. simian
7. tyrannical
8. record
9. facts
10. curious
11. had on
17. fish sauce
19. stretch
21. linden
22. annul
23. telegraph
25. influence
27. South American pike-like fish
28. an alkali
29. cant to one side
32. fell
35. purplish red pigment
37. out-of-door flight of steps
39. of the foot
41. win
42. land measure
43. disease of plants
44. S curve
46. domestic pigeon
48. by
49. outcome

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

Average time of solution: 27 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber Personally Olympic Diary

HELSINKI, July 25—The Communist propaganda machine, never one to miss out on a good twist of fact, is working overtime here trying to convince the world that the Russians are falling all over themselves in an effort to fraternize with athletes of the West while Uncle Sam is nervously keeping his boys separated from the Soviets to keep them from learning the "truth."

You've read news stories and seen pictures of Russian, Czech, and Polish sport stars smiling, waving handerchiefs, helping crippled veterans across the street (veterans of the Russo-Finnish War), and inviting all the boys from America, Britain, and France out to big "love thy neighbor" orgies at the Soviet Olympic headquarters.

This makes good reading, but unfortunately all candy-coated claims of Communist cordiality are as phony as the Bill Oatis trial. In the first place, the Russians refused to let their athletes live in the official Olympic Village, which the Finns built especially for the Games and where all the non-Marxist aggregations are happily quartered. Instead the Hammer and Sickle boys rented a cozy layout at Otaniemi, twenty miles outside Helsinki, where foreigners are strictly forbidden without special permission. There the Soviet athletes are shielded by their overseers and allowed to mingle only with other Communists except at special banquets where everybody eats, sings, poses for Pravda, and then goes home without ever having the chance to ask one of the beaming Muscovites what happened to Litvinov—or who started what in Korea—or how the folks in Dnepropetrovsk feel about atomic control.

At one such house party the Russian toastmaster rose after the final helping of filet mignon and bid a rousing welcome to the American yacht crew, telling them it was a pleasure to feed them and reminding them to extend Soviet sympathy to the underprivileged workers of America. The exploding flashbulbs caught the Yanks politely applauding. The next morning Moscow papers ran the pictures with a story proclaiming "American Athletes Denounce Imperialism, Aggression, and Germ Warfare."

The Communist delegations live under the constant surveillance of political "coaches," the secret police, and each other. They are warned that any attempt to escape to Sweden, or even "uncalled for" association with outsiders, would result in punishment for themselves and their families. Nobody here has seen any Soviet athletes walking the streets of Helsinki in groups of less than six.

But in a town as small as Helsinki complete isolation is impossible. Boys from opposite sides of the Iron Curtain meet every day on street cars, in department stores, and in practice gymnasiums. The boys themselves seem quite willing to fraternize with Westerners, but the language barrier plus the NKVD scotches most attempts to converse at length or exchange ideas. One handsome Czech swimmer frankly apologized to me that "due to unfortunate conditions" he was unable to give me an interview.

Yesterday I managed to get permission to interview two young girls on the Bulgarian gymnastic squad, provided I confined my questions to the Olympics and refrained from delving into politics. Their political coach was a vast waddle of womanhood built like a first baseman who hovered around us intently absorbing my every syllable. I asked them what their names were and how they liked Finland.

Everything was lovely until I asked the two blushing Bulgarians if they would be allowed to travel through western Europe after the Games, like the teams from other nations. The eavesdropping coach grabbed the girls by the nape of the neck like a mother cat protecting her baby kittens from the evil bulldog. She screamed that I had asked a political question, tore up my pass, and had me bounced from the premises by the civil police.

Strip Poker

Drew Pearson The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—In 1946 when this columnist exposed the stock market manipulations of Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, I suggested to Senator Wayne Morse, Republican of Oregon, that he introduce legislation requiring every member of Congress to file with the securities and exchange commission a statement of his gifts, stocks, bonds, commodities and the clients of his law firm.

Senator Morse, a Republican, introduced such legislation. The only other senator who strongly favored such a move was Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, a Democrat, and he put his name on the bill as co-sponsor.

Though I talked to several other senators who expressed sympathy, none except Aiken of Vermont and Sparkman of Alabama were willing to support the bill. Since then, Senator Morse, though still for the bill, has frequently kidded me about the way I got him in wrong with his colleagues.

The bill, I regret to say, did not pass. Had it passed the "Affair Nixon" would not have happened, since his gifts and any operations by his law partners would have been a matter of public record.

The advantage of making this a public record, of course, is to let the voters back home judge whether or not a senator's vote is influenced by those who may have contributed to him or his law firm.

I still believe that such a bill should be passed—together with an increase in congressmen's salaries. I also believe that every candidate for president and vice-president should make available to the public his income, net worth, nature of his property, gifts, etc., And to that end I shall in future columns attempt to diagnose the financial backgrounds of General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson; Senator Sparkman and Senator Nixon.

It would be much better from the public's point of view to have the financial background of all four candidates scrutinized by either a senate committee or an impartial, nonpartisan group. Senator Nixon in his telecast report to the nation suggested that Stevenson and Sparkman should subject themselves to financial examination, which is a good idea. But he omitted Eisenhower.

He also reported on his own financial affairs. But a report by one man about himself is a lot different from a Senate investigation, and, unfortunately, Senator Nixon omitted certain facts about his Senatorial career which may have a bearing on his finances.

For instance, Nixon's law partner, Thomas Bewley, happens to be Secretary of an interesting $12,000,000 company which plans to build seamless pipe in California, the Western Tube Corp. The man really behind this corporation is a Roumanian, Nicola Malaxa, regarding whom there has been considerable controversy as to whether he is pro-communist.

The reason for this suspicion is that Congressman Keating of New York, a Republican, and Congressman Walter of Pennsylvania, a Democrat, both have objected vigorously to letting Malaxa reside permanently in the U. S. It has been pointed out during this controversy that Malaxa enjoyed excellent relations with the communists after the Soviet occupied Roumania, and was one of the few industrialists who got the Soviet to return three of his factories, seized under a previous Roumanian regime.

The Communist Government, it was charged, even paid him half a million dollars for the profits he could have made during the period these factories were taken from him.

It was also charged that Malaxa sent jewelry to Ana Pauker, former Communist boss of Roumania, and finally was able to get $2,400,000 out of Roumania.

This year, however, Senator Nixon interceded for Malaxa, and through his friend Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada and his friend Congressman Pat Hillings of California who took Nixon's place in Congress, Malaxa's name was placed on a bill giving him permanent residence in the U. S. and urged for passage.

The bill passed the Senate, but when it got to the House of Representatives, Congressmen Walter and Keating struck off Malaxa's name, though Hillings of California did his best to reinstate it.

As far as the human aspects of the case are concerned, I believe Nixon was right. Malaxa got caught in a cross-fire of a cross-fire of controversy between different Roumanian groups, and is paying the penalty.

However, the interesting thing is whether Senator Nixon, who has been very suspicious of anyone who associated with Communists, was influenced by charity or by other motives. Why did he go so far in trying to help Malaxa?

The answer could be that Malaxa was smart in getting Nixon's former law firm into the picture. Not only is the former Nixon firm attorney for Malaxa and his steel company in Whittier, California, but one law partner, Bewley, is secretary of the company, while Nixon has done an important favor for the firm in a federal tax case.

On May 16, 1952, Malaxa's company applied to the National Production Authority for a certificate of necessity to build the Seamless Tube Factory in which Nixon's former law partner is an officer. A certificate of necessity shows that the plant is so important to the defense of the nation that the company can get its depreciation allowances increased, and thus write off the cost of the plant in five years or so.

However, the National Production Authority apparently did not think Malaxa's Tube Corporation was too essential to the defense because no tax reduction certificate was granted.

At this point, however, Senator Nixon, whose former law partner was involved, got busy. He wrote a letter to Manly Fleischmann, NPA Administrator, telling him how essential Malaxa's plant was to California.

The letter was written in Nixon's office, and on the stationery of Nixon's committee, the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. However, to strengthen his position, Nixon got his senior colleague from California, William Knowland, to sign the letter also.

This letter did the trick. The application for tax reduction had lain in NPA files for four months, but after receipt of the letter, the NPA acted within a few days. Malaxa's firm got a tax reduction of 60 per cent on $10,229,667.

Express Yourself

Editor:

The list of speakers slated for the Carolina Forum, in my humble Republican estimation, stinks.

Already on the list are "I Wanta Be President" Estes Kefauver, "Queen" Eleanor Roosevelt and that great blabbermouth from the wheat fields of Minnesota, Hubert Humphery.

Possible entrants are Herbert Lehman, "The Brat" Rosevelt, Jr., William Benton, Anna Rosenberg and other assorted lesser lights of the ultra-liberal hue.

Why doesn't the chairman of the Forum replace Senators Ives, McCarthy, and Lodge with "Soapy" Williams, Blair Moody, and Senator Robert Morse and go whole-hog in converting the students on the Carolina campus to the latest brand of good government—"socialism, Americans for Democratic Action style."

On top of this, we have to stomach Drew Pearson every morning if we dare look at the editorial page of your paper.

But never fear—my vote will not be changed. I'm not old enough.

Jack Scism

★

Editor:

Al Capp and Drew Pearson are fine, but where where WHERE is the people's possum and perpetrator of the common man?

HMMMMMMMMM?

Physicists for Pogo*
Allan Norberg
Dick Hartung
Jud Hardy, Jr.
Bruce Pruitt
George Scholl
D. F. Herring
Max D. Sherrill
Bob Brahme
Bill Hooke

*Not registered with attorney general.

Jerico

Carolina students may awaken some morning to find the walls of Old East or South Building crumbling about them from sheer weight of age, but at least they don't have to worry about an earthquake.

Not true of some students at the University of California, according to an article appearing in Friday's Daily Californian, the university's student newspaper.

According to California professor of geology, Norman E. A. Hines, the earthquakes in southern California this summer may have had a loosening effect on the Hayward Fault, an earth displacement.

The bad thing about this is that the so-called Hayward Fault runs through the Berkley hills right under the University's Chemistry and radiation laboratories. And this loosening of the fault could result in a serious earthquake.

Geologist Hines left the curiosity and apprehension of the University students more or less hanging in the balance when he told them, "we can't tell when or where (an earthquake) may take place."

It has been 90 years, according to the Daily Californian, since the Hayward Fault gave any trouble. And "the longer an area goes without a shock," said the professor, further adding to the dilemma, "the more likely it is to have one, as a general rule."

Ed Yoder

Rolfe Neill The Livespike

Orientation, that very useful instrument by which freshmen are innoculated with University, has just passed. The newcomers got the Carolina facts of life from students who already had put in time here.

The counselors themselves were selected by a screening committee of 15 which was appointed by President Ham Horton. On that selection committee of 15 were eight fraternity men (including the chairman) and three sorority girls, and two independent girls and two independent boys. In other words, 11 to 4.

Even the most acrimonious critics of the UP-run orientation program seem to admit that Chairman Bob Gorham ran a fine program this fall. I certainly think so. However, take a good gander at the following figures:

(Legend: Organization is name of group; No. App. is number of each group asking for counselors applying; No. Slct. is number of the group who got counselor's jobs, and Comm. is number of people from each group on the counselor selection committee.)

Org.	No. App.	No. Slct.	Com.
ATO	3	1	0
Chi Phi	3	1	1
Chi Psi	10	4	0
DKE.	13	6	Chm.
Delta Psi.	8	6	1
KA	11	6	2
Kappa Sig	0	0	1
PiKA	7	3	0
Pi 'Lam	3	0	0
Phi Delt	9	3	0
Phi Gams	3	0	0
SAE	10	5	0
Sigma Chi	3	1	0
Sigma Nu	4	2	0
SPE	5	1	1
TEP	5	0	0
ZBT	7	6	1
	115	48	8
Indepnts.	20	3	2

Not many are likely to take issue with the actual people selected, for they all seem to be clean cut etc. But plenty (particularly the politicians) are going to exploit the fact that the independents had only three counselors. Also, I should think that the other two Jewish fraternities will raise a big "tsimmus" over the fact that only the ZBT's had men selected.

Those are the facts.

Lost and Found Has Collection Of Various Items

"We have everything in the lost and found department from a checkbook from an Oxford bank to a tie clasp," a representative of the YMCA Information office said yesterday.

The YMCA office, campus headquarters for lost and found property, has found the following articles since the beginning of school:

One green Sheaffer pen, one pair of girl's brown horn rim glasses, one black Ritepoint pencil with the name "William F. Brown" engraved, one ronson lighter with the initials "ZCB", one pair of girl's horn rim glasses with no case, one identification bracelet with the name "J. M. Harrington" engraved, one book on Modern Business English with the name W. M. Parker on the cover, one tie clasp, and one room key.

—Polio—

(Continued from page 1)

for the time being. Physical education classes and light practice by all varsity teams will continue, however.

President Gordon Gray and Chancellor R. B. House, along with health officials, said the measure was taken to prevent further spread of the disease. They emphasized there is no cause for alarm.

It was pointed out that so far this year Orange County has had only eight polio cases as compared with 12 last year and 20 in 1950.

Y Leaders' Group To Meet Today

The YMCA leadership training day will be held this weekend at Camp New Hope.

Under the supervision of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Skretting of the School of Education, conferences will be conducted on group leadership. Students participating will leave from the YMCA at 2 o'clock today and return at noon tomorrow.

Vic Raschi Pitches Yanks To 7-1 Win Over Dodgers

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

The Crippler

POLIO LANDED a crippling blow on the Carolina football team yesterday. Not only did the disease take one of our better players out of action; it also did a thorough job of wrecking some rebuilding plans—plans which some of us in our thirst for quick victories have not been able to appreciate, and which might have carried us to our best season in three years.

Even though we lost to Texas last weekend the spirit of the team has been at a pitch higher than we have seen it in the past two years. The team was more than ready to take on Georgia tomorrow, thoroughly convinced that it could whip the Bulldogs—and it probably would have, too.

But now the team will have to sit back for two Saturdays and wait before it can try to get the split T working again. When the Tar Heels take on Wake Forest two weeks from tomorrow it will be like starting the season anew. The layoff will definitely hurt. Whether it will deflate the spirit which has been running so high or not remains to be seen. Frankly, I don't think it will.

Knockabouts

This team of ours has had plenty of knocks already this year. The press notices after the Texas game from throughout the state were anything but fair, and panned the Tar Heels unmercifully. That didn't cut the spirit. Then, too, the student body's own opinion of the team has been anything but cheering. Still the team has voiced the opinion that it would have a winning season. All of the players were ready for Georgia—and the rest of our opponents, too for that matter. They'll have to wait now.

The two-week layoff will definitely put us behind where we would be if we could play the two games. All we needed to get our T going was a little more experience. That's where the delay will hurt us. It's a tough break, one which discourages all of us—but I think, and hope, we can get over it.

For four other boys it's an even tougher break. It's not a happy thought to know that you have polio, especially when you are a lover of athletics as all of these boys are.

Bull Davidson, the only member of the football team to come down with it, had shown considerable promise in his first two years here, and was counted on heavily in this his junior year. He has no paralysis as yet but his case is still described as acute.

Bob Barden, the first of the four students to come down with the disease, is the most promising trackman we have had in recent years. He was the top runner on the cross country team last year as a freshman and one of the best distance runners in the Southern Conference.

Tough Breaks

Dick Bostian is another of Coach Dale Ranson's cross country men, and although not as spectacular a runner as Barden, has been a steady competitor for the team.

Pete Higgins, the fourth of the athletic victims, is one of Coach Dick Jamerson's promising swimmers. He was used mostly last year in the relays and freestyle races and this season was expected to show more improvement over his letter-winning work of his sophomore year.

Fortunately the cases of Barden, Higgins, and Bostian don't appear to be too serious and it is believed that their athletic careers will not be hampered. Davidson's case is still acute but the doctors think he will come out of it without paralysis. But still it's not an appealing thought to have to lie in bed and then go through a recuperation period.

It's a tough break that we won't be able to make the Georgia trip. And it's going to be tough to figure what to do with the ex-State weekend, now that we've already asked that girl down.

But it's an even tougher break for a football team that really wanted to play football—and for four boys in the infirmary who'll have to sit a few more weekends out.

Ace Hurler's Three-Hitter Evens Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 2— Vic Raschi allowed the Brooklyn Dodgers only three hits today in pitching the New York Yankees to a 7-1 victory over their burrough rivals in the second game of the World Series at Ebbetts Field. The victory evened the series at one game apiece.

The masterful Yankee hurler was in control from the outset and was in trouble only once, in the third inning. The Bums banged out all three of their hits in that frame to account for their only score. Brooklyn hit only two balls out of the infield in the remaining six innings.

Raschi's performance was tagged as one of the more remarkable in World Series history. The "Springfield Rifle" struck out nine in notching his fourth fall classic victory.

Meanwhile his teammates were pounding the Brooklyn mound corps for ten safeties, including a three-run homer by second baseman Billy Martin in the sixth inning. This roundtripper highlighted that frame which saw the American League Champions push across five runs to put the game on ice.

Carl Erskine, starting and losing pitcher, was chased from the mound in the sixth in favor of rookie Billy Loes.

Mickey Mantle, slugging Yankee outfielder, collected three hits today to raise his series total to five. He banged out two safeties lefthanded and cracked a sharp single to left in the ninth inning as a righty.

Duke Snider, Pee Wee Reese, and Roy Campanella were credited with the Brooks' three bingles.

Tomorrow the series moves into Yankee Stadium, home of the team which has been World Champions for the past three years. This might very well be called the "rubber game". Should the Yanks win, it will give them a decisive advantage since Brooklyn will have used their three top hurlers. But if the Dodgers come through, it would actually give them a morale boost bigger than a one game lead since not too many teams manage to down the Bronx Bombers in the "big ones" at the Stadium.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel will rest his hopes on ace lefthander Eddie Lopat, while Chuck Dressen will send Preacher Roe, another leftie, to the mound.

The next three tilts will be played in the Stadium. The sixth and seventh, if necessary, will find the teams back in Broklyn.

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers crosses the plate after hitting a home run in the first game of the 1952 World Series. Teammate Roy Campanella and a bat boy congratulate Robinson. Others in the picture are Yankee catcher Yogi Berra and umpire Babe Pinelli. The Dodgers went on to beat the defending World Champions, 4-1, and take a 1-0 lead in the series. —NEA Telephoto

Jack Ruth To Lead Wildcats In Game With State College

Raleigh, N. C. Oct. 2—Davidson Quarterback Jack Ruth, the top aerial artist in the Southern Conference, will be one of the chief weapons of the Wildcats Saturday night in Riddick Stadium for their annual battle with N. C. State's Wolfpack.

Ruth, a 175-pound senior, has served up 30 pitches in games against Virginia Tech and Washington and Lee and has connected 15 times for 129-yards and one touchdown. He is a rough competitor and although rushed hard on many occassions has seldom been knocked off his feet before sending his pass on its way. Ruth's 50% batting average on completions ranks him among the nation's top 20 passers.

The Wildcats will build their offensive attack around Ruth's passing and the running of Halfback Jimmy Thacker, the sophomore whiz from Rome, Ga. Another top performer in the Davidson scheme of things is Freshman Bobby Renn of Henderson, who is the second-ranked punter in the Southern Conference with a 40.1 average. Renn operates at left halfback for the 'Cats.

Although Davidson has bowed to V. P. I., 28-14 and Washington and Lee, 33-14, the Wildcats have given both teams plenty of scrap before losing. They led the Gobblers of V. P. I., currently the leading team in the conference, for two periods and had a 14-13 edge over W. & L. early in the third period.

State, loser to George Washington 39-0, in an upset that startled the conference experts, has revamped its lineup completely for the clash with Davidson.

Deacs Impressive On Punt Returns; Meet Boston Col.

Wake Forest, N. C. Oct. 2 — Wake Forest carries a highly successful record on kick-off returns into its intersectional contest with Boston College in Bowman Gray Memorial Stadium in Winston-Salem on Saturday night. The kickoff will be at 8:15 o'clock.

The hard-running Deacon backs have been giving the opposition plenty of trouble running back kick-offs this season. In fact, Wake Forest ranks near the top in the nation in this department with an average runback of 30 yards. All in all, Wake Forest has amassed a total of 240 yards on eight returns this season.

Halfback Larry Spencer may have the best individual record in the entire nation on kickoff returns when the records are brought up to date for the early season. The speedy New York senior has returned three kick-offs for a total of 183 yards—an average of 61 yards per return. His 92-yard touchdown run on the kick-off following William and Mary's second touchdown was the longest play run by the Deacons this season.

Others Figure

Halfbacks Billy Churm, Bruce Hillenbrand, and Bobby Frederick and Fullback James (Pete) Coker are other backs who have figured in Wake Forest's fine record in this phase of play this fall.

The Deacons also run into a club with terrific speed and ability to return kickoffs and punts. Halfbacks Joe Johnson and Dan Brosnahan are two of the fastest backs in the East and are likely to give the Deacons plenty of trouble when they are running with the ball. Johnson is being hailed as Boston College's No. 1 candidate for All-America this season.

Saturday's contest shapes up as one of the best inter-sectional games of the early season. The husky Eagles reportedly have their strongest club in years and are being hailed one of most prominent contenders for mythical Eastern honors.

Excellent Showing

On the other hand, Wake Forest has made an excellent showing against strong southern opposition. The Deacs battled Baylor, one of the leaders in the potent Southwest Conference, on even terms before losing 17-14 in the final seconds of play. Last week Wake Forest defeated the strongest William and Mary club of the past five years 28-21 in a free-scoring thriller at Williamsburg, Va.

Soccer Team Opens Season With Roanoke

With the opening game at Roanoke College less than a week away, soccer coach Al Moore has released a tentative line-up to face the Virginians on their home field.

Litle is known about the strength of the Roanoke pitchmen, since the last time the teams met was in 1948. The Tarheels won that game by four goals.

At the present time it seems likely that both co-captains Barry Kalb and Ben Tison will start, although Tison is being pushed for the goal slot by Buckets Gladstone. Ronnie Younts will probably share the fullbacking duties with Kalb, while Tommy Hopkins, Dave Cole, and either Buddy Barnes or Tennie Elting should handle the important halfback positions.

Scoring Punch

The line should have more than its share of scoring punch with Harry Pawlick, Rennie Randolph, Drew Patterson, Raleigh Tremain and the versatile Jerry Russell carrying the weight of the attack.

Undefeated Blue Devils To Meet Mighty Vols At Durham Tomorrow

DURHAM, Oct. 3—Duke meets another powerful team here tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock that figures as a big stepping stone if the Blue Devils can get past it. Tennessee, rated No. 1 in the nation last year, furnishes the opposition.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected, but tickets remain for the contest and will be on sale at the Stadium early tomorrow. A north gate ticket booth will begin selling tickets at 9:30 in the morning, with all ticket booths, gates and concession stands opening for business at noon.

Both Undefeated

Both teams have yet to taste defeat and to either crew that taste tomorrow would be as sour as a dose of medicine. Both teams looked fairly ragged in their seasonal openers and Duke is the only one which has played a second game to iron out first - game wrinkles. Tennessee is expected to do its ironing against Duke tomorrow and is the favorite to take the Devils.

Duke last week scored a remarkable victory over Southern Methodist, 14-7, scoring the first touchdown with no time left in the first half and the second with only five seconds remaining in the game. Previously Coach Bill Murray's charges had romped over Washington and Lee here, 34-0.

Tennessee also had a narrow squeak last week and won by a 14-7 score over Mississippi State. The Vols' final touchdown came in the last period, but there were minutes left, four of them, instead of seconds, as was the case with Duke, when the marker was racked up.

The favored Vols are scheduled to be led tomorrow on offense by fullback Andy Kozar, a senior who is in his third year as a starter; tailback Pat Shires, held out last year; guard John Michels, called by Gen. Bob Neyland as the finest blocking guard he's ever coached; and Capt. Jim Haslam, a tackle.

Defenses Set

Defensively the Volunteers from the mountain country will bank on such fellows as Francis Holohan and Andy Myers at guards, Doug Atkins at tackle, Roger Rotroff and Ed Nickla at ends, Bill Barbish and Gene Moeller at linebackers; and Joe Maiure at halfback.

Duke offensively depends on quarterback Worth (A Million) Lutz, who has completed eight of 10 passes for 90 yards and three touchdowns; halfbacks Charlie and Red Smith; fullback Jack Kistler, who is the top gainer on the ground with 225 yards in two games; ends Howard Pitt and Bill Keziah, who have each caught four passes with three of Pitt's for scores; and the blocking of tackle Ray Green and center Lou Tepe, the captain.

Defensively the Duke defensive line has been remarkable.

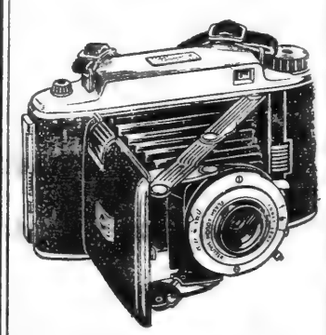
O'Mally Spikes Spahn Deal

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 2— Brooklyn Dodger president Walter O'Malley today evaded newsmen's questions as to whether the Dodgers were trying to make a deal with the Boston Braves for southpaw pitcher Warren Spahn.

When asked point blank by Boston sportswriters if the rumor was so, O'Malley replied with, "Didn't we beat Spahn about five times this year?"

He was asked if he wouldn't trade Andy Pafko and Gil Hodges for Spahn and he countered that one with, "You place too high a value on Spahn."



The reporters next speculated with the possibility that maybe if the braves threw in Earl Torgeson a deal might be worked out. "Who," said O'Malley with a big grin, "is Torgeson?"

Concerning a report that the Pirates are willing to trade home run slugger Ralph Kiner, O'Malley said seriously, "Branch Rickey, Pirate general manager, hasn't made any overtures to me about Kiner."

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

Headquarters FOR FLANNEL SUITS
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

WHAT'S IT GOT THAT YOUR OLD-TIME CAMERA HASN'T? PLENTY!

Kodak Tourist II Camera, Kodet Lens

Has built-in flash synchronization, fast eyelevel viewing, jiggle-proof shutter release. Takes excellent black and white or color pictures; negatives, 2¼ x 3¼ inches. Only $26.10, including Federal tax.

FOISTER'S Camera Store, Inc.

WOW! LOOK HOW "SHE'S WORKING HER WAY THROUGH COLLEGE"

COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
WARNER BROS. CHEERLEADER OF MUSIC AND FUN!
STARRING VIRGINIA MAYO RONALD REAGAN GENE NELSON
DON DE FORE-PHYLLIS THAXTER-PATRICE WYMORE
—Also—
Tom and Jerry Cartoon
—TODAY—
Carolina
—COMING—
"Tales of Hoffmann"

Campus Carousel

By Deenie Schoeppe

Though we have pinnings, engagements and marriages galore it looks like all the trips and football parties will be called off for a few weeks.

Pika Ollie Smithwich, Greenville, S. C. no sooner got initiated than he gave his pin to Tri Delt transfer Sally Schindel from Randolph-Macon. Another Tri Delt wearing a Pika pin is Ross Young of Greenwood, S. C. Her pin belongs to Bill Jenkins of Ayden.

Congratulations (a little late) to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Long. She's the former Johnsie Bennett, Pi Phi of Chapel Hill and Sam is a dental student here from Winston-Salem.

Phi Gamma Delta's partied, combo and all, in their patio after the game last week.

And the "rush" goes on. Rumor has it that sororities are going to start serving cough drops and cold tablets as refreshments for the benefit of rushees and rushers both.

Sigma Nu brothers who were married this summer are Bill Carr, Miami whose wife is the former Alice Haecker, Chicago, and Bob Midgette, Elizabeth City who married Janet Francis of Washington, D. C.

Wearing the white star of Sigma Nu is Janet Moore of Tarboro. The pin belongs to Bill Page, also of Tarboro.

A Charlotte couple recently married are Pi Kappa Phi Bill Williams and Esther Morledge.

Sandy Shoensite, Dook coed, is now wearing the TEP pin of Bill Zuckerman, Greensboro. Another pinless one at the TEP house is Buddy Meyers, Richmond. Wearing it is Helen Salsbury, also of Richmond. Leonard Gradsky, Durham, pinned Shiela Taylor this summer.

Sigma Chi's gung party at the American Legion hut Saturday night after the Duke-Tennessee game. Brothers from Duke and other chapters are expected.

Connor dormitory is planning a party Friday night from 8 to 12, with the gals from all dorms invited.

This is beach weather so the ATO's are taking advantage of it and planning a houseparty at Myrtle Beach this weekend.

Visiting the Alpha Gams last weekend was their past president Bunny Judy, now Mrs. Bill York. Bill was an AKPsi here. Both he and Bunny are from Boone.

More Pika news—"Suzie" Banks of WC is now wearing John Colson's pin. They're both from Greensboro. And Tri Delt Virginia Brown of Duke who's from Albemarle is pinned to Jake Rountree of Mt. Airy.

Pika's Jim Neely and Frank Keel are both about to march down that aisle. Jimmy will marry Betty Summers on Dec. 20. They're both from High Point. Frank will marry Peggy Britt, Kinston, on Oct. 18.

Theta Chi's are on their way to an oyster roast in Wilmington this weekend. Now that's different. They're having several other little parties over the weekend too.

Zeta Beta Tau's have big doings planned too. They'll have a picnic in Greensboro Saturday and a party at the home of alumni Bill Karesh.

Phi Delta Chi Evan Setzer from Newton and Martha Lock from Hickory are new pin-ups.

Emily Cole of Charlotte is now Mrs. Joe Hanrock. Joe is an AKPsi here and is also from Charlotte.

Kappa Delta '51 graduates Diane McComb, Jo Worthington, Gwen Gore and Martha Nash visited the chapter last weekend.

Jim Schenck. (This appears by special request.)

Another familiar face on campus last weekend was that of Pi Phi football star Liz Currie, now Mrs. Oscar Schoenfelt of Raleigh. Oscar was an SAE here.

News from the Chi O house includes the marriage of Lou Ann Restreppo to Carlos Angel De Ville. They were married in Columbia, South America. Chi O Betty Lou Selig, Elizabeth City, has received an engagement ring from Zete Alec Barnes of Murfreesboro. Another new ring in the Chi O house is "Ott" Oettinger's. She will marry Thomas Faulkner, SPE at State.

ADPi's had a tea Sunday in honor of their new house mother Mrs. Susie Dade. Attending were faculty members, house mothers, fraternity and sorority presidents.

A new Pi Kappa Alpha initiate is Stanley Peel of Everrets.

Kappa Alpha Fred Munds of Wilmington has given his pin to Chi O Midge Ward, Arlington, Va.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Jackie Owen, Maitland, Fla., to Tommy Williams, dental student at Emory. Jackie is an ADPi here. Newly pinned ADPi is Joan McCotchen, Lincolnton, who's wearing the Pika pin of Jake Stauffer, Greenville.

Phi Gams serenaded their pinups this week, as did the Pika's Wearing the Phi Gam pins are Duke coed Jackie Browlee, Atlanta, pinned to Kenton Creuser, also Atlanta; and Betty Martin, pinned to Bob Bundy. Both are from High Point.

That's it for this time. And for those of you who have missed him, Vince Grimaldi is back on campus.

GOING TO GEORGIA?

Pick up your ready marked road map and have your car serviced for the trip at

TYLER'S ESSO SERVICENTER

"Let's Go With Esso"

MILTON'S Is Kind To Your Budget

Cordovan colored Calfskin, fully leather lined, by Custom Originals, only $10.95

White oxford button down and rounded oxford cloth shirts with barrel cuffs, only $3.95

Despite one of our competitor's claim we still maintain that our hand lasted cordovans with pre-stitched welts, double leather soles, made of Horween's choice shell cordovan are the lowest price in the entire South at $14.95

Just received shipment of black handsewn loafers with double leather soles $11.95

White buck shoes with black rubber soles $9.95

Oxford gray suits in perfect Brooks cut $49.95

The next thing to Cashmere-Imported Australian wool sweaters in very fine gauge $10.50

BILLS MAILED HOME AT YOUR REQUEST

MILTON'S

Clothing Cupboard

163 EAST FRANKLIN ST.

CLASSIFIEDS

BALLET TEACHER WANTED. PREferably for afternoon or night work. Vacancy open. State qualifications and salary. Write Box 1525, Burlington, N. C.

(1-9453-6)

FOR SALE: VERY FINE MAPLE dining and bedroom furniture. Phone 50504, Durham, N. C.

CHARGE (x)

Graduate of Carolina Receives Pilot Wings

BRYAN AFB, Texas, Oct. 2-Lt. Joseph B. Wratten Jr., a graduate of the University of North Carolina, received his pilot wings in graduating from jet pilot training here in September.

VAUGHN MONROE

Vaughn Monroe Will Salute UNC

"The Vaughn Monroe Show" will salute the University of North Carolina and the University of Georgia on the NBC-Radio Network broadcast tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

North Carolina and Georgia football teams were scheduled to meet tomorrow afternoon in Athens, Ga., in the game-of-the week, but will not play because one of the Carolina players was stricken with polio.

Vaughn Monroe, the Moon Men, the Moon Maids, and the entire caravan orchestra will feature "Tar Heels On Hand" for North Carolina and "Hail To Georgia" for Georgia. In addition, Monroe and announcer Joe King will give the nationwide radio audience some historical sidelights about the two schools.

What Goes On Here

Placement Meet

There will be a placement meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall for senior men and women. K. F. Bevan Jr. of Vick Chemical Co., Greensboro, will speak.

BSU Party

The Baptist Student Union will hold a poster party tonight at 7 o'clock. Refreshments will be served at the church.

Open House

There will be an open house Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5 p.m. at Morehead Planetarium for all students who have never seen the upper rooms of the Planetarium.

Blood Committee

The campus Blood Committee will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in the Grail Room.

Unitarian Fellowship

The Unitarian Fellowship of Chapel Hill will meet on Sunday night at 8:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. "The Challenge of Unitarianism" will be the subject of the meeting. George Weitz of Charlotte, president of the Thomas Jefferson Conference and president of the board of trustees of the Charlotte Unitarian Church, will be the leader.

Hillel Foundation

The first worship service in celebration of Sukkoth Season, a harvest season equivalent to Thanksgiving, will be held tonight at 7:30 at Hillel House. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

—Legislature—

(Continued from page 1)

UP Chairman Sol Cherry said, "The Student Party has shown tonight its true intentions to throttle the will of the students as expressed in free elections."

He referred to the SP refusal to consider Stevens's original motion.

"We appeal now and will appeal in person," continued Cherry, "that every student in the men's dorms demand that their legislators grant them an equitable redistricting."

A UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL PICTURE

T-O-D-A-Y

AND

SATURDAY

Varsity

A Selection of

The Famous S & S Readers Editions

AT ONLY 48c (Regularly $1.00)

SALE STARTS SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4th

Stop in for a look after the game

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 East Franklin St. Open Evenings

THE CAROLINA PLAYMAKERS

ANNOUNCE THEIR 35TH SEASON

FIVE MAJOR PRODUCTIONS

- Death of a Salesman—October 22–26
- The Inspector General—December 3–7
- Princess Ida—February 6–7
- The Good Woman of Setauah—February 25–March 1
- Lysistrata—May 22–24

SEASON TICKETS ($5.00) NOW ON SALE

—AT—

Playmakers Business Office
Swain Hall

Ledbetter–Pickard
157 East Franklin Street

Season Ticket Holders Are Given First Choice of Reserved Seats for

TWO OUTSTANDING TOURING ATTRACTIONS

January 9—JOHN BROWN'S BODY, starring Tyrone Power, Judith Anderson and Raymond Massey
March 10—EMLYN WILLIAMS AS CHARLES DICKENS

LEDBETTER-PICKARD, Graciously serving as downtown Box Office for the CAROLINA PLAYMAKERS, also features Greeting Cards, School Supplies, Stationery, Study Lamps and Pennants

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
31-49

WEATHER

Fair and mild with 70 high today. Yesterday's high, 55; low, 42.

The Daily Tar Heel

BUMS

All is happy in Flatbush. See page 3.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 10 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

'Chased Around Pasture'

Death Of Rameses Is Attributed To Harassment, Heat, Or Old Age

By Bob Slough

"If you ask me what killed Rameses, I'd say those Duke students worried him to death last fall when they chased him around the pasture all night."

H. S. Hogan, the ram's caretaker, was doing the talking as he looked over a flock of sheep grazing on the Hogan farm and told how Rameses died during the early part of July.

"We are breaking a new ram now and should have him ready for the next football game," Hogan said. Rameses VIII is a brother to the ram that died in July. The 9-month old Dorsett is the son of a ram given to the school by a Carolina alumnus in Texas.

Farmer Hogan stopped, puzzled a minute, then went back to Rameses' death: "Or, instead of those Duke boys it could of been the heat or just plain old age."

The first Carolina ram was purchased in 1924 when Victor Huggins, local merchant, was cheerleader here. Bought by the Athletic Association, Rameses made his first appearance at a pep rally before the game with Virginia Military Institute.

The ram made quite a hit with the students and so did the Carolina team as they squeezed by VMI the next day, 3-0.

The history of Rameses VII is the most colorful of any Carolina mascot. He went to New York in 1949 and even caused a traffic jam while enroute to Yankee Stadium for the Carolina-Notre Dame game.

Even after the football season was over, the ram and "Bushy" Cook traveled throughout North Carolina, appearing in parades. "Bushy", the bewhiskered character seen at Carolina football games, accompanies Rameses on all personal appearances.

The Ram is not only popular with Carolina students, but Duke students as well. "In fact," Hogan relates, "there was a group of Duke students over here every night for two weeks last fall looking for the ram."

"They came over here during the day to find out where we were keeping the ram and then came back at night to steal him," he said. "Every night I had to go out and take care of him."

Sometimes the Duke men got as close as 50 yards to the Carolina mascot but Hogan drove the ram further into the woods.

The old ram became a pet on the Hogan farm. "He used to come by the barn every day for his feed," Hogan said. Hogan found the ram dead in the woods after he failed to show up for his daily feed.

Rameses VIII does not have horns equal to the old ram but they will develop as the ram grows older. "We even looked for a grown ram in Texas and Virginia but we couldn't find a good one," Hogan said.

BUSHY COOK AND HIS late charge, Rameses VII, are shown at one of last fall's football games. The Carolina mascot died in early July but no one knew it until Bob Slough, Daily Tar Heel reporter, noticed the ram was not at last week's game and began an investigation. A new ram an and old Bushy are scheduled to appear at the next home game.—Daily Tar Heel staff photo.

Dr. Norman Johnson Will Speak Monday

Dr. Norman L. Johnson of University College in London will speak Monday afternoon in 206 Phillips Hall at a meeting of the Statistics Colloquim. The topic will be "Some Effects of Non-Standard Conditions on Analysis of Variance."

The lecture by Dr. Johnson, who is with the Department of Statistics here, will begin at 4 o'clock.

Interested?

The New York Herald Tribune is sponsoring a forum for college students and administrators October 19-21 at the Waldrof Astoria in New York.

The forum will discuss the presidential election and American business in the implementation of American foreign policy.

Three admission cards have been provided for UNC students. Students attending the forum must pay their own expenses. Those interested should contact Ham Horton at the student government office in Graham Memorial.

'Haphazard' UNC Impresses Brazilian

"I strolled around the campus looking at the old and new buildings scattered about more or less haphazardly. . . ."

At least, haphazard was the impression of Chapel Hill gained by a visiting Brazilian, Alceu Amoreso Lima, writing in the current issue of "Americas."

Lima continued, "The flavor of university life at Chapel Hill was a happy beginning for my tour of 20 universities."

This tour took Lima through the South, affording him a close look at the universities in the United States in which he believes "lie the secret of the United States cultural might."

Lima chose the South because of its closeness to Latin America and because of the South's social progress.

Redeeming himself for the "haphazard" remark, he said, "I strolled around the campus among trees that were here a century before the university. I wandered among the forsythia in the aroboretrum, and spotted the Brazilian independence date, 1822, on the facade of the old theater."

In between looking around at the haphazard creation of the University and lecturing to Dr. Sturgis Leavitt's, Federico Gil's, and Harold Bierck's classes, Lima found time to learn more history about Carolina than most students themselves probably know.

Lima started his tour of the South with the "oldest state university in the country," which most people do know.

Haphazard or not, Senora Lima was duly impressed by Carolina, saying, "The fascination of the university town is that its whole life is centered around the school. That is what lends so much charm to Chapel Hill.

"Alumni come back to end their days where their eyes were opened to intellectual life. To university people, years spent on campus are the best years of their life."

In the universities and in the South, Mr. Lima saw three things which warmed him greatly: extraordinary economic, political, and cultural resurgence; close ties with Latin America, and an attempt to resolve problems of racial discrimination.

Duly impressed by the warmth of friendship, common feelings toward racial problems, and the haphazard campus, all at Carolina, Mr. Lima continued his tour by heading for, you guessed it, Duke.

Car Stickers Required For Student Autos

The dean of students' office yesterday reminded students who are using cars in Chapel Hill that there is a trustee regulation requiring registration of all vehicles.

Registration made last year does not permit the use of an automobile this year. Registration must be made each school year at the time of enrollment.

Stickers to allow parking on the campus proper can be obtained by full-time faculty members or physically handicapped students. A yellow sticker is being used this year, replacing the blue one seen last year.

The campus proper is bounded on the north by Franklin Street, on the south by the Raleigh Road, on the west by Columbia Street and on the east by Raleigh Street. Parking is restricted in this area only from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Vets Using Test Service

Vets are now using the University's Testing Service.

Director Ben Husbands yesterday said the Veterans' Administration Guidance Center has been re-opened due to the influx of Korean veterans this quarter.

The Testing Service, which has been open to students for several years, is now designated by the VA as their official source of educational and vocational guidance in North Carolina. Veterans of both World War II and the Korean conflict are eligible for the service.

Before veterans can use the service, they must, however, obtain the approval of the VA by submitting a request to the Region Office in Winston-Salem. Request forms may be obtained from Colonel Shepard's office.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—Soviet Russia yesterday termed American Ambassador George F. Kennan "persona non grata" and demanded his immediate recall, because of recent "slanderous attacks" which Moscow charged the diplomat had made against the Soviet Union. Shortly afterward Secretary of State Acheson told a special press conference that this government "does not accept as valid" the Soviet charges prompting the demand. He said Kennan would return to Washington for consultation. State Department Russian experts have termed the recall "unprecedented" in US-Soviet relations.

★

MILWAUKEE — Climaxing a whistle-stop campaign in Wisconsin on which he was accompanied by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Republican presidential candidate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower delivered a major address here last night. Earlier Ike declared that he has differences with McCarthy, but that both have the same goal of ridding the government of subversives. Eisenhower said these differences were well known and he had discussed them with the senator.

★

CINCINNATI—Gov. Adlai Stevenson yesterday charged that Gen. Eisenhower is endangering the future of the nation by supporting Republican isolationists. Making his first campaign in Senator Robert "Mr. Republican" Taft's home state, the Illinois governor charged that these isolationists "have stopped at nothing in their drive to control the party," and that the Republicans candidate seeks their support and bows to their demands. It could lead to a "national tragedy," Stevenson said.

★

ON TRUMAN TRAIN — Continuing his "give-em-hell" style of campaign oratory, President Truman yesterday told West Coast voters that General Eisenhower "has fallen in with a pretty bad crowd." He said that Ike is "in Taft's pocket, and that Taft is telling him what to do." Meanwhile, Eisenhower's runningmate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon, described the President as "braying through the west." The senator told a Maryland audience that it was a good thing the Republicans set up a "truth squad" to follow Mr. Truman.

★

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department yesterday announced plans to "tear out the roots of crime" by deporting some 100 foreign-born racketeers.

★

TOKYO — U. S. Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter said yesterday that American air strength in Korea has been increased 50 per cent in the last three months to give the U.N. forces "complete mastery" of the Korean skies.

Fifth Athlete Stricken By Polio; 3 Improve

Oct. 15 Deadline For Scholarships

UNC students aspiring to win Rhodes Scholarships this year must have applications in the hands of the state committee not later than November 1. The scholarships are for a years' study at Oxford University.

Applicants are requested to have their applications to the local college committee by October 15 for processing, an official said.

The last Rhodes scholar from here was Donald Henderson, a World War II veteran who completed four years' work at Carolina in two years. He was later given a Fulbright Scholarship to study in Paris.

To be eligible a candidate must be a male citizen of the United States and unmarried. He must be between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five on October 1, 1953. He must have completed at least his sophomore year by the time of application and receive official endorsement of his college or university.

The value of a Rhodes Scholarship is at present 500 pounds per year. Scholars who qualify under the GI Bill or other military educational funds may expect the same benefits at Oxford as at an American university.

Choice of recipients is made on the basis of scholastic ability and attainments, qualities of manhood, moral force of character and physical vigor.

Anyone interested in making application may get the necessary forms and any information desired from Dean C. P. Spruill, 308 South Building.

Grad Exam Schedules Announced

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 3—The Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants for admission to a number of graduate schools, will be administered at examination centers throughout the country four times in the coming year.

During 1951-52 nearly 8,000 students took the GRE in partial fulfillment of admission requirements of graduate schools which prescribed it.

This fall candidates may take the GRE on Friday and Saturday, November 7 and 8. In 1953, the dates are January 30 and 31, April 17 and 18, July 10 and 11. Each applicant should inquire of the graduate school of his choice which of the examinations he should take and on which dates.

Dorm Candidates To Meet Monday

A compulsory meeting of all candidates for dormitory offices will be held Monday night at 7 o'clock in Gerrard Hall, a spokesman for the Interdormitory Council said yesterday.

IDC President Paul Somerville and Roy Holsten, assistant dean of students, will address the candidates and present to them their duties and responsibilities in dormitory government.

Vick's Man Due Tuesday For Job Talk

Senior men and women are invited to attend a placement meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall.

Joe Galloway, director of placement, will explain how his office helps students and alumni find jobs.

K. F. Bevan Jr., manager of the personnel administration department of Vick Chemical Company in Greensboro, will speak on "Why Register with the Placement Service."

A psychology major at University of Virgina, Bevan joined Vick's manufacturing division as assistant employment manager following his graduation in 1947. As an active recruiter of college graduates, as president of the Greensboro Area Personnel Association, and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Society fo the Advancement of Management, Bevan has a broad background for discussing with students the employers' reliance upon placement offices as the best source for college graduates.

According to Galloway, employers are already scheduling recruiting trips for this school year. Seniors—non-veterans as well as veterans—who wish to take advantage of campus interviews should make a special effort to attend this meeting, he said. Undergraduates who would like to preview job-hunting prospects also are invited to attend.

JV Footballer Sam Sanders Is New Case

Students Leave Despite Request To Remain Here

Samuel L. Sanders, freshman footballer from Winston-Salem, was reported yesterday as the fifth case of polio in the University.

Sanders was scheduled to play in tonight's canceled jayvee game. He is being treated at the University Hospital. His condition, and that of Harold "Bull" Davidson, Tar Heel fullback, have not reached a sufficiently advanced stage for proper diagnosis, Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth said.

Students earlier were requested, not ordered, to remain in Chapel Hill for the next two weeks as a precautionary measure. The request, however, apparently had little effect. Dormitory parking lots were sparsely filled late yesterday afternoon and the outgoing highways were dotted with hitchhikers.

University officials renewed their request that students remain here and refrain from over exertion, since fatigue lowers polio resistance.

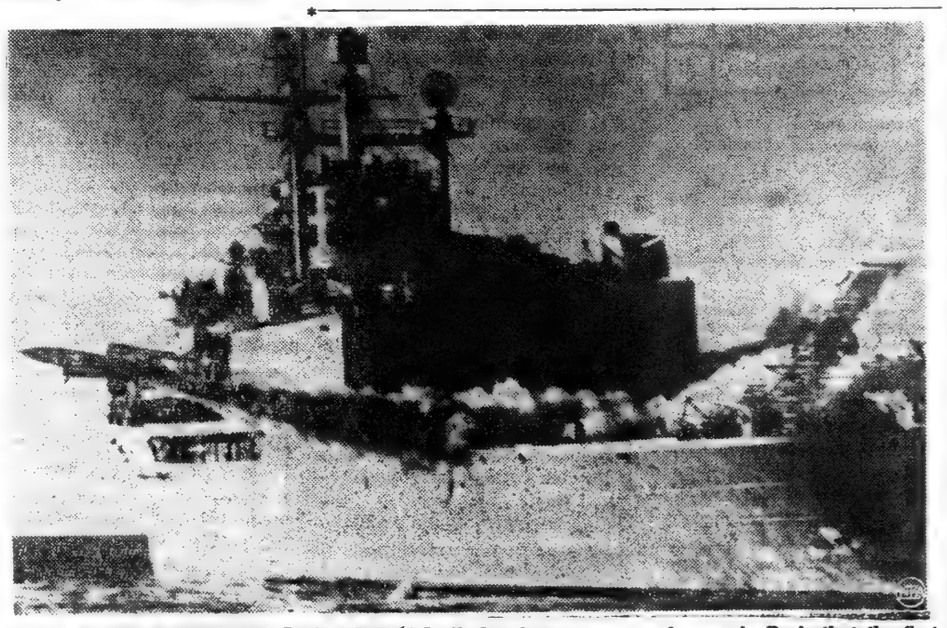
Meanwhile news came that Pete Higgins and Bob Barden were out of isolation and improving very rapidly. Lee Bostain also is progressing, Dr. Hedgpeth said. Higgins is a varsity swimmer and Barden and Bostian are on the cross-country team.

Sanders was a spectacular guard at Reynolds High School in Winston. He was given all-city, all-conference and all-state recognition in the grid sport, excelling also in baseball. He has a brother, Tom Sanders, who is a senior here.

Long distance telephone calls both in and out of Chapel Hill were reported as doubled in number by a telephone company official. The official said the polio scare was the cause of the increase, as students contacted anxious parents, or vice versa.

Draft Test Applications Now Ready

Applications for the December 4, 1952, and the April 23, 1953, College Qualification Test are now available at local Selective Service boards.



Eligible students who intend to take this test on either date should apply at once to the nearest local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided. Applications for the December 4 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, November 1.

No Pictures

Yack photographs will not be taken today, but photographers will be waiting Monday afternoon at the Rendzvous Room of Graham Memorial.

Sophomores have until Wednesday to have photographs made. Fraternities are requested to ask sophomore members to be photographed so Yack pages may be completed at an early date.

U. S. NAVY SECRETARY DAN KIMBALL disclosed at a press conference in Paris that the first American guided-missle ship has been launched, and it is primarily an anti-aircraft ship. Above, the USS Norton Sound, a converted seaplane tender and the Navy's principal experimental guided-missle ship, fires the "Aerobee" straight up during a test in the North Pacific early in 1950. Tests such as these have led directly to the development of the missile ship.—NEA Telephoto.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus — LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

Adv. Mgr. — Wallace Pridgen | News Ed. — Jody Levey
Assoc. Ed. — Bev Baylor | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Assoc. Ed. — Sue Burress | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock

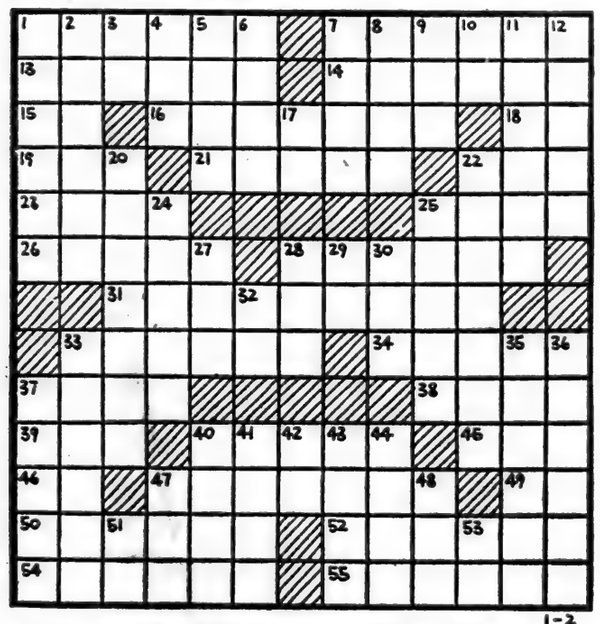
Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Abominable

A student-faculty Campus Stores Committee was established by the May meeting of the Board of Trustees to act in an advisory capacity to the Assistant Controller-Business Manager.

In plain language, this means that students are now invited to voice their criticism of the Book Exchange operations before a panel whose membership includes three student representatives. THE DAILY TAR HEEL has at least one edifying proposal which should merit the attention of this committee at its first hearing.

For years we have been lining up outside the state book store in the basement of Steele Dormitory, paying seemingly exhorbitant prices for textbooks, and using them for only three months. Then, when final exams are over and the weighty volumns have outlived their practicality, we take them back to the Book-X to try to reclaim part of our original investment. If we're lucky, we are offered exactly half the price we paid—provided the book is in good condition and all penciled notations have been neatly erased. Often the clerk decides he is overstocked with your particular textbook and recommends you bring it back next quarter—or the quarter after—or let it go at a sacrifice for fifty cents—or twenty five cents.



We believe the Book Exchange, as an arm of the University, should take all steps consonant with sound business practices toward lessening the cost of books to the individual student. Our quarrel at this time does not concern itself with the high original cost of the books nor even with the cancellation of the rebate system. These are matters which the student-faculty committee is expected to delve into and emerge with documentation either supporting or contradicting the existing policy. We do contend that a student should be guaranteed a reasonable return on any book regardless of the number already collecting dust on Book-X shelves, and not be forced to "wait for an opening" or sacrifice it at a fraction of what he paid ninety days before.

The present policy of "We don't need that one—sorry—tough luck" aggravates everybody, suggests that the Boox-X is not oriented toward serving the best interests of the student body, and discriminates against those students taking uncommon or "off-brand" courses such as country journalism, obscure political science courses, Russian, and Portuguese.

We fail to see how a system whereby students would automatically receive a pre-stipulated return on his books at the end of the quarter could seriously hamper the long range program of the Book-X. Most textbooks are redeemed sooner or later and the state is in better position to assume the delay than the student. Why should we be stuck with a six dollar geography tome because the Book Exchange happens to be overstocked at the moment?

The supply and demand mechanism, however valid in the outside world of free enterprise, should not be allowed to function to the direct detriment of the student body.

We trust that Thad Eure, Ed Singleton, and Al Bryant, the three students appointed by President Ham Horton to serve on the committee, will exert maximum effort to see that this and other suggested improvements are accorded keenest evaluation by the advisory committee. We expect our representatives to take the initiative in seeking to bring the policies of the Book Exchange into closer harmony with the welfare of the student community.

HORIZONTAL
1. medicated ointment
7. grief
13. gets up
14. imagine
15. negative
16. legislative bodies
18. personal pronoun
19. American humorist
21. apportions
22. gave nutriment
23. delete
25. planet
26. worship
28. standards of conduct
31. a gland inflammation
33. ecclesiastical headdresses
34. concerning
37. cotton cloth
38. Jacob's brother
39. unit of work
40. subjugates
45. soft metal
46. symbol for silver
47. superior girls
49. French article
50. city in Italy
52. graver
54. official decrees
55. horses

VERTICAL
1. neighboring country
2. ate away
3. New England state (abbr.)
4. donkey
5. abound
6. serf
7. location
8. lyric poems
9. thing, in law
10. sun god
11. different ones
12. noxious plants
17. near
20. running away secretly
22. most untrue
24. muse of lyric poetry
25. New England state
27. prior to
28. possessive pronoun
29. prefix: away
30. Greek letter
32. correlative of either
33. absorbed
35. clinched
36. harmonizers
37. depart
40. diplomacy
41. malt drinks
42. personal pronoun
43. completes
44. let it stand
47. nervous twitch
48. observe
51. symbol for nickel
53. church denomination (abbr.)

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

Average time of solution: 23 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Jerry Reese — In Our Churches

BAPTIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m.: student Bible class taught by Dr. P. H. Epps and young married couples' class taught by Dr. Carl Brown; 11 a.m.: worship with sermon and Holy Communion, "Only Your Best is Good Enough," by the Rev. S. T. Habel; 6 p.m.: BSU supper and program on "Christian Faith and Life's Decisions" by Chancellor R. B. House.

CATHOLIC: Sunday, 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m.: Mass in Gerrard Hall.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: Sunday, 11 a.m.: services in the Lecture room of New West.

CONGREGATIONAL-CHRISTIAN: Sunday, 10 a.m.: student Bible group led by Dr. George Nicholson; 11 a.m.: morning worship and Holy Communion; 6 p.m.: student supper discussion with officer election.

EPISCOPAL: Sunday, 8 a.m.: Holy Communion; 9:30 a.m.: student Bible discussion group; 11 a.m.: Communion and "The Christian and the World," by the Rev. L. B. Sherman; 6 p.m.: Canterbury club supper and program on "The Return to Orthodoxy" by the Rev. B. J. Turner; 8 p.m.: evening prayer.

QUAKERS: Sunday 11 a.m.: service in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

JEWISH: Friday, 7:30 p.m.: Weekly service at the Hillel House.

LUTHERAN: Sunday, 9:45 a.m.: church school; 11 a.m.: Communion and worship service, "The Communing Church" by Dr. W. T. Nau of Davidson College.

METHODIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m.: breakfast Bible class; 11 a.m.: morning worship service and communion; 6 p.m.: Wesley foundation supper meeting.

PRESBYTERIAN: Sunday, 9:45: Holy Communion; 11 a.m.: morning worship with Dr. T. D. Schafer; 6 p.m.: student group with Claude Shotts on "Christianity and War."

Mamie

Mamie Eisenhower is a blue-eyed brunette, about five feet, four inches in height. She dresses simply in dark, basic clothes and has distinctive tastes in the selection of hats.

The famous bangs have been hers for many years and she has refused to change her hair style.

Mamie's well-known characteristic lies in being herself. A warm, friendly smile is a sort of trade mark. She was "herself" in France, where living in a French villa assigned to the General, she planted sweet corn in the garden so that Ike could enjoy corn-on-the-cob.

Her friends say, "Mamie hasn't changed over the years. You always know that when you meet her again she will be the same."

The only career she wants is the role of homemaker, a part she has played effectively for many years under complex circumstances.

She says she has "kept house in everything but an igloo."

Prior to departing on her first campaign train, Mrs. Eisenhower set an Election Year example for American women. She registered. She can and will vote on November 4.

"Being registered for voting is a citizen's first duty," Mamie said. "It's the half-way mark of the 100 percent voter."

Mrs. Eisenhower wrote her name on the rolls of the 49th Election District of the 7th Assembly District in the Central Registration office of the New York City Board of Elections. She also applied for an absentee ballot, in case she is not near her own voting district on Election Day.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

"My! Hallowe'en's A Little Early This Year"

Express Yourself

Young Republicans

Editor:

Various petty campus politicians have recently printed their attacks on Eisenhower in your paper, and I have said nothing. I will suffer in silence no longer, however, for the "great smear" attempt reached a new low with the publication of one of the most intolerant and false columns ever to appear in the Tar Heel. I am referring to the Democratic propoganda on Wednesday's editorial page under the name of the Rt. Hon Albert House.

First of all Mr. House blasted the Republican National Convention for refusing to nominate Taft as the GOP presidential candidate. Mr. House knows quite well that the big-wags in control of the national party machinery at that time favored Mr. Taft. He also knows that the rank-and-file members of the party did not want Mr. Taft.

Using the typical Democratic interpretation of such a situation, he fails to understand why Mr. Taft was not nominated. The only thing he can see is that the headmen wanted Taft: therefore, Taft should have been nominated.

Since that did not happen, the nomination was "stolen from its" "rightful" recipient and given to the true choice of the Republican party, Ike.

It is easy to understand why Mr. House holds such a philosophy: I will cite the Democratic Convention as an example.

The lay member of the Democratic party wanted the Senator from Tennessee, Estes Kefauver, to be their standard bearer. Big city bosses, however, including notorious Jake Arvey of Chicago, had already "decided for the people" that Adlai Stevenson was to be the nominee. It took all of convention week to educate the delegates, but the back-stage string pulling succeeded.

So, the Democratic delegates to Chicago merely ratified the dictation of the party big wheels; the Republican delegates to Chicago dictated the choice of Ike.

As a result the old isolationist wing is no longer in control of the Republican party. The victor, Ike, has not surrendered to the vanquished, Taft. The principle of throwing away a hard - earned victory belongs solely to the Democratic party. A perfect example of this is Truman's bungling of the peace won on the battlefields of Europe by troops under Ike's command.

The "Ike Surrender" theme, however, is just one example of the hypocrisy of the Democratic party. You will remember that Mr. House blasted the GOP for failing to nominate Taft, yet in the next paragraph Mr. House attacked the GOP for consulting Mr. Taft. What is this individual trying to accomplish? I am afraid I cannot answer that, but I do know his method is the old Democratic practice of trying to talk out of both sides of the mouth at the same time. He doesn't accomplish anything but does acquire a remarkable resemblance to the Democratic party symbol.

Curt. J. Ratledge
President,
Young Republicans

Burning House

Editor:

In reference to Al House's article, "On the House," in Wednesday's Daily Tar Heel, I would like to add my two cents worth. Mr. House's insinuation that the Republican National Convention did the wrong thing in seating pro-Ike forces at the Chicago convention is as far away from the truth as one can get. If he had participated in precinct conventions where Ike had won a clear-cut majority and had seen those same delegates refused seats, he too would have made charges of a big steal. Actually, the big steal was the big truth.

His other insinuation that the 13 million unemployed of 1931 all found jobs under the New Deal is not true. We had major unemployment until Pearl Harbor, as the statistics will prove. Furthermore, the threat of Communism has not diminished just because we have less unemployed.

If Mr. House would stick to the facts, and let people form their own opinions, he would have a much better article.

Frank Skrivanek

Harry Snook — NONPLUS

The Korean War is a cruel, bloody hoax.

Tens of thousands of Americans lie dead. More tens of thousands of our men have had their guts torn out, their limbs shot off, their futures dimmed. Wives, children, parents have lost what cannot be replaced.

At a billion a month for over two years, the cost of a miniscule peninsula war in Asia has been steadily draining U.S. resources.

What has been won by the deaths of those who populate the silent graves?

A "cold war" with Russia?

But the entire Allied armed might is held to a standstill by a satellite of the enemy! Americans are dying at the front, but Russians aren't. Shrewd Red spokesmen have proved Western diplomats wistful dreamers at the "truce" talks.

South Korea, which we pretended to be saving from the Communists, has been devastated. Realistic leaders of borderline nations in the East-West conflict are hardly impressed by naive Allied efforts. The Chinese Reds have doubled their air force and their army while building tremendous supply bases.

Yet we dawdle as the earth runs red and the enemy grows stronger.

We must win the war or get out, and we can't get out. Why out. Why don't we bomb across the Yalu, destroying the vast bases and supply lines and industrial targets? Why don't we blockade the China coast? Why is there no move to push the land battle such as in amphibious landings to the north of the front, hitting the Reds where they are least prepared?

Why don't we stop the profitless slaughter and maiming of our youth? If they must die, let it be to advantage!

Fear of Russia and fear of antagonizing the mainland Chinese have paralyzed the West. Not only in action, but also in thinking. Russia needs no additional provocation for launching World War III—she'll open the big struggle when she's ready and she's too smart to be tricked into it prematurely. And the Chinese are putting everything they have into the Korea fight despite an acute moral problem at home.

If the Communists want an armistice, more Allied pressure will expedite settlement of terms. If the Communists are just biding time to strengthen their position, the present waste of Allied manpower and material plays right into their hands.

The Reds are masters of talk —only force convinces them.

Here in the United States, meanwhile, one may go for a whole day without hearing reference to the Korean War. But many you students will go to Korea on a one-way ticket. Many more of you will return maimed.

U.N. planes roar onward to North Korean targets. Millions of rounds of artillery shells pound the Chinese Reds north of the front. Infantrymen wield rifles, bayonets, grenades in bravery born of despair.

A single hilltop changes hands seven times at terrible cost.

The war goes on.

Riff . . . . by Joe Raff

I spent quite some time this summer traveling through New England and in those travels I came across some myths and truths which might be shared with you.

Speeding along the mile-a-minute highways from New York through Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire the countryside just screams of Robert Frost. "Good fences make good neighbors" can hardly be understood until you have seen the meadows patterned with gray stone, waist-high barriers the color of Harvard boy's trousers.

One misty afternoon was spent on a trip to Newport. This was a typical playing field of "The Great Gatsby" and Scott Fitzgerald would probably do a double-take at seeing the lush lands changed from the 20's about which he wrote.

The homes are the ultimate in beauty and wealth, but many of the pink palasos and white marble spires-to-plenty are closed down and boarded up because of taxes. Many of the estates can be bought for a song plus tax. O'Leary, a seventy-two-year old policeman who had protected Newport for thirty years, recalled with lament the party days and social life of some years past. One Newport resident owned a tremendous estate on which he couldn't afford to pay the taxes. This gent turned over his home to the Catholic church which made a school out of it and he lived nearby in a modest seven room house over looking his former back yard.

I ankled in historical meditation from the Synogogue in Newport (established 1658) over the shaded lane upon which Washington strode when walking to the Toro Cemetary—the same burial ground which Longfellow immortalized. I came with much reverence to the graves of those ancient people, but was disturbed by the bellowing voice of girl with a sailor who yelled to a friend two blocks away "How'd the Yankees do today?" (They won that day). Newport is a Navy town today.

One hundred-fifty horsepower hurdled us on a trip over the famous Boston Post Road. That was the path (now a highway) which Paul Revere took warning the middle-sex villages and towns.

I came across a few quaint customs too. At Brown University in Providence there are two large Spanish imported gates which open only twice a year—once to let freshmen in and again to let seniors out. The surest way to get the boot from Brown is to mess with their gates.

At Wellesley there is a beautifully symmetrical garden designed by a math professor whose love was thwarted for a president of Wellesley (the presidents there are always women). It is said that if a Wellesley girl walks her beau around the lake and this garden three times without a proposal she has a perfect right to push him in the drink. The flaw in this custom is that not enough young men know the story and often have their spirits dampened. When going with a Wellesley gal, remember men, that third trip around the lake may be your first up the river.

A Selection of
The Famous S & S Readers Editions
AT ONLY 48c (Regularly $1.00)
SALE STARTS SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4th
Stop in for a look after the game
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 East Franklin St. Open Evenings

Roe, Dodgers Whip Yankees, 5-3, To Take 2-1 Lead

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Kissin' Kin

NOW THAT OUR Consolidated cousins from Raleigh have agreed to take over our cancelled roles in Athens, Ga. this weekend, perhaps it would be best to take a look over toward Durham and see what the local football program has to offer. If both Duke and Tennessee live up to advance notices then their game today ought to de doozie.

It will be the only appearance of Tennessee this side of Gatlinburg this year and you can count on Duke Stadium being packed. Yesterday Duke publicists were figuring the crowd to run around 35,000 people, but I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see a few more than that packed in by 2:30 game time today.

One of the greatest drawing cards to the game is that it matches the two formations that have caused such controversial discussions in recent years—the single wing which Coach Bob Neyland has finagled so successfully and the T which has brought Duke's Bill Murray such early-season success this year. Both have undefeated records thus far—Duke in two games and the Vols in one.

Traveling Rabbits

THE MEN WHO are getting paid for it are picking the Volunteers but that's carrying little weight in Durham. Even money bets on the Devils seems to be floating all over the Chesterfield town with more than cigarette money to back the wagers. It looks to me, thought, that the even-money Duke bettors are going to be poorer than traveling rabbits come sundown today.

Tennessee had a rough opener last weekend in downing Mississippi State, 14-7, scoring in the final quarter to pull the game out. But the Vols always have trouble with the Staters and you can write that one off as a warmup. General Neyland has his boys well schooled in the rudiments of the game and his Tennessee teams have won a lot of games in the past just by knowing that much—to wit their 28-0 methodical victory over Carolina last year.

But even more than knowing the basic principles of the game, the Vols have some who know a darn sight more. Pat Shires, who sat out last season while Hank Lauricella and Herky Payne were running things, is reputed to be just as good as either one. Now that remains to be seen, but there's no doubt that he is good. Then there's Andy Kozar, Neyland's fullback. The contrast between him and the Blue Devils' Jack Kistler today should be interesting to see. Both are outstanding in their position with Kistler now ranking first in the Southern Conference and fourth in the nation in rushing offense.

Cats and Canaries

THE VOLS HAVE been famous for their ability in past years to pounce upon their opponents mistakes and convert them into touchdowns. With the line Neyland has this year, it looks as though they will play the same kind of football today. Doug Atkins, a pre-season All-America leads the Tennessee defensive unit which brought about the Volunteers' second and winning touchdown against Mississippi State last weekend by recovering a fumble deep in the State territory.

The offensive linei s headed by another All-America hopeful, John Michels, a man Neyland calls the best blocking guard he's ever coached—and the General has had some good ones.

The Blue Devils are a little better known to the local fans and, judging from the performances Duke has shown in its first two games, the Vols certainly won't have an easy time from them today.

Chase Lopat With 10 Hits For Victory

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

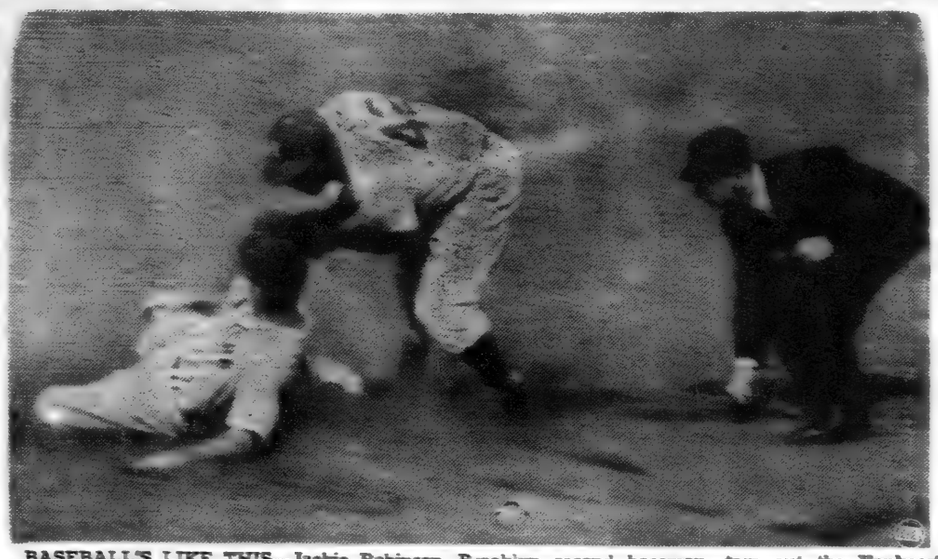
NEW YORK, Oct. 3—The Brooklyn Dodgers beat the New York Yankees, 5-3, today behind the effective, six-hit pitching of their lefthanded ace, Preacher Roe, to take a 2-1 game lead in the World Series.

Playing before a packed Yankee Stadium house of over 66,000 paid customers, the National League Champions banged out 11 hits off the combined pitches of Eddie Lopat and Tom Gorman to advance a game closer to their first World Championship. This is the Dodgers' sixth appearance in the fall classic, but they have yet to win.

Lopat Loses

A predominantly righthanded Dodger batting lineup played havoc with the deliveries of starting and losing hurler Lopat. The Yankee lefty gave up ten safeties over eight and one-third innings.

The Bums went into the eighth frame with a 3-1 advantage. Yogi Berra then added a little spark to the Yankee's hopes by pounding one of the Preacher's tosses into the rightfield stands for a roundtripper. Hank Bauer placed a lump in the Dodgers' throats as he followed by sending the ball into the leftfield stands, foul. Roe managed to escape further damage.



With Lopat still on the mound in the top of the ninth, Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's leading offensive weapons in the Series, put singles back to back after one out. A double steal put both runners in scoring position, but Roy Campanella's short fly to Yank shortstop Phil Rizzuto caused the two-out sign to be flashed on the scoreboard, and it looked as if the Bronx Bombers were out of trouble.

Uncorks Pitch

Gorman, who had replaced Lopat after Robinson's bingle, then uncorked a pitch that got by Berra, and both Dodger fleetmen raced across the plate with the clinching runs.

Johnny Mize added more excitement to the game by blasting a pinch-hit homerun in the bottom of the ninth. It was his first roundtripper in a Series and only the second pinch fourbagger in World Series history. Berra got the other against this same Brooklyn team in 1947.

The Brooks win cast an entirely different light on the championship subject than what was anticipated by pre-game experts.

BASEBALL'S LIKE THIS—Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn second baseman, tags out the Yankees' Hank Bauer on an attempted steal in the first inning of the second game, of the World Series played Thursday at Ebbets Field. The umpire is Bill McKinley. New York went on to win the game, 7-1, and tie the series at one game apiece, however.—NEA Telephoto.

BASEBALL'S NOT like this—Marine captain Ted Williams former Red Sox slugger and now a jet pilot, prepares to board his plane in Miami, headed for maneuvers in Puerto Rico. He expects to be assigned to combat duty later this year. —NEA Telephoto.

N.C. State Takes Carolina's Place In Game With Georgia

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

RALEIGH, Oct. 3—The North Carolina State College Athletic Council announced today that the State football team will go to Athens, Ga. tomorrow to take the place of Carolina in the Georgia-Carolina game.

Carolina canceled the game Wednesday after a member of the football team contracted polio, the fourth student to do so in three weeks.

State has postponed its scheduled game with Davidson tomorrow night until next Saturday. Davidson had an open date, and Carolina canceled Saturday's game with State, thus opening the date for the Wolfpack.

In Chapel Hill Carolina Athletic director Chuck Erickson was highly pleased that the arrangements had been made. "The game will be a good thing for both teams," said Erickson. "Georgia has only three home games, and the cancelation has messed up thei rseason ticket plans. They, of course, had made all arrangements for a football game down there.

"State has remained about the same," Erickson continued. "It had two games scheduled, and is still playing two games, with Georgia taking Carolina's place. Carolina and Georgia have built up an excellent series, but I'm sure State will make a good showing.

"Right now we're looking into the possibility of re-scheduling State, but it depends on a lot of things, mostly the situation here."

Deacs, Eagles Play Tonight At Winston

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 3—Offense is expected to predominate over defense here in Bowman Gray Memorial Stadium tomorrow night when Wake Forest and Boston College meet in a top-ranking intersectional attraction at 8:15 o'clock.

The two husky squads took their final workouts this afternoon and were pronounced in fine physical condition for the ninth battle between these two institutions. Leading four to three in victories with one game ending in a tie, the Eagles will be trying to move up another notch in the win column. On the other hand, the spirited Wake Forest squad will be doing its utmost to even the series.

Exceptional Passer

Two high-powered offenses will be pitted against each other in what has all the earmarks of a fast, wide-open, and exciting contest. The starting Eagle backfield of Jimmy Kane, Joe Johnson, Dan Brosnahan and John McCauley is one of the fastest quartets in the East. Kane is also an exceptional passer and last fall as a freshman completed 51 of 118 aerials for 764 yards and seven touchdowns. He should give the Wake Forest secondary one of its toughest assignments of the fall.

We Welcome —
Mr. Allen White
Formerly with Tar Heel Barber Shop
To Our Staff of Capable Barbers . . .
UNIVERSITY BARBER SHOP

Duke Takes Winning Streak Into Game With Tennessee

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

DURHAM, Oct. 3—The undefeated Duke Blue Devils meet the undefeated Tennessee Vols here tomorrow in Duke Stadium in the outstanding football game in the Southh.

The game will feature Tennessee coach Bob Neyland's single wing against Duke coach Bill Murray's split-T. The Volunteers will be slight favorites when the two teams take the field at 2:30 tomorrow.

Looked Ragged

Duke looked ragged in its opener two weeks ago against an outclassed Washington and Lee team, and the Blue Devils romped, 34-0. Last week against Southern Methodist, Duke proved it had what it takes in the clutches by scoring a touchdown in the last few seconds of both halves to win, 14-7.

Tennessee was pressed to the limit last week in its opener, scoring in the last quarter to defeat Mississippi State, 14-7. The Volunteers should be just about hitting its stride against Duke, while the Blue Devils are just about at their peak.

Leading Duke from the quarterback spot is sophomore sensation Worth Lutz, who has completed eight of 10 passes for 90 yards and three touchhdowns. Lutz passed for both of the Duke scores against SMU, and end Howard Pitt was his receiver. Pitt has caught one other touchdown pass.

Andy Kozar will lead the Tennessee attack from his fullback post. Kozar is in his third year as a starter, and is a pre-season All-America. On the line, the Vols have John Michels, practically a unanimous choice for All-America this year, and a member of quite a few last year.

Smith and Kistler

Duke will depend on halfbacks Charlie and Red Smith, and fullback Jack Kistler for its running game. Kistler is the leading runner, with 225 yards in two games. The Duke forward wall is led by tackle Ray Green and center Lou Tepe, the captain. The Duke defensive line is marked by two of the best tacklers in the Conference, Ed Meadows and Tank Lawrence.

The Tennessee tailback is experienced Pat Shires, who was held out last year since the Vols had All-America Hank Lauricella. Other Vol standouts are Captain and right tackle Jim Haslam, and guards Andy Myers and Francis Holohan.

Top Coverage For Devil-Vol Clash Expected

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

DURHAM, Oct. 3—Thousands and thousands of words will be spoken and written about the Duke-Tennessee game in Duke Stadium tomorrow.

Newspapermen from all North Carolina cities and many other sections of the south will be on hand. Out-of-state writers will be here from Knoxville, Nashville, Atlanta, Birmingham, Richmond, Norfolk, Roanoke and Bristol.

Three networks will do the broadcasting. The Columbia Broadcasting System will take a round-up report on the contest with Bill Munday, of Atlanta, one of the famous play-by-play announcers and conier of many football broadcasting phrases, at the mike.

Add Penfield, of Radio Sation WBIG, Greensboro, will do the game for the Duke network, with Woody Woodhouse, of WDNC, Durham, doing the color.

George Mooney, of Station WMC, Memphis, will handle the mike for the Vol Network which will feed the game to many stations in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Three newsreel concerns will photograph the game with movie cameras.

Sports In Brief

Giants Sell Ex-Tar Heel

It was announced in New York yesterday that Vinnie DeLorenzo, former UNC pitching great, has been sold outright to Jacksonville of the Sally League by the New York Giants.

★

Carl Erskine, losing Dodger pitcher in Thursday's Series game with the Yankees, suffered slight head injuries and an aggravation of an old leg injury when he fell from a ladder before the game. However, Erskine insisted that the fall had nothing to do with his ineptness on the mound Thursday.

★

An estimated crowd of between 60 and 100,000 greeted the newly crowned heavyweight boxing champion 'Rocky Marcinano,' today in his home town of Brockton, Mass. He was presented with the key to the city by the mayor and a new Cadillac automobile by some of his friends.

★

Kid Gavilan fought Billy Graham last night in a grudge bout which decided the welterweight champion of the world. Graham was the challenger and he was still carrying a grudge over the decision in the last match between these two which he thought should have been in his favor. This was the fourth fight between the two and was held in Gavilan's native Havana, Cuba.

★

Casey Stengel isn't talking. When asked about his plans for 1953, the 63-year old manager, who has guided the New York Yankees to three consecutive World Championships, said, "If you don't win, maybe you don't rate your job." He was referring to the current World Series.

STUDENTS!
Make $25.00
189 AWARDS LAST YEAR!
Write a Lucky Strike jingle!
No box tops! NO ENTRY BLANKS! It's easy!
Just write a 4-line jingle based on the fact that LUCKIES ARE MADE BETTER TO TASTE BETTER!*

I've heard the same in every class—
In history, psych, and ec—
For cleaner, fresher, smoother smokes
It's Lucky Strike, by heck!

I like a better-tasting smoke
And mildness counts with me.
So when I buy I keep in mind
That L.S./M.F.T.!

Here's your chance to make yourself $25. Just write a 4-line Lucky Strike jingle, based on the fact that Luckies are made better to taste better.*
Then, if we select your jingle, we'll pay you for the right to use it, together with your name, in Lucky Strike advertising . . . probably in this paper.
Read the sample jingles on this page. Then get the gang together, break out the rhyming dictionary, and start writing. It's fun! And we're buying jingles by the bushel!
Hint—if you can sing your jingle, it's a good one!
Hint—the more jingles you write, the more money you have a chance of making.
Hint—be sure to read all the instructions!

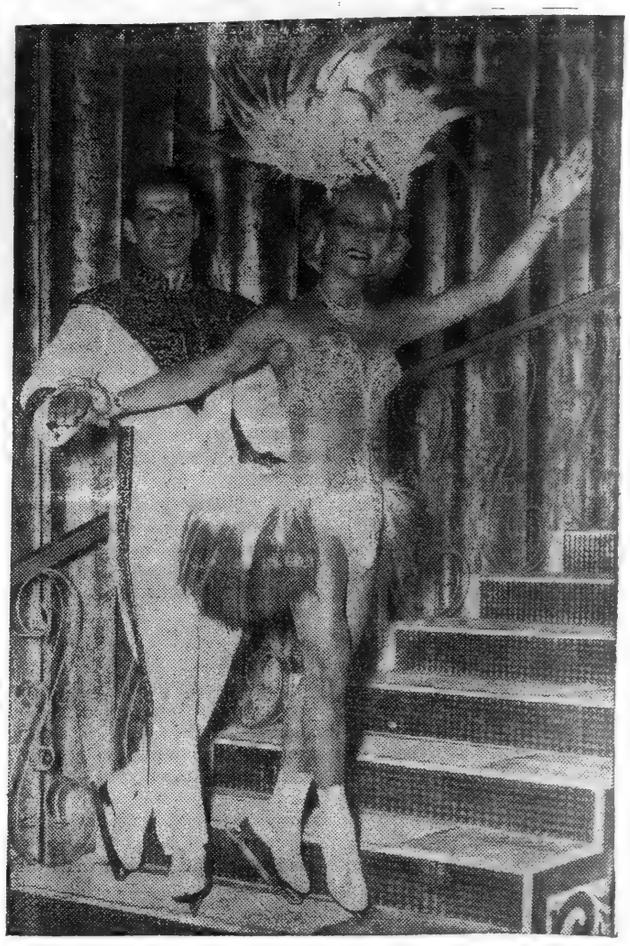
HERE ARE THE INSTRUCTIONS
1. Write your Lucky Strike jingle on a plain piece of paper or post card and send it to Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure that your name, address, college and class are included—and that they are legible.
2. Base your jingle on any qualities of Luckies. "Luckies are made better to taste better," is only one. (See "Tips to money-makers.")
3. Every student of any college, university or post-graduate school may submit jingles.
4. You may submit as many jingles as you like. Remember, you are eligible to win more than one $25 award.

*TIPS TO MONEY-MAKERS
To write a winning Lucky Strike jingle, you're not limited to "Luckies are made better to taste better." Use any other sales points on Lucky Strike such as the following:
L.S./M.F.T.
Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco
Luckies' cigarette-tearing demonstration
Luckies taste cleaner, fresher, smoother
Be Happy—Go Lucky
So round, so firm, so fully packed
So free and easy on the draw
Buy Luckies by the carton
Luckies give you deep-down smoking enjoyment

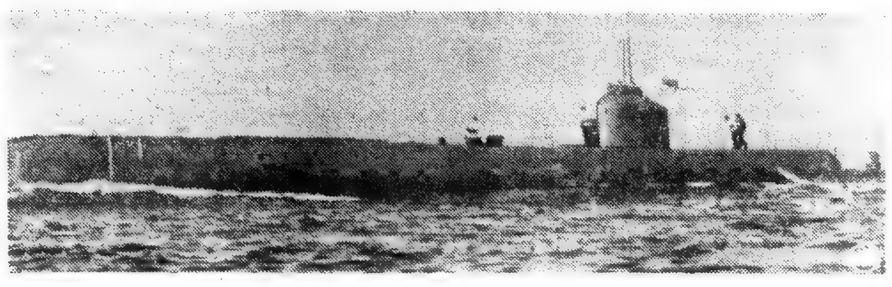
COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY



The Daily Tar Heel News Review In Pictures

THE GENERAL AND THE Mrs. wave to the voters from the rear of their campaign train on its recent tour through the state.

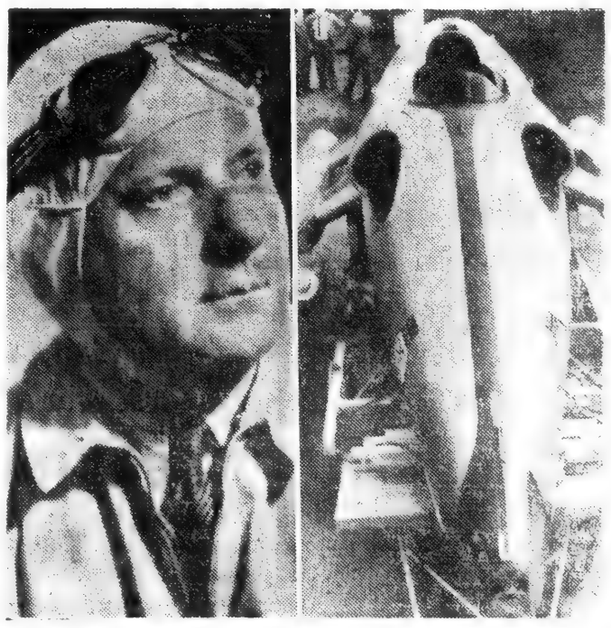
POSING ON THE PORCH OF THE Pi Beta Phi Sorority house, these [illegible] work that's fun. Getting the house ready for the year's rush of parties are left to right, Alice Hazlett, Bish Fox, Virginia Hall, Patsy Jones, Sue Ambler, Carman Nahm and Sarah Rose.
—Photo by Roland Giduz



SONJA HENIE AND HER new leading man, Marshall Beard, will open Monday, October 20, at the Coliseum in Raleigh. The Sonja Henie Ice Revue of 1953 will continue through Saturday, October 25, with shows at 8:30 each night and matinees at 2:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Tickets may be bought at the Coliseum box office.

GOV. ADLAI Stevenson (right), is shown on a morning stroll with Congressman Harold D. Cooley (D-N. C.), chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, who was in Springfield to confer with Stevenson on farm matters.—NEA Telephoto

THIS HASN'T got much to do with politics, the subject of the hour, but Trudy Golden says after her 35-floor climb, "Oh, my aching feet." Elevator operators in 123 Chicago buildings struck and sent Miss Golden upward by foot.
—NEA Telephoto.



THE FRENCH NAVY FOUND its missing 1,000-ton submarine La Sibylle, and announced all hope abondoned for its 48 crew members. The vessel apparently burst under pressure when it sank to the sea floor. Pictured is a sister sub.—NEA Telephoto.

MARCELLA HARRER
. . . Women's Personnel Adviser

KATHERINE ADAMS
. . . Miss Harrer's Assistant

THE JET-PROPELLED SPEEDBOAT "Crusader" (right) blew to pieces in a cloud of smoke and spray and carried John Cobb, known as the "fastest man on earth," to his death. Cobb was out to break the world hydroplane speed record and was traveling at about 200 miles-per hour on Loch Ness in Scotland, when the boat disintergrated.—NEA Telephoto.

BY AN ODD ACCIDENT due to two students not reporting at Harvard University, the Stevenson's and the Roosevelt's became roommates for the duration of their learning days at Harvard. Both sophomores, Borden Stevenson, 20, (left) son of the Democratic presidential nominee, and William D. Roosevelt, 20, grandson of the late FDR, are shown in their room. —NEA Telephoto

Send The Daily Tar Heel Home To Your Family

Last Times Today "HORIZON WEST" in Technicolor—Starring Robert Ryan

LATE SHOW
T-O-N-I-T-E 11:15
Varsity

JOSEPH KAUFMAN presents
Joan Crawford
in Sudden Fear!
with
JACK PALANCE • GLORIA GRAHAME • BRUCE BENNETT
VIRGINIA HUSTON • TOUCH CONNORS
Produced by JOSEPH KAUFMAN • Directed by DAVID MILLER
Screenplay by LENORE COFFEE and ROBERT SMITH
Based on Edna Sherry's Story, "Sudden Fear"

A NEW HIGH IN SUSPENSE MELODRAMA!

Dry Cleaning
KEEPS YOU BETTER
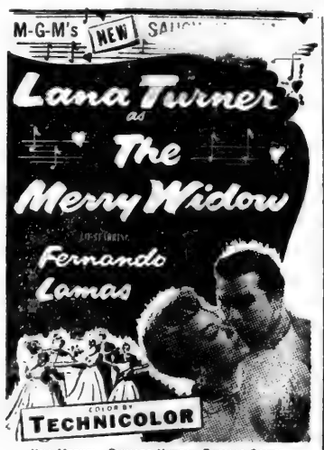
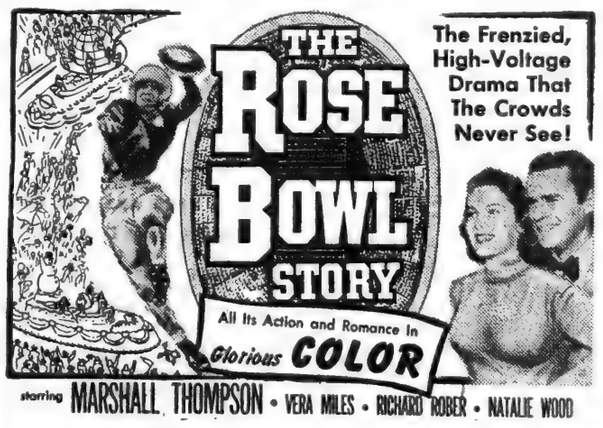
Groomed



Clothes soiled looking and out of shape? Let our skilled workers restore their color and fit. Regular dry cleaning insures a ready supply of immaculate clothes. See us now!

WE HELP YOU WITH EXPERT
★ TRUE-COLOR DYEING

UNIVERSITY CLEANERS
across from Post Office Phone 4921



M-G-M's NEW

with UNA MERKEL • RICHARD HAYDN • THOMAS GOMEZ

LATE SHOW TONIGHT
SUNDAY — MONDAY
Carolina
—Coming—
"TALES OF HOFFMANN"

WELCOME
FACULTY and STUDENTS
SAVE
CLOTHES — MONEY — TIME
Village Self Service Laundry
402 WEST FRANKLIN
—BRING YOUR ENTIRE WASH TO US—

starring MARSHALL THOMPSON • VERA MILES • RICHARD ROBER • NATALIE WOOD

NOW PLAYING
Carolina
—Also—
CARTOON—NOVELTY
—Coming—
"TALES OF HOFFMAN"

U H C LITERARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Continued mild today with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 70; low, 47.

The Daily Tar Heel

NEWS
Your church and its activities. See page 4.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 11 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Rocket Trip To Mars Via Planetarium

A new adventure in space travel, "By Rocket to Mars," will open at Morehead Planetarium Tuesday night at 8:30.

The new production takes visitors on a simulated journey of nearly 100 million miles to the most mysterious of all known planets, Mars.

"Flights will leave the Planetarium at 8:30 every evening and in the afternoons on Saturdays at 3 o'clock and 4 o'clock, and on Sundays at 2 o'clock, 3 p.m. and 4 o'clock through November 10," Manager A. Jenzano said yesterday.

"Advance passenger reservations for all flights are available," Jenzano said. "The passenger rates will be 50 cents for adults and 18 cents for children to 12 years of age."

Tomorrow night, the final showing of "Flying Saucers" will be given. The presentation also will be presented this afternoon at 2 o'clock, 3 p.m., 4 o'clock and 8:30 p.m.

Two Students Win Honors In Selling

Two Carolina students have received bonus checks for successfully completing Vick Chemical Company's first 12-week summer sales program for college undergraduates. They are David C. Edens of Lumberton and James G. Lindley of Greensboro.

Edens and Lindley, along with nine other participants, were selected from a group of more than 200 students representing 12 eastern and southern schools.

The young men spent the first week attending meetings in Richmond where they underwent an accelerated indoctrination program that included company operating procedures. They spent the following 11 weeks on the road, learning sales techniques by selling.

During the 12-week program the undergraduates, three sophomores and eight juniors, received a straight salary, commission and full expense account. They obtained their jobs through the Placement Service, 207 South Building.

Newman And Alden To Give Recital Series

William S. Newman, pianist, and Edgar Alden, violinist, members of the faculty of the University Music Department, will give a recital at Meredith College in Raleigh Tuesday, October 21, as one of a series between October 15 and November 30.

Their appearances will be scheduled in various parts of the State under the sponsorship of the Music Department and the University Extension Division.

Professors Newman and Alden will present a program including Sonata in E flat Major by Mozart, Sonata in G Major, Opus 78, Brahms; and Sonata No. 3, Bohuslav Martinu.

Professor Newman is author of "The Pianist's Problems," "Keyboard Sonatas by the Sons of Bach," "Understanding Music," and a number of other publications.

Wednesday

Wednesday is the last day for sophomores to have their pictures taken for the Yackety Yack.

There is no charge and the sitting takes only a few minutes. Boys should wear coats, ties and white shirts, and girls should wear white blouses. Picture-snapping resumes tomorrow in the basement of Graham Memorial. The hours are from 2 p.m. until 9 o'clock.

EVERYBODY RAISED WHOPEE IN HOLLYWOOD when ex-actress Marion Davies threw a hilarious party in her Beverly Hills home for Johnny ("Cry") Ray. Some 1,000 attended the party, considered one of the largest ever thrown in extravagant Hollywood. Miss Davies, who had never meet the howling Johnny until the party, spent approximately $30,000 on the fabulous affair, she said. In the picture at left, TV actress Rowena McNamara pours champaign from her shoe a few minutes before she fell into a pool and was rescued by a newman. At right, Broadway actress Joan Diener cools her feet in a pool. Why, Miss Davies was asked, did she want such a party? "I wanted to have some more fun before I die."—NEA Telephoto.

SUAB Names Committees, Sets Meets

The Student Union Activities Board held its second meeting of the year Thursday afternoon in the Roland Parker Lounge.

All interested students were acquainted with the various campus committees and their functions. Ken Penegar, president, opened the meeting with a brief history of SUAB. Director of the union, Bill Roth, then enumerated the committees and their specific duties.

The co-ordinating committee is composed of the presidents of heads of each important organization on campus. Working with them is the calendar committee, Harry Phillips, chairman, which schedules activities and eliminates conflicts. The student-faculty committee, Mary Brown, chairman, arranges teas and other get-togethers to encourage better relations between students and faculty.

For publicizing SUAB activities is the public relations committee, Anita Anderson, chairman. Any tournaments, such as bridge, chess, and the like in which students wish to participate, are arranged by the tournament committee, Don Geiger, chairman.

The film committee, Jody Levey, chairman, is a new committee which will sponsor the showing of outstanding foreign films on campus. The forum committee, Henry Lowet, chairman, has the purpose of selecting professors to lead discussions on various topics of interest.

The office committee, Joel Fleishman and Joyce Doughty, co-chairmen, takes care of the business end of SUAB. The reception committee, Wanda Philpott, chairman, helps with such entertainment as the Chancellor's reception and those held for visiting dignitaries. The special services committee, Ann Bell, chairman, handles miscellaneous details.

At the suggestion of a group of freshman boys who wished to learn to dance, the dance committee was initiated. This group will meet with an instructor on Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock. The display committee takes care of exhibitions, and the outings committee plans organized trips for interested parties.

Roth stressed the fact that these are student-created, student-executed activities, open to everyone.

The new members were asked to fill out committee preference questionaires and to have a brief meeting with the committee of their choice. As a result of the Thursday's meeting, the following committee appointments were made:

Calendar: Dottie Law, and Nancy Murray; Dance, Dan Luke, Tom Watts, Lane Buckley and Bernie Hileman; Special Services, Anne Bell, Bill Warwick, Robert Quinn and John White; Public Relations, Anita Anderson, Dottie Law and Henry Cheney;

(See SUAB, page 4)

WSSF's Leon Marion To Speak Here Today

Leon Marion, a traveling speaker for the World Student Service Fund, will be on campus for several days beginning today to discuss WSSF with Carolina students.

This afternoon from 3 until 4:30 he will meet with the local WSSF at the Y. Attention is called to the time change of the meeting which originally had been set for 1:30. Immediately after this meeting at the Y, Marion will go and speak to the Cosmopolitan Club.

At 6 p.m. he will speak to a campus church group.

Tomorrow night he will make a brief talk to the Freshman Friendship Council at its meeting in Lenoir Hall. At 7:30 tomorrow, he will address the YMCA Cabinet meeting.

Tuesday, Marion will speak at the YMCA's world understanding supper forum. His topic will be "Student Relief Needs Around the World." At 8:30 that night he will speak to a general meeting of the YMCA following Y committee meetings.

Marion served 32 months in the Navy in World War II, 23 of which were spent in submarine service.

During the Russian blockade of Berlin in the summer of 1948, Marion with eight other students made up the only American student group allowed to fly to the blockaded city. In Berlin the team worked with groups in work camps, retreats and conferences.

Something New In Education

Year Of College Might Cost Fifty Dollars By State Plan

The next state Legislature may be asked to expand North Carolina's public school system by establishing community colleges to give two years of training beyond high school.

A 22 member committee, headed by Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt of Chapel Hill already has turned blueprints over to the State Board of Education. The board is expected to decide soon whether to ask the Legislature to activate the plan.

The community colleges would be equal to junior colleges, but would serve the entire community. They would offer two years of preparatory work for college or professional training, vocational and technical "terminal courses" to fit high school graduates for immediate employment, adult education programs, and training for persons already employed.

The colleges would be tuition-free as nearly as possible —not more than $40 a year— in order to remove the economic barriers which stand between many high school graduates and further schooling, the committee said.

The committee emphatically was decided that "local control is essential to the maintenance of local interest, and the shaping of the curriculum to local needs."

After a thorough study, the committee estimated that a minimum of $400 for each student in average daily attendance should be available for operational costs. It recommended that the student himself should pay not more than $50 per year, with state and local governments chipping in the remainder—$175 each per student. The remaining costs would have to be obtained in the form of taxes on local sources.

The committee studied the Goldsboro area as a typical section where a community college might be established. However, it suggested no specific sites for colleges.

Club To Hear Dr. R. A. Pratt

The Philogical Club will meet in the Faculty Lounge of the Morehead Building Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Prof. Robert A. Pratt of the English Department will deliver a paper entitled "The Antifeminist Tradition Dramatized by Chaucer."

Professor Pratt, who holds a Ph.D. from Yale, was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1946-47 to do research work on the learning of Chaucer. Before joining the English Department here in September of 1951, he taught at the University of Rochester and at Queens College in New York. He has published many articles on Chaucer and medieval education.

The Philological Club officers for this year are—B. L. Ullman, president; F. E. Coenen, vice-president; E. H. Hartsell, secretary and J. R. Gaskin, treasurer.

IKE, SAID WHISTLE-STOP Harry, was just telling a "damn lie" when he talked of hefty cuts in income tax. The President is shown during a speech in Washington state when he cut loose at the GOP nominee. Truman spoke before some 5,000 people at this stop before continuing on into California. Democratic Senator Warren C. Magnuson applauds jubilantly in the photo at right. —NEA Telephoto.

No Later

Possibility Of New Tilt For Dec. 6

Carolina may schedule a football game for December 6 to replace the canceled UNC-NC State game, officials said yesterday.

Efforts are being made toward this goal with several schools being considered for the replacement. Names of these schools are not yet available for publication.

By a Southern Conference ruling against post-season games, the weekend of the sixth is the latest date on which a conference member may play.

Following a conference participated in by several administrative officials, including President Gordon Gray, Chancellor Robert House and athletic officials. Chancellor House issued the following statement:

"In response to numerous inquiries from throughout the state, I think it desirable to describe the football situation as we see it.

"We are deeply concerned about our obligation to the thousands of citizens who have already purchased tickets for the game with State College, which we were forced to cancel. We are, therefore, exploring every possibility for ticket holders to use their tickets, if they so desire, at a game which might be scheduled on December 6.

"It is impossible at this time to know what arrangements can be made.

"If a replacement game is not scheduled, ticket holders will be entitled to refunds. We have had many suggestions from throughout the state that unredeemed proceeds from the sale of tickets be used in the fight against polio. Should ticket holders wish to participate in this way, we would take every step to cooperate."

Enrollment 5,352 For Start Of Year

Student Drop From Last Fall Is 551; Coed Total Down From 942 To 887

University enrollment for the fall quarter is at the lowest point in recent years—5,352—according to figures released yesterday by the Central Records Office.

This indicates a drop of 551 from last fall's 5,803 total. The largest number of students are enrolled in the General College. This figure is set at 2,165.

Coed enrollment is down to 887 from last fall's female population of 942.

A grand total of 5,474 was submitted to the Chancellor's office. However, this represents the number of students registered for school and does not include 122 cancellations.

A healthy 4,222 or over four out of five students this fall are North Carolina residents. Next state in quantity of representation is Virginia with 155. Sixty-eight international students are enrolled.

Male GI Bill veterans number 630. There are 28 female veterans on the Bill.

Reports Due SP Tomorrow On Two Items

The Student Party will meet tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Roland Parker lounges of Graham Memorial.

The agenda includes two reports. Floor leader Julian Mason will give a report on the Legislature, and Ken Barton, SP chairman, will report on the National Student Association Congress held this summer at Bloomington, Ind.

Although actual nominations will not be made until the following week, forthcoming elections will be discussed. A representative for Dorm Men's II will be elected to fill the unexpired term of Jim Rollins. A short discussion period and refreshments will follow the business meeting.

Tom Neal Jr. Named Editor By Inter-Faith

Tom Neal Jr. of Greensboro unanimously was elected Religious News Editor for the U.N.C. Inter-Faith council by an executive board and by the council at separate meetings this week.

Neal came to the University School of Journalism as a transfer student from Brevard College where he edited the bi-weekly student newspaper organ, the Clarion, and where he was student director of the college news bureau. At Greensboro, Neal headed the Greensboro High School bi-weekly, High Life, and wrote a daily column for the Greensboro Record. For the past three summer he has served the Transylvania Music Camp in Brevard as a member of the news bureau there.

According to Jim Haney, president of the campus Inter-Faith group, Neal's chief responsibility will be in public relations for the council, particularly the editing of religious news for The Daily Tar Heel to appear once a week.

Second Change In Coed Rush Times

A revamped revamped coed rush schedule was put out yesterday. It was the second revision of the original one.

It follows: Today, four 45 minute parties from 7 p.m. to 10:45; Tomorrow, day of rest; Tuesday, three 45 minute parties from 6 o'clock to 8:45; Wednesday, dinner party from 6 p. m. to 8 o'clock; Thursday, dinner party from 6 p.m. to 8 o'clock.

The Panhellenic post office will be open Tuesday from 10 a. m. until 2 p.m. and Wednesday at the same hours.

Grid Scores

Duke	7	Tennessee	0
Navy	31	Cornell	7
Maryland	28	Clemson	0
Pennsylvania	7	Dartmouth	0
Columbia	16	Harvard	7
Perdue	21	Ohio State	14
Northwestern	20	Vanderbuilt	20
Indiana	20	Iowa	13
Princeton	61	Rutgers	19
Georgia	49	N. C. State	0
Pennsylvania State	35	W & M	23
Holy Cross	12	Fordham	7
South Carolina	27	Furman	7
Virginia	42	VPI	7
Maine	14	Vermont	6
Wake Forest	7 (tie)	Boston Col.	7
Notre Dame	14	Texas	3

NEWS IN BRIEF

RALEIGH — North Carolina Democrats who waiver in their support of Adlai Stevenson had a warning yesterday that they are "going down a dark alley." Doing the warning was Gov. W. Kerr Scott who said at a press conference that no man who supported Republican Herbert Hoover in the 1928 campaign has gained political prominence in the state.

★

SYDNEY, Australia—An Australian physicist who saw Britain's first atomic explosion from a vantage point 56 miles away, yesterday said the blast could have been from a type of hydrogen bomb. The observer said the color of the flash and its size differed materially from those of the atom blasts he had seen.

★

SAN FRANCISCO — President Truman yesterday shrugged off Republican criticism that his attacks on General Eisenhower are beneath the dignity of the president. An aide interpreted the Republican squawk as a sign that Truman is getting under the GOP's political skin—"just what we want."

★

MOSCOW—The Soviet Communist party will meet today for the first time in 13 years to revise its constitution and ratify a new five-year plan. Some 1,500 delegates from all over the Soviet Union and 500 or more prominent foreign Communists will gather in the marble-walled grand hall of the Supreme Soviet.

★

LONDON—Sir Roger Makins, 48-year-old career diplomat and son-in-law of the late U. S. Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, has been named British ambassador to the United States to succeed Sir Oliver Franks. Makins, a top economics expert, has served twice previously in Washington diplomatic posts. Franks, a former Oxford University professor who has held the ambassadorship since 1948, plans to return to academic life. A Foreign Office spokesman said the new U. S. ambassador will take over his post in late December or early January.

Just Rumor

Dr. David Garvin, district health officer, squelched a rumor yesterday.

Dr. Garvin said reports circulating that a cook at the Monogram Club had polio were not true. He said the cook had been examined by doctors and was first treated for his illness on September 15.

"Of course," Dr. Garvin said, "every diagnosis now considers polio. This cook, however, does not have it."

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Managing Editor Emeritus ..... LT. CHUCK HAUSER
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher

News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Ruth Hincks, Jerry Reece, Allen Savitz, Tom Parramore, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dick Wallace, Tony Burke, Ed Yoder, Alice Chapman, Susan Fink, Tish Rodman, Jennie Lynn.
Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.
Advertising Staff—Ned Beeker, Johnny Williams, Donald Christopher.
Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.
Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

No Money, No Funny

Well, you asked for it, and you got it—the rebirth of Tarnation. But you haven't done anything about it.

About half of the student body has traded a dollar for a mint of laughs—the rest of you have laughed it off, forgotten it, repressed it, ignored the Tarnation subscription drive completely.

Well, make up your mind. Do you want a humor magazine or don't you?

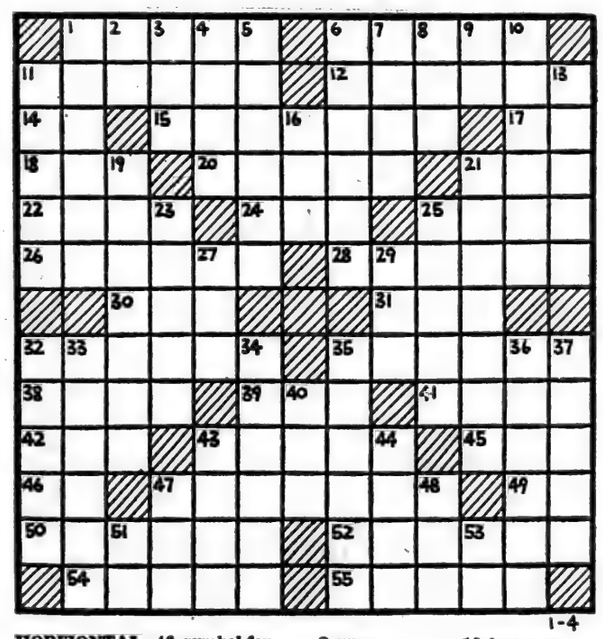
The staff has promised four issues this year, and they're going to see it through even if they have to handprint with grape juice on the back of used postage stamps.

This is one time the humor mag is dead serious. They're not kidding. No joke. The situation is no laughing matter.

Give them your dollar and you'll get double your money back.

No Pix, No Kicks

Man is basically an irrational being. How do we know? Consider the perennial enigma of the Yackety Yack.



Every fall the editors of our annual hire photographers to come to Graham Memorial and take pictures of every student for publication in the spring edition of the yearbook. They draw posters announcing photo schedules for each class. They print notices in THE DAILY TAR HEEL, circulate handbills, and run screaming through the quads so every student will be made aware that it's "now or never" if he cares to be pictured among those in attendance at the University ofNorth Carolina.

So what happens? Yack editor Hugh Gale says, "Our pleas for students to drop by and pose seem to be the signal for everybody to steer clear of the basement of Graham Memorial You'd think I had a leprosy sign on my chest."

Then midway through the spring quarter the elegant, bound volumns roll off the presses with only a pitiful percentage of the student body shown smiling from the glossy pages. Hundreds of indignant students then echo their protests that they were categorically ignored by the Yackety Yack because of their grades, their fraternity, their political affiliation, or their family background.

If you ask one of the slighted students why he didn't allot ten minutes of the fall quarter to ensure his appearance in the Yack he will swear that nobody told him—or nobody told him the exact time—or nobody told him it was the last chance.

Hugh Gale plans to sleep well, eat heartily, and graduate on schedule whether anybody files for Yack photos or not. If you wish to be included in the 1952-53 annual, conform with the notices appearing regularly on the front page of this newspaper. If not, please remember that we tried everything short of a court subpoena to get you before the cameras and be sure to hold your fire when May rolls around.

HORIZONTAL
1. U. N. battleground
6. catkin
11. ore diggers
12. much esteemed
14. printer's measure
15. rags
17. senior (abbr.)
18. annex
20. forecasters
21. summer (Fr.)
22. Roman emperor
24. rodent
25. the birds
26. walks
28. cuts
30. mountain aborigine
31. disfigure
32. laughing
35. U. S. general
38. solar disk
39. our country (abbr.)
41. web-like membrane
42. married
43. encroach
45. split pulse
46. symbol for erbium
47. legislator
49. symbol for tellurium
50. crumple
52. evades
54. American psychiatrist
55. turbine wheel

VERTICAL
1. more humane
2. upon
3. steep flax
4. epochs
5. fall flowers
6. wards off
7. god of war
8. street railways (abbr.)
9. Greek letter
10. bed canopy
11. intended
13. attire
16. beverage
19. anticipated with horror
21. turned inside out
23. made of oats
25. nautical command
27. continuous loud noise
29. Australian ostrich
32. more inexperienced
33. once more
34. English painter
35. cruet for condiments
36. click beetle
37. harsh respiratory sounds
40. ocean
43. Polynesian goddess
44. operate alone
47. scout
48. routine
51. personal pronoun
53. execute

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

D	A	M	O	N		S	C	R	A	P	E	S
E	V	A	D	E		T	R	I	D	E	N	T
G	O	R	E	S		R	O	S	E	A	T	E
R	I	G		S	P	I	N	E		L	E	E
A	D	A	M		A	P	E		H	E	R	D
D	E	T	E	N	T		S	E	E
E	D	E	M	A				T	A	R	T	S
			O	P	T		C	A	V	E	A	T
A	V	A	S		R	A	H		E	T	N	A
N	E	D		H	A	M	A	N		R	A	G
G	R	E	N	A	D	E		I	M	A	G	E
E	N	L	I	V	E	N		L	A	C	E	R
R	E	A	P	E	R	S		E	W	E	R	S

1-4

Average time of solution: 22 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Drive Carefully

Tractors are involved in over half of the farm machinery accidents, according to the National Safety Council. The principal causes involve falling from, or being thrown off the tractor, overturning, unguarded power takeoff shafts and violation of traffic rules when operating on the highway.

The National Safety Council points out that safe operation of the 3 million tractors now used by farms could save hundreds of lives and thousands of serious injuries annually.

You cannot afford to gamble the loss of a limb or life by operating without the power takeoff shield in place. Carelessness in handling tractors around ditches can start a trip to the hospital. Jumping off a tractor or making adjustments while in motion is another way to invite an accident. You can easily lose a child by permitting children to operate or hitch a ride on tractors.

Never refuel a tractor while the motor is running or extremely hot. Avoid leaky fuel lines and accumulations of combustible materials near hot manifolds or exhausts. Store tractor fuels safely and always have a fire extinguisher available for an accidental fire.

When operating on the highway, always obey traffic rules and avoid excessive speeds. Stop before entering main highways and use a red flag high up on the tractor to warn motorists of slow moving equipment. Use headlights and taillights after dark.

Bob Thomason — CPU Roundtable

Ever since Adam and Eve were thrown out of the Garden of Eden by God, men have been beset by this problem of getting along with others. The solutions which have been partially attempted range all the way from genocide to loving one another, but for all practical purposes the problem is still with us. Probably its significance would still be one of academic abstraction if men hadn't achieved a dangerous balance between destruction and creation. Now we are beginning to ask not only with our minds but with our whole selves, "What is the answer? Can man get along with his fellow man the world over?"

This Sunday night at 8 p.m. in the Grail Room, the Carolina Political Union plans to discuss a prevalent proposal—passivism. This term may be divided into two parts—the passive passivists and the active passivists. An example of the former was Gandhi's passive resistance movement in India; of the latter—the American Friends Society work in providing concrete assistance to the needy.

One interesting approach is to study the results of past wars. One probably valid generalization is that wars that end in negotiated treaties, in which neither side is a victor, usually produce longer periods of peace than wars that end in one sided treaties. The U.S. hasn't had a war with Britain since the War of 1812, but only twenty years elapsed between the Treaty of Versailles and Germany's march into Poland. Another approach, usually baffling, is to try to find the causes of wars. For instance, the extension of slavery is often given as one of the causes of the American Civil War, but practically speaking slavery had reached its economically feasible boundaries and so however much men might argue about free or slave territories, the climate and the crops that would be raised would determine that Territories like Kansas and Nebraska would be free. The tariff is often given as another cause but the tariff in 1860 was as low as it had been since 1818. And so on until one wonders whether there were any rational reasons at all.

In addition to history, psychology has some light to throw on the personality of man. Conflict often stems from frustration and if one's reaction to frustration is a result of his childhood can it be reconditioned later in life? Or perhaps conflict is an inherent part of life. If so, can it be directed to constructful ends?

No matter what side you take, or whether you take any side at all, you are invited to come to CPU's discussion on this important topic.

Truman Just Gave A Little Back Platform Talk

Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Los Angeles—When General Eisenhower announced last week that he would publish his income-tax returns, it was presumed that his running mate, Senator Nixon, would do likewise.

However, just two hours after the Eisenhower announcement, a statement was issued by Nixon headquarters that the GOP Vice-Presidential candidate would not publish his tax returns and that he considered the matter a closed incident.

In view of Governor Stevenson's complete financial disclosure for ten years, and the pledge that Eisenhower and Senator Sparkman would do the same, Nixon is left in a position where the public now has a right to ask considerably more questions concerning his financial position than the brief details he gave in his nation-wide telecast.

In that telecast Nixon stated that he had been cleared by the law firm of Gibson, Dunn and Crutcher. However, this law firm happens to represent some of Nixon's biggest and most active donors, among them Jack Garland and the Garland estate; also the Union Oil Co., of which Herbert Hoover is a director and owner of shares worth $1,200,000. Hoover was one of the two highest contributors to Nixon's extra-curricular fund.

Nixon also stated in his telecast that Price-Waterhouse, an accounting firm, had checked his expense fund and given him a clean bill of health.

It happens, however, that Price-Waterhouse was the accountant which got caught with such amazing discrepancies in checking the account of the McKesson-Robbins Drug Company that they were forced to pay McKesson-Robbins stockholders $500,000 because of their oversight.

In the case of the Nixon fund, Price-Waterhouse appeared to be more careful. For, when you read the fine print of their statement in the newspapers, you find that Price-Waterhouse stated that they had not had time to examine all of the Nixon funds.

They also stated that they had examined only one fund handled by Dana Smith, collector for Nixon, which left the definite deduction that there was at least one other fund.

This system of self-examination by self-appointed lawyers and self-appointed accountants is something which Lamar Caudle or Howard McGrath or others probed by congressional committees never could have got away with. Such a self-appointed investigation of the Democrats by the Democrats would have brought howls of protest from the Republicans.

However, since Congress is not is session at the moment and since Nixon will not bare his tax returns, it falls to the lot of the press to examine as carefully as possible the unusual expense fund and the financial situation of the man who, if elected, would be one heartbeat away from the presidency.

Neighbors will tell you here in the Whittier area, near Los Angeles, that the Nixon family's fortunes have picked up considerably since Dick was elected to congress.

One year after he was elected—1946—the family bought a farm in York County, Pa. The farm was purchased in the name of Dick's father and mother, price not known, and for a while Dick used to go up from Washington to spend weekends on the farm.

His father and mother didn't care for the Pennsylvania climate, however, and moved back to California. They still own the farm.

Back in California, Dick helped get his father a job as postmaster of a U. S .Post Office substation at Friendly Heights, near Whittier. The senior Mr. Nixon secured the job just about the time his son became a Senator, and while it doesn't pay much—$600—it has one important advantage. It is located in the Nixon grocery store.

Thus, to buy stamps and mail letters, you pass through part of the Nixon store—a great help to any merchant.

A few blocks down Whittier Boulevard, brother Don Nixon has just opened a swank new drive-in restaurant, replete with palm trees, an orange grove, and tables under the grove. As you drive in, you give your order for food through a microphone, then pick up the food and take it out under the orange trees. The setup must have cost well over $100,000.

Dorman Cordell — Stevenson And Socialism

Having an abhorrence of the tendencies toward socialism shown by the administration of the Democratic Party since the beginning of the term of the late Franklin . Roosevelt, I am a supporter of the Republican Party.

Since there seems to be no Young Republican Club on the campus, it is imperative that individual students take the initiative in presenting the Republican case to Carolina students.

We as students are perhaps more vitally concerned with this election than any other group because we are expected to be the leaders in the near future, and the results in November will affect us deeply.

If the Democratic Party should win again, the citizens of the United States will find their tax burdens becoming heavier and heavier, and the waste and no doubt corruption increasing continually.

The election is not actually a matter of Adlai Stevenson vs. Dwight D. Eisenhower. It is a matter of the socialistic policies of the Democratic Party against the free enterprise policies of the Republican Party. And this is not the isolationistic, monopolistic Republcan Party of some years ago. The Democrats are not running against Herbert Hoover, although they would like to leave that impression in the minds of voters. They are running against a clear-thinking, progressive group. And regardless of Stevenson's good intentions, he would be obligated to carry out the Democratic socialism, just as Eisenhower would be obligated to oppose this same socialism. And surely no right-thinking American wants socialism.

The Democratic Party would have the voter believe he is getting something for free when he gets it from the government. Actually, it amounts to nothing more than having someone take the money from your pocket with one hand and give it back to you with the other hand. And a good bit of the original amount is lost in the friction. Anytime the money passes through the hands of the Federal Government, a certain amount must come out for bookkeeping, administering, etc. But the Democrats advocate a trend toward Federal control of almost everything. This naturally causes waste and opens the way to corruption.

At the present time, there are enough government employees to form a respectable bloc of votes. If the Democrats return to power, four years from now they will have increased the number to such a proportion as to perpetually hold the reins of government. For the majority of governmental employees will quite naturally vote for the party in power.

Our only hope of alleviating the tax burden upon the individual citizen, which now is almost unbearable, is to get rid of the Democrats. A party in office consecutively for 20 years quite naturally allows the government to become corrupted and ineffectual.

Truly, if we expect to keep our place as a strong nation and as the hope of a free world, we must elect Dwight D. Eisenhower President in November. If we do not, an almost entirely socialized economy strangling individual initiative,, and leaving our country powerless against Soviet aggression will be the result.

Off Campus

In Atlanta, a man suing for divorce charged that his wife shot at him. The judge, to clear up a technicality, asked the man when the separation from his wife began.

"She fired at me five times, Your Honor," the man replied. "I started separating on the first shot. By the fifth shot I had completely separated."

Express Yourself

Persistent Possum

Editor:

A few juvenile students may read Drew Pearson, but many of us enjoy great literature. To withdraw Pogo in the midst of his presidential campaign is gross favoritism.

H. J. Doherty
George H. Callcott
L. A. Pendleton
Zane Grubb
Horace Sheeley

(The editors, ever receptive to the will of the masses, will initiate negotiations with the publications board to recapture the heretofore slighted Pogo. ED.)

Express Yourself

Know Your Subject

Editor:

"You ought to write about something you know," Joe said.

My fellow student was dead serious. With several minutes before class he knew I could easily pound out all I knew.

"Take socialized medicine," Joe said. "You are an authority on that."

I coughed. "Well, I'm also an authority on religion, economics, biology, et cetera, and yogi, whatever that is."

"Oh," Joe said, "I grant that you are a whiz, a poor man's Pegler. You spend so much time in research you will become a reverend gray-beard around here before you get out of French four. But you especially know all about socialized medicine."

I dug my toe in the turf and blushed. "Well, I did write that scuttlebutt about how a guy got treated at the infirmary," I said. "It was a devastating attack on socialized medicine."

"That's what I mean," Joe said. "It shows you've investigated, read up on the subject, know all the angles. You will go far reporting gossip, unless some misguided city editor kicks your back up between your ears for doing it."

I shuddered. "Leave us not discuss that," I said. "Leave us remain on socialized medicine."

"Fine," Joe said, "you know that subject. Well, I'm neither for or against it, but one thing puzzles me. Why is it our revered legislators, U. S. senators and representatives that is, who choke at the mention of socialized medicine, turn in at the Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md., and Walter Reed Army hospital when they become ill? Is private medical treatment just for ordinary people?"

The bell rang and I started away. "I'll do some heavy research on it," I said. "Maybe I'll pick up some scuttlebutt at the Goodie Shoppe. See you later."

Larry Spooner

Demolition Squad?

After a jolly ride on the MERRY GO ROUND (though severely shook by Snook) who could mind Capp riding us for being the yokels that we are? My ever loving landsakes who'd trade such natural born pleasures for lovable lil ole POGO? Even if he is the peoples' choice.

We've read DOWN IN FRONT and hang our cussed lil heads for not yelling when our cheerleader yelled, "Yell". Gracious "Nose", we had to be coaxed to deliver that thunderous Blue and White. But do we deserve the gigging we got from the Live Spike?

We watched Bob Gorham go to great pains to produce an Orientation Program superior to those which have gone before. We saw him pick the best workers he could find and do so without regard to either political or social affiliation. When the show was over we found that a greater percentage of Fraternity men had been willing to give their time to perpetuate the Carolina Way of Life than had those of us who call ourselves Independents. We are embarrassed Mr. Editor, but don't try to hide our shame by taking credit from those to whom it is due.

Controversy may be the life blood of a newspaper; but for the sake of editorial balance (with apologies to members of the Farber Demolition Squad) what we need in the coming year are more Boosters and fewer Booers. What about it, Mr. Editor?

Charles B. Mac Rae Jr.

Ho, Hum

Editor:

Alas! Your folly (or I might say prejudice) smites me deeply. You are rapidly tearing down my profound confidence in the Carolina Way of Life!

Who ever thought that the great Daily Tar Heel could stoop so low as to discriminate against one of the candidates for the Presidency of the United States?

We, the people, are greatly disappointed in you for the gross injustice to this prominent citizen and candidate from the South. For shame!

I think I may say with reasonable assurance that we, the people want Pogo—not Pearson!

Frank Warren Jr.

All right, All right

Editor:

Pogo Dam' you, Pogo!

Roy Parker
Ex-Editor

Duke Pulls 7-0 Upset Over Tennessee At Durham

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Laurel Resting

DUKE STADIUM, DURHAM, Oct. 4—As he has done so many years in the past, General Bob Neyland brought a vaunted Tennessee football team to North Carolina today. As usual it was favored to win. But when Duke's Blue Devils walked off the field at game's end this afternoon, it was evident that the only semblance this year's version of the Volunteers had to those great ones of the past was the same orange hue of the jerseys. This wasn't one of Neyland's great teams.

The Blue Devils, who were undefeated in two games before today but still underdogs to the Volunteers, controlled the game throughout. Worth Lutz ran the T formation as if he were the firs of all quarterbacks. The General's strategy of capitalizing on the other team's mistakes even failed him today. In fact, it backfired on him.

The first quarter of the game was dull but fast. It looked as if Neyland's strategy of letting the other team make a mistake and then capitalizing on it—a system which has won him countless games before—was going to pay off when early in the period Lutz bobbled a pitchout along the ground and Tennessee recovered on the Duke 12. But on the very next play, the only one the Vols ran from scrimmage during the first quarter, the Blue Devils pulled a Neyland switch and recovered on the 13.

Punt Happy

THE REST OF the Tennessee plays were punts, Neyland figuring on gaining on exchanges of kicks and/or recovering a fumble. But this proved of little value to Tennessee, and the Vols actually lost yardage on the exchange.

Lutz ran the T for the most part flawlessly, and it looked for awhile that Duke might score in the first quarter. After the Devils had recovered that Tennessee fumble on the 13, Lutz workd Red Smith, Lloyd Caudle, and Jack Kistler down to the Tennessee seven. But then a third-down fumble by Lutz, which he recovered for no gain, slowed the march, and the fourth down run by Kistler for one yard called a complete stop to the sustained march.

The lone touchdown came on a short jaunt of just 27 yards. Pat Shires, the Tennessee tailback who got off but one good run the whole day—in the fourth quarter, fumbled to give the Devils the ball there. Red Smith made more or less a personal drive of it. He took the ball on first crack to the 20. Then after a Lutz to Howard Pitt pass failed to hit, he cracked for a first down on the 11. Then it went Smith to the nine, Kistler to the seven, Lutz to the three, and then Kistler over for the score. Bill Keziah kicked the extra point and there, for the scoring, was all of the ball game.

Ejection Slips

BOTH TEAMS WERE somewhat hampered, the Vols particularly so, by the loss of key players early in the game. In the first period, after Tennessee had returned a Duke punt, Country Meadows, Duke tackle, threw a useless block into Tennessee's proficient fullback, Andy Kozar. Kozar's revengeful swing to the mouth resulted in both of them being thrown out. The loss probably hurt Tennessee more than Duke because of Kozar's value as a line cracker, but whether he could have turned the Duke tide is doubtful.

The Duke line didn't miss Meadows too much. It hampered the Tennessee running and passing all day long. The stand the defensive line made after the Vols' Bob Brengle had returned a punt 50 yards to the Duke 12 was remarkable. After a third down pass had put the ball on the three, the line held for no gain, stopping the only real threat Tennessee made all day.

Coming Out Swinging

THE GAME WAS marred by excessive rough play, which could have been done without. The Vols seemed to be the ones to start it, with the Devils joining in later in retaliation. It appeared to be the job of end Roger Rotroff to take Lutz out of every play, whether he had the ball or not. It didn't work though, with Lutz playing the whole game with the exception of a few plays. A few of the pileups would have made good illustrations for the story of Don Quixote fighting the windmills, with an abundance of swinging arms being evident.

Neyland's boys were hurt mainly by what they had counted on to bring them the victory—the recovering of fumbles. Tennessee's loss of the ball on the first play after it had recovered from Duke on the Devils 12 certainly cost them a touchdown—and other times when it seemed they might make a drive, the ball squirted backwards or forwards into waiting blue-jerseyed arms.

SECOND BASEMAN Billy Martin goes high in the air to take catcher Yogi Berra's throw on Dodger Duke Snider's successful steal of second base in Friday's third game of the 1952 World Series. The umpire is Babe Pinelli. The Brooks won the game, 5-3, behind the steady Preacher Roe.—NEA Telephoto.

Reynolds' 2-0 Win Ties Series Count

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—The New York Yankees evened the World Series up at two games a piece today as Allie Reynolds shut out the Booklyn Dodgers 2-0.

Reynolds was the starting pitcher for the Yankees on opening day but was not half so effective as he was this afternoon. He pitched masterful ball giving up only four hits and being in trouble only in the first and fifth innings.

Reynolds struck out ten and came within three of the record for number of strike outs in one world series game.

Black Lifted

Joe Black, the Dodger rookie who beat Reynolds in the first game, started for Brooklyn and almost matched Reynolds' performance. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning after having given up only three hits and one run in his seven innings on the mound.

Black's downfall, as was Reynold's in the first duel between these two, was the home run. Black threw a gopher ball to ancient Johnny Mize in the fourth inning to give the Yankees the only run they needed.

Mize added a double in his next time at bat to add to his World Series batting average. He has now made four appearances at the plate in World Series competition and has hit two home runs and one double. Mize is 39 years old.

Off Rutherford

The other New York run came off rookie Johnny Rutherford in the eighth as the result of a long triple by Mickey Mantle to center and an overthrow of third base by shortstop Peewe Reese.

The Yankees were robbed of another run in the fourth when Duke Snider made a spectacular catch of a drive off the bat of Yogi Berra.

Berra came to the plate immediately following Mize's homer, stepped into one of Black's fast balls, and the crowd thought they were going to see another Yankee home run. However, they reckoned without Snider. He leaped about three feet off the ground at the 406-foot mark in right center and made a one handed stab of the ball.

The catch was reminiscent of the one made by Al Gionfrido of the Dodgers in the 1947 series. He robbed Joe DiMaggio of a home run by leaping and taking a drive right out of the bullpen in left field.

Reynolds got himself in hot water in the first inning when Cox was safe on an error. Then Reese collected his seventh hit of the series, a single to right which sent Cox to third.

That was the point where Raynolds bore down. He struck out Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, and Andy Pafko to retire the side.

Three Times

Incidentally, Reynolds struck out Robinson three times this afternoon and on each occasion Robinson watched the third strike go over.

The only other serious Dodger threat came in the fifth inning when the Dodgers put men on second and third with only one down.

Pafko opened the inning with a hit to left and Hodges drew a walk. Furillo sacrificed the runners down and pitcher Black stepped to the plate.

With the count of two balls and one strike Manager Dressen called for a squeeze play and Black missed a low outside pitch. Pafko, coming down the line from third, was tagged out by Berra about fifteen feet from the plate. Black then drew a walk but Cox was an easy out and so were the Dodgers for the rest of the game.

Furillo Hits

Furillo opened the Dodger eighth with a hit but after a parade of pinch hitters failed to produce, the game was definitely on ice for the Yankees, especially with Reynolds on the mound and getting stronger as he went along.

Tomorrow will be the last game of the series for Yankee Stadium as play will move back to Ebbets Field the following day. It's anybody's guess as to who the managers will pitch in the game tomorrow.

It seems most logical that Stengel will go with Vic Raschi, winner of game number two of the series. As for Dressen, his problem is greater with not a single steady pitcher on his staff to fall back on.

Lutz Leads Blue Devils To Lone Tally

By Tom Peacock

DUKE STADIUM, DURHAM, Oct. 4—Tennessee outbungled the Duke Blue Devils here today in a fighting, mauling slugfest, Duke scoring once in the second period to take a 7-0 win before 35,000 people.

The Volunteers piled on and roughed up every play, and Duke was quick to catch on to the Tennessee brand of ball. Tennessee lost its triple threat back and half its offense, Andy Kozar, and Duke lost one of its best linemen, Ed Meadows, when Kozar threw a punch after the whistle blew late in the first quarter.

Worth Lutz was the guiding light in the third straight Duke win, but the sophomore could never get a sustained drive for score out of his team. Fullback Ed Kistler scored the only touchdown on a three-yard line buck climaxing a short, 27-yard drive by the Blue Devils. Duke had recovered a fumble by sub fullback Ray Byrd on the Tennessee 27.

Sloppy Ball

Tennessee played sloppy ball throughout the game, and Duke didn't set the Volunteers much of an example. Tennessee never waited until fourth down to kick, and kicked on second down during the whole first half, except for two first down punts. The Vols seemed a little short on football sense sometimes. Once the Vols declined a penalty that would have given Duke third down, 25 yards to go. Instead, the play gave the Blue Devils fourth and one.

While Duke happily played around between the Tennessee 20 and the midfield stripe, and the Vols kicking every chance they had the ball, the first quarter whipped by in the actual time of 21 minutes. Tennessee ran one play from scrimmage in the whole first quarter, and fumbled on that effort.

The Vols had two scoring chances, Duke, it seemed, had 200. Tennessee won the toss and elected to kickoff. The strategy seemed to work, as Lutz fumbled on the first Duke play, and the Vols recovered on the 12-yard line. Tennessee ran its play and fumbled, Duke recovered, and the quarter continued in that vein.

Hold Duke

The Vols held Duke after the second half kickoff, and the Blue Devils were forced to punt. Safety man Bob Brengle took the kick on the Tennessee 38, ran straight up the middle for 50 yards, cut to the right, and was tackled on the Duke 10-yard line. Oleksiak hit Gust with a pass to the three but then the Blue Devils held to ward off Tennessee's second and last scoring threat.

Just after the end of the first quarter, Red Smith of Duke punted to the Tennessee 24-yard line. The Vols ran one play to the 27, then fumbled and Duke recovered. The Blue Devils scored in seven plays, with Kistler going over at 11:05 in the second period, Keziah converted, and Duke took the 7-0 lead that it held throughout the game.

Duke's towering Ed (Country) Meadows, who had been considerably roughed up, attempted to throw a useless block at Andy Kozar a few seconds after the whistle had blown. Kozar sidestepped, and in full view of 26 men on the field and 35,000 fans, poled Meadows in the mouth. Both men were expelled for the rest of the game.

Without Kozar, the backbone of its offense, Tennessee was powerless the rest of the game, and resorted to a conservative punting game. The Blue Devils showed great strength at times, and moved the ball nicely between the 30-yard lines, with Red Smith and Kistler carrying the brunt of the attack. But Duke either made a mistake or Tennessee tightened up and held on the scoring chances.

The Duke defensive line was remarkable. Tennessee's passers never had an extra second to get the ball off, and the Blue Devil linemen were fully as fast as the Vol backs. The blocking that has always marked Tennessee teams was in a large part missing, and the result was the 7-0 Duke win.

Saxton Says He's Ready For Clash With Castellani

IN NEW YORK Johnny Saxton held his 32nd straight victory, a split decision over Tiger Jones on Friday Night, and declared himself ready for his coming Chicago bout with middleweight title contender, Rocky Castellani.

The 22-year-old Brooklyn welterweight, undefeated as a pro boxer, beat Jones by a single point in a nationally televised Friday night.

JIMMY (BUD) TAYLOR, a promising 21-year-old Miami fighter, was in serious condition in New Orleans after being knocked out by Charley Joseph. Joseph, fighting before a home-town crowd, floored Taylor twice in the third round and then put him to sleep for good in the sixth.

Taylor was reported to have a fractured skull and a brain clot. He was taken to Charity Hospital for an operation.

KANSAS CITY met Rochester in Rochester, N. Y. last night in the seventh and deciding game of the Little World Series. After being behind 3-1 in the Series, the International League club won the next two games to even the series.

The Red Wings beat the American Association team, 8-4, Friday night. Ed Erautt, who has already won two games in the series, was on the mound for the favored Blues of Kansas City.

AT YANKEE STADIUM Yogi Berra took all the blame for letting a pitch by Tom Gorman get by him and allowing two Brooklyn runs to score in Friday's 5-3 Brooklyn victory.

There was some speculation that Gorman might have crossed Berra up on the signals, but Berra denied it and accepted all blame for the blunder.

"I called for a fast ball and got it", the Yankee catcher declared. "It was my fault that it got away. I knew what was coming."

Sunday's Menu

$1.00

☆ Soup and 3 veg. dessert, tea or coffee
☆ Breaded Veal Cutlet
☆ 2 Breaded Pork Chops
☆ Fried Chicken
☆ Baked Sugar Cured Ham
☆ Fresh Pork Ham
☆ Bar-B-Que

★ ★ ★

90c

☆ 3 Veg. Dessert, tea or coffee
☆ Fillet Haddock
☆ Fried Beef Liver
☆ Grilled Ham
☆ Brunswick Stew
☆ Hamburger Steak
☆ Chicken Salad

BILL'S DRIVE-IN

Carrboro

Curb Service After 5:00 P.M.

Serving Breakfast Every Day

PLENTY OF PARKING SPACE

Carolina

TODAY

M-G-M's NEW LUSCIOUS, LAVISH LOVE MUSICAL!

Lana Turner as "The Merry Widow"

Saucy, Sumptuous, Song-filled

COLOR BY Technicolor

Romance!

CO-STARRING

FERNANDO LAMAS

with

UNA MERKEL · RICHARD HAYDN

THOMAS GOMEZ

SCREEN PLAY BY SONYA LEVIEN and WILLIAM LUDWIG · BASED ON THE OPERETTA WRITTEN BY CHARTRAN FRANZ LEHAR AND ARTHUR VICTOR LEON AND LEO STEIN

ALSO

LATEST NEWS

TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY

"TALES OF HOFFMANN"

A Selection of

The Famous S & S Readers Editions

AT ONLY 48c (Regularly $1.00)

SALE STARTS SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4th

Stop in for a look after the game

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 East Franklin St. Open Evenings

The Florists of Chapel Hill Wish to announce that, effective immediately, they will observe the following hours:

Monday through Saturday
8:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

—CLOSED ALL DAY SUNDAY—
(Except for funeral or wedding work)

Please anticipate your week-end needs, so we may make delivery Saturday.

CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
UNIVERSITY FLORIST

Duke Pulls 7-0 Upset Over Tennessee At Durham

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Laurel Resting

DUKE STADIUM, DURHAM, Oct. 4—As he has done so many years in the past, General Bob Neyland brought a vaunted Tennessee football team to North Carolina today. As usual it was favored to win. But when Duke's Blue Devils walked off the field at game's end this afternoon, it was evident that the only semblance this year's version of the Volunteers had to those great ones of the past was the same orange hue of the jerseys. This wasn't one of Neyland's great teams.

The Blue Devils, who were undefeated in two games before today but still underdogs to the Volunteers, controlled the game throughout. Worth Lutz ran the T formation as if he were the firs of all quarterbacks. The General's strategy of capitalizing on the other team's mistakes even failed him today. In fact, it backfired on him.

The first quarter of the game was dull but fast. It looked as if Neyland's strategy of letting the other team make a mistake and then capitalizing on it—a system which has won him countless games before—was going to pay off when early in the period Lutz bobbled a pitchout along the ground and Tennessee recovered on the Duke 12. But on the very next play, the only one the Vols ran from scrimmage during the first quarter, the Blue Devils pulled a Neyland switch and recovered on the 13.

Punt Happy

THE REST OF the Tennessee plays were punts, Neyland figuring on gaining on exchanges of kicks and/or recovering a fumble. But this proved of little value to Tennessee, and the Vols actually lost yardage on the exchange.

Lutz ran the T for the most part flawlessly, and it looked for awhile that Duke might score in the first quarter. After the Devils had recovered that Tennessee fumble on the 13, Lutz workd Red Smith, Lloyd Caudle, and Jack Kistler down to the Tennessee seven. But then a third-down fumble by Lutz, which he recovered for no gain, slowed the march, and the fourth down run by Kistler for one yard called a complete stop to the sustained march.

The lone touchdown came on a short jaunt of just 27 yards. Pat Shires, the Tennessee tailback who got off but one good run the whole day—in the fourth quarter, fumbled to give the Devils the ball there. Red Smith made more or less a personal drive of it. He took the ball on first crack to the 20. Then after a Lutz to Howard Pitt pass failed to hit, he cracked for a first down on the 11. Then it went Smith to the nine, Kistler to the seven, Lutz to the three, and then Kistler over for the score. Bill Keziah kicked the extra point and there, for the scoring, was all of the ball game.

Ejection Slips

BOTH TEAMS WERE somewhat hampered, the Vols particularly so, by the loss of key players early in the game. In the first period, after Tennessee had returned a Duke punt, Country Meadows, Duke tackle, threw a useless block into Tennessee's proficient fullback, Andy Kozar. Kozar's revengeful swing to the mouth resulted in both of them being thrown out. The loss probably hurt Tennessee more than Duke because of Kozar's value as a line cracker, but whether he could have turned the Duke tide is doubtful.

The Duke line didn't miss Meadows too much. It hampered the Tennessee running and passing all day long. The stand the defensive line made after the Vols' Bob Brengle had returned a punt 50 yards to the Duke 12 was remarkable. After a third down pass had put the ball on the three, the line held for no gain, stopping the only real threat Tennessee made all day.

Coming Out Swinging

THE GAME WAS marred by excessive rough play, which could have been done without. The Vols seemed to be the ones to start it, with the Devils joining in later in retaliation. It appeared to be the job of end Roger Rotroff to take Lutz out of every play, whether he had the ball or not. It didn't work though, with Lutz playing the whole game with the exception of a few plays. A few of the pileups would have made good illustrations for the story of Don Quixote fighting the windmills, with an abundance of swinging arms being evident.

Neyland's boys were hurt mainly by what they had counted on to bring them the victory—the recovering of fumbles. Tennessee's loss of the ball on the first play after it had recovered from Duke on the Devils 12 certainly cost them a touchdown—and other times when it seemed they might make a drive, the ball squirted backwards or forwards into waiting blue-jerseyed arms.

SECOND BASEMAN Billy Martin goes high in the air to take catcher Yogi Berra's throw on Dodger Duke Snider's successful steal of second base in Friday's third game of the 1952 World Series. The umpire is Babe Pinelli. The Brooks won the game, 5-3, behind the steady Preacher Roe.—NEA Telephoto.

Reynolds' 2-0 Win Ties Series Count

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—The New York Yankees evened the World Series up at two games a piece today as Allie Reynolds shut out the Booklyn Dodgers 2-0.

Reynolds was the starting pitcher for the Yankees on opening day but was not half so effective as he was this afternoon. He pitched masterful ball giving up only four hits and being in trouble only in the first and fifth innings.

Reynolds struck out ten and came within three of the record for number of strike outs in one world series game.

Black Lifted

Joe Black, the Dodger rookie who beat Reynolds in the first game, started for Brooklyn and almost matched Reynolds' performance. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning after having given up only three hits and one run in his seven innings on the mound.

Black's downfall, as was Reynold's in the first duel between these two, was the home run. Black threw a gopher ball to ancient Johnny Mize in the fourth inning to give the Yankees the only run they needed.

Mize added a double in his next time at bat to add to his World Series batting average. He has now made four appearances at the plate in World Series competition and has hit two home runs and one double. Mize is 39 years old.

Off Rutherford

The other New York run came off rookie Johnny Rutherford in the eighth as the result of a long triple by Mickey Mantle to center and an overthrow of third base by shortstop Peewe Reese.

The Yankees were robbed of another run in the fourth when Duke Snider made a spectacular catch of a drive off the bat of Yogi Berra.

Berra came to the plate immediately following Mize's homer, stepped into one of Black's fast balls, and the crowd thought they were going to see another Yankee home run. However, they reckoned without Snider. He leaped about three feet off the ground at the 406-foot mark in right center and made a one handed stab of the ball.

The catch was reminiscent of the one made by Al Gionfrido of the Dodgers in the 1947 series. He robbed Joe DiMaggio of a home run by leaping and taking a drive right out of the bullpen in left field.

Reynolds got himself in hot water in the first inning when Cox was safe on an error. Then Reese collected his seventh hit of the series, a single to right which sent Cox to third.

That was the point where Raynolds bore down. He struck out Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, and Andy Pafko to retire the side.

Three Times

Incidentally, Reynolds struck out Robinson three times this afternoon and on each occasion Robinson watched the third strike go over.

The only other serious Dodger threat came in the fifth inning when the Dodgers put men on second and third with only one down.

Pafko opened the inning with a hit to left and Hodges drew a walk. Furillo sacrificed the runners down and pitcher Black stepped to the plate.

With the count of two balls and one strike Manager Dressen called for a squeeze play and Black missed a low outside pitch. Pafko, coming down the line from third, was tagged out by Berra about fifteen feet from the plate. Black then drew a walk but Cox was an easy out and so were the Dodgers for the rest of the game.

Furillo Hits

Furillo opened the Dodger eighth with a hit but after a parade of pinch hitters failed to produce, the game was definitely on ice for the Yankees, especially with Reynolds on the mound and getting stronger as he went along.

Tomorrow will be the last game of the series for Yankee Stadium as play will move back to Ebbets Field the following day. It's anybody's guess as to who the managers will pitch in the game tomorrow.

It seems most logical that Stengel will go with Vic Raschi, winner of game number two of the series. As for Dressen, his problem is greater with not a single steady pitcher on his staff to fall back on.

Lutz Leads Blue Devils To Lone Tally

By Tom Peacock

DUKE STADIUM, DURHAM, Oct. 4—Tennessee outbungled the Duke Blue Devils here today in a fighting, mauling slugfest, Duke scoring once in the second period to take a 7-0 win before 35,000 people.

The Volunteers piled on and roughed up every play, and Duke was quick to catch on to the Tennessee brand of ball. Tennessee lost its triple threat back and half its offense, Andy Kozar, and Duke lost one of its best linemen, Ed Meadows, when Kozar threw a punch after the whistle blew late in the first quarter.

Worth Lutz was the guiding light in the third straight Duke win, but the sophomore could never get a sustained drive for score out of his team. Fullback Ed Kistler scored the only touchdown on a three-yard line buck climaxing a short, 27-yard drive by the Blue Devils. Duke had recovered a fumble by sub fullback Ray Byrd on the Tennessee 27.

Sloppy Ball

Tennessee played sloppy ball throughout the game, and Duke didn't set the Volunteers much of an example. Tennessee never waited until fourth down to kick, and kicked on second down during the whole first half, except for two first down punts. The Vols seemed a little short on football sense sometimes. Once the Vols declined a penalty that would have given Duke third down, 25 yards to go. Instead, the play gave the Blue Devils fourth and one.

While Duke happily played around between the Tennessee 20 and the midfield stripe, and the Vols kicking every chance they had the ball, the first quarter whipped by in the actual time of 21 minutes. Tennessee ran one play from scrimmage in the whole first quarter, and fumbled on that effort.

The Vols had two scoring chances, Duke, it seemed, had 200. Tennessee won the toss and elected to kickoff. The strategy seemed to work, as Lutz fumbled on the first Duke play, and the Vols recovered on the 12-yard line. Tennessee ran its play and fumbled, Duke recovered, and the quarter continued in that vein.

Hold Duke

The Vols held Duke after the second half kickoff, and the Blue Devils were forced to punt. Safety man Bob Brengle took the kick on the Tennessee 38, ran straight up the middle for 50 yards, cut to the right, and was tackled on the Duke 10-yard line. Oleksiak hit Gust with a pass to the three but then the Blue Devils held to ward off Tennessee's second and last scoring threat.

Just after the end of the first quarter, Red Smith of Duke punted to the Tennessee 24-yard line. The Vols ran one play to the 27, then fumbled and Duke recovered. The Blue Devils scored in seven plays, with Kistler going over at 11:05 in the second period, Keziah converted, and Duke took the 7-0 lead that it held throughout the game.

Duke's towering Ed (Country) Meadows, who had been considerably roughed up, attempted to throw a useless block at Andy Kozar a few seconds after the whistle had blown. Kozar sidestepped, and in full view of 26 men on the field and 35,000 fans, poled Meadows in the mouth. Both men were expelled for the rest of the game.

Without Kozar, the backbone of its offense, Tennessee was powerless the rest of the game, and resorted to a conservative punting game. The Blue Devils showed great strength at times, and moved the ball nicely between the 30-yard lines, with Red Smith and Kistler carrying the brunt of the attack. But Duke either made a mistake or Tennessee tightened up and held on the scoring chances.

The Duke defensive line was remarkable. Tennessee's passers never had an extra second to get the ball off, and the Blue Devil linemen were fully as fast as the Vol backs. The blocking that has always marked Tennessee teams was in a large part missing, and the result was the 7-0 Duke win.

Saxton Says He's Ready For Clash With Castellani

IN NEW YORK Johnny Saxton held his 32nd straight victory, a split decision over Tiger Jones on Friday Night, and declared himself ready for his coming Chicago bout with middleweight title contender, Rocky Castellani.

The 22-year-old Brooklyn welterweight, undefeated as a pro boxer, beat Jones by a single point in a nationally televised Friday night.

JIMMY (BUD) TAYLOR, a promising 21-year-old Miami fighter, was in serious condition in New Orleans after being knocked out by Charley Joseph. Joseph, fighting before a home-town crowd, floored Taylor twice in the third round and then put him to sleep for good in the sixth.

Taylor was reported to have a fractured skull and a brain clot. He was taken to Charity Hospital for an operation.

KANSAS CITY met Rochester in Rochester, N. Y. last night in the seventh and deciding game of the Little World Series. After being behind 3-1 in the Series, the International League club won the next two games to even the series.

The Red Wings beat the American Association team, 8-4, Friday night. Ed Erautt, who has already won two games in the series, was on the mound for the favored Blues of Kansas City.

AT YANKEE STADIUM Yogi Berra took all the blame for letting a pitch by Tom Gorman get by him and allowing two Brooklyn runs to score in Friday's 5-3 Brooklyn victory.

There was some speculation that Gorman might have crossed Berra up on the signals, but Berra denied it and accepted all blame for the blunder.

"I called for a fast ball and got it", the Yankee catcher declared. "It was my fault that it got away. I knew what was coming."

Sunday's Menu

$1.00

☆ Soup and 3 veg. dessert, tea or coffee
☆ Breaded Veal Cutlet
☆ 2 Breaded Pork Chops
☆ Fried Chicken
☆ Baked Sugar Cured Ham
☆ Fresh Pork Ham
☆ Bar-B-Que

★ ★ ★

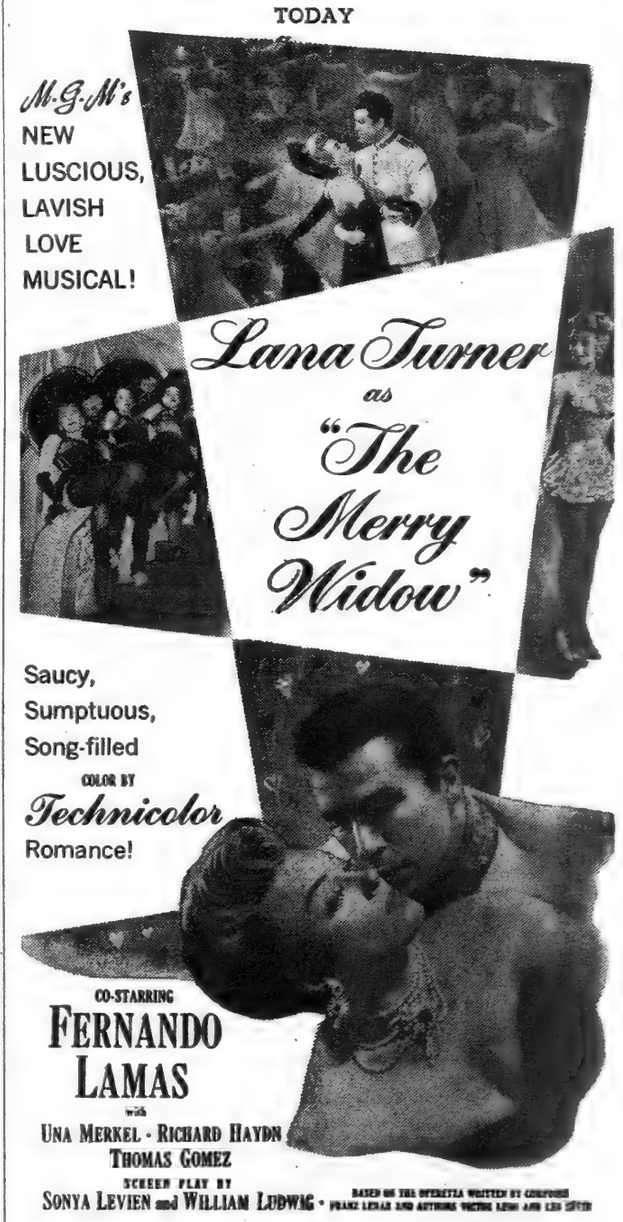
90c

☆ 3 Veg. Dessert, tea or coffee
☆ Fillet Haddock
☆ Fried Beef Liver
☆ Grilled Ham
☆ Brunswick Stew
☆ Hamburger Steak
☆ Chicken Salad

BILL'S DRIVE-IN

Carrboro

Curb Service After 5:00 P.M.



Serving Breakfast Every Day

PLENTY OF PARKING SPACE

Carolina

TODAY

M-G-M's NEW LUSCIOUS, LAVISH LOVE MUSICAL!

CO-STARRING FERNANDO LAMAS

with UNA MERKEL · RICHARD HAYDN THOMAS GOMEZ

SCREEN PLAY BY SONYA LEVIEN and WILLIAM LUDWIG · BASED ON THE OPERETTA WRITTEN BY [illegible]

ALSO LATEST NEWS

TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY

"TALES OF HOFFMANN"

A Selection of

The Famous S & S Readers Editions

AT ONLY 48c (Regularly $1.00)

SALE STARTS SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4th

Stop in for a look after the game

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 East Franklin St. Open Evenings

The Florists of Chapel Hill Wish to announce that, effective immediately, they will observe the following hours:

Monday through Saturday
8:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

—CLOSED ALL DAY SUNDAY—
(Except for funeral or wedding work)

Please anticipate your week-end needs, so we may make delivery Saturday.

CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
UNIVERSITY FLORIST

New Hospital Committee Offered By Y

By Alice Jane Hinds

A new opportunity for service, offered by the Y.W.C.A., is the Hospital committee, placed under the Commission of Social Responsibilities, which will function under the chairmanship of Rosemary Scovil, Greenville, S. C.

The purpose of the committee is to assist the hospital staff wherever aid is needed. Routine work, such as answering the telephone and tabulating temperatures, is done to aid nurses on desk duty. Personal services for the patients and other miscellaneous duties are rendered by coed committee members.

The girls, working two at a time, donate one evening a week, from 6:30 to 8:30, to hospital work. There are also girls placed on call to conduct tours through the hospital for visitors. These tours take place during the afternoon.

Enthusiasm already has been shown by coeds. Between September 24 and October 1, 53 hours of volunteer service were given.

A navy uniform adorned with a special insignia is provided for the volunteer workers. The uniform, a sleeveless smock made with an apron effect, is to be worn over a white blouse and a solid color skirt.

What Goes On Here

Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Choral Room of Hill Hall.

Stray Greeks

The Stray Greeks will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in Alderman parlor.

Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan Club will meet at 4:30 today in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial. All international students as well as North American students are invited.

Lost Wallet

Ralph Ashworth, 327 Joyner Dormitory, lost a brown billfold Friday night up town. Anyone having information on such an item is asked to contact him at his room.

Shoes, Bag Found

A woman's handbag and a pair of shoes were found late Friday afternoon on Cameron Avenue at Pittsboro Street. The owner may obtain the items from Mrs. E. B.

WC Alumnae

Woman's College alumnae will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Horace Williams Lounge in Graham Memorial.

Plans Announced For Point 4 Contest

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Plans for a nationwide contest on the Point 4 Program with prize awards totalling $1,800 were released today by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

The contest will open November 1, 1952 and close midnight March 31, 1953. It is open to all North Americans between the ages of 15 and 23. Both students and young people not in school are eligible.

Prizes will be awarded to two groups consisting of high-school-age contestants, 15 to 18 years, and college-age participants, 19 to 23. Names of winners will be announced about May 15, 1953.

Essays should be on the subject, "The United States and the Underveloped Areas." Basic purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest of young Americans in the Point 4 program and our relationship with the economically less developed countries of the world.

Contest instruction leaflets will be sent upon request by the Point 4 Essay Committee, National Council of Churches, 79 E. Adams St., Chicago 3, Ill.

Blood

Students interested in forming a campus chapter of the American Red Cross are asked to attend an organizational meeting in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial tomorrow.

The meeting will be held at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Nash Will Lead Discussion On Dating

"Desirability, Delights and Dangers of Dating" will be up for discussion tomorrow night when Mrs. Arnold Nash, marriage counselor here, speaks in Lenoir Hall at 6:30.

The program is sponsored by the YMCA and is planned for freshmen. Those planning to attend are asked to get their trays at Lenoir and be in the south dining room by 6 o'clock. Ed Stevens will entertain at that time and he will be followed by Mrs. Nash at 6:30.

–SUAB–

(Continued from page 1)

Forum, Charles Yarborough, Carolina Traynham and Bruce Marger; Office, Ellen Wood, Bernie Hileman, Keen Oliver, Nancy Burcham, Helen Faust and Betty Lou Wannamaker; Tournaments, Etta Rose Mann.

Student-Faculty, Jan Carter, Tish Rodman, Nancy Harne, Louise Sommerville, Kit Wallace, Alice Chapman, Janice Zurczak, Helen Faust and Betty Lou Wannamaker; Receptions, Billie Bruce Dobbs, Gwenn Wait, Jane D. Kelly, Donna Overholt, Ann Gaiton, Thelma L. Souder, Pat Bohnenkamp, Nancy Murray, Kit Wallace and Louise Sommerville.

Committee meetings for the coming week were announced yesterday. They are Dance Commitee at 4 o'clock Monday in the SUAB office; Special Services at 4 p.m. Thursday; Forum at 4 p.m. Monday in Roland Parker Lounge No. 1; Film at 4 p.m. Monday in the Grail Room.

Members of other committees are asked to stop by the SUAB office daily to check on their committee operation.

The chairmen of all committees will meet together weekly to discuss their prospective programs. A luncheon meeting of the chairmen has been called for this week at 1 p.m. on Thursday in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Inter-Faith Group Names Lecturers

Announcement was made yesterday of guest speakers this year, sponsored by the Inter-Faith council. President Jim Haney released the schedule.

Dr. Arnold Flaten, authority on art history and religious interpretation of art, will speak October 15-16.

Scheduled to lecture here November 15-17 is Dr. Eddy Asirvatham, theologian and political scientist from India. Dr. Asirvatham is currently teaching at Boston University.

Prominent Jewish journalist and free-lance writer, Will Herberg will be on campus December 1-2.

Dr. E. Harris Harbison, an authority on Tudor history at Princeton, will be on campus the latter part of this quarter or during the winter quarter.

Dean of the Graduate School at Princeton and a chemist of note, Dr. Hugh Taylor, will speak the latter part of January or in early February.

During winter quarter the Inter-Faith Council plans to sponsor a series of lectures by Chancellor Milford, of Lincoln Cathedral, London, England.

Other speakers will be scheduled throughout the year, Haney said.

Unitarians Meet Tonight In Gerrard

The Unitarian Fellowship of Chapel Hill will meet tonight at 8:30 in Gerrard Hall. "The Challenge of Unitarianism" will be the subject, and George Weitz of Charlotte will be the leader.

Weitz, president of the Thomas Jefferson Conference and president of the board of trustees of the Charlotte Unitarian Church, will discuss objectives and applications of Unitarianism, along with the basic principles of the denomination. He will lead a general discusison afterwards.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 – CHAPEL HILL

CLASSIFIEDS

BALLET TEACHER WANTED. PREferably for afternoon or night work. Vacancy open. State qualifications and salary. Write Box 1525, Burlington, N. C.

(1-9453-6)

FOR SALE: VERY FINE MAPLE dining and bedroom furniture. Phone 50504, Durham, N. C.

CHARGE (x)

In The Church

Lutheran

Students of Holy Trinity Lutheran church will participate in a Bible discussion this morning conducted by Dr. Walter Nau, professor of romance languages at Lenoir-Rhyne college.

Dr. Nau is a popular speaker throughout the N. C. Lutheran Synod. He spoke last night to a group of townsfolk and students on "Sun-Crowned Heirs." He will assist at the service of Holy Communion during the regular worship service today.

"Academic Freedom and You" will be the topic of discussion when the Lutheran Student association meets this evening at 6:15 for a fellowship supper and discussion forum. Joe Hall will lead the discussion, based on observations made by Dr. George Forell and published recently in a student study booklet.

Christian Science

Christian Science services and Sunday School sessions will be held today, and each Sunday, at 11 o'clock in New West Building. The topic of the lesson-sermon today is "Reality.",

Episcopal

The Rev. Baker J. Turner, rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Fayetteville, will speak on "Revival of Orthodoxy" at the meeting of the Canterbury club tonight. The meeting, held in the Parish House, will open with a 6 o'clock supper.

Student ministers of the preministerial group read Evening Prayer in the chapel every weekday afternoon at 5:45.

A preaching mission will be conducted here November 9-11 by the Rev. Charles Martin, canon of the National Cathedral and headmaster of St. Alban's School, Washington. The mission is held under the auspices of the student congregation of the Chapel of the Cross.

Presbyterian

The Rev. Charles M. Jones, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, is on a year's leave of absence to work with the Save-the-Children Foundation in Kingsport, Tenn. He will be in the pulpit one Sunday each month. Arrangements will be published soon regarding the preaching and pastoral work of the church that Mr. Jones can not handle.

Speakers for the month of October have been announced by Mr. Jones as follows: Dr. Thomas D. Schafer, Duke Divinity school, October 5; Dr. R. J. McMullen, Chapel Hill resident, October 12; Mr. Jones, October 19, and Dr. Thomas D. Schafer, Duke Divinity School, October 26.

World Communion will be observed at the 9:45 a.m. service today. A regular worship program is planned for the 11:00 a.m. service.

The Sunday night group will discuss "The Christian and War" tonight at 7 o'clock. The leader for the period is Claude Shotts, general secretary of the YMCA.

USF Meets Today At Nicholson's

The United Student Fellowship will meet this afternoon at 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Virginia Nicholson, 234 McCauley Street.

Dinners will be served for 25 cents each. The meeting is primarily for the Congregation Evangelical and Reform students, but anyone who wishes to attend is welcomed, Mrs. Nicholson said.

LaMarick's Cold Wave Special!

LaMarick Custom Creme Oil Cold Waves . . . Nationally famous professional permanent.
$12.50 Value
$5.95

LaMarick Deluxe Creme Oil Wave for softer, longer lasting permanent.
$15.00 Value
$6.95

LaMarick Super Deluxe Creme Oil Frigid Cold Wave . . . new, natural-looking permanent.
$25.00 Value
$9.95

MR. FRANK
IN OUR
RALEIGH SALON

Each Permanent Wave Includes
- Personality Hair Cut
- Shaping, Tapering, Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curls
- Oil Neutralizer
- Helene Curtis Creme Rinse
- Setting
- Free Consultation on All Work

We feature only professionally and nationally advertised products, or products by nationally known manufacturers such as Fashion-Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Breck, Clairol, Revlon, Flexa-Wave and LaMarick Frigid Cold Wave.

All permanents individually priced and opened before you. This is for your protection as our customers. Request this always in your beauty salon.

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
Phone Durham 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
Phone Raleigh 3-1726
LaMarick Shops

FROM A DISTANT HILLSIDE...TO THE DEEP CORNERS OF YOUR HEART... COME ITS POWER, WONDER AND MAGNIFICENCE!

"SEE IT! IT LIGHTS UP THE SCREEN LIKE A RAY OF SUNSHINE!" —JOURNAL-AMERICAN

"A RARE EMOTIONAL TREAT! PROFOUNDLY STIRRING!" —DAILY MIRROR

"INSPIRATIONAL! IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE!" —DAILY NEWS

WARNER BROS. PRESENT "The Miracle OF OUR LADY OF Fatima" IN COLOR BY WARNERCOLOR

WRITTEN FOR THE SCREEN BY CRANE WILBUR AND JAMES O'HANLON
MUSIC BY MAX STEINER
DIRECTED BY JOHN BRAHM

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
Varsity
Admission
Matinee 74c Night 1.00 Children 25c

SONJA HENIE
IN PERSON
1953 ICE REVUE
mail order for tickets

COLISEUM IN RALEIGH
WILLIAM NEAL REYNOLDS COLISEUM
N. C. State College—P. O. Box 5905
RALEIGH, N. C.

Enclosed is $.....for.....tickets at $.....each
Price: $3.00.....$2.50.....$2.00.....$1.50.....

Mon. Eve. Oct. 20 .. ☐
Tue. Eve. Oct. 21 .. ☐
Wed. Eve. Oct. 22 .. ☐
Thur. Eve. Oct. 23 .. ☐
Frid. Mat. Oct. 24 .. ☐
Frid. Eve. Oct. 24 .. ☐
Sat. Mat. Oct. 25 .. ☐
Sat. Eve. Oct. 25 .. ☐

Name .....Address .....
City .....State.....Phone No.....
FOR THE SAFE RETURN OF YOUR TICKETS PLEASE INCLUDE 25c FOR INSURANCE AND POSTAGE

THE CLOCK TICKED ON!...

Every terrored second swept her closer to desperation in heartbreak . . . closer to murder . . . closer to a clash with the secret woman in her husband's life!

A THRILLING NEW HIGH IN SUSPENSE MELODRAMA!

TRAPPED to the terror of murder at his hands— DESPERATE for an end to the other woman's laughter... SHE KNEW WHAT SHE HAD TO DO!

JOSEPH KAUFMAN presents
Joan Crawford in
Sudden Fear!
Co-Starring
JACK PALANCE
(Walter Jack Palanski)
Former
U. N. C. Football Star
Class 1941
T-O-D-A-Y and Monday
Varsity

U
S
8
U. N. C. LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-60

Yanks Win, Meet Bums In Series Finale Today

See Story On Page 3

WEATHER

Partly cloudy and not so warm with 75 high today. Yesterday's high, 82, low, 56.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 12 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

EH?

You didn't understand, says Snook. See page 2.

BANKS TALLEY

Banks Talley Will Address Di Tonight

Banks C. Talley, assistant dean of students at State College, will speak at the 157th inauguration of officer of the Dialectic Senate tonight at 8 o'clock in Di Hall.

Talley is past president of the Di and graduated in 1951.

Jim Maynard will be inaugurated as president for the fall quarter in the ceremonies. Ken Penegar is new president pro tempore; Gerald Parker, critic; Charlotte Davis, clerk; Carl Lowthorpe, sergeant - at - arms; Bill Mudd, treasurer and Ed Stevens, chaplain.

Officers for last quarter were Ed Smith, president; Charlie Huggins, president pro tempore; Ken Penegar, critic; Gerald Parker, clerk; Bill Mudd, sergeant-at-arms.

The Dialectic Senate is the oldest student organization on campus.

Phi Will Hear V.T.Valentine Tonight At 8

Vitimous T. Valentine, justice of the State Supreme Court will speak tonight at 8 o'clock at the inaugural session of the Phi Assembly on the fourth floor of New East. His topic will be "The Political Scene in North Carolina."

Preceding the main speech, the Assembly will install its officers for the fall quarter and hear the inaugural speech of the new speaker.

Officers to be installed are Fred Crawford, speaker; Don Sherry, speaker-pro-tem; Wade Mathews, parliamentarian; Catherine Holmes, critic; Stuart Jones, sergeant-at-arms; Syd Shuford, treasurer and Dick Yobst, clerk.

Debate Tryouts Start Tomorrow

Tryouts will begin tomorrow for the debate of FEPC.

Debate Council President Bruce Marger said yesterday that the next topic to be debated by the council will be Resolved: That the Congress of the United States should enact a compulsory fair employment practices law.

Those interested in participating in the debate should meet in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial tomorrow and Thursday at 4 p.m. The five-minute speeches, which are to be on all aspects of FEPC, will be reviewed by the Debate Council and a group of faculty members.

Thanks

Students got thanked yesterday.

Don Hogg, circulation manager for The Daily Tar Heel, said "thanks to those who waited while we got our circulation lists straightened out."

If you're still not getting a Daily Tar Heel, phone 9-3361 and leave your complaint and address.

UNC Sets Up Research Lab In Nash Hall

Doctor Thurstone, Wife To Head New Unit Here

The new Psychometric Laboratory has opened at the University with Dr. L. L. Thurstone, research profesor of psychology, formerly of the University of Chicago, as director.

The laboratory, a division of the University's Psychology Department, is located in Nash Hall which has been remodeled and equipped for work on applications of psychological measurement.

The research program of the laboratory is being financed by foundation grants, by contracts with several branches of the federal government, and by industrial projects.

Dr. Thurstone was Charles F. Grey Distinguished Service Professor of Psychology of the University of Chicago before coming to Chapel Hill this fall. He is a past president of the American Psychological Association.

A member of the Chicago faculty for 28 years, he has gained worldwide recognition in measuring the speed and precision of mental processes. He has probably done more than any other psychologist to make tests for aptitudes and personality precise and measurable. With his wife, Dr. Thelma Gwyn Thurstone, his voluntary assistant in various psychological researches, he was for many years author of the intelligence tests of the American Council on Education, given to thousands of entering students at scores of American colleges each fall.

Dr. Thurstone will continue his research along these lines at the University. He and Mrs. Thurstone may be expected to provide many of the answers to employers in selection of workers and to students in the choice of courses looking toward professions or technical training.

Mrs. Thurstone, a psychologist of distinction in her own right and for several years director of the Division of Child Study of the Chicago Board of Education, will be associated with him in the work. A member of the School of Education staff here, she will be available to help local school systems in research projects growing out of local situations.

Plans have been made by the new faculty members, Dr. Dorothy Adkins, chairman of the University's Psychology Department, and Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education, for developing expanded training programs in quantitative methods for psychology and education and in psychological services for the public schools.

SHE PULLED the judges' eyes over the wool and went off with the title, "Miss Sweater Girl, 1952." She's Jeanne Davis, a 22-year-old from Opp, Ala. Jeanne, one among 500 entrants, seems to have made her point rather well.

Phin Horton Is Appointed

Phin Horton of Winston-Salem yesterday was named attorney general for the campus. He replaces Allen Tate who graduated. by Tate in his letter of resignation.

President Ham Horton made the appointment and said the new attorney general was recommended

Horton, a pre-law student, is a member of the Interfraternity Court and the Interfraternity Council. He is past treasurer of the Phi Assembly and a member of the Student Legislature Finance Committee.

The student body president said, "Phinn is the most capable and qualified person for the job."

Leon Marion Talks Tonight

Opportunities for Carolina students to travel at low costs in foreign countries will be described by Leon Marion tonight at the YMCA World Understanding Supper Forum in the second floor dining room of Lenoir Hall.

The topic is "World Understanding Through World Travel."

Marion served as a member of the orientation staff for a student ship to Europe last summer sponsored by the Council of Student Travel.

The YMCA World Relatedness Commission sponsoring the forum, asked students to go through the cafeteria line by 5:30.

MUSEUM PLANS SPEEDED

Spivak's 'Sweetest Trumpet' Will Play For Fall Germans

Charlie Spivak, the man who furnished music for Raleigh's recent Debutante Ball will bring his orchestra here on November 7 for the Fall Germans.

The group will give a concert in Memorial Hall in the afternoon and play for the Woollen Gym dance later that evening.

"With the Virginia game the next day, plus the fact that it's also Homecoming day, this should give us the biggest and best weekend of the quarter," German Club President Bryant Hair said yesterday in announcing the event.

Spivak, whose publicity terms him as playing the "sweetest trumpet in the world", is one of the few name bandleaders who can do equally well for a concert or dance, Hair said.

CHARLIE SPIVAK

The bandleader, who first studied trumpet at New Haven's Hill House School, played with several top bands before being signed by Ray Noble and the late Glenn Miller. It was Miller who eight years ago encouraged him to form his own band. He has been a top drawing card ever since.

Notches in Spivak's musical belt are 20th Century Fox's "Pin-Up Girl," "Follow The Boys" for Universal and a flock of box-office records created at the Paramount in New York, the Hotel Statler in New York, the Palladium in Hollywood and other top spots.

$850,000 Will Be Spent On Structure

Building Location Planned For Behind Carolina Theater

By Bob Slough

The big new $850,000 William H. Ackland Memorial Art building moved a step closer to completion yesterday afternoon.

This new development came after Controller William D. Carmichael Jr. suggested to Chancellor Robert B. House that plans for the proposed art museum be accelerated.

The University was designated as the site for the art building in 1948 when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed an earlier decision of the lower courts to give the $1,500,000 Ackland bequest to Rollins College of Florida.

Originally drawn up in 1938, the will left the money to Duke University, but the bequest was subsequently refused. An earlier will designated that the money be left to either Duke University, the University of North Carolina or Rollins College.

The money was invested in 1948 and has been drawing interest since that time.

"It seems to me we should immediately reach some decision as to the exact size and location of this building together with a determination of the size and location of the future Playmakers' Theatre," Carmichael said in a memorandum to the Building Committee.

"It now looks as though $850,000 to $900,000 will be available for the Ackland Building," Carmichael said. "The remaining funds, under the terms of Mr. Ackland's will remains in trust."

These funds will be expanded for art purchases and teaching activities calculated to broaden the understanding and appreciation of the fine arts throughout this section of the country, he added.

Site for the proposed building probably will be on Columbia St. behind the Carolina Theatre. The Playmakers' Theatre will be located nearby.

Grants For TV May Be Made To Carolina

The University Communications Center may soon receive funds to enable it to expand its present facilities. It is now under consideration as a key station for the production programs designed to disseminate liberal education among the masses.

The Communications Center was visited yesterday by Mrs. Ann Spinney ,executive associate of the Fund For Adult Education. The fund was established in April, 1951, by the Ford Foundation as a medium for studying the extent of present liberal education in the United States.

The Ford Foundation this summer appropriated about $5,000-000 to the fund. This money is being used to enlarge on the activity already underway. Mrs. Spinney said the fund carries on most of its work and research through other institutions.

Should Carolina be selected as one of the key stations sites, the Communications Center will receive finances which it may use to buy the capital equipment needed in the production of the programs.

Today, Tomorrow

Sophomores have only today and tomorrow left in which to be snapped for the 1953 Yackety Yack.

White shirts, ties and coats for the boys and white blouses for the girls are proper photomaking dress. The pictures are being taken in the basement of Graham Memorial. There is no charge.

NEWS IN BRIEF

PITTSBURGH — Secretary of State Dean Acheson said yesterday there are signs Russia is junking its policy of "pressure" and "open aggression" in favor of one aimed at dividing the United States and its allies through "insidious . . . boring from within." Speaking before the CIO International Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, Acheson declared there must not be the "slightest relaxation" in the Allied defense drive even though the world would naturally "welcome" any step by the Soviets that would reduce the danger of hostility.

★

SEOUL—United States Marines and South Korean Allies were forced back from two hills on the western front after hours of determined attack, the Eighth Army announced yesterday. In the air, United Nations Sabre jets damaged four Russian-made MIG-15 jets in two dogfights.

★

PROVO, Utah—President Truman snapped back at critics of his administration's moral character yesterday in a political address in the Brigham Young University stadium. The President said he was "confident that history will bear me out". He dubbed criticism by "cronies in Washington" as "sheer poppycock—and politics." Truman declared, "I have done my best these seven years, to keep the quality of the federal service high . . .".

★

SPOKANE—Dwight D. Eisenhower set out yesterday to convince the power conscious voters of the Northwest that he and his party will not destroy the federal dams, power projects and conservation developments of the last 20 years. Eisenhower's tour through Washington state was bent on nullifying the effects of President Truman's recent whistle-stop thrhough the same area.

★

MOSCOW — Politburo member George M. Malenkov charged yesterday that a Hitlerite regime in the United States is rushing the West toward a new world war. Keynoting the opening of the 19th Soviet Communist party congress for the first time in the place of Premier Joseph Stalin, Malenkov said the Soviet Union is "strengthening and will continue to strengthen" its defenses against the possibility of an American attack. He promised the Soviets would not attack the West, and advocated the "peaceful co-existence between capitalism and communism."

Tryouts For 'Pink Circus' Tomorrow

Tryouts for 'The Pink Circus," the first experimental production of the Playmakers' new season, will be held in the Playmakers Theater tomorrow at 4 p.m. The informal auditions are open to all.

"The Pink Circus" was written by Gonzalo Estrada, a graduate student in the Department of Dramatic Art. Estrada describes his play as "the story of a boy who, with manhood within his grasp, fell short and failed."

The setting of this drama of matricide is in a Mexican labor camp in the California desert. It requires a cast of six men and five women, with boys and girls of the camp. For those interested in reading the script in advance, copies will be available in the reserve reading room of the library.

"The Pink Circus", under the direction of John Clayton, will be presented on the evenings of October 30 and 31.

Pace Named To Head CPU

Robert Pace was elected chairman of the Carolina Political Union at its meeting Sunday night.

Mrs. Fred Thompson was elected secretary of CPU. Fred Crawford is vice chairman and Don Sherry is treasurer.

Pace, youngest justice of the peace in North Carolina, is from Morrisville. He is a member of the YDC and is vice chairman of the Carolina Forum.

"The Essence of Democracy" will be discussed at the CPU meeting next Sunday night in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Dorm Committee Meets at Y Tonight

The Dorm Discussions Committee, which plans to co-ordinate discussions in individual dorms this year, has slated its kickoff meeting in the YMCA at 7:30 p.m. today.

Anyone wishing to work with Dorm Discussions in his individual dorm, or with the program as a whole is asked to attend the meeting or contact Chairman Bill C. Brown.

Brown pointed out that the purpose of the discussions is to develop leadership through participation.

Gray Will Direct Freedom Crusade

Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University, has accepted appointment as state chairman of the 1952 Crusade for Freedom campaign in North Carolina.

As state chairman for 1952, Gray will direct the Crusade drive to seek the moral and financial support of thousands more Tar Heels to expand the activities of Radio Free Europe.

The 1952 campaign will take place from November 11 to December 15. It will also support Radio Free Asia, as well as give Americans the chance to personally participate in the struggle against Communism by enabling them to send "Freedom-gram" messages behind the Iron Curtain.

Rushing

Freshmen who plan to go through rushing should pick up their invitations at Gerrard Hall tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon, and Friday from 10 a.m. to noon.

Rushing will start Sunday and continue through Thursday, October 16.

$50,000 Uranium Hot Pot

Students Build Atomic Reactor In Utah's 'Nuclear Tech' Class

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — There are two reasons that the United States flaunts only 16 completed atomic reactors. One is because the government cannot spare precious uranium for would-be private experiments.

The other is because the reactors themselves are so infernally expensive to construct and install.

Two years ago, however, North Carolina State College broke through the first barrier. With $300,000 building capital and a supply of uranium salts fuel loaned by the Atomic Energy Commission with its blessing, the college began work on the world's first privately owned and operated atomic pile, and expects to complete it by next summer.

Last week, the University of Utah announced that it had overcome the second obstacle. Utah, too received AEC permision to build a collegiate reactor.

But its baby would require no third of a million dollars to build and install. Instead it would cost a piddling $50,000—no more than the price of constructing a good four-bedroom house.

To cut construction costs, chief planner Lyle B. Borst decided to recruit brains and labor from the campus itself. Graduate students electing his uniquely practical "Nuclear Technology" course will tackle design problems and tackle the actual construction itself. It will be part of a year-long class project.

To physicists and ambitious educators alike, the university's schemes seemed a triumph of human ingenuity over the facts of life.

Like its North Carolina relative, the Utah reactor will be a small water-boiler model fashioned after the $25,000,000 installation at Los Alamos.

But unlike North Carolina's, the new "hot pot" will not steam along in specially constructed $2000,000 quarters. Instead it will be embedded in a 15-by 10-foot concrete shield and housed in an abandoned campus movie house.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Debacle By Proxy?

The State College football team last Saturday reached deep down into Basque legendry to re-enact the old epic in which a gallant warrior turned his back on a lesser foe and marched instead against the powerful enemies of his brother, who lay helplessly striken with the plague and therefore unable to defend his own honor upon the field of battle.

Our garlands of gratitude go out to our Raleigh brethern who so willingly assumed our gridiron obligations against potent Georgia while we remained huddled within the polio-threatened confines of Chapel Hill.

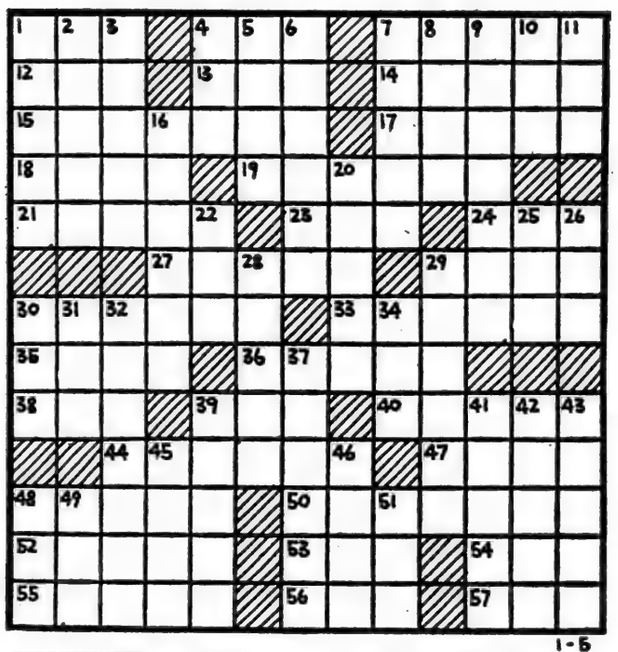
No one could envisage a more noble manifestation of the time honored concept "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Present But Not Leading

We learned with regret of the resignation of affable Ed Etevens, Chi Psi legislator from Tarpon Springs, Florida, as floor leader of the University Party.

"I just had my finger in too many pies," explains Ed, who, incidentally is licensed to preach in the Methodist Church. "Besides, I feel as though I can no longer represent the UP as their floor leader."

For two years it has been our pleasure and delight to watch the lanky Floridian demand the floor and stride to the podium, arms akimbo, to inject sharp notes of sobriety and rationality into the usually disorganized and occasionally chaotic proceedings. Ed exercised a knack of distilling each issue down to its purest essence and presenting it straightforwardly minus—obnoxious oratorical superfluities. Even when we found ourselves in diametrical opposition to the UP spokesman, we were soundly impressed with his sincerity and keen sense of fair play.



Ed's abdication has stripped the UP legislative forces of their most effective, impelling, and conscientous front horse.

Ham Horton
Presidential Memo

The Texans had a fine time in Chapel Hill. From all indications, North Carolina equalled even the hospitality the Texans showed us when we played on their home ground. In view of this it is unfortunate that one bad incident can destroy the effect of a thousand good ones.

An incident like the three boys who shortly after the game ran out of the woods by H dorm, tore off the aerials of several Texas automobiles, and threw gravel into the cars. And that boy who was caught by the police in possession of a Texas license plate and rear view mirror. Chapel Hill has always boasted of its hospitality—and with good reason—for Carolina students have heretofore respected the obligations put upon them as hosts. And the vast majority still do. But that makes it all the more shame that two or three incedents can ruin the impression made by the other 5,000 students.

Ham Horton
Pres. Student Body

1-6

HORIZONTAL
1. by much
4. chart
7. bristly
12. before
13. epoch
14. wrathful
15. everlasting
17. religious ceremonies
18. son of Jacob
19. most rational
21. snow vehicles
23. unit of heavyweight
24. wander from truth
27. corroded
29. independent
30. articles of apparel
33. obliterated
35. transfixes
36. piece of property
38. copper money
39. grampus
40. scanty
44. clergyman
47. cry of Bacchanals
48. ordinal of three
50. gross insult
52. weird
53. in favor of
54. decimal unit
55. bleak
56. cunning
57. bitter vetch

VERTICAL
1. senses
2. Russian union
3. weave rope
4. adult males
5. macaws
6. roof of the mouth
7. mythological nymph
8. sister of Ares
9. rags
10. goddess of malicious mischief
11. French article
16. horsemen
20. canonical office
22. perched
25. female ruff
26. primary color
28. Russian rulers
29. male relative
30. mineral spring
31. hurry
32. inhale
34. thing, in law
37. hollow excavations
39. command
41. egg-shaped
42. man's name
43. adolescent years
45. operatic solo
46. knot in wood (var.)
48. spread for drying
49. possessive pronoun
51. plaything

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

1-5

Average time of solution: 25 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber
Personally Olympic Diary

TURKU, Finland, July 26.—I have just completed a two hour trip through the most heavily guarded Russian naval base in Europe.

For this seemingly extraordinary feat I will get no medal from our government and I will not be hustled into a secret chamber of the Pentagon to report to the high brass. I won't even appear on "We The People."

The reason my adventure will pass without fanfare is not because the Russian naval base at Porkkula lacks military or human interest. It just so happens that anybody can do the same thing merely by going to the train station in Helsinki and asking for a third class ticket to Turku.

A glance at any post-war map of Europe will show a small square blob of red jutting forth from the southern coast of Finland. This crimson patch marks the Porkkula peninsula, formerly Finnish, which was "leased" to Russia for fifty years by the Russo-Finnish armistice of 1944.

All trains passing through Porkkula are blindfolded at the Russian frontier by Soviet guards who hop aboard, drape black curtains over the windows, and station themselves vigilantly at the end of each car. A sign, which would read "No Smoking" in America, is posted at each window bluntly warning that anybody who tries to peek will be shot. The Russians have kept their promise on several occasions.

Thirty seven minutes after leaving Helsinki the train grunted to a halt beside a network of barbed wire and candy-striped poles which marked the border between Finland and the Military zone. The Russians detached the Finnish locomotive and replaced it with one of their own. Before proceeding westward from the border checkpoint the train was meticulously inspected inside, under neath, and on top by frigid faced members of Stalin's police to make sure that all shades were drawn and nothing on board presented a threat to Soviet security.

A tall blond officer entered the compartment and barked something akin to the Russian equivalent of, "You are now entering Porkkula. You must stay in your places. All unpacked cameras will be smashed. Anyone trying to peer beyond the curtain will be shot. Welcome to the Soviet Union!"

He seemed especially upset to see so many American college students on the train. It seems that the day before a young photographer from Brooklyn College, who had more nerve than knack, was caught trying to lower his camera down through a lavatory by a belt and snap a photo with a cleverly contrived wire tripcord.

When we were halfway through the hoodwinked area, which the Finns call "the longest tunnel in the world," the Russian engine pitched into a steamy convulsion, haltered, and broke down completely. A fireman came through the car lugging pieces of black machinery. I approached the unsmiling sentry at the end of the car and offered him a fresh Lucky Strike. His granite frown implied "No Thanks." He did, however, give me a match which failed to light. I thanked him anyhow.

The Marxian mechanics swarmed over the defunct locomotive and soon we were rolling again. Forty-five minutes later a lengthy blast of the whistle announced our emergence from Soviet Porkkula. The Russian vigilantes hopped off and the Finnish police ripped down the curtains. There were absolutely no words exchanged at any time between the Finnish trainmen and the Russian military. Each played his well-rehearsed role of window draping and inspection in total pantomime.

A huckster came through the train selling sandwiches, coffee, and newspapers which told of the Russians protesting the violation of the Porkkula frontier by a British aircraft the night before. The Moscow dispatch declared that Russian vigilance over the naval base, which had been relaxed during the Olympic Games to allow planes to circle over Helsinki in bad weather, would again be enforced "in full measure."

Thirty miles to the east in Olympic Stadium athletes from Russia were engaged in brotherly competition with runners and wrestlers of seventy other nations. But the boys at Porkkula were not playing games.

"Everything Going Along Roughly?"

Drew Pearson
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Los Angeles—Here are the inside facts on General Eisenhower's book "Crusade in Europe," and the much-discussed capital-gains tax which the Bureau of Internal Revenue granted him.

The ruling is estimated to have saved Ike in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. Later, Congress adopted an amendment closing the loophole.

After a preliminary talk with Internal Revenue, Eisenhower wrote a letter to Undersecretary of the Treasury Archibald Wiggins on Dec. 20, 1947 outlining the following facts:

"Certain publishers have urged me to write a personal memoir of the war years.

"The proposal is that the publisher take in one transaction the complete bundle of rights. The sale would completely divorce me from further control over the manuscript. It would produce no further income to me.

"I am not a professional writer in any sense of the word.

"I am anxious to comply with every requirement of the law."

Eisenhower then asked the question: "Will the Treasury Department regard this transaction as a capital gains or as income?"

On Dec. 22, 1947—two days later—which was extremely fast action for the Treasury, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Schoeneman gave Eisenhower a reply. Ordinarily a reply on a matter of this kind does not come for a month—frequently longer.

Schoeneman wrote that Eisenhower's book looked like a capital asset transaction, but pointed out that Ike would have to hold the completed manuscript six months after its completion before selling it, if he was to get a capital gain.

Seven days later, on Dec. 29, Donald Richberg, a partner of Ambassador Joseph E. Davies who first suggested the capital-gains tax to Eisenhower, wrote commissioner Schoeneman:

"I am acting as volunteer adviser to General Eisenhower in regard to his memoirs."

Richberg then proceeded to raise some technical questions about the capital-gains tax, apparently to make sure that Ike's contract with the publishers would contain the clause necessary to insure a capital-gains tax.

The General then waited nearly a year. In this time the book was completed, and, after completion, it was held six additional months. Then he wrote another letter to Internal Revenue. Commissioner Schoeneman replied, Dec. 7, 1948:

"You state you completed 'Crusade in Europe' on March 24, 1948, that you held the manuscript and all rights for more than six months after completion, and that on Oct. 1, 1948 you sold the book to Doubleday and Doran, Inc. . . All rights to the book.

"In view of the above you request that the gains be classed as long-term capital gains.

"This office will recommend the approval of a closing agreement on the following basis:

"The manuscript entitled 'Crusade in Europe' completed by you on March 24, 1948, was a capital asset within the meaning of Sect. 117 (A) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code, and the amount of $635,000 received by yo uupon the sale of the manuscript constitutes a long-term capital gain."

It has been carefully hushed up, but South Africa has threatened to pull her troops out of Korea. The reason, far removed from Korea, is racial segregation.

The threat will be carried out, Premier Malan has warned, if the United States supports the Arab demand for an investigation of racial segregation in South Africa.

The loss of the South African troops would have little effect on U.N. military strength in Korea. But it would be the first break in the united front, and a severe psychological blow.

Inside story is that the Arab nations—including also India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Burma—have asked the United Nations to investigate the South African policy of "Apartheid," or discrimination against nonwhites.

This is a hot domestic issue in South Africa, so, in an effort to block the U.N. investigation, Premier Malan has resorted to diplomatic blackmail, threatening to pull his troops out of Korea and embarrass the United States before the world if we support the Arab move.

The issue is still hanging over the heads of the American delegation at the United Nations.

It hasn't leaked out to the public, but Russia has turned Korea over to the Chinese Communists as a "military protectorate."

This was the chief result of the Sino-Russian talks in Moscow last month.

The Chinese growing increasingly lukewarm over the Korean War and have been looking for a face-saving way out. So Russia, anxious to keep American military strength tied down in Korea, agreed to turn Korea over to the Chinese as a concession. In addition, the Kremlin promised to step-up military supplies to the Chinese.

The results of the Moscow agreement are already beginning to show on the front, where the North Korean units are being withdrawn and formed into supporting units for the Chinese.

What all this adds up to is that Korea, in the Communist scheme of things, is now a province of Red China. In other words, even the satellites are acquiring their own satellites now.

Harry Snook
NONPLUS

Nonplus recently used a dialogue to reflect the general impression left by the infirmary upon many students. Larry Spooner, whose clever retort in dialogue was printed in Sunday's paper, doesn't think much of the column's case against socialized medicine.

It wasn't much of a case. The main objective of Nonplus was to focus public attention on the infirmary's uncooperative attitude toward students.

Quite a few persons have corroborated a very real situation. The unanimous opinion, in so many words, was that the infirmary personnel should be reorientated as to their purpose in existing.

Nonplus will, in the near future, take a full stand on the important and complex issue of socialized medicine.

★

Were Carolina students showing their faces or another part of their anatomies when they jeered a fallen Texas player at the one game thus far?

A handful of sportsmen shamed and shushed the concerted and blood-thirsty cheer that began developing in the card section.

Further light was shed on student behavior when it became apparent our new cheerleader was brand new and not very apt at his job. Students set up a chant for "Nose" and got him, then really delivered the goods for him. The manner in which all of this was accomplished made the student snub of the cheerleader unquestionable.
was they who elected the boy was htey who elected the boy to lead them in Kenan reverberations. Maybe more attention will be paid the election of another head cheerleader next spring.

Crowding of seats was more pronounced than usual at the Texas game. But it takes more than ordinary gall to do what one fellow tried when confronted by a four-some with tickets for seats he and his friends were occupying.

"Someone else is in our seats," the lad said, "and we're not going to give up these until they get out of ours."

★

The Great Silence has descended upon the American people. Even when controversial issues such as the Korean War develop, there's always one to insist that you can't question our leaders because they're the only ones with the facts.

But the lowest layman with the least facts better adopt the best position he can and argue like hell for it.

When public pressure builds up against a government policy, either the government provides facts to substantiate its position or it drops the matter. That's democratic action.

In Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy, Franco's Spain, Peron's Argentina, Tito's Yugoslavia and Stalin's Russia the people have their governments' facts, too. The difference between those countries and ours is that we are still free to express our opinions in the most convincing manner possible.

A clash of opinions over conflicting "facts" is the surest and safest way to get near the truth, for the simple reason that proof is forced. Freedom is assured as long as there's argument among the people, in Congress, between presidential aspirants.

Express Yourself

Speakers

Editor:

I take rather serious exception to letter printed in your columns recently. The writer not only attacked the judgment of the board who invited speakers to Chapel Hill, but in two case he directly attacked my own choice. I have, unlike our prospective McKinley, voted in the past for both F.D.R., Jr. and for Senator Lehman. I have also voted for Senator Ives, and was pleased to see that the invitation committee "split its ticket" as I did.

I would suggest that our recipient voter take to reading something other than the Luce publications, (his attempts at vituperation are typically Timeish), and attempt to develop his judgment so that when, in six or seven years, he is called upon to vote, he may do so intelligently.

Martin Roeder
Dept. of Zoology, U.N.C.

Down Memory Lane

Editor:

Mind if I reminisce for a short moment? I can't help it after today's edition of the alleged Daily Tar Heel.

I remember your making a statement to me just before or after spring elections, 1952, which I quoted in one of my columns to the effect that you were Independent. I don't know just what this meant to you, but I took it to mean—and reported it in that respect—that you were without party ties and biases. But then, we all make mistakes, don't we? So, in direct reference to the write-up of the October 2nd Legislature meeting, and in general reference to previous write-ups of Legislature meetings, what do you mean by referring to yourself as "Independent?"

Next on my "Memory Lane" fiasco, I discover in my collection of old Daily Tar Heels this quote from one of your first editorials, "We still need a cosmic Thought Leader. . . ." If such a paragon actually lives and breathes here in Chapel Hill, let him come immediately to the office of the Editor and assume his role of "Opinion Molder." Obviously you found this much sought-after "Opinion Molder."

You go on to say in that editorial, "Otherwise you will have to rely on our honesty, sincerity, and common sense to give you the paper you deserve." Instead of commenting on that with my own descriptive phrases, I will simply quote about a dozen "Independent" fellow students I have talked with today: "The Daily Tar Heel made the University Party look like a Savior of Mankind today, didn't it, Bill?"

In writing this letter I am hoping the slanting your paper has been guilty of has been purely unintentional. If so, I hope I have in some way contributed to opening your eyes.

Bill C. Brown
S. P. Legislator

(We consider the essence of this letter so pathetically divorced from reality as to be unworthy of serious editorial rebuttal—ED.)

—Monogram—

(Continued from page 3)

Brigham, Harry E. Brown, William P. Cornell, Samuel F. Jordan, Roger J. Morris, Thomas A. McAllister, Albert A. Long, Jr., John R. Barden, Louis H. Beall, Robert B. Bell, John T. Bennett, Dale S. Ryon, Clifford M. Ray, Jr., Cecil A. Pless Jr., Morris F. Osborne, Jeff Newton, Barry Rizzo, Thomas T. White, Jr., and William H. Walker, Jr.

Lacrosse

Lyell Dawes, Jr., Michael K. Davis, James A. Bell, Jr., Newton B. Barkley, J., Robert Polk Linker, Richard T. Pillsbury, Gustace A. Kaufman, Earl Johnson, Walter R. Woody, Louis M. Walfsheimer, Thomas M. Stokes, Jr., Walt N. Ernest, Jack C. Fields, Lewis H. Floyd, Charles A. Friedman, Richard F. Harrell, John W. Hughes, and Paul D. Hursh.

Baseball

John Stowe, Harry Lloyd, William P. Lore, Don Marbry, Joe E. Morgan, Jr., John Mattsinger, William R. Paschall, Joseph J. Pazdan, Erwin W. White, Richard T. Weiss, William F. Reeves, Ben Smith, Thomas B. Stevens, Bruce Holt, Jr., Ben Berry, Charles I. Bridgers, Bruce A. Coats, Fred J. Dale, Jr., Connie M. Gravitte, Robert E. Henning, Jr., Mark Herring, Theodore Hesmer, Jr., and Chalmers M. Port.

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 — CHAPEL HILL

Yankees Beat Duke Snider, 3-2, To Even Series Count

On Other Fronts

By Biff Roberts

No Close Battle

Dick Herbert in the Raleigh News and Observer, concerning Saturday's Duke-Tennessee game.

"THE 7-0 VICTORY probably will be viewed several years from now as a very close battle. The score won't recall the ease with which Duke checked the Tennessee offense. Nor will it show the number of times the Blue Devils were threatening to score. As Neyland said after the game, 'We got beat worse than any 7-0.'

"Any time you lick Tennessee you have had a good day. Murray was delighted. He wouldn't pick out any individual stars, for he was proud of the way all of his boys had performed. Each week it is difficult to select one star above the others.

"If Murray had anything to cause him worry it was the failure to score more than once. The Duke offense ran up 261 yards on the ground against one of the best defenses in college football, but only one time could it cross the goal. In the beginning of the game a fumble stopped an 80-yard drive which was executed very impressively until quarterback Worth Lutz lost the handle on a snap from center on a play startin from the Tennessee 7."

A Bunch of Younguns'

Bob Brooks in the Raleigh News and Observer concerning Saturday's Georgia-N.C. State game.

"'WE'RE PLAYING A BUNCH of kids," the downcast coach of the Wolfpack (Horace Hendrickson) declared after a second straight lop-sided licking. "They're making the mistakes you expect of freshmen and sophomores, but youngsters happen to be all we've got. They'll have to learn their lessons in combat."

"There are 22 frosh and 17 sophomores on the State squad which has given up 88 points to George Washington and Georgia and has yet to cross the opposition's goal. Hendrickson's plea of inexperience is easily understandable . . .

"Regrettable but true, there is a little more than inexperience wrong with the State squad. The few veteran members of the squad have been big disappointments. Big Alex Webster, the leading scorer in the Southern Conference last season, has yet to make a noticeable contribution."

Across The Board

From The Charlotte Observer, Wilton Garrison's Sports Parade.

"WAKE FOREST is playing it straight across the board. The Deacons now have won one, lost one and tied one: 1-1-1. The Baptists had to come from behind and hustle to tie Boston College in the rugged scuffle these two teams always put on and the fans at Winston-Salem saw a good show.

Although he was disappointed his team was able to get no better than a tie, Coach Tom Rogers was by no means discouraged over the Deacons' performance. "The Eagles had a fine all around club and were definitely up on this one," he said. "Our boys did not play as well as we did against either Baylor or William and Mary. Our pass defense needs a lot of work during the coming weeks. We also have to improve a great deal on pass offense. We weren't nearly as effective in the air this week as we had been." However, Rogers rolled up 106 yards in 17 rushes and scored the lone touchdown. Hillenbrand amassed 86 yards in 11 carries. The Deacs have their toughest assignment of the early season against powerful Villanova at Philadelphia Saturday."

We're Hurtin'

Garrison again, reporting on Carolina.

"CANCELLATION OF TWO games due to polio just as the season got underway is far more serious to North Carolina than most people realize. What the Tar Heels, just starting with the split-T, needed more than anything else was experience—even if they lost. Game exprience is what counts. Furthermore, workouts will be limited to about an hour a day in light equipment on medical orders. Carolina players felt they were ready to give Georgia a real battle and the offense had been looking better in practice last week. The Tar Heels must start all over on October 18 against Wake Forest, a veteran team. The cancellation may wreck the Carolina season, although students report spirit is still high. The Tar Heels had hoped to start rolling at Athens and hit their peak in the third game against State. Now the third game for them will be Ocober 25. Experts say it requires three games in order to master the split - T for a new team using it.

Bum Star's Two Homers To No Avail

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—The New York Yankees threw the World Series into the seventh game as they edged out the Brooklyn Dodgers here at Ebbets Field this afternoon, 3-2. This evened the series at three wins apiece.

The game produced a host of heroes for each side. For the Dodgers, center fielder Duke Snider was the entire offense as he clouted two home runs over the high right field screen. Aged Preacher Roe turned in a brief but sterling relief appearance, while youthful starter Billy Loes pitched creditably for eight and one half innings.

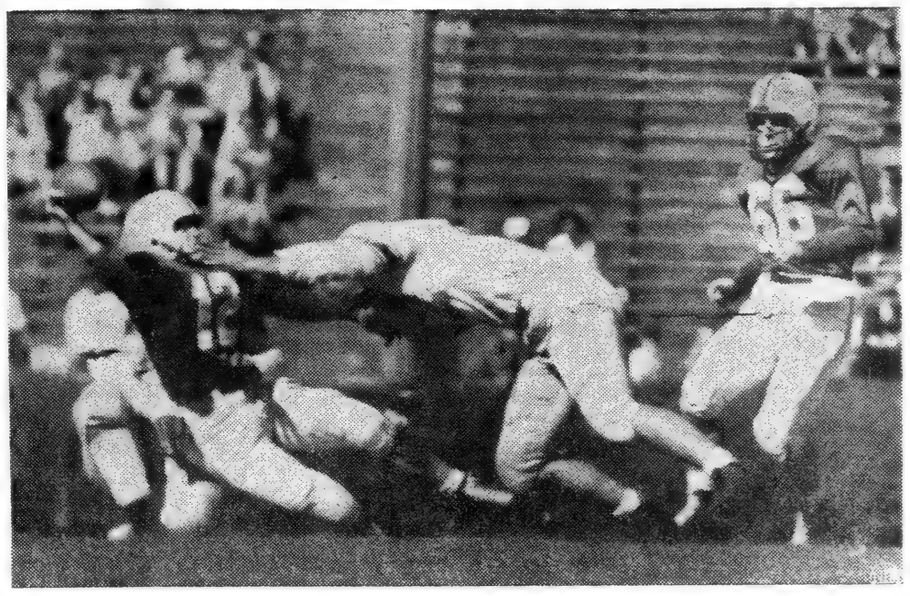
Raschi Bats

Righthanded Vic Raschi not only pitched well for seven and two thirds innings, but batted in the eventual winning run to boot. Chief Allie Reynolds came up with a game saving relief role. Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra each hit homers to share batitng honors with Raschi.

The 22 year old Loes and the veteran Raschi matched each other pitch for pitch for the first five innings. The Dodgers drew first blood in the sixth when Snider hit his first blast into Bedford Avenue.

Shouting from the 30,000 Flatbush faithful on hand had scarcely died away when Yogi Berra tied things. The squat catcher, the goat of the third game of the series, hit a round tripper in almost the same spot as Snider had slammed his a moment before.

Woodling Follows



Outfielder Gene Woodling, playing with a painful groin injury, followed Berra with a single. Loes fanned Irv Noren and retired Billy Martin. While facing Martin, Loes balked, allowing Woodling to go to second. A savage line drive from the bat of Raschi struck Loes on the left shin and bounded into right field, with Woodling limping in from second.

The Bronx Bombers got what proved to be the winning run in the top of the eighth when Sophomore outfielder Mickey Mantle hit a home run to deep left center for the longest clout of the day.

Snider Poles

With one out in the home half of the eight, Snider poled his second circuit clout, a blow almost identical to his first.. After Raschi retired Jackie Robinson, George Shuba kept the Dodger threat alive with a double. Reserve outfielder Elmundo Amoros was sent in to run for Shuba, as Roy Campanella came to bat. At this point Yankee manager Casey Stengel brought dependable

(See SERIES, Page 4)

This play was typical of Saturday's game between Georgia and the substituting Wolfpack from N.C. State. Here Pack quarterback Carl Wyles (12) gets thrown for a 15-yard loss in the first quarter in the game played at Athens, Ga. Wyles was attempting to pass when the hard-charging Georgia line broke through. Guard Frank Salerno and tackle Bill Young (82), who seems to be grabbing for Wyles Throat, made the tackle. State guard Bill Baker (66) is at right. Georgia throttled the Pack, 49-0.—NEA Telephoto.

Duke, Notre Dame And Virginia Win; State And Miami Lose; Deacons Tie

By Tom Peacock

Most of North Carolina's football opponents for the rest of the season had a field day last Saturday, and the idle Tar Heels will have to whip themselves into top shape by October 18 when they meet Wake Forest.

Of the eight teams Carolina has to play, including State, four won, three lost, and one tied. Two Carolina opponents, Tennessee and Duke, played each other.

Wake Forest's Deacons were surprised by a fired up Boston College team, and the Deacs were held to a 7-7 tie by the Eagles. The Deacs scored early in the last quarter to tie Boston, and Wake Forest coach Tom Rogers was disappointed in the showing of his charges.

"We didn't play as well as we did against Baylor and William and Mary," said Rodgers, "mainly because the boys weren't in as good a mental attitude. You can't expect them to be up for every game. We've won one, lost one, and tied one now. All we have to do is get rained out."

It was bad news from Austin, Texas as far as the Tar Heels were concerned. Notre Dame scored twice in the second half to defeat mighty Texas on its home field, and the Irish will be even harder to whip when Carolina meets them in South Bend October 25.

Texas had Notre Dame, 3-0, but Johnny Lattner, Irish back, intercepted a pass on the Texas 30, and then scored from the three yard line a few plays later. Ralph Guglieliami generaled Notre Dame to the win from his quarterback spot. The Irish defensive unit played excellent ball throughout, and proved itself as one of the best in the country.

The outlook for Carolina's homecoming game, November 8 against Virginia is not much brighter. The Cavaliers romped over Vanderbilt week before last and then Saturday snapped the win streak of VPI with a crushing 42-0 victory. Virginia has rolled up 69 points without being scored upon in two games.

Virginia coach Art Guepe has one of the most talented quarterbacks in the east in Mel Roach, and Roach has three fast and powerful running mates to direct.

The Tar Heels were looking for a little breather in South Carolina, but the Gamecocks have shown a powerful offense in downing Furman 27-7 last Saturday. South Carolina had previously lost to Army in a 28-0 rout.

Next on the Tar Heel schedule is almighty Dook, 7-0 victor over Tennessee, another Carolina opponent. The Blue Devils are still undefeated, and indications are that they will be the team to beat in the south this year. The defensive Duke line handily squelched any offense the Vols may have had, while the explosive Blue Devil backfield had everything but a touchdown thrust.

Miami U., the last Tar Heel scheduled opponent, lost a tough one to Alabama, 20-7. Miami was not quite good enough for 'Bama, but it proved it had a scoring machine by romping over VMI the week before.

And then there is State.

Awards To Be Presented To 79 Tonight

Membership emblems will be presented 79 members of the spring athletic teams by the Monogram Club tonight at 7:15. The club will meet in the club room for the presentations. Old members are also urged to attend.

Those who are to receive their emblems are:

Golf

William M. Parker, Thomas L. Langley, Barksdale F. Roberts, William E. Thornton, Jr., Purvis J. Ferree, Jr., Robert H. Black, William H. Williamson, III, and Lewis A. Brown.

Tennis

Cecil J. Milton, Richard S. Sajy, Palmer R. Sylvia, Bobby Payne, Robert G. Hewitt, John R. Booker Jr., Ronald Kerdosha, Bill H. Islar, Samuel D. Houdel, and Herbert H. Brown, Jr.

Track

Frank G. Scott, III, Eugene F.

(See MONOGRAM, page 2)

Rent—Buy—Brouse at the
BULL'S HEAD BOOKSHOP
STEINBECK'S
East of Eden

Fencing Drills Slated To Start

The fencing club and team will hold practice sessions every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoon. The sessions, which will be held from four to six, will begin this afternoon. The meetings will be conducted on the main floor of Woollen gymnasium.

Coach David Evans will be in charge of the team. Coach Evans plans to instruct his pupils in epee, foil, and sabre.

The Tar Heel swordsmen will take two trips during the season. They will also make several home appearances.

Any boy interested in fencing is welcome to attend the practice meetings and try out for the team.

Come To The
BARGAIN DAY
SALE
★ 24 Mo. Battery $13.95
★ Permanent type Anti-freeze ..... $ 3.45
★ Prestone ..... $ 3.75
WESTERN AUTO ASSOCIATE STORE
Home Owned—Operated
W. Chapel Hill St. 9-5259

SALE

MEN'S ALL-WOOL
SLACKS
$10.95
Values To $15.95

WOOL SLACKS FOR CAMPUS and leisure hours, tailored with continuous waist band, picked side seams, off seam pockets and talon zipper fly. Shades that all men want! Sizes 28 to 42 waist.

• ALL WOOL FLANNELS
• BEDFORD CORDS
• WOOL GABARDINE

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

"We're sure getting a higher class of people since we started serving Gin 'n Bitters*"

ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Three dashes of Angostura . . . roll it around in the glass . . . ice cube . . . ounce and a half of gin. Result—Gin 'n Bitters, the dryest of dry gin drinks!

"BEDAZZLES THE EYE!
A rare and thrilling fusion of pantomime, music and dance. 'Tales of Hoffmann' is splendid!"
—Bosley Crowther, N.Y. Times
"★★★★ Brilliant! Lavish! Imaginative! Miss Shearer (and) Ludmilla Tcherina dance divinely! Not-to-be-forgotten!" —Kate Cameron, Daily News
London Films presents a Powell-Pressburger Production
Tales of Hoffmann
by Jacques Offenbach color by TECHNICOLOR • co-starring MOIRA SHEARER • LEONIDE MASSINE • ROBERT HELPMANN • ROBERT ROUNSEVILLE • and presenting LUDMILLA TCHERINA • A Lopert Films Release
Carolina
T-O-D-A-Y And Wednesday
First time at popular prices
HOURS OF SHOW
1-3:04—5:08
7:12—9:16

Art Guild To Welcome Thrift Shop Donations

Old clothes, white elephants—almost anything—will be welcome as contributions to the Thrift Shop conducted by the Chapel Hill Art Guild.

Proceeds from sales go for the salary of an art teacher for local schools.

We Recommend —
QUEEN ANNE'S
AMERICAN KINGS
by Chapel Hill's Own
Richmond P. Bond
$5.00
— AT —
Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

T-O-D-A-Y
and
WEDNESDAY
Varsity

WSSF-Campus Chest

The World Student Service Fund and the Campus Chest will meet this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the YMCA Cabinet room with Leon Marion as special guest.

Rules Committee

All members of the Rules Committee of the Student Legislature are requested to meet in the Roland Parker Lounge Number 1 this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Publications Board

The Publications Board will meet this afternoon in the Grail Room, second floor Graham Memorial, at 4 o'clock.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Pi Delta Phi

There will be a meeting of the Pi Delta Phi tonight at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining room at Lenoir Hall for all interested in speaking French.

UP

The University Party will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge 1 of Graham Memorial.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega will meet in Roland Parker Lounge 2 tonight at 7 o'clock.

Army Reservists

There will be a meeting of Army Reservists for latest trends and policies at the Reserve Armory, 803 Angier Avenue, Durham, tomorrow night at 7:30. Rides can be obtained by calling 9-2501.

Art Class

The evening sketch class will hold its first meeting tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the Person Hall Art Gallery.

Insurance Club

The organizational meeting of the Insurance Club showing the film, "From Every Mountain Side", will meet Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Swain Hall.

Radio Students

Qualifying examinations for radio students will be given October 14, 2-4 o'clock, and October 15, 2-3 o'clock, in 210 Peabody Hall.

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames will meet at 8 p.m. today in Graham Memorial for bridge and canasta.

New Marine Society To Meet On Thursday

Prospective members of the newly organized Semper Fidelis Society have been mailed notice of their first meeting.

The organization, which is composed of PLC, OCC, and NROTC Marine members and Marine Reserve students, will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, in the Midshipmen's Lounge at the Naval Armory.

Eligible students who attend this first meeting will be designated charter members of the society.

The objectives of the society are to stimulate interest in the Marine Corps on campus, to discuss current Marine Corps policies, to receive guest speakers and to sponsor parties and social events. The first meeting will be a business meeting to elect officers and to formulate by-laws and plans for the year.

—Series—

(Continued from page 3)

Allie Reynolds in from the bullpen. Reynolds promptly fanned the Brooklyn catcher to end the inning.

In the top of the ninth the Bronxites threatened to break the game wide open. Gil McDougald walked and was sent to third on a single by Phil Rizutto.

CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED

BALLET TEACHER WANTED. PREferably for afternoon or night work. Vacancy open. State qualifications and salary. Write Box 1525, Burlington, N. C.

(1-9453-6)

FOR SALE

FOR SALE WEBB-CORR WIRE RECORDER and 11 reels of tape. Has been used apr. 15 hours. Excellent condition. Phone 91391.

LOST

LOST-STERLING SILVER RECTANGULAR purse watch. Size: apr. 1"x1½". Finder telephone 4231. Liberal reward.

Draws 8,000

Patterson's Play Fills Grid Field

By Sam Holmes

Tom Patterson, professor of playwriting at the University, brought a new drama to life on a football field in West Virginia coal mining country.

Patterson's play, "The Aracoma Story", was produced at the Centennial Celebration of the City of Logan, West Virginia, on Sept. 11 and 12, with William MacIlwinen, formerly of the Carolina Playmaker staff, directing.

Telling the story of the first settlers at Logan—a Shawnee Indian clan with one white member—the play drew crowds of better than 8,000 in its two-night run, and was so well liked that the Logan Banner has come out editorially in favor of making it an annual production.

The City of Logan (population 5,166) had never seen such stage drama before. (Offstage it had seen a good bit, including the Hatfield-McCoy feud.) When the city fathers were planning their centennial celebration they first thought that the thing to do would be to get a big carnival. They knew that would be a success. Then they thought that they should mark the occasion with something more meaningful, and they asked Paul Green, well known for such pageants as "The Lost Colony" and "The Common Glory", to write a pageant about the history of Logan. Green was otherwise committed and referred them to Patterson. Patterson went to Logan early in July and after three weeks of research set about writing "The Aracoma Story."

The play starts with the capture of Bolling Baker, a soldier in General Braddock's army, by the Shawnee in 1757. Baker and the Indian princess Aracoma fall in love, and Baker becomes converted to the Indian point of view.

The increasing ruthlessness of the white settlers against the Indians finally leads Baker to a willingness to betray his own race. When he tries to lead a reprisal against the whites, however, his simple feeling for humanity makes him back down. The play ends with the Indian settlement at Logan wiped out by the whites and all but Baker dead. Baker is in despair at the grave of Aracoma when her ghost appears to him with words of hope that the next settlers at Logan may build a good and peaceful community there.

The entire production was budgeted at $5,000, a small amount compared to the costs of many of the other historical pageants that were prduced this summer. The local football field was used as an amphitheatre, and the cast, which totaled 100, was made up entirely of local people.

Adapting his play to budget limitations, Patterson used a Shakespearean type stage, with the audience sitting on three sides. Knowing that the actors' voices would not carry well on the football field, he had them perform in pantomime. The voices were dubbed in over a loudspeaker system by concealed readers.

Producing the play on the football field had its advantages, because Middleburg Island, on which the field is located, was the site of the village where Princess Aracoma and Bolling Baker lived and ruled. It gave the spectators an extra dimension of enjoyment to realize that the things they were seeing on the stage actually happened in the same locale.

A disadvantage, however, was that the stage could not be set up until a few nights before the performance, because the local team had a home game.

The worst problem in the production was getting the cast together.

Job Seekers To Hear Talk On Placing

K. F. Bevan Jr., manager of the Personnel Administration Department of Vick Chemical Company in Greensboro, will speak to senior men and women tonight at 7:30 in Gerrard Hall.

Placement Director Joe Galloway of UNC will explain how his office helps students and alumni find jobs.

Bevan has a broad background for discussing with students the employer's reliance upon placement offices as the best source for college graduates. He has been an active recruiter of college graduates, president of the Greensboro Area Personnel Association and a member of the board of directors of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

According to Galloway, employers are already scheduling recruiting trips for this school year. Veteran and non-veteran seniors who wish to take advantage of campus interviews should attend this meeting, he said. Undergraduates who would like to preview job-hunting prospects also are invited to attend.

ALTERATIONS?
★ MEN'S ★ WOMEN'S
★ ALL - KINDS
Quality —:— Speed
See Us At——
JACK LIPMAN'S

YOU'LL STILL FIND
I GO POGO
at a buck a copy at
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Comfort plus Economy
NUNNBUSH and ROBLEE SHOES
"Best in Shoe Repairing"
LACOCK SHOE SHOP
E. Franklin St. Ph. 9-2976

FINE WATCH REPAIRING
RING SIZING
ALL TYPES RING REPAIRING
★ Prompt Service
★ Reasonable Prices
Elgin and Bulova Watches
Columbia Diamonds
Murdock's JEWELERS
"Temporarily located in the building with Carolina Drapery Shop on W. Franklin Street."
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

October 4-11 ——
NATIONAL PHARMACY WEEK

——Every Week Is
PHRAMACY WEEK AT EUBANKS
Professional Service by
3 Experienced Pharmacists
Eubanks Drug Co.
—Entering Our 61st Year—

"ONE OF THE TEN BEST PICTURES OF THIS DECADE!"
LOUIS SOBOL, King Features Syndicate
"A MILEPOST IN MOVIE HISTORY!" FRANK CONNIFF — N. Y. Journal-Amer.

MILLIONS HAVE AGREED THAT THIS STORY OF THE YOUNG GIRL OF FATIMA IS THE GREAT TRUE STORY OF THIS CENTURY!
WARNER BROS. PRESENT
THE Miracle OF OUR LADY OF Fatima
ALL ITS SPECTACLE AND MAGNIFICENCE IN COLOR BY WARNERCOLOR
"INSPIRATIONAL! IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE!" —DAILY NEWS
SEE THE MIRACLE PICTURE OF 1952
THURSDAY—FRIDAY
Varsity
Children ....25c Matinee 74c
Night $1.00

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Flatbush Left Flat As Yankees Bush Bums, 4-2

See Story On Page 3

WEATHER

Cloudy and colder with 60 high today. Yesterday's high, 60; low, 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 13 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

COEDS

Editor Farber met Carolinians outside of Carolina. See page 2.

Button Up Your Overcoat

Campus Shivers

Tar Heels better turn up their collars for Autumn's first extended cold spell is here.

With the low going to near 40 degrees early this morning, the weatherman forecast a repeat performance for tonight. Today's high is expected to go near 60. The cold snap should last to the weekend, R. M. Evans, U. S. Weather Bureau meterologist, said.

No frost is forecast and the days will be partly cloudy with some winds, the weatherman added.

The cold front, moving in from the north, hit Asheville Monday night with a low of 38.

Welfare Head Asks For Boarding Homes

The need for boarding homes for children is increasing, the superintendent of the Orange County Welfare Department said yesterday.

Miss Annie Strowd said the state-wide program which assists in providing boarding homes for children is one of the most valuable programs administered by welfare agencies. She said she believed more homes would be offered for this purpose if the people knew the need and the plan which provides them.

Boarding homes are licensed, Miss Strowd said, to take care of children who are in one of two groups. One group is made up of children who are being studied for adoption. The other group is composed of children who are not living in their own home.

The County Welfare Department shares responsibility for the child with the foster parent and a staff member makes regular visits to the home. The state boarding home fund is made available to counties on a 50 per cent matching basis for individual children.

In Orange County there are six boarding homes caring for 12 children. More are needed, Miss Strowd said. She asked those interested to contact the office in Chapel Hill or Hillsboro.

Consolidated Council On TV Reviews Films

A Television Council made up of representatives from the three branches of the Consolidated University met Monday afternoon in Swain Hall to review 12 kinescope films.

The films, produced in the main studio of Swain Hall, consist of lectures and demonstrations by professors from the University, State College and Woman's College.

Members of the counsel are Dr. Logan Wilson, William Friday, Dean C. P. Lyons, C. E. Teague and Earl Wynn of Chapel Hill; Dean S. H. McNutt, Charles Phillips and Dean Katherine Taylor of Greensboro, and Rudolph Pate, E. W. Ruggles and Dean John W. Shirley of Raleigh. Also present was Ann Spinney of the Ford Foundation.

'The Pink Circus' Tryouts To Begin

The Playmakers will begin tryouts this afternoon for the first experiment of their new season, "The Pink Circus". Auditions will begin at 4 p. m. They will be informal and open to all. The drama, which tells the story of matricide in a Mexican labor camp, has a cast of six men and five women, with boys and girls of the camp.

No New Cases

No new cases of polio were reported yesterday and Dr. E. McG. Hedgpeth, University physician, said the condition of the five stricken students was improved.

State's Youth Are Healthier For This War

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

RALEIGH, Oct. 7—Statistics indicate North Carolina's draft-age youths are healthier than the draftees of World War II.

The rejection rate is running lower for the Korean War than for World War II, though the physical standards remain practically the same. Forty-two and seven-tenths percent of North Carolinians called in the Korean draft failed as compared to 44.6 percent rejected in World War II.

Col. Thomas Upton, North Carolina's Selective Service chief, said he knew no explanation for the healthier men but suggested the change might be statistical only.

However, other statistics show North Carolina has risen in rank among the Southern states since 1945. From its position just above South Carolina, second from the bottom, North Carolina has risen to fourth from the bottom in the percentage of 4-F's.

Press Club Given Advice By Russell

"If you want a job on a big city newspaper, don't go to New York—stay in the South or head Southwest."

That was the advice of Journalism Professor Phillips Russell in a talk on "The Job Quest" before the Press Club Monday night.

"Take Texas. If I were a young man and wanted to work on a big city paper I'd head for Texas right now," Russell said with a smile. "There are lots of big towns there, overflowing money and vulgarity and everything."

He noted, however, that for many people small town newspaper work can be equally as rewarding as big city work.

"I know of one weekly newspaper man in North Carolina who never makes less than $5,000 a year, and he works about four hours a week," Russell told the prospective journalists.

He explained that the rewards come usually in the form of an easier pace of life, a family and a home, a good car, and time for such things as fishing and attending the football games at Chapel Hill.

Russell said that New York, New England and the Midwest have dried up as a source for jobs on big city newspapers.

"When I graduated from Carolina and went to work for a North Carolina daily paper my first paycheck was $20 for a months' work," Russell said. "I asked my boss for a raise and he agreed.

(See PRESS, page 4

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—15,000 screaming Chinese Communists pushed ahead here yesterday to overrun seven Allied hill positions. Allied infantrymen counterattacked in an effort to regain a vital outpost on the western front near White Horse Mountain. Allied troops surged back against the Reds under the eerie, flickering light of aerial flares, searchlights and exploding artillery shells. A correspondent reported that a roaring artillery barrage powered yesterday's assault. The Reds pumped 1,200 rounds an hour at each of the heights before the Allied infantry charge.

★

SAGINAW, Mich.—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson accused Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday of giving comfort to Russia with charges that American prosperity is based on a war economy. The Democratic presidential candidate hurled the charge at Eisenhower in a prepared speech here. "There is no greater disservice the Republican candidate could do America in its world role than to suggest that our economic strength here at home is a war prosperity," declared the Illinois governor. Last night in Detroit the governor spoke on the Communist menace, at home and abroad.

★

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ignored Adlai Stevenson yesterday to feud with President Truman over which party would do the most for the Pacific Northwest in water power development Last night in Seattle he tagged Truman as "an expert in political demogoguery"" giving the people "a course in nonsense fiction." Eisenhower was enthusiastically received by a crowd of over 10,000.

★

LOS ANGELES—Ed Max, 43-year old radio actor, startled a House Un-American Activities subcommittee by tossing his war medals to a congressman and telling him to "take them back to President Truman." Max claimed that "unfriendly" witnesses falsely testified against him.

★

EN ROUTE WITH TRUMAN—President Truman stumped east across Colorado yesterday after sarcastically comparing the Republican "truth squad" to his 1949 "shadow"—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. He sneered at the three Republican senators who make up the so-called "truth squad", calling them a "synthetic brigade." "You know what's the trouble?" challenged the President. "We're telling the truth on them, and that really hurts," he added.

★

PHILADELPHIA — An Air Force C-47 transport plane seeking to land during a heavy fog crashed into a wooded area here yesterday, killing three crew members and injuring three passengers.

Dorms To Pick Top Four Men Today From Heavy Slate

Happy Days Here Again! Pogo Leaves Swamps For Chapel Hill

Pogo embarked from the South Georgia swamps yesterday, getting ready to climb back into the pages of The Daily Tar Heel.

Yielding to the prod of student opinion, the Publications Board voted to bring back the popular swamp crittur as well as retain his would-be competitor, Drew Pearson. Pogo is now in the midst of his presidential campaign but wired The Daily Tar Heel he would cancel all engagements to complete the necessary arrangements.

Editor Barry Farber, speaking from behind a pile of pro-Pogo letters said beggingly, I've received enough Pogo petitions to wallpaper a two-story warehouse. Please let us have him back." The PB did.

The creation of Cartoonist Walt Kelly, Pogo made his initial appearance in The Daily Tar Heel last year. His popularity was attested by dozens of letters with hundreds of names protesting his dismissal this fall.

In conclusion, Farber goodnaturedly pleaded guilty to what he called "misevaluating the popularity of the marsupial politician."

'Distant Journey' Show In Memorial Tomorrow

"Distant Journey," second in a series of outstanding movies to be here under student auspices, will be shown in Memorial Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Students are reminded of the change in meeting place. The first movie was held in Graham Memorial but the remainder of the series is scheduled for Memorial Hall because of its extensive seating capacity.

"Distant Journey" is a Czech film giving the personal story of a Jewish family under the Nazi occupation of Czechoslovakia.

The series is sponsored by the Student Union Activities Board. Students may purchase season tickets at the door.

Other films include "Jennie Lamour" with Louis Jouvet and Suzy Delair. It is a story of people and life in the music halls of postwar Paris and police methods of the French Scotland Yard, and will be shown Thursday, October 16.

"The Magic Horse" (U.S.S.R.), a color cartoon, will be shown on October 23. The film is based on one of the favorite Russian folk tales.

"Lucretia Borgia" (France) with Edwige Feuillere, Gabriel Gabrio and Josette Day is scheduled for October 30. It is the story of the lives and loves of the infamous Borgias of ancient Rome with historical portraits of Lucrezia, Caesar—and Machiavelli.

A special program consisting of five films on classical ballet and folk dances will be shown on November 6. It is called the Dance Film Festival.

Texas Dean Coming Here For Law Talk

Dean Robert G. Storey, of the Law School of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, president of the American Bar Association, will deliver an address at the University October 23.

The announcement was made yesterday by Dean Henry Brandis of the University Law School.

Dean Storey will speak to students and faculty members of the Law School at a dinner meeting in the Carolina Inn. His topic will be "Law Schools and the Legal Profession."

The following day, October 24, Dean Storey will address the North Carolina State Bar Association at a meeting in Raleigh on the subject, "Professional Leadership."

Dean Storey, who was admitted to the Texas Bar in 1914, served in both World War I and World War II.

Seniors May Apply Early

Coast Guard applicants may now make application 120 days before their graduation.

The word came yesterday from Commander E. R. Cardwell, USCGR. Commander Cardwell said the applicant must submit a transcript of his credits earned up to the application date, a copy of his present schedule and the date on which he will get his degree.

Professors Dismissed On Refusal To Testify

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—The Board of Higher Education yesterday fired three college professors for their refusal to tell a Senate committee whether they had been Communist party members.

While the session was being held at Hunter College some 75 students shouted in behalf of the professors from the street.

Umstead Says Faculty Sure To Get Raise

A state legislator in a recent talk here said he felt a salary increase of 10 percent for the University faculty "will be passed without any question" at the Legislature this January.

Legislator John Umstead spoke to the American Association of University Professors in the Faculty Lounge of Morehead Planetarium.

Dean Guy Phillips preceded Umstead and explained a recent letter from Consolidated University President Gordon Gray concerning the payment of professors' salaries for the 1952 summer session.

The meeting was adjourned with the introduction of the new members of the various departments.

NROTC Unit Adds Sprowl As Yeoman

Capt. J. S. Keating, USN, Professor of Naval Science at the University, yesterday said Chief Yeomen Hugh L. Sprowl, USN, has reported for duty on the staff of the NROTC Unit.

Sprowl is a veteran submariner with 25 years of naval service. He is a native of Jeffersontown, Kentucky.

In the 25 years that Chief Sprowl has served in the Navy he has visited 28 foreign countries. Prior to reporting to the local unit for duty the chief was attached to the staff of Commander Submarine Division 22, on the USS PIPER (SS 409), based in New London, Connecticut.

Sprowl is married and has two children.

Demo Drive Starts Today

Democratic volunteer solicitors start a national campaign today to collect $5 contributions from each citizen to help elect the Democratic ticket.

Volunteers are needed for the campus drive and are asked to contact Julian Mason, 34 Old West Dormitory or Margaret Davis Thompson, 217 Spencer Dormitory.

Polls To Open At 9, To Close At 6 Tonight

Balloting Slated In Every Dorm; Runoffs Tomorrow

By Earl Yandle

Dormitory residents will elect their officers today from the largest list of candidates to file for office in years.

The polls will be open in the individual dormitories from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. with elections being held for four offices in each dorm: president, Interdormitory Council representative, vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

The president will be elected for a full year, but since the IDC is starting a new system of overlapping terms, the IDC representatives will be elected to serve only until March. After this election, the representatives will be elected for a full year, March to March.

Also serving with the new council will be incumbent officers, Paul Somerville, Bill Acker, W. D. Gurley and John Ingle, all elected last March.

Among other duties, the IDC has the responsibility of electing at its first meeting the IDC Court. The court, which maintains dormitory social rules, will have an extra load work this year due to the addition of social rooms to the dorms.

Any run-offs made necessary by today's elections will be held tomorrow, President Paul Somerville said yesterday.

The list of candidates as released by Ray Jefferies, assistant to the Dean of Students, follows:

Alexander Dorm: president, Don Huntington and Marty Sides; vice-president, Bill Woosley, Jim Wiles, Rupert Williams and Ed Bulluck; sec.-treas., Harold Austin, Jerry Daughtridge, Richard Creed and Gene Maloney; IDC Rep., Kit Crittendon, Doug Dodson, G. L. Tweed and Bill Tolbert.

Aycock Dorm: Pres., Bob Hinshaw and James Pruett; vice-pres., Mahon (Mike) Parker and Donald McCormick; sec.-treas., Kenneth Frye and Phillip Ransdell, and IDC Rep., A. Earl Garrett, John Hallett and Allen Bader.

Battle-Vance-Petitgrew Dorm: Pres., Robert P. Hyatt, Gerald Parker and Ernest L. Robinson; vice-pres., Carl Williams, Marc J. Gittleman, George W. Belk, III, Roland E. Clemmons and Richard W. Burton.

Cobb Dorm: president, Johnny Poindexter and Cam Stubbs; vice-pres., Maurice Canaday and Bill Carter; sec.-treas., Maurice Norton and Don Geiger; West End IDC Rep., Jack Vernon, Clabe Lynn, and Jerry Rufty; Center Section IDC Rep., Harry Pearsal and Ray Hemby and East Section IDC Rep., Stan Tesler,

(See DORMS, Page 4)

Vintage For TV

Cases Of Wine Get Television For Roommates In Cobb Dorm

By Tom Parramore

A couple of enterprising lads in Cobb Dormitory have come up with something novel in the line of dormitory room fixtures.

Bill Fetzer and his roommate John Lambert brought a TV set from their home, Rocky River, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland. They installed the set in their dorm room.

Seems that this summer Fetzer's father, a wine-dealer, transacted with the owner of a radio shop whereby two cases of wine traded addresses with a new TV, complete with antenna and table. Bill wrote to UNC Housing Director James Wadsworth for permission to bring it south. Wadsworth said it would be all right providing that no outside antenna was used.

So when time came to leave for school, Bill, a soph soccer player, packed the set into the back seat of his car, utilizing blankets and rugs to ensure its safe 650-mile transit.

By setting up the antenna on the inside, the boys are now able to pick up Greensboro with surprising clarity. During the past week an average of a dozen neighbors a day squeezed into their room to watch the world series games.

"We save money by not going to the movies," says Fetzer. Weekends the boys like to take in the top college and professional football games as well as other favorite programs.

Fetzer himself, has appeared on TV quite a bit. He is a ventriloquist and had a program every Saturday for about two months this summer. He and his wooden friend "Jerry McGee" also have made appearances in Chapel Hill and in Raleigh.

Bill is a cousin of former athletic director Bob Fetzer. Lambert, his roommate, is a freshman footballer.

Law and Juniors

Today is the last day for sophomores to have their pictures taken for the 1953 Yackety Yack.

Tomorrow and Friday pictures will be taken of juniors and of Law School students. Picture dress is white shirts, ties and coats for the boys and white blouses for the girls.

The photographing is being done in the basement of Graham Memorial. There is no charge.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

Night Editor for this issue: Biff Roberts

This Sounds Familiar

(Yack Editor Hugh Gale clipped our Sunday editorial and mailed it back to us as a Letter-to-the-Editor in a last ditch effort to lure a sluggish student body into the subterranean lair of he Yack photographer. As a reward to Hugh's originality plus our keen appreciation of his problem—we now reprint his requested plea in full.—ED.)

Man is basically an irrational being. How do we know? Consider the perennial enigma of the Yackety Yack.

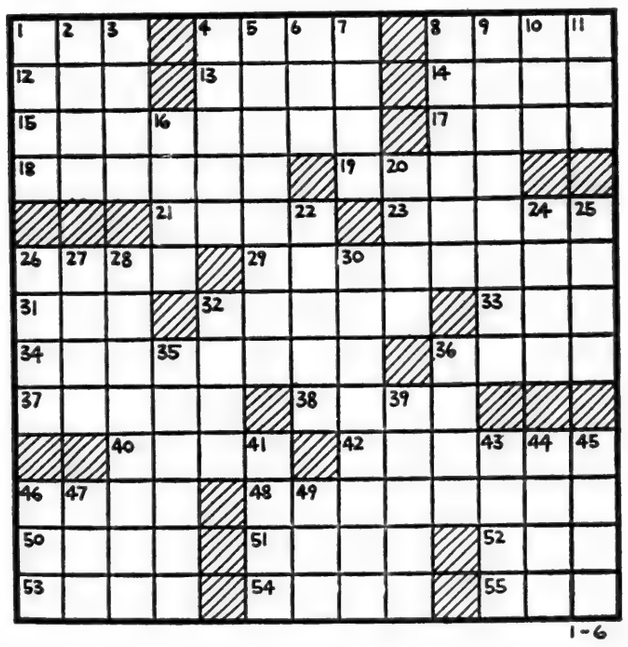
Every fall the editors of our annual hire photographers to come to Graham Memorial and take pictures of every student for publication in the spring edition of the yearbook. They draw posters announcing photo schedules for each class. They print notices in THE DAILY TAR HEEL, circulate handbills, and run screaming through the quads so every student will be made aware that it's "now or never" if he cares to be pictured among those in attendance at the University of North Carolina.

So what happens? Yack editor Hugh Gale says, "Our pleas for students to drop by and pose seem to be the signal for everybody to steer clear of the basement of Graham Memorial. You'd think I had a leprosy sign on my chest."

Then midway through the spring quarter the elegant, bound volumes roll off the presses with only a pitiful percentage of the student body shown smiling from the glossy pages. Hundreds of indignant students then echo their protests that they were categorically ignored by the Yackety Yack because of their grades, their fraternity, their political affiliation, or their family background.

If you ask one of the slighted students why he didn't allot ten minutes of the fall quarter to ensure his appearance in the Yack he will swear nobody told him—or nobody told him the exact time—or nobody told him it was the last chance.

Hugh Gale plans to sleep well, eat heartily, and graduate on schedule whether anybody files for Yack photos or not. If you wish to be included in the 1952-53 annual, conform with the notices appearing regularly on the front page of this newspaper. If not, please remember that we tried everything short of a court subpoena to get you before the cameras and be sure to hold your fire when May rolls around.



Come And Get It

The YMCA Lost and Found department has a problem.

There are pens, pencils, garters, ginger snaps and Japanese searfs waiting to be claimed. The Lost and Found office has enough glasses to outfit Argus and sufficient cigaret lighters to establish competition with the Southern Realms.

Many things have been left over from last year, but many more are gathering. The clothes that were left over from last year were sent to cover Korean children and some of the other items were auctioned. As much as the Lost and Found bureau would like to help the Korean kids they would rather return them to their rightful owners and let them be the contributors to the cause.

For all those who have lost or found something the place to report is the YMCA information office—J.R.

1-6

HORIZONTAL
1. watch chain ornament
4. mythological king
8. goad
12. past
13. chafe
14. city in Nevada
15. vex
17. above
18. looked slyly
19. act listlessly
21. the lily
23. Persian fairies
26. graceful web-footed bird
29. devise
31. aspiration
32. takes out
33. auditory organ
34. offers marriage
36. serf
37. legendary nymph (var.)
38. portico
40. golf mounds
42. endured
46. accessory seed covering
48. bearded
50. stupefy
51. hue
52. male offspring
53. stained
54. incites
55. ship timber piece

VERTICAL
1. disappoint
2. mythical monster
3. tiresome person
4. following
5. asperses
6. allow
7. detail
8. appropriate
9. dreamings
10. single unit
11. June bug
16. Persia
20. chooses
22. jetties
24. "The Terrible" czar
25. stage of plant formation
26. undermines
27. thin, but tough and sinewy
28. alienate in mortmain (law)
30. cuddling
32. accomplished
35. skinned
36. the Orient
39. hop kilns
41. satiate
43. Russian news agency
44. type of collar
45. repudiate
46. annex
47. beam
49. outfit

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

F	A	R		M	A	P		S	E	T	A	L
E	R	E		E	R	A		I	R	A	T	E
E	T	E	R	N	A	L		R	I	T	E	S
L	E	V	I		S	A	N	E	S	T
S	L	E	D	S		T	O	N		E	R	R
			E	A	T	E	N		F	R	E	E
S	H	I	R	T	S		E	R	A	S	E	D
P	I	N	S		A	S	S	E	T
A	E	S		O	R	C		S	H	O	R	T
		P	A	R	S	O	N		E	V	O	E
T	H	I	R	D		O	U	T	R	A	G	E
E	E	R	I	E		P	R	O		T	E	N
D	R	E	A	R		S	L	Y		E	R	S

1-6

Average time of solution: 22 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber — Personally — Olympic Diary

HELSINKI, July 26—You may remember an editorial in The Daily Tar Heel last spring calling for all Carolina students who planned to attend the Olympics to register with the American Legion here and leave their Helsinki phone number so we could get in touch with each other and maybe pitch a beer brannigan on the banks of the Baltic. During the Games I was a house guest in the cozy walk-up apartment of Mr. K. T. B. Koskenkyla, whose daughter, incidentally, was meanwhile a chemistry student at the University of North Carolina.

Mr. Koskenkyla is a prominent shipbuilder in Helsinki and his phone had a loathsome habit of remaining black and silent while he was at home and ringing like a neglected alarm clock with urgent business calls when I was there by myself unable to grasp the first Finnish syllable of the frustrated party at the other end of the line. Finally I studied the back of a twenty mark bank note and managed to master the Finnish phrase "Suomen Pankki," which means "Bank of Finland." Then, whenever the ringing of the telephone caught me home alone, I merely lifted the receiver and shouted a cheery "Suomen Pankki" into the mouthpiece. The other party, thinking he had the wrong number, would apologize and hang up immediately. It was fun.

Yesterday I was about to deliver my fifteenth "Suomen Pankki" when a mild feminine voice retaliated in English, good English with a Dixie drawl. It belonged to Miss Frankie Strosnider, of Goldsboro, N. C. and UNC class of '52, who was in town with Dr. J. C. Lyons's summer tour along with Jackie Quesenbury, Mimi Weil, Jane Parker, Erline Griffin, and several other Carolina coeds whose names escape me at the moment.

Frankie and her friends were in one of those European jams which make life miserable for American tourists in strange lands where stranger people speak an even stranger tongue. She told me she was in a little dairy shop in suburban Helsinki trying to buy some peanut butter but the clerk was spoiling things by insisting on talking that "silly old language of his." She wanted to know if maybe I could make the poor guy understand over the telephone.

The Finns have two official languages, Finnish and Swedish; the former being the most absurd gibberish in the history of eardrums and the latter being relatively easy. I had acquired a stumbling knowledge of second-string Swedish so I told Frankie to ask the clerk if he could "tala svenska." (speak Swedish.) He couldn't. Finnish was his sole medium of self-expression but another customer in the store (We'll call him simply Second Finn. His real name stretches as far as the naked eye can see.) grabbed the phone away from poor Frankie and enthusiastically announced he could speak both Finnish and Swedish—but no English.

Then Frankie had an idea, better described perhaps as an inspiration. She would tell me over the phone what she wanted and then hand the receiver over to Second Finn who would record my Swedish version of her request and then relay it in Finnish to the bewildered clerk who would reverse the process and beam his reply back to Second Finn, then over the wires to me in Swedish, and finally back to Frankie in English.

This O'Brien - to - Ryan - to - Goldberg combination finally clicked and within half an hour our linguistic high-hurdle was cleared.

The clerk didn't have any peanut butter.

Free World

Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

SAN FRANCISCO — Judge Homer Bone of the U. S. Court of Appeals was lunching with friends in San Francisco. The question of the Nixon "expense" fund came up.

"There's been a lot of sickness in my family," remarked the judge, "and I've had a hard time living on my salary. Perhaps I should take a thousand dollars from the Santa Fe Railroad, another from the American Presidents Line, and another thousand from the dollar line.

"I suppose, in view of the Nixon precedent," continued Judge Bone, keeping a straight face. "It wouldn't make any difference, would it?"

"They'd run you off the bench," snorted stanch Republican Louis Lurie.

There's been a lot of discussion over whether Senator Nixon did or did not use his expense fund for personal matters and how he was able to buy two houses at once, one of them requiring $21,000 down payment.

However, the really important question is: "Did the Millionaires Club, who put up the expense money, get value returned through the senator's vote?"

The answer lies in the senator's voting record and the business interests of his donors. Here are both:

Eleven of the Nixon donors are big real-estate men, including such powerful operators as:

Fred H. Bixby—whose family owns tremendous areas in Long Beach; president of Alamitos Land Co.; director Security First National Bank; Founders Fire and Marine Insurance; Jotham Bixby Co., and A. M. E. Bixby Co.

J. Benton Van Nuys—president of the Van Nuys Building Co., Van Nuys Investment Co., La Hacienda Co., First Safe Deposit Co., director Tojon Co., and Farmers and Merchants National Bank.

The real-estate men who donated to Nixon's secret fund were active in trying to obtain the removal of rent controls and blocking Taft public housing for slum clearance in Los Angeles. Here is how their man, Senator Nixon, voted on these questions:

June 20, 1951—Nixon voted to cut public housing from 50,000 to 5,000 units. On June 4, 1952 he voted to shorten rent controls by four months, on June 5 he voted for Senator Cain's amendment to give localities the say-so on imposing rent control in critical areas. On June 12 he and Senator Knowland introduced an amendment to the defense bill aimed at sidetracking public housing.

Secret Donors

Fifteen of Senator Nixon's secret donors were also oilmen or oil-equipment manufacturers, including some with government contracts:

Herbert Hoover Jr., one of the largest donors, is president of United Geophysical, a director of Union Oil and of Southern California Edison. His company has an important contract with the navy for exploring and drilling oil in Northern Alaska, reputedly rich in oil.

Others are Earle M. Jorgensen—chairman of the Jorgensen Oil Co., director of the Citizens National Trust Co.; Rodney S. Burkee, president of the Lane-Wells Co., Petro-Tech Service Co., Lane-Wells Canadian Co.; also director of Petroleum Equipment Suppliers Association and of Sells Surveys, Inc.

Earl B. Gilmore, president of the A. F. Gilmore Co., Kerman Cattle Co., director of Technical Crafts Co., and Gilmore and Nolan, Inc.; William B. Hubbard, president Anselma Oil Co., Realitos Oil Co., director of Cherry Rivet Co.

Thomas P. Pike, president of Pike Drilling Co., and Casualty Insurance Co.; Frank Seaver, president of Hydril Co., Doheny Stone Drill Co., and Texford Manf. Co.; Leland K. Whittier, vice-president Belridge Oil, Rodeo Land and Water; director Western Oil and Gas Assn.; Farmers and Merchants National Bank.

Edward R. Valentine, vice-pres. Fullerton Oil, director California Portland Cement; J. W. Robinson Co.; Security-First National Bank; Arthur Crites, who has both oil and real-estate interests at Bakersfield; R. R. Bush, a Pasadena oilman.

Senator Nixon's record in regard to oil follows: on Aug. 21, 1951 he voted for the basing-point bill which the oil companies favored. In September 1951 he voted against cutting the oil-depletion allowance from 27½ per cent to 14 per cent. But his most active work for oil companies was his vigorous, consistent championship of tidelands oil. Nixon even sent copies of tidelands oil literature out under his own frank, despite the fact that he claimed he used the secret expense fund to mail letters and thus save the taxpayers expense.

Another group of Nixon subsidizers were milk-products executives, including Thorkild Knudsen, president of the Knudsen Creamery; Alford Ghormley, vice-president of Carnation Milk and president of the Carnaco Equipment Co., a subsidiary; J. W. McKenzie of Arden's Milk and Valley Maid; together with the Bixby family which has big milk-products investments.

When the question of restricting cheese and dairy products from France and other NATO countries came up for a vote in the Senate, Nixon voted with the dairy interests. The amount of cheese coming in from western Europe was relatively small, and the state department pleaded that in order to combat Communism we had to buy something from Europe—or else continue to subsidize the battle against Communism in cash.

But Nixon voted with the milk-products men who contributed to his fund.

In doing so he voted against California orange growers. For France had worked out a deal to buy 400 tons of California oranges, using dollar exchange from the sale of blue cheese to finance the deal. When the sale of blue cheese was restricted by the Senate, however, the purchase of California oranges went by the board.

This is only a part of the voting record of the junior Senator from California who may become just one heartbeat removed from the presidency. More on this record and the legislative interests of the Nixon club will follow soon.

Walt Dear — Over The Hill

Talking with one or two students who visited England for a few days, this summer, you got the idea that things were pretty drab, life pretty grim.

Yet when you talk with a man that lived around London and made it his business to observe what was going on for a year in the British Isles, you get a different picture.

What makes England tick? Economically, socially, politically? How can the English continue to show an indomitable spirit, and a zest for living? After hearing Dr. James L. Godfrey of the history department, you got some of the answers. Dr. Godfrey just returned from Great Britain after studying as a President's fellow fom Brown University. When he arrived, the Labor government was about to give way to the Tories, thus setting up a definite period for his proposed book on the Labor government's reign.

While English life isn't as bright as American, it is comfortable for most of the people. The standard of living is the highest it's been, employment is at a peak. Take the National Health Program for instance, the so called "socialized medicine." "Neither party would think of changing essential parts because it is so popular," says Dr. Godfrey. "Even a great many doctors like it, and the health of the nation is better."

The British upper classes have worse medical treatment but the bulk of the people are better off. Dr. Godfrey noted that the British Medical Association had approved a system similiar to that now in operation as early as 1945. Commenting on American opposition to such a program, Dr. Godfrey said, "The point is do they like it, not do we like it?"

Economically, the English are in a tough situation. Either they lower their comparatively high standard of living or else. And since no party would stay in power if they made such a move, there's a policy of "Wait and see." Prosperity is just around the corner. The trouble remains, however. The English have been spending more than they've been making in the last decade The Conservatives under Churchill are waiting for the breaks. But chances for the economic breaks are slim.

One vital spot of English life is the pageantry of the court, the continual high regard for the crown. The memory of George VI who died last year is dear in the minds of almost all Englishmen. "Everyone recognized him as a simple man, who tried to live up to his responsibilities. At his death, the Crown was at the peak of popularity in a period of 50 years. They think that the strain killed him, that he had sacrificed himself for England.

"And Elizabeth II continues to make the monarchy popular. Her youth plus the dazzling thought of another Elizabeth—just an idea—make her highly esteemed."

The British don't seem to worry as much as we do about Communism. They let Communists teach in their universities, there are no Senator McCarthy's, and the national defense seems to be in no great danger, Dr. Godfrey indicated. The Communist party is on the decline.

European unity is fine for the Continent, but Great Britain considers itself to be apart from Europe. Great Britain is a commonwealth on an isle. "She's for unity among the nations on the continent, but she doesn't want to join them," summed up Dr. Godfrey.

As for an English education compared with an American one, "it's like comparing a horse and a giraffe. They're two different animals," said the professor. When you enter Oxford or Cambridge, you start off the equivalent of a junior here. Only the people who have excellent records and show potential get as far as college.

Dr. Godfrey plans to write a series of books on domestic and foreign phases of English modern history, but that's over a 20-year period, so you won't be able to get his bird's-eye view of England for at least five years.

Riff . . . by Raff

I don't know how many of you are acquainted with the National Student Association, but after this summer, I can tell you that you should be. This is convention year and students were not left out of the picture, for as the Democrats were returning to their homes, university representatives from all over the United States and from many foreign countries were packing their valises for the fifth annual congress of the NSA held in Bloomington, Indiana.

Discussions were on every conceivable subject and much legislation was passed and rejected concerning student problems. The congress was far from tame and the representatives were far from being the quiet, declining, stereotype silent-era student of which our age has so often been accused. Debate was hotter than a newlywed's brow and a lot of work for student causes was done. The convention was plagued by a multitude of abbreviations; the more notable being, FEPC, UMT, IUS and, of course, NSA.

Horns were locked over the question of sending US student representatives to the Bucharest unity meeting sponsored by the Soviet dominated International Union of Students (IUS). When they were unlocked the Congress found itself declining the invitation as did many other European student unions.

The National Student Association is organized for your protection, enlightenment, and embetterment of student life here and abroad. Caroilna and the region of which it is a member played an important role in this NSA congress and, as a result, Carolina is taking a major part in the student life of America. This is one reason we are obliged to take particular interest in NSA and its projects.

It has already been brought before you that the president of NSA (elected in the national Congress by acclamation) is former UNC student Dick Murphy. Student Party leader, Ken Barton, was voted Virginia-Carolina regional chairman stepping into the galavanting shoes of our editor, Barry Farber. Others who took an active part at the congress from Carolina are, Ken Penegar, Joel Fleishman, Jane Jenkins, Lew Southern, Wood Smithurst, Barry Farber and yours truly.

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

The Greatest Of All

WHAT COULD EASILY be called the greatest World Series of all time came to an end yesterday with the New York Yankees winning their fourth straight world championship—exactly what most of the experts predicted. But what those Yankees had to go through to win the title shouldn't happen to the Pittsburgh Pirates. It took every bit of sweating and cussing the Yanks could muster to stop the Dodgers, and now that the seventh and final game is over, it still doesn't seem that the Dodgers have been beaten.

The Yanks had been picked by most of the know-alls to take the Dodgers in six easy games (and by some poor souls in five). But things just didn't run that way—thanks especially to some old pros by the name of Robinson, Reese, Cox, and Snider.

Most people thought the Yankees' pitching would be superior to the Brooks' and bring them the quick Series victory. But that wasn't the case. Joe Black's first-game win and Carl Erskine's fine performance on Sunday were two of the outstanding hurling jobs of the tryst. Of course, Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds held up to their usual high standard, but outside of that (excluding Bob Kuzava's relief role yesterday) the Yanks' pitching wasn't what it was supposed to be.

Speaking Of Heroes

THERE WERE CERTAINLY enough heroes in the Series, but the one who stands above all others is a fellow who played goat in his last World Series attempt—Duke Snider. Back in 1949 when the same two teams were hard at it, Snider tied Rogers Hornsby's record of eight strikeouts while the Dodgers were bowing to the Yankees. But it was a different tale this time. Snider tied the record of two former Yankee greats, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, by hitting four home runs in the first six games. He batted in four runs Sunday when the Dodgers went 11 innings to win, 6-5. Monday he hit two of his homers to do all of the Dodgers' scoring, but the Yankees still won, 3-2.

For the Yankees an old man of 39, who has seen service in both the American and National Leagues, came off the bench in the third game to hit a pinch home run and show that he was still fit for service. In the next game he cracked another homer and a double to help Reynolds win 2-0. But his finest hour came in Sunday's game when he bombarded another to bring in three runs and give the New Yorkers a temporary 5-4 lead. Yesterday the Ancient Wonder drove in one of the Yank runs to climax an amazing championship performance.

And Speaking Of Goats

BUT THERE WERE countless others who earned the hero's laurels. Pee Wee Reese hit safely in every game except the sixth and played his usual steady game at shortstop. Billy Cox played probably the best game afield of any of the infielders. To say the play of the Dodger outfielders was amazing would be putting it mildly. Woodling, Berra, Mantle, and Mize were all robbed of homers by the spectacular Brooklyn catches.

The fans also saw a lot of the fabulous Mickey Mantle and a lot of prospective I-told-you-so's were made to eat the words right out of their mouths by the performance the young star made.

But for all the heroes there were the goats—potentially outstanding players who for some reason or another couldn't get going in the Series. The most pathetic of these, who have all winter to mope in silence over their misgivings, is Gil Hodges, the big Dodger first baseman who failed to get a hit the whole Series. Monday after he had struck out three straight times, Manager Chuck Dressen lifted him for a pinch hitter. He was back in yesterday, though, and again failed to hit, although he was credited with one run driven in. But this one RBI is little solace for the man who hit 32 home runs during the season and led his club in runs batted in.

(See DOWN IN FRONT, Page 4)

Yankees Grab Fourth Straight World Series With 4-2 Victory

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—The New York Yankees swept to their fourth consecutive World Championship as they downed the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbetts Field this afternoon, 4-2, in the seventh and final game of the 1952 world series. In taking its fourth straight world title, manager Casey Stengel's crew duplicated the feat of an earlier Yankee edition.

Stengel used the big three of his pitching staff in Ed Lopat, Allie Reynolds, and Vic Raschi, but the real pitching hero of the game was an obscure lefthander, Bob Kuzava. Although Reynolds was declared the winner, it was the brilliant clutch pitching of Kuzava which stopped the Dodgers in the crucial late innings.

Black Starts

Dodger manager Chuck Dressen also employed his three leading moundsmen. Joe Black was the starting and losing pitcher for the Brooks, with Preacher Roe and Carl Erskine doing creditable work in relief. All three hurlers owned series victories.

The Yankees opened the scoring in the fourth inning. Phil Rizzuto led off with a double and moved to third on an infield out by Mickey Mantle. Rizutto then scored on a punch single by Johnny Mize.

Brooklyn tied the game in its half of the fourth. Duke Snider opened with a single. Jackie

GENE WOODLING
His Homer Helps

Robinson and Roy Campanella each beat out bunts to load the bases. Gil Hodges, the Dodgers hitless first baseman, batted in his first run of the series with a long fly. Hodges' blow came off Allie Reynolds, who had just come in to relieve starter Lopat.

Gene Woodling quickly untied things as he opened the first half of the fifth with a home run over the right field screen.

But the Dodgers once again knotted the score. Billy Cox doubled and scored on Captain Peewee Reese's single.

The Bronx Bombers took a permanent lead in the sixth, however, when Mickey Mantle hit another home run. The Yanks then proceeded to load the bases, but Roe came on to relieve Black and snuff out the threat.

The final New York run came in the seventh when Gil McDougal singled, advanced to second on a sacrifice by the crafty Rizzuto, and scored on Mantle's single.

Brooklyn presented a serious threat in its half of the seventh. Carl Furillo was walked by Raschi, who had taken over for Reynolds. Cox singled and Reese was walked to load the bases with only one out. Kuzava came on to force Snider and Robinson to pop up and end the inning.

Records Broken

Several records were shattered during the seven game classic. The Yankees broke the home run record with 10, while both teams had a total of 16 round trippers for another record. The Dodgers had the dubious distinction of striking out 49 times for a new series whiff mark.

The Yankee teams of Joe McCarthy took world titles from 1936 through 1939. The Bombers, boasting such stars as Joe Dimaggio, Lou Gehrig, Red Rolfe, Frank Crosetti, Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez, defeated the Giants in '36 and '37, and made the Cubs and Reds for their last two victims.

Re-Scheduling Of N.C. State Tilt Appears Hopeless Now

Prospects of Carolina re-scheduling its cancelled football game with N. C. State College are dim at best.

The game, scheduled for this Saturday in Kenan Stadium, was cancelled as a health measure after two Carolina football players contacted polio.

Carolina is ready and willing to play the game December 6, but the Wolfpack has a game with Texas Tech that day. Any game after December 6 is considered a post-season game, and the Southern Conference has outlawed post season games for its members.

Under the circumstances of the postponement, however, the Conference officials would undoubtably give State and Carolina permission to play December 13, the following Saturday. The Tar Heels, however, will be in the midst of exams on that weekend.

Wisconsin Takes Over First Place In AP Poll; Duke Moves From Tenth To Sixth

THE UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin took over first place in the Associated Press football poll, on the strength of their 20-6 licking of the Big Ten champion, Illinois, last Saturday.

California took over second, Michigan State dropped from first to third, and Texas dropped from fifth to out of the top 20. Georgia Tech was rated fifth behind Maryland, and Duke was in sixth place. Southern Cal, Notre Dame, Kansas, and Princeton round out the top ten.

★

Duke's leading ground gainer and first string fullback, Jack Kistler, probably will not be ready to start in the Blue Devil's game this Saturday with South Carolina. Kistler was knocked out and his hand was injured after he had scored Duke's only touchdown against Tennessee last Saturday.

★

Ten of the eleven top Grand ing and four afternoon papers in the country will be among the contestants in the 150 mile N.A.S.C.A.R. speed classic to be held in Hillsboro this Sunday. It will be the major stock car race in North Carolina during the 1952 season, with number-one driver Tim Flock leading the field.

★

Referee Ashton Donze collapsed and died during a feature fight last night to become the second New Orleans boxing fatality in less than two days. The 50-year-old referee fell to the canvas in the sixth round of a fight between welterweights Ross Virgo and Jack O'Brien.

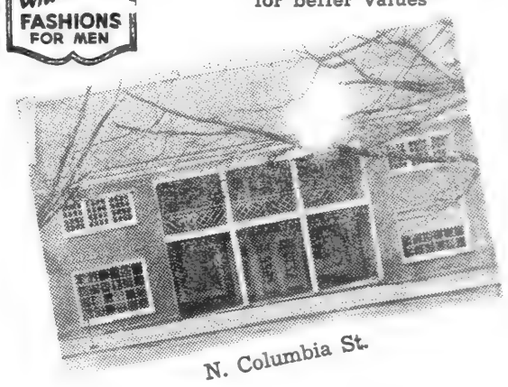
CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED

SPACE AVAILABLE FOR PUBLIC Stenographer. If you're interested in establishing a business of your own, we will furnish free office space to a neat appearing stenographer-typist in exchange for answering telephone and acting as receptionist in modern air conditioned business office. Please address replies to box 1058, Chapel Hill.

BALLET TEACHER WANTED. PREferably for afternoon or night work. Vacancy open. State qualifications and salary. Write Box 1525, Burlington, N. C.

(1-9453-6)



FOR SALE

FOR SALE WEBB-CORR WIRE RECORDER and 11 reels of tape. Has been used apr. 15 hours. Excellent condition. Phone 91391.

LOST

LOST-STERLING SILVER RECTANGULAR purse watch. Size: apr. 1"x1½". Finder telephone 4231. Liberal reward.

SHOP at—
THE SPORT SHOP
for better values

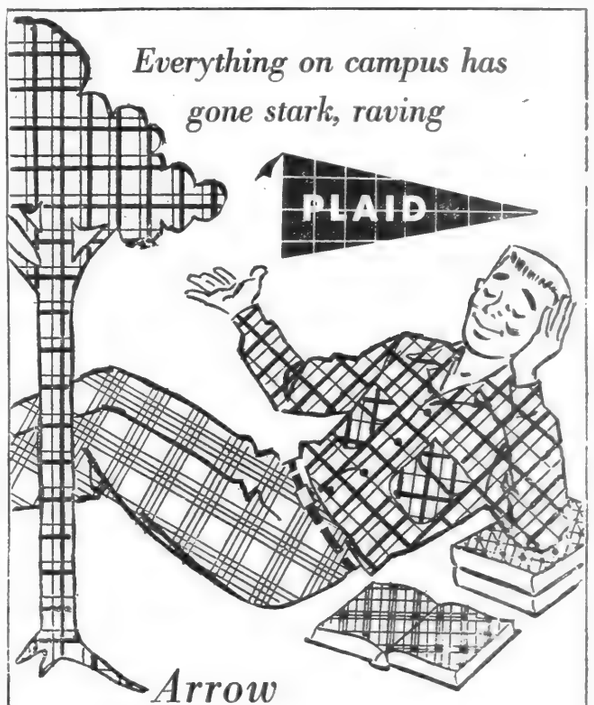
—Bills Mailed Home—

Books Maps
Stamps Prints

Best selection of out-of-print books in North Carolina

UNICORN BOOK SHOP
—Over Sutton's Drug Store—
E. Franklin St. Dial 9-6173

featuring A Complete line of Varley's Men's Shop ARROW SHIRTS & Accessories



"PERFORMANCES ARE ADMIRABLE" N. Y. Herald Tribune
SEE THE MIRACLE PICTURE OF 1952
"PROFOUNDLY STIRRING!" "A RARE TREAT!" N. Y. Daily Miror

MILLIONS HAVE AGREED THAT THIS STORY OF THE YOUNG GIRL OF FATIMA IS THE GREAT TRUE STORY OF THIS CENTURY!
WARNER BROS. PRESENT
THE Miracle OF OUR LADY OF Fatima
IN ALL ITS SPECTACLE AND MAGNIFICENCE IN COLOR BY WARNERCOLOR

"INSPIRATIONAL! IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE!" —DAILY NEWS

THURSDAY FRIDAY
Varsity
Children ....25c Matinee 74c
Night $1.00

Arrow
Plaid Sports Shirts in a wide selection of colors and fabrics
$5.00 up
ARROW
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

THE COMPLETE ARROW LINE AT-
THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

What Goes On Here

Cheerleaders

There will be a meeting of all varsity cheerleaders at 3 p.m. today in Roland Parker Lounge 2, Graham Memorial.

Men's Glee Club

There will be a regular meeting of the Men's Glee Club this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Choral Room of Hill Hall. An extra meeting will be held tomorrow at the same time. As the club is preparing numbers to be rendered on University Day, it is important that every member be present for these meetings.

SUAB Committees

The SUAB committee chairmen will meet at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall for a weekly meeting. Other meetings scheduled for individual committees this week are Special Service, 4 p.m. tomorrow; Film, tentatively at 4 or 5 p.m. Friday and Public Relations, 3 p.m. Friday.

Display

The SUAB Display Committee yesterday announced an atomic energy exhibit for December 8-15.

JUST RECEIVED!

New shipment of Cashmere Mixture SWEATERS

Styled by PURITAN

Variety of Colors

Navy, Cherry, Wine, Carolina Blue, Tan, Heather, and Grey Heather.

In All Sizes $12.50

The Town & Campus

We Recommend

You Can Believe

By Chapel Hill's Own FRANK HANFT

$2.75

At

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

Your Gown Back In Time

Our specialty is rapid service so don't fret about the special dress or suit you have to wear on short notice. We can give you one-day service.

NU-WAY CLEANERS

"Chapel Hill's Finest"

107 N. Graham St. Dial 9-3498

—Free Pick-up and Delivery Service—

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

Has a New Shipment of

MADEMOISELLE SWEATERS

Slip Over–Solid and Fancy Colors, Long & Short Sleeve

Long Sleeve Cardigan

Orlon–Many colors and All Sizes

Official Girl Scout Shoes

On-Call Nurse Oxfords, White with Wedge Heels

New Shipment of Dresses by Martha Manning, Trudy Hall, Georginia

Fine Feather Hosiery

New Fall Shades–45, 51, 60

Tennis Oxfords for Ladies

Blue-White-Red

Heavy White Cotton Sox

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

—Open All Day Wednesday—

VA Relaxes Credit Rules On Housing

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 7—The Veterans Administration has relaxed its credit restrictions affecting minimum down payments on housing built or purchased with VA guaranteed or direct loans, effective October 2.

New terms applying to all government-supported housing credit were recently prescribed by the housing and home finance administrator under the provisions of the Defense Production Act amendments of 1952.

On houses costing $8,000 or less, no down payment is required under the VA's new regulations, but closing costs of the transaction must be paid in cash. Minimum down payments on houses priced above $8,000 but not more than $8,400 will be four percent. For homes priced above $8,400 the minimum down payment is five percent.

The new terms present a modification of those announced by the HHFA on September 15. Under the new terms, no down payment other than closing costs is required on houses costing no more than $8,000. Previously the no-down-payment terms applied to houses costing no more than $7,000.

The VA also said that in certain substantial hardship cases, it may waive the down payment on houses costing over $8,000. However, the veteran must pay closing costs in cash.

The VA stressed that it could grant the waiver only if the lending institution is willing to make the loan under the more liberal terms. In addition, the veteran, as in the case of all GI loans, must have sufficient income and related credit factors to be able to repay the obligation.

Prize Pickers

The weekly Student Union Activities Board football contest brought up three winners this past weekend. Because of the cancellation of the Carolina—Georgia game the usual tie-breaker, the closest guess of the right score, was written off and all three winners will receive prizes.

The winners were Herman Husbands, Richard L. Hoover, and John Rogers Barkley. They may pick up their loot at the SUAB office on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Press

(Continued from page 1)

At the end of the month my check was for $25 and I took the next train for New York. But in those days there were five morn- and four afternoon papers in the city. Now there are two in the morning and three in the afternoon, and there are more unemployed journalists in New York than anywhere."

Another reason for newspapering in the South, he said, is that working conditions are better, without the office politics, ruthlessness, hardness and coldness found on northern city papers.

While You Wait!

In and out! That's all the time it takes for us to repair and renew your shoes! Only top leathers and multi-ply threads used throughout!

Comfort plus Economy

SHU-FIXERY

2 Doors From Post Office Ph. 9-2971

Gums Exposed

Fighting Irish Resent 'Toothless Team' Cry

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 7—The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, Notre Dame University president, criticized recently a magazine layout picturing toothless members of Notre Dame's football team as being a "caricature of football."

The color photographs, appearing in Life Magazine, "hold the team up to ridicule," Mr. Hesburgh said.

"It's a caricature of football and a misrepresentation of the team," he continued. "It doesn't represent the type of men playing football at Notre Dame."

There will be no official protest to the article, but Jack Alessandrini, the Fighting Irish grid captain sent a letter to the magazine's offices saying that only one of four men shown in the picture was identified properly.

A spokesman in Notre Dame's sports publicity office said members of the team and university students were "really mad and really hurt." The spokesman said one of the squad members pictured actually has all his teeth "but it looked like they retouched the picture to make it look like his teeth were out."

–Dorms–

(Continued from page 1)

Craig Whitmire and Bob Chandler.

Connor Dorm: president, Earl Diamond and Martin Roeder; vice-pres., Maurice Cobb and Tom Janeway; sec.-treas., Ned Grace; IDC Rep., Dan Collins, Sam Coval, and Conrad Warlick.

Everett Dorm: president, Bob Barlowe; vice-pres., Nathan Barnes and Bobby Wynne; sec.-treas., Charlie Irvin and IDC Rep. Lorenza Clinard, A. A. "Butch" Culbreth, Bill Cunningham and Pete Parker.

Graham Dormitory: president, Baxter Miller; vice-pres., Wayne Thompson; sec.-treas., Tyrus Purdue, Clyde Smith and Everett H. Ellinwood, and IDC Rep., William Ragsdale Jr., and George Goode.

Grimes Dorm: president, Harry Faggart and Wade Matthews; vice-pres., Hilton Goulson; sec.-treas., George Yale; IDC Rep., George Miller and Louis Mack.

Joyner Dorm: president, Hanson Douglas Sessoms, James Nichols, Samuel Ingram, and Charles B. Swaim; vice-pres., Robert Curtis and Tommy Medlin; sec.-treas., Fred Holmes, Stuart Teichman, and Ralph (Blackie) Foster, and IDC Rep., Don Chamblee.

Lewis Dorm: president, Bob Cline and Bob Rimer; vice-pres., Bob Lindley and Bill Poindexter; sec.-treas., Charles Pittard, Marty Alpert and Lonnie Mangum and IDC Rep., Bob Wolfe and Kermit Phillips.

Mangum Dorm: president, Richard Citrini, Bill Bullock, and Jim Cockerham; vice-pres., Charlie Wolf; sec.-treas., Bill Hill, Wick Redmon and Ed McCurry; IDC Rep., Philip E. Carroll and Norwood Bryan.

Manley Dorm: president, Linwood Braswell; vice-pres., Justice Jenkins; sec.-treas., Richard Nixon and Kenneth Pruitt and IDC Rep., Dwight Cranford and James Sutton.

Old East Dorm: president, John Guilbert; vice-pres., Carlos Surratt; sec.-treas., Charles Wimbish, and IDC Rep., Robert Daye, Jerry Wall, and Ed Scarlette.

Old West Dorm: president, Jesse Haywood Washburn; vice-pres., Henry W. Cheney; sec.-treas., James S. White, and IDC Rep., John Richard Sawyer, Jesse A. Giles.

Ruffin Dorm: president, Bud Moon; vice-pres., Bob Skidmore and Rufus Hackney; sec.-treas., Kent Jackson and Al Sneed and IDC Rep., Don Little and Mac Hoover.

Stacy Dorm: president, Charles Norris, Bill LeStourgeon and Garry Sluder; vice-pres., Kenneth Anderson, Bill Horner and Stanley Stern; sec.-treas., Jim Arena and Charles Dunn and IDC Rep., Lee Holmes, Larry Miscall and Robert Quinn.

Steele Dorm: president, Wiley Kennedy; vice-pres., Paul Scagnelli and sec.-treas., Julian Robertson.

Whitehead Dorm: president, Bob Brame and Henry Stephensen; vice-pres., Juris Bergmanis and John Baggett; sec.-treas., Thad Monroe and IDC Rep., Thomas Costello and George Pittman.

Winston Dorm: president, Gordon Forester; vice-pres., Hartwell Conklin and Don Monroe; sec.-treas., Robert Dannenbaum and IDC Rep., Al Braxton, Sammy Helms and Tommy Hopkins.

Dancing Class

The first SUAB dancing class will be held tomorrow from 6 to 7 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room, Graham Memorial.

John Kenfield, veteran Carolina tennis mentor, has returned here following a summer of teaching at Glencoe, Ill.

Down In Front

(Continued from page 3)

Then, too Erskine threatened to be a goat after being blasted 7-1 in the second game. Only his fine stint Sunday, when he retired the last 19 men in order, saved him from such a nagging fate. Yogi Berra (or Tom Gorman which ever way you look at it) certainly had his name on the list when he let a ball get by him and stood stunned as two runs scored in the third game.

But the play of both teams completely overshadowed any misgivings individual players might have had. The Dodgers made a tremendous fight of it all the way. In fact, at times it looked as if they were in. But that cloud of fate which perennially hangs over Yankee Stadium and continues to bring in pennants and World Series victories, could have it but one way. The Dodgers have the extreme satisfaction of knowing they played their best and made a great drive for the bunting—but the Yankees, as has been the case so many times in the past, have the satisfaction of knowing they have $2,120 extra spending money in their pockets to tide them over until spring.

THEY WRECKED THE MIGHT OF THE SPANISH MAIN!

Last Times Today

Varsity

Complete Garage & Wrecker Service

Nash Cars International Trucks

CHAPEL HILL MOTORS, INC.

502 W. Franklin St. Day Phone 9-3401 Night Phone 9-5352

Police Report Finding Of Pants And Coat

The Chapel Hill Police Department has several lost items in its possession.

Captain W. D. Blake yesterday described them as a new overcoat with the tag "Morris Levy's, Savannah", and two new pair of pants.

They were found in a brown touring bag with letters written in crayon appearing to be 'F fle'. He said they can be claimed at the police station with a description of the articles.

Bob Smith's

—Now—

Franklin Street Luncheonette

★ All Brands and ★ Draft Beer
★ Wines
★ Sandwiches

—Beside Bus Station—

FIRST TIME AT POPULAR PRICES!

Hours of Shows 1-3:04 5:08-7:12 9:16

Now Playing

Carolina

FRIDAY-SATURDAY

CLIFTON WEBB · GINGER ROGERS

co-starring ANNE FRANCIS · JEFFREY HUNTER

NOTICE

Students & All ROTC Students

★ Khaki Pants, All Sizes and Prices
★ Brown or Tan Shoes
★ Khaki Sox ..... 3 for $1.00
★ Rugby All-Wool Slipover Sweaters $3.98
★ Men and Boys Dungarees Western Style, 11 oz., All Kinds.
★ Tennis and Basketball Shoes
★ White Tennis Oxfords $2.98
★ Shoes by U. S. Keds, B. F. Goodrich and Ball Band ..... $2.98 to $5.98
★ Men's Fruit of Loom Underwear Shorts & "T" Shirts ..... 69c or Cotton or Rayon 3 for $2.05

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

119 East STORE Franklin St.

Open All Day Wednesday

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

Armistice Day or any other time, you desire accuracy and fresh, potent drugs in your prescription, come to SUTTON'S DRUG STORE. If you desire the solution to the quiz, the answers are Ice-Skating, Sugar Syrup and Walter Johnson.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER Sutton's DRUG STORE Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES

5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Cloudy and colder with 60 high today. Yesterday's high, 60; low, 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

SEX
That man's at it again.
See Nonplus, page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 14 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

DRAFT FORCES FARBER TO RESIGN POSITION

Rushees Given Until Tomorrow To Obtain Bids

Fraternity Invites Will Be Available In Gerrard Hall

Freshmen have today and tomorrow left in which to pick up their rushing bids.

The bids may be picked up in Gerrard Hall from 9 a. m. until noon today, and from 10 a. m. until noon tomorrow. Those who went yesterday but found no invitations are asked to check again Friday when mixups will be straightened out, Fred Mewhinney, IFC rush chairman said.

The rushing schedule for fraternities, as released by Mewhinney: Sunday, 7 to 10 p. m.; Monday, 7 to 10 p. m.; Tuesday, 7 to 9:30 p. m.; Wednesday, 7 to 9:30 p. m. and next Thursday, 7 to 9:30 p.m.

There will be strict silence, that is no rushee may converse with a fraternity man, from 9:30 p. m. next Thursday until Saturday, October 18 at 7 p. m. Shakeup Day is Sunday, October 19 from 7 to 9:30 p. m. There will be another strict silence from 9:30 that night until Pledge Day, Wednesday, October 22.

Dime-A-Night Dance Series Opens Today

The YMCA Freshman Friendship Council and SUAB are jointly sponsoring a series of beginning dance lessons starting at 7 o'clock tonight in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

The group will begin with the basic dancing steps and progress at whatever rate the students desire during the Thursday night hour lessons. Miss Ruth Price, dance instructor from the staff of the Women's Gymnasium, will assist the group in getting off on the right foot.

Coeds are encouraged to attend in order to aid in the instruction by partnering with the boys.

Ten cents covers the lesson for each boy.

Ray White is Freshman Friendship Council chairman for the dance classes. Lane Buckley is chairman of the SUAB Dance Committee.

G I's Mascot From Korea Now Student

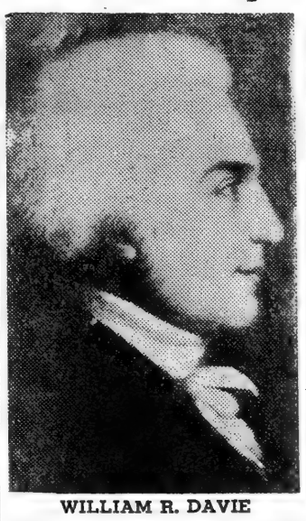
Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

MORGANTON, W. Va., Oct. 8—Insoo Skippy Kwak, 19, formerly of Korea, is a new member of the West Virginia University freshman class.

The gate to a university education and maybe a degree in medicine was opened to Skippy seven years ago when he met Sgt. Gus Farr of Hinton, W. Va.

A forlorn little waif of 12, Skippy was sitting by a roadside in Korea. Skippy became Gus' mascot. Gus ordered books from home and began teaching English to the youngster.

In a couple of years, Farr sent



(See MASCOT, page 2)

Late Papers

Students failing to receive Daily Tar Heels early in the morning should check their residences on their return from class.

Mechanical troubles have forced the paper to be late coming off the press and many student distributors have had to attend class before they could deliver their papers.

UNC Will Mark Birthday Monday

WILLIAM R. DAVIE

University Day, commemorating the 159th anniversary of the founding of the University, will be celebrated next Monday.

The laying of the cornerstone of Old East, on October 12, 1793, is ercognized as the formal beginning of the University. This year, however, the birthday falls on Sunday, and ceremonies marking the occasion are scheduled for Monday, beginning at 10:50 a.m. on the south court of South Building.

Pageantry re-enacting, in pantomime, the laying of the cornerstone of Old East will feature the University's birthday party. Arrangements for the celebration are under the direction of Nancy Green of Chapel Hill, University senior in drama. Special music will be furnished by the University Band under the direction of Earl Slocum.

Preceded by a color guard (representing AROTC and NROTC) Chancellor Robert B. House, Student Body President Hamilton Horton Jr. and members of the Carolina Playmakers in colonial costumes will go from South Building to the pageant platforms. The "Star Spangled Banner" will open the services followed by invocation by Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Chapel Hill. Those attending will join in singing the University Hymn.

At this point the assembly will pay tribute to students, faculty, and alumni who died during the past year. Chancellor House will lead in the responsive reading of lines from the Apocrypha. One minute of silence will be broken by "Integer Vitae,' 'sung by the Men's Glee Club under the direction of Joel Carter, following which Carter will direct the University combined glee clubs in Gore's "Where Shall Wisdom Be Found?" George Williams will be at the organ.

The re-enactment of the Masonic cornerstone laying will be led by James Pritchett of Lenoir, gradaute student in drama. He

(See U.N.C. DAY, page 2)

Civil Service Slates Exams

The United States Civil Service Commission yesterday announced an examination for meteorological aid positions paying from $2,950 to $3,410 a year.

Most of the positions are in the Weather Bureau and are located in Washington. Some positions also will be filled outside the U. S.

A written test will be given but appropriate experience or education also is required.

Full information regarding the requirements, and instructions on applying may be secured at the post office.

Plans Ready For Caravan To Miami Tilt

Tentative plans for an extended sojurn to Miami for the Nov. 28 Carolina-Miami football game were released yesterday by John Seely, University Club president.

Each year, the University Club, student pep organization, sponsors all-out student attendance at one football game away from Chapel Hill.

"Students will leave Chapel Hill on Wednesday afternoon and arrive in Miami in time to celebrate Thanksgiving on Thursday," Seely said.

"We will motor to nearby Coral Gables for the football game Friday night and begin the return trip Saturday," he added. "We plan to be back in Chapel Hill on Sunday in time for plenty of rest before Monday's classes."

As is customary for these trips, the University Club will provide an ininerary and arrange accomodations for as many students as plan to go, Seely said.

Transportation for those who do not wish to travel this distance by auto will be provided, Seely said.

Writers Can AidQuarterly

"The Carolina Quarterly has built up a large off campus contributors list but we are eager to receive contributions from University students," Editor Tom Lloyd said yesterday.

Lloyd said he felt that with the literary tradition that Chapel Hill possesses, it should be able to offer enough talent within the city limits to fill a dozen magazines.

"If you are a struggling poet or short story writer, don't hide your work," he said. "Send it up to the office of the Carolina Qurterly in Graham Memorial in time for the October 27 fall publication deadline."

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—South Korean infantrymen fighting with bayonets yesterday captured a vital shell-cratered peak overlooking the ancient invasion route to Seoul in a brutal battle that has raged since Monday night. A front line officer said the Korean troops cut a Chinese battalion of 700 men down to 150 in recapturing the crest of White Horse Hill on the Western Front.

★

HARROW, England—Two speeding express trains ripped into a crowded commuter local at Harrow station yesterday in Britain's worst train wreck in its history. By early last night 82 bodies had been removed from the 30-foot high tangle of crumpled coaches and it was feared the final toll might exceed 100. Three hundred persons were injured.

★

BERLIN—Two Soviet MIG-15 jet fighters fired warning shots at an unarmed U. S. Air Force hospital plane in the Berlin air corridor yesterday, but the twin-engined C-47 escaped by plunging into a cloudbank. The mercy plane landed safely at Templehof Airdrome in the U. S. zone of Berlin. None of the Soviet bulets hit the plane, which carried an Air Force woman nurse and five other crew members.

★

MADISON, Wis.—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson carried his presidential campaign into the Wisconsin bailiwick of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy yesterday with the assertion that the "voice of the accuser" must not still all others in the land. The Democratic nominee—in an apparent team operation with President Truman and Sen. John Sparkman—geared up a fresh onslaught on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Republican record on domestic and foreign policies.

★

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER—Dwight D. Eisenhower, who recently said that President Truman was shooting "harmless blanks" in his direction, was ready yesterday to "fire some real heavy salvoes" at the chief executive.

Ike Likers Set Parley Tonight For Students

Students were invited yesterday to join in forming a Citizens For Eisenhower group tonight at 8 o'clock in Room 206, Phillips Hall.

George Scholl, a physics major from Charlotte, issued the invitation. He will preside over the initial meeting tonight.

Speakers for the meeting will be Dr. Malcom McDermott of the Duke University Law School, and Grady Prichard, Chapel Hill businessman.

"The aim of the committee in Chapel Hill will be to get the students here registered and to the polls on election day," Scholl said.

Scholl said another aim will be to get the campaign "out of the newspapers and onto the campus. Literature and I Like Ike buttons will be available and will be distributed tonight," he added.

Today Last Chance To Buy Film Ducats

The second in a series of outstanding movies to be here under student auspices will be shown in Memorial Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

"Distant Journey," a Czech film giving the personal story of a Jewish family under the Nazi occupation of Czechoslovakia, is sponsored by the Student Union Activities Board.

Students may purchase season tickets at the door for $1. This is the last opportunity to buy ducats.

Greensboro Alumni Will Hear Gray Speak

Consolidated University President Gordon Gray will address a meeting of UNC's Greensboro alumni in that city next Tuesday night.

The affair is held annually by the Greensboro group in conjunction with the University Day celebration.

A DEBATE BETWEEN DEMOCRATIC and Republican candidates for state office turned into an uproar—when Attorney General Francis E. Kelly punched a heckler on the stage of the Hovey Institute. At left, Moderator Randolph Webber pulls Kelly (second from left) away from John Marschalk of Newton, Mass., after the attack. A Waltham police officer is at extreme left.—UP Telephoto.

Redistricting Bill Due Again Tonight

The Legislature tonight will attempt for a second time to pass an amendment which would revamp existing dormitory districts.

The bill provides for rezoning the two existing dormitory districts into five districts.

According to law, if the Elections Committee fails to report on the proposed amendment at this third regular session, it will automatically be put on the floor. The committee so far has deadlocked on all discussions of the proposed amendment.

Jack Stilwell, one of the leading proponents of the bill, declared yesterday, "This amendment would provide closer contact between the student and his legislator. It is by no means a political move, but actually a return to the original system provided for in the Constitution".

Opponents of the bill feel that the proposed amendment would give them a political disadvantage and advocate a different type rezoning.

Under the present system, dormitories are divided into two districts which together contain approximately 1,800 students. Each student, depending upon his district, votes for eight or nine legislators. The proposed amendment, breaking these two districts down into five, would necessiatate the student voting for only four or five legislators.

The amendment if passed would leave women's dormitory and town districts unchanged.

"I'd like to urge all students to contact their legislators and tell them to support this bill," said President Ham Horton yesterday. "This amendment would bring the students and legislators together in a closer relationship," he added.

'More Jobs For Grads,' Seniors Told

"The school placement office is the most efficient means yet devised to help students find jobs and to assist business and governmental organizations in filling their manpower needs," Vick Chemical Company Personnel Manager K. G. Bevan Jr. told seniors here Tuesday night. He urged them to take advantage of the University Placement Service.

In discussing prospects for the coming year, Bevan quoted estimates that approximately 1,000 companies throughout the United States will be recruiting about five percent more college graduates in 1953 than in 1952.

"Industry really needs good men," Bevan said, "men who want and are seeking a future, not security. Persons with well defined objectives who will inject themselves fully into any work and exert their full capabilities will find that in jobs with a real future, security takes care of itself."

Following Bevan's talk, Joe Galloway, director of placement at UNC, said 237 companies sent interviewers to the campus last year to interview students and that nearly 600 requests for graduates were received by mail and telephone. "We expect to have available to Carolina students this year more employment opportunities than ever before, and we hope all seniors will take advantage of our service," Galloway said.

Replacement Not Selected For Editorship

Snook, Dear Seen As Top Candidates For Vacant Spot

Barry Farber, editor of The Daily Tar Heel since last April, resigned yesterday to enter the armed forces.

His successor will either be elected in a special election late this month or in the annual fall elections on November 18. If the latter should occur, President Ham Horton will appoint an interim editor until that time.

Farber is a special student from Greensboro. He graduated last June with a degree in journalism. He was elected editor of the newspaper in a landslide majority in last spring's campus elections.

He said yesterday he did not apply for draft deferment because "my studies having been formally completed, I feel as though I have no valid reason for remaining in civilian life." He said it will be a minimum of 21 days before he is inducted.

Farber had been expecting to be called but did not know he had been accepted until he received a telegram from his mother yesterday afternoon. It said: "Your certificate of acceptability to armed forces arrived this morning. Love and tears, Mother."

Already being mentioned as candidates are Harry Snook and Walt Dear. Snook is a longtime columnist for The Daily Tar Heel and also works on the Durham Morning Herald. He has had wide experience in radio writing. Dear is Publications Board chairman and served as editor of the summer Tar Heel as well as having held down a reporter's job on the paper previously. Dear ran for the editorship his sophomore year but was defeated by a more ex-

(See FARBER, Page 3)

Payments To Korean Vets Begin Dec. 1

Korean veterans who entered school this fall will not receive any subsistence payments until about the first of December, Col. F. C. Shepard, military affairs adviser, said yesterday.

This does not mean, however, that the first two months of school will have to be financed by the vets themselves. The GI Bill for Korean Veterans provides that subsistence be paid one month after the completion of a month of benefits. This, along with the necessary delay caused by the Veterans' Administrations' record process, is responsible for the tardiness in mailing checks.

Shepard also said Korean vets must turn in to Room 315 South Building the form 7-1993 (certificate for education and training) before they can receive any payments. Those who did not turn in this form at registration but filled out application for it should receive it by mail within

(See VETS, page 3)

Do It

Juniors and Law Students should have their 1953 Yackety Yack pictures made today and tomorrow. Picture dress is white shirts, ties and coats for the boys and white blouses for the girls.

The photographing is being done in the basement of Graham Memorial. There is no charge.

Yesterday was the last day for Sophomores and no more will be accepted, the editors said.

Befriend A Friend

Dig Deep For George, Canine Shooting Victim

George the Collie, a sort of personal pet to all who know the friendly homeless dog, got shot yesterday.

But the doughty doggie isn't dead. He's very much alive and in a local animal hospital and will recover from the wounds received from an unidentified assailant.

"The dog's face is swollen very badly but we think he will recover," Dr. L. L. Vine said yesterday afternoon. "We removed some No. 8 bird shot from the dog's face."

An unidentified student found George on campus and took the canine to the hospital. The dog's owner is not known and several students suggested that the campus raise the small funds necessary for George's medical bills. Dr. Vine said he would not charge for professional services but would charge only the cost of food and drugs.

The Daily Tar Heel will accept funds and turn them over to Dr. Vine.

What Goes On Here

SUAB

SUAB committee chairmen will meet this afternoon at 1 o'clock for a luncheon meeting in the upper dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club will meet today at 4:30 in Hill Hall for a rehearsal in preparation for the University Day concert next Monday.

Alpha Phi Omega

The Alpha Phi Omega Campus Project Committee will meet tonight at 9 o'clock in the chapter room of the YMCA Building. Following that will be a meeting of the Executive Committee at 10 o'clock.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher

News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

Night Editor for this issue: Bob Slough

Gorham And His Chums

We once heard a saying to the effect that "the girls who deserve flowers rarely get them" and we're of the opinion that this is often the case in regard to some of the hardest working people on the college campus. And since we happen to be in a position to play "florist" occasionally we'd like to send a great big bouquet to Bob Gorham and his Orientation crew who've just completed a top-rate job of breaking in the hundreds of new students just arriving in Chapel Hill.

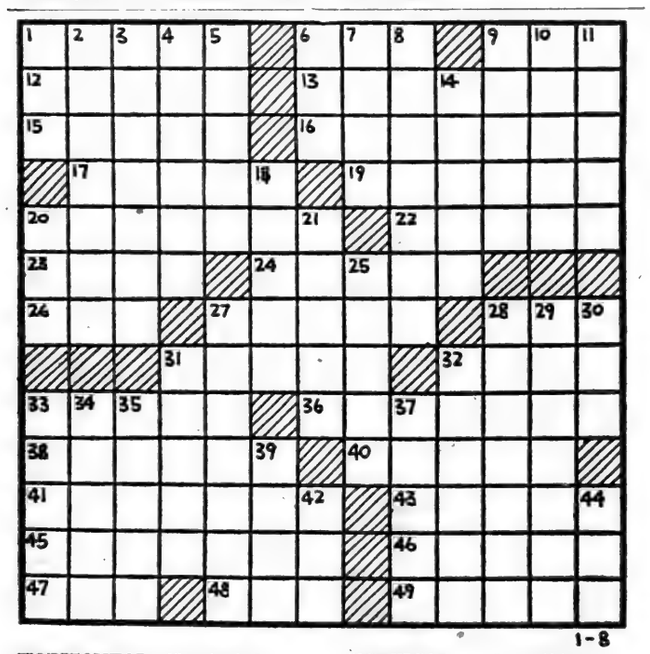
All of us have been at one time or another new students and can well remember that feeling of being terribly green and slightly scared and how much we appreciated any friendliness and words of advice coming our way.

Also there's that well-known "first impression" to bear in mind so a well-organized and efficient Orientation program does a tremendous service both to the newcomer and to the University.

And that's just what we think Bob and his helpers have done this fall. So hats off and a peck of posies to Orientation '52.—JC

Drew Pearson
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

ABOARD PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S TRAIN.—Harry Truman has been gliding past country that he knows well, and it has been smiling at him.



Outside his train window the alfalfa fields of Utah lay green and prosperous as he passed pick-up balers, which many farmers could not afford a few years ago, leaving a trail of green bales behind them. In California stack upon stack of wheat straw dotted the fields. At Provo, a new steel mill, built by the government when private industry refused to take the risk, has brought new prosperity.

Water seems more plentiful this year, and in some areas it has been brought down from the mountains by dams and reclamation projects pioneered by the Truman or Roosevelt administrations.

Yes, the far west smiles on Harry Truman both politically and economically. It smiles but it isn't boisterous. It doesn't give him the noisy demonstrations that the crowds give Eisenhower, and the President in turn doesn't usually give them the fire-and-brimstone, s k i n-'e m-alive oratory that Ike delivers from the rear platform. Sometimes he does, but he doesn't follow a general pattern.

However, though the crowds are big and the faces friendly you detect an undercurrent of Republicanism in these normally Democratic states.

It's hard to put your finger on, but it's there. It's there partly because the sun is smiling economically. There isn't the economic pinch that there has been sometimes. There isn't any workers' and farmers' fear of security. And in that respect, Harry Truman's reclamation, the new steel mill, the price supports perhaps may help defeat his own political ends. But perhaps more important is the desire of a change. People aren't particularly swayed by oratorical bombast on either side, and many are not at all enthusiastic about Eisenhower. And they don't know much about Stevenson, except he's a little highbrow. But above all they want a change.

HORIZONTAL
1. was dormant
6. breach
9. hill, pointed
12. Arctic
13. elusive
15. sharp mountain spur
16. of marriage
17. make corrections in literary work
19. strap-shaped
20. frail
22. principle
23. confined
24. shallow vessel
26. river island
27. seaweed
28. loiter
31. cap
32. cut into small cubes
33. culet
36. novel
38. dishonorer
40. designator
41. grew gradually less
43. crippled
45. salt of acetic acid
46. a gem
47. Roman house god
48. born
49. invigorate

VERTICAL
1. town in Belgium
2. siren of Rhine
3. constituent
4. manifest
5. bent
6. anything rare
7. of grandparents
8. situated near the ear
9. gigantic
10. egg-shaped
11. re-lease
14. enticing woman
18. preclude
20. resort
21. less common
25. counter-irritant
27. old in service
28. a football player
29. add
30. turn to the right!
31. surround
32. injury
33. deadly
34. Manila hemp
35. prank
37. cheek-bone
39. plexus
42. chickadee ca"
44. emblem of morning

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

Average time of solution: 26 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

John Sanders
Young Democrats

A vote for Stevenson is a vote for the continuation of all these horrible "tendencies toward socialism" which have characterized the national Democratic administration for two decades—or so we were recently warned by a Republican Daily Tar Heel columnist. With an economy of fact and a generosity of generalization typical of his fellow GOP campaigners, the columnist, Dorman Cordell, paraded before us this awful, reddish spectre of doom which awaits us just beyond a Democratic victory next month.

It is regrettable that Mr. Cordell failed to specify those Democratically-sponsored programs and policies which constitute this "trend toward socialism." Nor, more importantly, does he name the men who have done these unnamed, but questionably evil works. So perhaps we might do some permissable guessing as to both.

Does he mean the social security program, which has brought to millions of American working people a degree of security from want they never knew before 1932? "Muley" Bob Doughton, a "radical" of the Carolina hill breed, must be blamed for that one, for he fathered most of the federal social security legislation.

Or maybe Mr. Cordell has in mind the system of farm price supports at 90% of parity, the soil conservation service, the production and marketing administration, and other such government "handouts" to the farmer. Lay these on the doorstep of Harold Cooley, whom the voters of the fourth district keep sending back to Congress, for he is largely responsible for having foisted these "socialistic" programs off on the farmer. Meanwhile the farmers, busy in the enjoyment of their new prosperity and the better life it has brought, just keep on voting for Cooley and for the brand of "socialism" he is promoting.

Very likely Mr. Cordell was referring to federal aid to education legislation, under which every American school child would be assured the best educational opportunities the nation can afford, regardless of the poverty of his state. Again a North Carolinian, Rep. Graham Barden, has been among the arch participants in this "socialistic" conspiracy.

Almost certainly our Republican friend would view with greatest alarm the federal program for development of our natural resources. The harnessing of streams which once annually ravaged their valleys, but which now flow gently into power-producing, navigable, flood controlling reservoirs must indeed be a work of evil, for it is the doing of such notorious "opponents of free-enterprise" as Rep. John Kerr.

Of course the Post Office Department and the U. S. Army have been greatly expanded under Democratic Presidents and Congresses and surely they would fit anybody's definition of socialistic enterprises, since they are totally owned, financed, and operated by the government.

If these be "socialistic policies," then the Democratic Party must bear full responsibility for them—for these and many more, from the insuring of private bank deposits to the aiding of tenant farmers to buy land for themselves. And the American people must share that responsibility, for by their votes in five successive elections they have given these policies their full endorsement.

If these be socialistic policies, then Mr. Cordell had better look to his candidate, for the Republican nominee has not only looked upon these programs and found them good, but has promised more of the same farm price supports at 100% of parity, and the extension of social s e c u r i t y to 14,000,000 more Americans, for instance. But then, perhaps Mr. Cordell knows better than we that these promises of the Republican nominee are just promises, made with the understanding that no Republican Congress would ever carry them out. And it could be that the American people know that too, and will serve the GOP with the same bitter dish of defeat that it has earned so often before.

"No, No! Those Are The Minutes Of Tomorrow's Meeting!"

Harry Snook
NONPLUS

The Battle of Sex is coming to an end.

British researchers are testing a substance called gromwell which may free mankind, spirit and body, from one of its most vicious handicaps. Gromwell, it appears, is a safe contraceptive that the female can take by mouth, causing ovulation to cease until the effect wears off.

Implications of the discovery stagger the imagination. They involve far more than just a solution to the problem of overpopulation.

For the first time in history, the sexes will enjoy equal rights in a fundamental respect. Women will be freed from the threat of having an unwanted child, perhaps to rear alone. Society will no longer have to restrict sexual activities to marriage as a safeguard against a world of bastards.

Evil from the greatest single source will evaporate when sex is brought into the open. Sexual desires will be considered natural and sexual gratification normal. Deceit, perversion and chicanery among humans will reach an all-time low.

No longer will women be mere chattels. They will be considered full-fledged humans in their own right, not as the possessions of their superior men. The hyprocrital "double standard" won't discriminate against females.

Young people won't be hurtled into marriage for relief from sexual frustrations. Those who consider wedlock for its higher purpose won't find their thinking warped by an accumulation of long-chained physical desires. There will be less unhappy marriages and fewer divorces.

And there'll be an increase in marriages, too. Without the sexaggerated basis of current marriages, unions will be much nearer the ideal of spiritual and intellectual exchange. More people will be attracted to the matrimonial junction.

Those children who are born will be wanted. They won't face the emotional fragmentation and economic deprivation of today's broken homes.

Sex crimes will decline because the people will be mentally healthier. Venereal disease will be wiped out and white slave rings abolished. Backroom abortions and associated corruption in other fields will no longer menace us.

Our literature—books, periodicals, movies, radio, television—won't peddle bizarre distortions of sex to a depraved multitude. Who will be interested, when the real thing is at hand and approved, in the weird allusions now fed us by the mass media?

Less drunkenness and thievery will result from dissatisfied spouses and costly, illicit love. Women and men will evolve armed truce into genuine friendship. People will be more honest in all respects when they can be honest with themselves and others on the fundamental issue of sex.

Revolution has been impending for some time. The introduction of the diaphram, whose complete reliability depends only upon proper use, brought hope to responsible people. With such a contraceptive as gromwell seems to be, society will not tolerate needless loss of natural pleasure at the gain of unnatural troubles.

Catholics and misanthropes can delay the revolt, and assuredly will, but they can't halt it!

– U. N. C. Day –

(Continued from page 1)

will play the part of General William R. Davie, often described as the "father of the University." The roles of other Masons participating in the colorful pageantry are Claude Garren and Donald Treat, members of Carolina Playmakers. The part of the Rev. Samuel E. McCorkle will be played by Dr. Habel. The narrator will be William Trotman of Winston-Salem, member of Carolina Playmakers.

Upon conclusion of the cornerstone ceremonies, the people in attendance will be asked to form in procession behind the University Band and march to the Davie Poplar where the singing of "Hark the Sound" will close the exercises.

Classes and administrative officers will be closed from 10:50 to 2 p.m. Formal ceremonies will be canceled in the event of rain.

– Mascot –

(Continued from page 1)

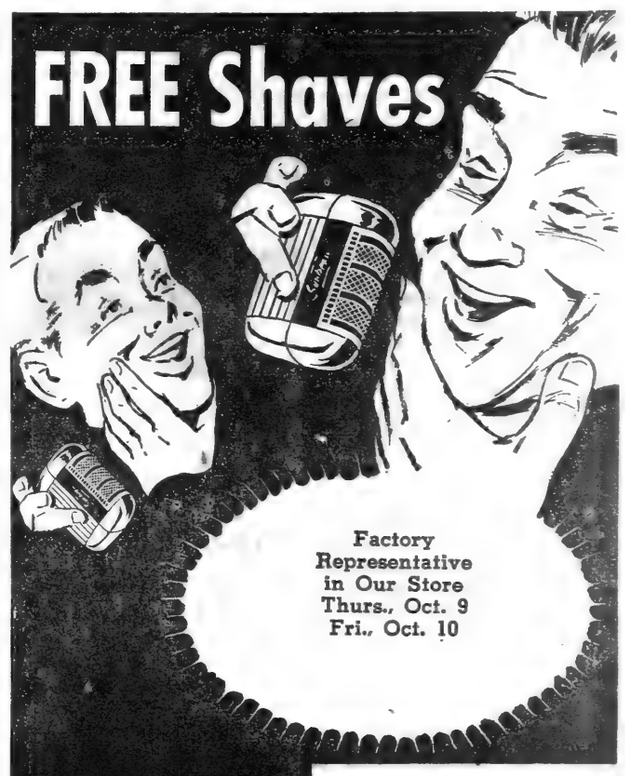
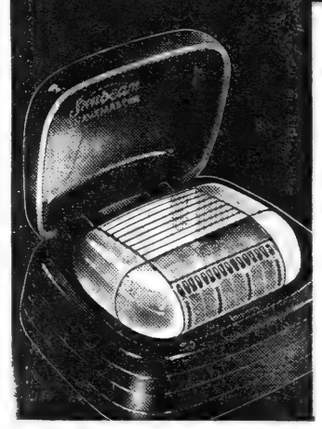
Skippy home to Hinton, joined him there later and completed formal adoption of the youth. Skippy went on to school and Gus re-entered service.



Today Skippy is much closer to his goal of becoming a doctor —thanks to Sgt. Gus Farr.

And Gus? He was killed last month fighting to free the native country of his adopted son.



The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

• JUST ARRIVED!
McGregor Sport Shirts $3.95 up
Large Selection of SWEATERS 8.95 up
Varley's
MEN'S SHOP

FREE Shaves

Factory Representative in Our Store
Thurs., Oct. 9
Fri., Oct. 10

Sunbeam SHAVEMASTER

NOW! Try it on your own beard. Find out for yourself how you can get a CLOSER, CLEANER shave in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry.

Bennett And Blocksidge
105 East Franklin St. Phone 6161

FOOD AT ITS BEST
Prepared to Suit Your Special Taste!

If you want food of the finest quality—The PINES is the place to go. Meals are served to you under the excellent management of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Merritt.

THE PINES
Raleigh Road Phone 2-5539

Card Board

New, old and prospective members of the Card Board are asked to attend a meeting tonight at 7:30 in the new Card Board room in Graham Memorial. Ushers bringing dates to the Wake Forest game bring guest tickets and their own pass books.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

With Our Customers In Mind WE Offer An Entirely NEW and Different Sundae—

THE STROLL-AWAY SUNDAE

YOUR CHOICE OF 3 FLAVORS—

* CHOCOLATE
* PINEAPPLE
* CRUSHED CHERRY

—Take Out Counter Only—

THIS WEEK'S FOUNTAIN SPECIAL

PIPING HOT CHOCOLATE FUDGE SUNDAE 30¢

The Dairy Bar

203 E. Franklin Tel. 98581

Chess Club

The chess club will hold its first meeting tonight at 7:30 in room 301-B of Woollen Gymnasium. There will be an election of officers, and the fixing of a date for a simultaneous exhibition to be given by the state champion. All those interested are cordially invited.

Square, Folk Dance Club

The Square and Folk Dancing Club will meet this afternoon at 4:30 in the Women's Gym.

Also Droopy Cartoon TODAY

Carolina

UNC Cagers Slate 22 Games

Dixie Classic, NYU Head Tough Card; Open December 1

Carolina's 1952-53 basketball team will play a 22-game schedule, Director of Athletics Chuck Erickson announced yesterday.

Opening with The Citadel in Chapel Hill on Dec. 1, the Tar Heels will play a total of 11 games at home, including a tough intersectional game with NYU at Woollen Gym on Feb. 7.

Newly-hired Coach Frank McGuire will send his team through four games, all at home, before the Christmas holidays. The Tar Heels are also scheduled to play in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh Dec. 29-31. Holy Cross will be the opening-round opponent.

Carolina will play every team on the schedule twice with the exception of NYU and South Carolina, whom they play at Columbia.

The schedule:

Dec. 1—The Citadel, here; Dec. 3—Washington and Lee, here; Dec. 6—Richmond, here; Dec. 10—Clemson, here; Dec. 29-31—Dixie Classic at Raleigh.

Jan. 3—Maryland, here; Jan. 6—V. M. I. at Lexington, Va.; Jan. 10—Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va.; Jan. 13—Davidson, here; Jan. 14—V. M. I. here; Jan. 17—Maryland at College Park, Md.; Jan. 20—Wake Forest, here; Jan. 24—N. C. State at Raleigh; Jan. 30—Davidson at Davidson; Jan. 31—Clemson at Clemson, S. C.

Feb. 3—Richmond at Richmond; Feb. 6—Duke, here; Feb. 7—N. Y. U., here; Feb. 13—South Carolina at Columbia, S. C.; Feb. 14—The Citadel at Charleston, S. C.; Feb. 17—Wake Forest at Wake Forest; Feb. 21—N. C. State, here; Feb. 27—Duke at Durham.

Entries Due For Tennis Tournament

All entries for the women's tennis singles tournament are due in today. Dormitories may enter an unlimited number of participants and sororities may enter 10 players. The tournament begins next Tuesday, and will be run on a single elimination basis. A match shall consist of 2 out of 3 sets.

Interested players who haven't signed up for the tournament should see their W.A.A. representative in their dorm or sorority before three o'clock today.

The tournament chart will be at the gym Monday and every participant is responsible for checking her scheduled games.

— Farber —

(Continued from page 1)

perienced candidate.

Farber's letter of resignation submitted to President Ham Horton said: "Due to my imminent induction into the armed forces, I find it necessary for me to tender, with regret, my resignation as editor of The Daily Tar Heel. This resignation will be effective as of today (October 8), but I intend to remain in office until a satisfactory arrangement can be worked out with regard to editorial personnel."

— Vets —

(Continued from page 1)

the next few days, Shepard added.

Current prevailing policy on college freshmen from the Selective Service System was explained by Shepard. No freshman will be called for induction into service before the end of his third quarter in school, he said. If at that time he is in the upper half of his class he may request and receive postponement for three more quarters.

Ready for a chuckle?

If there's one thing the gang at the old Intimate Bookshop like to hear more than most, it's a good chuckle. A real outright laugh, undignified and unacademic, delights our souls. That's why we gather the good humorous books like squirrels gather nuts. Here's the best of this year's crop.

Grenadine's Spawn, by Robert Ruark. Remember Grenadine Etching? Not since Forever Amber has a gal been so busy. And here's the sequel $3.00

Hopalong Freud Rides Again, by Ira Wallach. Even better than Hopalong Freud, last year's top humor seller. If this isn't required reading in your Contemporary Literature classes, that's just tough luck! $2.50

From Beowulf to Virginia Woolf—a newcomer by R. M. Myers. Like no course in English literature you've ever taken. "Few writers display so much erudition in such a tangle." May not get you through an exam, but we know lots of wolves around the campus who'll find it topcut bait $2.00

Smith's London Journal—by H. Allen Smith. A publishing epic. Now finally published from the original manuscript, for scholars with $3.00

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, by Shepherd Mead. Should be required reading for every student in the School of Business Administration. Does for the business man what "Gamesmanship" does for the tennis player—and that's plenty! $2.50

IF YOU WANT YOUR ARM TWISTED, BRING A FRIEND!

We've been broke ourselves, and if you need a laugh and are broke just now, we'll positively welcome you to a free read. No kidding.

The Intimate Bookshop

205 East Franklin Street Open Evenings

CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED

SPACE AVAILABLE FOR PUBLIC Stenographer. If you're interested in establishing a business of your own, we will furnish free office space to a neat appearing stenographer-typist in exchange for answering telephone and acting as receptionist in modern air conditioned business office. Please address replies to box 1058, Chapel Hill.

FOR RENT

ROOMS FOR RENT BY THE WEEK or for weekends. Close in. Nice location. 406 Cameron. Call 7456. charge

The Sport Shop

Brings you another first in Chapel Hill

Genuine Shell Cordovans with the new thick black cushion crepe soles ... custom made for us by —WINTHROP—

ONLY $13.95

You'll be amazed at the good looks, comfort, and the long wear these shoes will give you. We guarantee our price on these custom designed shoes to be the lowest you'll find anywhere. Come in today and see for yourself.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

We carry a complete line of Cooper's "Jockey" Underwear TOWN and CAMPUS

Rhomboid P. Fusty, beloved geometry professor, says

"There's good hypoteNEWS in Jockey brand Shorts!"

"Find out all the angles, and stop being a square," continues the professor, who is not above a classroom drollery. "Millions of young men are discovering new comfort in tailored-to-fit Jockey brand Shorts—and if you don't believe me, just axiom!"

Enjoy the smooth, snug fit that is exclusively Jockey's!

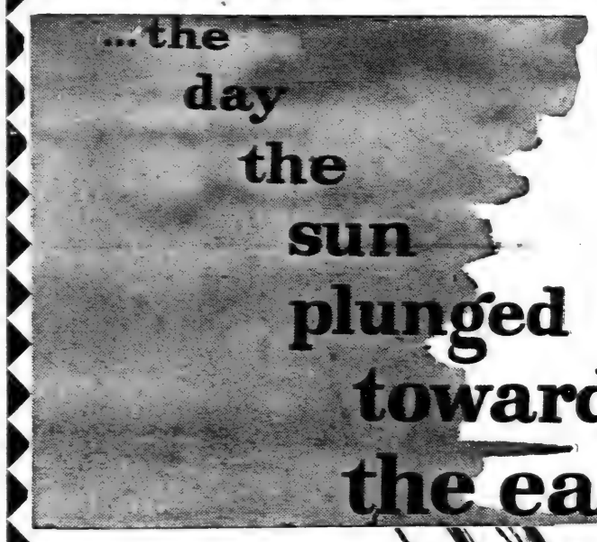
Yes, Jockey brand Shorts are tailored to fit . . . and have four exclusive features that insure extra comfort:

13 separate contoured pieces are carefully crafted into one smooth-fitting garment.

Newly-developed heat resistant rubber in waistband outlasts other leading brands by 40%.

No sag or bind around the legs.

Unique Jockey no-gap front opening.



all underwear gives you coverage but only Jockey® BRAND gives you full comfort!

Made only by Cooper's® Kenosha, Wisconsin

COOPER'S "Jockey" SHORTS ARE SOLD AT JACK LIPMAN'S

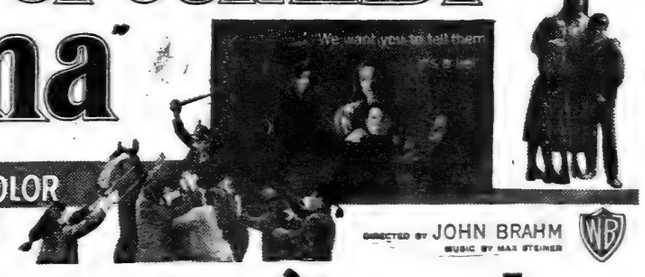
—Serving the College Man Since 1924—

STUNNING! STAGGERING! BREATH-TAKING!

"SEE IT! IT LIGHTS UP THE SCREEN LIKE A RAY OF SUNSHINE!" —JOURNAL-AMERICAN

"A RARE EMOTIONAL TREAT! PROFOUNDLY STIRRING!" —DAILY MIRROR

"INSRIRATIONAL! IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE!" —DAILY NEWS



"PERFORMANCES ARE ADMIRABLE!" —N. Y. HERALD TRIBUNE

The Thrill Of Its Story . . . The Power Of Its Spectacle Make It

"ONE OF THE 10 BEST PICTURES OF THIS DECADE!" LOUIS SOBOL King Features Syndicate

"THE Miracle OF OUR LADY OF Fatima"

ALL ITS SPECTACLE AND MAGNIFICENCE IN COLOR BY WARNERCOLOR

WRITTEN FOR THE SCREEN BY CRANE WILBUR AND JAMES O'HANLON

DIRECTED BY JOHN BRAHM MUSIC BY MAX STEINER

THE MIRACLE PICTURE OF 1952

TODAY and FRIDAY

WE URGE YOU to see this movie from the BEGINNING ONLY!

Features at 1:15—3:11—5:07—7:03—9:00

Varsity

Children ....25c Matinee ....74c Night $1.00

Hi Neighbor!

WELCOME

To The Grand Opening

GLEN LENNOX

SERVICE STATION

GLEN LENNOX SHOPPING CENTER–ONE MILE EAST OF CHAPEL HILL ON RALEIGH HIGHWAY 54–DIAL 9-5040

THURSDAY
& FRIDAY
Oct. 9th and 10th

FREE

–Set of GOODYEAR DE-LUXE Tires for your car

–Set of GOODYEAR Seat Covers

–GOODYEAR All-Weather Battery

10 Prizes of 10-Gal. Gas

All you have to do is register! . . . nothing to buy . . . no obligation to you . . . and you will NOT have to be present at the drawing to win.

★ Prizes for the children

★ Favors for the ladies

★ Gifts for the men

Drawing Will Be Held Saturday, October 25 6:30 P.M.

We are proud to be a part of the beautiful new GLEN-LENNOX Shopping Center, and we cordially invite you to visit us and inspect our new Sinclair Service Station. It's modern and built for your convenience. Everything is arranged so that the customer will get quick esrvice. Our attendants are especially trained for the job. If you want the best service in town . . . SEE US!!

featuring SINCLAIR PRODUCTS

Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil – Sinclair Tenol H-D – Sinclair Opaline – Sinclair Conditioning Oil – Sinclair Automatic Transmission Fluid – Sinclair Gear Lube – Sinclair Brake Fluid – Sinclair Upper-Lube

COME ONE - COME ALL
VISIT THE NEWGLEN LENNOX
SHOPPING CENTER

And The New

GLEN LENNOX Service Station

YOU GET THESE FREE Services Regularly

- Battery Check
- Tire Check
- Radiator Check
- Air Cleaner Check
- Fan Belt Check
- Oil Level Check
- Rear Window Cleaned
- Windshield Cl...

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-60

WEATHER

Rainy until tonight with 60 high. Yesterday's high, 56; low, 45.

The Daily Tar Heel

DIRT

Carousel with Deenie. Collegiate gossip on page 4.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 15 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Collie Getting A Liberal Education

Collie Dog Has Home And Son, Majors Here In Extra-Curriculars

By Elaine Gibson

In Milton Berle's coinage, "George" means good; Carolina's usage usually refers to a certain roving canine.

This is the story of Lex Greene, collie. Christened Alexis meaning "friend to man," George despite appearances and speculation to the contrary, actually does have a home and his family also does its darndest to feed him. It's sometimes a question, though, just where to send his meals.

George was born on July 18, 1950, in the home of a Methodist minister in Durham. His father was registered, but his mother was a bit shepherd and ran around, which may account for George's roving instinct. At an early age George was given to the Sylvester Greenes who had just moved to Chapel Hill.

They resided on Franklin Street beside the Gordon Gray's. There, for a few months George romped with the Gray's setters and was domestic devotee in general.

When Nancy Greene began attending classes in the fall, however, George then Lex grasped the opportunity to better his own education. Then when the Greenes moved to a new home on University Drive, George, accustomed to Franklin and Cameron, simply stayed and soon found his real medium as campus cosmopolite.

"All the people on campus called him Lassie until they found he was a laddie," says Nancy, "and since then he's been George."

Since that time George has attended at one time or another almost every class on campus except organic zoo. He is an en-

(See GEORGE, Page 3)

Students Give George Okay

George got helping hands yesterday.

The friendly canine, who recently peppered in the face with birdshot by an unidentified assailant, could rest comfortably on two counts: 1. Already last night, more than $6 had been contributed to defray his medical expenses, and 2. Dr. L. L. Vine said the collie would recover soon.

Making contributions were the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, Bill Walker, Charles Whittaker and Horace Golightly. The Daily Tar Heel will continue to accept contributions.

Well Known Names Stud Frosh Roll

The campus is fairly bustling with freshmen whose names have been familiar to Tar Heels for generations.

Such famous names as Aycock, Jonas, Reynolds and Tuck are among the new freshmen who, in many cases, are learning the ropes at Carolina like their fathers and grandfathers before them.

The name Aycock is being recalled with the arrival of Charles B. Aycock Jr. of Kinston, grandson and namesake of North Carolina's great educational governor.

Governor Aycock entered the University in 1880—72 years before his grandson came to Chapel Hill to take his place in the student body. The governor devoted his life to advancement of education in the State and died while giving a public address with the word "education" on his lips.

The grandson of Charles A. Jonas of Lincolnton, a former Congressman from North Carolina, is also enrolled. He is Eric Jonas of Charlotte. Young Jonas was president of his high school class in Charlotte and is rated an excellent golfer.

A name made famous the world over by the State's tobacco industry is represented here by Richard J. Reynolds III, of Winston-Salem, who has taken up residence along with some 400 of his classmates in the new Cobb Dormitory.

From Virginia comes Emmitt Tuck, cousin of Governor Tuck of Virginia, also well known to Tar Heels.

The 1952 presidential campaign brought some new names to the limelight in North Carolina—"Ike" and Richard Nixon. Both are represented by cousins of the Republican nominees, Fred Neal (Ike) Isenhour of Conover, William Jacob Isenhour of Hickory and Richard Nixon of Charlotte.

Although both "Ikes" spell their names differently from the General Dwight Eisenhower, the youngsters declare that the main point is they are all kinsmen and vote the Republican ticket.

Rush Bids

Today is the last day for freshmen to pick up rushing bids.

The bids may be picked up from 10 a.m. until noon. Those who have checked by previously this week but have found no bids are asked to check again today when mix-ups will be straightened out.

Absentee Balloting Method Explained

By Jerry Reece

North Carolina students attending the University who want to vote November 4 but who are not registered yet had the situation explained yesterday.

Henry Lewis of the Institute of Government pointed out that a North Carolina student must register in his home precinct before he can vote. If registred properly, the student may vote by absentee ballot.

To register, a student must: appear before the registrar in his home precinct, be sworn and state his name, age, place of birth, present address and other information important in establishing his identity and qualifications. To do this the person must be 21 years of age, a U.S. citizen, sane, able to read and write the N. C. Constitution, and able to show that he has never been convicted or confessed guilt in a general court to a crime, the punishment for which is imprisonment in the State Prison.

Any qualified voter may vote by absentee ballot in a general election if he will be absent from the county in which he is entitled to vote on election day.

To obtain and vote an absentee ballot a voter must apply to the chairman of the county board of elections for the ballot not less than two days before the election. The voter must either apply in person or through his parent, brother, sister, spouse, child, or by mail. The application must be filed on a blank form furnished by the chairman of the county board of elections.

Once he has received the absentee ballot the first thing the voter must do is to find some official with a seal who is authorized to administer oaths. When the voter has found a qualified officer he can begin the ceremony. In the officer's presence he marks the ballots, signs his name at the bottom of each ballot, folds each ballot separately and places them in the container envelope, makes and signs the affidavit printed on the envelope, and has the officer attest the oath by affixing his signature and seal. The voter must then mail the sealed envelope to the issuing chairman.

The ballot must be in the chairman's hands by 3 p.m. of the election day.

Howell To Speak At Medical Meet

Dr. Roger William Howell, professor of mental health at the School of Public Health of the University, will speak at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Neuropsychiatric Association.

The meeting will be held next Friday at the O. Henry Hotel in Greensboro.

Dr. Howell will discuss the paper "Mental Health" given by

Campus Dons Winter Garb As Rains Stay

Old Man Winter lowered his icy hand on the campus for the second straight day yesterday and dumped cold rains expected to last until tonight.

Students turned up their collars, donned heavy clothes and faced a touch of winter in October. Low temperatures for the cold snap have averaged near 40.

Local clothing stores reported they were kept busy supplying the necessary gear and service stations told of a brisk business in anti-freeze. Motorists weren't taging chances despite the forecast of well-above freezing temperatures.

Chapel Hill and Carrboro coalyards said they had ample supplies as did fuel oil distributors.

2nd Anniversary For Gray Passes

Gordon Gray put in his customary busy day yesterday, the second anniversary of his inauguration as president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

The two years since October 9, 1950, "have passed very rapidly," Gray noted last night while indulging in a few reflections. "I stay as busy here as I did in Washington or in any other job," he said.

"From the beginning I approached this job with humility," he added. "I hope that will be my continuing approach."

Concerning the Consolidated University he said, "We are making fine progress, but we can never be satisfied unless we do progress."

University Day Is Called Off

Due to the cancellation of the State-Carolina game, Consolidated University Day, which was scheduled for Saturday, has been called off.

Every effort is being made to reschedule the day and in the event that Carolina plays State in December, it will take place then, Chairman Tom Creasy said yesterday.

MEDICAL CORPSMEN GIVE BLOOD plasma to a wounded fighter near the Korean front as grim faced South Korean stretcher bearers watch the operation. UN forces battered the Chinese Communists with savage counterattacks after stopping the biggest Red drive in 12 months.—UP Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

KANSAS CITY—Gov. Adlai Stevenson indicated yesterday he will accept the Republican challenge to back President Truman's record. He tagged Truman "a man from Independence who has rallied the free peoples against the mortal threat of communism and Russian imperialism," in a prepared speech here. Stevenson refered to Eisenhower as an "honorary Republican candidate" who has surrendered party leadership to Taft.

✶

SAN FRANCISCO — Abandoning his special train, Eisenhower flew into Southern California yesterday to launch a fierce attack against the Truman administration. Eisenhower charged Truman of allowing Russia to "swindle" America in the Korean truce talks. Speaking before a nation-wide television audience, the Republican candidate told an overflow audience that this country has been "dozing at the gate" while the "psychological strategists of Communism have crept into our citadel." He also stated that Truman made needless concessions to Russia in 1945 even after he knew the Russians would enter the Pacific war.

✶

WASHINGTON — Solons here revealed yesterday that they are all but resigned to a long war in Korea. Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared that he hasn't given up all hope for an armistice. But he was far from cheerful about prospects. The State and Defense departments are studying possible ways to apply more military and diplomatic pressure on the Communists to crack the deadlock on repartriation of Red prisoners.

Not For Sale

Students and townspeople are reminded that The Daily Tar Heel is not sold on the streets.

Several reports were received yesterday that the papers were being sold to unsuspecting persons. The papers are paid for by student block fees and as such are delivered already paid for.

Schwartz To Head Student Audit Board

Dick Schwartz of Phillipsburg, N. J., yesterday was named chairman of the Student Audit Board by President Ham Horton.

Schwartz, a senior, has served in the Student Legislature where he acted as Sergeant of Arms, and was elected treasurer of the sophomore class during the second year of extra-curricular service.

He was a member of the University Party Steering Committee and has served as an orientation counselor for two years.

The new chairman said he plans to meet with Ed Gross, secretary-treasurer of the student body, this week to discuss the finances of the student government. With this group, Schwartz will take up his duties directing the office.

Chow Down

The W.A.A. will have its annual fall picnic for all co-eds on Monday, afternoon at 5 o'clock. A short program is being planned to feature the main intra-mural women's sports on campus.

Every co-ed on campus is invited to attend this two-hour blue-jean picnic.

AT LEAST 82 PERSONS WERE DEAD AND HUNDREDS injured in a triple train crash in Harrow, England. Two speeding express trains, traveling in opposite directions on the double-tracked railway line, ripped into a nine car commuter local which was loaded with 800 early morning rush-hour passengers. It was believed that fog, the first of the season, contributed to the worst wreck in 37 years, and the second most tragic in Britain's history.—UP Telephoto.

DTH Interim Editor Appointed Today

Neill May Get Post; Dear And Snook Undecided On Whether To Run For Job

The Publications Board will meet today to approve an interim editor for The Daily Tar Heel until a new editor is elected by the campus, chairman Walt Dear announced yesterday.

The meeting will be held at 2 o'clock in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial.

Editor Barry Farber stepped down from the top post Wednesday after he was notified of his induction into the armed forces. Farber says he will join the Marines.

Under the student constitution, the editor appoints all salaried posts, subject to approval by the board. Rolfe Neill, present managing editor, has been mentioned for the job of interim editor.

Commenting on Farber's resignation, Dear said, "UNC students are losing one of the most popular editors to hlod The Daily Tar Heel editorship in years. It's a disappointment to me that he can't stay around to continue his fine work, but the services will at least have a great advertisement for Carolina in Barry."

Asked whether he would run for the editorship, Dear said, "I don't know. The vacancy was a surprise to me." Dear ran for the job as a sophomore against Glenn Harden and others, two years ago.

A new editor can be elected at the regular fall election in late November or by a special election, if the Student Legislature approves.

Harry Snook, Daily Tar Heel columnist, also is being mentioned as a candidate for editor. In a statement yesterday afternoon Snook said:

"It would be a real challenge to edit The Daily Tar Heel. I'm convinced our college paper can be the finest anywhere. Because other committments are involved, I can't say yet whether I'll run for election."

Snook added, in reference to whether he would incorporate his Nonplus views into newspaper policy if elected, "Purely personal issues are all right in their proper place, which is either in headed columns such as Nonplus or in Express Yourself, but should never enter into an objective editorial policy."

Bill Passes But Solons In Quandary

By Louis Kraar

The Legislature passed an amendment for the redistricting of dormitory voting last night, but whether the bill would effect the coming Fall election was an issue of purest conjecture at the close of the meeting.

Henry Lowet (SP) one of the opponets of the bill pointed out that according to law, any bills pertaining to redistricting would not effect the coming election "Bills of this sort must be passed within 45 days of the election The election is a little over 30 days off," he added.

Both proponents and opponents of the bill were puzzled over the question. Speaker Jim McCloud (UP) explained that the Student Council was to be contacted immediately. Ted Frankel, Student Council president, could not be reached late last night.

The amendment revamps the existing two dormitory districts into five districts. It does not effect town districts or women's dormitories.

Joel Fleishman (SP) Parliamentarian, retterated the 45 day rule, but admitted some action has to be taken to include the newly constructed Cobb Dormitory.

"I am going ahead and revise the districts by the amendment," declared Jerry Cook, (UP) Election Board Chairman. Cook's decision was the cause of much controversy.

Lou Southern (SP) said, "If this amendment doesn't go in effect for the Fall election, the Student Party may have some chance. Otherwise, the University Party will continue to retain their great majority." He pointed out that he felt that the bill was a political move on the part of the UP.

President Ham Horton (UP) previously described the bill as not political, but a move to bring students and their representatives closer together."

Five legislators were sworn in at the beginning of the session.

Legislators absent were Dee Breslow (UP), Shirley Gegee (UP), Blake Ingram (UP-SP), Jane Kottmeir (SP), Jim Parker (UP), Ann Street (UP), Dot Smith (UP) and Margaret Thompson (SP).

University Gets Large Health Grant

A grant of $30,500 has been made by the Health Information Foundation to the University.

The gift will enable the University's Institute for Research in Social Science to make a two-year community health study. "This is a major move toward developing social science research in connection with our expanding programs in the health and medican fields," Chancellor R. B. House said yesterday.

Admiral W.H.P. Blandy is president of HIF, a new foundation recently established by the drug, pharmaceutical and allied industries for the purpose of gathering and distributing basic information about health.

Directors of the study here will be Dr. Floyd Hunter, associate professor of social work, and Dr. Cecil G. Sheps, research professor of health planning and director of program planning for the Division of Health Affairs. Ruth Connor, research fellow in the Institute, will aid in field work.

Last Law Day

Today is the last day for Law Students to have their pictures taken. Juniors have through next Wednesday.

The pictures are being taken in the basement of Graham Memorial. There is no charge. The Yack also is seeking student snapshots to put into the yearbook. The snaps cannot be returned.

Today also is the last day for organizations to sign space contracts.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher

News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

Night Editor for this issue: Tom Peacock

You're Not A Shirker

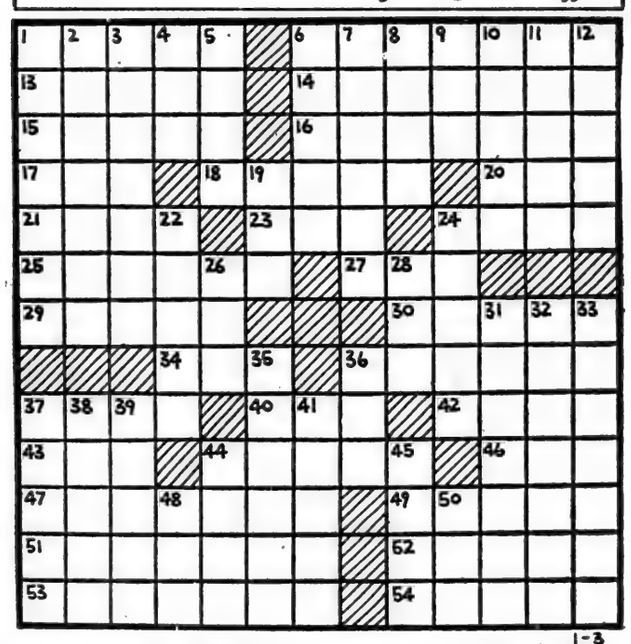
A letter was placed in the mailbox of The Daily Tar Heel during the summer which was unstamped and datelined Korea.

Inside there was no name, no address, and no written message. There was merely a cartoon clipped from another newspaper which showed two grimy, blood-soaked G. I.'s huddling in an Asiatic foxhole and reading a college newspaper from the States which bore a frivilous headline describing the previous evening's daring panty raid. The caption of the drawing read, "Maybe if we ever did anything important we'd get our names in the paper, too."

It is no secret that our government's policy of allowing deferments for college students has engendered burning resentment in the minds of many veterans, families with sons in Korea, and the boys themselves who feel that it isn't exactly cricket for them to be dodging grenades and sobbing for plasma while we enjoy a normal college life with all the peacetime trimmings, consigning the news from the front to minute headlines just under the World Series streamer.

If we can, for a moment, project ourselves into the fiery crucible of Korea we might gain some insight as to why the boys on Heartbreak Ridge rebel at the thought of shedding their blood six thousand miles from home while other boys, more financially and academically fortunate, are allowed to compiete their education unmolested.

Regardless of how discriminatory, farcical, and unrealistic it may seem to the Marines who nail wooden crosses over the graves of their buddies, the fact remains that the hard core of any defense program in the atomic age must be predicated, not on massed concentrations of troops, but on the number of trained, qualified personnel preparing to occupy specialized positions within the armed forces.



The policy of college draft deferments, though perhaps leaving something to be desired ethically and morally, is desirable because it increases the potential value of a man to his country's war effort by sharpening his mental weapons. In 1940 six hundred Russian soldiers were annihilated by the Finns because their leader couldn't read his orders. The concept of an army travelling on its stomach is now as obselete as the hand-loading musket. The modern war machine seeks to get there "firstest with the mostest" logistics experts, trajectory plotters, and radar specialists.

Another point in favor of the deferment is the fact that a man is not automatically defered upon acceptance at a college or university. We must either maintain a high scholastic average or pass a College Deferment Examination before being granted a postponement of service.

Actually, the question of righteousness must finally be resolved in the heart of every student who applies for deferment. "Am I trying to better myself mentally so as to increase my eventual value to the armed forces or am I trying to get out of something?" is a timely query which each man should pose to himself before climbing the stairs of South Building to Col. Sheppard's office.

At any rate, don't lose sleep because you're wearing gabardine instead of khaki. Plans are now in progress to ease your gilt complex after graduation day.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

HORIZONTAL
1. proverbial friend
6. grates harshly
13. elude
14. Neptune's emblem
15. stabs
16. optimistic
17. outfit
18. backbone
20. Confederate general
21. masculine name
23. imitate
24. drove
25. ratchet wheel pin
27. observe
29. dropsy
30. small pies
34. choose
36. caution
37. topaz humming-birds
40. college cheer
42. volcano in Sicily
43. masculine nickname
44. Biblical
46. tatter
47. small hand bomb
49. effigy
51. stimulate
52. shoe string
53. gainers
54. wide-mouthed pitchers

VERTICAL
1. lower
2. shunned
3. English watering-place
4. lyric poem
5. promontory
6. plunder
7. hags
8. small hill
9. citrus drink
10. American artist
11. go into
12. horse
19. caressive touch
22. memoranda (abbr.)
24. raise with effort
26. drowze
28. Greek letter
31. go back over in memory
32. oscine bird
33. ones long experienced
35. barterer
36. Oriental tea
37. wrath
38. French writer
39. feminine name
41. prayer endings
44. possess
45. river in Egypt
48. pinch

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

Average time of solution: 26 minutes

Tom MacMullen
Flick Fare

By Tom McMillan

In a very moving and highly dramatic color motion picture, "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," Warner Brothers brings to the screen the story of the miracle that was supposed to have occured near the small Portugese town of Fatima in 1917.

While tending a flock of sheep on a hill pasture known as Cova da Ira, Lucia Dos Sontas and her two younger cousins saw a vision of a "Beautiful Lady" who told them that she would appear on the thirteenth day of each month for six months. This news spread rapidly all over Portugal, and in succeeding months increasing numbers of the faithful flocked to Fatima. "The Lady" prophesied several important events, including World War II. Finally, on the last visit to the children, as a visable sign from heaven, the sun dipped out of the firmament toward earth, and back again. This convinced the gathered crowd of seventeen thousand that the Holy Mother herself had visited them. The final sequence in the film is a shot of the million pilgrims that visited Fatima last year.

The religious significance of this picture is clearly a Roman Catholic appeal for Maryolatry, but its artistic value outweighs this in the skillful buildup to a dramatic climax.

Eleven-year-old Susan Whitney does a very credible job of acting as Lucia. Gilbert Roland provides comic relief as a rascally atheist who is finally converted.

Many of the "Warnercolor" shots are definitely superior, and the background choir would grace Saint Peter's Cathedral in Rome.

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is currently showing at the Varsity Theater in its North Carolina premeire. The matinee price is $.75 and $1.00 at night. The picture should be seen from the beginning, if possible, in order to fully enjoy its dramatic qualities.

Pogo
Political Dope

(By Special Correspondent)

Hugo, the Mouse assistant to the House Detective at the Furbelow Arms, says that he has never seen so many candidates running for the same office. Today he decided that he might as well join the race and offered his personal ticket: Hugo for President and Hugo for Vice President.

He went up to the Convention Hall and the man at the gate said let us see your ticket, stranger. So Hugo showed him the sign he was carrying: HUGO For Pres., and HUGO for VP., and the man just laughed and said that is unconstitutional and and anyway you can't get away with it. So he chased Hugo all the way to the Stock Yard Inn, where Hugo met an old friend of his, a cat, with whom he had once worked in vaudeville.
fare, pointed out that in order

The cat, a singer of light opera to get into the convention hall you had to either have a pass or you had to know somebody or you had to be sneaky. Hugo said he didn't have a pass and the only person he knew out there was the cat and so he'd have to try the last one, which is sort of up his line anyway. The cat said that one of the gatemen was an ex-bee-keeper and all Hugo had to do was go up and hum a little and claim he used to work for the man.

"Flap your wings once in a while, too," said the cat. Hugo said he would.

So Hugo went up to the ex-bee-keeper and he hummed and flapped his wings and he told the man that he used to work for him. The man looked at Hugo closely and he said, "You're the one that started that sit down strike!"

Turned out he was anti-labor and HE chased Hugo all the way to the Illinois Central R.R. where Hugo jumped aboard and had his ticket punched back into the Loop.

A bee friend who stopped by later said that you can get stung in the Bee business about as quick as anything else and may-

"Our Differences Have Nothing To Do With The End Result That We Are Seeking."

Drew Pearson
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Last spring this column told the inside story of a stormy secret session of the Senate elections committee at which Sen. Guy Gillette of Iowa threatened to resign.

After the story appeared, Senator Gillette issued a statement, resorting to the easiest epithet of a politician: "Pearson is a liar."

"Seventy-five percent of what he wires is hog-wash," stated the senator from Iowa.

However, in a letter datetd Sept. 10, 1952, now made public, Senator Gillette wrote to Sen. Cary Hayden of Arizona, as follows:

"As you know, I tried to resign as chairman earlier this spring, but you pointed out the situation with reference to membership on the rules committe, which made it difficut to fill my place with a new assignment from the Democratic side of the committee."

In retrospect, Senator, who was it that was really lying?

Reports to Washington from Operation Mainbrace indicate that the big North Sea naval maneuver was a flop.

A heavy gale kept the carrier planes out of action at the crucial moments; submarines slipped through and claimed torpedo hits against all the carriers; and the surf was too rough to land the marines on a beachhead. Instead, they had to be hauled around on the lee side of Denmark in order to go through their maneuvers.

When these reports reached Washington, Admiral Fechteler, Chief of Naval Operations, almost blew his top. He let out a mighty roar, charging that the submariners exaggerated their reports and that they would have needed "a whole transport full of torpedoes" to make all the hits they claimed.

Here is what the politicians reported to Eisenhower as of the end of last week: Taft told him Ohio would go Republican, Though his brother, Charlie, would have a tight race for governor. In West Virginia,, Rush Holt, the pro-Nazi sympathizer, predicted he would be elected governor, while others predicted Chapman Revercomb would lose to Senator Kilgore.

North Carolina and Virginia were considered hopeful but doubtful . . . General Eisenhower spoke at every whistle-stop his managers requested. But he drew the line at one thing—climbing down from the rear platform and shaking hands with the crowd at every stop, as urged by Congressman George Bender of Ohio . . . The producer who staged Senator Nixon's broadcast, one of the most dramatic and effective in years, was Ed Sobal, NBC's top television producer. The man who helped write it was ace-attorney Bill Rogers . . . correction: Bert Andrews, New York Herald Tribune correspondent, did not urge Eisenhower to drop Senator Nixon from the ticket as earlier reported in this column.

The big steel companies, and particularly U. S. Steel, haven't been renowned for pro-labor sympathies. But John L. Lewis can chiefly thank them for the generous new contract he got from the coal operators, giving him a $1.90 daily pay boost, plus extra welfare benefits.

Unlike the commercial coal companies, which were in no hurry to settle, big steel wanted a quick settlement for its captive coal companies—for two reasons:

1. The steel companies feared a prolonged strike might interfere with steel production; 2. They could afford to absorb a substantial coal pay boost in their over-all steel-production costs much easier than commercial operators, who mine solely for consumer sale.

By a fortuitous circumstance the man who was chief spokesman for both the steel-owned captive mines and the northern commercial mines was Harry Moses, former president of the H. C. Frick company, the big captive firm owned by U. S. Steel.

Bargaining negotiations with John L. Lewis usually go on for days. This time it was strangely different, and Moses practically jumped over the bargaining table at the first meeting to come to terms with Big John.

It's supposed to be kept secret until after election day, but West Virginia Republicans are quietly setting a trap for any Democratic "ghosts" who try to stuff the ballot box, November 4.

They are especially anxious to catch names taken from gravestones, which, they claim, appeared in the 1950 balloting. Therefore the secret GOP plan is to mail more than half a million political circulars to registered voters. Some of these registered voters presumably will be gravestone names.

Therefore, the Republicans have quietly arranged with the Post Office to return all undelivered circulars. A list of these names will be turned over to every Republican precinct captain. So, when anyone tries to vote under a name the post office couldn't locate, he will be challenged at the polls on election day.

In Nevada, hoary-haired Sen. Pat McCarran is stuck politically between the devil and the deep blue sea. A young war veteran named Tom Mechling succeeded in trouncing McCarran's former law partner, Allan Bible, in the democratic primaries, so the natural thing for McCarran to do would be to cut the Democratic ticket, which he hasn't hesitated to do in the past.

But if he cuts Democrat Mechling, the he elects GOP Sen. "Molly" Malone, for whom he has no respect whatsoever. Time after time, the brusque McCarran has snubbed or publicly browbeaten his GOP colleague from Nevada.

Once, when Malone was making a Senate speech condemning the reciprocal trade treaty, McCarran, listening impatiently, finally whispered to Sen. Walter George of Georgia that he would "put a stop to this."

Ed Yoder
Pulling The Grass Roots

Hamilton Horton, president of the University of North Carolina student body, was one of the majority of students who expressed the opinion that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, would win the presidential election this year, as Grassroots, the Daily Tar Heel's new student opinion column, took its first poll yesterday.

Of the 11 persons quizzed by the Grassroots reporter, two said they thought Gov. Adlai Stevenson would poll the majority of votes, eight were of the opinion that General Eisenhower would be the next president, and one, who said he was an independent and didn't know, declined to be quoted.

According to the Daily Tar Heel poll, the preponderance of "Ike" sentiment was even more pronounced among the women students than among the men. Of four women students asked whom they thought would win, all said they foresaw a victory for Eisenhower. Of seven men students to whom the question was popped, two were of the opinion that Stevenson would be the winner. Five held opposite viewpoints.

Asked the question, "Whom do you think will win the presidential election this year?" the following persons answered:

Joel Siegel, senior, Salisbury: "Stevenson by a walkaway. He has the intelligence, conviction, and the dynamic know-how to make American Government work."

Manning Muntzing, freshman, Moorfield, West Virginia: "Eisenhow's in. The American people have had enough bureaucracy. The intelligent people will vote Republican.

Charles Katzenstein, freshman, New York City: "One day you hear people say Stevenson has got it. The next day it's certain Eisenhower will win. I think, personally, that Eisenhower will win because the need for a change outweighs the fact that the Democrats are running a good man."

Graham Shanks, freshman, Birmingham, Alabama: " I believe that Stevenson will win, because he's capable, intelligent, and has the support of the Democratic Party, which has been in control for 20 years. He is a man of political experience, too."

Baxter McIntire, sophomore, Ellerbe, N. C.: "I personally think Stevenson has a lot of backing, but Ike is very popular in the eyes of the people. I think his popularity will cast the vote for him."

Bunky Overholt, freshman nurse, Pittsburgh, Pa.: "Eisenhower. I don't think he is necessarily a better man, but the American people want a change in administration, I believe."

Hamilton Horton, senior, Winston Salem, President of the student body: "I think that Eisenhower will win. Any party that remains in power too long becomes naturally lax in its responsibility to the people."

Sandra Shaw, freshman nurse, Durham, N. C.: "Eisenhower. As long as he has been in the military service of the country, people have had confidence in what he has done and said."

Kathy Widman, freshma nurse, Durham, N. C.: "Eisenhower, because he has great popular appeal and hasn't lost the common touch, though he walks with kings."

Jean Bryant, freshman, nurse, Jacksonvill, Fla.: "It's Eisenhowerhower. I believe that the majority of the people want a change and I think he's worthy of the position.

Anonymous: "Damn the Democrats; damn the Republicans; Damn the State's Righters. My man ain't running, so I ain't voting."

Express Yourself

Editor:

I would like to protest the implication of a letter printed in the Sept. 30 issue of The Daily Tar Heel, which complained about a cigarette salesman. It is true that representatives of different companies who pester the students and try to force them to buy products shouldn't even be allowed on campus and I agree that my fellow student deserved to gripe.

However, during my term at this institution I have often been given different merchandise by salesmen who were in no way bothersome or offensive. These guys did me a favor and I am sure they have done for a lot of others here on campus. So I would like to say that I think it is unfair to imply that all the salesmen are "high pressure" guys.

To those salesmen who go out of their way to be nice to us, therefore, I say welcome.

Johnny Booker

WEEK-END SPECIAL

MORE THAN 500 USED BOOKS
MOSTLY TAKEN FROM THE 48c
SHELF, REDUCED TO ONLY

29c

SALE STARTS SATURDAY

INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. FRANKLIN ST. — Open Evenings

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Irish In A Stew

TIM COHANE, sports editor of Look Magazine, has written a story for the latest issue of the popular bi-weekly entitled, "Is Notre Dame Going To Pot?"—a question which most Tar Heel fans wish could be answered in the affirmative. But to our chagrin, Mr. Cohane says certainly not, they're just building. It seems that the only thing wrong with the article is the timing. Cohane would have seemed a prophet if his story had appeared before last Saturday when the Fighting Irish gave Texas a 14-3 licking.

The sports editor points out that a lot of people wonder whether scholarships have been cut at Notre Dame or whether Leahy has grown complacent. He says the answer is no to both questions.

Cohane's story brings out a point which many people have overlooked in the case of Notre Dame (and in the case of Carolina, too)—the fact that the teams Leahy coached to such phenomenal success after the past war were made up of men, most of whom took active parts in the fighting of the Japanese and Germans. The war had aged and toughened them, definitely making better football prospects out of them. The coaching of these older men was not a training and teaching program which has confronted Leahy in recent years.

The Old And The Young

REMEMBER HIS BIG stars, Johnny Lujack, Jim Martin, Emil Sitko, Leon Hart, Ziggy Czarobski, Jim Mello, and George Connor all put in a good bit of time in the service, and came out more highly tempered football players for it. Leahy didn't have much trouble coaching these men because they were well versed in the rudiments of the game. They just didn't mak the numerous errors which pop up in a game dominated by 18, 19, and 20 year olds.

Unfortunately sports fans have short memories. They can only remember the records of what those great Irish teams did. They find it hard to recall just why they compiled such outstanding feats.

But Mr. Cohane points out that new Leahy and the Irish are building. The Notre Dame coach had a fairly green team in 1950, but the team lost only two games (although this kind of season is considered poor for Notre Dame. But last year when his players looked greener bareback than with their jerseys on, Leahy had one of the worst seasons he has ever had, losing four games.

Smiling Again

IRISH FANS can smile though for the Notre Dame coach lost but 11 men from that 1951 team. He's got a more experienced outfit this year and, according to Leahy himself, it will be even better in 1953. This point has already been brought out in the first two games this season. In the Irish opener the team tied Pennsylvania, supposedly the power of the East, 7-7. Then last week, after trailing 3-0 at the half, the Fighting Irish came back to win going away 14-3 over Texas.

Thus it seems, as Soptrs Editor Cohane illustrates so graphically, Notre Dame football is not going to pot. Leahy has had the job of building a bunch of young men into a seasoned football team. He had a bad season last year when he first went to work. Undoubtedly he will lose a couple this year. But in the end he certainly should have something for his efforts—a strong and winning Notre Dame team.

Now if Aesop were still around to moralize, and happened to pick up Mr. Cohane's article, he could certainly send some words of wisdom in the Chapel Hill direction. Our own Coach Carl Snavely has been faced with much the same problem as Mr. Leahy. Immediately after the war when he had an aged bunch of veterans to perform for him, Coach Snavely sent three teams to bowl games in four years. Like Leahy's Lujack and company, the Grey Fox had seasoned players in Charlie Justice, Art Weiner, Ted Hazelwood, Chan Haighsmith, Kenny Powell, and a host of others. He didn't have the problem of breaking them in.

Coaches And Distillers

BUT IN RECENT YEARS, like Coach Leahy, Snavely has had the problem of building and teaching. Things haven't come easy. Admittedly the Tar Heels had a poor season last year, but for the most part it was a year of drilling. We took our knocks but certainly we learned something in experiencing them. The team this year should be all the better for them.

So, as Mr. Cohane has pointed out about Leahy and Notre Dame, it's a building process which takes time. Don't expect miracles when the Tar Heels play Wake Forest after the polio period is over, but you can certainly look for a pretty good record as the season progresses.

Or to put it in the language of the flask--carrying fan, compare a whiskey that's aged six years with one that's only been aged three. You've got the same product, made up of the same material. But that extra aging certainly gives you a smoother taste.

Fall Baseball Practice Draws Host Of Men; 35 Frosh Show

By Melvin Long

After nearly two weeks of informal fall practice sessions, prospects for the 1953 Tar Heel baseball team seem to be pretty good.

Some 40-odd prospective players and returning lettermen have been going through their practice paces under the supervision of Coach Walt Rabb and his assistants. Of the group, approximately 35 are freshman.

Coach Rabb appears pleased with the way the newcomers have exhibited their talents. The veteran coach, who is chief assistant to Head Coach Bunn Hearn, said yesterday that there were a number of freshmen candidates who had handled themselves well in the fall screening sessions.

Work so far has been spent on fundamental drills and "play situation" scrimmages. The freshman tryouts played a five-inning game against last year's varsity and junior varsity players this week, and reportedly made a good showing.

Coach Hearn has not reported as yet, due to illness. He is expected to join the club sometime next week, journeying up from Wilson. In his absence, freshman coach Henry House and Frank Robertson have assisted Rabb in guiding the players. House will handle the jayvee squad next season, as the University will not sponsor a freshman team.

Robertson is a former pitching star for the Tar Heels. He has returned for some graduate study here after playing pro ball with Buffalo, the Philadelphia Athletics, and at Little Rock. House was on a leave of absence last season while doing graduate work at Columbia.

The largest problem for the Tar Heel coaches will be in finding a capable catcher. Rolli Zagnoli, who was being counted on to take care of the receiving duties in 1953, has transferred to the University of Illinois on an academic scholarship.

With Zagnoli gone, senior Ed Hooks appears to be the leading candidate for the position. Hooks, a converted thirdbaseman, has shown a lot of promise in the workouts.

The pitching staff seems to be pretty well stocked with returnnig lettermen. Coming back for another year are righthanders Chalmars Port, Bill Lore, Joe Pazdan, and Don Mabry. Port, Lore, and Pazdan are all seniors, while Mabry is a junior. A sophomore lefthander, Joe Morgan, also appears to have a good chance of earning a starting nod.

Carolina lost all of its infield through graduation last year, and several of its outfielders. These positions are still wide open, and Rabb has isued an invitation to all students to tryout for a position on the squad. He stated that it was not necesasry for a candidate to have been a former star.

Rabb will meet with the freshman players this afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in room 304 in Woollen. The next practice session is scheduled for Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

SUAB Grid Contest

Only one entry is permitted for each contestant.

Put a check beside each team you think will win. Write "TIE" in each blank where tie is predicted. Prediction must be made for all 20 games or entry will be disqualified.

Predict score of Georgia-Maryland game.

Blanks must be placed in the entry box in the main hall of Graham Memorial by Saturday Noon, Oct. 11.

Prizes will be awarded to the winner of the contest.

The prizes are one carton of cigarettes and two tickets to the Carolina Theater.

( ) Oregon St.	( ) Stanford	( ) Florida	( ) Clemson
( ) Ohio State	( ) Wisconsin	( ) Ga. Tech	( ) Tulane
( ) Oklahoma	( ) Texas	( ) Kentucky	( ) L.S.U.
( ) Missouri	( ) S.M.U.	( ) Notre Dame	( ) Pittsburg
( ) Mich. State	( ) Texas A.M.	( ) Michigan	( ) Indiana
( ) Princeton	( ) Penn.	( ) California	( ) Oregon
( ) Yale	( ) Columbia	( ) Syracuse	( ) Cornell
( ) Villanova	( ) W. Forest	( ) Purdue	( ) Iowa
( ) Duke	( ) S. Carolina	( ) Army	( ) Dartmouth
( ) Northw'n	( ) Minnesota	( ) Kansas	( ) Iowa State

SCORE: .....Georgia SCORE: .....Maryland

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

Rival Auto Racers Battle In Hillsboro Event Sunday

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

HILLSBORO, Oct. 9—Two North Carolina drivers will be battling to overtake Tim Flock of Atlanta, Ga. in the national championship race Sunday afternoon in the 150-mile NASCAR Grand National Circuit race for late model stock cars over the famous Occoneechee speedway at Hillsboro.

The Tar Heels who rank second and third in the national point standings are Herbert Thomas of Olivia, winner of the national crown last year, and Lee Petty of Randleman.

Petty, driving a 1951 Plymouth, has been the terror of the circuit in recent competition to move within striking distance of both leaders. In the last four races, Petty has scored two victories at Macon, Ga. and Langhorne, Pa. and finished second in two other major events at Dayton, Ohio, and Wilson.

Tim and Herb, pacing the field, will both be driving 1952 Hudson Hornets in the Occoneechee race. Tim is credited with eight victories for the season, including the 250-mile Detroit classic. Thomas has won five events to date, including the last race at Wilson, and finishing third at Darlington this year after winning the 500-mile event last year.

Rated on even terms with the Tim Flock, Thomas and Petty combination is Fonty Flock of Decatur, Ga., winner of the 500-mile Darlington race this season, and Dick Rathman, another five-time winner from Los Angeles, Calif. Fonty will drive an Olds 88 with Rathman wheeling another Hudson.

Fonty will also be awarded the Darlington trophy at this race, the presentation being made by Miss Barbara Anne Harris (Miss North Carolina of 1952) of Salisbury. Time trials start at 1 o'clock and the presentation will be made just before the start of the 150-lap race at 2:30 p.m.

Coed Mural Hockey Club To Hold Meet

The Hockey Club will hold its first meeting of the season at Women's gym on Monday, at 4 p.m.

Miss Doris Hutchinson, coach, annouced today that any girl in school with an A medical rating can participate. However the club does not take the place of intramural hockey. The hockey tournament will be held later in the season. All equipment is furnished by the school and games and practices will be in Kenan Stadium.

Last year the hockey club won over half of its games. This year they have games scheduled with Wake Forest, Duke, Meredith and Guilford College. Games with other interested schools will be scheduled later.

For further information call Dot Lowenstein, manager of the team, at McIver Dorm.

The Carolina swimming team has won 35 consecutive meets against all opponents and 58 straight Southern Conference meets.

Soccer Team Will Open Here Against Roanoke

The Carolina soccer team, its first two games cancelled because of polio, continues to run through light workouts every afternoon on Fetzer Field.

Scrimmage has been banned during the two week isolation period inflicted on Carolina athletics, and Coach Al Moore is pessimistic about the shape of his team after the layoff.

The Tar Heel opening game was scheduled for Wednesday against Roanoke College at Roanoke, and State. slated for next Tuesday, was the home opener.

The situation now calls for the soccer opener to be here on October 17 against Roanoke. The game is not a rescheduling, but the second game of a home-and-home series. Coach Moore expects to re-schedule State later on in in the season.

Moore is an advocate of hard scrimmage, and he is dim about prospects. The return to the lineup of Bernie Burstan brightens the outlook, however, as Burstan is one of the leading returnees and a key figure in Moores plans. He had missed several weeks because of an injured toe.

Renny Randolph, a returnee with only one year's experience behind him, is considered by Moore as one of the best players in the south. Randolph was a three sport star in high school, and added soccer when he came to Carolina. Buz Sawyer, Barry Kalb, and Gerry Russell also have been outstanding. Russell was an leading freshman, but he reported late, and the scrimmage ban will slow his coming around.

Ben Tison, Tom Hopkins, and Harry Pawlick are all expected to turn in excellent performances this year, as is Don Gladstone. Kalb, Tison, and Hopkins are as reliable as any players in the Southern Conference. Cole is a steady player, and Tison and Hopkins are deep in experience.

The Tar Heels won four straight games to start the season last year, and then didn't win another. In a return match with Duke, the Blue Devils romped, 6-0, and Pennsylvania, Penn State, and Maryland all hung defeats on the Tar Heels. State tied Carolina in a return match.

LETTER CERTIFICATES

All varsity and freshmen letter winners who have not picked up their certificates of Monogram membership should see Club Secretary Harry Pawlik, 106 Emerson Stadium.

A battle for the safetyman position on the Carolina football team is being waged by a couple of the State's finest high school offensive stars, Sonny Ridenhour from Winston-Salem and Billy Williams of Henderson were high school triple-threats at tailback.

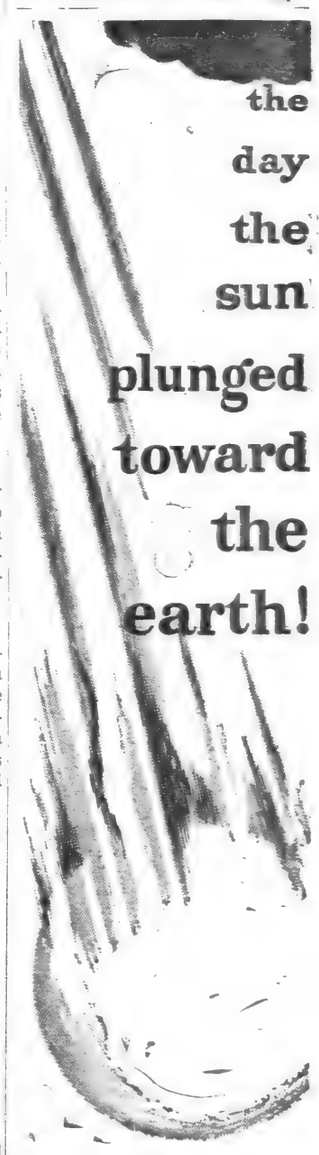
We Recommend —

QUEEN ANNE'S

AMERICAN KINGS

by Chapel Hill's Own

Richmond P. Bond



$5.00

— AT —

Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

SONJA HENIE
IN PERSON
1953 ICE REVUE
mail order for tickets
COLISEUM IN RALEIGH
WILLIAM NEAL REYNOLDS COLISEUM
N. C. State College—P. O. Box 5985
RALEIGH, N. C.
Mon. Eve. Oct. 20 ☐
Tue. Eve. Oct. 21 ☐
Wed. Eve. Oct. 22 ☐
Thur. Eve. Oct. 23 ☐
Fri. Mat. Oct. 24 ☐
Fri. Eve. Oct. 24 ☐
Sat. Mat. Oct. 25 ☐
Sat. Eve. Oct. 25 ☐
Enclosed is $..... for ..... tickets at $..... each
Price: $3.00 $2.50 $2.00 $1.50
Name .....
Address .....
City ..... State ..... Phone No. .....
FOR THE SAFE RETURN OF YOUR TICKETS PLEASE INCLUDE 25c FOR INSURANCE AND POSTAGE

Ready for a chuckle?

If there's one thing the gang at the old Intimate Bookshop like to hear more than most, it's a good chuckle. A real outright laugh, undignified and unacademic, delights our souls. That's why we gather the good humorous books like squirrels gather nuts. Here's the best of this year's crop.

Grenadine's Spawn, by Robert Ruark. Remember Grenadine Etching? Not since Forever Amber has a gal been so busy. And here's the sequel $3.00

Hopalong Freud Rides Again, by Ira Wallach. Even better than Hopalong Freud, last year's top humor seller. If this isn't required reading in your Contemporary Literature classes, that's just tough luck! $2.50

From Beowulf to Virginia Woolf—a newcomer by R. M. Myers. Like no course in English literature you've ever taken. "Few writers display so much erudition in such a tangle." May not get you through an exam, but we know lots of wolves around the campus who'll find it topcut bait $2.00

Smith's London Journal—by H. Allen Smith. A publishing epic. Now finally published from the original manuscript, for scholars with $3.00

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, by Shepherd Mead. Should be required reading for every student in the School of Business Administration. Does for the business man what "Gamesmanship" does for the tennis player—and that's plenty! $2.50

IF YOU WANT YOUR ARM TWISTED, BRING A FRIEND!

We've been broke ourselves, and if you need a laugh and are broke just now, we'll positively welcome you to a free read. No kidding.

The Intimate Bookshop

205 East Franklin Street Open Evenings

George The Dog Does Have Home, But Breakfasts In Y

(Continued from page 1)

thusiastic lover of art and may often be found meditating beneath the statute in front of Person Hall. He holds the same awed reverence for the music of Hill Hall.

But George is by no means an intellectual snob. He catches his breakfast in the Y court every morning along with the rest of the student body, and he has attended faithfully every SEC presentation and every football game at Carolina during the past two years. George was seen last spring in the Playmaker Forest Theatre production of "The Tempest" and heard during the death scene of their "Romeo and Juliet" premiere the previous year. He has marched in ROTC and Beat Dook parades, was on hand at the Modern Venus Contest last year, and was recognized by Gordon Gray and notables on the platform at the commencement ceremonies in Kenan Stadium last spring.

A great browser of books, George spends much of his afternoons at The Intimate Bookshop, where he has his afternoon drink at the establishment's rest room. Always good for a party, since the closing of Harry's, George has shifted to the Rat where on occasion he can be seen in the avenue just outside sleeping one off.

Accompanying George lately has been a little mutt, obviously of collie extract, which friends claim is his son. The Greenes also verify the relationship on the grounds that despite his complete indifference to other dogs George brought the puppy home to University Drive just in time to escape the Labor Day, hurricane. Accepting him as one of the family, they housed and fed the "child" and named him Hurricane. Other considerations shown the little one by George include first preference at the drinking place of the aforementioned bookshop and choice goodies at Danziger's and the Rat.

Exactly what George has come to mean to Carolina is typified by the countless considerations shown him—among them the action of the Kappa Sig boys in getting his face sewed up last year, the opening of Greene-financed dog food all last year by the old West House gang, and the article in yesterday's DAILY TAR HEEL.

Thus, without presumption or pomp, the unassuming collie has become an indispensable part of Carolina. In fact, a sort of symbol. Long live George.

Another Rathskeller Exclusive...

FOR THOSE WHO APPRECIATE THE ULTIMATE IN FINE BEER & ALES WE PROUDLY PRESENT:

- Canadian India Pale Ale (Full Strength)
- Canadian O'Keefes Ale
- English Burkes Ale
- Guiness Stout
- German Wurzburger
- Munich Lowenbrau
- Dutch Heinekens and

ON TAP: Ballantines Beer, Ballantines Ale, Munich Dark, Apple Cider — 20c

RAMSHEAD RATHSKELLER

LAST TIMES T-O-D-A-Y

Varsity

Admission:
Matinee 74c
Night $1.00
Children 25c

Features at:
1:15—3:11—5:07
7:03—9:00

Please See This Movie from the Beginning

Theta Chi Has New Initiates; Phi Gams Elect

Alpha Eta chapter of Theta Chi announces the initiation of five members.

Initiated were Gary Atkins Sluder, Leicester; Ralph Donald Phillips, Marion; Robert Curtis, Marion; James Redmond White, Carolina Beach; and Herbert Pendergraft, Jr., Chapel Hill.

Joe Nelson, senior from Rocky Mount, has been elected president of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity for the coming year. Don Siefert, Henderson, was elected treasurer. Other officers were elected last spring.

Kodak Color Film

* Kodacolor Film for most roll-film camera.
* Kodachrome Film for minature cameras.

We have everything you need . . . film, cameras, accessories — plus our helpful color processing service.

FOISTER'S CAMERA SHOP

Campus Carousel

By Dennie Schoeppe

Your society editor starts with a complaint this week. Everybody has been so busy rushing that hardly anybody got pinned and very few people even had time for parties..

There are always a few socialites though. Word has it that Pika Jimmy Pierce visited his mother in Rocky Mount last weekend.

Phi Delts serenaded Mary Kit Myers, Greensboro, last nite. She's now wearing the pin of Dick Painter, also from Greensboro.

If people haven't had their parties, they're certainly workin' on a few. The Kappa Sigs are having several next weekend. One will be complete with combo and another in honor of the remodeling job they're doing on their house.

Maybe the ATO's are having a party tonite. Can't ever tell though.

Zeta Psi's are having two parties this weekend. Two Zetes join the ranks of the "pinned". They are Richard Owen, Rocky Mount, who pinned Marian Sollee, Tarboro, and John Thorpe, Rocky Mount, who gave his pin to Cynthia Mahler, Tarboro.

AKPsi's will have a "Too Bad There Wasn't a Game" party tomorrow night at the Carolina club. They'll entertain returning alums tonight. Their plans for Sunday include an informal chapter meeting at the infirmary.

Chi Psi's will also party Saturday night at the Carolina club. Eddie Starnes, Chi Psi from Arlington, Va. just pinned Ray Hilton of High Point.

The Deke's have already recovered from last week's martini party and are having another one tomorrow night at Hogan's.

And what kind of "Pipe" party are the TEP's having please? Beats me. Anyway, a TEP, Ronnie Price of Atlanta pinned Harriet Rubenson, Suffolk, Va., last weekend.

Sigma Chi's and their dates will party at good ol' Lloyd's barn tomorrow nite. Now wearing the white cross of Fred Mewhinney, Brandenton, Fla. is Tri Delt Mary Kellam, Athens, Ga. And Sigma Chi Vernon Mountcastle, Reading, Pa. pinned "Gooball" (sorry, that's the only name we could get) Harris of Lexington.

Sigma Nu's say they're still resting up from their cabin party last week.

Phi Gam Joe Nelson's pin has gone to Shirley Norville. They're both from Rocky Mount.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sanders, who are parents of little girls. Herb and Bill are both Kappa Sigs here.

FLASH: A new "Curve-In" club is meeting at Watts this afternoon to watch the World Series. All are invited. Members are urged not to schedule their meetings to conflict with these of the Goody club.

AKPsi Don Barton of Charlotte is pinned to a mystery woman whose name we can't find out.

Student-Faculty Snack Set In GM Tomorrow

Students will drink coffee and chat informally with faculty members tomorrow morning from 10 o'clock to noon in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The Student-Faculty Committee of the Student Union Activities Board will sponsor the reception. General College students whose names are in the A-D group and all faculty members are invited.

Other student-faculty coffee hours are planned for the future by the SUAB committee.

A Londoner bets any and all takers the British equivanent of four dollars that their cigarette lighters will not light on the first try. He says he averages thirty two dollars a week from his wagers, adding up to more than sixteen hundred dollars a year.

Al Lifson was Carolina's high scorer in basketball last season. He tallied 425 points as a freshman on the varsity club.

CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED

SPACE AVAILABLE FOR PUBLIC Stenographer. If you're interested in establishing a business of your own, we will furnish free office space to a neat appearing stenographer-typist in exchange for answering telephone and acting as receptionist in modern air conditioned business office. Please address replies to box 1058, Chapel Hill.

FOR RENT

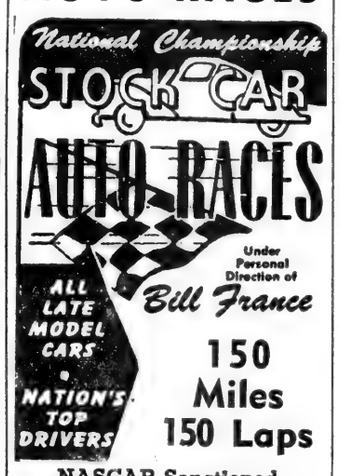
ROOMS FOR RENT BY THE WEEK or for weekends. Close in. Nice location. 406 Cameron. Call 7456. charge

ONE TAN SPORT WITH GREEN Shaffer pen in pocket with Ronnie Pritchett on it. Finder contact Ronald Pritchett, 29 Old East, Phone 3-8056. (1-9456-3)

TODAY and SATURDAY

Carolina

Also
Musical Novelty
Latest News



LATE SHOW SATURDAY - SUNDAY - MONDAY

The Zingiest Entertainment Party Of The Year!

National Championship

STOCK CAR AUTO RACES

150 Miles
150 Laps

NASCAR-Sanctioned

North Carolina's Biggest Stock Car Race Of The Year.

SUNDAY
OCTOBER 12

Time Trials ..... 1:00 P.M.
Race Starts ..... 2:30 P.M.

Special trophy presentation by Miss North Carolina (Miss Barbara Anne Harris)

ADMISSION

Infield $2.00
Grandstand $3.00
Children under 12 Free With Paid Escorts. (All taxes incld.)

Hillsboro, N. C.

OCCONEECHEE SPEEDWAY

Stray Greek Party Given

Stray Greeks entertained all fraternity officers last night at an open house in the Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial.

Decorations were fall flowers and flags with sorority emblems on them. Punch and cookies were served.

The Stray Greek organization is composed of girls belonging to sororities which do not have chapters on campus. They number 28 this year. Barbara Reed, Kappa Alpha Theta of St. Petersburg, Fla. is president of the group.

Sororities Give Bids Tonight

Sorority rushing ended last night and bids will be delivered to the doors of prospective pledges tonight. These bids will be delivered by representatives of the Panhelenic Council betwen 6 o'clock and 8 p.m.

Fraternity rushing will begin Sunday and last through Thursday. Strict silence will be observed from Thursday through the following Sunday.

Carolina will play Roanoke College in soccer for the first time this year.

SUAB

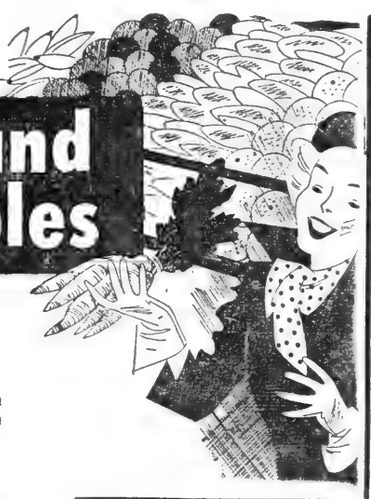
The SUAB Reception committee will meet today at 2 p.m. in the SUAB office.

ELECTION BOARD

The Elections Board will meet today in the vice-president's office in Graham Memorial, 5 p.m. All members and assistants are asked to attend.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The Public Relations Committee of the SUAB will meet today at 2 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge 3.



YOU'LL STILL FIND

I GO POGO

at a buck a copy at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Grand Buys! Farm Fresh fruits and vegetables

A&P

Long Island Snoball
Cauliflower Head 25c

Firm Ripe
Tomatoes - - Ctn. 19c

Juicy Tokay
Grapes - - 3 Lbs. 29c

Green
Cabbage - - Lb. 5c

Idaho Baking
Potatoes - 10 Lbs. 69c

Jane Parker
Plain — Cinnamon or
SUGARED DONUTS Pkg. of 12 19c
Jane Parker Cake
Spanish Bar - - Each 29c
Jane Parker Cellophane Wrapped
White Bread - - 1-Lb. Loaf 14c
Jane Parker Enriched
Dinner Rolls Pkg. of 12 15c

Exceptional Values

Nestle's Instant
Cocoa - - ½-Lb. Pkg. 27c

Ann Page
Mayonnaise - - - - - Qt. Jar 49c

Ann Page Preserves
Strawberry - - - - - 12-Oz. Glass 27c

Breeze - - - - Lge. Pkg. 30c Giant Pkg. 59c

Dash Dog Food - - - 1-Lb. Can 15c

Herb-Ox
Boullion Cubes - - - Pkg. 8c

Wax-Seel - - - - - - - Roll 31c

Chef-Boy-Ar-Dee
Spaghetti Dinners - - 16½-Oz. Pkg. 42c

Swift Cleanser - - - - 14-Oz. Can 12c

Personal size
Ivory Soap - - - - - 4 Bars 21c

Lava Soap - - - - - 2 Bars 19c

Duz - - - - - Lge. Pkg. 27c Giant Pkg. 65c

Sweetheart Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Blu-White Flakes - - - Pkg. 9c

Woodbury
Facial Soap - - - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Wrisley's in Plastic Bag
Toilet Soap - - - - - 8-Asst. Cakes 49c

Vel
Lge. Pkg. 29c

Fab
Lge. Pkg. 29c Giant Pkg. 69c

Octagon Soap
2 Giant Bars 15c

Octagon
Soap Powder
Lge. Pkg. 24c

Ajax
Cleanser
Can 12c

Pillsbury Mix
Hot Rolls - - - - - - 14½-Oz. Pkg. 27c

ANN PAGE
Beans - - - 16-oz. Can 10c

Ocean Spray Cranberry
Sauce - - - - - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 19c

Ann Page Blended
Syrup - - - - - - - - - 24-Oz. Bot. 39c

Iona Cut
Green Beans - - - - 2 No. 303 Cans 25c

"Super-Right" Meats

Choice Western Beef—U. S. Choice
Sirloin Steak Lb. 99c

Fresh Regular
Ground Beef Lb. 59c

Cut Up Pan Ready
Fryers - - - - - Lb. 49c

Wilson's Corn King
Sliced Bacon Lb. 49c

Smoked Short Shanked Skinned Hams 12 to 14 Lb. Avg.
Whole or Half Lb. 59c
Butt Portion Lb. 55c
Shank Portion Lb. 49c
Center Slices Lb. 99c

ARMOUR'S CANNED MEATS

TREET	12-Oz. Can	45c
CHOPPED HAM	12-Oz. Can	51c
VIENNA SAUSAGE	4-Oz. Can	21c
CORNED BEEF	12-Oz. Can	49c
DRIED BEEF	2½-Oz. Glass	38c
POTTED MEAT	½-Size Can	15c
CHILI CONCARNE	16-Oz. Can	31c
CORNED BEEF HASH	16-Oz. Can	37c

Sunshine Crackers
Cheez-It - - - - - - - 6-Oz. Pkg. 19c

Red Band
Flour - - - - - - - - 10-Lb. Bag $1.01

Pick Of Carolina — Sweet Mixed
Pickles - - - - - - - - 16-Oz. Jar 22c

A&P Sliced
Fineapple - - - - - - No. 2 Can 29c

West Franklin St.

A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Rainy until tonight with 60 high. Yesterday's high, 56; low, 45.

The Daily Tar Heel

TELLS
An explanation of Nonplus. See edit on page 2.

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 16 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Only 2 Negroes Enrolled Here For This Fall

Law Grads Lee, Beech Are Now Practicing In NC

Only one Negro student, Major S. High of Zebulon, entered the University for the first time this fall.

Another Negro is in school here, but this is his second year at Carolina. He is Edward O. Diggs, medical student from Winston-Salem. High is in the Law School.

Three Negroes graduated from the Law School in the spring and summer classes. Two of these, Harvey E. Beech of Kinston, and J. Kenneth Lee of Greensboro elected to take the North Carolina State Bar examination. They both apssed and are now practicing in this state.

Law School Dean Henry Brandis Jr. said yesterday that his school admitted four Negroes for this fall. However, various reasons—financial difficulties, the draft—prompted the decisions of all but High not to enter school here.

Negro students were first admitted to the Law School of the University in the summer of 1951.

Mars Tour Reservations Accepted Now

Want to take an imaginary trip to the planet Mars via rocket ship?

If so, it might be well to make advance reservations at the Morehead Planetarium. Flights will leave at 8:30 every night and in the afternoons on Saturdays at 3 and 4 p.m. and on Sundays at 2, 3 and 4 p.m.

This new space travel adventure takes visitors on a simulated journey of nearly one hundred million miles to the most intriguing and mysterious of all known planets.

Since scientists are unanimous in saying that space travel will become a reality before too many years, Planetarium visitors should be able to witness a realistic preview.

The entire planetarium chamber has been converted into a luxurious air, gravity and pressure conditioned rocket ship for this momentous occasion.

Through the courtesy of the Chapel Hill Air Reserve Officers Training Corps and the Pope Field Air Force, authentic space ship personnel control and attend the great rocket ship during launching preparations and while space borne.

Two nights and a day are spent on the worn-out, rusty surface of Mars. Passengers experience a Martian dust storm and a meteor bombardment of exceptional proportion which forces their evacuation of the planet.

On the return journey a near collision with a huge asteroid provides excitement and suspense for crew and passengers alike.

It is anticipated that much factual fun will be provided for the thousands of passengers who take this imaginary interplanetary excursion through November 10.

Pulchritude

The opportunity of sponsoring a beauty contest to select a nominee for the title of Maid of Cotton was offered yesterday to any organization on campus.

The National Cotton Council of America wants an entry from Carolina in the national contest. Student government officials will hand the selection job to the best qualified applicant.

Campus organizations wishing to bid for sponsorship of the event are advised to notify the student government office in Graham Memorial.

Neill Is Appointed DTH Interim Editor

Farber To Continue On For Few Days; Burress, Baylor Will Help With Post

Editor Barry Farber will guide The Daily Tar Heel for a few more days, then turn the editorship over to Managing Editor Rolfe Neill until the fall election November 18.

The decision was made yesterday by the Publications Board and announced by Chairman Walt Dear. When Farber leaves, Associate Editors Sue Burress and Bev Baylor will handle most of the editorial duties and retain Farber's salary, while Neill will be responsible for the overall paper.

Farber recommended this to the board, asking that Neill remain as managing editor.

"I have considered recommending possible editorial candidates for the interim job, but I feel that the post should be handled by someone who will definitely not run," Farber said.

Dear was offered the job, but declined on the basis that if he decided to run, it would be unfair to edit the paper during the campaign.

Get Paper Late? Press Gives Trouble

"I'm tired of waiting for the paper, too."

So commented Walt Dear, Publications Board chairman, at yesterday's meeting. Dear has been barraged with student complaints about poor delivery, no delivery and no paper.

"Our printers, Colonial Press, have bought a new printing press and it takes time to get the equipment to turn out a good job at the right time."

"Orville Campbell has assured us that he's doing everything in his power to improve the printing end of it. Our circulation department, headed by Don Hogg, has a competent crew and has done the best they could under present conditions."

Dear explained that the printing press has broken down several times and that Colonial Press personnel are improving day by day in the operation of the new equipment.

"If you're having delivery trouble, please stand by and bear with us until we resume usual delivery," Dear added.

NC Assembly Council Meet Here Today

The Interim Council of the North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly will meet here today at 2 o'clock in the Faculty Lounge of Morehead building.

Attending will be two representatives from each of the Assembly's 25 members schools.

The meeting will be presided over by Ken Penegar, president of the Interin Council. The council will discuss registration procedure, fees and a speaker for the 16th annual assembly which is scheduled November 20-22 at Raleigh.

The North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly, usually called State Student Legislature or just SSL, was begun in 1936 as an assembly of North Carolina students organized into a bicameral legislature. It provides opportunities for experience in parliamentary procedure, public speaking, state government and a place for presentation of ideas.

UNC's delegation will be selected the week of October 21.

UNC Senior Wins Naval Distinction

Lt. William D. Smith, Bethel, N. C., is the recipient of a high naval honor.

The University senior received the highest aptitude grade of 127 UNC Naval Reserve midshipmen participating in summer cruises, it was announced yesterday by Capt. J. S. Keating, professor of Naval Science.

Midshipman Smith took part in cruise "Charlie," which visited the Caribbean Sea during the four weeks training period.

Aptitude marks are an indication of the officer-like qualities a midshipman demonstrates. Smith is a candidate for commission as Ensign in June 1953.

NEWS IN BRIEF

OKLAHOMA CITY—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson declared yesterday that if the Republicans win in November their acts might wreck American participation in the program and put the nation on "a sure road to disaster." The Democratic presidential candidate, once a United Nations delegate who dealt closely with the Russians, based his opinion on recent "peace" talks by Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and the current meeting of the Soviet congress in Moscow.

★

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER—"I think we're safe in predicting we'll carry California," declared an Eisenhower campaign spokesman yesterday after the general stirred rousing outbursts throughout the state. Eisenhower went on to Arizona, long a Democratic stronghold, where he charged that President Truman was making political statements that Stevenson "could not bring himself to say."

★

TOKYO—The Air Force speculated yesterday that the B129 Superfort which disappeared Tuesday in northern Japan near Russia "may have glided across the international boundary" and crashed. The plane was approached by a fast-flying plane from Russian territory before its image disappeared on radar instruments tracking the paths of both aircraft.

★

SAGINAW, Mich.—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy says he will give "documentation" on Gov. Adlai Stevenson over a nationwide radio and television hook-up Oct. 27, "reluctantly." McCarthy had said previously, "If the American people want Stevenson after I make my documentation, they can have him. But I don't think they will."

★

WASHINGTON — Informed sources said yesterday the Justice Department will take "early action" on the case of Howard L. Doyle, U. S. attorney at Springfield, Ill., who has made a small fortune practicing law on the side. Atty-Gen. James P. McGranery was expected to announce soon what he intends to do about Doyle's admission that he "overlooked" $5,000 of his outside income in making out his 1945 tax return. The 58-year-old attorney has ammassed some $86,000 from 1945 through 1950 in fees for private law practice. His government salary for the six-year period was over $48,000.

Dorms Elect Officers

Big Campaigns Result In Good Show At Polls

Mangum Turnout Largest, Others Draw About Half

Officers for the campus' 19 male dormitories were announced yesterday after two days of balloting in an election and a runoff.

"Voting was somewhat better than usual," Ray Jefferies, assistant to the dean of students, said yesterday. He cited the campaign of John Poindexter, senior cheerleader and victorious Cobb Dormitory presidential candidate, as being "unusually vigorous." Cobb formed political parties within the dormitory to back candidates, Jefferies noted.

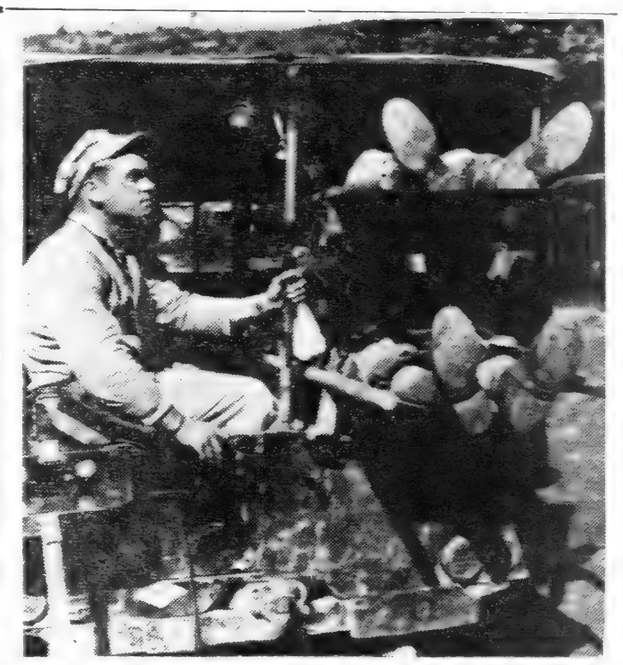
Mangum boasted the largest percent of voters with 91 out of 99 voting. Other dormitories had about 50 percent voting.

Elected were:

Alexander: Pres: Martin Sides, Concord; V. P., Edgar Bullock, Rocky Mount; Sec-Treas, Jerry Daughtridge, Rocky Mount and I.D.C. Rep. Douglas Dodson, Lumberton.

Aycock: Pres: Robert Hinshaw, Liberty; V.P., Donald McCormick, Bloomfield, N. J.; Sec-Treas, Phillip Ransdell, Varina.

Battle-Vance-Pettigrew: Pres: Gerald Parker, Silverdale; V.P., Ronald Clemmons, Altanta, Ga.; Sec-Treas; John E. C. Taylor, Wheeling, W. Va.; I.D.C. Rep.; Gerald King, Winston-Salem.



Cobb: Pres: John Poindexter, Burlington; V.P.; Hugh William Carter, Jr., Pinehurst; Sec-Treas: Maurice Norton, Lauringburg; I.D.C. Rep; West Wing—Clabe Lynn, Petersburg, Va.; Center Wing—Harry Pearsaal, Rocky Mount; East Wing—Bob Chandler. Burlington; University Club Rep.; Clyde Camp, Roanoke Rapids.

Conner: Pres: Earl Diamond, Miami Beach, Fla.; V.P.; Maurice Cobb, Battleboro, Vt.; Sec-Treas: Ned Grace, Corinth, Miss.; I.D.C. Rep.; Conrad Warlick, Gastonia.

Everett: Pres: Bob Barlowe, Lenoir; V.P.; Bobby Wynne, Greenville, S. C.; Sec-Treas; Charlie Irvin, Greensboro; I.D.C. Rep.; Lorenza Clinard, Clemmons.

Graham: Pres: Baxter Miller, Durham; V.P.; Wayne Thompson,

(See ELECTIONS, page 4)

A PISTOL-PACKING NAVY medic rides the rear of a jeep carrying wounded U. S. and ROK Marines to the rear. Fighting along the front in Korea, touched off by Communist offensives, continued heavy as ROK troops mounted a new attack on 5,000 Chinese Communists on White Horse Mountain.—UP Telephoto.

145 Coeds Sign Up After Hectic Rush

One hundred and forty-five coeds received bids from one of Carolina's six sororities last night after a rushing period of 10 days.

Formal pledging will take place next week.

Names of prospective pledges released yesterday show a greater percentage of coeds pledging as compared with last year's list.

Pledges of Alpha Delta Pi are Mary Ammons, Pat Bohnenkamp, Alyce Chapman, Mary Bascom Cook, Nell Boone Crofton, Billie Daniel, Dottie Debnam, Ann Folger, Phyllis Forrest, Carolyn Hartford, Mary Leigh Hendee, Letitia House, Anne Jacobs, Katherine Lee, Betty Jean McFarland, Betty Martin, Diana Pierce, Jean Ratliff, Martha Reeves, Mary Ann Russell, Pat Seawell, Thelma Souder, Caroline Traynham, Lynda Vestal and Betty Wannamaker.

Alpha Gamma Delta pledges are Mary Bryan, Martha Bridger, Jeanne Bunch, Joan Desmond, Anne Weber Fleming, Bernie Hileman, Patricia Holmes, Martha Neal Honeycutt, Nancy Horne, Anne Huie, Jo Ann Jones, Joan Mathis, Harriet Maynard, Mary Lou Mercer, Barbara Mumaw, Patricia Ann Noah, Emilie Patton, Nancy Perryman, Anne Stewart, Ann Underwood, Connie Williford and Ellen Wood.

Pledging Chi Omega will be Margaret Barton, Betty Baucom, Mary Ida Brown, Betty Burch, Janie Carey, Jane Lewis Carter, Margaret Cheatham, Janet Cozart, Mary Dorsett, Laura Hays, Mary Alice Hicks, Julia Kester, Judy Landauer, Dottie Law, Joanne Murphy, Ann Patterson, Mary Jo Paul, Ann Penton, Lois Perry, Marnie Polk, Tollie Randolph, Anna Redding, Shepherd Rustin, Harriet Traynham, Peggy Trotter, Nancy Uzzelle, Sandra Wright, and Jo Ann Yokley.

Delta Delta Delta pledges are Mary Frances Allsbrook, Dorothy Bell, Alice Sue Boatwright, Claire Boone, Sara Bostick, Diana Bourne, Pearle Buchanan, Mase Chapin, Lois Collins, Mary Helen Crain, Sandy Donaldson, Margaret Entzminger, Sally Gallant, Jess Gant, Janet Harris, Ann Hartzog, Jane Holleman, Gennifer Johnson, Jane Kennedy, Judy King, Betty Sue McDonald, Page Moore, Margaret Anne Murchison, Nancy Murray, Mary Kit Myers, Gerry Norris, Helen Sanders, Louise Somerville, Florence Stone, Barbara Taylor, Mary Katherine Wallace, Virginia Whiteman, Jean Williamson, Janyce Winders and Elinor Wrenn.

Pledges of Kappa Delta are Elizabeth Clarke, Janet Cornwell, Ann Guiton, Mary Jane Harrison, Alice Jones, Carolyn Little, Cornelia Major, Catherine Marks, Mary Jo Rader, Edith Rogers, Joan Russell, Hilda Simpson, Lib Suddreth and Elinor Taylor.

Pi Beta Phi pldeges are Betty Otto Anderson, Anne Benton, Lane Buckly, Mary Jane Bumpous, Barbara Burgess, Edith Cross, Len Daniel, Nancy Davis, Jo Ann Deming, Ann Fitzgerald, Joan Gant, Rosalyn Gasque, Anne Harless, Sara Leek, Jennie Lynn, Ann McCulloch, Joanne Massee, Connie Moore, Ellen Prouty, Tish Rodman nad Eleanor Saunders.

Free Chow

Students are invited to a student-faculty reception this morning from 10 o'clock until noon in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The coffee hour is sponsored by the Student-Faculty Committee of SUAB. General College students whose last names fall between A and D have received written invitations; however, all interested students are invited.

Dress is informal.

EARLY UNC DAYS

THESE SCENES OF long ago were sketched by the artist to record the early days of the University. The pictures were loaned to The Daily Tar Heel by the University's Alumni Association. The picture at left shows a trio of men probably trying to decide on a site for the University. Their box most likely contains their lunches, which look depleted aplenty. This was the early University. Founder's Day at UNC will be observed in special ceremonies Monday at South Building. The cornerstone laying will be reenacted and several short talks given. Classes will be dismissed for the observance. In the picture at right, two gentlemen on horseback ride away after attending a meeting concerning plans for the University. The cornerstone of Old East Dormitory was laid October 12, 1793, and is recognized as the formal beginning of Carolina.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Sexplanation

The Daily Tar Heel has been challenged by several of its readers to explain its position regarding the publication of Harry Snook's column of Thursday, October 9 which dealt with the discovery by British scientists of the oral contraceptive called gromwell.

We acknowledge the existence of a natural phenomenon known as sex. We observe all scientific discoveries bearing on this and other phenomena with keenest interest and welcome the personalized interpretations of Mr. Snook or anybody else so long as these interpretations adhere to certain fundamental principles of propriety.

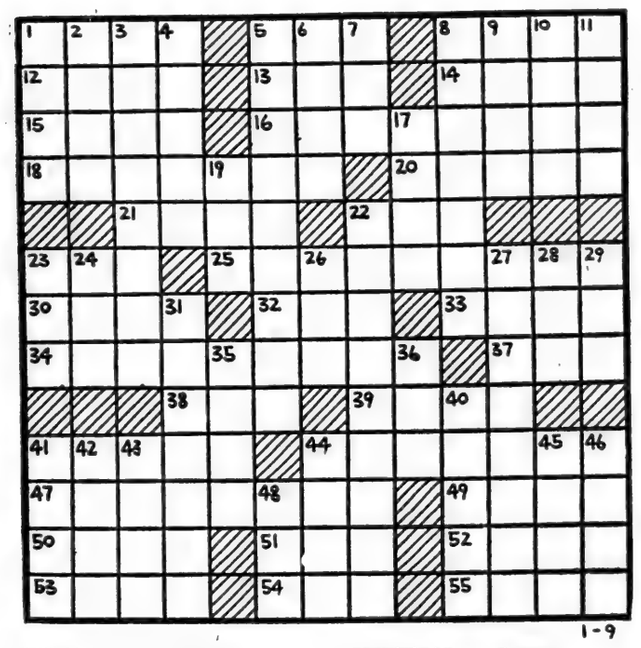
We feel that Harry Snook's column, regardless of the relative merit of his thesis, was presented in a fashion unlikely to offend an adult readership. If you will thumb through the periodicals on any newsstand you will find articles which deal with this and related topics far more bluntly and distastefully.

If we are wrong and Mr. Snook's treatise incurred your indignation, we humbly apologize and shall seek to re-evaluate the content of our columns in the future.

In publishing articles of this nature, we are not prompted by a juvenile delight in flaunting so-called taboos. We merely aim to stimulate healthy thought, discussion, and controversy on one of the most important and neglected topics affecting college students in the world today.

Breather For The Fans

The Y-court was buzzing yesterday morning with another demonstration of Tar Heel imaginuity.



An unimpeachable leak informs us that a lusty brigade of Carolina ladies and gentlemen, undismayed because the State football game was polioed out, plans to celebrate "Saturday as usual" in Kenan Stadium with cheerleaders, coeds, coffee flasks—in short, everything except the game itself.

The Daily Tar Heel hails this adventure in fantasy as to the greatest singular innovation in Chapel Hill life since old man Davie walked in from Wilmington. What a relief it's going to be to sleep late, eat leisurely, enjoy an idle stroll through the splendrous woodlands surrounding the stadium, and still not have to worry about missing the kickoff, finding a good seat, or pawning off surplus tickets because Aunt Margaret decided at the last minute not to come.

Imagine the joy of inhaling the fresh air, uncontaminated by the musty odor of stale peanuts, and maintaining a flowing conversation with your date uninterrupted by frenzied bellows whenever a long pass is missed or sporatic convulsions when somebody scores or ungainly stampedes to the exits at halftime and after the final gun.

Also, nobody will have to pay for tickets or programs and nobody will shell out sorely needed dollar bills to pay off bum bets.

In fact, whoever thought of spoiling Saturday afternoon with a football game in the first place?

1-9

HORIZONTAL
1. price
5. donkey
8. tenth of a cent
12. Charles Lamb
13. cravat
14. operatic solo
15. camera part
16. farm machines
18. lingers
20. small stoves
21. antitoxins
22. cyprinoid fish
23. small rug
25. theatrical scenes
30. Bohemian river
32. spread for drying
33. halt
34. contracted
37. some
38. headed
39. fuel
41. American artist
44. gayer
47. American playwright
49. fun
50. let it stand
51. grampus
52. standard quantity
53. decimal units
54. Napoleonic marshal
55. Italian princely house

VERTICAL
1. prison compartment
2. oil: comb. form
3. malevolent
4. savor
5. drawn
6. title of address (pl.)
7. ocean
8. concerns
9. press
10. Italian coin
11. maiden
17. yield
19. bitter vetch
22. state of being indecorous
23. prefix: wrongly
24. tree of olive family
26. elongated fish
27. natives of Italy
28. eternity
29. scout
31. small rills
35. fluctuate
36. June bug
40. debate
41. gone by
42. grafted (her.)
43. gland: comb. form
44. extra
45. give out
46. network
48. male offspring

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

1-9

Average time of solution: 33 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber
Personally Olympic Diary

NEW YORK HARBOR, August 9—They shouldn't put Communists in jail. Instead they ought to put them on an immigrant ship sailing from Europe to America and make them dry the tears of joy from the eyes of the sobbing refugees from Russia as they pass the Statue of Liberty and head northward up the Hudson River.

Corny? B-movie stuff? Not exactly. The old American drama of homeless immigrants lining the ship's rail with babies in their arms and crying eyes fixed upon the Star-Spangled metropolis of hope is re-enacted every day in harbors along our east coast, and to be a member of the audience is an experience guaranteed to inscribe itself indelibly into the crustiest heart that beats anywhere.

The Dutch ship "Zuiderkruis" cleared quarantine at nine o'clock this morning with a passenger list including eighteen Russian families who were herded into German concentration camps during the war and finally liberated by the American Army. All were given the free choice of returning to the Communist "Peoples' Paradise" or remaining in Displaced Persons compounds until their American entry visas were approved.

Typical of the new Americans is Alex, a chunky Ukranian youth with a last name that reads like the bottom line on an army eye testing chart and a smile like the front end of a Hudson. Alex was a school boy in Kiev when Hitler's vanguard knived its way deep into the Soviet Union.

"The Russian people in my neighborhood were happy when the Germans came," says Alex. "We would have gladly helped them march on Moscow if they hadn't treated us like beasts, shot our patriots, and molested our women."

Alex balked when I sat him down in front of a demi-keg of Dutch beer and asked him to tell me about his childhood in Soviet Russia.

"Nobody will believe what I say," he intoned fumbling with his first Phillip Morris. "Americans will never be capable of understanding the agony of living under the Red Star. That's why I long to become one of you."

Alex explained that the Communists in Kiev threw his father in prison and confiscated his small shoe factory three weeks after the Revolution.

"They said my father was an 'economic menace'," laughed the Ukranian. "That's the Communist term for 'successful businessman.'"

When Alex was born his father and mother were both workers in their own factory. He was encouraged by his school teachers to report if his parents showed any "deviationist tendencies" around the supper table. An uncle disappeared when he was caught "seeking to undermine the state socialist structure;" (i.e. remarking to a friend that the five-year-plan was so much hogwash.)

In early 1940 Alex was mobilized into a student work brigade to stack sandbags along the Finnish border.

"For vacations they let us stack sandbags along the Romanian border," beamed Alex. "It's much warmer down there."

When the Germans came to Kiev they took Alex and his family to a concentration camp near Munich. He dismissed this phase of his blighted life with one sentence.

"Only the lucky ones died."

In 1945 the war ended, or, as Alex put it "Peace broke out." The Americans were able to do little or nothing to improve the conditions for the Russian prisoners and many more died in the winter of '46 when the food supply failed.

"One day a Russian officer came into our compound and told us a train was waiting in Vienna to take us back to our homes in Russia," says Alex. "Everybody thanked him just the same but nobody went. Then an American sergeant told us we had better go home because chances were slim that we could ever get permission to enter the United States. Still nobody went. It was a good chance to take."

Alex is a good Russian. Soon

Another 90-Day Wonder

Drew Pearson
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

EN ROUTE THROUGH THE WEST.—In an earlier column on Senator Nixon's secret expense fund it was shown how he voted right down the line for the legislative measures which his 76 millionnaire givers favored.

The second question to be examined is whether Senator Nixon also used influence with the federal government on behalf of his Nixon Expense Club. In his broadcast to the nation Nixon said he had not. A few days later, however, the St. Louis Post Dispatch unearthed the fact that Dana Smith, the lawyer who collected the $18,000 for Nixon, had used Nixon's influence through his administrative assistance to try to get a $500,000 tax refund from the government.

It is a penitentiary offense for any member of Congress to intervene in a case against the government for pay. A Senator is paid by the United States government and is supposed to represent the government alone. Hence the law. He is not supposed to be paid by outsiders, and other members of Congress have gone to jail for accepting money when they intervened in cases against the federal government.

The tax refund claimed by Dana Smith against the U. S. government is an illustration. Dana Smith, the man who got Nixon's office to intervene, not only had paid Nixon personally but raised $18,000 for him.

Today the federal government plays such an important role in the operation of any business firm, and business firms in turn seek so many concessions or contracts from the government, but it becomes risky to have a man in the Senate who is subsidized by a group of businessmen.

Take, for instance, the list of Nixon's Millionnaires Club and the concessions of contracts they have with the government. Here are some of them:

Charles E. Ducommun, a Los Angeles steel dealer got a 50 per cent tax amortization write-off on a new $265,655 warehouse It is not known where Nixon or his office helped.

Such matters are kept confidential by the Defense Production Administration and sometimes not even recorded.

Earl Jorgensen and Company got a 75 per cent tax write-off on forging equipment, Sept. 20, 1951; another 60 per cent write-off on $227,236 on July 19; another 50 per cent write-off on $343,500 on Feb. 4, 1952. It is not known that Nixon or his office helped get these write-offs. Jorgensen is a giver to the Nixon fund.

Clayton Manufacturing Co., got a 90 per cent tax write-off on dynometers costing $38,106 in March 1951 and an 80 per cent write-off on $171,330 on steam cleaners in July 1951. Both Benjamin Clayton and his son William are givers to Nixon's expenses.

K. T. Norris, ammunitions manufacturer, got a 75 per cent tax write-off on $199,650 in September 1951. He is a donor to Mr. Nixon's expenses.

Even more important, the Norris Company has defense contracts totaling $54,000,000 with the army and navy. Norris leases one plant from the government at Riverbank, Calif., also operates plants of his own, where he manufactures 57 millimeter shells, 75's, 90 millimeters, 105's and 155's. Whether Senator Nixon has used any influence with any members of the Defense Department regarding these contracts is something I have not been able to ascertain. But it's an unhealthy practice for any company doing business with the government to be subsidizing a Senator.

Herbert Hoover, Jr., has an important contract with the federal government to explore for oil in the oil regions in Northern Alaska. He is president of the United Geophysical Co., which has signed the Alaskan contract with the Navy. United Geophysical is a wholly owned subsidiary of Union Oil, of which Hoover is not only a director but holds 30,249 shares valued at $1,2000,000. Hoover is a contributor to the Nixon fund.

W. Herbert Allen is vice president of theTitle Insurance and Trust Co., which underwrites the oil leases of the big companies operating out in the Tidelands Oil Area. If these leases should be outlawed, then Mr. Allen's company might be left holding the bag for about $49,000,000. Mr. Allen is a contributor to the Nixon funds.

Arthur S. Crites of Bakersfield is an applicant before the federal government for a mineral land permit in Southern California. To get such a permit accepted, a little influence sometimes is helpful. Crites is a member of the Nixon Expense Fund Club.

Crites is also Vice President of the Bakersfield Home Building Association and Secretary and Director of the Kern County Mutual Building and Loan Association.

It so happens that Nixon's record in the Senate has been made to order for the mutual Savings Banks and Building and Loan Associations.

When the Senate voted on plugging some of the loopholes in the tax bill, Nixon voted for the Capehart Amendment which actually widened one loophole by permitting mutual savings banks and building and loan associations to exempt their reserves from taxation up to 10 per cent.

Ed Yoder
NONPLUS

He was tried in secrecy.

The charge was somthing brand new. No one had ever been told that the "crime" of which he was accused was a violation of any rules. No established procedure was used by the "court" in hearing the case. The powerful group was bound by no codification of offenses and penalties.

This secret conclave found him guilty and caused a black mark to be placed against him that would not be erased.

Sounds like Communist "justice," doesn't it?

But, in actual fact, it is the kind of justice dished out by the Men's Council of the University of North Carolina. You are subject to it, whether you like it or not. And this Council has the power to suspend you from this University as it has suspended many.

No matter how false the charge against you, this court may force you to appear for trial. The Council has trumped up its own charge in some cases! It browbeats you into saying nothing to anyone about the matter. It tries you in secret, using whatever procedure happens to strike its fancy. You can't have a friend to serve as attorney or adviser—the Council will let one of its own members act in your "defense."

You are assumed guilty until proved innocent—if you can't prove your own innocence, you've had it, brother. No one has to prove that you're guilty.

And if you're found guilty, you may get twice the sentence another got for a similiar offense. You may get half of what the last guy got.

It depends upon how the Council members feel. What they had for lunch. How much they know of you and how well you're liked. Or whether the time has come to set an example.

Because of the secrecy, their mistakes are never subject to scrutiny by the students at large whom they supposedly represent. There is a "reason" for this secrecy, some insist. A student who is found guilty is put under no social stigma; even if suspended for a quarter or so, he may still return without being marked for his offense.

What a perfect set-up for the cheats on campus! And what a menace to those falsely accused! The student body has no control over any antics their court may choose to indulge. An innocent man labeled guilty by such shoddy justice has no safeguard.

Think about it. What do you know about the operation of your own court in any of the cases tried? You don't know who's been tried or whether he's been fairly tried. You don't know who has been convicted, in your name, of an offense against you, the student body!

It is literally true that, within the court system, a student was tried and convicted when he didn't know even that he had been accused. The first this student heard about the whole business was when he was told of his sentence!

Dean of Students Fred Weaver once explained just how far the Men's Council could go if it wished. (The administration is very interested in the courts, since 99% of all cases are based on faculty or administration complaints.)

Weaver used the following example:

If you, while on vacation in some place far removed from Chapel Hill, were accused of a law violation, tried and found innocent of a law violation, the Men's Council can haul you before it and try you again, all in secrecy and at its own whim!

It's a farce and a dangerous one. But you can do something about it.

In Our Churches

BAPTIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m. student Bible class taught by Dr. P. H. Epps; 11 a.m. morning worship with sermon by the Rev. J. C. Herrin; 6 p.m. BSU with Dr. I. G. Greer on "Choice of Vocation."

CATHOLIC: Sunday, 8 a. m. and 9:30 a.m. Mass in Gerrard Hall.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: Sunday, 11 a.m. services in the lecture room of New West.

CONGREGATIONAL CHRISTIAN: Sunday, 10 a. m. student's class; 11 a. m. morning worship with the observance of Layman's Sunday with talks by four laymen of the church: 6 p.m. student supper forum.

EPISCOPAL: Sunday, 8 a.m. Holy Communion; 9:30 a. m. student Bible discussion group 11 a.m. morning prayer and sermon by the Rev. David Yates: 6 p.m. Canterbury club with the Rev. Clarence Parker.

QUAKERS: Sunday, service in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

JEWISH: Friday, 7:30 p. m weekly service at the Hillel House.

LUTHERAN: Sunday, 9:45 a. m. church school; 11 a. m. morning worship service.

METHODIST: Sunday, 9:45 a. m. Wesley students class; 11 a.m. morning worship with sermon by the Rev. William Howard; 6 p.m. Wesley Foundation supper meeting.

PRESBYTERIAN: Sunday, ship services; 6 p.m. Student group.

Express Yourself

Editor:

In Mr. Snook's article, "The Battle of Sex," I believe he missed the point of marriage. That is, of course, if the article were not a satire, which I do not belive it was meant to be. The point I believe Mr. Snook missed is that marriage is an intimate affair and that their are certain intimacies which should be reserved for it. These intimacies are not to be found in the Semi-Free Love Society pictured by Mr. Snook.

Bob May

Editor:

We sure do like to read all about what you and ol' Pogo have to say, but how can we do it if we don't get a paper? Not over three times this year have we had The Daily Tar Heel delivered here. We don't mean to be grumpy, but we really would appreciate it if you could see to it that we have a Daily Tar Heel every morning when we go down to breakfast.

The Sigma Chi House

YOU'LL STILL FIND

I GO POGO

at a buck a copy at

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

N.C. State, Duke Favored Today; Deacons Underdogs

Wake Forest At Villanova; Blue Devils Play Gamecocks

Duke and N. C. State will have favorites roles against two Southern Conference teams today but Wake Forest is figured to be a step out of line when it meets strong Villanova at Philadelphia.

The Blue Devils, with three straight wins to their credit, are highly favored against South Carolina at Columbia.

Duke will have to do without its first-string fullback, Jack Kistler, however, it was reported from Durham yesterday. He was hurt in the Tennessee game last Saturday, in which he scored the sole touchdown, and will not be counted on by Coach Bill Murray this afternoon. Byrd Looper will be in his place, with Junior McRoy on hand for assistance.

From the looks of things it will be the Blue Devils running against fine South Carolina passing with Duke getting the nod by from two to three touchdowns in most circles.

All-Winning

Wake Forest runs up against another all-winning team at Philadelphia when it meets Villanova. The Wildcats have already handled Kentucky, Clemson, and Detroit University, and are rated a one to two touchdown favorite over the Deacons.

One of the Deacs' top runners. Bruce Hillenbrand, who injured an arm against Boston College last week, may miss the game. The rest of the Wake Forest team is in good shape, however.

The Wildcats have an explosive backfield, sparked especially by ex-Army star Gene Filipski. He is averaging 7.4 yards per try in the first three games for Villanova, having gained 397 yards in 53 tries.

The rest of the Villanova backfield is well versed, too. Ben Addiego operates at halfback along side Filipski. He was selected to many Conference and State honors last year.

Good Scorer

At fullback the Wildcats have "Bulldog" Bob Horner a 5' 10", 210 pounder, who has scored against all three of the Wildcats' opponents. Bill Brannau, the senior quarterback, handles the passing.

At Raleigh non-winning State College takes on a victory-less Davidson team in a tussle postponed from last Saturday.

The Wolfpack squad has recuperated from last week's routing by Georgia and the team is intact. Guard Vince Bagonis, who has been hampered by a lip injury, should be ready to start.

Davidson had a weekend off last Saturday to allow State to play Georgia and will be in top physical shape. The only possible loss will be that of quarterback Jack Ruth, who is out with influenza.

Eddie Arcaro Has Biggest Roll Of Pros

According to the United Press little Eddie Arcaro will be the highest paid professional athlete for the year 1952—by about $200,000.

The UP figures that Heady Eddie will win about $250,000 this year and the closest man to him is ancient Jersey Joe Walcott, the battling ex-champion, who should put about $75,000 in his nest egg.

Arcaro is now shooting at a record held by Earl Sande of 39 stakes victories in one year. At present he is three victories behind the great Sande's record.

When it comes to writing figures in the check book the tiny man, who is regarded by many as the best jockey in the history of racing, is in a sports class by himself.

The financial leaders in the other fields of sports are:

Baseball: Stan Musial, $68,000.

Golf: Julius Boros, $63.000.

Basketball: Goose Tatum, $25,000.

Hockey: Maurice Richard, $24,000.

Pro football: Otto Graham and Bob Waterfield, $20,000.

Arcaro has had a record smashing, sensational year in the saddle. He has been the first jockey whose mounts have earned more than $2,000,000 in one year—and he gets a minimum of 10 per cent of those earnings.

Campanella May Be First Negro Assistant

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

BROOKLYN, Oct. 10.—Roy Campanella, popular catching star of the Brooklyn Dodgers, may become the first Negro coach in the history of Major League baseball when his playing days are over.

Walter F. O'Malley, owner of the Dodgers, disclosed today that he and the club's all-star receiver had discussed the idea at some length and that he was all in favor of employing Campanella as a Dodger coach "in a few years."

"I don't see why Roy can't turn to coaching when his playing days are over," the executive said.

"He's intelligent, level-headed, well liked by both players and fans, and I think he'd make a fine teacher."

O'Malley added:

"I believe the color angle is a thing of the past in baseball. Roy and (Jackie) Robinson have taken care of that by their wonderful deportment. They've been a credit to the game and not even the severest criticism could point a finger at their behavior.

"The only stipulation I made to Roy was this. I told him he must take care of himself. By that I mean he must watch his weight. He has a tendency to put on a lot of poundage during the off-season. I want him to set an example to the others. Before he learns to handle other men, he's got to be able to handle himself. The weight problem is the only obstacle to his chances of remaining in the Dodger organization for years to come."

O'Malley said he believed the 31-year-old Campanella could continue as top-ranking star for five more years provided he takes care of himself. He regards Roy as the best catcher and one of the greatest clutch hitters in baseball.

SUAB Grid Contest

Only one entry is permitted for each contestant.

Put a check beside each team you think will win. Write "TIE" in each blank where tie is predicted. Prediction must be made for all 20 games or entry will be disqualified.

Predict score of Georgia-Maryland game.

Blanks must be placed in the entry box in the main hall of Graham Memorial by Saturday Noon, Oct. 11.

Prizes will be awarded to the winner of the contest.

The prizes are one carton of cigarettes and two tickets to the Carolina Theater.

( ) Oregon St.	( ) Stanford	( ) Florida	( ) Clemson
( ) Ohio State	( ) Wisconsin	( ) Ga. Tech	( ) Tulane
( ) Oklahoma	( ) Texas	( ) Kentucky	( ) L.S.U.
( ) Missouri	( ) S.M.U.	( ) Notre Dame	( ) Pittsburgh
( ) Mich. State	( ) Texas A.M.	( ) Michigan	( ) Indiana
( ) Princeton	( ) Penn.	( ) California	( ) Oregon
( ) Yale	( ) Columbia	( ) Syracuse	( ) Cornell
( ) Villanova	( ) W. Forest	( ) Purdue	( ) Iowa
( ) Duke	( ) S. Carolina	( ) Army	( ) Dartmouth
( ) Northw'n	( ) Minnesota	( ) Kansas	( ) Iowa State

SCORE: .....Georgia SCORE: ..... Maryland

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

Hey Girls

Two important events are slated for Monday concerning women's athletics.

At 4 p.m. the Hockey Club will hold its first meeting. Any girl with an A medical rating is eligible for the club.

Then at 5 o'clock the WAA will have its annual fall picnic. A short program will feature the main intramural women's sports on campus. All coeds are invited.

The Carolina swimming team has won 35 consecutive meets against all opponents and 58 straight Southern Conference meets.

FONTY FLOCK, above, of Decatur, Ga., winner of the 500-mile Labor Day Darlington, S. C. race, will officially receive the handsome Darlington trophy at tomorrow's 150-mile late model stock car race at Hillsboro.

35 Racers Go Tomorrow At Hillsboro

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

HILLSBORO, Oct. 10—Approximately 35 drivers will take to the Occoneechee speedway Sunday afternoon in quest of first place in the national championship race sponsored for late model stock cars by the NASCAR.

And from previous races it looks as though the winner of the 150-mile marathon will come from one of the four top drivers on the grand national circuit.

Tim Flock, the present national point leader, will probably be the favorite but should have some tough competition from his brother Fonty and two Tar Heels Herbert Thomas and Lee Petty.

Time trials will start at 1 o'clock with the featured race set for 2:30.

Spirits High As Tar Heels Workout In Light Practice

Spirits are still high on the North Carolina football team as it runs through dummy practice while waiting for the health authorities to lift their ban on scrimmages.

The Tar Heels are confident that they will make a good showing against Wake Forest next week here at Chapel Hill, the first game for Carolina after a two-week polio inflicted layoff.

The team has been working out in Woollen Gym for the past two days because of the wet weather, but it will return to the regular Navy Field practice grounds as soon as possible.

Hopes are high in the Tar Heel camp that the doctors will allow the team to don uniforms and start some real rough stuff next Monday. There hasn't been any polio reported in over a week.

Carolina will be out to avenge the 39-7 licking that Wake Forest handed it last year on the Deacon field. Besides the additional handicap of loss of two weeks practice, the Tar Heels are struggling with a new formation and were expecting the two cancelled games to give them the experience needed to run the T.

The Deacs have looked impressive in all their games this year, losing a close one to powerful Baylor, 17-14, winning over William and Mary, and tieing Boston College. Wake Forest moves to Philadelphia this weekend to play Villanova in an intersectional contest. The Wildcats are favored over the Deacs, mainly because of the rushing average of left halfback Gene Filipski. Filipski leads the nation in rushing with a 7.4 average in 53 tries.

Carolina has played only one game this year, the opener against Texas at Kenan Stadium. Texas romped, 28-7, but Carolina was suffering from inexperience and the lack of a first string quarterback, the key man in the split-T. Marshall Newman, a freshman sensation from Clinton passed for the only Carolina score in the Texas game, and the youngster may have earned a starting berth by next Saturday. Newman was scheduled to start last week against Georgia.

The Tar Heels workouts, lasting an hour a day in sweat clothes, have been confined largely to running through plays and passing practice. The whole squad will be ready to go with the exception of Bull Davidson who is stricken with polio and John Gaylord whose finger is broken.

WEEK-END SPECIAL

MORE THAN 500 USED BOOKS
MOSTLY TAKEN FROM THE 48c
SHELF, REDUCED TO ONLY

29c

SALE STARTS SATURDAY

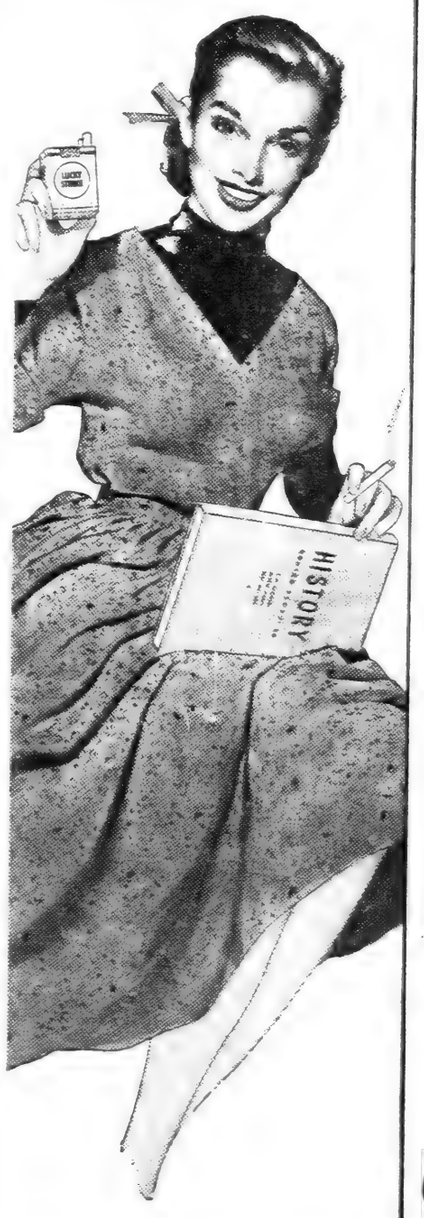
INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. FRANKLIN ST.—Open Evenings

Bills mailed home

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.
Chapel Hill, N.C.

HAVE GAS & OIL TROUBLES??
Let Us Solve Them for You —
NOW

★ Regular Gas 28.4c
★ Premium Gas 29.4c
★ Popular Brand Oil 35c
★ Premium Grade Oil 20c
★ Prestone (permanent) $3.75
★ Trex $1.50



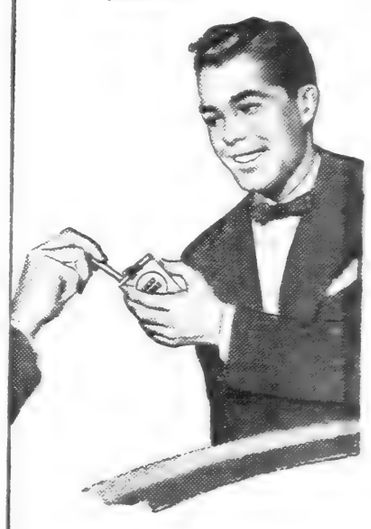
—UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT—
C. L. ROBERTS J. C. RIDDLE
HI-WAY SERVICE STATION
CARRBORO Phone 9-8422

Carolina
TODAY

LATE SHOW TONIGHT
Sunday-Monday

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company
AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!



They're made better to taste cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Take a Lucky from a newly opened pack and carefully remove the paper by tearing down the seam from end to end. Be sure to start on the seam. In tearing don't crush or dig into the tobacco. Then, gently lift out the cylinder. See how free Luckies are from air spaces —"hot spots" that smoke hot, harsh and dry—from loose ends that spoil the taste. Note Luckies' long strands of fine, mild tobacco are packed firmly to draw smoothly and evenly—to give you a cleaner, fresher, smoother smoke. Yes, Luckies are made better—to taste better! So, Be Happy—Go Lucky! Get a carton today.

FOR A CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER SMOKE
Be Happy-
GO LUCKY!

When you've a date and stay out late
Her father may appear
But offer him a Lucky Strike
And you need have no fear.
David L. Norton
Washington University '53

Brave Caesar had a thrilling life
Was cheered and feared alike—
But Caesar never had the thrill
Of tasting Lucky Strike!
Anthony R. Black
Notre Dame

Business Must Aid Universities

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—In its own self-interest, Amercan business must make increasingly substantial and regular financial contribution to the colleges and universities of the nation, Alfred P. Sloan Jr. declared today.

Pointing out the serious fiscal plight of most colleges, the Chairman of the Board of the General Motors Corp. and philanthropist, said that the only sure way to maintain the quality and quantity of higher education in this country is through increased aid from corporations. Otherwise, he asserted, the colleges must seek federal aid and risk the dangers of federal control.

Sloan noted that tax laws had made his generation the last in which individuals could mass sufficient wealth to provide endowments. He added that unless corporations helped to preserve liberal arts colleges, as well as technical schools, they would find themselves without adequately prepared young executives in the near future.

Ready for a chuckle?

If there's one thing the gang at the old Intimate Bookshop like to hear more than most, it's a good chuckle. A real outright laugh, undignified and unacademic, delights our souls. That's why we gather the good humorous books like squirrels gather nuts. Here's the best of this year's crop.

Grenadine's Spawn, by Robert Ruark. Remember Grenadine Etching? Not since Forever Amber has a gal been so busy. And here's the sequel $3.00

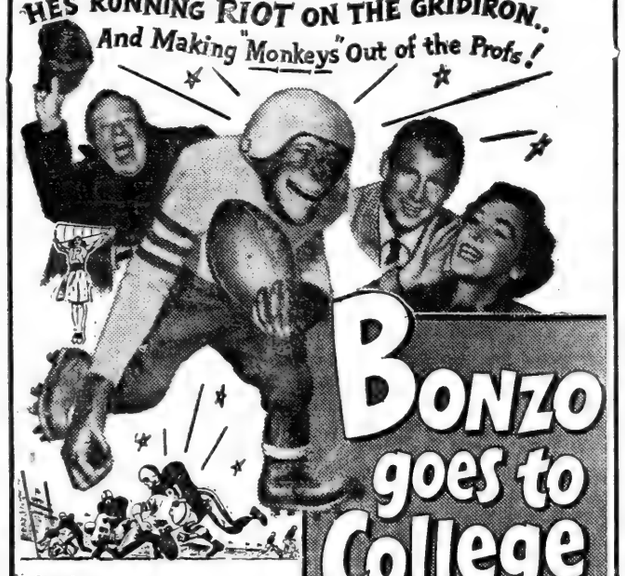
Hopalong Freud Rides Again, by Ira Wallach. Even better than Hopalong Freud, last year's top humor seller. If this isn't required reading in your Contemporary Literature classes, that's just tough luck! $2.50

From Beowulf to Virginia Woolf —a newcomer by R. M. Myers. Like no course in English literature you've ever taken. "Few writers display so much erudition in such a tangle." May not get you through an exam, but we know lots of wolves around the campus who'll find it top-cut bait $2.00

Smith's London Journal—by H. Allen Smith. A publishing epic. Now finally published from the original manuscript, for scholars with $3.00

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, by Shepherd Mead. Should be required reading for every student in the School of Business Administration. Does for the business man what "Gamesmanship" does for the tennis player—and that's plenty! $2.50

IF YOU WANT YOUR ARM TWISTED, BRING A FRIEND!



We've been broke ourselves, and if you need a laugh and are broke just now, we'll positively welcome you to a free read. No kidding.

The Intimate Bookshop

205 East Franklin Street Open Evenings

T-O-D-A-Y and SUNDAY

HE'S RUNNING RIOT ON THE GRIDIRON.. And Making "Monkeys" Out of the Profs!

Starring MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN EDMUND GWENN • CHARLES DRAKE GIGI PERREAU • GENE LOCKHART and BONZO

Late Show T-O-N-I-T-E Varsity

THE LAST GREAT TEXAS RANGE WARS!

...against the iron hand of the ruthless cattle barons!

SP

The Student Party will meet Monday night at 8:30 in Roland Parker Lounge 1. Nominations will be made for the Student Legislature.

★

SUAB

The Forum Committee of the Student Union Activities Board will meet Monday afternoon at 4:30 in the SUAB office. The Calendar Committee will meet at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

★

Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan Club will meet in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial tomorrow at 4 o'clock.

–Elections–

(Continued from page 1)

Mooresville; Sec-Treas; Tyrus Purdue; I.D.C. Rep.; William Ragsdale, Raleigh.

Grimes: Pres: Harry Faggart, Concord; V.P.; Hilton Goulson, Montevideo, Min.; Sec-Treas; George Yale, Traphill; I.D.C. Rep; George Miller, Charlotte.

Joyner: Pres: Charles Swaim, Winston-Salem; V.P.; Tom Medlin, Smithfield; Sec-Treas; Fred Holmes, Wilmington; I.D.C. Rep.; Don Chamblee, High Point.

Lewis: Pres: Bobby Rimer, Spencer; V.P.; William Poindexter, Winston-Salem; Sec-Treas; Charles Pittard, Garner; I.D.C. Rep.; Kermit Phillips, Greensboro.

Mangum: Pres: William Bullock, Bethel; V.P.; Charles Wolf, Chapel Hill; Sec-Treas; Ed McCurry, Shelby; I.D.C. Rep.; Norwood Bryan, Fayetteville.

Manley: Pres: Linwood Braswell, Goldsboro; V.P.; Justice Jenkins, Shelby; Sec-Treas; Richard Nixon, Charlotte; I.D.C. Rep.; Dwight Cranford, Albemarle.

Old East: Pres: John Guilbert, Tryon; V.P.; Carlos Surratt, Toast; Sec-Treas; Charles Wimbish, Stoneville; I.D.C. Rep.; Jerry Wall, Benson.

Old West: Pres: Bob Llewellyn, Concord; V.P.; Bob Slough, Concord; Sec-Treas; John Wilson, Morganton; I.D.C. Rep.; Dick Sawyer, Burlington.

Ruffin: Pres: Bud Moon, Charlotte; V.P.; Rufus Hackney, Durham; Sec-Treas; Kent Jackson, High Point; I.D.C. Rep.; Mack Hoover, Pinefield.

Stacy: Pres: Gary Sluder, Leitesder; V.P.; Bill Horner, Burlington; Sec-Treas; Charles Dunn, Ahoskie; I.D.C. Rep.; Gene Cain, Elizabethtown.

Steele: Pres: Wylie Kennedy, Houston, Tex.; V.P.; Paul Scagnelli, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Sec-Treas; Julian Robertson, Salisbury; I.D.C. Rep; Jerry Cook, Winston-Salem.

Whitehead: Pres: Robert Brame, Wendell; V.P.; John Baggett, Lillington; Sec-Treas; Stan Monroe, Fayetteville; I.D.C. Rep.; Leon Pittman, Micro.

Winston: Pres: Gordon Forester, Wilkesboro; V.P.; Hartsell Conklin, Durham; Sec-Treas; Jacques Proom, Fayetteville; I.D.C. Rep.; Al Braxton, Scotland Neck.

CLASSIFIEDS

WANTED

BALLET TEACHER WANTED. PREferably for afternoon or night work. Vacancy open. State qualifications and salary. Write Box 1525, Burlington, N. C.

(1-9453-6)

Bob Smith's

—Now—

Franklin Street Luncheonette

★ All Brands and ★ Draft Beer
★ Wines
★ Sandwiches

GOVERNOR THOMAS E. DEWEY of New York, in a radio-television address, disclosed that the Democratic national ticket is running in Alabama under the party symbol of a white rooster topped by the words: "White Supremacy." The Governor held up before the TV camera an enlarged photostat of the 1952 Alabama absentee ballot (top, arrow and date painted on by Gov. Dewey's office.) He also displayed a similar ballot for 1948 (bottom) which carried Sen. Sparkman's name as a candidate for re-election to the Senate.—UP Telephoto.

New Marine Society Formed Here

The initial meeting of Semper Fidelis Society, a new Marine Corps organization, was held at the Naval Armory Thursday night.

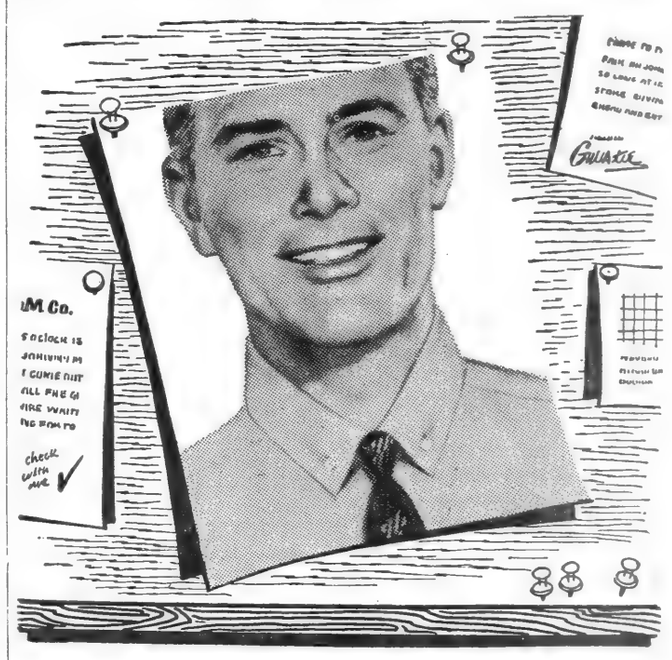
A committee was appointed to draw up a constitution and a set of by-laws. The committee consists of John Poindexter, chairman, Ernest Baumgartner, Jim Cockerham, Nick Hart, Bill Hollingsworth, Al Rumbough, Joe Burrell, Chuck Abernathy, Ned Beeker, Dick Noll and Howard Tickle.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, October 23, at 8 p.m. in the Naval Armory. Any student affiliated with P.L.C., Marine Reserve or NROTC Marine Corps is invited to attend.

Modern Dance Club

The Modern Dance Club will hold its organizational meeting Tuesday night at 4 o'clock in the the Dance Room at Women's Gym. The group plans to present a spring dance concert and to make several trips to nearby colleges to perform.

The Carolina Jayvee football team opened the 1952 season with a 7-0 win over Fort Bragg.



SONJA HENIE IN PERSON 1953 ICE REVUE mail order for tickets

COLISEUM IN RALEIGH
WILLIAM NEAL REYNOLDS COLISEUM
N. C. State College—P. O. Box 5905
RALEIGH, N. C.

Mon. Eve. Oct. 20 ☐
Tue. Eve. Oct. 21 ☐
Wed. Eve. Oct. 22 ☐
Thur. Eve. Oct. 23 ☐
Frid. Mat. Oct. 24 ☐
Frid. Eve. Oct. 24 ☐
Sat. Mat. Oct. 25 ☐
Sat. Eve. Oct. 25 ☐

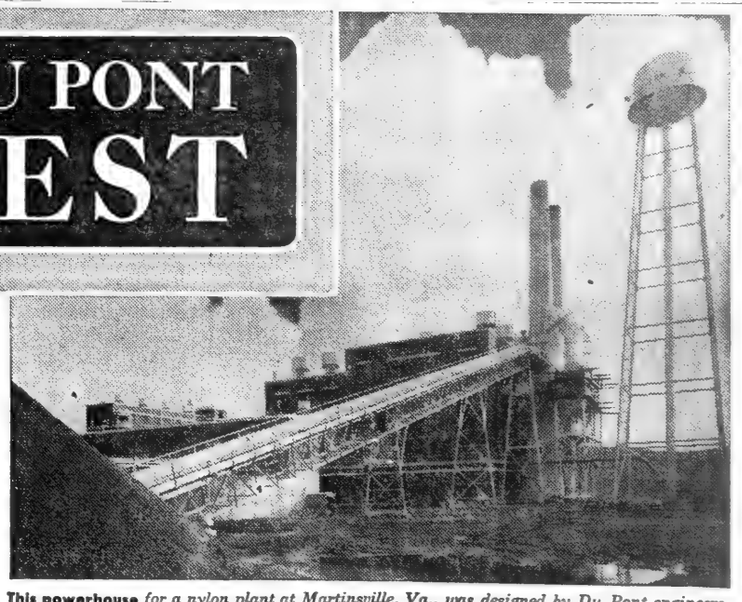
Enclosed is $.....for.....tickets at $.....each
Price: $3.00.....$2.50.....$2.00.....$1.50.....

Name.....Address.....
City.....State.....Phone No.....
FOR THE SAFE RETURN OF YOUR TICKETS PLEASE INCLUDE 25c FOR INSURANCE AND POSTAGE

new as tomorrow's assignment

Van Heusen's new short collar style

Van Heusen's brand new Van Britain collar is a smart, short button-down style that will help you collar any gal. Comfortable enough to wear to classes . . . the good-looking Van Britain is perfect for those special dates, too. It's a must in every complete college wardrobe. A new Van Heusen free if yours ever shrinks out of size. In white, colors and stripes . . . fine broadcloth.



$3.95

Complete Line TOWN & CAMPUS Van Heusen

THE DU PONT DIGEST

Power Work for M.E.'s

Varied needs of 71 Du Pont plants pose a host of original power problems

This powerhouse for a nylon plant at Martinsville, Va., was designed by Du Pont engineers. It houses two 135,000 lb./hr. boilers and two 7,500 KW extraction turbine generators.

Heart of Du Pont's manufacturing program is the power plant. To make some 1200 products and product lines the Company operates 71 plants.

Most require steam and electric generation, water supply and treatment, heat exchangers, piping systems and related services. The designing of these power plants, their erection and operation are all in the hands of engineers, the great majority being mechanical engineers.

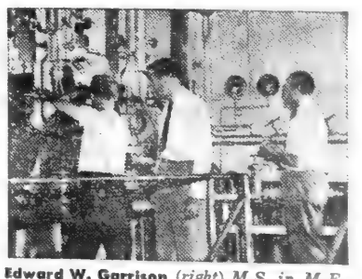
But this is not the most interesting thing about power work here. What challenges the highest skills of the engineer at Du Pont is the wealth of original problems constantly arising. Power requirements vary enormously, not only from plant to plant but from time to time.

Process operating pressures may range from over 15,000 psi. to 2 mm of mercury, electrical requirements from as low as 7,000 to higher than 1 million KWH/day, and temperatures from −360° to over 3,500°F.

Here are examples of recent "off-the-beaten-path" power problems.

1. A plant using natural gas as its basic fuel produces a waste oil of variable hydrocarbon composition and a waste gas with only 110 Btu/cu. ft. Du Pont M.E.'s designed burners, fans, boilers and combustion controls to permit use of all three fuels for generating steam.

2. At another plant 20,000 gpm of cooling water were to be drawn from a nearby river. Since the water level fluctuated 40 feet between normal and flood stages, it was necessary to evaluate several plans for pump-house constructions against cooling towers. The engineers installed a unique pump house whose submerged vertical pumps operate even when the structure is entirely under water.



Aside from design and construction, Du Pont mechanical engineers concern themselves with such related subjects as economic evaluations, equipment selection, heat balances, load calculations, waste heat boilers.

For example, where various process temperatures from 300° to 600°F. were required, Dowtherm was selected as the supply medium at the rate of 35 million Btu/hr. The engineers installed a central system for primary supply because it calculated to be more economical than separately located vaporizers.

On the operational side, M.E.'s supervise the supply of power and services. They establish performance

George S. Mahaffey, B.S. in M.E., Penn State '52 (right), B. S. Norling, B.S. in E.E.,

Edward W. Garrison (right) M.S. in M.E., California Tech '47, and Byron R. Brown (center), B.S. in M.E., New Hampshire '49, supervise adjustment of furnace conditions in a study of power-plant efficiency.

Whether viewed from the design and construction side or the operational side, the diversity of Du Pont's manufacture offers a wealth of opportunities in power work for the mechanical engineer.

OPPORTUNITIES for men and women with many types of technical training are discussed fully in "The Du Pont Company and the College Graduate." For a copy, write 2521 Nemours, Wilmington, Del.

DU PONT

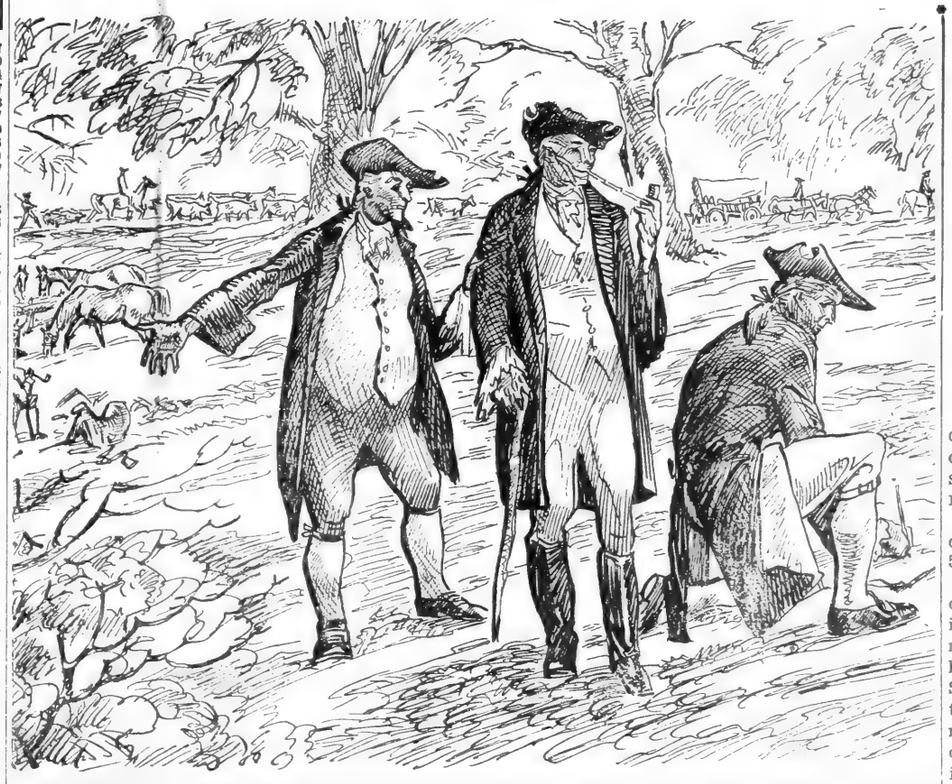
150th Anniversary

BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING ... THROUGH CHEMISTRY

U N C LIBRARY
SERIARS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER

Warmer today with some cloudiness. Today's high, 60.



The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME LXI NUMBER 17 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWS

The news of your church. See page 4.

BIRTHDAY PARTY TOMORROW

SKETCHED BY THE ARTIST IS PART of the committee which chose Chapel Hill, then New Hope Chapel Hill, as a site for the University. The scene is November of 1792 and is recaptured by Kenneth Whitsett of Charlotte, brother-in-law of L. B. Rogerson, manager of the Carolina Inn. The wagon traffic in the background could be traversing either the north-south road from Fayetteville to Petersburg or the east-west route from New Bern to Salem. The University will celebrate its anniversary tomorrow with special pageantry.

South Building Will Be Scene Of Celebration

Classes Dismissed From 11 Until 2; Pageantry Slated

University Day, commemorating the 159th anniversary of the founding of the University, will be celebrated tomorrow.

Classes and administrative offices will be closed from 10:50 to 2 p.m.

The laying of the cornerstone of Old East on October 12, 1793, is recognized as the formal beginning of the University. This year, however, the birthday falls on Sunday, and ceremonies marking the occasion are scheduled for tomorrow, beginning at 10:50 a.m. on the south court of South Building.

Pageantry re-enacting in pantomime the laying of the cornerstone of Old East will feature the University's birthday party.

Preceded by a color guard (representing AROTC and NROTC), President Gordon Gray of the Consolidated University, Chancellor Robert B. House, Student Body President Hamilton Horton Jr. and members of the Carolina Playmakers will go from South Building to the pageant platforms.

The chancellors of the three branches of the Consolidated University, here for their monthly meeting, will observe the pageantry. Looking on with Chancellor House will be E. K. Graham of Woman's College and J. W. Harrelson of N. C. State.

The "Star Spangled Banner" will open the services followed by invocation by Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Chapel Hill. Those attending will join in singing the University Hymn.

The re-enactment of the Masonic cornerstone laying will be led by James Pritchett of Lenoir, graduate student in drama. He will play the part General William R. Davie, often described as the "father of the University." The roles of other Masons participating are Claude Garren and Donald Treat, members of Carolina Playmakers.

Upon conclusion of the cornerstone ceremonies, the people in attendance will be asked to form in procession behind the University Band and march to Davie Poplar where the singing of "Hark the Sound" will close the exercises.

Arrangements for the celebration are under the direction of Nancy Green of Chapel Hill, senior in drama. Special music will be furnished by the University Band under the direction of Earl Slocum. Printed programs will be distributed free.

Council To Consider District Bill Validity

By Louis Kraar

The Student Council, called in to settle the controversy over the newly-passed dormitory redistricting bill, is scheduled to meet tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The new law, which revamps the two districts into five smaller ones, is subject to two interpretations.

The Student Party, mainly opposing it, says the law cannot apply in the coming Fall election because of elections law technicalities. The University Party, mainly supporting the new law, says the law must apply because of the technicality.

The question then. is one of interpretation of the elections laws.

If the redistricting is put into effect immediately, Cobb Dormitory will be considered in one of the dormitory districts. If not, it will be included in a town district. This point seems to be the crux of the problem.

Cobb, largest of the dormitories, holds 443 students and would yield much weight politically under the new law.

Members of the Student Party, whose main strenght lies in dormitory districts, claim that redistricting will further strengthen the dominant University Party. University Party officials purport that redistricting will "bring the student and his legislator into closer relationship".

Jerry Cook, chairman of the Elections Board, described the situation as "highly technical" in nature due to a "discrepancy in existing laws."

Durham Road Cracks After A Few Weeks

The new highway between Durham and Chapel Hill is cracking, just weeks after its completion, and the blame is being tossed around like the proverbial hot potato.

Numerous cracks in the scenic thoroughfare are the result of the State Highway Commission's failure to permit the digging of adequate drainage ditches, according to the Nello L. Teer Construction Company.

But according to the Highway Commission the cracks are the result of a decision by the Teer Company and Chapel Hill and Durham to surface the road with a smoother but less permanent material than that originally agreed upon.

Nello L. Teer Sr. said yesterday, "There has been no suggestion by the (commission) engineers or anyone from the commission that we wouldn't be paid for the repair work."

However, the commission pointed out that the highway has not been accepted by the state and won't be until it is carefully inspected.

NBC To Air 'Big Story' Of Graduate

A Carolina graduate, now a reporter who turned the pages of a classic book and found a murder confession, will have his story dramatized on "The Big Story" program Wednesday night.

Sam Hood, 1938 graduate, helped solve the murder of a small town business man on the steps of Carnegie Music Hall. His curiosity was aroused by the fact that the killing occurred in Pittsburgh's cultural center. He sought an intellectual angle and found an explanation in a disciple of a "superman" philosophy.

His write-up of the case won the $500 Pall Mall reward and a plaque for service in the field of journalism. It will be dramatized Wednesday at 9:30 p.m. over WPTF, NBC in Raleigh.

Hood is a native of Raleigh.

Windows Tell Coed Tales To Glib Males

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel)

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 11—Coeds in five new dormitories of Alabama Polytechnic Institute here now know how it feels to live in a fish bowl.

The girls who moved into the new dorms last week assumed that because they couldn't see out the frosted glass bathroom windows no one could see in.

Student and pedestrian traffic soon became rather dense on the sidewalks in front of the dormitories facing the street.

Then a male student told a coed about the windows. They had been designed so a girl taking a bath could see out, but outsiders couldn't see in. However, they had been installed backwards.

Kiwanis Elect

E. C. Markham, UNC Chemistry professor, recently was elected president of the Chapel Hill Kiwanis Club.

He succeeds Dr. David Carvin. Other officers elected were Orville Campbell, vice-president, and Dr. J. Kempton Jones, Walter Rabb, Russell Grumman and C. W. Davis, directors. A fifth director is yet to be named.

Ike Boosters Hold Meet, Adopt Name

A group of supporters for General Eisenhower for President met in Phillips Hall Thursday night and adopted the name of "Citizens for Eisenhower," patterned after other such organizations in the state and the nation.

The meeting was organized by George Schroll, graduate student in physics. The first thing on the program was an address by Grady Pritchard, Chapel Hill business man He gave reasons why he, a Democrat, was voting for Eisenhower.

Ham Horton, president of the student body, was elected chairman of the group. In connection with his position in student government and the Eisenhower group, Horton had this to say," I want it to be understood that I assume this position as an individual who is deeply concerned over the present political situation and in no way would pretend to represent student government, the student body or anyone except myself."

Other officers elected were Ann Page, vice-president, Ben Toledano, secretary, and Ben James, treasurer.

The group decided to hold the next meeting on Monday, October 20, at 8 p.m.

Chief Sprowl Here As Navy Instructor

Captain J. S. Keating, USN, professor of Naval Science here, reports that Chief Yeoman Hugh L. Sprowl, USN, has reported for duty on the staff of the NROTC unit at Chapel Hill.

Sprowl is a veteran submariner with 25 years of naval service. He is a native of Jeffersontown, Ky.

In the 25 years that Chief Sprowl has served in the Navy he has visited 28 foreign countries. Prior to reporting to the local unit for duty the chief was attached to the staff of Commander Submarine Division 22, on the USS Piper (SS 409), based in New London, Conn.

He is married and has two children.

Football SCORES

Duke 33		South Carolina	7
Pitt 22		Notre Dame	19
Ohio State 23		Wisconsin	14
Ohio University 22		West'n Reserve	7
Cinncinati 20		Xavier	18
Georgia Tech 13		Tulane	7
Maryland 37		Georgia	0
Mich. State 48		Texas A & M	6
Villanova 20		Wake Forest	0
Pennsylvania 13		Princeton	7
Tennessee 26		Chattanooga	6
Auburn 54		Wofford	7
Florida 54		Clemson	13
N. C. State 28		Davidson	6
Virginia 50		George Wash.	0
Mississippi 21		Vanderbilt	21
Army 37		Dartmouth	7
Colgate 13		Rutgers	7
Yale 35		Columbia	28
Navy 14		William & Mary	0
Penn State 35		West Virginia	21
Williams 9		Middlebury	0
Markuette 37		Detroit	27
Illinois 48		Washington	14
Michigan 28		Indiana	13
Minnesota 27		Northwestern	26
LSU 34		Kentucky	7

NEWS IN BRIEF

MIAMI, Fla.—Gov. Adlai Stevenson promised to deal "ruthlessly" with corruption in government if he is elected president. His speech opened his campaign in politically-doubtful Florida and followed on the heels of a speech he had made in New Orleans in which he had taken a firm stand for civil rights legislation and against giving the states title to the oil-rich submerged coastal lands.

★

BERKELEY, Calif. — Medical scientist gave hope that a single capsule, costing between $3 and $5, which will make a person immune to infantile paralysis, may be available in a couple of years. The pill will contain thousands of polio viruses which have been grown in a fertilized hen's egg. The viruses will then pass into the blood stream and the blood will start building antibodies to destroy the viruses.

★

DENVER, Colo. — Dwight D. Eisenhower stopped his tour for a two-day rest here yesterday but it was evident that he would probably spend more time working on strategy than resting. He flew in from Salt Lake City, Utah, where he had just finished a talk before 10,000 people in which he blasted Democratic labor policies. He pleaded for an end to "extremes and extremists" and said that he and his party want to get the nation "back on the middle way."

★

GREENSBORO—Sentence will be pronounced tomorrow on Francis Duval (George) Smith, after his conviction Friday night on charges of manslaughter and hit-and-run driving. The all-male jury deliberated but an hour and a quarter before finding the convicted ex-lottery racket king guilty on both counts.

★

NEW YORK — President Truman continued his "give 'em hell" tour yesterday, lashing out at Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Republicans for waging a "double talk" campaign on civil rights and declaring that voluntary compliance with fair employment practice is "nonsense." His speech, a major bid for the Negro vote, was made at Dorrence-Brooks Square, the heart of New York's Harlem district.

Ice Show's Lower Price Offered Here

University students and faculty are offered reduced prices for the Sonja Henie Ice Revue October 20 and 21 in Raleigh.

William Neal Reynolds Coliseum officials at State College say that $2 tickets can be purchased for $1.50, $2.50 tickets for $1.75, and $3 tickets for $2. Rates apply only for the October 20 and 21 performances.

Orders for tickets may be placed at the main office of Graham Memorial today through Wednesday. The Special Services Committee of SUAB is handling the orders.

The Ice Revue, formerly staged only in metropolitan centers, stars Sonja Henie, winner of 10 world championships in figure skating. The skating artists will present their varied program in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum.

$30,500 Gift Is Made To Health Division

A grant of $30,500 has been made by the Health Information Foundation to the University. It was announced by Chancellor Robert B. House.

The gift will enable the University's Institute for Research in Social Science to make a two-year community health study.

"This is a major move toward developing social science research in connection with our expanding programs in the health and medical fields," Chancellor House said.

Admiral W. H. P. Blandy is president of HIF, a new foundation recently established by the drug, pharmaceutical and allied industries for the purpose of gathering and distributing basic information about health.

Directors of the study here will be Dr. Floyd Hunter, associate professor of social work, and Dr. Cecil G. Sheps, research professor of health planning and director of program planning for the Division of Health Affairs. Ruth Connor, research fellow in the institute, will aid in field work.

The study is one of a series being done in various regions of the nation. Similar projects are underway in Alabama and Michigan. A community will be located which is on the move toward health improvement and which would welcome a study. More than 20 possible communities are now being considered.

"The research will then observe and record the processes by which decisions are reached, plans made, and action started to meet health problems in the community," Chancellor House said. "Leadership will get special study."

Leavitt To Represent U. S. At Santiago Celebration

The State Department in Washington has appointed Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt, University Kenan professor of Spanish, to be the United States representative at the celebration of the Jose Toribio Medina Centenary, to be held in Santiago Chile, October 12-22.

Dr. Leavitt will leave by plane today.

During an extended visit in Chile, Dr. Leavitt compiled a bibliography of Chilean literature, which attracted favorable attention both in the United States and in Latin America. It was particularly well received in Chile, since it was the first bibliography of its kind ever compiled in that country.

Dr. Leavitt is also the author of bibliographies of Argentina, Bolivia, Colombian, Peruvian and Uruguayan literatures, as well as numerous other studies of Spanish American literature.

It is in recognition of his work and his personal acquaintance with Jose Toribio Medina that he received the State Department appointment.

Symphony To Meet Today

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Symphony Society will be held in the Faculty Lounge of the Morehead Building here today at 3 o'clock. All members are invited to attend.

Announcement of plans for the meeting was made today by Dr. Charles E. Jordan, Durham, president of the society.

Reports will be made by Dr. Benjamin Swalin, director of the Symphony; A. C. Hall, Raleigh, treasurer; and Mrs. Fred McCall, Chapel Hill, director of the Children's Concert Division.

The annual election of officers will be held. In addition to President Jordan, present officers are Rusell M. Grumman, Chapel Hill, executive vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Johnson, Raleigh, vice-president; James G. K. McClure, Asheville, vice-president, and L. C. Gifford, Hickory, vice-president.

Following the meeting of the society the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Symphony will be held at 4:30 at the same place.

Dean Approves Visits To Three Fraternities

The Dean of Women's office yesterday released the names of there approved professional fraternities which coeds may visit.

The three are Kappa Psi, pharmaceutical, Alpha Kappa Psi, business administration and Alpha Kappa, medical.

Italian Prof Peddles Advance Exam Copies

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel)

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 11—A professor has been arrested here on charges of selling advance copies of his school's examinations. He was vending the tests for the equivalent of $500.

Two years ago students at the same school were found to be taking their examinations equipped with a homemade walkie-talkie radio. They were broadcasting the questions to friends outside the classroom and receiving the answers back.

Begging

Juniors have until Wednesday to have their Yack pictures taken. Seniors take their turns the following week, October 16-22.

Pictures are made in the Rendezvous Room daily between 2 and 9 p.m. There is no charge.

The Yack also is begging for snapshots of campus life. Prints cannot be returned.

The Big Four As Seen By UNC Prof

At Risk Of 'Package Answers' Lyons Gives European Lowdown

By Dr. J. Coriden Lyons

"Are things any better in Europe than they were a year ago?" "How do those people like Americans?" "Are they really doing their part in the common effort toward a system of mutual defense?" "How do they feel about the likelihood of war with Russia in the near future?"

These are a few of the questions which have been asked most frequently since my return from Europe a month ago. Fifteen summers in Europe with college groups over the past quarter-century have taught me the dangers of giving simple "package answers" to such questions; so much depends on the country and area about which you are talking.

However, I am going to risk quilified answers to the four questions listed above, because I believe they represent the composite opinion of the majority of experienced observers.

1. On the whole, economic conditions are considerably better in Europe now than they were 12 months ago. Industrial production of supplies for NATO is beginning to make itself felt in terms of economic well-being. Compulsory military service is reducing the ranks of the unemployed to the point where some contend there will soon not be sufficient manpower to take care of the "stepped-up" industrial requirements. Improvement in England and France is less than elsewhere due to internal economic and political difficulties peculiar to those two countries.

2. It is impossible to make any general statement as to whether "those people" like or dislike Americans. Everything depends on the personal experiences and

(See DR. LYONS, page 3)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Nat. Adv. Mrg. ..... Wallace Pridgen
Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher

News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock

Night Editor for this issue: Biff Roberts

Truth Offensive

President Gordon Gray has accepted the state chairmanship of the 1952 Crusade for Freedom campaign to raise funds for the continuation and expansion of Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia.

In doing so Mr. Gray will lend welcome impetus to the most effective organ of internal resistance to Communism in the world today.

Radio Free Europe and its Asian counterpart are not to be confused with the well-meaning but clumsy Voice of America which, because of direct affiliation with the United States government, is obligated to present the case against Soviet imperialism in a straitjacket of diplomacy and protocol.

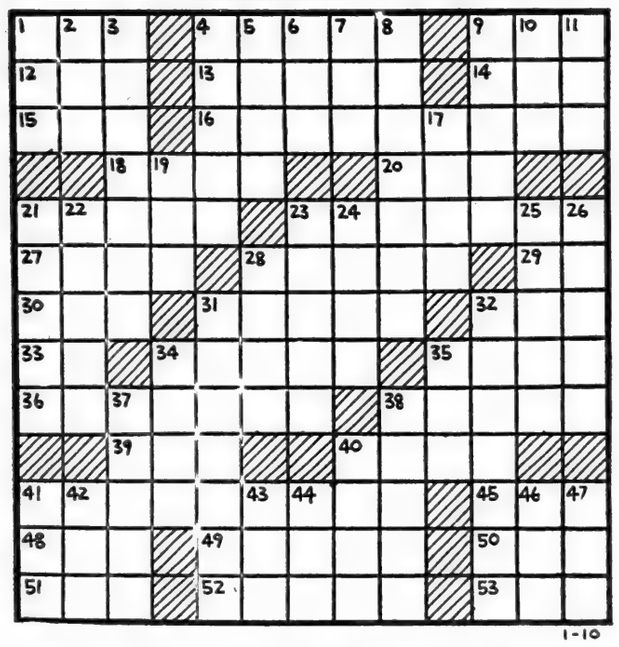
RFE and RFA suffer no such gentlemanly impediments. Both agencies are well staffed with free individual citizens, including many refugees only several days removed from Communist tyranny, who are only too happy to roll up their sleeves and bombard the peoples east of the Czech border with penetrating salvos of truth.

Because the Crusade for Freedom campaign remains unidentified with any government, the Russians are unable to enact retaliatory measures. Whereas the Voice of America program is generally laughed off by the Soviets as "an impotent attempt to export tripe, platitudes, and American chromium culture," Radio Free Europe has been hailed by listeners on both sides of the Iron Curtains as an uninhibited messenger of light and hope.

Because the Crusade for Fredom prefers to talk person-to-person rather than attach itself to any government ministry, its existence is entirely dependent on donations from private citizens.

The best testimonial to the effectiveness of the two independent stations comes from the Communists themselves, who have long since decreed that anyone caught listening in will be promptly accorded severe punishment.

The Kremlin realizes that any military threat can be successfully offset by an opposing force of equal size, but that no combination of commisars, cannons, and concentration camps can ever prevent the cream of truth from rising above the sour milk of despotism.

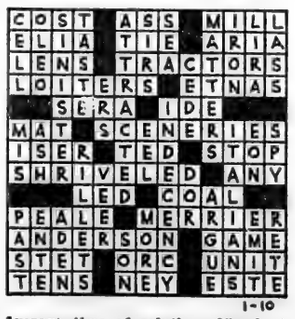


Coffee With The Profs

The Student Union Activities Board (SUAB) has rolled into high gear with a weekly program to encourage healthier affinity between students and faculty members.

The Student-Faculty Relationship committee of SUAB under the direction of Mary Lilla Browne sponsors a coffee hour in the main lounge of Graham Memorial from ten o'clock until noon on Saturday mornings where students and their professors can meet informally to discuss matters of mutual concern.

SUAB urges students to attend as many of the Saturday morning receptions as posible. All time spent welding firmer bonds between educator and educatee is time well invested.



CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

HORIZONTAL
1. vehicle
4. crab roe
9. stitch
12. malt drink
13. betel-nut tree
14. American author
15. deep hole
16. confinement
18. river-islands
20. hostel
21. showers
23. click-beetles
27. afflictions
28. large framework of slats
29. exclamation
30. power
31. inclines
32. regret extremely
33. printer's measure
34. taut
35. apportion
36. notched like a saw
38. whiter
40. web-like membrane
41. daring feat
45. flap appendage
48. compete
49. mistake
50. former European coin
51. elongated fish
52. dents
53. lair

VERTICAL
1. complete
2. fourth caliph
3. sells in small quantities
4. wagons
5. native metals
6. thing, in law
7. deed
8. ropes
9. backbone
10. eternity
11. moist
17. poker stake
19. those in power
21. cleaves
22. straighten
23. efface
24. country road
25. way
26. transparent
28. copper coin
31. found out
32. akin
34. woody plant
35. prefix: wrong
37. French composer
38. gazes narrowly
40. hurry
41. salutation
42. expire
43. prefix: three
44. footed vase

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

1-10

Average time of solution 25 minutes

1-10

Al Anderson — CPU Roundtable

It was one of the historic events of our times, the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, 1952. With all the talk of bowing to the will of the majority, with trying to force all states to pledge in advance support for the majority choice, it was North Carolina's elder statesman, Cameron Morrison who drove to the heart of the issue. What he said in effect was this: Unless majority rule is tempered with humbling safeguards and restrictions like those reflected in the Constitution, democracy is lost and mob rule takes over.

What is the essence of democracy anyway? If it is not in majority rule where does it lie? Or was elder statesman Morrison all wrong? Was he speaking against government "of the people, by the people, for the people?" If not, what is the difference between rule of the people and rule of the mob? Why is the Constitution considered such a sacred trust? And is it adequate today to save democracy from mob rule and from the rulers of the mob? What constitutes mob rule anyway, and what is wrong with it? How does the Declaration of Independence reflect the essence of democracy, and is it possible that it may have to be employed again to remind us of inalienable rights . . . to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" . . . to "change or abolish" any government which forgets its sacred trust to administer these rights . . .?

The essence of democracy? Could any other subject be more politically important today? Could any other topic be more timely discussion at the Carolina Political Union Roundtable? In these days when democracy is fighting for its life does it seem appropriate to ask where its life lies; to inquire about its soul? Evidently the CPU thinks so. And if you too feel that this topic is worth an evening's serious discussion come around to our Roundtable this evening at 8:00 in Graham Memorial Grail Room. Talk it over ahead of time; bring your ideas, and bring a friend. We need to get all our heads together on this one!

UN DAY

John Riebel, director of the University YMCA, has issued a clarion call for aid in planning and executing the observance, two weeks hence, of United Nations Day.

And what could be more natural or appropriate at UNC than such an observance and its implication of international tolerance and of its resulting brotherly love?

John says that 1 p.m. tomorrow has been set as the time for an organizational-snack luncheon in the Y building, library room. "Monday," says he, "we will discuss the recommendations already set forth by an inner-rim committee for the UN observance." Movies in Gerrard Hall every hour; a UN Birthday Dinner, with foreign students dressed in their native garb; an international sing; and a noon observance are among the proposed activities for the day.

"These proposed activities," Y-man Riebel continues, "are the realms where we need cooperation and help from the students." To that end, is the meeting on Monday. Attend if you can and give John a hand.

—T. N.

Three Cars To Park

A coed at the University of Nebraska is sorely taxed with parking problems. A new ruling states that all cars parked on campus must bear a sticker proving their right to be there. It seems that she is having difficulty obtaining three stickers for her three cars which she drives alternately to class.

Smokers Pick Ike

Ike is the presidential favorite of smokers at the University of Wisconsin. In a survey recently taken of drugstores around campus selling cigarettes with "I Like Ike" and "Stevenson" lab-

"Where Did Everybody Go?"

Express Yourself

Reply to Snook

Editor:

As a Catholic and thinking American, I should like to take issue with Mr. Snook and his article of October 9 on gromwell, thewonder substance that will "free" all women. If Mr. Snook wrote his article merely to stir controversy, as I believe it is entirely possible that he did, I think he succeeded. Taking his statements seriously, I shall try to answer him.

To give an adequate answer would require quite a long essay. He attacks almost all that is good in the relations between men and women. He attacks the sacredness of the marriage bond. He implies that with this wonwell, the wonder substance that sexual intercourse about as often as they shake hands.

I believe marriage is a sacred union between a man and a woman. The aims of people entering marriage should be to procreate children, to secure the mutual happiness of both partners in this world and to gain Heaven with the help of inspiration from God and each other. The marital act is a beautiful and sacred way to bring children into this world and God has encouraged its use by making it pleasurable.

Mr. Snook has cheapened this act by saying "sexual gratification (will be considered) normal." He says that "no longer will women be mere chattels." I think that the opposite would be true and that the girl with the biggest supply of gromwell would be the most popular.

Later he says ". . . unions will be much nearer the ideal of spiritual and intellectual exchange. More people will be attracted to the matrimonial junction." I suggest that young people will have little or no thought of intellectual and spiritual exchange when they meet. Men will go to women for only one thing. Since most men believe that women are not intellectual, they will get the pleasures of marriage without the marriage and seek other men for intellectual stimulation. The number of marriages will certainly drop.

He says "evil from the greatest single source will evaporate when sex is brought into the open" and later "society will not tolerate needless loss of natural pleasure at the gain of unnatural trouble." By these statements, he can only mean that no babies will result from illicit intercourse. He calls babies "unnatural troubles" and "evil". Even if the babies were born of unmarried parents, are they evils or unnatural troubles?

Finally, he says "Catholics and misanthropes can delay the revolt . . . but they can't halt it." First I think that he should have said: "Lovers of mankind" instead of "misanthropes," and then I think he should have said. "They can halt it" I think that all men who respect women and all self-respecting women should unite to stop this "wonder substance."

Edmund Gehan

Homespun Ike

May we please say a few words in your paper about the brightest and best candidate for president? Certainly Eisenhower's campaign has showed us that his superiority is incomparable.

Ike has been positively brilliant on the knotty issue of corruption in government. He and Nixon have devised a fool proof method of eliminating influence peddling. They will, if elected, try to set up private funds to subsidize Senators and Congressmen. The funds can come from generous constituents who have interests in legislative matters and they can be used to subsidize legislators so that their wives won't have to work to make ends meet in family finances. Of course Stevenson has proposed a similar plan but it is inferior because it insists that the donors to the funds be kept anonymous. Corruption can only be eliminated when a legislator knows which side his bread is buttered on!

Another brilliant spot in the Eisenhower campaign is his stand on the issue of Communism. Ike is against Communism! He will, if elected, throw Communists out of the government! Those things are good but they are of course commonplace. What distinguishes Ike is the fact that he is so much against Communism that he joins with those who scorn the use of "due process of law" against Communists. He is suspicious of the FBI spending a long time gathering evidence and of the long court battles necessary to get legal convictions of communists. Ike merely wants Communists thrown out of government and into jail.

The most superlative thing about Eisenhower is his tremendous insight into

C

essing Ike

f ...ans of how he plans to do this and when they don't get an answer they immediately start hollering "It can't be done." Of course, Ike is shrewd enough not to get taken in by that plot. He isn't going to tell the details of his plans because he knows the Democrats will take them over with a few modifications right away and cla... them e same

...s characteristic, old-fashioned, homespun, American way, Ike has the answers for every problem that besets us.

Homer Hartung
William Wood
Roger Guthrie

Joe Raff — RIFF . . . by RAFF

One hundred and seventy six years ago a man kissed his wife and children goodbye. He left carrying a shovel and kitchen knife for his protection and said he was going off to war. In another part of this continent at the same time a wealthy importer who had been making his living off of his present enemy handed his son a fine hunting rifle and wished him luck against tremendous British odds. The Continental Army of 1776 was an army of will, not steel. Of course, none of the soldiers opposing the British and Hessian forces wanted to kiss their children goodbye. Many believed that the Americans would be better off under British domination and to give up freedom for security was the best course to take.

Today we have allowed the freedom our fore fathers died and suffered for to take a back seat. How many six-year-olds all over the country know the meaning of the pledge to allegiance which they obligingly repeat every school day before studies begin? In actuality how many Main Street ladies and gentlemen know what is in the Constitution and how many of those same Americans know the substance of the Declaration of Independence? I'll give you some idea.

John Hunter, a reporter on the Madison, Wisconsin, Capital Times asked 112 people at a July 4, gathering to sign a paper including the very same wording as from the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence. One person was willing to sign and the other 111 believed that the petition was too strong. Another similar petition needed "narrowing down" and some even pointed at the reporter calling him "Communist."

When I was home this summer I also tried out Americanism although I knew what the outcome would be before my thought took action. On the evening of July 4, I phoned a movie theatre and asked what their Independence Day film presentation was. I received a synopsis with the answer and it was that it was a film concerning prejudice in colleges. Then I asked if Negroes were permitted in that theatre. The answer, as I expected, was "No."

This is how much we have progressed since 1776. We have progressed to the point where young men go through every conceivable repellent contortion against the draft. Progressed to the point where only one out of 112 Americans would sign the written document under which they live and receive protection. Progressed to the point of prejudiced hypocrisy. This is America one hundred and seventy-six years after that Continental Army soldier kissed his wife and children and walked barefoot off to war.

Gil Marsh — Bird's Eye View

"The summer of a lifetime." That is what six weeks at the YM-YWCA West Coast Leadership School at Berkeley, California left me saying.

There were twenty-seven of us students from all over the country — Washington to Alabama, Massachusetts to California—come to prepare for more capable student leadership in the association at home.

Emphasis being placed on personal faith and maturity, as well as group planning, the classroom courses at the Pacific School of Religion were: Christian Theology, Basic Christian Ethics, and Group Work, including YM-YWCA programming. Excellent laboratories were afforded for putting our study into immediate practice there. We lived together as a family, doing our own cooking and house cleaning, under Cooperation Association system in a coop house just off the University of California campus. We were organized into a "model" Christian Association with executive officers and committees; each member had a leadership role of some kind. The University of North Carolina and its YMCA had already given me much preparation. This preparation bore fruit for, much to my surprise, I was elected co-president along with Joan Shaer of Ohio State.

Field trips gave us a first hand view of social situations and institutions of all kinds. The most important lab benefit, however, came from the constant contact of one member with another in work, study, play, and worship —exchanging old views and new ideas with persons and Student Christian Associations from many points in the nation.

Life-long friendships were formed because we had fully shared these six weeks—a milestone in our lives and we trust in the life of the "Y". . . .

Off Campus

Headline from the Stamford, Conn. Advocate: "Audience Acclaims Dame May Whitty in Nighty Must Fall."

From the Hartford Times: "Early yellow peaches and apples are being marketed by local fruit growers. oGod prices are being received, farmers said."

A news item in the Omaha Sunday World-Herald: "Gene Autry is better after being kicked by a horse."

From the Tacoma Wash., Times account of the expected arrival in Japan of dependents of U. S. Army personnel: "Extensive plans for debarkation have been made to insure that the families are reunited with a maximum of confusion."

A producer in Hollywood told an actor who didn't like a script: "Don't let your opinion sway your judgment."

Discussing a new radio comic, Jack Benny remarked, "The trouble with him is that his personality comes so clearly over the dowager to public-investigator: "I It's quite a relief ponsible for what ... Washington."

Mother Dear

A college fraternity in Alabama was shut down by the school authorities when it was learned that the house-mother was 19 years old.

Mural Department Sets Voleyball, Wrestling Slate

Dorm Leaders Have Meeting Tomorrow

With hopes for renewing the fall intramural program sometime this week, the mural department yesterday announced the scheduling of two more sports, volleyball and wrestling.

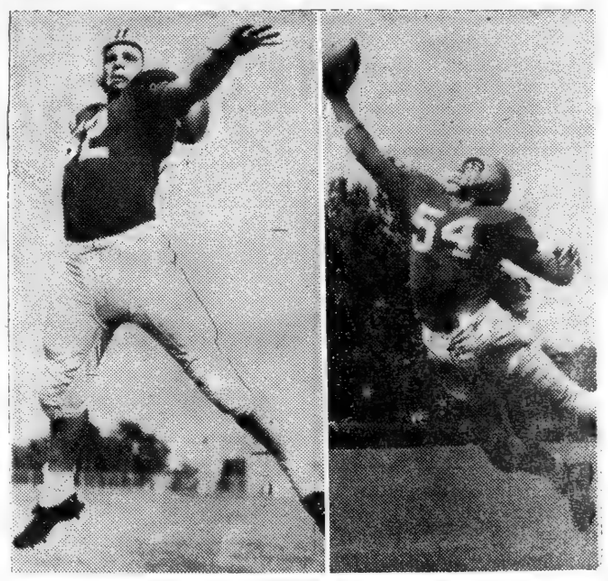
Director Walter Rabb also called for a meeting of dormitory intramural managers tomorrow night at 7:30 in room 301-A of Woollen Gym.

Although official word has not yet been given when the intramural sports can be started again, Coach Rabb was hopeful of getting the football program going sometime this week.

New Plan Possible

Because of the two week delay he said that the round robin tournament for tag football may have to be abandoned and substituted by a speedier method of determining the campus champions.

Entries will be taken until 5:00 p.m. Wednesday for the volleyball with competition scheduled to start a week from tomorrow, Oct. 20.



Team rosters must be filed with the Intramural Department when the entries are made for them to be acceptable. The tourney will be conducted on a single-elimination basis. An organization may enter any number of teams.

Wrestling Later

Wrestling will not get under way until November 3 but participants must register on Wednesday or Thursday, Oct. 29-30 between 4 and 6 o'clock.

The classes will be divided at 123, 130, 137, 147, 157, 167, 177, and unlimited pound weights. Each organization is limited to one entry per weight class.

An A medical rating is required and must be presented at the time of registration. Five points will be awarded organizations for each weight class entered and two points will be given each match won through the quarter-finals. Semi-final winners will get three points with class winners getting five.

JACK SCARBATH (left) quarterbacked his Maryland teammates to a 37-0 victory over Georgia at Athens, Ga., in the top game of the Southeast. End Art DeCarlo (right) of Georgia was unable to stem the Terrapin tide with his fine pass receiving.
—U.P. Telephoto

Dr. Lyons Answers Queries On Attitudes Of Europeans

(Continued from page 1)

prejudices of the individual, and how those Americans with whom he came into contact had behaved. Other factors enter the picture, too: the kind of propaganda to which the individual had been exposed, for example, and the concept of Americans which had thus been built up in his mind. Almost everywhere I found those who like Americans very much and those who don't like them at all, and much of the time they weren't very clear in their own minds why they felt the way they did.

3. There have been many thoughtless and unfounded accusations that the French—or the English—or the Italians are not "doing their part in the efforts of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. From all the evidence I could gather, all of the partners in the alliance are trying as best they can, and within the limits of their abilities, to carry out their commitments.

There is, naturally, fierce difference of opinion as to how far in this direction each nation can go without endangering its delicately balanced economy. But in general, I found the "man in the street" very conscious of the necessity for NATO and very willing for his country to contribute its part toward the common effort.

4. Just about everywhere in Europe one can truthfully say that there is now much less concern about the likelihood of actual conflict with Russia in the near future than there was 12 months ago. Some people explain this renewed confidence as being due to the general knowledge that NATO now has considerable trained forces ready for action; others say that Russia has too many internal troubles to risk subjecting her population to the stresses and strains of all-out war. Possibly the truth is combination of the two. Anyhow, the "war jitters" so common and so evident in Europe even as late as 1951 have pretty well subsided.

Many of those who visited Europe this past summer will disagree with me on some of the statements I have just made, but there is one thing on which I think we can all agree: never did so many Americans visit Europe in the course of one summer and never were trains, hotels, and other travel facilities so crowded. While their answers to any given question may be conflicting, we certainly cannot complain of any shortage of witnesses who were in a position to form those answers on the basis of direct obs[illegible]ation.

Tests Begin This Month

The U.S. Civil Service Commission said yesterday the 1952 junior management assistant examination will be announced the third week in October.

The positions to be filled offer an opportunity to begin a Federal career in administration and provide for training for high level executive positions. Starting salaries are of $3,410 and $4,205 a year in various Federal agencies.

Application will be accepted from students who expect to complete the required study by June 30. Those who attain eligibility in the examination w[illegible] receive offers of employment [illegible] uation.

Table Tennis Tourne,

The first of this year's table tennis tournaments to be sponsored by SUAB will begin with the opening of the entry lists tomorrow, tournament Director Tommy Sumner said yesterday.

The tournament is open to all students of the University now in residence who have not previously won a Student Union Table Tennis championship. Lists will be available in the Graham Memorial information office and the YMCA. [illegible] will close at 6 o'clock this Fr[illegible] day night and play will begin next Monday.

The schedule for play will be posted with the seedings and pairings in the GM Office at that time. The semi-final and final matches will be played on Oct. 29.

All play will be in accordance with USTTA rules as interpreted by the tournament officials.

Sports In Brief

150-Mile Stock Car Race Slated At Hillsboro Today

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel)

APPROXIMATELY 35 cars will compete at Hillsboro this afternoon in the 150-mile Grand National circuit late-model stock car race over the fast Occoneechee speedway.

Time trials start at 1 o'clock with the feature race scheduled for 2:30.

★

AT SOUTH BEND, Ind. yesterday Notre Dame athletic Director Edward (Moose) Krause lashed out at the NCAA's proposal to split football television receipts among all members.

Krause, in blasting the proposal, said the plan, which will be submitted to the members at the next annual meeting, is "immoral, illegal, un-American, and socialistic."

★

IN NEW YORK lightweight contender George Arujo put in a bid for a title fight after he had knocked out Joey Brown in the seventh round of their fight Friday night.

Arujo, who is the third-ranking contender, wants a crack at the winner of the Lauro Salas-Jimmy Carter title bout scheduled for Wednesday night in Chicago.

★

AND AT SALEM, N. H., a 123-1 shot helped bring about a $1,-633 daily double at Rockingham Park, but those who didn't have winning tickets weren't the only ones caught with their pants down.

Apprentice jockey Sam Tomarello had his nag way out front in the second race when he "felt a draft". Looking down he found his pants were down to his knees. While he bent to gather his pants and composure the 123-1 shot took over and won the race.

Said Tombarello of his action which cost him the race, "It was a choice of either being decent or winning the race."

SP

The Student Party will meet tomorrow night at 8:30 in Roland Parker Lounge, Graham Memorial. Nominations will be made for the Student Legislature.

Badminton Club

The Badminton Club will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Woollen Gym. All interested are invited. Plans are being made for matches with other Big Four schools.

Ready for a chuckle?

If there's one thing the gang at the old Intimate Bookshop like to hear more than most, it's a good chuckle. A real outright laugh, undignified and unacademic, delights our souls. That's why we gather the good humorous books like squirrels gather nuts. Here's the best of this year's crop.

Grenadine's Spawn, by Robert Ruark. Remember Grenadine Etching? Not since Forever Amber has a gal been so busy. And here's the sequel $3.00

Hopalong Freud Rides Again, by Ira Wallach. Even better than Hopalong Freud, last year's top humor seller. If this isn't required reading in your Contemporary Literature classes, that's just tough luck! $2.50

From Beowulf to Virginia Woolf —a newcomer by R. M. Myers. Like no course in English literature you've ever taken. "Few writers display so much erudition in such a tangle." May not get you through an exam, but we know lots of wolves around the campus who'll find it topcut bait $2.00

Smith's London Journal—by H. Allen Smith. A publishing epic. Now finally published from the original manuscript, for scholars with $3.00

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, by Shepherd Mead. Should be required reading for every student in the School of Business Administration. Does for the business man what "Gamesmanship" does for the tennis player—and that's plenty! $2.50

IF YOU WANT YOUR ARM TWISTED, BRING A FRIEND!

We've been broke ourselves, and if you need a laugh and are broke just now, we'll positively welcome you to a free read. No kidding.

The Intimate Bookshop

205 East Franklin Street Open Evenings

—NO—

SUNDAY DINNER OVER . . .

- 3 Veg.
- Soup
- Drink
- Dessert

$1.00

BILL'S DRIVE-IN

Carrboro Open 12 to 12 Curb Service

Breakfast Every Day

LaMarick's Cold Wave Special!

LaMarick Custom Creme Oil Cold Waves . . . Nationally famous professional permanent.

$12.50 Value

$5.95

LaMarick Deluxe Creme Oil Wave for softer, longer lasting permanent.

$15.00 Value

$6.95

LaMarick Super Deluxe Creme Oil Frigid Cold Wave . . . new, natural-looking permanent.

$25.00 Value

$9.95

MR. ANGELO IN OUR DURHAM SALON

Each Permanent Wave Includes

- Personality Hair Cut
- Shaping, Tapering, Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curls
- Oil Neutralizer
- Helene Curtis Creme Rinse
- Setting
- Free Consultation on All Work

We feature only professionally and nationally advertised products, or products by nationally known manufacturers such as Fashion-Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Breck, Clairol, Revlon, Flexa-Wave and LaMarick Frigid Cold Wave.

All permanents individually priced and opened before you. This is for your protection as our customers. Request this always in your beauty salon.

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
Phone Durham 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
Phone Raleigh 3-1726
LaMarick Shops

HAVE GAS & OIL TROUBLES??

Let Us Solve Them for You —

NOW

★ Regular Gas	28.4c
★ Premium Gas	29.4c
★ Popular Brand Oil	35c
★ Premium Grade Oil	20c
★ Prestone (permanent)	$3.75
★ Trex	$1.50

—UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT—

C. L. ROBERTS J. C. RIDDLE

HI-WAY SERVICE STATION

CARRBORO Phone 9-8422

CAMEL leads all other brands by billions of cigarettes per year!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Test CAMELS for 30 days for Mildness and Flavor

CAMELS are America's most popular cigarette. To find out why, test them as your steady smoke. Smoke only Camels for thirty days. See how rich and flavorful they are — pack after pack! See how mild CAMELS are — week after week!

What Goes On Here

Modern Dance

The Modern Dance Club will hold its organizational meeting Tuesday night at 4 o'clock in the Dance Room at Women's Gym. The group plans to present a spring dance concert and to make several trips to nearby colleges to perform.

SUAB

The Forum Committee of the Student Union Activities Board will meet tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the SUAB office. The Calendar Committee will meet at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan Club will meet in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial at 4 p.m. today.

for FLOWERS -:- for GIFTS
It's
UNIVERSITY FLORIST
"Flowers-by-Wire Worldwide"

Sentiment
Is Not OLD FASHIONED
LEDBETTER-PICKARD
"GREETING CARDS FOR EVERY OCCASION"

THE HILARIOUS NEW ADVENTURES OF THAT LOVABLE CLOWN OF CLOWNS!
He's a genius in the classroom... a RIOT on the gridiron... as he rocks the rafters of those halls of higher learning!!

Starring
MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN • EDMUND GWENN • CHARLES DRAKE
GIGI PERREAU • GENE LOCKHART and BONZO
DIRECTED BY FREDERICK de CORDOVA • SCREENPLAY BY LEO UEBERMAN and JACK HENLEY • PRODUCED BY TED RICHMOND • A Universal-International Picture
Last Times T-O-D-A-Y
Varsity

Dr. Flaten

Religious Art Authority Due Here This Week

By Tom Neal Jr.

Art—from an authoritative but religious emphasis—will be highlighted this week by Dr. Arnold W. Flaten, authority on art history and architecture from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Dr. Flaten will deliver a series of lectures in Chapel Hill, the first of which is scheduled at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. His subject there is "The Church and the Artist."

A Person Hall address in the Gallery room Thursday at 8 p.m. by Dr. Flaten will emphasize "the Art of Radiant Form." Both the church lecture and the one in Person Hall will be illustrated with color slides.

"Dostoievski and the Concept of Super-man" is the title for an informal group meeting with a YWCA organization on Friday.

Dr. Flaten did his undergraduate work at St. Olaf College, and received the B.D. degree from Luther Theological Seminary. After some five years in Lutheran parishes, Dr. Flaten did graduate work in Florence, Italy. From there, he went to Paris where he studied under M. Jean Camus and M. Robert Diaz de Sorie. After completing his formal instruction, Dr. Flaten returned to St. Olaf, where in 1932 he established the art department. He has been chairman of that department for nearly 20 years.

His work in the college art department has not laid hold on Dr. Flaten's complete time nor on his complete talent. Recently, with two assistants, he formed Northfield Architects, Inc. This group specializes in church architecture of contemporary design. They work on the assumption that "contemporary techniques and materials, if properly exploited, can be beautiful, and can form symbols much more appropriate to Christianity than any historical style." Flaten has done work in stained glass and in sculpture also.

Dr. Flaten's lectures on campus are under the auspices of the Inter-Faith Council, an inter-denominational campus organization, made up of representatives from all organized campus donominations.

Other speakers who are equipped in one field, plus a religious background of note, will be presented throughout the year by the Inter-Faith council, President Jim Haney says.

In Your Church

Baptist

The theme this quarter for Baptist Student Union meetings each Sunday evening is "Christian Faith and Life's Decisions." Two weeks ago Dr. Arnold Nash launched the series with an address, followed last week by a lecture to 100 students by Chancellor R. B. House.

Tonight, Dr. I. G. Greer will speak on "Decision for Life—Vocation." According to Alva Stewart, BSU publicity chairman, Dr. Greer, a popular speaker on and off campus, inevitably challenges the Christian to a better way of life.

Next Sunday, Dowd Davis, BSU music director, will lead students in a period of worship through great hymns. Another program which emphasizes music is scheduled for November 16.

Dr. R. L. McMullan, retired foreign misionary, will continue the series on October 26, choosing "Christian Faith and Political Decisions" as his topic. On November 2, a delegation of BSU members from Meredith College will be guests of the local organization, and the Meredith girls will present the evening program.

Other scheduled speakers include Dr. Bernard Boyd, Dr. George B. Cutten and Dr. Maurice Kidder.

Christian Science

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" is the topic today of the lesson-sermon in the Christian Science service held in New West Lecture Room.

Congregational-Christian

"Our Christian Faith" is the theme of the service at the Congregational Christian Church—a theme carried out by laymen of the church. Churchmen and their sermon topics are Albert Lovejoy, "In the Classroom"; Bill Walker, "On the Campus"; Joe Robinson, "In Business" and Dr. John Larsh, "In Scientific Research."

Lutheran

As a follow-up discussion to "Academic Freedom and You," the Lutheran Student Association discussion last week, there will be a student forum tonight on the topic, "The Time Is Now." This discussion will be moderated by Stella Delaco, and will be preseeded by a Lutheran Fellowship Supper at 6:15 and the Vespers.

Jim Haney, president of the LSA said new officers for this academic year will be elected, and he asked all Lutheran students attend.

The LST and Holy Trinity congregation will be hosts to Dr. Arnold Flaten, artist and theologian from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Lutheran Church has extended an invitation to all denominational groups to hear Dr. Flaten.

Presbyterian

Presbyterian students will have a chance to talk back to their minister tonight. The minister of the morning hour, Dr. R. J. McMullen, will be present to answer questions and to carry on discussions that are outgrowths of his morning sermon, "The Revised Standard Version of the Bible." Regular supper is served at 6 o'clock and this discussion program will begin at 7 o'clock in the Presbyterian Church Annex.

The Sunday morning study group is beginning a new plan for their meetings this morning. A light breakfast is being served in the Manse, 513 E. Franklin Street, at 9:30. Following the breakfast, the group will convene for a Bible study on "Revelations." This group will then disband early enough to attend the second worship service of the Church.

YWCA

Mrs. Arnold Nash will address the Y Cabinet on "Christian Marriage" at their regular 4 p.m. meeting.

Some 28 YWCA Committees are having organizational meetings during this week. All girls interested in serving on committees are asked to attend these first meetings.

YMCA

Y-director John Riebel was named chairman for the community-wide celebration for United Nations day by Mayor Edwin Lanier.

Riebel said yesterday he has called a meeting for all interested students for Monday at 1 p.m. Students will meet in the Y library for sandwiches and milkshakes.

Wesley Group Has Snack Before Study

Wesley Foundation Sunday School class begins at 9:45 a.m. with orange juice, cocoa, coffee, and doughnuts. The group is now studying Genesis.

At 5 p.m. the Wesley Singers meet on the second floor, directly above the lounge. They are just getting organized and invite students to lend their voices to harmony.

6 p.m.—supper and Wesley program.

8 p.m.—meeting of all interested young adults, to make plans for forming a Wesley group of Young Adults.

CLASSIFIEDS

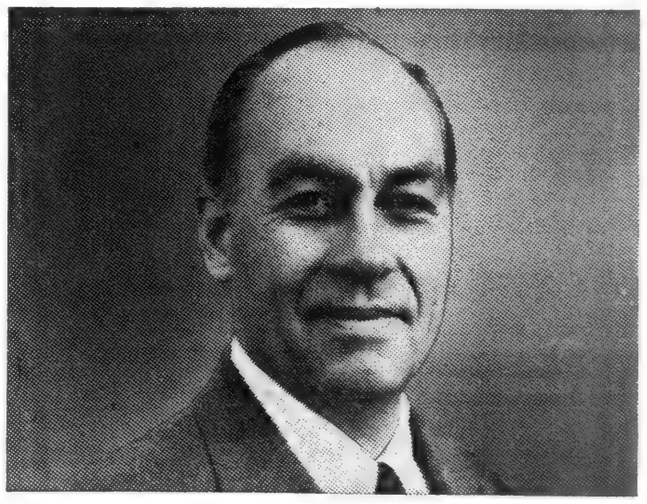
WANTED

BALLET TEACHER WANTED. PREferably for afternoon or night work. Vacancy open. State qualifications and salary. Write Box 1525, Burlington, N. C. (1-9453-6)

LOST

ONE TAN SPORT WITH GREEN Shaffer pen in pocket with Ronnie Pritchett on it. Finder contact Ronald Pritchett, 29 Old East, Phone 3-8056. (1-9456-3)

FLANNEL SUITS
$50.00
Oxford Grey & Brown
Brooks Cut
—In All Sizes—
Drop In For Yours
TODAY!!
TOWN & CAMPUS



WEEK-END SPECIAL
MORE THAN 500 USED BOOKS
MOSTLY TAKEN FROM THE 48c
SHELF, REDUCED TO ONLY
29c
SALE STARTS SATURDAY
INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. FRANKLIN ST. — Open Evenings

Also
Droopy Cartoon—News
Now Playing
Carolina

"Represents education that continues," says GEORGE GALLUP
Founder of the American Institute of Public Opinion; formerly Professor, Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia U.

"A serious weakness of the American educational system is the missing link between what we are taught in school and what we learn after leaving school. The Reader's Digest represents education that continues. It arouses and satisfies keen interest in the vital issues of the day and in varied fields of lasting knowledge."

Look at the wide range of subjects in any issue—The Reader's Digest is designed for the well-rounded individual who cultivates interests far wider than the confines of any particular field.

From the wealth of material that is published each month, the editors select those outstanding articles no thoughtful person would want to miss. Each article is condensed to present the essentials clearly, yet preserve the full content and flavor of the original.

The Reader's Digest offers a continuing liberal education for millions of men and women with alert, open minds.

★ ★ ★

In October Reader's Digest, you'll be interested in Cobalt 60—how an offshoot of A-bomb research is being used to fight cancer; Watch Out for the Weather—how its changes affect your physical and mental behavior; 29-page book condensation: Windows for the Crown Prince—an American woman's precedent-shattering experience as tutor to Japan's future Emperor.

SONJA HENIE
IN PERSON
1953 ICE REVUE
mail order for tickets
COLISEUM IN RALEIGH
WILLIAM NEAL REYNOLDS COLISEUM
N. C. State College—P. O. Box 5905
RALEIGH, N. C.
Enclosed is $.....for.....tickets at $.....each
Price: $3.00.....$2.50.....$2.00.....$1.50.....
Mon. Eve. Oct. 20 .. ☐
Tue. Eve. Oct. 21 .. ☐
Wed. Eve. Oct. 22 .. ☐
Thur. Eve. Oct. 23 .. ☐
Frid. Mat. Oct. 24 .. ☐
Frid. Eve. Oct. 24 .. ☐
Sat. Mat. Oct. 25 .. ☐
Sat. Eve. Oct. 25 .. ☐
Name .....Address .....
City .....State.....Phone No.....
FOR THE SAFE RETURN OF YOUR TICKETS PLEASE INCLUDE 25c FOR INSURANCE AND POSTAGE

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Athletics Get Into Full Swing As Polio Ban Ends

See Story on Page 3

WEATHER

Sunny and warmer with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 76; low, 47.

The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME XLI NUMBER 18 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

ONE

Harry, says Ken, is just that. See Plus Plus on page 2.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—Gen. James A. Van Fleet announced yesterday that the South Korean 9th Stay and Fight Division has won a "tremendous victory" by recapturing all territory lost in the bloody, week-long battle on White Horse Mountain. In the statement, which was made during a press conference, the 8th Army commander said that the Koreans have taken everything the Chinese 38th Army—it's one of their best—could throw at them." The victory for the South Koreans came in spite of attempts to blow a hole in their lines by frenzied Chinese suicide troops with demolition charges.

★

MOSCOW — Russia admitted yesterday its fighter planes fired on an American Superfortress which disappeared in the Far East but insisted they did so only after the B-29 violated Soviet territory and fired first. In Tokyo an Air Force spokesman said the missing American bomber which the Russians accused of firing at Soviet fighters off northern Japan carried no guns. The plane was on a routine test flight and was unarmed, the spokesman said.

★

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Campaign Manager Wilson Wyatt said yesterday Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's advisers "definitely believe we have the making of a landslide victory" for the Democrats Nov. 4. He said that he believes the South and border stated will be solidly for Stevenson.

★

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL—Dwight D. Eisenhower headed into the home stretch drive for the presidency yesterday by heading toward the Democratic South and vote—rich East. At the same time, his running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon said that he would discuss Governor Stevenson's "role in the Hiss case" last night on a nation-wide radio and television speech attacking the Democratic administration for its "shabby and shocking record" against Communism.

★

NEW YORK—A former Communist party official testified yesterday that 300 New York city school teachers were organized into a Communist "underground" in 1948 and 1949. John Lautner, once head of the party's New York State Review Commission, told a Senate subcommittee the move was part of a 'concerted effort" to revamp the party's functioning in the school system.

★

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court yesterday denied a hearing to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the husband and wife sentenced to die for giving American A-bomb secrets to Russia. The denial lets stand unchanged the conviction and death sentence of the New York City couple.

★

PHILADELPHIA—Gen. Walter B. Smith, head of the top-secret Central Intelligence Agency, testified yesterday that he knew of no Communist infiltration into U. S. government security agencies "within the United States."

★

WASHINGTON — President Truman, who just returned Sunday from a 90 speech cross-country campaign tour, announced yesterday he will make more than 30 speeches in a three-day swing through New England starting Thursday.

Again

Today and tomorrow are the last days for Juniors to have their pictures taken for the 1953 Yackety Yack.

Anybody who has good snapshots are asked to bring or send them to the Yack office. Any informal pictures which are of good quality will be used in the '53 book.

Keep Checking

Dorm Room Shortage Is Easing

There hasn't been much change in the dormitory housing shortage, but the turnover has been steady, James L. Wadsworth, housing officer said yesterday.

"Approximately 75 men are still seeking dormitory rooms and are now residing in dorm basements," Wadsworth said. "This figure could be wrong by as much as 25, one way or the other."

Wadsworth said he hoped fraternity pledging will move enough boys into fraternity houses to take care of the group now living in basements.

"We would like for the boys in the basements to keep checking with the housing officer for vacancies in dormitories," he said. "It is not always possible for us to contact the students because there are no phones and no mail deliveries."

Any room change should be made with the housing office. "In order for us to know what rooms are vacant, students should make the proper request for changes with our office," Wadsworth said.

Victory Village apartments, rented only to married students, are filled. "The apartments are already taken and we still have a waiting list," Wadsworth said.

Grad Writes Impression Of Birthday

(The following was written last year for The Daily Tar Heel by Jimmy Wallace, Carolina graduate and history instructor. We are reprinting it in connection with yesterday's 159th UNC birthday celebration because of its timeless interests.—Ed.)

By Jimmy Wallace

Some of the students hastened to South Building, anxious to get a close-up view of the ceremony. Others were attracted by the band concert. Still others saw the crowd gathering and wandered over to have a look.

The usual coffee addicts found their places on the South Building steps had been pre-emptied by the combined University Glee Clubs.

The workmen had begun the platform at 8 o'clock. Now they were gone, and the participants in the annual Founder's Day exercises kept time with the music as they waited. From the center of Polk Place, one could catch the blue of the sky, the sharp contrast of the South Building belfry as it jutted upwards into the crystalling atmosphere of the fall morning. Windows on the second and third floor were filled with onlookers, elbows on the sills, heads propped on hands.

Old-timers in the faculty, veterans of many University ceremonies, dropped by to pay their respects—and stayed until the end. On the edges of the expanding crowd, and up front too, new students beginning an adventure at the University, drank in the view, bowed their heads, listened to the solemn and well-chosen words of Chancellor House, and stood in appreciative silence as the majestic Latin of Integer Vitae echoed from the walls of the quadrangle.

The spectators and the participants were all in their youth. By the calendar, some were young, some were old, but in their minds, for this briefest of moments, they were school boys. For this tiny instant, there was unity of purpose. A University, long out of its short pants, long a center of thought and learning, drew strength once again from the simplicity and dignity which surrounded its humble origins.

A professor brushed chalkdust from his hands. A small child wandered from one person to

(See BIRTHDAY, page 4)

RESERVED TICKETS NOW ARE on sale for the Playmaker production of "Death of a Salesman." The play, scheduled for October 22-26, is the first of the major productions to be given this year by the campus acting group. Ducats may be purchased at Swain Hall of Ledbetter-Pickard. Shown in a scene are Mary Helen Crain of Durham and Donald Treat of Chapel Hill who will furnish the love interest.—Photo by Kai Jurgensen.

Deferment Tests Set For December

The SSS College Qualification test for deferment of college men will be given this year on December 4, 1952, and April 23, 1953 in Chapel Hill.

Application for the December test must be secured from a local SSS Board and mailed before November 1, 1952. The April applications deadline will be announced later. Application must be submitted before the deadline or the student cannot take the test.

Students may take the SSS CQ test once during their college career. Regardless of deferment statis for such reasons as ROTC, students should plan to take the test if they have not taken it previously. Freshmen will have opportunity for greater preparation if they take the test in April.

Passing for undergraduates is 70 and for graduates, medical and dental students 75. They are eligible to continue their studies as long as they remain in school with satisfactory grades.

The test will be given in Chapel Hill. Actual hours and place will be announced later.

$1,000 Award Offered For New Music

A $1,000 award for an original musical composition by a resident of the United States and Canada will be given through the North Carolina Symphony Society by Edward B. Benjamin of New Orleans, Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, Director of the North Carolina Symphony, said yesterday.

The award will be granted annually by Benjamin to the composer judged best by a Composers' Auditions' Committee. The committee will be selected by Dr. Swalin.

Announcement of the award was made by the Symphony Director at the annual meeting of the State Symphony Society held in the Morehead Building Sunday.

Dr. Swalin said that Mr. Benjamin is interested in having compositions submitted by eminent as well as little known composers.

Phi To Debate Status Of Coeds On Campus

The Phi Assembly will debate a bill tonight concerning the status of coeds on campus.

Included in the bill will be a four year recommendation, replacing the present two year rule, coed hours on weekends, clarification of the drinking and off limits rules and a general program to permit more extensive coed participation in campus activities.

The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the Phi Hall fourth floor, New East, and will be terminated in ample time for strict observance of the present coed hours.

Noon Program Planned Here For UN Day

Movies, Dinner Also Featured On Anniversary

Tentative plans for an October 24 United Nations Day celebration were released yesterday by Ann Blalock, student chairman.

Included in the day-long observance of the 7th Anniversary of the United Nations will be a noon day program on the steps of South Building, showing of movies in Gerrard Hall, a birthday dinner in Lenoir Hall and a special UN exhibit in the Library and YMCA lobby.

Eleven o'clock classes will be dismissed five minutes early on UN Day and the 12 o'clock classes will begin 5 minutes late in order to have enough time for the noon program, Mrs. Blalock said.

During the noon-day program at South Building, a scroll will be presented Mayor Edwin S. Lanier by a German student. The scroll was sent to Mayor Lanier from the mayor of Goetgin. A book from the Chancellor of Goetgin University will be presented to Chancellor Robert B. House.

Movies on the United Nations and UN problems will be shown in Gerrard Hall on the hour from 9 o'clock to noon, and at 4 o'clock the same afternoon. The movies will be furnished by the extension division of the University.

The birthday dinner will get underway in Lenoir Hall at 6 o'clock. Students from nation represented at the University will be present. Education exhibits consisting of literature and flags will be shown in the Library and the Y lobby.

John Riebel, associate secretary of the YMCA, is general chairman of the program for Chapel Hill. He recently was appointed to this post by Mayor Lanier.

Other committee members include Dr. Frederick Cleveland, chairman of the noon program; Dwight Ryan, chairman of the movie program; John McLendon, chairman of the evening supper program, and Nancy Shand, chairman of the education exhibits.

New Hospital Opens Out Patient Dept.

The out patient department of the new North Carolina Memorial Hospital opened up in permanent quarters and is ready to receive its full quota of patients.

Purpose of the new department is to receive patients whose financial circumstances do not permit them to pay professional fees. Those who are certified as being medically indigent by a county welfare board will be examined without charge.

Rep. John Umstead To Speak Thursday Before YDC Rally

JOHN W. UMSTEAD

By Dave Buckner

Rep. John W. Umstead, veteran Orange County legislator, will be featured speaker for a Young Democrats Club rally here Thursday evening.

The rally will be staged at 5 p.m. on the lawn in front of Graham Memorial, YDC President John Sanders said yesterday. In case of rain the site will be Gerrard Hall.

A brother of the Democratic nominee for Governor, Umstead is one of the most colorful figures in the N. C. General Assembly. From his seat in the back row of the House, the representative has been a champion of progressive legislation, notably in the field of education. He directed the 1943 battle for the nine month school term.

Known for years as a close friend and champion of the University, from which he graduated in 1908, Umstead has been a Board of Trustees member since 1939 and on the board's Executive Committee since 1946. He is also on the Executive Committee of the UNC General Alumni Association.

During his undergraduate days at Carolina, Umstead roomed with Frank Porter Graham, who was later to become first president of the Consolidated University. He has a son named after the North Carolina educator.

Umstead first went to the State legislature in 1931 as representative of the sixteenth district. In 1939 he ran again and was elected. Defeated in 1940, he returned in 1941 and has not been defeated since.

He is vice-chairman of the State Hospital Board of Control and was prominent in the drive to convert Camp Butner from a training base into a mental and alcoholic institution. Umstead also was instrumental in setting up the successful Butner Youth Center, an unguarded correction camp for youthful first offenders.

Potent Pill May Control Conception

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

NEW YORK, Oct 13—A birth control pill has been developed by a Boston physician who claimed almost 100 percent success. The pill is taken after each meal.

Dr. Benjamin F. Sieve said fertility was prevented in 298 of 300 cases. He said the two couples who failed the experiment did not follow directions.

The pills were taken after each meal by both husband and wife. Dr. Sieve said that 10 days are required before the medication becomes effective. Fertility can be restored in 48 hours, he added.

Fertility is prevented by the forming of a "tissue cement" about the ovum. The pill contained phosphorylated hesperidin, a derivitive of citrus fruit rinds. It may be produced at low cost.

Dr. Sieve's findings were published in a 13-page article in "Science," a technical weekly. The article cautioned that it was "too early to judge the pills as a positive contraceptive."

Jaycees Start 'Scotchlite' Safety Drive

The Jaycees have started a "Light-A-Bumper" Safety program here by setting up stations over the town to sell Scotchlite reflectorized tape strips for automobiles.

After the campaign is completed for automobiles in the town the club will put this light-red night - vision tape on all school children's bicycles free of charge. All over the country the Junior Chamber of Commerce is now carrying out this project as a combination safety and fund raising project.

In North Carolina the Jaycees have a statewide franchise for this material and started distribution of it this month. Cass Johnson, local insurance man, has been appointed chairman of the project here.

Jaycees will be on hand at service stations and grocery store parking lots over the community Saturday morning and afternoon to place the adhesive surface tape on auto bumpers—both front and rear if desired.

Scientific surveys have shown that cars having this attractive one-inch strip across their bumpers are 75 per cent easier to see at night while traveling on the highway. The non-glare reflective tape can be seen from as far away as a half mile and has been

(See SAFETY, page 3)

Tickets For Film Series Still On Sale

Deadline for purchasing tickets to the art film series has been extended to Thursday night, SUAB Chairman Ken Penegar said yesterday.

A French movie, "Jennie Lamour", with Louis Jouvet and Suzy Delair will be shown Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. The film, which is directed by Henri-Georges Clouzot, was awarded grand prize at the Venice Film Festival.

Tickets for the film series cost $1 and include admission to four outstanding films to be shown this quarter. Plans are underway now to schedule movies for the winter quarter series, Penegar said. Any suggestions or criticisms from the student body on film selections are welcomed by the committee, Penegar added.

"The Magic Horse," a Russian color cartoon, will be shown October 23. It is the story of a little boy and his tiny horse with magical powers.

Deadline

A date was set yesterday for all political parties and nonpartisan groups to have nominations in for fall elections.

Elections Board Chairman Jerry Cook said the deadline is 6 p.m. Thursday, November 6. The nominations will not be accepted unless accompanied with grade qualifications verified by the Dean of Students Office, Cook said.

Designed To Prod The Reader

Students Skeptical Of Religion Prompt Law Professor's Book

By Tom Parramore

Fellow students who were "discarding their religion because they thought science had shown religion to be untrue" finally led a lawyer to write a book called "You Can Believe."

The lawyer is Dr. Frank W. Hanft of the University's Law School faculty. He started thinking on the matter years ago when attending the University of Minnesota.

"The central idea was simply to examine the Christian religion from the standpoint of whatever truth there was in it," said Dr. Hanft. In going about this the UNC professor discusses in various chapters "The Case for Atheism," "The Magnatude of God," "Materialism," "The Bible" and other topics designed to prod the reader into finding for himself the ultimate goal of Christianity and God.

"You Can Believe" is taken from a series of public lectures given in 1947 and 1948 by Dr. Hanft in which he tried to stimulate his audiences into "thinking and possibly digging out new truths." Seven years ago when Dr. Hanft began teaching the Young Adults' Class at the Methodist Church, he began to expound his views on religion and reality. A committee of young adults asked him for some lectures on the topic and he responded with the series which led to the writing of his book.

The Intimate Bookshop has had a large demand for its stock of "You Can Believe" and is now waiting for the arrival of its third order. Mrs. Charles A. Valentine, manager of the Bull's Head Bookshop said that its first two orders were sold or rented out almost immediately. A third order also has been placed with the publishers.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

Assoc. Ed. — Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. — Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Delaine Bradsher
Natl. Adv. Mgr. — Wallace Pridgen
News Ed. — Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Ned Beeker

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Shull, Joyce Jowdy, Judy Taylor.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Letter From The Editors

Dear University,

We want to wish you a happy birthday.

Though you were 159 years old Sunday, you don't look a day over 50 with all your new buildings and students, and we must admit that you have kept your mind up-to-date.

Yes, your father, William R. Davie, would certainly be proud of you if he could see you today. You didn't sit around on that cornerstone he gave you. You made the most of every brick.

You have 5,500 children here now trying to learn from you how to make the most of what we've got. We hope you'll forgive us if we stumble along your paths or sit too long sunning ourselves in your Y-courtyard, but maybe you've spoiled us a little bit. You've given us so many things—dozens of big houses, acres of trees and flowers, millions of books to read, and a tremendous staff or people to show us how to read them. Sometimes we don't let all of your wisdom to go to our heads, but we want you to know that we appreciate all you're doing for us.

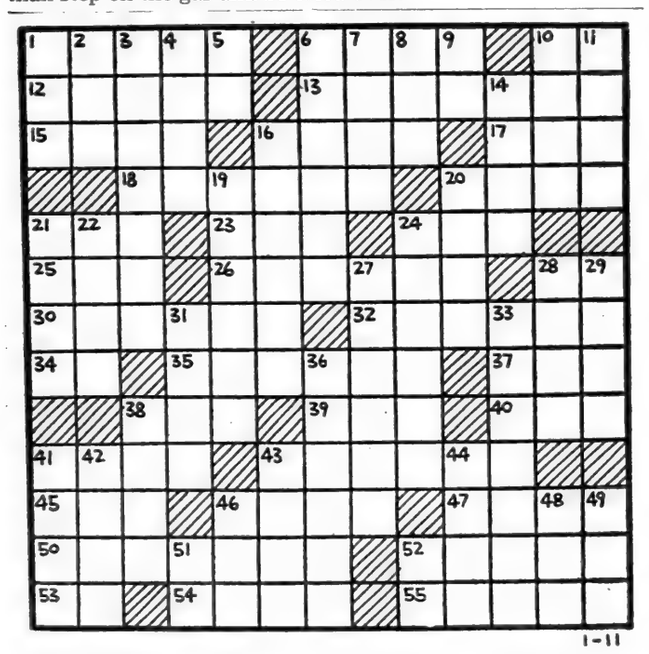
We also want to wish you many happy returns of the day—returns on some of the knowledge and ideals you have invested in us. We'd like for you to see these dividends in the form of intelligent people who know how to get along with each other, who don't get mad if you want to call a spade a hoe; people who won't dig up our government with ignorance.

In other words, we'd like to see you collect more than pennies for your thoughts. And may you celebrate your birthday until all the candles in the world are blown out.

Dear University
Thy sons right loyally
Thy praises sing.
For thee, our Mother dear
May every coming year
Fresh-crowned with joy appear,
Fresh honors bring.
Heaven blessed the genial ray
Of that October day,
When at thy shrine,
Under the poplar shade,
Their vows our fathers paid,
Thy cornerstone they laid
With rites divine.

B. B.

Proceed With Caution

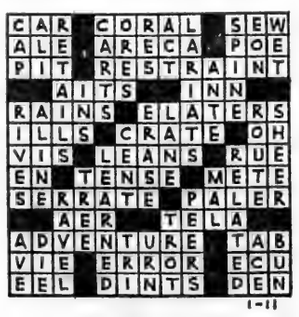


The reckless driving situation in Chapel Hill has progressed from a joke to an annoyance to a menace.

The danger is complicated by traffic lights at crucial intersections which blink an ambiguous amber on all sides after midnight.

We're prompted to revive the shocking cliche which shows that more deaths occur on American highways every year than on the firing lines in Korea.

Two Carolina students were killed last year in traffic accidents. A dozen or more have been injured this fall since registration day.



Why rush? Better to step on the brakes and be laughed at than step on the gas and be cried over.

HORIZONTAL
1. madden
6. moist
10. hypothetical force
12. brother of Moses
13. event
15. check
16. lost blood
17. by way of
18. blasted
20. sell
21. Hawaiian garland
23. ignited
24. evergreen tree
25. eagle
26. standards of action
28. symbol for barium
30. inciting
32. primer
34. toward
35. South American monkey (var.)
37. female ruff
38. guided
39. insect
40. Greek letter
41. avow
43. California
46. Portuguese coins
47. Biblical character
50. beg
52. genus of palms
53. symbol for neon
54. mythical king
55. South American mountains

VERTICAL
1. vehicle
2. Scottish explorer
3. getting up
4. city postal district
5. printer's measure
6. cancel
7. imitated
8. among (poet.)
9. letter addendum (abbr.)
10. god of war
11. extinct
14. above
16. raised support
19. straightened
20. official passport endorsement
21. ancient English court
22. therefore
24. groups of naval vessels
27. fields of combat
28. root vegetable
29. space
31. Roman road
33. anticipated with horror
36. island of Society group
38. penitential season
41. so be it
42. weathercock
43. close hermetically
44. mountain stream
46. steep flax
48. high card
49. possesses
51. sun god

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

Ham Horton — Presidential Memo

The "advising" system in General College is misnamed. As much as the adviser himself would like to know his advisees and help them in making those decisions which are all important to them, he cannot "advise" anyone adequately as long as he is so overloaded that he can allot only one or two minutes to each student when the student most needs to be advised—during the registration and drop-add period.

A more accurate name might be the "Gambler's-Luck System". The poor freshman or sophomore is faced with this situation when he sits down opposite his adviser, who he may or may not vaguely recognize, and who is almost certain not to recognize him. He has $89 worth of tuition to be invested by his adviser, who has no idea of his aspirations and abilities. Usually 20 to 30 people are in line to see this adviser so he feels from the moment he introduces himself, hurried. If he lays himself at the mercy of his adviser he has no time to explain the type course he prefers and can only nod mechanically as the adviser quite as mechanically recites a group of subjects that fiill the necessary requirements of his course of study.

Is it any wonder that most students soon learn to choose their own courses before they enter the advisers office and simply ask the adviser to o.k. it? They have already learned that to ask advice from an adviser risks often a faint look of arrogance as the poor man hurries to run through his immense number of advisees.

The situation is most certainly not the fault of the advisers. These men are carefully and well chosen for their jobs. They are the first to admit that they are not able to advise the student as they would prefer to because of the pressure, time and the sheer impossibility of knowing intimately from 209 to 312 students.

It is a tribute to these men that they have against almost insurmountable odds managed to give as personalized and sympathetic a job as they have done and that more mistakes have not been made in the mass production basis on which they are proud to operate. We owe it to the devotion of these six men to the task that the situation is no worse.

Nor can the blame be lodged against the office of the General College. Surely no office in South Building is more genuinely dedicated to the welfare of the student body than is the General College.

At any rate, instead of blaming anyone, it behooves us, if we stand to complain, to offer a solution to the problem. And this, after much consideration, we are now prepared to do.

Our sine qua non fundamental principle is that a University professors job does not end in the classroom. The faculty certainly recognizes this and one uniform in their insistance on a personal level between students and teachers. They almost unanimously lament this relationship in the larger schools. It is important for them to keep in touch with the students as for the students to have mature and intelligent guidance for their first two years.

Therefore would not one solution to our problem be for each faculty member from the rank of professor up, to accept as part of his teaching duties the advising of perhaps a half dozen or less general college students? This would not be particularly time consuming and would provide a mutually beneficial closer relationship.

That is our proposal: It undoubtedly needs revisions and more study. But at least it offers a basis from which to start. And we should start now to change the "advisory" system in general

"Let us know when you want to talk to us."

Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON.—Having focused some attention on the finances of Senator Nixon, the GOP vice-presidential candidate, here is a report on the finances of the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

In 1942, Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, then a member of the House of Representatives, telephoned this column to say:

"You have been writing up members of Congress who put their wives on the payroll. I've never had Mrs. Sparkman on my payroll yet, but I'm about to put her on. She's going to be a real working member of the staff, and anytime you drop around the office, you'll find her there. If that's a story make the most of it."

This column has frequently called attention to relatives of congressmen carried on the public payroll who merely draw a salary but do not work. Likewise this column has been careful to point to family members who performed real jobs for congressmen—among them Mrs. Irving Ives, wife of the Republican senator from New York, who works in his office and works hard.

Another was Arthur Vandenberg, Jr., son of the late Republican senator from Michigan. It would have been difficult for Senator Vandenburg to have accomplished what he did without his son's help. Likewise Vice President Jack Garner kept his wife on the payroll and she earned every penny she got.

However, in keeping with the healthy policy of dissecting the financial affairs of candidates, here is a scrutiny of Senator Sparkman's income.

His income taxes, already made public for the past eight years, show that in 1944 he grossed $9,493.52 before taxes. This climbed to $13,005.47 in 1951, and the average income was around $11,000—all before taxes. Against this, Sparkman paid an average tax of about $2,300 a year.

The Senator's income, chiefly his congressional salary, was augmented by rent of $75 a month on a six-room bungalow in Huntsville, Ala., plus rent of $400 a year on a 160-acre farm near Huntsville.

During his sixteen years in Congress he has made a total of $2,000 on lecture fees and $950 from two magazine articles. His wife receives a base salary of $4,500, which with overtime comes to around $6,500. She is also a 49 per cent owner of radio station WAVU at Albertville, Ala., the other owner being the husband of the Senator's niece.

Senator Sparkman's capital investments include: $50,000 in life insurance; about $20,000 in government bonds; about $10,000 in investment certificates; $675 of stock in a vending-machine company that sells insurance at airports; and a $35,000 home in Washington.

Sparkman bought his Washington home in 1947, paying $15,000 in cash, by converting government bonds. He took a mortgage of $20,000, of which about one-half has been paid off.

Sparkman began life as the son of a tenant farmer in Alabama, and it was always his ambition to own a farm. He now owns what he describes as a rather run-down farm, but says he is trying to build it up.

The Senator has a savings account in Huntsville, Ala., of $3,000 and a checking account in Washington of about $1,000 plus a 1950 Buick and a 1946 Chevrolet.

Asked whether he found it difficult to live on a senator's income, Sparkman replied: "It isn't easy, but you can do it all right, and I know plenty of members of Congress who do it.

"I made it a practice to save ten per cent of my income every year, and while I don't always do it, I usually come pretty close."

Asked whether he sent out Christmas cards (Senator Nixon sent out 25,000), Sparkman said that unfortunately he didn't. He said he didn't want to reflect on anyone else who sent them out and that sometimes he felt kind of sheepish at not being able to reciprocate when he received so many nice cards from others at Christmas time.

The Senator said he did not use all of the money allotted him by Congress to run his office, but turned part of it back to the treasury. Of the $98,000 given him to run the Senate Small Business Committee, of which he is chairman, he also turned back around $15,000.

On June 1, 1946, this column, in reporting how Senators Thomas of Oklahoma and Bankhead of Alabama had speculated in the cotton market on the basis of government information, also reported the following under the heading "Honest John Sparkman."

"Lunching with friends, House majority whip John Sparkman of Huntsville, Alabama, was discussing the question of campaign aid to members of Congress. Sparkman mentioned several instances where he had turned down offers of money from constituents whom he had helped in Washington and who wanted to contribute to his campaign fund as a return favor.

"On one occasion, Sparkman said, he studied his bank statement and thought he discovered an error of $500 in his favor. Upon querying the bank, he learned that a constituent had deposited the $500 to Sparkman's account. The congressman had introduced a bill by which the constituent was paid $5,000 when an army truck killed a member of the constituent's family.

"Sparkman wrote the bank that prosecution of the claim was his duty as a member of Congress, and explained that he could not accept the $500 for simply doing the job to which he had been elected. He sent a copy to his would-be benefactor, with a personal note of thanks.

"The bank transferred the $500 back to the account of the constituent and sent Sparkman a new statement. Scrawled across the new statement in bold letters was this comment:

"'Diogenes, put out your lamp!'"

This column was dated June 1, 1946, long before Sparkman was ever considered for the vice-presidency.

NOTE—The Republican Na-

(See PEARSON, page 3)

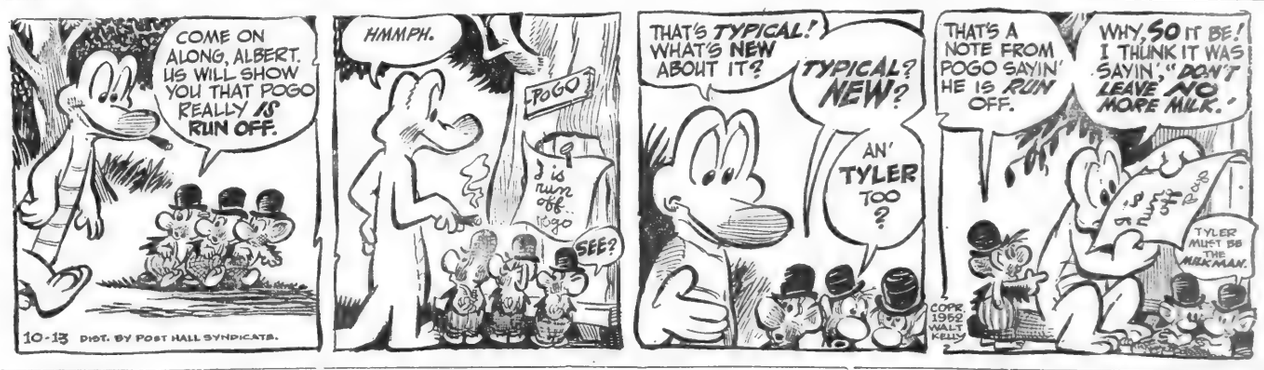
Ken Myers — PLUS PLUS

Milling about in the cesspool of my society, I cannot help but notice the utter ignorance of some of its members. Harry Snook is one of those persons . . . the kind of a man who makes false accusations and tries to back them up by, what he calls, "facts." In his last article, for instance, he lambasted the Men's Honor Council with statements that would make a person who knew the real facts either fall to the floor with laughter, or get so mad that he wants to write an article for The Daily Tar Heel. I'm one of the latter kind, as I do not want the students to believe that Mr. Snook has given you factual reading matter. I don't really think that Harry himself believes what he wrote.



The Men's Honor Council here at Carolina is set up as part of the student government program to give the student who has violated the campus Honor Code a chance to be heard by his fellow student. The members of the Council know and understand student problems and can see their fellow student's viewpoint, because they, too, have been faced with the same problems. The Council operates by a set codification of offenses and penalties, and an established procedure is used to try all cases.

In the majority of other colleges throughout the United States, when a student is found guilty of cheating, he is expelled from school by the faculty and is never allowed to return. Here at Carolina, when a student is suspended, he is almost always allowed to return to school after a short period of time; very rarely is a student expelled with the stipulation that he cannot return . . . if this does happen, it means that the student had been found guilty of cheating on two previous occasions. The Faculty Council always has a right to overrule a decision of the Men's Council, but to this day, they have not done so. I doubt if Mr. Snook knew a Faculty Council existed. Also, the "black mark" that Mr. Snook speaks of is erased from the student's transcript when he is admitted back into school. In this manner, no other college, no Med School or Law School, no employer will ever know, unless the student himself chooses to tell them, that he was suspended from school. The only people that have a record of violations is the central records office in South Bldg. and the Men's Council. These records are not for public use. As far as secrecy is concerned, the Council "browbeats" no one into not telling about his appearance before the Council. He is welcome to tell the whole world if he wants; the only people who are pledged not to repeat cases outside the Council room are the Council members themselves.

Mr. Snook's accusation that a student cannot be represented by council or friend is totally false. Any person accused of a violation is allowed to have anyone speak on his behalf . . . an attorney, his friend, his professor, ten attorneys, any number of people. A member of the Council, however, cannot speak on anyone's behalf . . . the Council merely judges the validity of the facts presented, and reaches a conclusion from these facts. Their decision, as I said before, is not final. The student is entitled to a new trial if his constitutional rights were violated, and he can appeal his case ultimately to the faculty.

Finally, Mr. Snook said that the Council can try a person accused of a crime far from Chapel Hill. This is not so . . . The Men's Council only has jurisdiction over students when they are in Chapel Hill.

These are the simple facts. I do not hold any personal grudge against Mr. Snook for writing what he did. He was just misinformed about an important part of student government at Carolina. In the future, I wish he would not write articles until he has compiled the true facts about his subject matter.

Ban On Carolina Athletics Is Lifted By Physicians

On Other Fronts

Some Changes Made

Dick Herbert in the Raleigh News and Observer, concerning Wake Forest's 20-0 loss to Villanova Saturday.

"ABOUT THE POROUS quality of the anti-aircraft (the Wake Forest pass defense) Rogers (Deac coach Tom Rogers) was alarmed. 'We have to do something,' he admitted, 'and do it quick. Some changes have to be made. We weren't very good on pass defense last year and are worse this season. We work and work, but in every game we permit the opposition to get a man far into the clear.'

"The Wake Forest coach believes his big line can handle the running attacks of the opposition. He thought, with one exception, it did all right in this department against Villanova. 'Take away that 44-yard touchdown run by Filipski,' he said, 'and the line didn't do so badly.' . . .

"Offensively Rogers thought his team moved the ball well in the middle of the field but lacked passing finese in scoring territory. Quarterback Sonny George was off on his marksmanship on long passes and had four intercepted. One of those wasn't his fault, though, for the ball struck the umpire on the back and bounded into the hands of a Villanova lineman. . . .

"Against the big Villanova line the Deacons couldn't break their backs into the clear for long runs. With the passing attack unable to produce big gains the Wake offense couldn't match the all-round striking power of the unbeaten. . . ."

The Barger Bargain

Jack Horner in the Durham Morning Herald concerning Jerry Barger and the role he played in Duke's 33-7 victory over South Carolina Saturday.

"THE COCKY LITTLE fellow, who simply oozes confidence, promptly sparked the Blue Devils to three more touchdowns, scoring one himself on a brilliantly-executed option play which covered 18 yards.

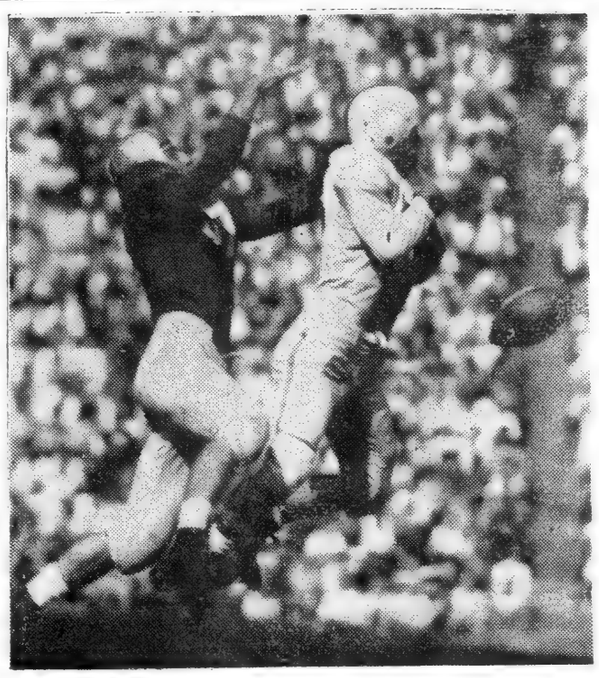
"Barger is one of the best option play operators in college football today. Coach Murray says the kid is the best he has ever seen on the pitch-or-keep play.

"On this particular play, the quarterback dances down the line of scrimmage behind his defenders, fakes a pitch out to a teammate and keeps the ball himself.

"Barger exploded right through the middle of the South Carolina team for 18 yards and Duke's last touchdown. It was a honey.

"Besides doing a masterful ball-handling job, Barger reeled off 46 yards in 10 keep plays.

"It's mighty nice to know the Salisbury boy hasn't gone stale after hurting both legs, one last November and the other in early fall drills, and losing his starting position to Lutz."



An Offensive Defensive

Smith Barrier discussing N. C. State's 28-6 win over Davidson Saturday with Wolfpack Coach Horace Hendrickson.

"HENDRICKSON ADDED: 'Our defense stopped them cold and won the ball game. That's the big difference in football today, the defense. It can give the offense the ball at midfield and a chance to score, or it can do like ours in two games . . . with our back to the goal and the whole distance of the field to move the ball. Against Davidson it was different. For three quarters they were able to do little with the ball.'

"Davidson got eight yards rushing the first half, made one first down in the second quarter, one in the third quarter.

"'That defensive bunch did a great job,' the coach continued, 'and we had two freshmen in that backfield, too. Ted Kilyk was suppose to be our safety at the start, but he was hurt. He got in there Saturday and one play he tackled a man at the line of scrimmage and knocked himself out. He played no more. But I've got a special word for Harold Brown, a 22-year-old ex-serviceman from Lexington. He asked us if he could come out for the squad. That was last Thursday or so. He worked all week and was at defensive halfback. He made every tackle on the outside and intercepted two passes. Just a gift."

THIS IS ONE OF the few times Maryland did wrong in its game with Georgia Saturday. Bernie Faloney (38) is going up in the air here to intercept a long Zeke Bratkowski pass to Gene White (57), but the ball bounced off his chest and fell incomplete. Maryland muzzled the Bulldogs, 37-0.—UP Telephoto.

Murals Re-Open Tomorrow With Fraternity Grid Play

The Intramural football season will begin tomorrow, after a weeks postponement due to the polio epidemic, with 10 games scheduled in the fraternity division.

Last night the Dorm Intramural Managers had a meeting and decided to begin the dorm season on Thursday afternoon. Both divisions are expecting another successful season, each having a large number of teams to participate in the popular sport.

The schedule is slated so that each team will play every other member of its league. As usual the top teams in the leagues will play in a tournament at the end of the season.

Tomorrow's schedule:

4:00—Field 1, Pi Lamb vs. Theta Chi; Field 2, TEP vs. ZBT; Field 3, KA vs. Pi Kap Phi; Field 4, Chi Psi 2 vs. Phi Delt 2; Field 5, SPE vs. Sigma Chi 2.

5:00—Field 1, Chi Phi vs. Phi Delta Chi; Field 2, Zete 2 vs. Beta 2; Field 3, Phi Delt 1 vs. DKE 2; Field 4, Chi Psi 1 vs. Phi Gam 1; Field 5, Delta Psi vs. SAE 2.

CHESS CLUB

Kit Crittenden, North Carolina and Southern Intercollegiate chess champion, will give a simultaneous chess exhibition at 7:45 tonight in room 301-B of Woollen Gym. All those who are interested are cordially invited. Chess sets will be provided, but if you have a set, bring it along.

—Pearson—

(continued from page 2)

tional Committee has sent a special investigator to Alabama to probe the complete background and past life of Senator Sparkman. He has interviewed the Alabama gambling fraternity along the gulf and Phil Kastel in New Orleans, former partner of Frankie Costello. So far, he hasn't come up with anything.

Two Patients Get Release At Infirmary

By Tom Peacock

The University announced yesterday that all athletics have been resumed and that the Carolina athletic situation is back to absolute normalcy.

The football team went through a hard practice with full uniform yesterday for the first time in almost two weeks. Intramurals and all other phases of athletics have been resumed.

Students Released

Two Carolina students that contracted the polio the cause for the shutdown of the athletic plant—have been released from the University infirmary. Bull Davidson, the first football player to be afflicted and the direct cause of the shutdown, will be released within the next three days.

The football team has been working out for an hour a day in sweat clothes, and has done much to improve its split-T formation. But the cancellation of both the Georgia and State games has deprived the Tar Heels of sorely needed game experience. Carolina hasn't played since it lost its opener to Texas, 28-7.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets for this Saturday's game with Wake Forest here in Chapel Hill are on sale at Woollen Gym. Now that the uncertainty of the situation is over, tickets for the Big Four grudge clash are expected to sell rapidly.

Carolina will be out to avenge a 39-7 licking that the Deacons handed it last year at Wake Forest. The Deacs have looked impressive in four games so far this year, but have won only one. Baylor squeezed past Wake Forest, 17-14, the Deacs beat William and Mary, tied Boston College, and rugged Villanova defeated Wake Forest, 20-0 Saturday.

The Tar Heels have a lot of kinks to iron out of their split-T, and hard scrimmage will be strange to them after the 10-day layoff. The team should have a full head of steam by Wednesday, and then will start tapering off on Thursday.

The quarterback slot is still the big question mark on the team, with freshman Marshall Newman being the outstanding candidate at present. Newman went into the Texas game late in the fourth quarter and passed for the only Tar Heel touchdown. Charlie Motta, who ran first string in preseason practice, was hurt for the Texas game but is in good shape now and will be ready to go.

Date Ducats

Approximately 1000 date tickets, which allow Carolina students to sit with imported dates in the student section, remain for the Wake Forest game here Saturday, Vernon Crook, ticket manager, said yesterday.

These tickets must be applied for at the ticket office in Woollen Gym by 4:30 p.m. Friday, Crook added. There will be no exchanges made Saturday morning.

Crook also advised students that Identification Cards will be checked at the student gates Saturday. Any students who do not have their ID cards now should make some arrangements for temporary identification.

—Safety—

(Continued from page 1)

termed a great help to drivers in calculating the distance, speed, and width of both oncoming cars and vehicles in front of the driver.

A five-foot strip will be placed across the bumper of anyone's car for $1. All proceeds from the project will go into the Jaycees youth welfare and recreation fund, presently being used for the construction of the road to the Eastwood Lake Cabin which will be used for youth activities. A number of taxicabs and public vehicles in town already have had this material put on the automobiles.

Table Tennis Entries Open

Entries for the year's first table tennis tournament opened yesterday. Entries for the tourney, which is sponsored by SUAB, will be accepted until Oct. 17.

Tournament play begins on Oct. 20, with the finals slated for Oct. 29.

All students now in residence at the University who have not previously won a Student Union Table Tennis championship are eligible for the tourney. Entry lists are available in the information office of Graham Memorial or at the YMCA. The schedule for play along with the seedings and the pairings will also be posted at the Graham Memorial office.

The tourney will be played according to the USTTA rules as they are interpreted by the tournament officials.

Our IMPRINTED CHRISTMAS CARD CATALOGUES ARE HERE.

American Artist, Designers and Illustrators, Hand Print Cards. The early bird gets the choice.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

If you pay around $45 to $50 for your suits—Why not get a better one from

The Sport Shop

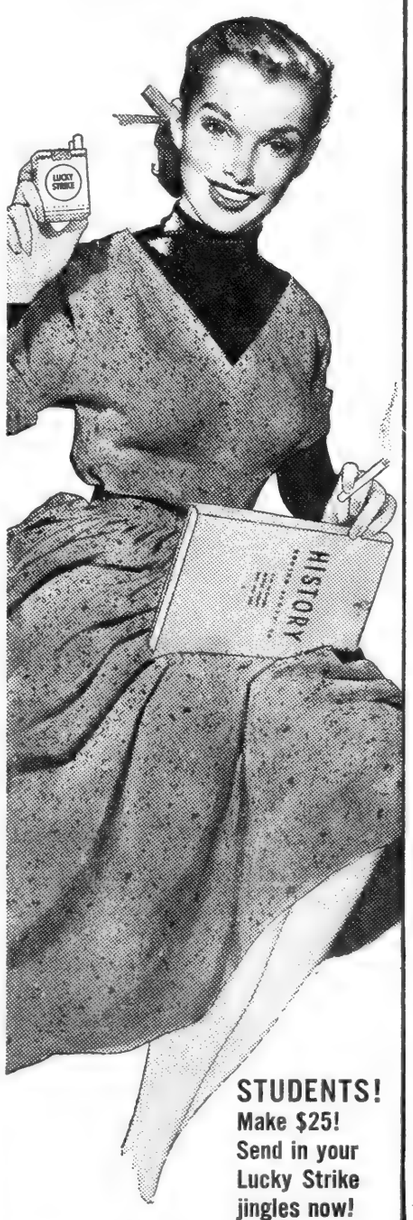
Superbly Hand-Crafted

FLANNELS

Practically indispensable for Autumn wear and preferred by successful men throughout the country—luxurious lightweight flannels, skillfully cut and needled to THE SPORT SHOP specifications with all the finish and fashion authority acquired through years of experience.

$45-$50

Bills Mailed Home



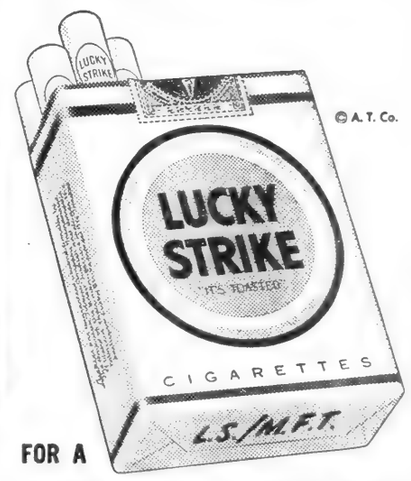
THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Last Times
T-O-D-A-Y
Varsity

Some of us like history—
And some of us like psych,
But we all like the better taste
Of good old Lucky Strike!

Marguerite Ullmann
City College of New York

STUDENTS!
Make $25!
Send in your Lucky Strike jingles now!



PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company
AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

BULLETIN!

College students prefer Luckies in nation-wide survey!

A nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals that more smokers in these colleges prefer Luckies than any other cigarette—and by a wide margin. The No. 1 reason given for smoking Luckies? Luckies' better taste. What's more, this same survey shows that Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.

Yes... LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

FOR A CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER SMOKE

Be Happy- GO LUCKY!

When you've a date and stay out late
Her father may appear
But offer him a Lucky Strike
And you need have no fear.

David L. Norton
Washington University '52

Brave Caesar had a thrilling life
Was cheered and feared alike—
But Caesar never had the thrill
Of tasting Lucky Strike!

Anthony R. Black
Notre Dame

SPECIAL!!
Limited Time Only...
Skipper Blue Flannel Sport Coats . . .
All Wool
Reduced To
$23.99
WOMEN'S
Cashmere Sweater Selections Are Now Complete
Bills Mailed Home
Milton's Clothing Cupboard

Drill Team To Perform At State Fair

The Crack Drill Team of the NROTC unit will appear in two public performances this week.

Tonight the team will help open the State Fair in Raleigh with a demonstration in the new amphitheater at 8 o'clock. On Saturday the team will perform again before football fans at the Carolina-Wake Forest game. This appearance will be part of the pre-game ceremonies.

These two performances will be the first showing of the drill team during the current school year.

Leading the drill team is midshipman Walter T. Porter of Emerson. He is assisted by Joseph W. Burrell, guide; Earle Litsenberger, Julian Rountree, Jr., and E. W. V. Webster squadleaders. The team is under the command of Maj. F. C. Caldwell, USMC.

The 45-0 grid win of U of Miami over V.M.I. Sept. 26 gave the Hurricanes two shut out wins in a row for the first time since a four game shutout string back in 1941. Miami's other shutout victim in the current string was Clemson, blanked 14-0 in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville New Years.

GENERAL EISENHOWER (LEFT) LENDS AN EAR to Screen Actress Rosalind Russell as she encourages him to keep up the fight after she boarded the special Eisenhower train to see him off. At right, Sen. Thomas Henning gives Governor Stevenson a pat on the back as he makes introductions at a huge rally in St. Louis.—UP Telephoto.

Chaplains' Posts Open In Air Force

It is now possible to receive a commisison in the Air Force as a chaplain by participating in the AF ROTC program.

In order to meet requirements for qualified chaplains, the Air Force is offering graduates of the ROTC program the opportunity to continue training until they meet Air Force theological standards and complete ecclesiastical requirements.

The applicant for training in the chaplain field will be commissioned Second Lieutenant in the Air Force reserve upon completion of the AF ROTC course of study. His active duty service will be delayed until he completes theological training, at which time he will be promoted to First Lieutenant and may apply for active duty.

Complete details of the Air Force program to secure chaplains may be secured at the AF ROTC office here.

—Birthday—

(Continued from page 1)
another. As the Playmakers reenacted the ancient rites of Free Masonry, testing the cornerstone and seeing that it was of good material and true, the cling of a trowel against bricks was a reminder that the quadrangle is being completed, that the University is still building. As the crowd gathered around Davie Poplar, sang "Hark The Sound" in the quiet enclosure of McCorkle Place, it seemed that 159 years is but a short time.

Academic Freedom Subject Of Contest

A $5,000 college essay contest on "The Meaning of Academic Freedom" is open for receipt of entries.

The National Council of Jewish Women is sponsoring the contest. The cash awards include first prize, $2,500; second, $1,000; third, fourth and fifth, $500 each.

Any senior is eligible to enter. The essays should discuss the significance of academic freedom, its responsibilities and the writer's views of freedom of the college campus.

Entries must be not more than 2,500 words, in the English language, typewritten, double-spaced, on one side of paper. Name and address must not appear on the manuscript but on a printed certificate of authorship, enclosed in an envelope clipped to the entry. These certificates are obtainable from college authorities or by writing to the contest headquarters.

The judges are Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas; Ralph Bunche, director, Trusteeship Division of the UN; Mrs. Douglas Horton, former president of Wellesley College; Abram L. Sacher, president of Brandeis University; Thurman W. Arnold, former Associate Justice, U. S. Court of Appeals.

Entries must be sent by mail to Essay Contest, National Council of Jewish Women, One West 47th Street, New York 36, New York. All manuscripts become the property of the National Council of Jewish Women. Entries must be postmarked before midnight of December 31. Winners will be announced on April 15, 1953.

Duke end Bill Keziah and tackle Ray Greene, who hold down No. 1 positions on the left side of Duke's offensive line, played against each other in the 1948 North Carolina State Class AAA championship grid game. Keziah played for Burlington, and Green for Feyetteville.

Awing Things Are Forecast By Scientists

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A group of the leading experts opened the second symposium on space travel today with the prediction that the first man will step out of a rocket onto the moon within 25 years.

The experts also predicted that within 10 to 15 years there will be a man-made "station in space" upon which 80 to 100 men will live. It will be a satellite of the earth, moving in an orbit and held in place by gravitational force as the moon is. At its altitude of 1,000 miles or so, it will circle the globe every two hours.

The symposium also came to conflicting conclusions:

1. The U. S. should get busy at once on a "station in space." It will be a powerful force for peace but in the wrong hands, a terrible force in war.

2. Space ship and space travel projects at the present time are spun mainly of fantasy. Furthermore, the "alleged" military value of a space ship is speculative. It would harm the nation to divert scientific brains and money from projects of demonstrable value.

The two predictions were made by Dr. Wernher Von Braun, technical director of the United States Guided Missile Development group Huntsville, Ala. He also pushed the urgency of an immediate start. Milton W. Rosen, director of the Viking Rocket Project, Naval Research Laboratory, tossed the cold water.

What Goes On Here

French Supper

Students interested in speaking French are invited to attend a meeting of the French supper club tonight in Lenoir Hall. Those who wish to attend are asked to take their supper trays to the second floor dining room by 6 p.m.

WRC

The Women's Residence Council will meet at 4:15 p.m. in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial today.

SUAB

There will be a Student-Faculty committee meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the SUAB office, Graham Memorial.

Modern Dance

The Modern Dance Club which was announced to meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Dance Room of Women's Gym instead.

Changing Address

Students who change their Chapel Hill address are asked to notify University officials at the Information Desk in South Building where change of address forms should be filled out by the student.

Di Senate

The Dialectic Senate will not meet tonight.

Glee Club

Final tryouts for the Glee Clubs will be held this afternoon, tomorrow and Thursday. The Women will have a concert with the State's Men's Glee Club at State College on Sunday, November 23. The Men's Glee Club of UNC will sing that evening for the University sermon.

Rent—Buy—Brouse at the
BULL'S HEAD BOOKSHOP
STEINBECK'S
East of Eden

GROSSMAN'S
In
Carrboro
Still Buys Your Outgrown Clothes
We Also Buy
MILITARY
Clothing and Shoes.
Phone 96281

(Another Step Forward)
With our customers in mind we offer an entirely NEW and Different Sundae . . .
THE STROLL-AWAY SUNDAE
Your choice of 3 flavors . . .
● Chocolate
● Pineapple
● Crushed Cherry
—Take Out Counter Only—
15c
The Dairy Bar

BOOKS YOU'VE WANTED
At prices you can afford!
Your hawk-eyed old Intimate Bookshop, ever the beagle for bargains, presents a selection of Fall buys designed to tempt the intelligent reader.

Man, by George R. Stewart. The story of man through the ages, told briefly and simply as history, anthropology and human drama. A lively and thoroughly readable account. Published at $2.75.
Our Special $1.00

The Kenyon Critics. Studies in modern literature from the Kenyon Review. Includes studies by Robert Penn Warren, W. H. Auden, Delmore Schwartz and Lion Trilling. Published at $4.00.
Our Special $2.49

Religion Through the Ages. Edited by Bell and Macfarland. An anthology of theistic thought from the great philosophers, essyaists and poets. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Ancient Greek Mariners by Walter Woodburn Hyde. An historical account of ancient Greek geographical discovery. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.98

Incredible Tale, by Gerald W. Johnson. This history of the average American in the last half-century makes breath-taking reading. Published at $3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Preble's Boys, by Fletcher Pratt. Here is the exciting and impressive story of the birth of the United States Navy. A neglected corner of American History comes to life in this book. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Modern Arms and Free Men, by Vannevar Bush. The man who knows more about modern scientific warfare than most gives an encouraging answer to today's problems. Published at 3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Dictionary of Word Origins, by Joseph T. Shipley. Burton Rascoe says "There is great fun, as well as a liberal education, in reading Dr. Shipley's fascinating study." Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.45

The Great Elector, by Ferdinand Schevill. In 1640, Frederick William of Hohenzollern, himself a refugee, inherited from his father a parcel of ravaged lands stretching across northern Europe. At his death forty-eight years later, the seeds of modern Germany were sown. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.98

EVEN AT THESE PRICES, GIFT WRAPPING IS ON THE HOUSE.

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

1937 4-DOOR BUICK SPECIAL, sound in body and motor, docile and dependanble from years of loving treatment by present owner. New seat covers, battery, muffler, good tires. "Dinah" (short for Dinah-flow) will be hurt if anyone offers less than $250 for her. Tel. 4861. Charge 2x1.

MEN'S NEW SHELBY BICYCLE. complete with baloon tires, kick stand, chain guard, lights. Price $40.00. Phone 9-6672. Charge 1x1

HELP WANTED FEMALE 8A

IS THERE A STUDENT'S WIFE, sweetheart, or mother who is a beauty operator and who would like to work in a modern shop. Living quarters might be arranged. Call 6961 Chapel Hill. Charge 2x1

"Don't worry about her . . . just remember the Angostura* in her Manhattan!"
ANGOSTURA.
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS
*P.S. Angostura marries the ingredients of your Manhattan—and many another cocktail, too. Angostura is the dash you put in—to make the flavor come out!

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
9-31-49

WEATHER

Partly cloudy and continued warm today with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 75; low, 55.

The Daily Tar Heel

BUB

Look bub, says Snook, you're wrong. See Nonplus, p. 2.

VOLUME XLI `NUMBER 19 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Dr. A. W. Flaten Begins Lecture Series Today

Is Chairman Of Art Department At St. Olaf's

Dr. Arnold W. Flaten, first speaker on this year's Inter-Faith Council's religious emphasis program, begins a series of lectures here today.

Dr. Flaten is head of the St. Olaf Art Department, Northfield, Minn., and an authority in art history and architecture. He did undergradute work at St. Olaf and received a B.D. from Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul. The Inter-Faith Council and the University Art Department have cooperated in bringing Dr. Flaten here.

Dr. Flaten's schedule includes a talk, "Modern Architecture" in Alumni 110 at 10 a.m. and a slide-illustrated lecture, "The Church and the Artist" at 8 p.m. at the Lutheran Church.

At noon tomorrow in Murphy 111 Dr. Flaten will speak to the survey of architecture class. The YWCA Lazy Literates group will hear Dr. Flaten speak on "Dostoevsky and the Concept of Superman" at 4 p.m. when he lectures in the Cabinet Room. At 8 o'clock tomorrow night his subject will be "The Art of Radient Form" in Pearson Hall.

Dr. Flaten did graduate work in painting and sculpture in France and Italy. He established the St. Olaf art department in 1932 and has since been its chairman.

Recently Flaten and two collegues formed the Northfield Architects, Inc. The firm uses its combined skills with their understanding of theology, history, and life of the church to plan new churches or remodel old ones. Flaten sandwiches his designing of churches between college duties.

Lecture, Film To Be Given By Brazilian

Dr. Durval Borges of San Paulo, Brazil, will show a movie on hunting and fishing in the jungles of Brazil in Graham Memorial Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Borges is a physician here on a United Nations fellowship to study serology. The fellowship was granted through the World Health Organization, an agency of the UN.

The movie, which lasts an hour and 15 minutes, was taken last year when Dr. Borges went on a hunting trip in the interior of Brazil, an area seldom visited by white men. It shows the shooting of jaguars, crocodiles and other jungle inhabitants. The movie is a silent film and will be accompanied by explanations by Dr. Borges.

The Brazilian physician visited Ann Arbor, Mich., and Atlanta in his study before coming to Chapel Hill. He will leave here Saturday and visit Washington, D. C., Albany, N. Y., New York City, Guatemala and Caracas, Venezuela before returning to Brazil. His study will last three months.

Legislative Delegates Sought Via Interview

Interviews to select the University's delegation to the North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly will begin Monday.

Interviews are scheduled for Monday night, Tuesday afternoon, and Wednesday night in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Address Change

Students who change their Chapel Hill addresses are asked to notify University officials in South Building.

Forms may be obtained at the information desk on the first floor. The request is made, officials said, to assure an update address list.

A SOUTH KOREAN SOLDIER LOADS A SHELL into a 75-mm recoiless rifle as two other members of the gun crew line up sights on target. South Korean troops claimed victory after a week-long battle for White Horse Mountain—UP Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

SEOUL—UN infantrymen, lashing out on the central front, captured one Communist-held mountain yesterday and waged a bloody battle for a second Red fortress. The attack was the biggest since October of 1951, when UN units fought the Reds in a series of line of demarcation battles. Gallant infantrymen slipped on the smooth shale and sand sides of the 70 degree Triangle Hill. "It's a very difficult hill to climb, let alone assault," said a division officer. The size of the enemy force holding Triangle was not known. Officers estimated it to be about a company. Red forces were being kept at full strength by a series of trenches connecting Triangle with nearby Mount Papa, where possibly a regiment—3,000 men—were waiting in the safety of bunkers and tunnels.

★

HOUSTON—Dwight Eisenhower celebrated his 62nd birthday yesterday by calling on the South to rise up in political rebellion against the Democratic Party. At this first stop upon entering Texas, he addressed a crowd estimated at 65,000, calling the Democrats "weak-kneed and soft-headed" . . . "power mongers" . . . "discredited", and telling the crowd that he had been told not to campaign in the South because "the administration has those states in the bag." He made his Houston speech a follow-up to his hard-hitting Monday night New Orleans speech by again stating his support of state-ownership for the tide-lands oil—warning against the encroachment of the federal government on the rights of the states.

★

CASPER, Wyo.—Gov. Adlai Stevenson expressed "sorrow and dismay" at the Republican preference for "slogans, emotion, and confetti" rather than for facing up their record on campaign issues. In the first speech of a 6,000 mile trip to the West and Texas, he accused the GOP of a long record of "Republican isolationism in foreign affairs and inaction in domestic affairs." He went on to say that the Republicans had "opposed every measure to build up American strength and America's alliances against the Communist conspiracy" and that "they seem to have induced or forced the general to alter his own positive principles and to adopt equivocal and hesitant views that savor more of isolation and retreat than security and confidence."

★

WASHINGTON—Irked Air Force officers cited praise by Gens. Mark Clark and James A. Van Fleet as evidence that the Korean air effort was not a "fizzle." Gen Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr., Marine Corps commandant, had been quoted as saying that Operation Strangle "is recognized as a fizzle." Operation Strangle is the name of the joint air operations to interdict the Communist supply and communications lines from the front to the Manchurian border.

Road Firm Blames State For Cracks

DURHAM, Oct. 14.—The Nello L. Teer Construction Company has been cleared of all responsibility for numerous cracks in the new Durham-Chapel Hill highway which the firm paved, it was said today.

Nello L. Teer, head of the company, said that W. H. Rogers Jr., chief engineer for the State Highway Commission, has authorized drainage trenches to be constructed "where needed," and that his firm accepted the decision as final.

The construction firm head said Rogers' action in authorizing the trenches to be put down is "absolutely an admission on their part that the trenches were needed and that lack of proper drainage caused the trouble."

The construction company had put in the trenches for almost two miles from Durham when, Teer said, the commission halted the work over his firm's objections.

He said lack of the trenches enabled water to seep under the pavement, resulting in numerous cracks in the highway which was opened to traffic September 19.

Teer said that his company will be paid for repairing the cracks "on a monthly basis as provided for in our contract."

Friday Rally Will Precede Football Tilt

Preparatory to this week's grid bout with Wake Forest's Demon Deacons, there will be a Friday night pep rally in Memorial Hall at 7:30.

The rally will be co-sponsored by the Monogram Club and the University Club. All students are asked to attend. The cheerleaders and band will be there, and the co-sponsors say the rally will be over by 8 o'clock.

Members of the Monogram Club will make the rounds of the dormitories in an effort to get the occupants to attend. Letters are being sent to the fraternities, sororities, and resident coeds.

Those working on the rally are Bob Phillips and John Patseavouras of the University Club; Joe Patterson; Head Cheerleader Bo Thorpe and Johnny Poindexter, chairman of the UC Pep Rally Committee.

NSA Relocated In Philadelphia

The National Student Association moved its headquarters to Philadelphia this fall to be nearer a greater number of schools and colleges.

Richard J. Murphy, NSA president, said the move from Bolder, Colo., was made so the office would be near New York and Washington, educational centers. According to Murphy, a former UNS student, the organization also wanted the advice and counselling of outstanding people in the personnel field who will be more easily available.

Fall Elections To Use New Voting Districts

Party Leaders Voice Opinions About Ruling

Various opinions of the Student Council's ruling on the redistricting were aired by leaders in both parties yesterday. Generally, the University Party favored the council's ruling and the Student Party felt somewhat less in agreement.

The opinions of some of the leaders were:

President Ham Horton (UP)—"We are elated to hear that the student body will have, this Fall, their long-awaited redistricting."

Ken Barton (SP-Party Chairman)—"I feel at all times that the constitution should be upheld. I feel that we should abide by the Student Council's decision, but I honestly believe that they have misinterpreted its meaning. I don't personally oppose the redistricting, but I feel that a more permanent bill could be formulated. I disagree with present student government officers that claim a compromise is impossible."

Jerry Cook (UP Chairman of Elections Board)—"I think that the Student Council's ruling is the only one that could have been made. It had to be made this way to agree with the constitution."

Ken Penegar (SP-Speaker Pro-Tem)—"I think that constitutional supremacy has been maintained, but that the spirit of the elections law has been violated, and the integrity of legislators questioned. I should like to see the men of Cobb Dorm given fair representation, but at the same time I think it desirable to respect the due process of law making and previously passed, duly enacted legislation."

Vice-President Jim McLeod (UP)—"This proves the legality of the law as such. I hope the change can take place with a minimum of trouble."

Joel Fleishman (Parliamentarian—SP)—"This ruling is, in my opinion, not within the true essence of the general laws of student government."

Student Court Gives Decision On Recent Bill

Discrepancies In Existing Law Are Basis Of Dispute

By Louis Kraar

The question of whether the newly-passed redistricting bill would apply to the coming Fall election was answered—yes yesterday.

After a four and a half hour special meeting Monday, the Student Council reached its decision. Council President Ted Frankel said in releasing the council's ruling that it was made on the basis of the constitution.

Although this action contradicts the existing general elections laws, which contains certain technical discrepencies, the constitution is the supreme voice in such disputes, Frankel pointed out.

The redistricting bill, revamps the two existing men's dormitory districts into five smaller ones, and has been under dispute since its passage at the last session of the Legislature. The technical discrepencies within the general election laws prompted the dispute.

In making its decision, the council recommended that the discrepency in the general elections law be corrected as soon as possible and suggested the "exercise of more foresight in the future."

Proponents of the bill, mainly members of the University Party, believed that the redistricting bill should go into effect for the Fall election. Opponents, mainly members of the Student Party, thought that it should not affect the Fall election.

"In order to best protect the best interests and preserve the general welfare of the student body, the Student Council makes this ruling," said Frankel in an official statement of the Council's ruling.

The five new districts are:

Cobb with four legislators; Stacy, Everett, Graham, Lewis, and Aycock with five legislators; Connor, Alexander, and Winston with five legislators; Joiner, Mangum, Grimes, and Ruffin with six legislators; Old East, Old West, Battle-Vance-Pettigrew, Steele, Whitehead, and all other on campus buildings with living quarters owned by the University with four legislators.

VA Payment Program To Save Vets Money

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 14.—The Veterans' Administration is now offering veterans a means of saving three per cent of the premium on their NSLI and other government insurance policies. All they have to do to get this saving is to pay their premiums quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

This plan, says the VA, is beneficial to both sides. The veteran not only saves money, but by paying less often is less likely to forget a payment. The VA, by receiving fewer monthly checks, will have less work to do and need fewer employees. This amounts to a substantial saving for the taxpayer.

The VA also reminded those veterans who are receiving regular compensation or pension payments that they might have the regional office authorized to deduct insurance premiums from their check. This method is time saving and worry saving on the part of the veteran in that it insures the payment of premiums on time.

Last And First

Today is the last call for Juniors to be snapped for the 1953 Yack. Pictures will be taken from 2 p.m. until 9 o'clock.

Graduate School, Dental School and Senior Class pictures are scheduled for tomorrow.

JULIUS (RIGHT) AND ETHEL (left) Rosenberg, two atomic spies who were sentenced to death in New York, have been denied their appeal for commutation of their death sentences by the Supreme Court. They are awaiting execution in Sing Sing Prison. The Rosenbergs were sentenced by the government 18 months ago for helping a Soviet espionage ring steal U. S. A-bomb secrets. —UP Telephoto.

NC Assembly Fills Vacant Council Jobs

The Interim Council of the North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly held its first meeting of the year in the Morehead Building over the weekend.

The date of this year's assembly was set for November 20-22 in the capitol in Raleigh. The council authorized President Ken Penegar to invite the governor to address the opening plenary session on November 20.

Claude Stephens of North Carolina College in Durham was appointed secretary-treasurer of the Council to fill out the unexpired term of Howard Carter of Duke University.

Joe Mauney and Carwile LeRoy of Wake Forest were appointed co-chairman of the publicity committee; Rozelle Royall of Woman's College and Linwood Smith of A. and T. College in Greensboro will serve as co-chairmen of the calendar and bills committee; Fred Brooks of Duke is chairman of the rules committee, and the arrangements and registration committee is composed of Lucius Walker of Shaw University, Eleanor Henry of Meredith College and Frankie Finch of Greensboro College.

Eisenhower Backers Asked To Contribute

Ike backers yesterday were requested to give in a continued drive for an Eisenhower rally to be hel dhere in the near future.

Chairman of the Chapel Hill Citizens for Eisenhower committee, Ham Horton, said the money collected during the drive will be used to distribute publicity for Ike and support the rally.

Checks should be made payable to Citizens for Eisenhower, Chapel Hill, and sent to Ben James, funds chairman, Sigma Nu House.

Southern Planters

N. C. State hasn't done much to reap the fruits of football success this season but evidently there are some Wolfpack fanatics who are pretty good at sowing.

A bright green S has sprouted on the 50-yard line at Kenan Stadium and whoever did the job certainly studied his farming and engineering lessons well.

Campus Society Honors Mitchell

Carolina Professor Measured Highest Peak In Eastern U. S.

By Tom Parramore

The memory of the Carolina professor who proved that Mount Mitchell, which bears his name, is the highest east of the Mississippi, lives on through a campus scientific society.

Elisha Mitchell was born in Connecticut and educated at Yale. After he came to the UNC faculty he made many trips throughout the state on horseback, going to different mountains to satiate his scientific zeal. It was on one of these trips that, with a barometer ordered from Paris, Mitchell measured the mountain which later was named for him. The height is 6,684 feet.

He was killed on the same mountain some time later when he slipped from a precipice into a pool of water and was drowned.

The Mitchell Society which commemorates this great man, is made up of about 150 faculty members and 100 associate members chosen from the graduate ranks. It meets each second Tuesday of the month.

At each meeting, two papers, dealing with any phase of science, are read. At its May meeting, the best dissertation is awarded a $50 prize known as the W. C. Coker Award.

The purpose of the organization is to promote scientific training and increase interest in scientific work in the state.

The idea for the society was conceived and activated in 1883 by a group of UNC faculty. Among this noted and still remembered group were Kemp Battle, F. P. Venable, J. M. Manning and W. B. Phillips.

Present officers of the scientific society are Professor Shearin of the Physics Department, president; C. W. Hooker of the Medical School, vice president; Dr. Bowers of physics, recording secretary; E. T. Browne, permanent secretary, and Dr. Couch who edits the society's journal.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

Assoc. Ed. — Bev Baylor | News Ed. — Jody Levey
Assoc. Ed. — Sue Burress | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. — Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. — Ned Beeker

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Shull, Joyce Jowdy, Judy Taylor.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Mike Soper, Ted Kemp, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Cheney.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

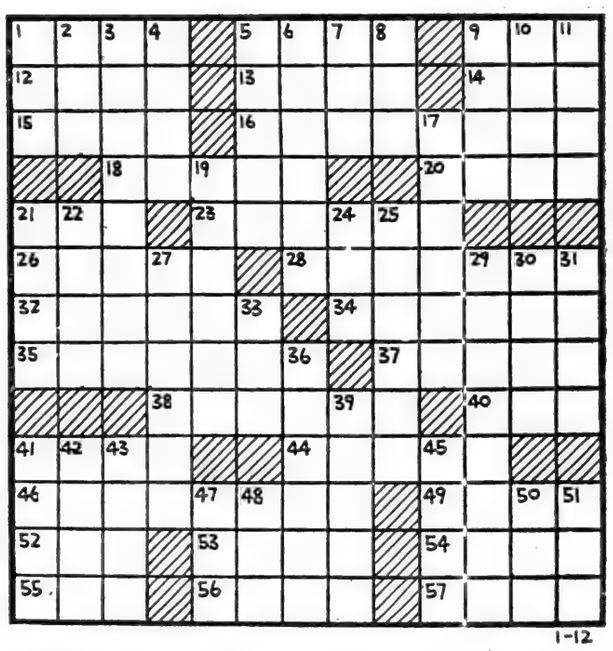
Should We Change?

College campuses all over the nation have been searching for a sane, equitable, humane, and workable system of fraternity rushing since the first Greek letter society erected its sacred portals back in the dim 1800's. As yet, nobody has been able to evolve a solution which meets with the satisfaction of all parties concerned—freshman, fraternities, administration, and the campus at large.

A study of the rushing systems practiced in American universities shows three fundamental categories or styles used to place puzzled freshmen safely, soundly, and happily within their chosen circle.

Perhaps the most primitive design in the "immediate-rush" program or "Meet-them-at-the-train-and-carry-their-bags-straight-to-dear-old-Kappa-Phlegm." The neophyte stumbles off to his first class with a pledge brooch already sparkling his breast.

A less extreme system is the "protracted-rush" plan which allows the newcomer a stipulated period of immunity from the glad-handers (and vice-versa) while he explores his environment, sizes up the fraternity system as a whole, and then goes into formal rushing backed by something more than just a naive urge to go greek.



A third method, the deferred-rush, calls for an even longer interval between matriculation and the pledge vow plus fulfillment by the rushee of a designated high academic average. Usually the freshman is not permitted to pledge until he has been at school at least one semester (or quarter).

We feel that our rushing system at Carolina, though a far cry from perfection, approaches a rational "middle-of-the-road" implementation. Nobody here has recommended a return to the "immediate-rush" technique. Those agitating for a deferred-rush program to be moved up into the second quarter claim the pledge would thereby have more time to orient himself and develop sounder study habits before being absorbed into the social swirl of fraternity life.

We contend that this ideal, however noble it may be, is unlikely to be realized merely by a prolonged estrangement of the freshman from the greeks. We reject the notion that a pledge's study habits are sacrificed on the beer keg the moment he affiliates himself with a fraternity. Most fraternities at Carolina enforce rigid study hours on their pledge class and encourage active participation in extra-curricula activities.

Conversely, a delay in fall rushing would not result in the nocturnal overcrowding of the library with freshman who had no frat function to attend. A boy can be slothful and lax with or without a pledge pin. The records fail to show a marked discrepancy between the grades of freshmen who pledge in the fall and those who remain independent.

Although we would be considerably more amenable to a delay of the rush program than to an advancement, we believe a radical change in our methodology would be unproductive, unrealistic, and not actually in the best interests of the freshman which such a move purports to benefit.

1-12

HORIZONTAL
1. stiffly proper and neat
5. auction
9. female hog
12. Finnish poem
13. once more
14. Anglo Saxon money
15. incites
16. more charming
18. devastated
20. afflictions
21. large serpent
23. Mohammedan princes
26. Russian independent union
28. marble representations
32. blinded
34. vindicate
35. ancient Jewish ascetics
37. insertion
38. island south of India
40. epoch
41. gorge
44. lifeless
46. Slavs
49. masculine name
52. single unit
53. imprison
54. wing-shaped
55. small mass
56. formerly
57. slight depression

VERTICAL
1. prefix: before
2. floor covering
3. ungrateful persons
4. high, flat tableland
5. Jerusalem's former name
6. positive poles
7. Bulgarian coin
8. female sheep
9. dirt
10. Russian city
11. armed conflicts
17. pay heed to
19. goddess of the moon
21. ignoble
22. native metals
24. Greek letter
25. gully
27. chooses by ballot
29. disturb
30. river in Germany
31. bristle
33. Tunisian ruler
36. hurls
39. initial attack
41. thrive
42. goddess of months
43. employed
45. highway
47. frost
48. river in Switzerland
50. light brown
51. worthless scrap

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

1-12

Average time of solution: 27 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Barry Farber — Personally

I'm a liberal.

Yet I think the American Communist Party should be outlawed, its property confiscated, and its leaders deactivated, jailed, or deported. And while other liberals are screaming for my scalp I'd like a chance to explain myself.

The explicit aim of the Communist Party, as expressed by leaders here and in Moscow, is the annihilation of our democratic structure and its replacement by a Sovietized "Peoples' state." For over two years we have pitched the bodies of American boys like sandbags into the shattered dikes of Korea to check the flood of Communism in Asia. We've dealt out billion dollar checks to kill Communism in Greece, France, Turkey, and Indonesia. Yet we remain too hypnotised by a fallacy-ridden concept of "freedom" to pass a simple law in Congress to substitute the pick-axe for the powderpuff on the Communist Party here at home.

For the last two decades we have slept in our ringside seats during the tragic demonstration of what happens when a democratic nation allows parties committed to its destruction to hide and flourish behind constitutional rights until the enemy is flashed the green signal from within. Who in pre-war Norway would have dared suggest that Parliament pass a law against Vidkun Quisling and his handful of black-shirted followers? Nobody; until April, 1940, when the "harmless little malcontent" had Norway seasoned, sliced, and ready for serving on Hitler's banquet board.

What Frenchman was not brimming with indignation over "violation of historic rights" in '39 when a cabinet minister moved to uproot pro-Nazi elements at work throughout France? Nothing was done. Everybody in Paris was bragging about "democracy in action" until a sobbing general, surrender papers in hand, tiptoed into a railroad car at Compeigne behind Von Ribbentrop. What happened to Poland? Has anybody seen Czechoslovakia lately? How many more nations have to be eclipsed behind the Red Star before we admit that a Communist nursed and tolerated at home in the name of freedom is like a boa-constrictor turned loose in a kindergarten during "Be Nice to Nature" week?

There is no clause in our great galaxy of freedoms which guarantees sanctuary to a group pledged to destroy those freedoms. The existence of an active Communist Party in the United States is a mockery of the system whose real purpose is to protect all political factions representing diverse points of view—not avowed conspiracies working against the framework which protects the others.

It pains the sincere liberal to think of surpressing an organization which poses (quite successfully) as just another minority political party. Sincerity, however, is no excuse for stupidity. Any doubts as to the imperialistic aims of world Communism can be dispelled by the public statements of Lenin, Stalin, Malenkov, Browder, Dennis, and Gates who proclaim, in short, "Capitalism's gotta go." And the "peaceful means" routine that was so dear to Karl Mark has been replaced by corroding subversion, the coup d' etat, and the sneak attack.

Opponents of the outlaw action claim that such a move would only drive the Communist Party under ground where it would be even more dangerous. The Marxist movement is and always has been operating largely beneath the surface. A Congressional ban would enable the FBI to take off the wraps and smoke out the hard Communist core with federal indictments—instead of merely snooping and compiling dossiers on known party leaders until the atomic secrets are safely east of the Elbe.

Tolerance becomes suicide in the face of half a million comrades massed north of the Yalu River. Not even the most naive and enthusiastic believer in political freedom could plead the moral legality of the Communist Party or be deluded by its hollow pretense of functioning the American government.

A healthy clash of opinion and ideology is desirable and imperative. But anybody who wants to cut my throat has to sharpen his own razor.

"Just Pot Luck, You Know"

Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Political notes from around the nation—The Democrats have had to do some quick house-mending. Sen. Bill Fullbright of Arkansas has been summoned to Springfield to smooth the ruffled feeling of various dems who feel they've been slighted. Adlai hasn't had a chance to hold everyone's hand. Sens. Lister Hill of Alabama and Clinton Anderson of New Mexico are helping stroke down the ruffled fur . . . One rupture broke out in Florida when sedate Sen. Spessard Holland, Democrat, threatened to bolt to Eisenhower, even though he led southern spokesmen in Chicago in pledging allegiance to the party. What happened was that Holland was sitting on his hands; so ex-Sen. Claude Pepper, noting the political vacuum, walked in and began to fill in. Pepper's work for Stevenson began to build an organization which might dominate the state . . . some dems at Springfield figure they could save a lot of money if they just closed down Democratic National Headquarters in Washington. The entire campaign is being run from Springfield. Wilson Wyatt, not Stephen Mitchell, is the mastermind.

ALONG THE ROUTE OF THE TRUMAN TRAIN—Colorado is still considered a Republican state despite Truman's recent whistle-stop at every hamlet along the Denver and Rio Grande R.R. . . . The fact that Ike spent nine weeks in Denver is hard to overcome, though he wasn't any great help to his own political leaders. During Ike's entire stay, he didn't once talk to the Republican state chairman, the Republican national committeemen or the Republican state central committee. Fishing, bridge and conferences with the National GOP occupied most of his time . . . Ike will sneak in a bridge game whenever he gets a chance, also hasn't lost his taste for "westerns." . . . Truman got squawks from local Democrats about the way the government was treating Colorado uranium miners. Joe Williams, candidate for Governor and State Sen. Stephen McNichols complain that uranium miners can sell their ore to only two mills, United States Vanadium Corp., and the Vanadium Corporation of America, which won't let miners follow their ore through the mills to see if it's properly assayed.

DEWEY AND IKE—Full story of Tom Dewey's private session with the General before the latter's endorsement of McCarthy is gradually leaking out. Dewey has kept completely in the background, but in this case had a three-hour session with Ike in New York, begged him to shun McCarthy. His reasons were that Ike would lose the independent vote, alienate far more people than he would win. Dewey told how he had gone to Illinois in 1948 against his better judgment to endorse Gov. Dwight Green and ex-Sen. Curley Brooks, two Chicago Tribune isolationists. It hurt him materially . . . Eisenhower listened attentively, finally agreed to cold-shoulder McCarthy . . . It is now nown that Arthur Summerfield, plus Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Hickenlooper of Iowa, with Tom Coleman, McCarthy's campaign manager, conferred at the hotel Washington next day, then flew to Ike's train in the midwest, got him to reverse his pledge to Dewey . . . Ike came onto the press car of this train later to tell newsmen that McCarthy had not persuaded him to omit two paragraphs from his speech praising Gen. George Marshall. But what actually happened was that chairman Summerfield, knowing that the praise of General Marshall was in the Milwaukee speech and figuring it would be considered a slap at McCarthy, sneaked McCarthy up a service elevator of the Pere Marquette Hotel at Peoria to Ike's suite. There McCarthy begged Ike not to praise Marshall at Milwaukee. The General finally concurred, struck out the two paragraphs . . . After the Milwaukee speech was all over, McCarthy groused privately that the General hadn't been cordial to him.

Harry Snook — NONPLUS

Ken Myers accuses Nonplus of false statements about campus courts. In his attemt to set the record straight with "simple facts," he has set a record of his own.

"The Council operates by a set codification of offenses and penalties, and an established procedure is used to try all cases," Ken said.

Tain't true, bub. Check the records and you'll find great variance in the penalties imposed for identical offenses. Dig all you please, but you'll find no formal list of offenses and penalties. Listen to a few spools of wire recordings of trials, then try to reconcile what you've heard with a standard procedure.

"The Council browbeats no one into not telling about his appearance before it," you said.

Wrong again, son. Many students, including me, have been handed a summons and cautioned to keep the matter quiet. We were told in an unmistakable manner that we would fare much better if we played ball with the court's desire.

"Any person accused . . . is allowed to have anyone speak on his behalf," you said. "A member of the Council . . . cannot speak on anyone's behalf."

Bad try, bub. The summons itself plainly says the accused can have "assistance by a member of the Council." In my own case and in those of others who have given me details of theirs, the only counsel allowed is by one of the Council members. And the Council has persistently refused to allow outside representation. If there's been a sudden change in this or any of these policies, it's been kept a deep, dark secret like everything the Council does.

You are a debater, and it shows in the tricks you use. I'm referring to your statement that the Faculty Council "to this day" has not overruled the Men's Council. As you ought to know, the Student Council until just recently has reviewed Men's Council decisions—and reversed 'em. The Faculty Council hardly has had time to sit down at its new job.

Again you evade the issue when you say the Council has jurisdiction over students only when they're in Chapel Hill. But even if you're exonerated of a crime in Indo-China while on summer vacation, you are still subject to trial for it by the Council when you return to school.

You really outdid yourself, Ken, in the attempt to refute something I didn't say. The black mark of a conviction may disappear from the transcript (and I never said it didn't) but it stays on the permanent record. You admitted that in your article.

Now, bub, you've made a personal issue out of this. How do you get off charging me with "false statements, misinformation, utter ignorance?"

And you on the Men's Council!

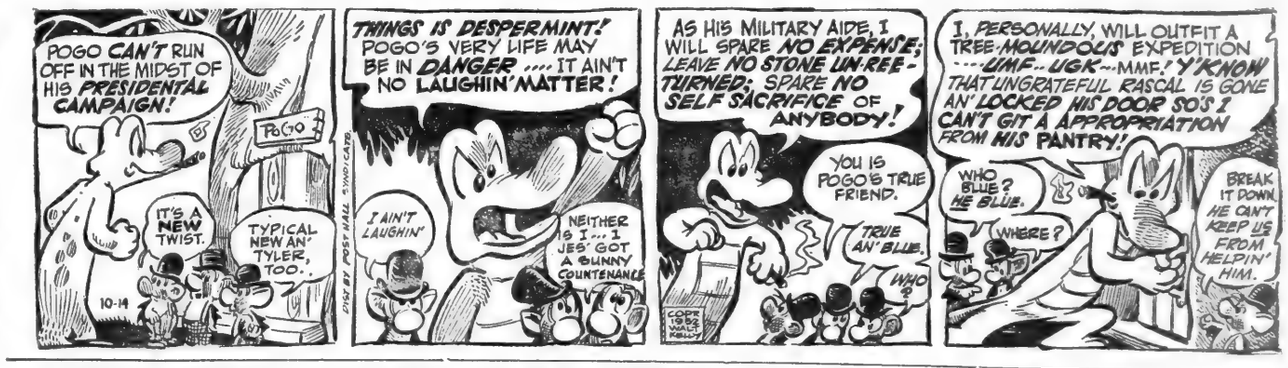
After the sample of your inaccuracy and devious methods, students should shudder when they consider the kind of "justice" you would mete out in secrecy. Your intentions are probably pure, but your judgment is poor.

Why Be Loyal

For the first time in years, people are asking us why they should be "loyal" to our party. This is distinctly embarrasing to us, and so I have been asked to answer this question once and for all.

It is quite simple. You should vote for the Northern Democrats because your grandfather voted for them. Some subversive students of History have been spreading it around that the positions of the two parties have changed within the past 70 years; that the Hubert Humphries-Lehman-ADA wing of the Democratic party today is as vindictive and warped as Thaddeus Stevens and his reconstruction Republicans ever were. I consider this very unkind.

Another malicious slander is that instead of considering what our grandfathers would think of us, we should consider what our grandchildren will think of us. This is completely invalid.



The fact that your congressmen and Senators have been voting with these Republicans against their Northern Democratic brothers ever since we began introducing socialistic measures, has nothing to do with it, and can only confuse the issue.

Besides, if you will only remain loyal to us and stay "in the bag" we can ignore you and concentrate on making promises to the minority bloc votes and the pressure groups. We appreciate your being so acquiescent in the past, because for that reason we never have to nominate a Southerner for President, and don't even have to bother about campaigning in the South. Now, we've heard that many 'hinking Southerners want this to be changed; however this doesn't worry us because we know most of you won't think. We hope you'll remain loyal so you can still be our scrapegoat.

We pay you well. We pay you well to forget your idelas of liberty and free enterprise and the Constitution and honor-even-in-government. You backward Southerners don't seem to realize that these ideals are passed. So you will hear a great deal from us about how well we have paid you, by grants in aid and huge projects and higher incomes in inflated money, and how you can afford to forget every election what we have done to you between elections.

So don't let me hear any more of you asking why should we be loyal.

Cato

U N C LIBRARY

Soccer Squad Opens Season Against State Here Today

By Paul Cheney

Intercollegiate athletics will be resumed on the Carolina campus today after a two-week layoff, when the Tar Heel soccer squad play host to the N. C. State booters at Fetzer field at 3:30.

Coach Al Moore will field an eleven largely made up of veterans from last year's squad. Heading this list of veterans will be goalie Ben Tison and left fullback Barry Kalb, cocaptains, and center forward Gerry Russell, high scorer on last season's team.

Either Tison or Don Gladstone will start at goalie. Kalb will be at left fullback, with Ronnie Younts at the right fullback post. Left halfback will have either Buddy Barnes or Fletcher Greene in the starting role. Tommy Hopkins will be at the center half back position, with Dave Cole to his right.

The forward line will have Drew Patterson at outer left, Rennie Randolph at inner left, Russell at center forward, Harry Pawlick at inner right, and Rawleigh Tremain at outer right.

Coach Moore's squad is in fairly good physical shape, except for the stiffness picked up during the two week layoff.

State is expected to field largely the same team which failed to win a game last season. The Wolfpack is predominantly made up of foreign students. Among these is Karagas, who was selected as all-American center half back even though he was on an all-losing team.

This is the first contest of the Tar Heel's nine game slate. There is a possibility that Coach Moore will book a few more games this year.

Blue Devils Lead Defense; Mountaineers Pace Offence

Duke last week took over the Southern Conference lead in rushing defense and pass defense while retaining its total-defense lead as West Virginia lost two of the four departments it paced as of last week.

The Blue Devils, trouncing South Carolina 33-7 last Saturday for their fourth consecutive triumph, rose from runner-up to first place in rushing defense by lowering their average allowance to 106.8 yards per game and in pass defense by lowering their average to 67.0.

Duke retained its edge in overall defense with a 173.8 average it has permitted the opposition.

Keeps Advantage

West Virginia, despite its 35-21 loss to Penn State, kept its advantage in total and passing offense, lost the edge in rushing defense. In the rushing offense department paced by the Mountaineers last week, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau did not list Conference leaders this time.

The Mountaineers retained their lead in total offense even though Penn State lowered their average by nearly 100 yards to 392.3 per game. Their passing record likewise suffered, but an average of 125.7 yards per game still gives the Mountaineers the edge.

Duke in taking over all three defensive departments has an overall allowance of only 173.8, a rushing allowance of 106.8 and a passing allowance of 67.0. West Virginia is second in the first two departments, Virginia Tech runnerup in pass defense.

Carolina, which has played only one game, continued to lead in punting with a 43.8-yard average per kick, mainly thanks to Bud Wallace.

Passing Honors

The Conference passing honors changed hands for the third straight time as Johnny Gramling threw six strikes in South Carolina's loss to Duke to bring his completion total to 28 as compared with 26 each for last week's leaders, Johnny Dean of Virginia Tech, Charley George of Wake Forest and Bobby Tyler of Richmond.

Gramling's assumption of the passing lead marked the only change in Conference individual statistical departments. Ed Miduszewski retained his lead for William and Mary in total offense, Randy Broyles of Washington and Lee in rushing, Clyde Bennett of South Carolina in pass-receiving and Wallace of Carolina in punting.

Broyles' W. & L. teammate, Wes Abrams, gave the Generals the two top spots in the rushing department by gaining 87 yards Saturday night against Richmond to bring his yardage total to 296.

MURALS

The deadline for entries in the intramural volleyball tournament is 5 o'clock this afternoon. All entries along with team rosters must be filed with the mural department by that time.

At the same time tag football play in the fraternity division gets under way this afternoon with 10 games scheduled. Dormitory teams play tomorrow, with both divisions getting on a regular schedule next week.

Today's Football

4:00—Field 1, Pi Lamb vs. Theta Chi; Field 2, TEP vs. ZBT; Field 3, KA vs. Pi Kap Phi; Field 4, Chi Psi 2 vs. Phi Delt 2; Field 5, SPE vs. Sigma Chi 2.

5:00—Field 1, Chi Phi vs. Phi Delt Chi; Field 2, Zete 2 vs. Beta 2; Field 3, Phi Delt 1 vs. DKE 2; Field 4, Chi Psi 1 vs. Phi Gam 1; Field 5, Delta Psi vs. SAE 2.

Coed Volleyball

Women's intramural volley ball entries are due at the Women's gym by 12 noon Friday. This year a team must consist of eight players, but may have no more than 15 members on the team.

Team managers may sign up for hour practices on the courts from 4-6 o'clock Monday through Friday, and from 9:30 to 11:30 on Saturday mornings.

Tournament play begins on Tuesday, October 21.

Tar Heels Start Hard Work

By Tom Peacock

A stiff but spirited Carolina football team has settled down to the task of getting into top shape for its game Saturday with the Wake Forest Deacons here in Chapel Hill.

The squad was a little sore after Monday's workout, but a long and hard practice in the Snavely style yesterday ironed most of the stiff muscles out.

Good Shape

The Tar Heels are expected to be in the best physical shape possible when they take the field, with only one major injury on the squad. Fullback John Gaylord is still out with a broken finger he suffered in the Texas game.

Coach Snavely worked the squad until dark, concentrating mainly on the smooth operation of the split-T formation. Snavely utilized all his quarterbacks during the practice, with Marshall Newman and Ernie Liberati working mainly on passing, and Charlie Motta and Lou Britt mainly on the running attack.

Newman Starter

Newman, a freshman, appears to be the starter for the game at quarterback. His passing was sharp during the week of dummy practice, and he hit his receivers yesterday in the face of a hard charging line.

Wake Forest will be the favorite going into the game, on the strength of its greater experience if nothing else. The Deacons seemed to be thinking about Carolina i nits 20-0 loss to Villanova last week, and they will be out to score another win.

Wake Forest is led by a group of outstanding backs, with quarterback Sonny George calling the plays from the split-T. George engineered Wake Forest's 39-7 win over Caroilna last year, and is a very dangerous

(See TAR HEELS, page 4)

Badminton Club Has 14 At Meet

The badminton club had its first meeting Monday night with 14 members present.

After the singles play, the members split up for a doubles tourney, won by Mac McGinty and Dave Bischoff over the clowning Bill Meade and Mike Ronman.

The club's next meeting will be Monday night and all students (including coeds) are invited. A match with Duke is being scheduled for later in the year.

LATE SHOW SAT.
SUNDAY
MONDAY
Carolina

Get Your Ice Cold
BLATZ
At MAX'S
UNIVERSITY RESTAURANT

Just Ask "POP" for Your BLATZ at Franklin Street Luncheonette
"Bob Smith's"

JEFF'S
Carries BLATZ in both Bottles and Cans.
Just say
BLATZ!

Complete Line TOWN & CAMPUS Van Heusen

treat 'em rough- they love it!

the Van Heusen CENTURY shirt with the revolutionary new soft collar that won't wrinkle ...ever!

Here's a new wrinkle . . . shirts that won't! The patented soft collar on Van Heusen's Century shirt can take it like a 200 pound fullback! Won't wrinkle in your suitcase . . . won't wrinkle no matter how long you wear it . . . even your laundry can't wrinkle it. Regular or spread collar . . . white or colors. A new Van Heusen free if your Century ever shrinks out of size. Fine broadcloth, white, 3.95, 4.95 colors, 3.95

Van Heusen Century Shirt-mate Tie, $1.50

What made Milwaukee change its mind?

No doubt about it...modern times and modern taste have changed Milwaukee's mind about beer.

Gone are the days when America's beer capital could not agree on which beer was the finest. Now, year after year, Blatz is the largest-selling beer in Milwaukee... far and away the favorite in the city where nearly three-quarters of the country's wonderful premium beers are brewed!

So wherever you are in this land of ours, lift a glass of Blatz tonight. When you do, you'll join the growing millions of Americans who sing:

I'm from Milwaukee
and I ought to know,
it's Blatz, Blatz, Blatz,
wherever you go."

Tune in Amos 'n' Andy every other Thursday night, Channel 2, 9:30 P.M.

©1952. BLATZ BREWING CO., MILWAUKEE, WIS., A DIVISION OF SCHENLEY INDUSTRIES, INC.

AIR ROTC NCO'S
Get Snaps Put On Your Blues 75c

Yes, we do women's alterations and making . . . of all kinds

TAILOR
"At Jack Lipman's"

TODAY
Carolina

Our IMPRINTED CHRISTMAS CARD CATALOGUES ARE HERE.

American Artist, Designers and Illustrators, Hand Print Cards. The early bird gets the choice.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

YES SIR:

You will want to look your best during rushing

Suits and Topcoats
By: Botany
Southwick

Shirts & Underwear
By: Manhattan
Arrow

Shoes
By: Taylor-Made

Sweaters
By: Catalina
Revere

Sox
By: Interwoven

Yes Sir, By Shopping at

JACK LIPMAN'S
"Outfitters of the College Man Since 1924"

NROTC Will Shoot In Cadet Contests

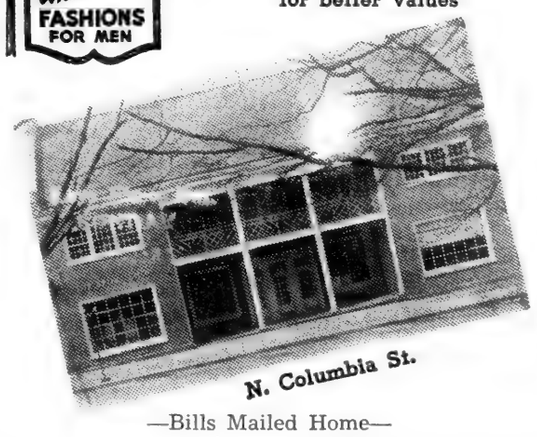
A host of the nation's top-flight ROTC Rifle and Pistol teams have been matched against the NROTC squad here for a variety of postal gallery, shoulder-to-shoulder and postal trophy matches during the season.

Maj. Fank C. Caldwell, USMC, Officer-In-Charge, said probably the most interesting match facing the Tar Heel Middies this year will be the first annual Southern Conference meet of ROTC units from Duke, Wake Forest, North Carolina State and Davidson. The matches will be fired on the State College and Davidson ranges in December and January.

Postal matches include contests with NROTC Rifle Teams representing the Universities of Miami (Oxford), Ohio State, Oklahoma, Virginia, Notre Dame, Louisville, California, Purdue, Mississippi, Columbia, Rochester, Minnesota, Rice Institute, Penn State, Auburn, Georgia Tech, Tufts and the Army ROTC Unit Rifle Team at Georgia Tech.

Major Caldwell said an additional postal match will be fired against the famous rifle team representing The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States of New York.

The Tar Heel Middies will engage in the postal trophy matches of Randolph Hearst National Match to be fired in January, the ROTC Regional Trophy Match to be fired in March and the Secretary of Navy National Trophy Match to be fired in April.



Technical Sergeant John A. Quinn, USMC, Rifle and Pistol coach predicted a winning year for his Middie Team with four veteran shooters returning from last year's squad. Returning marksmen are Donald Lee Harley, Haddonfield, N. J., James Norris Wilfert, Tenafly, N. J., John Payne Jackson, Barnsville, Ga., and Paul L. Chase, Chapel Hill.

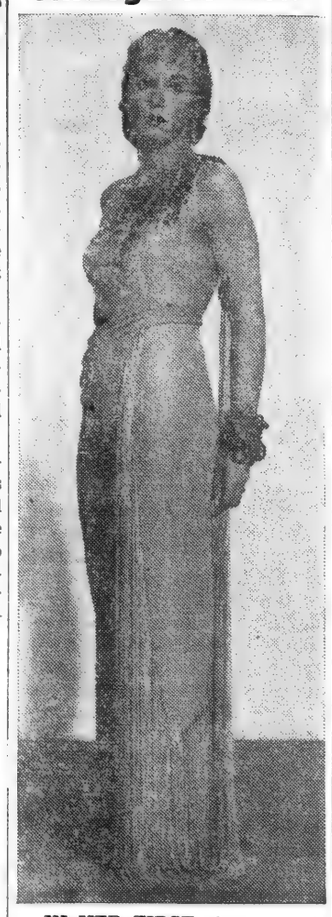
GOV. ADLAI STEVENSON (right) confers with Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin (left), and Wilson Wyatt, his campaign manager, during a meeting in Springfield, Ill. Wyatt said that he believes there has been "extremely substantial" switching from Eisenhower to Stevenson.—UP Telephoto.

SHOP at—
THE SPORT SHOP
for better values

AUTHENTIC University FASHIONS FOR MEN

N. Columbia St.

—Bills Mailed Home—



From The Producer of
"Kind Hearts and Coronets" and "Tight Little Island"
Written by
T. E. B. Clarke Who Wrote "Lavender Hill Mob"

Plus
"Your Doctor"
The Story of George Bond M.D.
from
Hickory Nut Valley, N. C.

Varsity
T-O-D-A-Y
O-N-L-Y

Hildegarde Neff

IN HER FIRST glamor part since her ascent to stardom, Hildegarde Neff plays the role of the spoiled countess in Ernest Hemingway's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro." The film will be shown at the Carolina Theater next month.

Dorm Social Chairmen

There will be a meeting of the social chairmen of all dormitories tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge 2 of Graham Memorial. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a social committee.

Bible Study

The Bible Study Committee of the YWCA will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Y with Dr. Bernard Boyd leading the discussion. Those who are interested are invited to attend.

★

Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Choral Room of Hill Hall.

Ping Pong

Entries may be made today through Friday for the campus table tennis championship. The tournament is sponsored by SUAB. Entrants may sign up either in the student union information office or in the lobby.

SUAB

The SUAB Special Services Committees will meet at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial tomorrow.

Stray Greeks

There will be a meeting of the Stray Greeks at 7 o'clock tonight in the parlor of Alderman Dormitory.

The Independent Coed Board will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge 2 of Graham Memorial.

—Tar Heels—

passer. His bad day last week was a major factor in the Deacon loss.

The Tar Heel squad elected its captains for the game, and Tom Higgins and Chal Port were chosen to lead Carolina. Higgins played an outstanding game against Texas from his defensive tackle position, and Port was outstanding as halfback and safety man.

SUAB Organizes New Coordination Council

First meeting of the newly organized Coordination Council is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Heads of major campus groups have been invited to join the agency of the Student Union Activities Board.

"We are concerned with the coordination of campus-wide student activities in an effort to bring more students into direct participation in campus activities and at the same time to eliminate conflicts in the scheduling of events and the over-lapping of organizational programs," SUAB Chairman Ken Penegar said yesterday.

The Coordination Council will meet once a month. As a result of these meetings a monthly calendar of scheduled events will be printed by SUAB. The first calendar will come out Monday and will cover the remaining part of October. Calendars will be distributed in the dorms and may be picked up in the Y and in Graham Memorial.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

1937 4-DOOR BUICK SPECIAL, sound in body and motor, docile and dependanble from years of loving treatment by present owner. New seat covers, battery, muffler, good tires. "Dinah" (short for Dinah-flow) will be hurt if anyone offers less than $250 for her. Tel. 4861. Charge 2x1.

MEN'S NEW SHELBY BICYCLE, complete with baloon tires, kick stand, chain guard, lights. Price $40.00. Phone 9-6672. Charge 1x1

HELP WANTED FEMALE 8A

IS THERE A STUDENT'S WIFE, sweetheart, or mother who is a beauty operator and who would like to work in a modern shop. Living quarters might be arranged. Call 6961 Chapel Hill. Charge 2x1

Bob Smith's
—Now—
Franklin Street Luncheonette
★ All Brands and
★ Draft Beer
★ Wines
★ Sandwiches
—Beside Bus Station—

N-O-W
DICK POWELL
And
LIZABETH SCOTT
In
"PITFALL"
Carolina

HAVE GAS & OIL TROUBLES??
Let Us Solve Them for You —
NOW

★ Regular Gas 28.4c
★ Premium Gas 29.4c

★ Popular Brand Oil 35c
★ Premium Grade Oil 20c

★ Prestone (permanent) $3.75
★ Trex $1.50

—UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT—
C. L. ROBERTS J. C. RIDDLE
HI-WAY SERVICE STATION
CARRBORO Phone 9-8422

DR. QUIZ CONDUCTED BY— Sutton's

Flea, Fleur-de-lis and Wm. Penn are the answers . . . and SUTTON'S DRUG STORE is the answer to your every baby need. You'll find that we have the finest selection . . . lowest prices. Make this your first stop.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER Sutton's DRUG STORE Rx SPECIALISTS
COSMETICS - MEN'S TOILETRIES - SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 - COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE - JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

BOOKS YOU'VE WANTED
At prices you can afford!

Your hawk-eyed old Intimate Bookshop, ever the beagle for bargains, presents a selection of Fall buys designed to tempt the intelligent reader.

Man, by George R. Stewart. The story of man through the ages, told briefly and simply as history, anthropology and human drama. A lively and thoroughly readable account. Published at $2.75.
Our Special $1.00

The Kenyon Critics. Studies in modern literature from the Kenyon Review. Includes studies by Robert Penn Warren, W. H. Auden, Delmore Schwartz and Lion Trilling. Published at $4.00.
Our Special $2.49

Religion Through the Ages. Edited by Bell and Macfarland. An anthology of theistic thought from the great philosophers, essyaists and poets. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Ancient Greek Mariners by Walter Woodburn Hyde. An historical account of ancient Greek geographical discovery. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.98

Incredible Tale, by Gerald W. Johnson. This history of the average American in the last half-century makes breath-taking reading. Published at $3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Preble's Boys, by Fletcher Pratt. Here is the exciting and impressive story of the birth of the United States Navy. A neglected corner of American History comes to life in this book. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Modern Arms and Free Men, by Vannevar Bush. The man who knows more about modern scientific warfare than most gives an encouraging answer to today's problems. Published at 3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Dictionary of Word Origins, by Joseph T. Shipley. Burton Rascoe says "There is great fun, as well as a liberal education, in reading Dr. Shipley's fascinating study." Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.45

The Great Elector, by Ferdinand Schevill. In 1640, Frederick William of Hohenzollern, himself a refugee, inherited from his father a parcel of ravaged lands stretching across northern Europe. At his death forty-eight years later, the seeds of modern Germany were sown. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.98

EVEN AT THESE PRICES, GIFT WRAPPING IS ON THE HOUSE.

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Cloudy and slightly cooler today with 70 high. Yesterday's high, 74; low, 57.

The Daily Tar Heel

TRIO
Snook has the Big Three for student government. See Nonplus, p. 2.

VOLUME XLI NUMBER 20 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWS IN BRIEF

ABERDEEN, Md.—The United States is preparing to fire an actual atomic shell from the 11-inch weapon it has already labeled as an "atomic cannon", Army Secretary Frank C. Pace disclosed yesterday. Pace made the announcement at the army proving grounds following a public demonstration of three of the 85-ton monsters specially designed to fire the atomic missles. As yet, the only shell fired in the cannon has been of high conventional explosives. However, Pace pointed out that "it has fired a shell capable of holding an atomic warhead."

★

NEW YORK—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had a gross income of $888,303—including his $635,000 from his book, "Crusade In Europe"—during the past 10 years, his headquarters disclosed this week. The Republican presidential candidate paid $217,082 in taxes, said the public statement, and subtractions of these taxes and allowable deductions from his gross income left the former General with a net of $643,148 for the last 10 years.

★

CHESTER, Calif.—Little Sondra Young gave authorities a surprisingly detailed description of the "nice man" who killed her father, her sisters, her playmate and savagely beat her with a bloody pipe. Shortly after the three-year-old child told her story, Louis Edmund Blair, a Chester theater owner, was arrested. Blair protested his innocence and no charges had been filed against him yesterday.

★

SEOUL—American GI's of the 31st Regiment stormed and captured bitterly-contested Triangle Hill yesterday in a sharp attack which carried them over the crest and down the enemy-held northern slope. The UN is pressing its biggest ground assault in a year against the twin peaks on the central front. Late yesterday afternoon, U. S. troops occupied Sandy Ridge in the Triangle area without resistance but called off the attack on Jane Russell hill nearby when the Reds unleashed a heavy motar and artillery barrage. Allied planes gave air support to the infantrymen when the weather cleared. See picture on page 4.

★

BARKSDALE, Wis.—A pair of explosions rocked a duPont explosives plant here early yesterday and the plant manager said eight men were "unaccounted for". No bodies had been discovered and no deaths officially reported last night. The eight men unaccounted for were feared dead by B. A. Semb, but no names were immediately released. The first explosion smashed a building housing nitromex producing equipment and six men were believed to be in the building. A second blast shook the chemical works, Semb said.

Y Supper Forum To Meet Tonight

"Life in a German University" will be the subject of the YMCA Wold Understanding Supper Forum at 5:30 p.m. today in Lenoir Hall.

The meeting, which is open to all who are interested, will feature a panel of students from University of Goettingen, Germans studying here this quarter. Ham Horton, student body president, will be chairman of the panel.

Draped

Senior pictures will be taken through Wednesday in the basement of Graham Memorial. Boys should wear white shirts, coats and ties. Girls will be draped.

Graduate students pictures will be taken today and tomorrow only. There will be a charge of $2 per picture. Grad girls should wear white blouses. The Dental School will also have their pictures taken today. Pictures are being taken between 2 and 9 p. m.

WILLIAM TROTMAN, Winston-Salem, plays the lead, and Mary Long, Chapel Hill, his wife, in the Carolina Playmakers' production of "Death of a Salesman" to be presented October 22-26. Tickets are on sale at Swain Hall or Ledbetter-Pickard.—Photo by Kai Gurgensen.

Ex-Prof Won't Answer Senate On Red Query

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—A former University of North Carolina woman instructor refused today to tell a Senate Committee if she belonged to the Communist party.

Mrs. Dorothy Hope Eldridge of New York, editor of a UN publication on population statistics, refused any statement on connections with various organizations and persons which the committee indicated were Communist.

Mrs. Eldridge said she was a member of the faculty for 11 years, but she refused to say if she was a member of a Chapel Hill, N. C., Communist unit. She later worked for the U. S. Bureau of Census and the International Food and Agricultural Organization.

(Meanwhile in Chapel Hill, Chancellor Robert B. House confirmed that Mrs. Eldridge was a one-time faculty member there. The Chancellor said the woman was there between the 1930's and '40's. He could not give the exact date. Mrs. Eldridge was with the Sociology Department, the Chancellor said.)

Coed Visiting Drinking Are Meet Topics

Drinking regulations and coed visiting in men's dormitories, men's apartments and fraternity houses were discussed at a luncheon meeting given by Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael yesterday.

Miss Carmichael called the group together to discuss problems facing the campus at large and women students in particular. She told the group that "in view of the changing fabric of our society, certain of these problems, by no means new problems on this campus or in society in general, must be faced realistically, maturely and rationally, and attempts made to solve them to the satisfaction of the students, the University and the state of North Carolina."

Present at the luncheon held at the Carolina Inn were Mrs. Donald Stanford, former chairman of the Coed Senate; Mrs. Ralph Strayhorn, former chairman of Women's Honor Council; Sue Stokes, former chairman of Women's Interdormitory Council and now assistant director of YWCA; Miss Marcia Harrer, personnel adviser to women; Virginia Hall, chairman of Women's Residence Council; Carman Nahm, chairman of Women's Council and Nancy Ripple, chairman of the Coed Affairs Committee of the Student Legislature.

Gray Amplifies Bowl Views

At 5 P.M.

YDC Rally Will Hear Umstead

John W. Umstead, prominent State legislator, insurance executive and UNC graduate, will lead a Young Democrats Club rally at 5 p.m. today in the campus green in front of Graham Memorial.

He will be introduced by Dr. E. J. Woodhouse, political science professor here.

YDC president John Sanders said yesterday that a small band is expected to be present for the rally. Refreshments will be served later in the lounge of Graham Memorial. If inclement weather prevails the site will change to Gerrard Hall.

Umstead, who first went to the State legislature in 1931 and hasn't been defeated for over a decade, is known throughout the state for the progressive legislation he has sponsored.

A brother of the Democratic nominee for governor, he graduated from the University in 1908 and has been a member of the Board of Trustees and its Executive Committee for years.

Soon after his graduation he joined the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. in Greensboro and eventually rose from assistant supervisor to district manager. He has won most of the awards the company offers and is regarded as one of the top-notch insurance executives in the state.

He was sponsor of many of the House's progressive bills, helped direct the battle for a nine months school term, and was author of the Umstead Act, which put the University out of the mercantile business. Umstead was also prominent in the move to transform Camp Butner into a mental, alcoholic and youth rehabilitation center.

17 Germans Make Tours For Studies

The 17 young German teachers, who are spending five months at the University studying the American way of life under the sponsorship of the U. S. Office of Education, are continuing a busy schedule of engagements both on and off the campus.

This week they are making three visits to Raleigh where they will take in the State Fair, attend the annual State Rural

(See GERMANS, Page 3)

French Film Here Tonight

"Jennie Lamour," a French film starring Louis Jouvet and Suzy Delair, will be shown tonight in Memorial Hall at 8 p.m.

The film, directed by Henri-Georges Clouzot, won the grand prize at the Venice Film Festival It is being shown here under the auspices of the Student Union Activities Board

Tickets for the art film series will be on sale for the last time tonight, SUAB Chairman Ken Penegar said yesterday. Price is $1 for the series.

Matter Should Be Decision For Institution

Is Still Against Post-Season Tilts For UNC Or State

By Rolfe Neill

He hadn't retreated from his stand on post-season football games, President Gray said yesterday, only changed his mind about the method of regulating them.

And the method of regulation, he added, should be "institutional conscience" rather than conference rule.

The Consolidated University officer made his remarks to a news conference called at his office yesterday afternoon. The conference was for the purpose of amplifying remarks Gray made in an address to the Greensboro alumni University Day dinner Tuesday night.

"My change is not one of principle but one of method of accomplishment," Gray continued. "I have not changed my position. I'm personally against post-season games for either State or Chapel Hill."

He drew a laugh when he added, "—or Woman's College for that matter."

President Gray was one of those who helped write in the conference rule two years ago prohibiting post-season games for conference members.

The president said, however, he would not fight a Southern Conference rule change should it come up at the group's meeting this December if "I were convinced a majority of institutions, including the institutional presidents, were for" such a measure. "I would not try to impose the minority view on them."

Gray referred to the Southern Conference rule banning post-season games as "spectacular" in that it has been applied while some other rules have been overlooked. The president did not "want to point the finger at anybody" or take a "holier-than-thou attitude." He said that he felt all conference rules should be as strictly obeyed as the post-season game regulation.

It is common knowledge that all rules are not adhered to by all conference members. Athletes refused admittance for academic reasons at one conference school turn up playing for another. Some schools are in moral violation of the subsidy rules and other regulations. At present, Maryland is under suspension for participating in a bowl game last New Year's Day.

The president pointed out he

(See GRAY, Page 4)

THE SEVENTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the UN opened before a crowd of celebrities in the world organization's new headquarters in New York. However, the bitter debate on Korea, expected to be started yesterday by Secretary of State Dean Acheson, failed to materialize. An Acheson aide said the secretary was going to "get the feel of the Assembly" before delivering the speech, on which he reportedly is still working. In the top picture left to right are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Warren Austin and Acheson. The Soviet team to the convention is pictured at bottom. From left to right are Valerin Zorin, Andrei Gromyko and Andrei Vishinsky.—UP Telephoto.

Students Give Opinions On UN Progress, Korea

By Charles Haskett

With the opening of the seventh annual session of the United Nations, the war-ragged world turned her shabby eyes toward the hopes of quick solution of the Korean War.

In connection with the opening, a number of Carolina students were asked what they would do if they were Ambassadors to the UN and if the organization has made any marked advances toward a solution to world-wide peace.

Hugh Barwick, Clinton freshman, declared that as far as his opinion ranged, the UN has done little, if anything, except do a good job of killing time. "I'm in favor of getting the Korean War over with as soon as possible and by any conceivable methods."

"The UN has done a fine job in establishing international law and progress in social and diplomatic relations," emphasized Don Davis, first-year law student from Asheboro. Davis said that the United Nations was definitely an organization which the larger nations of the world had rather be members than otherwise.

As to what the UN should do concerning the Korean conflict, Davis said he was in favor of withdrawing as many United States men as possible with some hope of possible negotiations with Red China. "I'm in favor of using Chinese nationalist troops, should we stay."

Jane Holleman, Dublin, Ga., junior, stressed that the war is merely a "politicians," war and that the American people are disgusted with the issue. "The UN can not make any progress since everybody has the veto power. Bloc after bloc has proved that point. If I were an Ambassador, I would consult that mastermind of the human race, Pogo, the great."

"It's high time we broke across the Manchurian border and got this thing over with," sounded off a Roxboro senior, Ed Singleton. The UN either should conduct a full scale war or drop the whole matter, concluded Singleton.

Virginia Hall, senior from Elizabeth City, decided that it is high time to place Russia "on the carpet and see just where she stands.—It is a known fact that the Reds are supplying background leadership along with front line equipment. Yet they are members of the UN, and are outright attempting to defeat the cause they are supposedly striving so hard to seek."

"We simply cannot go into Manchuria or the UN will be there for the next 100 years," stressed Charles Ragland, Kernersville junior. "I'm wholeheartedly in agreement with the UN's present plans of limited action and sincerely believe that that is the only way to ultimate victory."

"If I were an ambassador to the UN, my first vote would be to get out of Korea," declared Helen Beard, senior from Hillsboro. "I believe that the UN has accomplished a number of important things, mainly their Point 4 Plan."

Ed Stockton, Winston-Salem sophomore, said he was in favor of using guided missles to the Nth degree. "By using the missles, it seems to me that we could cut down on our casualities and up the Reds. As far as an organization that is seeking to establish world-peace, the UN is in the middle of the stream, neither going forward nor backwards."

"Let's finish what we started and then quit," opinioned Joyce Doughty, senior from Waycross, Ga. "Maybe the UN has done a little but it appears that the main thing they are doing is specializing in the art of losing lives."

Movie Head Says Film Withdrawal Own Idea

"I withdrew the movie myself. Dean Carmichael, the P-TA or no one else told me to," Carolina Theater Manager E. Carrington Smith said yesterday.

Smith referred to the Italian movie "Tomorrow Is Too Late" which was withdrawn after a short run Tuesday. Rumor spread that the theater was forced to withdraw it.

George And $13

Genial George should be in the Y Court this morning.

The collie was released yesterday from an animal hospital where he recovered from gunshot wounds in the face. George's only trouble is now that he needs someone to pay his $20 medical bill.

So far $7 has been contributed. The Daily Tar Heel welcomes $13 in further contributions.

Pepper Orated Over The Fence

YMCA Secretary Here Tells Of School Days With Sparkman

By Jody Levey

If the Republican National Committee sent an investigator to find out about Democratic Veep nominee John J. Sparkman, Claude C. Shotts of the University YMCA could tell them plenty.

Shotts was one of Sparkman's closest friends at the University of Alabama over 30 years ago. In an interview yesterday, the Y secretary recalled how "We went to school together, went to Sunday School together and double dated together." The Y secretary added that his wife and Sparkman's wife were very close friends.

"He was very interested in politics then and was very active in student government. He was editor of the school paper and when he went to Law School he held the position of secretary to the YMCA for two years." Sparkman took both his law degree and M.A. at Alabama.

Laughing, Shotts recalled the summer of 1920 when he, Sparkman and Claude Pepper, later Democratic senator from Florida, went on the ROTC training program at Fort Monroe, Va.

"About 15 of us went to Jamestown for the day and it was closed. The caretaker had evidently become rather peeved with people wanting to get in. When we found it wasn't open, Claude Pepper stood up and gave quite an oration over the fence. Then the caretaker came out and began shouting at us. Pepper talked to him, gave him a cigar, and the caretaker let us in and gave us a very extensive tour."

Sparkman worked in the power house while he was at Alabama, Shotts said, shoveling coal and unloading box cars. Sparkman and Pepper were on the same shift. Sparkman and Shotts waited on tables together and even formed a joint "truck transfer company."

Shotts said that he saw a great deal of the Alabama senator when he was in Washington during the war. Shotts was connected with the Friends Service in Washington which worked with the selective service in placing conscientious objectors. "Sparkman was one of the more liberal and sympathetic congressmen in Washington at the time," Shotts said.

Commenting on the recent effort to investigate the question of Mrs. Sparkman being on the Senator's payroll, Shotts said that Sparkman often returned $20,000 to $30,000 of his office expense

(See SPARKMAN, page 4)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher
Natl. Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. ..... Ned Beeker

The Redistricting Bill

Campus politicians have succeeded in dividing the two men's dormitory districts into five smaller ones. The controversy between the two parties over the validity of the law has been settled by the Student Council, so the new districts will take effect for the coming election.

No one questions the Student Council's decision. It was made after much deliberation and was based on the constitution, the supreme voice in such disputes.

But what of the motives behind the law?

UP proponents of the redistricting bill claim that it will "bring about a closer relationship between legislator and student." It will no doubt do that. It also puts Cobb Dormitory, the largest, most unified, and most politically potent group, in a single district by itself. Could this have been their true motive?

The opponents of the bill, the Student Party, claim that this is not a political issue. They contend that the plan of redistricting was unfavorable for other reasons. They tried to offer another plan for redistricting. It was not accepted. Could it be that the Student Party was in fear of losing more political ground to the now dominant University Party?

The politicians of both parties would do well to think twice. Their duty is to act in the best interest of the student body and ignore partisan political maneuvers. We deem the redistricting measure a move in the right direction. However, we cannot endorse the selfish political motives which we feel were the underlying factors on the part of both sides throughout the struggle.

—LK

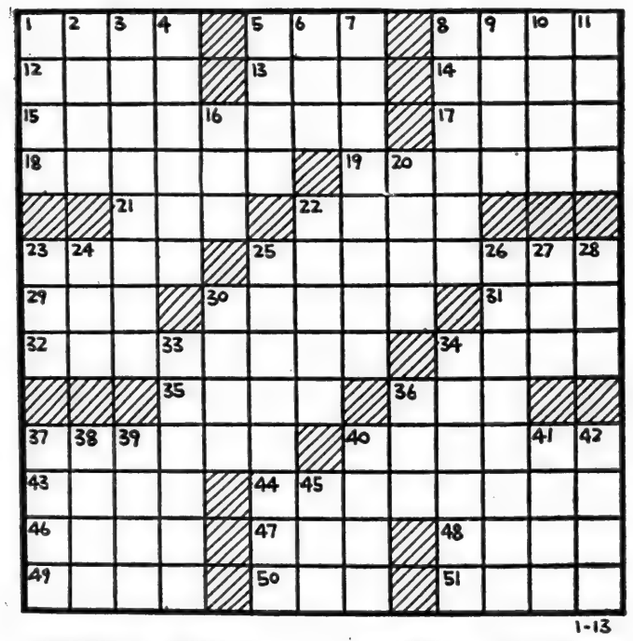
Express Yourself

Men, Women and Smokes

Editor;

In regard to the article by Harry Snook in the Thursday edition of the Daily Tar Heel, we have a poem we would like Mr. Snook to read.

Men, Women and Smokes



Bad men want their women to be like cigarettes,
Just so many, all slender and trim
In a case, waiting in a row
To be selected, set aflame—and—
When their flame has died—discarded.

More fastidious men prefer women like cigars.
These are more exclusive,
Look better, and last longer:
If the brand is good they are not given away.

Good men treat women like pipes.
And become more attached to them
The older they become!
When the flame is burned out
They still look after them,
Knock them gently (but lovingly)
And care for them always—no man shares his pipe.

Nothing like a man with a pipe ! ! !

Three girls who request that their names be withheld.

HORIZONTAL
1. macaws
5. smear
8. gaiter
12. char
13. malt drink
14. cornbread
15. Civil war battlefield
17. ancient alphabetical character
18. vast plain
19. puffs up
21. Portuguese coin
22. small merganser
23. Hawaiian garlands
25. French satirist
29. salutation
30. hold back
31. former government agency (abbr.)
32. Jewish festival
34. seethe
35. twilights
36. work party
37. invader
40. petty ruler under a despot
43. handle
44. elaborate literary composition
46. let it stand
47. auditory organ
48. cut of meat
49. contract for services of
50. stain
51. epochs

VERTICAL
1. Arabian garments
2. dwarf
3. blood vessels
4. shore birds
5. ship officer
6. wing
7. call to mind
8. lie ungracefully stretched
9. fresh-water catfish
10. feminine name
11. golf mounds
16. slender finial
20. sly glance
22. satiates
23. fold over
24. feminine name
25. returned to former state
26. prior
27. wrath
28. ancient maxim
30. bird of peace
33. grave
34. colonize
36. cry of sheep
37. reckless
38. prefix: against
39. Bohemian river
40. series of changes in plant formation
41. continent
42. small enclosures
45. beam

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

P	R	I	M		S	A	L	E		S	O	W
R	U	N	E		A	N	E	W		O	R	A
E	G	G	S		L	O	V	E	L	I	E	R
		R	A	S	E	D			I	L	L	S
B	O	A		E	M	E	E	R	S
A	R	T	E	L		S	T	A	T	U	E	S
S	E	E	L	E	D		A	V	E	N	G	E
E	S	S	E	N	E	S		I	N	S	E	T
			C	E	Y	L	O	N		E	R	A
G	L	U	T			I	N	E	R	T
R	U	S	S	I	A	N	S		O	T	T	O
O	N	E		C	A	G	E		A	L	A	R
W	A	D		E	R	S	T		D	E	N	T

1-13

Average time of solution: 24 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Barry Farber

Personally

Senator Joe McCarthy in his brief career as a mud huckster and cut-rate security monger has actually furthered the Communist cause far more effectively than an entire army of pinkoes, sympathizers, and Hissing Algers. Ironically enough, the popcorn patriot from Wisconsin gives the Kremlin clique their warmest comfort since Normandy and their biggest laugh since Yalta.

Usually an attack on the Wisconsin whiplasher degenerates into monotonous whimpers of "character assassin," "bigot," "publicity seeker," and "guilt by association artist." Although these complaints are all eminently valid, the real dangers of McCarthyism strike much deeper into the tender core of our battle for survival.

Let's rip up a page out of the Communist handbook and see how the red-baiting techniques of the Senator play directly into the very hands he is trying so dramatically to bite. The job of the professional Communist is to go into a community and spot out all the social ills such as unemployment, poverty, race prejudice, and poor air-conditioning in shoe factories. Then he clears his throat, oils his mimeograph machine, sharpens his ideology, and proceeds to harp on these blights longer, louder, and with more brimstone than anybody else.

The Communist does absolutely nothing to correct these rancid imperfections in our society. In fact, he's glad they exist because it makes his agitation program easier and more effective. Here's where McCarthy goes into the game replacing common sense because most non-Communist citizens, who may be sincerely desirous of improving unsavory conditions, become afraid to open their traps for fear of swallowing one of the Senator's venomous herrings and being indelibly branded a "Red." So the citizen confines his cocktail crusading to harmless talk of stamping out juvenile delinquency and soil erosion and, in the eyes of the world, the Communists get a monopoly on reform and progress.

To realize just how deep the phantom of McCarthyism has weaseled its way into your subconscious thinking, let's conduct a little experiment. Do you believe in peace, equality of opportunity, and slum clearance? Are you against lynching, exploitation of workers, and subhuman living conditions in backward areas of the world? Suppose I brought you a petition clamoring for the first three and denouncing the latter. Would you sign it? Be careful now. It looks "Red" doesn't it?

I suggest that, not only would you refuse to sign it, but you wouldn't even like to be caught reading it. In fact you'd probably hate to be seen anywhere near me while I was carrying it. Radical? Un-American? Look again. You won't find a single idea that isn't passionately expressed in American documents from the Declaration of Independence to the Atlantic Charter.

McCarthy has teamed up with the Communists to squelch the old American zeal for genuine human betterment. Silence is golden, and far more comfortable.

But what about the crimson brigade of "security risks" holding down big government jobs in Washington? Here again the sulfuric Senator hits the nail squarely on the thumb. If and when a real capital-C Communist entrenches himself in a key position along the Potomac, he can casually dismiss the charges against him as "groundless McCarthyism"—and convince a lot of people that he is merely another of the long line of helpless, innocent idealists who accidentally got tabbed by McCarthy's crimson curse.

I applaud Senator Joe's desire to root out subversives ruthlessly and effectively. However, the sentry who fires at every tiny grasshopper, thereby keeping the camp in a state of perpetual alarm, is just as dangerous as the sentry who sleeps.

"Who Wants to Know, Buster?"

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Wage Stabilization Chairman Archibald Cox was plenty miffed when John L. Lewis announced that his miners would strike unless the wage board approved by today his 24-cents-an-hour wage-boost agreement with the coal operators. But what burned Cox even more was Lewis's refusal to attend a wage board meeting to discuss the proposed pay boost.

Big John's disdain for constituted government authority is well known. But his tent-sulking on this occasion set a new record.

Immediately after Lewis's agreement with the operators, Harry Moses and Joseph Moody, spokesmen for the mine owners, suggested that both sides get a stipulation from the wage stabilization board that the wage boost would not go into effect until the WSB approved it. This is provided by law.

"Certainly not," replied the beetle-browed miner boss, adding something to the effect that the contract should go into effect immediately without any meddling by government bureaucrats.

"But it's illegal to enter into a conclusive contract without the approval of the wage board," declared Moody.

Lewis shrugged his shoulders. When later he was invited to the wage board discussion, he shrugged them agin.

Finally presidential assistant John R. Steelman persuaded big John to send his legal counsel, Welly Hopkins, to the meeting. But Hopkins blandly refused to discuss the wage agreement; also ducked questions as to whether Lewis would carry out his strike ultimatum.

"I am not an officer of the United Mine Workers and therefore not in a position to speak with authority," declared Hopkins loftily.

"Well, I don't like it when somebody puts a gun to my head and tells me to rush a decision on a matter vital to our economy, or face a strike," shot back Cox. "I also do not like having a wage agreement like this shoved at me, when both labor and industry know that it is a violation of the Defense Act to make such a conclusive agreement without our approval."

Cox said that 13 cents of the proposed 24-cents-an-hour pay boost was "allowable" under wage board regulations, but added he would have to be shown some "real evidence" before he would approve the remaining 11 cents.

However, the wage board's eight industry and labor members were favorable to Lewis. They compose a majority of the board and can outvote Cox and his colleagues who represent the public.

Strangely enough, it was mine operator Harry Moses who made the strongest defense of the propsed 24-cent pay hike, on the ground that the coal miners hadn't had a raise for "20 months." Moses also pleaded that the miners do not enjoy the "fringe" benefits—such as paid holidays—of workers in other industries.

However, Joseph Moody, spokesman for southern operators, argued that the full wage increase would "murder my people."

"I'm here asking for approval of the agreement, under instructions from my board of directors," said Moody. "But I'm personally against this. I think it will have an unstabilizing effect on our economy and will close down many mines that cannot continue to compete against fuel oil if their production costs go much higher."

It looks as if the Republicans have paved the way for removing rent controls at exactly the wrong time. Thousands of people got notices of increased rents last week in Des Moines, Kansas City, Toledo, Atlanta, Akron, Nashville, Seattle, New Orleans, and Reading, Pa.

Meanwhile the University of Michigan has completed a survey showing that rent controls was a paramount issue in deciding the 1948 election—a fact that has strategists in both parties wondering if it may happen again.

Unfortunately for the Republicans, the issue was clearly drawn in hundreds of cities, with the GOP against and the Democrats for extending controls on a local basis.

Almost without exception, rents shot up immediately after controls were abolished by city councils. In Detroit, for instance, the Detroit News reported that rent increases ranging up to 140 per cent followed a 5-to-4 vote by the city council to end controls.

As a result, rent control—as in 1948—has become the No. 1 election issue with thousands of voters in Detroit and other cities.

Referring to the 1948 election, the University of Michigan report states:

"More significant than any party differences in attitude toward rent control is the fact that almost three-quarters of the people favored it, and only one person in eight was actually opposed to it. On this issue, therefore, many voters crossed party lines."

CORRECTION—This column was in error in indicating that Norman Chandler, Publisher of the Los Angeles Times, was a contributor to either of the two Nixon funds. He contributed to Nixon only indirectly through the United Republican Fund. Chandler holds about 2 per cent interest in a trust which owns stock in the title, Insurance and Trust Company, which in turn underwrites many California oil companies. He does not control . . . The Democrats are worried over reports that the women voters are dazzled by General Eisenhower's military glory. So Governor Stevenson may pitch one of his big campaign speeches to the women . . . Senator Benton has asked Big Jim Farley to campaign for him in Connecticut . . . The TV experts who coached Senator Nixon for his famous speech were NBC prdoucer Ted Rogers and director John Clear, two of the best in the business. They rehearsed him for almost a solid day, with no one admitted except the technicians . . . Col. Robert McCormick's New American Party —sometimes called the "Chicago Tribune Party"—laid an egg in Washington. Organizer Robert Varner held two rallies to launch the new party in Washington. Fifty people attended the first "rally," only twenty came to the second. Varner was so disgusted he canceled plans for a convention, even had his telephone disconnected.

Harry Snook

NONPLUS

Here are three proposals for making Carolina student government more effective:

1. Open courts to the public.

This will allow the student body to retain democratic control over court procedures. Under public scrutiny, the councils will be less likely to use high-handed tactics, and individuals will be protected against arbitrary action in secret by a small group.

When a student is found guilty, public knowledge of the fact will serve as a great preventive measure. Potential cheaters now are indirectly encouraged by a system which fails to make him known to those whom he offended.

The argument is often heard that keeping the convicted student's name secret enables him to resume his social relations without fear of contempt. Such a view is hardly compatible with self-government. If we aren't old enough to face up when we do wrong, we're not old enough to govern ourselves.

We should not suffer a secret court system that penalizes all those who are innocent just to give an undue consideration to those who are guilty.

Even the student found innocent under the present setup may undergo unnecessary hardship because of the rumors that invariably make the rounds. Since the student body has no factual knowledge of what happened, these rumors acquire strange flavors.

An advantage to justice when courts are open is the voluntary evidence that comes from unexpected sources. The present shroud of silence may often prevent unearthing of pertinent testimony.

General interest in student government will be greatly enhanced when students have some knowledge of what is being done in their name by the branch which yields power to oust them from school.

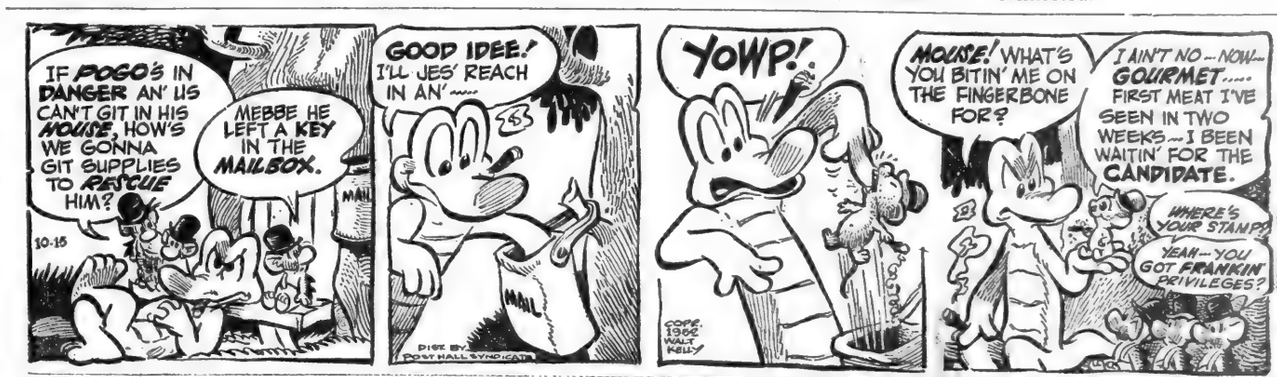
2. Provide trial by jury for those who wish it.

It frequently happens that personal relations exist between accused students and council members. In such an event, both the accused and the council should have the right to insist that the case be judged by a panel of students not intimately acquainted with either principal.

This procedure would minimize the effect of either favoritism or ill feeling.

3. Codify normal offenses and penalties.

Grievous instances of varying penalties for the same offense have occurred in past years. This situation can be corrected by systematizing normal offenses and the penalty which each involves.



Students would have a fair knowledge of just what constituted an offense. And they would be guaranteed that no individual would have to pay more or less than another in a similar case.

It would be difficult to list every conceivable offense and its penalty. But a short list will categorize normal offenses, which constitute over 95 percent of the cases tried. This would insure equality of treatment in most cases, with only the extraordinary cases being dealt with under a broad power of discretion.

Council members themselves are not malicious usurpers of justice. Most, if not all, are honest and conscientious. Their failures are those of human nature and a highly fallible court system. Many council members have worried about their power-without - limit-or - check and have searched for a better way.

The student legislature, where students are directly represented in open discussion, is where action must be taken toward revamping the court system.

Talk with your representative today.

N. C. State Soccer Team Upsets Tar Heels By 1-0

Booters Lose '52 Opener To Wolfpack

By Melvin Lang

A surprizingly strong N. C. State College soccer team rallied in the third period yesterday afternoon to take a 1-0 victory over Carolina in a Southern Conference match on Fetzer Field.

With center forward Adrian Castro leading the way, the visitors from Raleigh topped the Tar Heels to take their first match in the past two years. Castro's goal midway of the third quarter gave State its first win since 1950.

Coach Al Moore's Carolina squad dominated the play in the first half as Jerry Russell, Renny Randolph, and Tommy Hopkins led the field play, constantly blocking attempted goals by the winners. State came back after the half-time layoff and immediately took stock of the contest and held it until late in the final quarter.

Carolina Threatens

Carolina threatened several times during the game. It seemed to be headed toward a certain goal late in the game but the Tar Heels were blocked away from the goal time after time by the State fullbacks and goalie.

The teams were fairly evenly matched. Both squads played excellent soccer while skillfully moving in for goals. Carolina goalie Ben Tison, co-captain of the squad, played a good game, and except for State's one goal, successfully combated every effort made by the Wolfpack.

Carolina has had a two-weeks layoff because of the polio ban placed on intercollegiate athletics. This was the first contest against outside competition since the restriction was first put on the athletic department.

Virginia Wednesday

Carolina's next game will be against Virginia this Wednesday afternoon. Coach Moore announced today that a former All-Ameircan soccer star, Melvin Schmid, will officiate the game. Schmid, a former teammate of the Carolina coach at Springfield (Mass.) College, saw extensive duty in the Pacific during the last war with the Seabees.

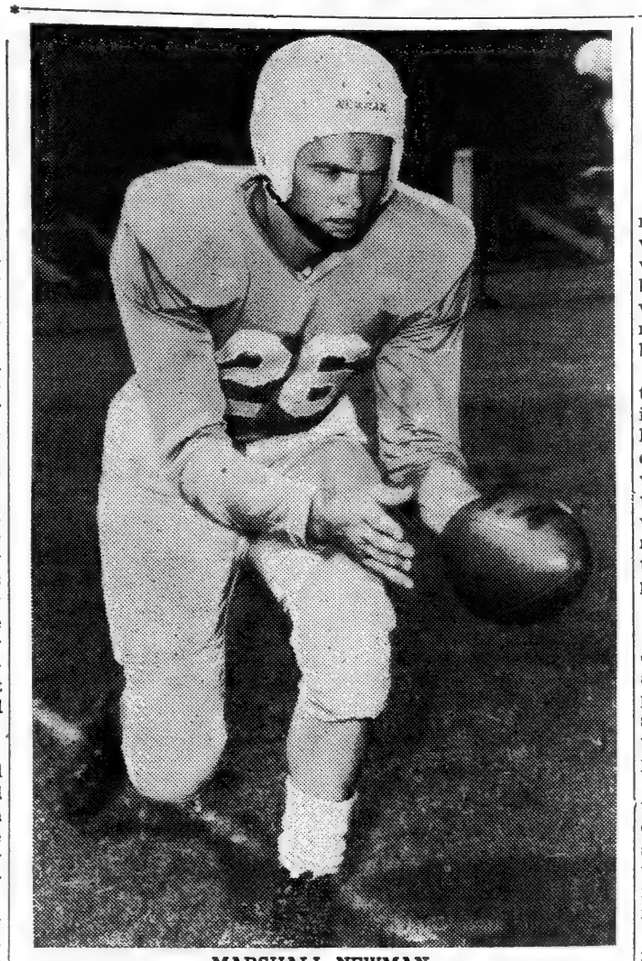
Starting for Carolina in yesterday's contest were: Russell, CF; Randolph, LI; Hopkins, CH; Ronald Younts, RF; Barry Kalb, LF; Dave Cole, RH; Fletcher Green, LH; Drew Patterson, OL; Rawleigh Tremain, OR; and Harry Pawlik, RI. Ben Tison was the goalie.

Score by periods:

N. C. State	0	0	1	0	—1
Carolina	0	0	0	0	—0

—Germans—

(Continued from page 1)



Health Conference and visit offices of North Carolina's various rural health services.

Earlier this week they had an interview with Governor Kerr Scott.

Many of the teachers, nine men and eight women, brought cameras to Chapel Hill, and they anticipate taking numerous photographs of the State Fair Thursday. They will attend the Carolina and Wake Forest football game here Saturday.

Next week plans for the teachers include a tour of a Durham county Negro school and several days of seminar sessions at the University.

On October 27 they will be conducted on an all-day sightseeing tour by members of the Durham Chamber of Commerce and on October 29 they will be guests of the Durham Health Department.

MARSHALL NEWMAN
may get starting nod at quarterback

Snavely To Taper Off After Tough Practice

By Tom Peacock

Ernie Liberati became Sonny George yesterday as Carolina football coach Carl Snavely worked on pass defense against the talented Wake Forest quarterback.

Snavely split the squad up in yesterday's practice, which was the roughest and most grueling of the week, and tapering off is scheduled for today. The defensive backfield concentrated on the pass patterns the Deacons used last week, the line did the same against running plays, and the offensive team continued to perfect the split-T.

Confidence and spirits are steadily rising in the Tar Heel camp, and more and more observers think Carolina can take Wake Forest if it develops that scoring punch. Freshmen quarterback Marshall Newman continued to work on passing, and the Carolina aerial game is expected to shoulder half the offensive threat.

The defensive line, always better than average on Snavely teams, is no exception this year. Led by game co-captain Tom Higgins, the forward wall was in top shape during practice and should give George a hard time Saturday when he tries to pass. Higgins and the line have plenty hustle and are up for the game.

The Deacs are still favored to win, and it is a fact that coach Tom Rogers always has his boys at their best when they meet Carolina. The Tar Heels are still smarting under a 39-7 loss they suffered last year from Wake Forest. The Deacs weren't at their best last week while losing to Villanova, 20-0, and should play their usual good ball game in Big Four competition.

The game is Carolina's first in Big Four competition, and is the first game between two Big Four teams. A large crowd is expected, with game time at 2:00 in Kenan Stadium. Regular tickets and date tickets are available at the ticket office in Woollen Gym.

Carolina Harriers Resume Practice

The UNC cross country team resumed practice yesterday after the lift of the polio epidemic with a full workout.

Coach Dale Ranson has issued another call for prospective candidates who want to try out for the team.

The first match scheduled with Maryland on October 23 has been rescheduled for Friday the 24th.

Picnic, Meetings Start Coed Sports Off Right

By Pepper Stetson

Carolina coeds are no longer mere spectators in the sport's world. Within the next few weeks, many of them will be seen bounding across the campus for various practices—hockey, tennis, swimming, golf, and volleyball.

The Women's Athletic Association really started the ball rolling with its annual fall picnic held by the outdoor pool on Monday evening. Louise Milliken, vice president of the Association was in charge of the picnic, which was held for the benefit of all new students interested in participating in the women's athletic program.

Outstanding Year

This year is expected to be an outstanding year in all phases of athletic activity. Betsy Norwood, president of the W.A.A., said some one hundred new coeds were in attendance at Monday's picnic.

While Margaret Dickenson saw that everyone was well "chowed down" with hot dogs and potato salad, the chairmen in charge of various sports, presented skits to introduce their particular activity to the new girls.

In addition to the W.A.A. picnic Monday, two athletic clubs met to organize their fall programs and practice schedules. The Field Hockey Club will hold practices every Monday and Wednesday at 4:00 p.m. in Kenan Stadium.

Practice Monday

The first practice will be Monday, October 20. All girls interested are urged to participate. Members of the Hockey Club form the team which throughout the season, plays several intramural games with such schools as Duke and Meredith.

Splash Club also vied for a place in the athletic spotlight Monday. A meeting of last year's members was held to elect officers and make arrangements for tryouts for new coeds.

Officers elected were: Nan Reese, president; Sue Ambler, vice president; Anne McClamroch, secretary; and Diane Dewey, treasurer.

Following the elections, it was decided that tryouts for those desiring membership, would be held Monday night, October 20, at 7:00 p.m. in the Bowman Gray Pool. Splash Club is the University's water ballet which annually puts on a water pageant.

So goes the news in the women's sports world. Better watch out boys, that cute, retiring little gal you've had your eye on, may turn out to be an aggressive athlete!

Fast Backs Pace Attack For Deacons

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

WAKE FOREST, Oct. 15.—Halfback Bruce Hillenbrand and fullback Joe Koch head a fine coterie of runners which Wake Forest will use against Carolina when the neighboring rivals meet for the 49th time at Chapel Hill Saturday afternoon.

Hillenbrand and Koch have been setting a fast pace among the ball carriers in the four games to date with Baylor, William and Mary, Boston College, and Villanova. The speedy Hillenbrand has rolled up 179 yards in 28 rushes for an average gain of 6.4 yards per play. Koch, a hard-hitting fullback, has amassed average per play.

Billy Churm and James (Pete) Coker have also been consistent gainers this fall. Churm has gained a total of 96 yards in 33 183 yards in 42 carries for a 4.4

(See DEACONS, Page 4)

Pi Lambs Nip Theta Chi, 7-0 In Mural Football Opener

The fraternity division of intramural tag football was opened yesterday afternoon with Pi Lamb defeating Theta Chi, 7-0. This game was the only one of the five scheduled at 4:00 that was played.

Howard Silvers of Pi Lamb passed to Seymour Bates for the only score of the game late in the second half. Another Silvers to Bates pass netted the extra point for the winners.

The two teams appeared to be fairly evenly matched for most of the game. Both teams made several threats to score but the drives were stopped within yards of the goal. After Pi Lamb scored, Theta Chi came back with a drive that was stopped when a Pi Lamb left half intercepted.

Two of the other four games scheduled to be played this afternoon were postponed and the other two were forfeited. The games between KA and Pi Kap Phi and Chi Psi 2 and Phi Delt 2 were both re-scheduled for next week according to Bob Isaacs, intramural official.

The contest between TEP and ZBT was a double forfeit. In the remaining scheduled game Sigma Chi 2 won on a forfeit by SPE.

The football intramurals were scheduled to start two weeks ago but polio postponed it. According to Isaacs all of these games being postponed now are going to put the already crowded schedule in a cramp.

In one of the five o'clock games completed early Zete 2 defeated Beta 2, 33-0.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

4:00—Field 1, Graham 1 vs. Cobb 1; Field 2, Lewis 1 vs. Connor; Field 3, Stacy 1 vs. Manley 1; Field 4, Winston 1 vs. Old West; Field 5, Ruffin vs. Steele.

5:00—Field 1, Med School 1 vs. Aycock; Field 2, Alexander 1 vs. Med School 2; Field 3 Mangum 1 vs. Joyner 1; Field 4, Med School 4 vs. Graham 2; Field 5, Law School vs. Med School 3.

Our IMPRINTED CHRISTMAS CARD CATALOGUES ARE HERE.

American Artist, Designers and Illustrators, Hand Print Cards. The early bird gets the choice.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Flowers For Your Every Occasion
CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
Just See Us

WINNER OF FIVE ACADEMY AWARDS
FIRST PICTURE EVER TO WIN 3 ACADEMY AWARDS FOR ACTING!
BEST ACTRESS! Vivien Leigh
BEST SUPPORTING ACTRESS! Kim Hunter
BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR! Karl Malden
also . . .
Best Art Direction and Best Set Decoration (Black and White)
Now at Popular Prices
"A Streetcar Named Desire"
"Will hold you spell-bound! Seizes a place among Hollywood's rare great movies!" LOOK Magazine
AN ELIA KAZAN PRODUCTION
PRODUCED BY CHARLES K. FELDMAN
STARRING VIVIEN LEIGH AND MARLON BRANDO
SCREEN PLAY BY TENNESSEE WILLIAMS
KIM HUNTER KARL MALDEN
FROM THE PULITZER PRIZE AND CRITICS AWARD PLAY
T-O-D-A-Y O-N-L-Y
Varsity

Like Good Food? Then You'll Certainly Like. . . .
MICHAEL'S GRILL

Somebody Loves Me
COLOR BY Technicolor
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
is for somebody you love!
Carolina
LATE SHOW SATURDAY SUNDAY—MONDAY

Headquarters FOR CASHMERE SWEATERS
BILLS MAILED HOME
THE Sport—SHOP

Mail This Ad!
"SOUTH PACIFIC"
"OKLAHOMA"
"SHOW BOAT"
LOWEST PRICE EVER! $1.25 each
4 LP's for $4.75
8 LP's for $9
BRAND NEW • NATIONALLY FAMOUS
LONG-PLAY 33 1/3 rpm ALBUM-LENGTH RECORDS
• UNBREAKABLE
• PLAY UP TO 30 MINUTES
• Great Shows
• Complete Symphonies
• Overtures
• Ballets
• Waltzes
• Piano Solos
• Semi-Classical
Equal in quality to LP's selling up to $5 each
ALL CLASSICAL MUSIC RECORDED IN EUROPE BY FULL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRAS!
15 ☐ SOUTH PACIFIC, complete score (vocals).
66 ☐ OKLAHOMA, complete score (vocals)
81 ☐ SHOW BOAT, complete score.
11 ☐ 7 PIANO SOLOS – Clair de Lune, Rhapsody in Blue, Polonaise, etc.
3 ☐ CHOPIN WALTZES AND ETUDES. Earl Wild.
31 ☐ 1812 OVERTURE plus CAPRICCIO ITALIEN.
63 ☐ BARBER OF SEVILLE OVERTURE plus FLYING DUTCHMAN.
30 ☐ TANNHAUSER OVERTURE plus LOHENGRIN PRELUDES.
49 ☐ SCHUBERT'S "UNFINISHED" SYMPHONY
54 ☐ BEETHOVEN'S FIFTH SYMPHONY.
50 ☐ SWAN LAKE BALLET plus ROMEO AND JULIET OVERTURE.
48 ☐ TSCHAIKOVSKY AND GRIEG PIANO CONCERTOS.
59 ☐ DIE FLEDERMAUS OVERTURE plus INVITATION TO THE WALTZ.
39 ☐ ROSENKAVALIER WALTZES plus JOHANN STRAUSS Operetta Music.
2 ☐ 8 STRAUSS WALTZES – Blue Danube, Emperor, You and You, etc.
25 ☐ CANDLELIGHT MUSIC – None But The Lonely Heart, Souvenir, etc.
23 ☐ 8 WORLD FAVORITES – Hora Staccato Meadowlands, Sorrento, etc
21 ☐ NUTCRACKER SUITE – Waltz of the Flowers, etc
22 ☐ PEER GYNT SUITE – Anitra's Dance, etc
33 ☐ 8 VIENNESE WALTZES – Merry Widow, Sari, 2 Hearts In ¾ Time, etc.
27 ☐ L'ARLESIENNE SUITE plus MIGNON OVERTURE.
28 ☐ EINE KLEINE NACHTMUSIK (Mozart) plus EGMONT OVERTURE.
14 ☐ JEROME KERN'S BEST – Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, Who, Long Ago, etc
12 ☐ CONCERT TIME – Begin the Beguine, Night and Day, etc
6 ☐ 8 RUMBAS – TANGOS – La Cumparsita, Tico Tico, Besame Mucho, etc.
60 ☐ THE MIKADO AND THE GONDOLIERS (vocals)
64 ☐ PINAFORE, IOLANTHE AND YEOMAN OF THE GUARD
37 ☐ WILLIAM TELL OVERTURE plus MARRIAGE OF FIGARO.
BROADWAY RECORD MART
255 W. 34th St., New York 1, N. Y.
WE PAY POSTAGE on all orders for 4 LP's or more. Add 35 cents to cover packing and postage on orders for LESS THAN 4 LP'S.
No C.O.D.'S Please! SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
Please send me the records checked above.
I am enclosing check ☐ Money Order ☐
NAME . . . . . .
ADDRESS . . . . . .

Announcer Auditions

Announcer auditions for those interested in being on the staff of WUNC will be held in Studio A of the Communications Center between 3 and 5:30 p.m. today. The auditions are open to the public.

SEE FOR YOURSELF

See how you can get a Quicker, Closer shave in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry

Sunbeam SHAVEMASTER

Come in and make this test. Find out for yourself what this Sunbeam can do.

Factory Representative In Our Store.

THURSDAY Oct. 2nd
FRIDAY Oct. 3rd

1-5 P.M.

TOWN & CAMPUS

Yack Names 1953 Editors For Annual

Staff appointments for the 1953 Yackety Yack were announced yesterday by Editor Hugh Gale.

Managing Editor Bob Colbert and Business Manager Russ Cowell were appointed last spring. Sara Jane Capps has been appointed freshman editor; Helen Gustafson is senior editor; Margerite Grady and Anne Sory, junior class editors; and Mary Mitchell, sophomore editor.

Beauty section editors are Lib Moore and Jack Smithwick; ROTC editor, Warren Reible; honoraries editor, Donna Blair; professional and graduate school editor, Mary Lilla Browne.

Jody Levey has been appointed sorority editor and Gene Hafer is fraternity editor. Tommy McDonald is the newly appointed sports editor.

Photo staff members are Jack Markham, William Tolbert and Lee Paul. Daisey Wade, Margarite Grady and Jackie Anderson are on the art staff.

Members of the activities staff are Anna Redding, Shepherd Ruskin, Janyce Winders, Ann Fitzgerald, Ann Penton, Laura Hays and Claire Boone are on the activities staff. Joyce Doughty is Yack secretary and Duke Widoff is ad salesman.

Kappa Psi Lists 20 New Pledges

Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Psi pharmaceutical fraternity yesterday announced the names of 20 new pledges.

They are James Anderson, Durham; Charles Aycock, Black Creek; Joe Barbour, Jr., Burlington; Bob Coleman, Burlington; Hugh Farnsworth, Asheville; Wiley Harrell, Virginia Beach; James Knight, Columbia; Ed Martin, Reidsville; Bob Matthews, Morehead City.

Scott McKeithan, Shallotte; Russell Mitchell, Roseboro; Hoy Moose, Mt. Pleasant; Herbie Pate, Clinton; Lionel Perkins, South Boston, Va.; Wayne Polk, Marshville; Tom Richardson, Sparta; Steve Roberts, Marshall; Tommy Temple, Zebulon; Phil Thomas, Roxboro, and David Hix, Harmony.

A ROK TANK IS SHOWN firing on Red positions around Whitehorse Mountain. The firing is done through a protective smoke screen so the position will not be given away. United Nations troops have hurled heavy attacks against the Red troops. For other Korean news see News in Brief, column 1, page 1.—UP Telephoto.

Card Board

The Card Board will meet tonight at 7:30 in Roland Parker 1 in Graham Memorial. All old and new members are asked to be present.

Senior Rings

Class rings will be on sale in the Y today. Today is the last day rings can be ordered to be delivered in time for Christmas.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet tonight at 6 in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall. Everyone is invited.

House Presidents

No late permissions will be granted for tonight for the Sonja Henie Ice Review since it will be presented both Friday and Saturday nights.

SUAB Chairmen

All SUAB chairmen will meet for lunch today at 1 p. m. at Lenoir Hall, upstairs dining room.

Coordination

The Coordination Council of SUAB will meet at 4 p.m. today in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial.

Hong Kong (Curve Inn) Opens Today

The Curve Inn's gone Chinese.

With today's formal opening, the old Carolina standby will no longer be under its old name — instead it's the Hong Kong and will specialize in Chinese foods.

Meals will be served from 5-11 p.m. every night. As a special opening day attraction tonight souvenir chopsticks will be given out by proprietor Joe Poy.

—Sparkman—

(Continued from page 1)

allowance to the government. In mentioning the Small Business Committee, headed by Sparkman, Shotts' great-grandfather was a also returned expense allowance money to the government from the committee.

Shotts comes from a long line of Republicans but this election will find him going Democrat. Shott's great-grandfather was a Republican representative in the Alabama State Legislature back in the 1850's, but the Y Secretary is now an ardent Democrat.

—Gray—

(Continued from page 1)

was "deeply and unalterably opposed" to freshmen playing varsity ball.

In talking of the conference regulations, Gray said regretfully, "Everything that comes along seems to be relaxing or loosening the standards . . . an institution has got to determine to what extent it complies to the letter and spirit of conference regulation."

—Deacons—

(Continued from page 3)

efforts for an average of 2.9 yards while Coker has picked up 44 yards in 18 rushes for a 2.4 average.

Others who have been instrumental in the ground attack are Bobby Frederick, Nick Maravic, Larry Spencer, Jim Bland, Bobby Brincefield and Charles (Sonny) George. Altogether the Deacons have amassed a total of 596 yards in 181 carries for an average gain of 3.3 yards per play.

Hillenbrand's best run of the season was an exciting 60 yard touchdown sprint around right end in the William and Mary game. Koch's best gain was a 20-yard smash through the middle of the line for Wake Forest's touchdown in the Boston College game.

Frederick, the sophomore speedster from Goldsboro, grabbed a loose ball out of the air in the William and Mary game and raced 57 yards before he was finally brought down. Spencer made a 92-yard touchdown run on the kick-off against William and Mary and also had a 68-yard dash on the kick-off in the Baylor game.

The Deacons have scored five times this season as the result of ground plays, have tallied once on a pass, and scored one touchdown on a kick-off run.

Lazy Literates To Hear Flaten

Dr. Arnold Flaten, art department head at St. Olaf's College, Northfield, Minn., will open the program of the YMCA Lazy Literates Committee this afternoon at 4 o'clock when he speaks on "Dostoyevsky and Religion."

Throughout the year Lazy Literates will present these programs which will consist of "talking, listening and thinking" on topics such as art, literature, philosophy and religion. Discussions will be led by students, faculty or guest authorities. All students are invited to attend the gatherings which will be held at the Y lounge or at homes of faculty members.

The Oriental
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

There has never been such emotion!
There has never been such color!
There has never been such dancing!
There has never been such a love story!
There has never been a motion picture like...
"The Red Shoes"
COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR
WINNER OF 3 ACADEMY AWARDS!
TODAY
NOW AT POPULAR PRICES!
Carolina

The Inside-The-Lines story of the gallant men who are fighting the biggest drama on earth . . .

HOWARD HUGHES presents
ONE MINUTE TO ZERO
starring ROBERT MITCHUM ANN BLYTH
and EDMUND GRAINGER PRODUCTION
LATE SHOW SAT.
SUNDAY—MONDAY
Varsity

Our Greatest Pleasure . . .
IS TO MAKE YOU HAPPY WITH YOUR
THE PINES
"Raleigh Rd."
FAVORITE MEAL AND OUR EXCELLENT SERVICE. FOR THOSE SPECIAL OCCASIONS JUST PHONE 2-5539 FOR RESERVATIONS ! ! !

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

MEN'S NEW SHELBY BICYCLE. complete with baloon tires, kick stand, chain guard, lights. Price $40.00. Phone 9-6672. Charge 1x1

HELP WANTED FEMALE 8A

IS THERE A STUDENT'S WIFE, sweetheart, or mother who is a beauty operator and who would like to work in a modern shop. Living quarters might be arranged. Call 6961 Chapel Hill. Charge 2x1

WEDDING GOWN—SIZE 14 CREAM Satin and seed pearl embroidered Chantilly lace. Pearl and lace Cathedral cap and veil included. Good condition. Resonable price. Call 9-3371. (1-c9457-2)

BOOKS YOU'VE WANTED
At prices you can afford!

Your hawk-eyed old Intimate Bookshop, ever the beagle for bargains, presents a selection of Fall buys designed to tempt the intelligent reader.

Man, by George R. Stewart. The story of man through the ages, told briefly and simply as history, anthropology and human drama. A lively and thoroughly readable account. Published at $2.75.
Our Special $1.00

The Kenyon Critics. Studies in modern literature from the Kenyon Review. Includes studies by Robert Penn Warren, W. H. Auden, Delmore Schwartz and Lion Trilling. Published at $4.00.
Our Special $2.49

Religion Through the Ages. Edited by Bell and Macfarland. An anthology of theistic thought from the great philosophers, essyaists and poets. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Ancient Greek Mariners by Walter Woodburn Hyde. An historical account of ancient Greek geographical discovery. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.98

Incredible Tale, by Gerald W. Johnson. This history of the average American in the last half-century makes breath-taking reading. Published at $3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Preble's Boys, by Fletcher Pratt. Here is the exciting and impressive story of the birth of the United States Navy. A neglected corner of American History comes to life in this book. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.49

Modern Arms and Free Men, by Vannevar Bush. The man who knows more about modern scientific warfare than most gives an encouraging answer to today's problems. Published at 3.50.
Our Special $1.00

Dictionary of Word Origins, by Joseph T. Shipley. Burton Rascoe says "There is great fun, as well as a liberal education, in reading Dr. Shipley's fascinating study." Published at $5.00.
Our Special $2.45

The Great Elector, by Ferdinand Schevill. In 1640, Frederick William of Hohenzollern, himself a refugee, inherited from his father a parcel of ravaged lands stretching across northern Europe. At his death forty-eight years later, the seeds of modern Germany were sown. Published at $5.00.
Our Special $1.98

EVEN AT THESE PRICES, GIFT WRAPPING IS ON THE HOUSE.

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

a topping of fringe

Surrey

Tee Geez

Tops in charm. This Tee Geez leather flap trim on a soft, smooth fitting shoe which features our exclusive Foamflex cushion platform. Just rolling along and sure to please with your many wardrobe changes.
$8.95
GREEN or BROWN SUEDE with TAN LEATHER FLAP and SOLE

Robbins of Chapel Hill

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Fair and cooler with 70 high today. Yesterday's high, 77; low, 46.

The Daily Tar Heel

LETTER
Another epistle about Snook. See page 2.

VOLUME XLI NUMBER 21 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

GEN. DWIGHT EISENHOWER AND PARTY start to walk down the railroad tracks to Dallas after two car couplers broke loose just outside Dallas Railroad Station. After temporary repairs the Eisenhower Special moved into the station, and no one was injured during the confusion.-UP Telephoto

Borden's Elsie On Exhibition At State Fair

Crowds Averaging Over 100,000 At Raleigh Big Show

By John Jamison
Daily Tar Heel Reporter

RALEIGH, Oct. 16—Two famous symbols in American business—Elsie, the Borden cow and Anheuser-Busch's majestic team of horses—are on display today and tomorrow as the North Carolina State Fair enters its final days here.

Elsie is appearing in her colonial barn boudoir along with her young son Beauregard. The homey-looking manger includes a library with such volumes as "Animal Husbandry and Wifery", "Practical Bull Psycowlogy" and "Bulliver's Travels."

The Budweiser horses, seen weekly on television with the Ken Murray Show, are a magnificent group led by a mammoth about eight feet high.

Crowds have been large every day so far, averaging over 100,000 a day. John Fox, public relations director for the fair, said yesterday he expects the remaining grandstand shows to be complete sellouts.

The nightly program in the grandstand features the George Hamid revue. It is built around a geographical theme, with a complete scene dedicated to the four cardinal points of the compass. Used generously throughout the show are the Hamid "Roxyettes", performing dozens of leggy, chorus-line routines with the help of trick lighting effects.

Appearing in separate grandstand shows are Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers and an AAA-sanctioned automobile race which includes Tommy Hinnerschitz and his big car.

The first two days of the fair were devoted to judging of "challenge" exhibits, rabbits, pigeons, poultry, eggs, swine and cattle.

Competition in female Jerseys was swept clean by stock owned by a venerable gentleman named Cam Morrison from Charlotte. The former Senator, former North Carolina Governor was asked by The Daily Tar Heel about the quality of his stock's showing in the bull competition. "We didn't do too well there," he replied. "We brought the wrong bull though. If we had brought Royal, we would have won that too."

Beat-The-Deacs Pep Rally Is Tonight In Memorial Hall

Tar Heels are asked to get their Beat-the-Deacon spirits in high gear for tomorrow's game by attending tonight's pep rally at 7:30 in Memorial Hall.

The rally, co-sponsored by the Monogram Club and the University Club, should be over by 8 o'clock, according to its sponsors.

Head Cheerleader Bo Thorpe said the University Band will arrive at 7:15 to get things swinging. Also scheduled to be on hand tonight are Chal Port and Tom Higgins, Carolina football co-captains. The teammates will introduce UNC's offensive and defensive teams. It is not known whether Coach Carl Snavely will be able to attend.

Members of the Monogram Club have been making the rounds in dormitories in an effort to assure large attendance. Also, letters were sent to fraternities and sororities and resident coeds.

This is the second pep rally of the year, Thorpe noted, the others having been canceled along with the games because of polio. "Everybody turn up and make this a big one," Thorpe pleaded. He particularly stressed the need for new students to know the school songs and yells. "We'll beat the Deacs in score and yells," he forecast.

Freshmen Asked To Learn Yells, Songs For Rally

Art Insight Defines Man, Says Flaten

An interpretation of man from the sculptor's and painter's viewpoint was given at the University last night by Dr. Arthur W. Flaten, head of the St. Olaf College Art Department, Northfield, Minn., an authority on art history and architecture.

Dr. Flaten, who spoke in Person Hall, was brought to the University campus by the Inter-Faith Council and the Art Department. He was the first speaker on this year's religious emphasis program of the Inter-Faith Council.

Sculptors and painters are a very precise part of the historical record, Dr. Flaten said. "In his expression of man the artist has given excellent documentation of man's idea of God. In interpreting God he interprets his idea of man," the speaker said.

What the primitive African sculptor says about man is far from the interpretation of man shaped by Michelangelo, yet these two views are not mutually exclusive, Dr. Flaten explained. "They are penetrations into the total idea of man which derives ultimately from man's idea of God.

"The visual images of man painted or sculpted by prrimitive man, Oriental man, Greek man, Gothic man, Renaisance man, and Atomic man are an invaluable record," he said. "Viewing a primitive sculptor's image of man it is obvious that he is not interested in an anatomical expression of form. The symphony of muscles is non-existent basic in the primitive's experience are fear and frenzy.

"Here is the truest picture of man who faces the world about him with terror. Today the primitive's portrayal of man is much admired for its strong abstract rhythmic quality. The representation of man by the primitive artist may be pleasant to contemplate as an 'object d'Art' but it is a pitiful expression of man 'made in the image of God.'"

As portrayed by the Oriental artist, man was meditative, serene and untroubled, essentially an escapist, the speaker said. "He runs away to the place of mountains and waters and hides within himself with no thought or intention of return."

SEN. RICHARD B. RUSSELL, at home in Winder, Ga., for a rest, predicted that the Democrats will go in with an overwhelming victory this November. He does not plan at the present time to do any campaigning for Stevenson, as he is tired out and wants to do a little resting, he says.
—UP Telephoto.

No One Loves Postal Worm, Still Unnamed

By Jody Levey

Mrs. Gustave A. Harrer was the early bird who got the worm yesterday.

Mrs. Harrer holds down the information desk in South Building—and whenever the post office comes across something they can't handle, they pass it along to her.

Yesterday it was a worm. A rather gooey worm at that. It came in a letter addressed to "University of North Carolina, Worm Department, Chapel Hill, N.C." Scrawled across the envelop was the warning; "worm enclosed." The dateline was Hamlet, N. C.

The letter read:

"Gentleman: This worm has been of great curiosity here where I have shown it to several different people and we are unable to identify it. Wish you would satisfy our curiosity and wonder why it was found in my house. Very truly yours . . ."

Mrs. Harrer showed it to Dr. Logan Wilson and told him about the "new department." Wilson took it in to President Gordon Gray whose comment was:

"I am grateful they didn't put down in the corner "Attention, Gordon Gray.'"

Umstead Hits Republicans In Talk Here

"If Ike's elected Taft will call the figures at the dance," said colorful John W. Umstead, veteran Orange county legislator, here yesterday afternoon as he waded into both Republican candidates with words and flailing arms.

Speaking before a gathering sponsored by the campus Young Democrats Club, Umstead quoted from a conversation which he said might take place between a Democrat and a Republican on the streets of Chapel Hill. He said the Republican would bring up the subject of Communism and its prominence in government today.

"Communism," Umstead said, "was born in this country out of the conditions created by four years of Harding, four years of Coolidge, and four years of Hoover.

"The Republican would then bring up Socialism," he continued. "But Republicans give the name "creeping Socialism" to such things as the eight-hour day for the workingman, the Rural Electrification Act, and the Soil Conservation Act. Yet when they had two years in power, they didn't make any attempt to repeal any of this legislation."

"Then the Republican would say, 'We need a change,'" Umstead continued. "We needed a change in 1932 when Roosevelt was elected—a change from fear. We don't want to go back to fear. In 1932 this country was nearly bankrupt. A man I used to know told me he didn't have a penny then. When he died recently, he left an estate of more than 11 million dollars."

Umstead made reference to the luminaries of Republicanism in the past——Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. "If Abe Lincoln could take a look at the Republican party of today, at a Taft-dominated Senate and a Joe Martin-dominated House, he would disown it and turn his back on it.'

Umstead was introduced by E.J. Woodhouse, professor of political science here.

NEWS IN BRIEF

TOKYO—An Air Force C-46 with 25 servicemen aboard disappeared yesterday on a short 150-mile flight over mountainous South Korea. A search conducted by 20 planes from the 5th Air Force failed to find any clue to the lost twin engine aircraft.

★

SEOUL—American machine gunners, crouching behind barbed wire barricades, today mowed down waves of Chinese Reds storming the crest of Triangle Hill on the Central Korean front. Savage fighting also swirled across the crest of rocky Pinpoint Hill, dominant peak on nearby Sniper Ridge.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Sweden denounced Russia today for refusing to arbitrate the dispute over shooting down Swedish planes over the Baltic Sea. Swedish Foreign Minister Oesten Unden told the United Nations General Assembly the Kremlin flatly refused to submit to a hearing before the World Court on the downing of two Swedish planes which Stockholm contends were fired on by Soviet aircraft.

★

SAIGON—Vietnam Security agents reported yesterday they foiled a Communist assassination plot against U. S. Ambassador Donald R. Heath. The raiders, acting on a tip from an unidentified source, seized two automatic rifles, nine homemade grenades, and a revolver. At least two men were arrested. One was described as political commissar of the Communist-led Viet Minn rebels.

★

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—President Truman played "The Missouri Waltz" on a piano in front of the City Hall here yesterday before a campaign crowd estimated by police and Secret Service men at between 23,000 and 25,000. Plans for him to play a duet with Mayor John L. Sullivan were canceled. Secret Service men would not permit two pianos on the platform.

★

TEHRAN, Iran—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh yesterday broadcast that his government is "unfortunately obliged to break diplomatic relations with Britain." The message, originally intended for the Majlis but not read because a quorum did not attend, said the reason for the step was that "the British government has so far prevented reachoing an agreement"on the oil dispute.

George And $11

George loafed around the Y Court yesterday oblivious that his medical cure remained unpaid for.

The $20 fund still is $11 short of paying the canine's expenses. Contributions are being taken at The Daily Tar Heel office.

The campus collie was shot in the face recently by an unknown person and hospitalization was required.

Carrboro Argues Firing Police Chief

A petition asking that Carrboro Police Chief J. Alvin Williams be fired was presented to the Carrboro Board of Commissioners by a group of local businessmen this week.

Three petitions backing the chief also were presented at the same meeting. The document asking that he be removed declared he "was hurting business by his unfair methods". It was signed by 46 persons representing a majority of the town's merchants and 27 local businesses.

WILLIAM HARDY

Mayor J. S. Gibson stated that the petition would be carefully looked into by the commisioners and formal action taken at the November 11 meeting.

Williams was hired by the town's five commissioners in 1950. He came to Carrboro from Durham where he was dismissed from the police force following charges that he kept money confiscated in a gambling raid. The police officer argued then that it was a custom among Durham officers to keep the money taken in raids. He said he didn't know that it was illegal.

Gibson stated that he would call the group into a committee-of-the-whole session before next month's commissioner's meeting to give Williams an opportunity to present his case.

Following is part of the text of the petition asking for William's discharge: "He is hurting business by his unfair practices of carrying out enforcement of the law, he is causing people from the country to go to other towns to do their trading, and he uses his office to hurt anyone he may happen to dislike."

There were 72 different signatures on three petitions presented in behalf of the officer.

These petitions stated their appreciation of the enforcement of local and state laws in an impartial manner by the police force. They requested that the present force be retained.

A letter from the Carrboro school principal read, "It's been largely through their efforts that we have maintained a spotless safety record at Carrboro school."

As chief of police, Williams has supervision over Carrboro's other policeman, E. C. Parnell.

W. M. Hardy Will Manage Outdoor Play

William M. Hardy of Chapel Hill has been named general manager of North Carolina's latest outdoor drama, "Horn in the West," it was announced here yesterday by Dr. I. G. Greer, president of the Southern Appalachian Historical Association.

The decision to employ a year-round manager was made at a meeting of the directors of the association last week.

Dr. Greer said the directors were unanimous in choosing Hardy as manager of the drama at Boone and that "although 'Horn in the West' enjoyed a successful run during its first season, we are looking forward to an even greater success next year under his direction."

For the past two years Hardy has served as manager of "The Lost Colony". He resigned this position effective December 1 and plans to assume his new duties on that date. He will continue to maintain his winter office in Chapel Hill.

Hardy is a native of Virginia but has made his home in North Carolina since 1939. He is a graduate of Duke University, and, following service in the Navy during the war, taught at that institution for three years. He has been actively associated with the Durham Little Theatre, the Duke Players and the Carolina Playmakers.

Last year he was elected executive secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern Theatre Conference.

In addition to his duties with "Horn in the West", Hardy is employed by the University Extension Division as a consultant on outdoor drama.

Raleigh To Have New TV Station By Spring

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

RALEIGH, Oct. 16—The Federal Communications Commission yesterday authorized construction of a television station in Raleigh which will have an operating range of 35 miles.

The Sir Walter Television and Broadcasting Company will proceed with the station for Channel 28—an ultra high frequency band. It is hoped that the new station will be in operation by spring.

Adult Education Meet Selects 2 From UNC

Russell M. Grumman, Director of the University Extension Division, and Dr. Lucy Morgan, professor of public health education in the School of Public Health, will participate in the program of the second annual conference of the Adult Education Association at East Lansing, Mich., Monday through Thursday.

They were selected to attend the conference as delegates and to aid in planning ways of helping communities throughout the country to promote adult education.

2 Sons, 4 Dogs Too

Technical Head Of Playmakers Builds 2-Story House On Stage

By Betty Johnson

Two sons, four dogs and the always hectic technical work of the theatre keep life interesting for William I. Long, technical director this year for the Carolina Playmakers.

Long comes to the Playmakers with extensive experience in professional as well as academic technical work, which was far from his original ambition. Right now he is directing the construction of a two-story house on the stage of the Playmakers Theater for the forthcoming production of "Death of a Salesman," which opens the Playmakers' season October 22 through October 26.

A native of Seaboard, N. C., Long planned upon graduation from the University to teach playwriting, which he had studied under Frederick H. Koch, founder of the Playmakers and of the Playmaker tradition of folk drama.

His teaching career began in North Carolina high schools and continued at Marion College, Va., where he was director of speech and drama. His career was interrupted by four years with the armed forces, after which he was married and went with Mrs. Long to MacGill University in Canada, where Long taught stagecraft and his wife costuming and makeup.

In nine seasons with "The Lost Colony," Long says, "I was more or less permanently stamped as a technical man." He has been technical director there for several years, and in 1947 joined the staff of the Raleigh Little Theater in the same capacity.

Teaching and technical work have always been Long's forte. "'Proff' was the only man who ever made me act," he says, remembering his undergraduate days at Carolina.

UNC Granted $7,000 From Fund For Radio

The University will receive $7,000 from the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, it was announced yesterday by NAEB Executive Secretary Jim Miles.

Miles said the University was one of 13 institutions picked from 75 to receive funds totaling $78,000. WUNC, student station here, will be able to produce 50 quarter and 50 half hour programs from the grant.

Last For Grads

Today is the last for Graduate Dental Students to get their pictures taken for the '53 Yack. There is a $2 charge for grads but no charge for dental students.

Seniors have until Wednesday to get their pictures taken. Boys' dress is coats and ties. Girls will be draped.

Pictures are being taken in the basement of Graham Memorial from 2 to 9 p.m.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor — BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

Assoc. Ed. — Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. — Sue Burress
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Delaine Bradsher
Natl. Adv. Mgr. — Wallace Pridgen
News Ed. — Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. — Ned Beeker

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

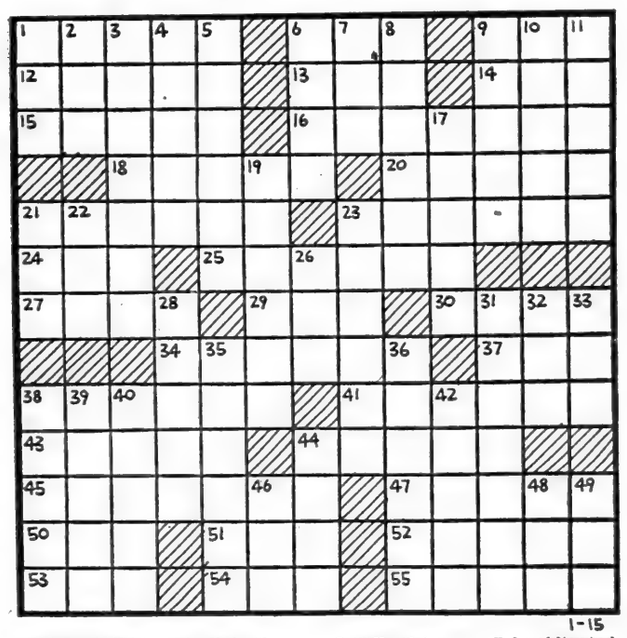
Ban Bowl Games?

President Gordon Gray made clear his position on post-season football games when he told newsmen Wednesday afternoon that he favored an "institutional conscience" method of regulation rather than a blanket ruling against the participation of Southern Conference members in bowl games.

Gray indicated that, although he remained in opposition to post-season grid events, he would not fight the lifting of the Southern Conference ban at the December meeting if such were the minority view of the institutions and their presidents.

We stand opposed to any code or ruling which would prohibit a member of the Southern Conference from accepting a bid to play in one of the New Year's Day bowl classics, with conference suspension and boycott being the automatic penalty for violation.

We interpret the banning of post-season games as a sincere move on the part of the conference officials to harness and de-emphasize the monster known as "big-time athletics." The ineffectiveness of this suppressive legislation was vividly demonstrated last season when both Maryland and Clemson resigned themselves to the bad graces of the Southern Conference rather than forego the glittering invitations to take the field against outstanding college elevens on January 1.



The restriction on bowl games is a valiant but misoriented approach to the inter-collegiate athletics problem. We can see no evil in big time athletics per se. We have no objection to the fervent nation-wide football enthusiasm and we harbor no malice against those schools whose teams consistently manage to pummel their opposition in the colorful Saturday spectacles and wind up primping their feathers in one of the major bowl games.

We are concerned only with the evils tangent to big-time athletics and not the deflation of the program itself. The elimination by executive ruling of post-season participation is a futile and unrealistic solution to the basic problems of bribery, over-subsidizing of athletes, academic manipulation in favor of halfbacks, and the other imperfections in American inter-collegiate athletics which proponents of the de-emphasis hope to correct.

The calculated obliteration of big-time athletics in order to wipe out the evils is tantamount to chopping off an arm to cure arthritis. Although an excess of public attention may warp a player's perspective and increase the opportunities for corruption, the clean-up crusade should be applied to the individual level. If there are no bribe givers or bribe takers, there will be no bribery. If a college administration rigidly adheres to a policy of academic non-favoritism, the specter of automatic passing grades on football players' transcripts will vanish.

What's wrong with a dynamic grid program, provided the players live up to common standards of honesty, the professors insist upon diligent work on the part of the athletes, the alumni refrain from exerting undue pressure, and the entire football program remains in its proper proportion with in the university community? What's wrong with bowl games, provided the players themselves are genuinely willing to forfeit a Christmas vacation?

True, these observations reek with an uninhibited idealism, but we are still unconvinced that a legislative ban on bowl participation is unlikely realize the noble result which its perpetrators desire.

1-15

HORIZONTAL
1. white poplar
6. explosive sound
9. astern
12. part of coat
13. reverential fear
14. pooh!
15. first part
16. go back over
18. capital of Delaware
20. black snake
21. earlier
23. charge with gas
24. hollow
25. cuddle
27. fish sauce
29. club
30. unfashioned
34. charm
37. nothing
38. condition
41. recoiled
43. mark of omission
44. mere trifle
45. work
47. conserve of grapes
50. indulged
51. liquid pitch
52. finch
53. prior to
54. gnome
55. tend

VERTICAL
1. high mountain
2. except
3. yellowish-green mineral
4. citrus fruit
5. number of mountain ranges in India
6. young salmon
7. be obligated
8. sea bird
9. Manila hemp
10. culet
11. soothing exclamation
17. scarcer
19. place of nether darkness
21. town in Belgium
22. anoint
23. certify
26. salt
28. purvey
31. not alert
32. clamor
33. wapiti
35. deviate from type
36. push
38. extent
39. a candle
40. sharp mountain spur
42. wild talker
44. slave
46. dancer's cymbals
48. stannum
49. outcome

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

A	R	A	S		M	A	R		S	P	A	T
B	U	R	N		A	L	E		P	O	N	E
A	N	T	I	E	T	A	M		R	U	N	E
S	T	E	P	P	E		E	L	A	T	E	S
		R	E	I		S	M	E	W
L	E	I	S		R	A	B	E	L	A	I	S
A	V	E		D	E	T	E	R		N	R	A
P	A	S	S	O	V	E	R		S	T	E	W
			E	V	E	S		B	E	E
R	A	I	D	E	R		S	A	T	R	A	P
A	N	S	A		T	R	E	A	T	I	S	E
S	T	E	T		E	A	R		L	O	I	N
H	I	R	E		D	Y	E		E	R	A	S

1-15

Average time of solution: 27 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Express Yourself

United Front

Editor:

In regard to Harry Snook's article concerning this new "cure all" called gromwell, I have a question. Has Mr. Snook ever heard of morals? Does he think a woman is chaste only because of a fear she will become pregnant? What a sorry world this would be if that were the case! Obviously the words "high morals" and "standards" are not ones Mr. Snook has included in his gigantic vocabulary.

Free love may be accepted in some circles and societies but I think most of the women in the U. S. are just slightly opposed to it! Just how many restrict sexual activities because they fear bringing a "bastard" into the world? Maybe some, but an awful lot more fortunately—have a sense of values and decency.

I believe most of the other women on this campus and other campuses will back me up in this feeling of indignation concerning the sex activities of the female and our so-called "release..!

A Co-Ed

Through Rose-Tinted Glasses

Editor:

Hallelujah! Awake ye people! Joyous times are here! We have it on the authority of no lesser one than our own venerable Harry Snook, bicycle repairman turned philosopher, that all of the world's Freudian frustrations will be ended, thanks to a new wonder drug, gromwell, which will enable men to revert to apes.

According to this erstwhile sorcerer of things to come, we will no longer have to hold to our outmoded convention of monogamous possession of a mate. Instead we can now safely adopt the good old Eskimo doctrine of "pass the old lady around boys, there's plenty for all." When we get tired of our spouse we can simply trade her to our next door neighbor for his. The time consuming and unhealthy emotion of love would pass out of the picture.

There will be many more advantage which come from the changes in our lives that gromwell will bring about, hints our versatile sage. Much time that is now wasted chasing women will be saved. For instance, a boy in the lower quad will only have to walk over to one of the coed dorms, and say, "Girls, who wants to be the lucky one tonight?" The young lady of his choice will then get a pill from a gromwell vendor which will be conveniently placed in the dorm. Now the couple will stroll down to the arboretum, check out a blanket from a University operated check out booth at the entrance, and proceed to seek primitive pleasure in modern freedom, without fear of ostracism or progeny. The University of Virginia and her Marguerita's will have nothing on us then.

Of course, as is the case with all things, the good is tempered with evil. The streets will be crowded with unemployed prostitutes. Since marriages will be contracted only by the season (much as rabbits, birds, and seals) expensive wedding rings will become impractical; hence the jewelers will go broke. Preachers will be deprived of an extra source of income and psychiatrists of the fees of their frustrated clientile. But these will have to be overlooked. We cannot hold up the progress of the masses for the benefit of the few.

Yes, happy days are coming. Do not despair at their slowness for verily, verily, I say unto ye, my fellow students, mighty Snook has thrown his inestimable weight behind the wheels of progress, and with his help the bars of prudism and morality will be broken down, thereby enabling us to enter into a glorious existence the like of which the world has never before known.

Jim Alley

Gauntlet

Editor:

You are right that Communism is not a palid, insipid political party but a malicious growth out to bring the downfall of democracy. I too like to think I am a Liberal; but I don't think Communism should be outlawed.

As we are citizens of the United States we are guaranteed the four freedoms (on the assumption that good will triumph?). This means that it is up to the individual to decide for himself what he shall believe, not dictated to from above as to his beliefs.

If the individual isn't strong enough (or democracy doesn't have as strong an attraction) to choose democracy over Communism I don't think any law will stop Communism. It must come from the individual, not bureaucratic authority. If we aren't strong enough to champion over Communism without outlawing it and don't sincerely and completely believe in democracy I don't see how legal action will do any good.

Susan Fink

"Sic 'Im, Checkers"

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON. — General Eisenhower has nothing to worry about in the way of political reaction when it comes to the tax exemption which the Treasury granted him on his house, 12 servants and living expenses at Columbia. The General wrote a letter to the treasury about this on June 17, 1948, explaining that he wouldn't need so many servants if he were not President of Columbia and asked that the house, servants, etc., not be treated as income.

The capital-gains-tax ruling given him on his book, "Crusade in Europe," is likely to have less favorable public reaction. In this case the General called personally on his friend, A. Lee M. Wiggins, then Undersecretary of the Treasury, following which the ruling was given highest priority.

One letter from the treasury to Ike was even rushed to him by special courier. Ordinarily, rulings of this kind drag on for weeks or months.

And after a preliminary draft opinion favorable to Ike was written in the treasury, Undersecretary Wiggins took the unusual step of sending it to Internal Revenue Commissioner Schoeneman with a note attached reading: "This agreement should be approved."

Eisenhower's first letter to the treasury was dated Dec. 20, 1947, and the treasury replied on Dec. 22 — with almost unheard-of speed. Since then, Congress has passed what has been dubbed "The Eisenhower Amendment" making it impossible for others writing only one book to get the reduced capital gains tax.

The General's letter, requesting that his house at Columbia and upkeep not be considered as taxable income, was addressed to Commissioner Schoeneman. It stated, in part:

"In my capacity as President of Columbia University the trustees provide an expense allowance to cover the cost of the upkeep of the large house in which Mrs. Eisenhower and I must live by reason of university tradition, the desires of the authorities, and by the daily requirements of the position. A staff of 12 servants is necessary to maintain this residence. Their salaries as well as all upkeep costs are paid from the expense allowance provided by the University.

"All my work and activities are devoted to the duties of this position. These expense accounts do not have any application to the personal living costs of my family and myself. Food, clothing, automobiles, medical care, and ordinary expense of living are paid out of private resources."

Several other unimportant letters were sent to the treasury, and in November, 1948, Internal Revenue gave Ike a favorable ruling.

Two years later, Nov. 3, 1950, after a long wrangle, the treasury permitted a somewhat similar ruling regarding hotel managers who were forced to live in their hotels. The free use of rooms, meals were not to be considered as taxable income, the treasury finally decided. This was similar to the ruling that the upkeep of Eisenhower's house was not taxable income.

It took the treasury months of additional wrangling to give a similar ruling to nurses who are required to live in hospitals. This ruling did not come down until Aug. 2, 1951, three years after Ike got his ruling, and even then it was not as clear-cut as Eisenhower's.

The treasury also has ruled that the head janitor of a building who has to live in it shall not be taxed for the value of his apartment, but the same does not apply to assistant janitors.

Hotel waiters who get free meals while serving at hotels and restaurants also got a none-too-lenient ruling. If they eat a free meal while at work, it is not taxable income. But if they eat the meal as they finish work, it is taxable income.

In Florida both Senators Spessard Holland and George Smathers have been sitting on their hands. They have made no speeches for Stevenson, lifted no finger for him, leaving it to ex-Senator Claude Pepper to organize the state.

At Tampa, Senator Smathers was invited to introduce Stevenson, but set the impossible condition that he be allowed to state during his introduction the reasons why he differed with the Governor. In brief, Smathers wanted to make a speech against Stevenson before Stevenson spoke. This was refused.

Tommy Sumner

VITRIOL

During the campaign preceding the Campus Elections last fall one party failed to comply with the duly established provisions of the General Elections Law. Specifically, they failed to meet the deadline established for the filing of candidates.

The Elections Board ruled that the candidates of that party were disqualified; however, after this ruling had been made the Chairman of the party concerned appeared and persuaded the Board that its first decision should be reversed.

This was done despite the fact that the law was clear and that the former decision was correct. The illegality of this was recognized by a member of the Board and a fellow student who appealed the decision to the Student Council.

After four hours of hearings and debate—closed to the student body of course—the Council handed down a very interesting ruling. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if even the streamer headline in the next morning's Daily Tar Heel made an impression on the student body which was commensurate with the weight of the decision.

I have the original copy of the official ruling of the Council at hand, but in it I find only a disregard of the law passed by the Legislature. There is no question of the fact that the law was violated. There is no question of the constitutionality of the law. There is only the question of political expediency.

It is certainly true that both parties wished the election to proceed without interference, and, so far as this particular instance is concerned, the course of action chosen by the Council was the most popular alternative open to them. If that were all there were to it the matter would be deader than the proverbial doornail. The difficulty lies in the precedent which this decision has set for the Campus judiciary.

The precedent is this: There is a law on the books which is unquestionably constitutional; although admittedly it is sometimes inconvenient. The law has been violated and the highest Campus Court has condoned the violation.

In denial of the tradition in which the law of this and other lands is based that a law is in force until repealed or declared void by competent authority, this law is being officially ignored when it suits the purpose of the politicians.

A similar situation has arisen this year. The Legislature has passed a bill to change the elections districts, but by law this cannot take effect for forty-five days. It is suggested that the law again be ignored and that this legislation be put into effect.

Student Government is said to be a training ground for democracy, but this is training for anarchy.

Are we digging a grave for justice?

John Sanders

Young Democrats

The world of "might have been" has come into prominence since the current presidential campaign has hotted up to its present incandescent condition.

Th. Jefferson, the first saint of the Democratic Party, has been clasped to the bosom of a variety of political god-mothers. In 1948, the Dixiecrats claimed him, because Jefferson, in his time, was the apostle of a decentralized government, or, to hear the latter-day communicants tell it, he was the first "states' righter." Saint Thomas is reputed to have said that "that government is best which governs least."

Therefore, the Dixiecrats of 1948 and the "Eisenhower Democrats" of 1952 argue that they, and not the Stevenson-Sparkman forces, have true-blue democracy on their side. In short, "if Jefferson were alive today, he would make Monticello quiver as he wrote impassioned declarations for Ike." So say those who would dwell in the world of "might have been."

The preposterous nature of such an argument is characteristic of all similar attempts to prove a point in the world of today by snatching an isolated fact from the past and applying it, completely out of its "bourne of time," to the solution of problems peculiar to our own era.

To appreciate the error involved, it is only necessary to mention some additional views held by Mr. Jefferson. He was an agrarian. Therefore, if his belief in a decentralized government makes him a Republican, then his agrarianism makes him a Populist. (So they said in 1896.) He also looked fondly upon having a revolution every twenty or thirty years. This makes him a Communist. He founded a state university. That makes him a Socialist. He bought Louisiana without authority. That makes him a dictator. He owned slaves. That makes him a Confederate.

By the same "logic", Mr. Eisenhower, had he lived at the right time, could have been a Pisistratus, a Sulla, a Grant, or a Big Brother. Or is he?

Tar Heels Open Big Four Schedule With Deacons

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Gone But Not Forgotten

FOOTBALL, THAT NEGLECTED but not forgotten fall Carolina sport, isolated away in an iron lung of precaution the past two weekends, will take a few reviving breaths in Kenan Stadium tomorrow afternoon. Whether Coach Carl Snavely can get his split-T respirator going full steam against the Deacons from Wake Forest remains to be seen. But there's one things for sure—the game with the Deacs certainly won't be a breather.

Wake Forest hasn't compiled an impressive record as far as victories go—one win, two losses and a tie—but the fact remains that they've played good football in all four of their games. And the main reason they've been such threats can be credited to eight fast and powerful legs which get the Deacon backfield across the line of scrimmage.

Sneaky Petes

THE WAKE FOREST backfield, paced by the speedy Bruce Hillenbrand, Joe Koch, Billy Churm, Larry Spencer, and quarterback Sonny George, is one of the fastest that the Tar Heels will face this season and is capable of breaking any game open when it's least expected. Spencer, in fact, sliced the heart out of William and Mary when he ripped off 92 yards for a touchdown to break a 14-14 tie in their game on September 27. The Deacons, outplayed statistically, went on to whip the Indians, 28-21 and it was Hillenbrand in that same game who swept 60 yards after only three minutes of play to score the Baptist Boys' first TD.

Then, too, when Sonny George has his arm feeling right, the Deacs can take to the air. Although Spencer and Hillenbrand did make those long runs against the Indians, it was George's passing that pulled the game out in the end. Although he didn't go for much yardage, he hit with precision on his last quarter throws and engineered the final and winning touchdown.

The Other Side Of The Ledger

BUT MORE THAN THIS offense, Wake Coach Tom Rogers is proud of his defensive line—something which could bother the Tar Heels on hand off and pitchout plays tomorrow. Although the Deacs lost to Villanova, 20-0, last Saturday, Rogers was pleased with the play of his defensive line. It had but one lapse, when it allowed Gene Filipski to get loose on a 46-yard touchdown run, and held favorably most of the day.

But even with these fast backs, sometimes brilliant passing and receiving by George and end Jack Lewis, and fine defensive work by the Deacon line, there are some points which can attribute and have attributed to Wake Forest losses. The Wake pass defense leaves much to be desired. To put it in the words of Coach Rogers, "We work and work, but in every game we permit the opposition to get one man into the clear."

Ed Mioduszewski of William and Mary found the Deacon's pass defense to his liking and gave them a baptism of passing fire that accounted for 10 completions in 22 tries and 207 yards. Billy Brannau of Villanova also spotted the weakness in the Wake defensive chain. Two of his pass plays were good for 50 yards last Saturday, one of them for a touchdown.

Elevator Team—Up And Down

THE PASSING ATTACK, brilliant some times can be just as dismal others. Against William and Mary, quarterback George was exceptional on short tosses. But against the Wilcats of Villanova, he was way off on his long passes and had four intercepted.

The Deacons have been "down" since their narrow loss to Baylor, 17-14, and their win over the Indians. A 7-7 tie has been sandwiched in between the lone win and the loss to Villanova. But they have won the title in Big Four competition for the past two years and they always have a knack for getting "up" in games with the Tar Heels, State, and Duke.

They've got the potential in their numerous fast backs, and they've got a defensive line that can cause the Tar Heels a good bit of trouble. Whether the Deacons can recognize this potential is the question which will take 60-minutes of answering tomorrow.

But one thing can be answered before the game starts. For a team that's coming up for air after a two-week layoff the going will certainly be tough. The game won't be a breather.

Four Men On Game's Injured List

By Tom Peacock

When North Carolina's Tar Heels take the field against Wake Forest here tomorrow afternoon coach Carl Snavely will stick with the same lineup, with two exceptions, that started against Texas three weeks ago.

Sophomore Steve Opitz from Perth Amboy, N. J. has earned a starting position at left tackle in place of Frances Fredere, and freshman quarterback Marshall Newman of Clinton will lead the Tar Heels from the split-T.

The Carolina football team has elected Tom Higgins of Newark, N. J., and Chalmers Port of Mifflingtown, Pa. game captains for Saturday's clash with Wake Forest. Port will direct on offense, and Higgins on defense.

Four Tar Heels will miss tomorrow's game, three because of injuries suffered in the Texas game, and one because of illness. Fullback and defensive linebacker Bull Davidson is still sidelined from an illness, and fullback John Gaylord, halfback Billy Williams, and end Benny Walser are all injured. Gaylord suffered a broken finger, Walser a hurt elbow, and Williams a sprained ankle.

Ridenhour to Start

Sonny Ridenhour is slated to take Williams place as starting safety man in the Carolina defensive backfield. Snavely has worked hard on pass defense all week long, and Ridenhour has filled the missing William's shoes well.

In addition to Newman, the backfield will be Bob White at left half, Larry Parker at right half, and Bud Wallace at fullback. Parker spent half his time against Texas playing defensive halfback, but he is expected to run from half more tomorrow. White had a good day against Texas, getting off the best Tar Heel run, and Wallace is fifth in the nation on punting with a 43.8 yard average.

Snavely Lets Up

Snavely let up on the team yesterday after putting it through three exceptionally hard days of practice. He isn't taking any chances on loosing more boys via the injury list.

Other starters for Carolina are Dick Kocornick and Tom Adler, ends, Ken Yarborough at right tackle, George Foti and Ed Patterson at guards, and Dave Mullens at center.

Grid Contest

Two tickets to the Carolina Theatre and a carton of cigarettes again await the winner of the weekly SUAB football contest.

Entry blanks may be picked up in the main hall of Graham Memorial. All entries must be turned in by noon tomorrow.

Jayvees Travel Up To Virginia For Contest

Carolina's junior varsity traveled to Charlottesville last night for its second game of the yong season, metting the University of Virginia's Jayvees this afternoon on their home field.

The Tar Heel Jayvees are expected to be at full strength for the contest. With the exception of a few minor injuries, the club is in a good physical condition.

End Norman Lane was injured during practice this week and will not be able to play. Lane started the game three weeks ago at Fort Bragg and was scheduled to go up to the varsity this weekend. His debut on the varsity has now been postponed until next week.

Carolina edged Fort Bragg's strong army team in its first outing, 7-0, with George Wallin plunging over from the two-yard line early in the fourth quarter to give the Tar Heels the victory.

Due to the polio ban, the Jayvees have been forced to cut their schedule down to only four more games, including the Virginia contest. The game with South Carolina was cancelled, and remaining tilts are left with Wake Forest in Burlington, William and Mary here, and with Duke's Jayvees on Thanksgiving Day.

Coach Ted Hazelwood stated yesterday that Carolina's chances for a victory in the contest were high. Carolina went through its season last year undefeated, and included a one-sided win over Virginia. Virginia is reported to have a strong team this season, but very little is actually known about them.

The probable lineups for today's game:

Offensive		Defensive
E-Weatherspoon		Saunders
E-Lee		Leary
T-Beaver		McCormick
T-Crahen		Frucci
G-Maultsby		Prothers
G-Alexander		Giles
C-Komas		Marcopulous
B-Loughlin		Mangum
B-Porjinski		Poindexter
B-Johnson		Lawrence
B-Hawks		Long

Got A Date?

All students who desire date tickets for tomorrow's game have until 4:30 this afternoon to get them. Applications should be made at the ticket office at Woollen Gym.

Vernon Cook, ticket manager, advised students yesterday that Identification Cards would be checked at the gates tomorrow.

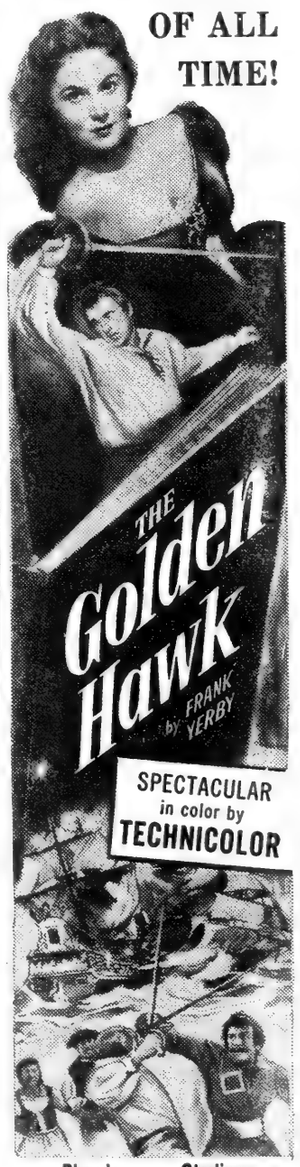
TODAY

Carolina

SEE FOR YOURSELF

See how you can get a Quicker, Closer shave in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry

Sunbeam SHAVEMASTER



Come in and make this test. Find out for yourself what this Sunbeam can do.

Factory Representative In Our Store.

Fri., Oct. 17

WENTWORTH & SLOAN JEWELERS

THE GREATEST SEA ROMANCE OF ALL TIME!

SPECTACULAR in color by TECHNICOLOR

Rhonda Fleming · Sterling Hayden with HELENA CARTER · JOHN SUTTON

T-O-D-A-Y and SATURDAY

Varsity

wear 'em alone or wear 'em in sets

varsity 4 by Revere

Here's the bright, new matching ensemble you can wear in a pleasing variety of combinations. Beautifully tailored and styled by Revere.

As Advertised in Esquire

HILLSDALE — Reversible jacket. One side, skipper, dark green, or brown rayon acetate Calisheen — water repellent, spot resistant — with pick-stitched flap pockets. Other side, navy, green or brown rayon in attractive checks. Full zip front. Comfortably snug elastic waist. $15.00

→MORELY— Washable rayon-acetate sheen gabardine in Skipper, Forest or Brown to match jerkin and jacket. Checked knit insert in collar and pockets. Sizes: S, M, ML, L. $6.95

HILLSDALE SLEEVELESS — Versatile jerkin — solid color Calisheen front, matches jacket shirts — reverses to rayon check. All worsted knit back. Sizes: S, M, L. $6.95

CARLTON — Washable rich rayon-acetate in attractive check pattern in colors to match jerkin and jacket. Solid color knit trim. Sizes: S, M, ML, L. $6.95

JACK LIPMAN'S

"Serving the College Man Since 1924"

Sports In Brief

Stengel Is Manager Of Year; NCAA Reveals Code Probe

IN NEW YORK, and to no one's surprise, Casey Stengel was named baseball manager of the year by Associated Press balloting. The "Old Perfesser" copped 37 of the 72 ballots. Runner-up was young Eddie Stankey, in his first year as a manager, who brought the St. Louis Cardinals home third in the National League race.

★

ILLINOIS JUNIOR Tom O'Connell was named the back of the week for his superb passing against Washington last week. Within a 20-minute period O'Connell passed for five touchdowns as he led his team to a 48-14 triumph over the Huskies. His work last Saturday gave him 520 yards gained through the air on 32 completions out of 54 tries for an average of 592.

★

THE NCAA REVEALED yesterday that 10 schools are being investigated as sanity code violators of varying degrees. Identity of the 10 colleges was withheld. Cases against three of them have progressed to the point where the policy-directing council is reccommending disciplinary action against them when the association meets at Washington, Jan. 8-10. One of the three schools is reported to be Kentucky, involved in the recently-exposed basketball scandal.

THE CLEVELAND Indians sold shortstop Merrill Combs to their Indianapolis farm club and bought four other players in return. Purchased were pitchers Dave Hoskins and Jose Santiago, catcher Dick Aylward, and third baseman-outfielder Al Smith.

★

THE ORANGE COUNTY Wildlife Club plans another trapshoot Sunday afternoon at Hogan's Lake. The shoot will start at 3 o'clock. President Walt Rabb said that the affair will be open to the public but that shooters should bring their own guns and ammunition. Targets will be provided.

STADIUM WORKERS

All Kenan Stadium workers are asked to report tomorrow at 11:30. Supervisors shall report at the usual time.

Paul Bischoff, West Virginia's All-America football nominee, is president of the student body, chairman of the school Pep Council, recipient of the award for scholarship on the football squad and a "distinguished military student."

Charley Saad, assistant athletic trainer at West Virginia University trained the Dixie champion Memphis Chicks and the Southern Association all-stars in his first season in organized baseball.

North Carolina Authors On The Dollar Table

Debby — North Carolina's own Max Steele won the 1950 Harper Prize with this heart-warming novel. One of the finest books on our dollar table.

Jackson Mahaffey—The story of the taming of a whiskey-drinking, cock-fighting fool from the North Carolina back country, by Fred Ross.

The Horns of Capricorn, by Helen Topping Miller. A romantic novel of North Carolina at the turn of the Century, and mighty good reading for an off hour.

The Way of the South—A living biography of a people, by U.N.C.'s own Charles W. Odum. This belongs on your permanent shelf.

The Exciting World of Books Is Most Enjoyable In

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

WEEK-END

HOUSE CLEANING SALES

This week—Shopworn and overstock books in

RELIGION, HUMOR, PSYCHOANALYSIS and MUSIC

At Sharp Reductions

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

We Invite You To Use Our Convenient Checking Service

For real convenience plus safety, handle your expenses and pay your bills by check. All accounts are welcome regardless of size. Open your account today. The cost is so very small. Make our bank your "banking home away from home."

FOR THAT NEXT TRIP CARRY SAFE, SPENDABLE TRAVELERS CHECKS— ONLY 75c PER $100

The Bank of Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL CARRBORO

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

What Goes On Here

Jungle Movie

Dr. Duval Borges of Sao Paolo, Brazil, will give an illustrated (movie) lecture on hunting and fishing in the jungles of Brazil in Graham Memorial tonight at 8 o'clock. The movie lasts an hour and 15 minutes.

Musicology Meeting

The first meeting of the newly chartered North Carolina chapter of the American Musicological Society will be held Monday evening at 9 o'clock in the Choral Room of Hill Hall. Dr. Glen Haydon will read a paper on "The Polyphonic Hymns of the Renaissance." There will be recorded performances of the works by members of the music department. Interested persons, whether members of the AMS or not, are cordially invited to attend.

Newcomers Club

The Newcomers Club of the University will be honored at a tea in the Morehead Building Tuesday afternoon at 3:30. The tea is being given by Mrs. Gordon Gray, Mrs. Robert House, Mrs. William D. Carmichael, Mrs. Logan Wilson and Mrs. Claude Teague.

NEW YORK—Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday received the endorsement of the president of the AFL Carpenters' Union as he pointed his hard-driving campaign onto the Eastern seaboard.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

SECOND HAND EVENING DRESSSES, excellent condition. Practically new. Stylish. Sizes 12-14. 30-C Glen Lennox, Phone 9-7141 after 7:30 p.m.

WEDDING GOWN — SIZE 14, CREAM Satin and seed pearl embroidered Chantilly lace. Pearl and lace Cathedral cap and veil included. Good condition. Reasonable price. Call 9-3371. (1-c4957-2)

RIDE WANTED

TWO RIDERS DESIRE RIDE TO DURham 5 days per week arriving Durham 8:00 and leaving Durham 4:15 or 4:30 p.m. Call 9-9171 or 9-3196.

Do you have to make eyes to make A's?

We could flutter our lids till our eyeballs ached and it wouldn't help. Our Prof is strictly business. He's the public.

Every 6 months Bell Telephone Companies ask the public for their grades. It's done by opinion surveys. We ask thousands of customers to tell us what they think of our service. On the basis of their reports we try to improve where they think we could be doing better. Subsequent surveys show us if we've been successful.

This search for better ways of serving people is only one aspect of the Bell System business philosophy. It underlies our constant search for ways to provide ever-better telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

For qualified college people interested in engineering, operations and administration, we offer many opportunities. We believe you'll be interested to learn what we mean.

Your college placement office will be glad to give you more details.

Bell Telephone System

A&P 1859 1952 93rd Anniversary Celebration!

Come See at A&P

OUTSTANDING VALUES

Iona California Sliced or Halves PEACHES 2 No. 2½ Cans 49c

Green Giant PEAS 2 No. 303 Cans 37c

Sunnyfield for Pancakes FLOUR 2 20-Oz. Pkgs. 25c

Waldorf Toilet Tissue - - - - - 4 Rolls 29c

Niblet's Brand Whole Kernel Corn - - - - - - 2 12-Oz. Cans 35c

Short Grain Comet Rice - - - - 2-Lb. Pkg. 33c

Iona Cut Green Beans - 2 No. 303 Cans 25c

Facial Tissue — 200's Kleenex - - - - - 2 Boxes 29c

A&P Fruit Cocktail - - - - - - No. 1 Can 23c

Pard or Dash Dog Food - - - - 2 1-Lb. Cans 27c

ann page big value week

ANN PAGE FANCY TOMATO ketchup 14-Oz. Bot. 19c

Ann Page with Pork & Tom. Sauce BEANS 16-Oz. Can 10c

Ann Page Blended Cane & Maple SYRUP 24-Oz. Bot. 39c

Ann Page Elbow or Regular MACARONI 8-Oz. Pkg. 10c

A&P's Big 93rd 1859 1952 Anniversary

Dried Pea Beans 1-Lb. Pkg. 15c 2-Lb. Pkg. 29c

Sultana Imitation Vanilla Extract - - - - - - - - 8-Oz. Bot. 10c

Mild and Mellow Coffee 8 O'Clock - - - - - 1-Lb. Bag 77c

Jane Parker Glazed Donuts - - - - - - - - 1-Doz. Pkg. 29c

Our Own Tea Bags - - - - - - - 64-Ct. Pkg. 39c

Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce - - - - - - - - 16-Oz. Can 19c

Iona Bartlett Pears - - - No. 2 Can 25c

Argo Gloss Starch - - - - - - 8-Oz. Pkg. 6c

Hamburger Swift's - - 10-Oz. Can 45c

Corn Starch Argo - - 16-Oz. Pkg. 14c

Linit Laundry Starch - - - - - 12-Oz. Pkg. 13c

1859 1952 Fresh Fruits And Vegetables

Long Island Snoball Cauliflower - - - - - - - - Head 29c

Juicy Tokay Grapes - - - 3 Lbs. 29c

Firm Ripe Tomatoes - - - - - - - - Ctn. 19c

Green Heads Cabbage - - - - - - - - - - Lb. 5c

Frozen Foods

SCOTCH MAID Green Beans — Broccoli Baby Lima Beans — Peas Spinach — 14-oz pkg. 2 10-Oz. Pkgs. 35c

1859 1952

Loin End Pork Roast Lb. 59c

Fresh Pork Back Bone Lb. 59c

Super Right Choice Western Beef Sirloin Steak Bone In - - - Lb. 99c

Regular Fresh Ground Beef - - - - - - Lb. 53c

Wilson's Corn King Sliced Bacon - - - - - Lb. 49c

Standard Sealed Oysters - - - - - - - - - Pt. 85c

Karo Syrup - - - - No. 1½ Glass 23c

Clorox - - Qt. Bot. 17c ½ Gal. Bot. 29c

Pork Swift's Sausage - - - 10-Oz. Can 49c

P&G Soap - - - 3 Bars 22c

Lux Flakes Reg. Pkg. 27c Lge. Pkg. 12c

Lifebuoy Soap - - 3 Reg. Bars 23c

Lifebuoy Soap - - 2 Bath Bars 23c

Swift'ning 1-Lb. Can 28c 3-Lb. Can 81c

Jewel Oil Pt. Bot. 29c Qt. Bot. 57c

Swift Prem - - - - 12-Oz. Can 45c

A&P Super Markets

These Prices Effective Through Sat. October 18th

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER

Fair and cooler with 70 high today. Yesterday's high, 77; low, 44.

The Daily Tar Heel

GROMWELL

Snook goes to bat for Snook. See Nonplus, p. 2.

VOLUME XLI NUMBER 22 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

TAR HEELS MEET DEACONS IN BIG FOUR KICKOFF

Dr. Mason To Give Recital On Tuesday

DR. WILTON MASON

Dr. Wilton Mason of the University music faculty will inaugurate this season's series of recitals and concerts when he gives a piano concert in Hill Hall Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.

The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

His program will include piano works by Bach, Haydn, Kabalevsky and Chopin, featuring the latter's great Sonata in B Minor.

Well known to local and state audiences, Dr. Mason has appeared as soloist with the North Carolina Symphony and has been both piano and harpsichord soloist with the Raleigh Chamber Music Guild.

A charter member of "Accompanists Unlimited," a New York agency which furnishes "on the spot" accompanists to traveling artists, Dr. Mason played some 25 to 30 concerts last season throughout the Southeast, accompanying many of the country's outstanding artists.

A composer as well as a pianist, Dr. Mason will be rembered for his score to the musical play, "Spring for Sure," which was chosen as the Carolina Playmakers tour show last season.

His more serious works include concert songs which have been featured by Helen Jepson and others, transcriptions of 18th century lute music, and various chamber works.

Paul Green To Speak At Drama Meet

The 30th annual conference of dramatic art teachers and directors, sponsored by the Carolina Dramatic Association, will be held at the University next Saturday.

A short business session in the Playmakers Theater, presided over by Bristow P. Hardin Jr. of Charlotte, president, will open the meeting.

Speakers for the morning session will include Samuel Selden, head of the University's Department of Dramatic Art. whose topic will be "What Makes Dramatic Effect?"; Dr. Elizabeth Welch, Winston-Salem, "Behind Red Velvet;" Ainslie Pryor, Raleigh, "The Community Theatre as a Career"; Mozelle Causey, Greensboro, "Play Selection"; and Peter Watling, London, England, on "Your Theatre and Ours."

Paul Green, noted author and playwright, will be the featured speaker at the luncheon session in Lenoir Hall. Green, who recently returned from an extended visit to the Orient, will discuss and compare oriental and occidental dramatic arts in his talk, "Theatre East and West."

Sponsored by the University and the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation, Green's mission as cultural ambassador between the two hemispheres included the study of drama, music and dance in a number of nations—among them Japan, Malaya, Thailand, India and Greece—and lectures on these arts taken from his American experience with them.

He spoke to many student groups and before cultural and academic organizations, and saw at first hand dramatic practices hundreds of years old in Japan and India, of which the West is beginning to make use.

The public is invited to the meeting, and delegates will be guests of the Carolina Playmakers at the Saturday evening performance of "Death of a Salesman."

In addition to President Hardin, officers of the CDA are Mrs. Alma Elkins, Whiteville high school, vice-president, and John W. Parker, Chapel Hill, executive secretary.

Thirty

The Yackety Yack is seeking 30 more copies of last year's yearbook.

Anyone interested in selling their copy is asked to bring it by the Yack office on second floor Graham Memorial. A nominal price will be paid for books in good condition.

No yearbook pictures will be taken today.

Story Book Prints Form Unique Show

By Mary Grace Megginson

A parade of captivating nursery characters and a number of beautiful camellia and magnolia prints are on display in the South Exhibit room of the Morehead Building.

The novel exhibit is the work of Mrs. Mary Livingston Stoudemire of Chapel Hill, whose husband, Robert H. Stoudemire, is a graduate student in the University. The exhibit will continue through November 6.

Skillfully blending bits of fabric with string, cardboard and watercolor, Mrs. Stoudemire produces story book prints that are filled with animation, "something new" and original. They are called "applique" pictures and they greatly resemble needlework.

Included in the colorful display are pickaninnies, colored mammies, the Gingham Dog and the Calico Cat, Cinderella, Little Red Riding Hood, the Big Bad Wolf, petite ballet dancers, pigs, mules, the Cow that Jumped Over the Moon, and other farm animals, Little Boy Blue, the Gingerbread Boy, Tom Tom the Piper's Son running away with the pig, a clown and a red elephant.

There are also several handsome magnolia and camellia prints of various sizes.

Mrs. Stoudemire, who was born at Oak Grove Plantation at Salley, S. C., (in Aiken County), says that it is only an accident that she is painting. "In high school I thought I wanted to be a dancer," she said. " Then I broke a leg in a basketball game and I began to paint and draw to keep myself occupied while in a cast. I had always drawn and painted some to entertain my younger brothers and sisters. I believe I made more paper dolls during that time than anyone else ever has." (Mrs. Stoudemire is number five in a family of eleven children. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Z. Vance Livingston of Salley, S. C.)

The artist revealed that it is even more accidental that she is making "applique" pictures.

"About 15 years ago," she said,

(See STORY BOOK, page 4)

Twins, Too

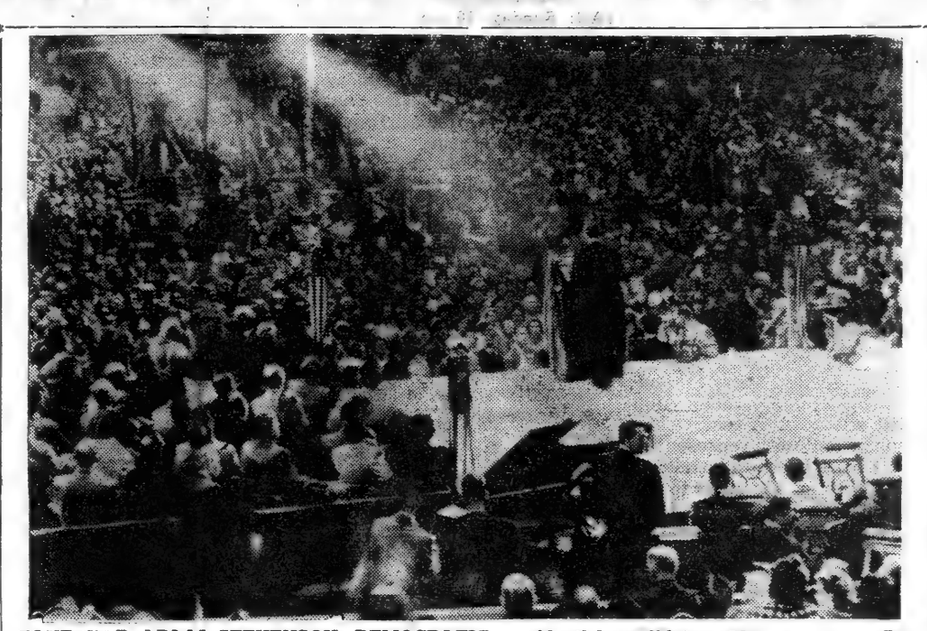
Only A Few Show Up For Rally

By Louis Kraar

A small, listless group in Memorial Hall for the pep rally last night came to life at 7:30 when the band, cheerleaders and football squad entered, and filled the hall with crys of beat the Deacs.

Bo Thorpe, head cheerleader, and his assistants pumped Carolina spirit into the group with great enthusiasm. The small crowd, composed of the usual campus characters as well as outsiders, shook the rafters with yells.

Barry Farber, editor of The Daily Tar Heel, spoke in behalf of the Monogram Club, which co-sponsored the rally with the University Club. Farber pleaded for more of that "metaphysical intangible called school spirit." The students took the cue and yelled even louder.



Chal Port and Tom Higgins, co-captains of the grid squad for the Wake Forest game, introduced the football team. The crowd responded with warm applause for each player.

Amid the songs and shouts were two half-pint-sized Tar Heel fans, twin boys of about 10 years old attired in Carolina sweaters and beanies. Their alto yells could be heard, slightly out of harmony with the throng.

Just before the rally started an unidentified student rose and, in the manner of a cheerleader, spurred the cheers on. Later the same student interrupted Farber's talk. Farber caustically put him back in his place with: "Pardon me for talking while you're interrupting." The crowd roared, and the heckler sat down rather obsequiously.

The rally closed with "Hark The Sound" dubbed by gesticulating cheermaster Thorpe as "the prettiest one of all." As the band started the song, two policemen who were monitoring traffic outside the hall took off their hats respectfully.

The rally ended with more crys of "beat the Deacs" and all left. A trumpet player in the band, crippled and on crutches, was the last to leave the hall that was so conspiculously studded with empty seats throughout the rally.

GOVERNOR ADLAI STEVENSON, DEMOCRATIC presidential candidate, addresses an overflow audience in San Francisco's cavernous Cow Palace. The crowd agreed with applause, cheers and whistling as the Illinois Governor aimed sledge-hammer blows at the GOP.—UP Telephoto.

Students Disagree With Gray's View

By Punchy (Billy) Grimes

University students aren't in complete agreement with their president's position on post-season football games.

Polled yesterday about Gordon Gray's recent statement that he opposed post season games for Carolina and State, students answered in part:

Lyle Davis, Henderson sophomore, said, "One extra game won't hurt and as far as the players are concerned, however, I think it tends to over emphasize football in respect to other college activities."

Clyde Camp, Roanoke Rapids junior and a cheerleader, said, "It gives the individual athlete a good chance to become better known nationally through the publicity . . . and will help raise the school name in the eyes of the public."

Sue Carter, another cheerleader and a resident of Chapel Hill, disagreed. "I'm definitely against it. I think that it put too much of a strain on the players. It also tends to professionalize college football."

A senior from Charlotte, Irving Fogler, said, "I wish the conference would allow us to have the games so the Athletic Association can make some much needed money. I see no harm in them at all. If we play 11 weeks, why not 12?"

Others interviewed were about evenly divided on the bowl issue.

World Peace Booklets Out For Students

For the use of high schools participating in the High School World Peace Study and Speaking Program of 1952-53, the University Extension Division has just published a number of the University Extension Bulletins on the subject this year, "Building World Peace: What Have Been the Achievements and What Are the Prospects of the United Nations?"

Compiled in the nature of a peace handbook by E. R. Rankin, Director of the program, the bulletin contains 13 articles dealing with this year's central topic.

Articles comprising reproductions of previously published material or excerpts from addresses are included by: President Harry S. Truman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Secretary - General Trygve Lie, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, Benjamin V. Cohen, General Omar N. Bradley, Laura Vitray, and General Matthew B. Ridgway.

A special article was prepared by Samuel R. Levering, member, National Executive Council, United World Federalists.

The 64-page bulletin includes also a three-page bibliography.

Kemp Nye's Brother Killed

Col. Glenn C. Nye, brother of Kemp B. Nye of Abernethy's Music Shop here, was "believed to have perished in his plane when it caught fire after it was shot down over enemy territory October 7."

The announcement came from the Department of Defense in Washington.

The 40-year-old command pilot was a Regular Air Force Officer with 16 years' service to his credit. His military career also included combat bombardment experience in World War II.

Panel Praises Carolina

Students Must Fare For Selves In Germany, Say Visitors Here

By Tom Parramore

"The German student has to find his way for himself."

This was the concensus of a group of German students that spoke Thursday before the YMCA supper Forum.

The subject was "Life in a German University," and the group consisted of five students and a professor who have come to study at Carolina under the program of exchange conducted by the State Department.

The German students pointed out the lack of an orientation program at their school. Instead, the student must immediately begin to learn his own way through the myriad problems of placement and adjustment, they explained.

Uppermost in the minds of the students was the aid given to American students in such things as choice of curriculum, choice of courses, living quarters and extra-curricular activity. Goetingen, they explained, was not situated on a campus but scattered out all over the town of Goetingen. Most of their fellow students lived in private homes around town.

German high schools, one of the group said, are the equivalent to two years in American colleges, so that when a student graduates from high school he does not go into general college or preparatory work, but straight into the field of study which he has chosen.

Also new to the group was extra-curricular activity. The German student is interested mainly in politics: for example German rearmament and the United Europe question. Other than politics the average German student is most interested in the theater, arts and movies. Neither is he required to go to class, but goes when and if he so desires.

As to fraternities, student Helmuth Deicher said that they were beginning to come into fashion again after having been wrecked by the Nazis during the war.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON—The U. S. charged yesterday in a note to Moscow that Russian planes made a "wanton and unjustifiable attack" on the American B-29 missing off Japan since Oct. 7. The note demanded compensation. Payment is in order, the U. S. said, both for the loss of the plane and for the lives of any of the crew of eight who may have perished.

★

SEOUL, Korea—Alert American soldiers stood by their guns atop towering Triangle Hill last night, awaiting another series of savage counter-atacks which their commander warned were sure to come.

★

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Gov. Adlai Stevenson declared yesterday that the "best chance for a just and peaceful world" hinges on the results of next month's elections.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky announced yesterday he would reply today to Secretary of State Dean Acheson's policy speech before the United Nations General Assembly.

★

EN ROUTE WITH IKE—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower campaigned on the Eastern Seaboard yesterday after a stepped-up attack against the Truman administration and blasts at "godless communism."

★

WASHINGTON—The Navy, seeking more information on the mystery of the atom, has fired cosmic research rockets to heights of 40 miles over the earth's polar cap.

★

WASHINGTON — Jacob Freidus and Larry Knohl, figures in the congressional investigation of former Assistant Atty. Gen. T. Lamar Caudle, were indicted yesterday on charges of making false statements to the RFC. The indictment returned by a federal grand jury accused the men of giving false information in several letters and financial statements submitted to the RFC during attempts to buy the assets of the Aireon Manufacturing Co. about two years ago.

★

PITTSBURGH—A wave of wildcat strikes by United Mine Workers which had idled 150,000 appeared to be breaking up yesterday. An industry source said the strikers, who walked out in protest to the Wage Stabilization Board's delay in approving a requested $1.90 a-day wage boost, were returning to their jobs at a good rate.

Newman Gets Starting Nod From Snavely

Carolina Resumes Football Schedule In Today's Clash

By Tom Peacock

The North Carolina football team resumes its schedule here today against Wake Forest College in Kenan Stadium at 2 o'clock after a two week cancellation of athletics.

The game will be Carolina's first Big Four contest, as last week's game with N. C. State was cancelled. The Tar Heels are slight underdogs against Wake Forest, defending North Carolina champions.

Wake Forest	Pos.	North Carolina
Ondilla	le	Kocornick
Gaona	lt	Opitz
Link	lg	Fredere
Donahue	c	Mullens
Pickard	rg	Patterson
Bridges	rt	Yarborough
Lewis	re	Adler
George	qb	Newman
Hillenbrand	lhb	White
Churm	rhb	Parker
Koch	fb	Wallace

Carolina coach Carl Snavely is putting his hopes for a victory in the hands of freshman quarterback Marshall Newman of Clinton. After Texas had mauled the untried Carolina Split-T for four touchdowns, Snavely sent Newman into the game late in the fourth quarter. Newman was thrown for a loss, but on the next play tossed a touchdown pass for the lone Tar Heel score.

The Tar Heel backfield is marked by power and depth, but Carolina is lacking speed. Left halfback Bob White had a good day against the Texans, and will be starting along with Larry Parker at right half and Bud Wallace at fullback.

Carolina's backs accomplished a lot towards perfecting the difficult T during nine days of dummy practice while the polio ban was on. The Deacons have been scrimmaging and playing games during that time, however, and Wawe Forest is favored because of that and its 39-7 licking of Carolina last year. Carolina missed two games, one with Georgia, the other with State.

The Deacons have an unimpressive record of one win, two losses and a tie, but Wake Forest has met top-notch competition and played good ball. The Deacs lost their opener to Baylor, 17-14, in the last minute of play, then beat William and Mary, tied Boston College, and lost to Villanova last week.

Quarterback Sonny George leads Wake Forest coach Tom Rogers' straight T formation. George was the villain in last year's rout of Carolina, and this year he has a host of fast backs plus two of the best offensive ends in the Conference.

Halfback Bruce Hillenbrand, who has shaken loose for numerous long gains including a 60-yard touchdown sprint against William and Mary, and Joe Koch, hard hitting fullback, lead the Wake Forest backs. Hillenbrand has a rushing average of 6.4 yards a try this season. Billy Churm and Pete Coker are leading rushers, and Larry Spencer has runs of 92 and 68 yards to his credit.

George will direct most of his passes to his ends, Bob Ondilla and team captain Jack Lewis.

(See TAR HEELS, page 3)

George and $10

George was still only half paid for yesterday.

George is the friendly collie who frequents the Y Court and who was out of commission for a while recently after getting shot in the face. He's only half paid for because only $10 has been paid on his $20 medical bill.

Dig deep for George and turn it into The Daily Tar Heel office, Graham Memorial.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

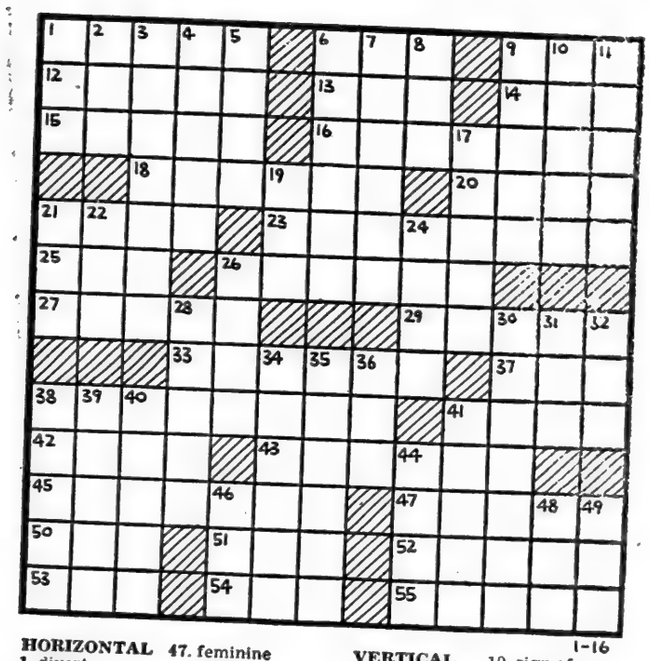
Editor — BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor — ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager — JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor — BIFF ROBERTS

Assoc. Ed. — Bev Baylor | News Ed. — Jody Levey
Assoc. Ed. — Sue Burress | Circ. Mgr. — Donald Hogg
Sub. Mgr. — Carolyn Reichard | Soc. Ed. — Deenie Schoeppe
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. — Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. — Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. — Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. — Ned Beeker

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

An Adviser Advises

In reading Tuesday's guest editorial on the need for improvement of counseling of students in the General College, I was reminded again of the helpful work and constructive spirit of the special committee appointed last spring by the President of the Student Body. It is clearly important that we discuss further the urgent opportunities which we have in this field of student-faculty relationships. A decisive reason for the original establishment of the Committee of advisers in the General College was the conviction that every freshman who comes to the University should be known well as a person to at least one responsible member of the faculty. With the increase of enrollment and the decrease of the numbers of advisers, this has been difficult of attainment.



It is a pleasure for me to report to you that there is now a strong interest on the part of the faculty in achieving a closer personal acquaintance with students. Already this fall initial discussions among the advisers and with representatives of the other colleges and schools have been undertaken. We expect to have additional consideration of the steps to be taken, to consult with larger groups of the faculty, and to request conferences with the committee of students with a view to positive recommendations.

Meanwhile, may I ask you to give prominent space to the reminder that both the advisers in the General College and the departmental advisers responsible for major programs in the junior and senior years are available for leisurely conferences during the whole of each quarter with the exception of the rush periods which were the basis of yesterday's editorial? Specifically, we in the General College have a relatively quiet period now and we invite students to come in for full discussion of their academic plans or of any topic which we are competent to consider. There may sometimes be an economy in time if the student will make an appointment. In any case he will receive a cordial welcome.

With appreciation of your interest in this most important matter, I am

Sincerely yours,
C. P. Spruill
Dean of the General College

BEAT WAKE FOREST

HORIZONTAL
1. divert
6. silkworm
9. tally
12. cornbreads
13. parcel of ground
14. miss one's aim
15. relieves
16. European country
18. chooses by ballot
20. accustoms
21. edible green seeds
23. careless
25. high, in music
26. goes by
27. stingy hoarder
29. neck backs
33. distend
37. twilight
38. indicate
41. cabbage salad
42. death
43. mackerel-like fish
45. English river port
47. feminine name
50. S-shaped worm
51. rather than
52. think
53. French article
54. donkey
55. smallest

VERTICAL
1. mimic
2. extinct bird
3. unhorses
4. blinds
5. being
6. puffs up
7. piques
8. possessive pronoun
9. concise
10. sign of zodiac
11. copper-zinc alloy
17. city in Oklahoma
19. Oriental tea
21. knave of clubs
22. Hebrew high priest
24. dell
26. precise and formal
28. redacts
30. reversion of flower form
31. feminine name
32. stitch
34. toils
35. expiates
36. decimal unit
38. actuate
39. Scandinavian
40. lock of hair
41. mining excavation
44. heathen god
46. beverage
48. those in power
49. obstinate

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

A	B	E	L	E		P	O	P		A	F	T
L	A	P	E	L		A	W	E		B	A	H
P	R	I	M	E		R	E	T	R	A	C	E
		D	O	V	E	R		R	A	C	E	R
S	O	O	N	E	R		A	E	R	A	T	E
P	I	T		N	E	S	T	L	E
A	L	E	C		B	A	T		R	U	D	E
		A	M	U	L	E	T		N	I	L
S	T	A	T	U	S		S	H	R	A	N	K
C	A	R	E	T		S	T	R	A	W
O	P	E	R	A	T	E		U	V	A	T	E
P	E	T		T	A	R		S	E	R	I	N
E	R	E		E	L	F		T	R	E	N	D

1-16

Average time of solution: 21 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

In Our Churches

BAPTIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m. student's class; 11 a.m. morning worship with sermon by Dr. S. T. Habel; 6 p.m. BSU supper forum on "Great Hymns and Hymn Stories."

CATHOLIC: Sunday, 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Mass in Gerrard Hall.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: Sunday, 11 a.m. services in the lecture room of New West.

CONGREGATION - CHRISTIAN: Sunday, 10 a.m. morning discussion group with Dr. George Nicholson; 11 a.m. observance of United Nations Sunday with sermon on "The Idea That Won't Die"; 6 p.m. student group meets in church hut.

EPISCOPAL: Sunday, 8 a.m. Holy Communion; 9:30 a.m. Bible discussion group; 11 a.m. Litany and Ante-Communion with sermon by the Rev. L. B. Sherman; 6 p.m. Canterbury club with Prof. Claiborne Jones on "Why Go to College?"

QUAKERS: Sunday, 11 a.m. service in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

JEWISH: Friday, 7:30 p.m. weekly service in the Hillel House.

LUTHERAN: Sunday, 9:45 a.m. church school; 11 a.m. second in a new series by the Rev. E. C. Cooper, "Man Shall Live Because He is Delivered From the Tower of Sin."

METHODIST: Sunday, 9:45 a.m. student Bible class; 11 a.m. morning worship with sermon by the Rev. William Howard; 6 p.m. Wesley Foundation supper meeting.

PRESBYTERIAN: Sunday, 11 a.m. morning worship services; 6 p.m. evening student group.

Express Yourself

All this fuss about the Men's Honor Council and its role in dealing with wayward students draws to a head a viewpoint that has long been developing. Briefly and simply it is this: that students who cheat on exams may feel impelled to do so in self defense. It is a suspicion that they are only attempting to counteract the cheating done by the professor in giving the exam.

Never heard of a professor cheating? That's odd. It is done every day, right here in good old democratic U. N. C. For example, the professor who crowds into an exam more than all except the top two or three can possibly do in the allotted time, thereby creating a situation unfavorable to clear thinking, that professor has cheated the student. And some students are just bold enough to counterattack. Or take the one with a punitive sense of humor who skirts the main issues of the course and loads his exam with tricky detail "just to see if you know it." This is only two of the more obvious examples of professor cheating. There are many other methods. The main point here is that they are all time-honored, above either honor council or the gods.

Therefore you, dear victim (if such you should happen to be), you whose grade and progress may suffer as a result of professor cheating, you can do absolutely nothing about it. True, it is with your welfare in mind that the teacher is employed (Well isn't it?). True too that you help pay his salary, perhaps by a part-time job on the side. Yet you have by some strange interpretation of relationships become relegated to an insignificant role. The professor is the important one. Low grades are the exclusive result of your own incompetency or laziness. Accept that fact and live with it.

Accept the possibility too that the professor can even afford to be academically aloof if he chooses. And why not? You did not hire him and you can't fire him, even though he shoves his corns under a table that you helped supply.

It is axiomatic that one who draws his check from public or quasi-public sources isn't easy to disregard, especially where there are no elections to foul things up for him. He is fairly secure, taking in a modest but comfortable loot. And furthermore it will come next month and the next whether you fail his exam, drop out of class or drop dead. You can see therefore why you don't add up to a very impressive sum. You can see also why some students, put on the defensive, will counter in kind, and why the Men's Honor Council is effective only in giving its members practice in undemocratic court procedures.

Ulmont Ives

The Melancholy Days Are Gone

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Herbert Hoover acts between MacArthur and Eisenhower; Ike will talk to Mac but won't go to see him at Waldorf Tower; Truman watches gin rummy game between whistle stops.

Washington. — Herbert Hoover, who lives in the Waldorf Tower not far from General MacArthur, has been trying to arrange a meeting between two famous generals, long political opponents — MacArthur and Eisenhower. The job has not been easy.

Feeling between the two men has not been cordial since MacArthur sent Eisenhower, then a Lieutenant Colonel, home from the Philippines shortly before Pearl Harbor. That turned out to be the biggest break in Ike's life, for it put him under Gen. George C. Marshall, who promptly promoted him up the ladder to be top commander in Europe.

Since the war, the two top generals of the European and Far Eastern theatres have continued cool. MacArthur worked with Taft forces to block Ike's nomination, even told a Lansing, Mich., audience May 15:

"It would be tragic development, indeed, if this generation was forced to look to the rigidity of military dominance and discipline to redeem it from the tragic failure of a civilian administration."

Phoning Governor Fine of Pennsylvania, MacArthur even urged him to throw Pennsylvania's delegates against Eisenhower.

Equally peeved, Ike was credited with the famous wisecrack: "I studied dramatics under Mac for nine years."

Hoover Perseveres

Despite these obstacles, Ex-President Hoover has urged that Republican victory is more important than personal feelings. He's afraid the Christian Nationalist Party, which has nominated MacArthur, may draw enough votes away from Eisenhower in a few key states to defeat him. Hoover has been working through Chairman Summerfield of the Republican National Committee, and, as of today, Ike has agreed to meet with MacArthur.

He refuses, however, to call on him at the Waldorf Tower. He is not, he indicates, making a pilgrimage to worship at the shrine. He'll be delighted to talk to MacArthur, he says, but MacArthur will have to come to him.

Eisenhower has also vetoed the idea of having MacArthur issue a press communique after their talk. Ike didn't like the reaction from the Taft statement and doesn't want to let himself in for one from MacArthur. Friends say he read enough MacArthur communiques during the war.

Some of the people on the Eisenhower train are a little unhappy about the prospect of an Ike-Mac meeting. They fear the reaction will further alienate independent votes. However, if the details can be worked out, the two generals will definitely get together.

Truman's Future

Hollywood producer Dore Schary and Abe Fineberg got aboard the Truman train the other day, were given a compartment in the president's car and began a game of gin rummy.

Between whistle-stop speeches, the president came in to chat.

"How are you doing?" he asked after one speech.

"I've got half of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer," replied Fineberg, referring to the movie company for which Schary works.

"Fine," replied the president. "Get the other half and we'll go into the movie business. I'm not doing anything after January 20."

Diplomatic Pouch

Russian reconnassance planes have been spotted over the Japanese coast. This has the Pentagon more worried than any military report in months . . . Thousands of Russian workmen are building a giant Soviet airbase on Ostrov Rudolph Island —only six hours flying time from our own airbase at Thule, Greenland . . . The British now think they have found a surefire way to earn American dollars. A British textile designer has invented an unsinkable cloth, and the British are going to use it for unsinkable bathing suits to be exported to us . . . Secretary of Defense Lovett has turned thumbs down on a fancy, snorkel-type jeep. (Costs too much—over $4,500 each) . . . The U.S. will try to get the other free nations to send more troops to Korea at the forthcoming U.N. meeting. There are more than forty anti-communist countries in the U.N. but only 17 have sent fighting troops . . . After all the hullabaloo over the Navy robot plane, pictures just back from Korea show that the much-publicized pilotless plane actually missed its target—a railroad tunnel — by several hundred yards.

Diplomatic Meeting

The mix-up in Paris over whether the United States was dictating internal policy to the French was a comedy of errors which almost turned into tragedy and which could have been avoided.

One reason for the mix-up was a diplomatic nicety—the difference between a written note and an oral statement.

Ambassador James Dunn was instructed to deliver a formal note explaining why we could not advance France $650,000,000 next year. Also to give him an oral explanation of the more delicate matters such as French failure to fulfill NATO obligations. In diplomacy things can be expressed orally, with greater delicacy, and without offending national pride.

However, the American Embassy in Paris made the mistake of informing the French in advance of the nature of Ambassador Dunn's call on Premier Pinay.

So the French maneuvered to have Dunn deliver the statement containing the more delicate nature of his mission, the secretary asked for a copy so he could show it to the premier. Dunn then made the mistake of leaving a copy of his oral statement. It was this statement which got the French aroused.

The incident helped solidify Pinay's position in France, where he is under fire from both Communists and De Gaullists for being too pro-American. On the other hand, it hurt French-American relations, so essential to the defense of Europe.

Harry Snook

NONPLUS

Last week Nonplus came a cropper.

The column presented an exaggerated view on gromwell the "magic pill" which is to cure all evils besetting man by bringing him into a Garden of Eden where sex is as natural as green trees in spring.

The possibiity, however remote, of such a simple remedy for our woes excited this columnist to that kind of unrealistic enthusiasm he normally tries to restrain.

Reaction has been varied, to say the least. As was expected, the nasty minds just chortled. And some people were sincerely but naively concerned about exposing immature minds to such a subject in print.

When the chaste rose to protest their righteousness by indignantly condemning my morals, I knew Nonplus had missed the boat.

To square the record:

Nonplus does not believe the people are a bunch of thwarted sexual insatiates ready to violently overthrow existing conventions when gromwell hits corner drugstores. Nor will this new capsule contraceptive in itself cause automatic change in the social structure which has taken thousands of years to evolve.

Nonplus does not believe that sex is the single source of all man's troubles, or that "free sex" is the only sure cure for such ills.

Nonplus does not think that "free love" is desirable or possible under any circumstances. And the column does not seek to promote a grand sex orgy—or even a small one.

Above all, Nonplus does not impugn the morals of any individual.

But the column does insist that problems involving sex are of major importance and that current handling of these problems leaves much to be desired.

Somewhere along the line our conventions have failed us. It does not good to proclaim that "if people would just do right, everything would be okay." For some reason, many are not "doing right." Perhaps it's because the right thing cannot be done. Maybe there is lack of convention that the "right thing" is truly right.

The Kinsey Report dispells any illusion that people practice what they profess to believe. Apparently most do not. If we are indulging such "doublethink" in a fundamental matter like sex, how great must be our confusion in other respects!

The political, economic and social structure of a nation of hypocrites is bound to splinter apart under the stresses of its own cross-purposes. Either we must adapt our moral codes to our practices, or we must change what we do to fit what we profess as right.

There is much wailing about the moral disintegration of modern society and little effort to locate the reason for it.

Our only hope for solution lies in open, broad discussion. You can neither legislate nor shame people into moral health, but the people can use knowledge and a choice of views to find the way which is really best.

The taboo on discussing sex matters in public must go. And there must be some presentation of views other than those conventional ones which have proved inadequate.

A new idea or approach is invaluable for the classical reasons that (1) it may be correct, (2) it may be partially correct, or (3) it may be wrong and we should know why.

Nonplus will continue to try to provoke your discussion. And Nonplus will continue to reflect such unconventional views as seem to warrant consideration.

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Experience and Determination

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN experience bucks determination should be answered pretty well this afternoon after Carolina and Wake Forest fans tread their way out of Kenan Stadium. The Deacons, with four games under their belts but with an unimpressive record of one win, two losses and a tie, are getting the nod by most experts to take the Tar Heels, beaten in their only game of the season and victims of a polio isolation that has put them out of heavy action for two weeks.

By all rights the team with the most experience should win a football game. But to me this game seems like the exception to the rule. The Carolina team, deprived of a fair chance to get the split-T running by the cancellation of the Georgia and N. C. State games, is ready to play winning football.

The Carolina offense didn't look too good against Texas. But on the other hand, the defense didn't do bad at all. And remember, this isn't Texas we're playing today. When the Longhorns played here on opening day, they were at their peak. They didn't make many mistakes and when they did make them, they seemed to Capitalize on them instead of getting hurt. The Texas quarterback, T Jones, played probably his best game of the season in Kenan Stadium.

Wake Forest—Not Texas

IT CERTAINLY ISN'T Texas we're playing today, and for that reason I'm going to go along with the Tar Heels. Wake Forest has a pretty fair country ball team but from this corner it looks as though Carolina has a better one. And, despite the Tar Heels' inexperience, I think they can send the Deacs bawling back to Baptist Hollow.

In the first place, the Wake Forest pass defense has a tendency to grow lax on occasions. With Marshall Newman, starting today, and with Charlie Motta, his top relief, both good passers, at the quarterback post you can expect the Tar Heels to fill the Kenan atmosphere with passes. And sometime during the afternoon those passes ought to click for some quick points. Newman showed his ability for passing in the final stages of the Texas game when he engineered and passed for our only touchdown. And Motta, despite the fact that he missed the Longhorn rodeo, is known to be a good field general and tosser. His work in last spring's Blue-White game pointed that out.

The Deacons have a host of fast and powerful backs. But to stop them Coach Carl Snavely has a strong defensive line. That line held the Texas ground attack successfully enough—the Longhorns' winning margin coming on the passing attack. Led by co-captain Tom Higgins, the Tar Heel forward wall should be able to handle the Deacs' running attack.

Defensively Better

SOME MIGHT BRING out the fact that our pass defense was a major factor in our loss to Texas, and indeed it was. But to repeat, it's Wake Forest and not Texas and Sonny George and not T Jones that we face tomorrow. George has been exceptional on his short over the line passes, especially in the William and Mary game when he guided the Deacs to their only win of the season. But he is more erratic on his long heaves, as was pointed out in the Villanova game when he had four intercepted and the Deacons fell, 20-0.

Then too, Coach Snavely has had more time to work on his pass defense. When he went into the Texas game he was more worried about getting the split-T working than he was in stopping the Texas passers. Defense had been sacrificed somewhat in practice in order to get the offense going. But since the Texas game the Tar Heels have had a chance to improve on the air raid defense and you can expect to see a better one this afternoon.

So for the most part it boils down to the fact that each team has a counterpart for the other's strong point. They've got some fast backs, we've got a strong line. We've got some powerful backs, but they, too, have a good line. We've got a good passing game, they've got a weak defense. They've got a good but erratic passer, we've got a good but erratic pass defense. And so on into the night.

What We've Got That They Haven't Got

BUT WHAT WE'VE GOT and what the Deacons seem to have lost is determination. For all the harm that two-week layoff caused us, it did make us more eager to play. Wake Forest, on the other hand, has been on a gradual decline. They were at a peak in the opening game against Baylor and barely lost, 17-14. Against William and Mary they pulled one out of the fire to win 28-21. Then the road went down. A 7-7 tie against Boston College wasn't very impressive and then last week's loss to Villanova did little to cheer the Baptist boosters. Wake Forest has always been able to rise to heights against us but I believe today will be an exception.

So with the haunting thought of having picked the Yankees in five games and Tennessee over Duke still hanging in the air, let's crawl further out on that limb and take the Tar Heels by one touchdown. If you want a score, try 20-13. It's as good as any other.

Tar Heels Slight Underdogs In First Big Four Contest

(Continued from page 1)

Lewis was the leading Deac scorer last year with 30 points, and will see defensive action too.

Four injuries will hamper the Tar Heels today. First string defensive backs Bull Davidson and Billy Williams are out, and fullback John Gaylord and end Benny Walser are also on the injured list. Gaylord, Williams, and Walser are all suffering from holdover injuries from the Texas game.

Snavely will be shifting his backfield combinations most of the afternon using the best men for the situation. Offensive co-captain and halfback Chal Port will see a lot of action on runbacks and offense. Port played outstandingly on defense last year, and is the fastest back on the squad this season. Sophomore Connie Gravitte is expected to see action at halfback, and quarterback Charlie Motta will probably be used extensively.

Sonny Ridenhour will start in place of Williams at safety in the Tar Heel defensive lineup. Co-captain Tom Higgins, a standout against the Longhorns, will lead the defensive team from his tackle spot. The forward wall settled down a few times against Texas and played brilliantly, and has looked increasingly better in practice.

Light Schedule Opens Dorm Play

The dorm intramural tag football season began Thursday afternoon with a heavy schedule. Only three games were played, however with the remaining games either forfeited or cancelled.

Rufus Hackney scored the only touchdown of the game on a pass from Labe Little to give Ruffin a hard-earned 7-0 victory over Steele. The winning margin came in the last half of the game which was a defensive battle all the way.

The offensive battle of the day was between Manley and Stacy. Manley rallied in the last minutes of the game to win 18-13 on a touchdown by halfback Moody. Stacy led at the half, 7-0.

The only other game played was won by Graham, 1-0, over Cobb. The losers had a touchdown called back in the second half of the game which was decided in a sudden overtime.

Carolina Jayvees Win Easily Over Virginia Cavaliers, 31-14

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 17—Carolina's Junior Varsity romped to an easy 31-14 victory over the University of Virginia Jayvees here at Scott Stadium this afternoon. The winners spotted their hosts an early first quarter score, and then proceeded to roll up five straight tallies before Virginia could push over a second consolation marker.

The Cavayearlings passed for a touchdown early in the first period to gain a 7-0 advantage. The Tar Babies took the Virginia kickoff and marched 60 yards for its first score. Halfback Flo Worrell carried over from the five for the touchdown. Charlie Poindexter failed to add the extra point, giving Virginia a 7-6 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Carolina took a permanent lead early in the second stanza. A 60 yard march was climaxed by quarterback Ernie Liberati sneaking over from the six. Poindexter made the only Carolina conversion of the afternoon.

In the third quarter Al Long gathered in a Virginia quick kick and galloped 60 yards for a touchdown.

The Tar Babies got a second score in the third period. Liberati, who quarterbacked the split T attack very well all afternoon, tossed a 13 yard pass to left end Van Weatherspoon in the end zone. This came at the end of a a 40 yard march.

Another 40 yard march brought the final Carolina tally in the fourth period. Halfback Billy Hawkes went over from the seven for the score.

The losers got their second touchdown in the final minutes of the game. This tally also came by the aerial route.

The passing and ball handling of Liberati, a Senior who does part time varsity duty, highlighted the Carolina offensive action.

The former Philadelphia prep star passed for one touchdown and scored another himself. His tricky ballhandling aided the fine ballcarrying of Hawkes and Worrell.

The Tar Babies compiled a total of approximately 235 yards in combined ground and aerial endeavers. The visitors vastly outgained their hosts, having large leads in both total yardage and first downs.

Coach Ted Hazelwood substituted freely throughout the entire contest, using all 32 boys who made the trip.

For the most part Virginia seemed to lack only experience. The Cavayearlings had an impressive passing attack, and several swift ball carriers. They made several mental errors, as well as some costly fumbles.

The Carolina line was equally good on offense and defense. The offensive forward wall cleared the way nicely for the ball carriers, while Virginia was not able to gain any substantial yardage on the ground.

State Out

Carolina Athletic Director Chuck Erickson has announced that the game between Carolina and North Carolina State will definitely not be played. The game was postponed because of an outbreak of polio on the Carolina campus.

There had been some discussion of playing the game at a later date. However, Erickson has announced that this was found to be unfeasible.

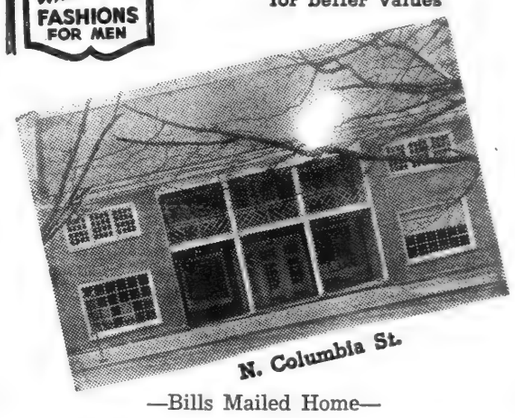
The Carolina football season will definitely close on November 28 against the University of Miami.

The University athletic office has announced that refunds on tickets for the cancelled game are now being made here. The office pointed out that requests for refunds for tickets purchased at N. C. State should be sent to that institution.

The 45-0 grid win of U of Miami over V.M.I. Sept. 26 gave the Hurricanes two shutout wins in a row for the first time since a four game shutout string back in 1941. Miami's other shutout victim in the current string was Clemson, blanked 14-0 in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville New Years.

SUAB Grid Contest Prizes

The Student Union Activities Board has announced the prizes for the winner of this week's football contest as being two tickets to the Carolina Theater and a carton of cigarettes.



Entry blanks for the contest can be picked up in the lobby of Graham Memorial and must be turned in by noon today. The names of the winners will be announced in Wednesday's Tar Heel.

Vince Pagley, junior defensive end for the University of Miami intercepted his first pass as a Hurricane against V.M.I.—and returned it 36 yards for his first Miami TD.

When Carolina was defeated by Texas in its opening game of the 1952 season, a couple of freshmen supplied the Tar Heels' scoring punch. Freshman quarterback Marshall Newman tossed to freshman halfback Ken Keller for the only Tar Heel tally in the 28-7 defeat.

AUTHENTIC University FASHIONS FOR MEN

SHOP at—
THE SPORT SHOP
for better values

N. Columbia St.

—Bills Mailed Home—

BIG GAME FOOTBALL

VAN HEUSEN SHIRTS
PURITAN CASHMERES
INTERWOVEN SOX
MAYFAIR SLACKS
ALLIGATOR O'COATS
PHOENIX SUITS

TOWN & CAMPUS
Bob Cox, '48 Monk Jennings, '49

SLOAN'S DRUG CO.
"On the Corner"
The Complete Drug Store

SLOAN'S DRUG STORE
101 E. Franklin 9-2961

FOOTBALL WEATHER IS COAL—weather —OIL
TURN YOUR HEATING WORRIES OVER TO US

Phone 6161
BENNETT & BLOCKSIDGE, Inc.

WAKE FOREST "DEACONS"
VS
NORTH CAROLINA "TAR HEELS"
IN
KENAN STADIUM

EXCLUSIVE ! ! !
QUARTERBACKING WITH CHOO CHOO JUSTICE
The Strategy Football Game That Lets You Be Quarterback
SPORTS EQUIPMENT
CAROLINA SPORT SHOP

Kick Off
SATURDAY
OCT. 18th
AT
2:00 P. M.

Phone 5531
Free Rx Delivery

DRUGS
COSMETICS
FOUNTAIN SERVICE
GIFTS

Sutton's Walgreen Agency
Prescription Specialists

FOR THE LIFE OF YOUR CAR GO GULF!!!

REEVES
Gulf Service
214 W. Franklin St.
Phone 9-437

Don't miss it!

YOUR DESOTO PLYMOUTH DEALER
POE MOTOR COMPANY

YOUR BUICK GMC-TRUCK DEALER IN CHAPEL HILL
Colonial Motors
W. Franklin St.

Good Luck CAROLINA

UN Day Groups Here To Meet Today In Y

Three committees will meet this morning in the Y to complete plans for next Friday's UN Day celebration.

The International Supper Committee will meet at 9:30 with co-chairmen Sue Fink and John McLendon. The Noon Ceremony Committee will meet at 10:30 with chairman Fred Cleveland.

At 11:30, the Educational and Publicity Committee will meet with its chairman, Ann Blalock.

When Coach Carl Snavely sent his Carolina football team against the Texas Longhorns here September 27 at Kenan Stadium, it was the start of Snavely's tenth campaign here.

WEEK-END

HOUSE CLEANING SALES

This week—Shopworn and overstock books in

RELIGION, HUMOR, PSYCHOANALYSIS and MUSIC

At Sharp Reductions

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

musts for your record collection

Verdi:
OTELLO
La Pollo, Sarri, Manca Serra
Chorus and Orchestra of Rome Opera House
Alberto Paoletti, conductor
URLP 216 3 12" LPs & libretto $17.85
"...a brilliant recording achievement."—Washington Post

Flotow:
MARTHA (Opera)
Berger, Anders, Greindl
Chorus of Berlin Civic Opera, Symphony Orchestra of Radio Berlin.
Arthur Rother, conductor
URLP 217 3 12" LPs & libretto $17.85
"A better performance of this buoyant opera is difficult to imagine."—Arkansas Gazette

Strauss, J:
WIENER BLUT
Beilke, Richter, Streich, Hauser
Chorus and Orchestra of Berlin Civic Opera
Hans Lenzer, conductor
URLP 209 2 12" LPs $11.90
"Captivating waltzes in the inimitable Viennese style."—Christian Science Monitor

de Falla:
THE THREE-CORNERED HAT (Complete)
Amparito Péris de Prullière
L'Orchestre de l'Opéra-Comique, Paris
Jean Martinon, conductor
URLP 7034 1 12" LP $5.95
"...about the most beautiful recorded sound achieved on LP thus far."—San Francisco Chronicle

Berlioz:
FOUR OVERTURES
The Corsair
The Roman Carnival
King Lear
Beatrice and Benedict
L'Orchestre de l'Association des Concerts Lamoureux
Jean Martinon, conductor
URLP 7048 1 12" LP $5.95
"...the performances with the Lamoureux Orchestra are excellent."—The Nation

URANIA RECORDS INC

Ask Your Dealer For Our New Catalog

IF THERE EVER WAS A PICTURE which made you feel like you were there and in the middle of it—this is it—the real thing!!!

THE MOST SPECTACULAR BATTLE-ACTION DRAMA EVER FILMED

HOWARD HUGHES presents

ONE MINUTE TO ZERO

starring ROBERT MITCHUM ANN BLYTH

AN EDMUND GRAINGER PRODUCTION

with WILLIAM TALMAN • CHARLES McGRAW • MARGARET SHERIDAN

LATE SHOW TONITE

SUNDAY-MONDAY

Varsity

Last Times T-O-D-A-Y

Frank Yerby's "GOLDEN HAWK"

with Sterling Hayden Rhonda Flemming

CAROLINA CAROUSEL

By Deenie Schoeppe

So now we can have real "after the game" parties and victory celebrations, we hope, instead of just celebrations.

KA's began celebrating last night with a party at Lloyd's barn, with beer and dancing.

The Lambda Chi's cabin partied last night at Neal Thompson's with the Wake Forest chapter.

Biggest oversight of last week's column: Bud Maddie, Bronx, N. Y., was initiated into Phi Kappa Sig. (That's the fraternity Vince Grimaldi's in!)

Phi Kappa Sigs are having a cocktail party this a.m. at the house, which has just been redecorated

ADPi pledge Nell Boone Crofton got pinned this week to PiKA Tommy Wellington of Wake Forest.

Recent engagement at the ADPi house is that of Julia Steed, Richlands who will marry Hubert Rogers, Kappa Psi from Fair Bluff.

Mrs. L. C. Neal, Chi O housemother, was serenaded by the Theta Chi's this week and given a Theta Chi mother's pin, as her son Bob is a Theta Chi.

TEP's are doing much socializing this weekend. They're having a "Wake for Wake Forest" party tonight and brother Norman Goldin will hold open house in Raleigh tomorrow afternoon.

Chi Phi's cabin party last nite was at Perry's with guitar music by Jimmy Holliday.

The Beta's will entertain the Tri Delt chapter Thursday with a Hallowe'en costume party at the house.

Believe this if you can, but the St. A's are having a coon hunt complete with hound dogs Saturday nite.

Scene of the Chi Psi's party tonite will be Bob Smith's, alias the Franklin Street Dinette.

Kappa Sigs are having much big party tonite—complete with combo.

Phi Kappa Sigs will have their Founders' Day Banquet Wednesday night with a cocktail party before it.

Pi Kappa Phi's have an after the game party scheduled at the house and Phi Delta Chi's will party Saturday night at the house.

Cabin parties sure seem to be the order of the day. Pi Lams will have one tonight too.

ATO's will entertain the Chi O's Thursday at the Legion hut.

Pi Phi president Bish Fox, Roanoke, Va., is engaged to PiKA president Jimmy Lester, also of Roanoke.

Another recent engagement is that of Chi O Cay Youngs, Miami, Fla., to Sigma Nu Bernard Theiling of Charlotte.

Apologies to Phi Gam Joe Nelson, Rocky Mount, who isn't pinned to Shirley Norvil at all, but to Joan Davenport of Salem College.

Alpha Gamma Delta's honored their new housemother, Mrs. Lorena Patie, with a tea given at their house Thursday. They had open house for their new pledges last Friday. Tomorrow they'll have a coffee for all fraternities.

Tri Delt pledges were entertained at the house Saturday with brunch.

KD's had brunch and bridge for their pledges last Saturday and a buffet supper Wednesday night.

Zeta Psi's will do their partying at the Carolina club tonite.

ZBT's and their guest will have dinner and a party at the house after the game.

And another cabin party. Who? Phi Delts at Lloyd's Saturday nite.

Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity has been partying of late. Last week it was at the Legion hut and tonight they'll go to Turnage's in Durham.

Pi Beta Phi province president Mrs. R. W. Horuff will pay the local chapter a visit this weekend. Sorority presidents are invited to a dinner in her honor Monday night.

One TEP minus a pin is Rick Levy, Jamaica, N. Y., who pinned Joan Katz, N. Y. City. TEP Alan Gordon, Raleigh, is engaged to Betty Eatman, Raleigh.

Susan Northrop, Charlotte, now wears the Phi Kappa Sig pin of Fritz Pelone also of Charlotte.

That's it for today—see you at the game!

—Story Book—

(Continued from page 1)

"I made up a girl pickaninny with lots of bows in her hair for a hand craft project in vacation Bible School. Later Mother took one to a gift shop to get it framed for a gift. She had barely reached the inside of the shop when a lady stopped her and asked to buy it for a Christmas gift. Mother came home with orders for more and for other things done in the same style."

A 1944 graduate of Winthrop College at Rock Hill, S. C., Mrs. Stoudemire helped her college expenses with her art sales. She majored in fine arts at Winthrop and later took private lessons in Aiken.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 5B

SECOND HAND EVENING DRESSSES, excellent condition. Practically new. Stylish. Sizes 12-14. 30-C Glen Lennox, Phone 9-7141 after 7:30 p.m.

WEDDING GOWN — SIZE 14, CREAM Satin and seed pearl embroidered Chantilly lace. Pearl and lace Cathedral cap and veil included. Good condition. Reasonable price. Call 9-3371. (1-c4957-2)

RIDE WANTED

TWO RIDERS DESIRE RIDE TO DURham 5 days per week arriving Durham 8:00 and leaving Durham 4:15 or 4:30 p.m. Call 9-9171 or 9-3196.

North Carolina Authors On The Dollar Table

Debby — North Carolina's own Max Steele won the 1950 Harper Prize with this heart-warming novel. One of the finest books on our dollar table.

Jackson Mahaffey—The story of the taming of a whiskey-drinking, cock-fighting fool from the North Carolina back country, by Fred Ross.

The Horns of Capricorn, by Helen Topping Miller. A romantic novel of North Carolina at the turn of the Century, and mighty good reading for an off hour.

The Way of the South—A living biography of a people, by U.N.C.'s own Charles W. Odum. This belongs on your permanent shelf.

The Exciting World of Books Is Most Enjoyable In

The Intimate Bookshop

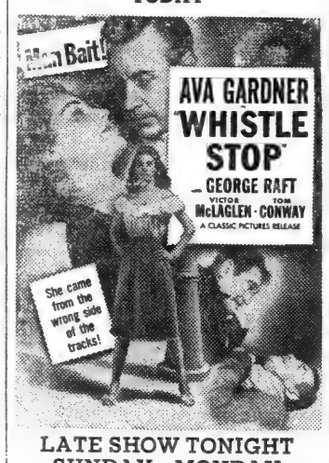
205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

What Goes On Here

SS Interviews

Interviews for the selection of a delegation to represent UNC in the State Student Legislature will be conducted Monday from 8 p.m. to 11 o'clock; on Tuesday from 4:30 to 6 p.m., and on Wednesday from 8 p.m. to 11 o'clock.



Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan Club will present a movie and a short program on Switzerland at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

EN ROUTE WITH HST—President Truman charged Gen. Eisenhower yesterday with giving "aid and comfort to the communists" by making "false promises" about Korea in his bid for votes.

Carolina

TODAY

LATE SHOW TONIGHT SUNDAY—MONDAY

BIG TECHNICOLOR MUSICAL!

give yourself a coffee-break

Next time you make a date... make it a date for coffee! You'll have more fun over a cheerful cup—it's the lift that puts life into every crowd! Wherever you go—whoever you take—give yourself a coffee-break!

Pan-American Coffee Bureau. 120 Wall St., New York 5, N.Y. Brazil • Colombia • Costa Rica Cuba • Dominican Republic Ecuador • El Salvador Guatemala • Honduras Mexico • Venezuela ©1952

Now—JUNIORS can be ACTION-FREE and figure-perfect, too!

Sarong® Jr. BRAND GIRDLE

the girdle that WALKS and won't ride up

only 5.95

Feel free as air . . . new Sarong Jr. has the famous criss-cross Sarong cut that never binds—walking, sitting, even dancing!

Look smooth as silk . . . new Sarong Jr. trims your thighs, slims your hips, tucks in your tummy and pares down your waistline—in comfort!

Individually packaged in a gay party box. Come, write or phone. Small (24-26 waist) Medium (27-29) Large (30-32). Whisper-weight, NYLON and elastic. White only.

Other Sarongs for average and full figures—$00.00 up

Robbins of Chapel Hill

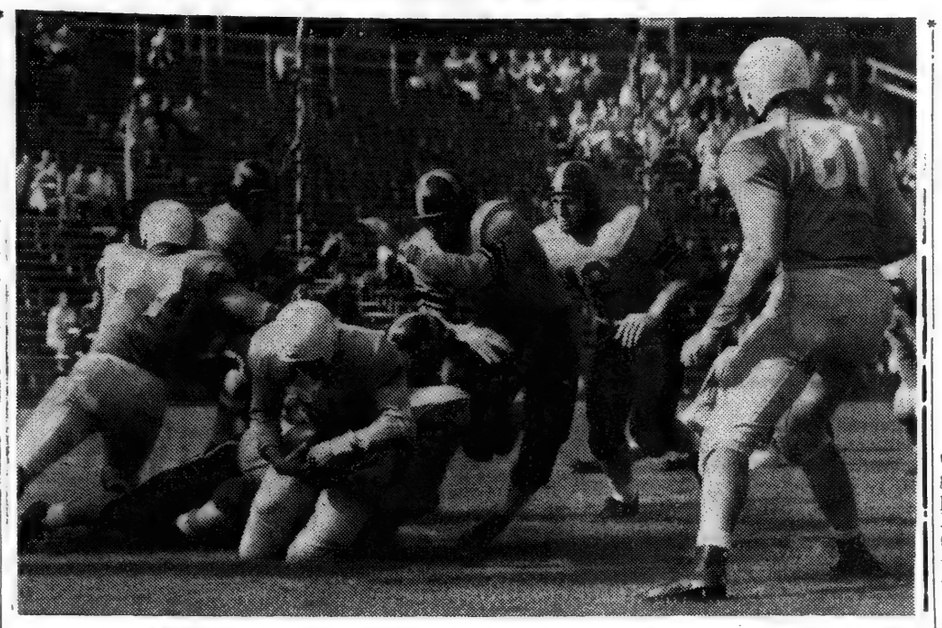
U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER

Fair and cooler with 70 high today. Yesterday's high, 77; low, [illegible]

The Daily Tar Heel

SCALES



The wife of Junious answers Farber. See letter, p. 2.

VOLUME XLI NUMBER 23 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

WAKE FOREST TAKES 9-7 WIN OVER CAROLINA

Football SCORES

Duke	57	N.C. State	0
Tennessee	20	Alabama	0
Georgia Tech	33	Auburn	0
Vanderbilt	20	Florida	13
Miss. State	27	Kentucky	14
Miami	41	Richmond	6
Virginia	33	V.M.I.	14
George Washington	6	V.P.I.	0
Maryland	38	Navy	7
Pitt	23	Army	14
Villanova	28	Boston College	7
Holy Cross	46	Brown	0
Harvard	21	Colgate	20
Pennsylvania	27	Columbia	17
Yale	13	Cornell	0
Davidson	13	Presbyterian	12
Minnesota	13	Illinois	7
Wisconsin	42	Iowa	13
Oklahoma	42	Kansas	20
Michigan	48	Northwestern	14
Michigan State	48	Syracuse	7
Notre Dame	26	Purdue	14
Ohio State	35	Wash. State	7
Texas	44	Arkansas	7

CAROLINA SAFETY MAN LEONARD BULLOCK is pulled down after returning a punt 15 yards from the Carolina 27 to the 42-yard line. Tom Higgins, 77 for Carolina, blocks, and Jim McCreedy, 81, looks on. Number 12 for Wake Forest is Billy Churm.—THE DAILY TAR HEEL photos by Cornell Wright.

Game Is Won By George's Field Goal

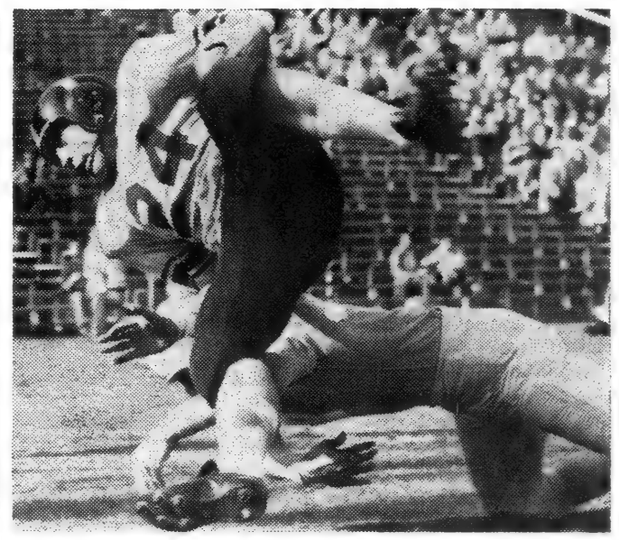
Carolina Defense Plays Good Ball Throughout Game

By Tom Peacock

Quarterback Sonny George of Wake Forest kicked a field goal with two minutes left to play in the game to give the Deacons a 9-7 win over North Carolina in Kenan Stadium yesterday before 30,000 spectators.

Sparkling play by the North Carolina defensive team enabled the Tar Heels to hold on to a slim 7-6 lead until George split the uprights from 10 yards out.

North Carolina scored first when right halfback Chal Port took a pitchout from quarterback Marshall Newman and raced 73 yards on the second play of the second half. The Deacs got the touchdown back a few minutes later on a three-yard quarterback sneak by George. End Kokornick blocked George's extra point attempt.



Carolina's best offense was a good defense all afternoon. The Tar Heel line held for four downs inside its own five-yard line twice, and threw Wake Forest passers for long losses regularly. Junior Seawell, Tom Higgins, Dan Mainer, and a host of other Carolina defense players were standouts on every play.

Wake Forest built its offense around the running and kicking

(See FINAL, page 3)

Statistics

	W.F.	N.C.
First Downs	10	6
Rushing Yardage (Net)	51	127
Passing Yardage (Net)	140	20
Passes Attempted	18	7
Passes Completed	9	1
Passes Intercepted by	1	2
Punts	13	11
Punting Average	40.4	46.5
Fumbles Lost	1	6
Yards Penalized	65	57

D. C. DEWEESE OF CAROLINA spills Wake Forest halfback Bruce Hillenbrand after he takes a pass from quarterback Sonny George in the first quarter. The play was nullified by a holding penalty against Wake Forest.

Tar Heels Cheer! Coaches Comment

By Louis Kraar

Rameses VIII, the new Tar Heel Ram, saw Carolina spirit come back to Kenan Stadium yesterday afternoon in spite of an adverse score. The Ram, obviously placid and content over the voluminous yells, calmly nibbled on grass. But that was enough for the crowd.

The final letdown during the closing moments of the game failed to squelch the new-born spirit. What started off as mediocre competition for peanut vendors ended in cheers that resounded all through the stands.

Bo Thorpe, head cheerleader, and the cheer squad reached their peak of enthusiasm in the last minutes of the contest. "Any man on our team can run 60 yards in a minute and sixty seconds!" exclaimed Thorpe. The stands were filled when that minute was over.

Wake Forest supporters were hardly idle. Equipped with Cherryville High School's Band and their own, Deac fans gave solid support to their team.

White and Blue hats studded Carolina stands. A group of boys sitting on one of the front rows held up a huge Confederate flag which prompted the singing of "Dixie."

Rameses VIII exhibited what one cheerleader tagged "friskiness," but what appeared more like "Tar Heel Spirit." The ram,

(See SPIRITS, page 3)

By Vardy Buckalew

The Carolina dressing room was truly a picture of dejection after yesterday's 9-7 loss to Wake Forest. The gloom was deepened by the fact that the team almost had the victory in their grasp, only to have a field goal in the last two minutes snatch it away.

Standing in the open court between the two dressing rooms it was not hard to tell on which side the winning team was quartered.

From the Wake Forest side the triumphant yells of victory awaited each player as one-by one they straggled in off the playing field. Center of the attraction of course was Sonny George, Deacon quarterback, who sparked the team all afternoon and kicked the winning field goal.

On the other hand there was almost dead silence from the Carolina headquarters. Occasionally a loud and disgusted curse arose from the stillness but mostly there was silence.

The players didn't even speak to each other. Their main purpose

(See I'M PROUD, page 3)

NEWS IN BRIEF

NEW YORK—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave a pat on the back to Gen. George C. Marshall last night and said that he himself is still a "no deal" man. His ultimate decisions, he said, were his alone. His camp was cheered by the pronouncement of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, that he could not support the Democratic national ticket headed by Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

★

TYLER, Tex.—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) left for Tucson, Ariz., yesterday after promising he would continue to "call the roll" of alleged Communists in government. Defending his Red-hunting methods, he said, "To talk in general terms of Communist infiltration in our government is a waste of time. You've got to name the individuals who are responsible if you want to get results."

★

SEOUL — American infantrymen battered Chinese Communists from their last toehold on towering Triangle Mountain in a bloody central front battle yesterday as Allied Sabre jets knocked down two Communist planes in air battles over northwest Korea. U. S. footsoldiers ran the Reds off Pike's Peak, last of four disputed heights on the central front mountain. The Reds already have lost 19700 dead and wounded—about six Communist regiments—during the past 11 days of fighting on Triangle, Sniper Ridge and White Horse Mountain.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky took the UN stand yesterday to call for:

1. Immediate cessation of the Korea War
2. Unconditional return of all prisoners of war to their homelands "in agreement with international norms."
3. Withdrawal of all foreign forces—including the Chinese — from Korea.
4. Unification by the "Koreans themselves" under supervision of a commission which would include "parties directly concerned" and Russia—normally, at least, a non-belligerent.
5. Reduction of armaments by the Big Five powers by at least one-third. Conclusion of a peace pact among the Big Five, "considering that the North Atlantic Pact leads to international tensions."

George and $7

Contributions turned into The Daily Tar Heel yesterday left only $7 unpaid on George's $20 medical bill. George is the campus canine.

Donations still are being accepted. They may be mailed or brought to The Daily Tar Heel office, second floor of Graham Memorial. The fund is to pay the dog's hospital bill incurred while he recuperated from gunshot wounds in the face.

SP Will Nominate Tomorrow Night

The Student Party will begin nominations for Legislature seats available in the coming Fall elections and Junior Class officers tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in Roland Parker lounges.

Party Chairman Ken Barton asked that as many students attend as possible to insure good representation of the student body.. He said that the Student Party would foster "better student government."

Remainder of SP nominating schedule are freshman class officers on October 27 and Student Council on November 3. Special nominating sessions will be called if necessary.

Nominations in the University Party begin Tuesday night in Horace Williams Lounge. Party officials urge interested students to attend.

UP Chairman Sol Cherry asked particularly that all freshmen attend who want to learn the procedures of the party, one "based on groups or organizations rather than individuals which makes it more representative."

2 From Here Will Attend Air Confab

Chancellor Robert B. House and Lt. Colonel Jesse J. Moorhead, commander of the AFROTC, wil participate in an Air Force ROTC orientation conference to be held at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., Tuesday.

More than 115 colleges and university presidents and vice-presidents and 60 college deans, and Air Force ROTC professors of air science and tactics at 188 colleges and universities throughout the United States will participate in the Tuesday conference. A similar session was held during the week just ended.

Brig. General M. K. Deichelmann, commandant of the AF ROTC program, said the purpose of the conference is "to acquaint educational executives with proposed changes and improvements in future operation and administration of the AF ROTC program; to review the new instruction courses to be inaugurated next year, and to emphasize plans to conduct a carefully developed ROTC program which will be mutually beneficial to the supporting institutions and to the Air Force."

Attending the conference October 22 will be representatives from Arizona, Arkansas, California, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Washington, D. C., and West Virginia.

The Air University, educational system of the Air Force, recently assumed administration of the AFROTC program in addition to its other varied educational and research missions which now serve all Air Force commands and about 200,00 students in many parts of the world.

Will Be Given Law School Tests

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18—The Law School Admission Test, required of applicants for admission to a number of leading American law schools, will be given at more than 100 cneters throughout the United States on the mornings of Nov. 15, and Feb. 21, April 25, and Aug. 8, 1953.

Music Dept. Releases Concerts

The University Department of Music yesterday announced its schedule of concerts for the fall quarter. The first will be a piano recital by Wilton Mason on Tuesday.

The remainder of the schedule is:

Oct. 28—Edgar Alden, violinist and William S. Newman, pianist.

Dec. 3—University Symphony Orchestra.

Dec. 4—Arthur Loesser, pianist.

Dec. 9—University Glee Clubs' Christmas Concert.

Capt. Frazee Here Tomorrow To Talk

Capt. Mary E. Frazee will speak tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the Y library to women students and graduates concerning a career as physical therapist, occupational therapist, or dietitian in the Women's Medical Specialists Corps, United States Army.

After receiving an AB degree, Captain Frazee took her training in the Army Physical Therapy School at Lawson General Hospital in Atlanta. Her assignments have included Walter Reed Hospital, Valley Forge Hospital, and an Army hospital in Germany.

Women with any college background, particularly those with majors in art and the sciences, are invited to hear of the opportunities for training and service in the Women's Medical Specialist Corps.

Heart Award Established For Writers

An annual Howard W. Blakeslee Award of $1,000, in honor of the late science editor of the Associated Press, is to be made by the American Heart Association.

The announcement in North Carolina was made here yesterday at headquarters of the North Carolina Heart Association by Dr. Edward S. Orgain of Duke University, president of the association.

He said the award has been established to encourage the best standards of scientific reporting, and will be given annually to the individual whose creative efforts have contributed most toward public understanding of the cardiovascular diseases in any medium of communication—including newspapers, magazines, books, radio, television or films.

Material published or produced during the 1952 calendar year is eligible for consideration, Dr. Orgain said. Entries must be post-

Miss Parker To Talk Monday Night At 7

Miss Elizabeth Parker, assistant director of the University Placement Service, will present an address entitled, "The Bosses and The Bossed," Monday evening at 7:30.

The address is being sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Fraternity in Business Administraition and will be held in the Chapter House at 214 East Rosemary Street.

L. R. Jordan, president, has extended an open invitation to all who are interested in the services offered by the center. Miss Parker will quote statistics taken from follow-up reports of the "Alumni Survey" and the "Employer Opinion Survey" identifying prerequisites demanded by those who do the hiring.

Lighthouse Keeper Sights Russian Boat

WASHINGTON — A Japanese lighthouse keeper and several fishermen saw a Russian patrol boat race toward the area where an American B-29 Superfort bomber disappeared October 7 after Soviet fighters shot at it, U.S. officials reported yesterday. Meanwhile, in Tokyo the Air Force abandoned hope of finding any survivors from a missing C-46 courier plane which disappeared after taking off from an air field in Korea. All aboard the twin-engined plane were servicemen.

Stevenson Attacks Republicans Again

SAN ANTONIO—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson declared yesterday the Republicans offer in the fight against world communism only a political DDT "guaranteed to contain no taxes, no anxiety and no effort." In a scornful attack on the GOP attitude on the Korean struggle.

Ike Backers Meet Monday–Gerrard

The "Citizens For Eisenhower" group on the campus will hold its second meeting since its inception two weeks ago on Monday night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

Ham Horton, chairman of the group, has announced that Professor Malcolm McDermott of the Duke University Law School will be the guest speaker.

The group has been active in the past week, setting up a table in the "Y" Court and distributing campaign literature. Also, they have made an attempt to get out the vote on election day by distributing information on how to vote by absentee ballot.

They will also make an attempt to get students who can vote a ride home on Saturday so that they can register.

Plans are being made for a rally some time in the near future and an attempt is being made to obtain a speaker of some note.

The meeting Monday night is open to everyone and citizens of Chapel Hill who are interested in seeing the election of General Eisenhower are invited.

Senior Pictures

Seniors will be the only students to have their pictures taken tomorrow. Senior men should wear light colored coats to get the full effect of the black background now being used for seniors.

Senior girls in Alpha Gam, ADPi, KD, Tri Delt, Chi O, and Spencer Dorm are requested to have their pictures taken tomorrow.

BROUGHT DOWN FROM THE FIGHTING ATOP White Horse Mountain in Korea, these dead ROK troops, foreground, await transportation to a rear grave area. Other ROK infantrymen unload vegetable-rice balls for troops still fighting.—UP Telephoto.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter: delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Editor ..... BARRY FARBER
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

Assoc. Ed. ..... Bev Baylor
Assoc. Ed. ..... Sue Burress
Sub Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher
Natl. Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen
News Ed. ..... Jody Levey
Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock
Adv. Mgr. ..... Ned Beeker

Night Editor: Vardy Buckalew

Lay That Pistol Down

George the Dog is back in the Y Court again.

As a result of somebody's maladjusted B-B gun, George was forced to spend several days in a plastic surgery ward. But he's all right now, except for a slight "misunderstood" complex.

Now George wants it known that he does not have bull's eyes. He is not a member of the archery department, nor is he on the psychology staff serving as the campus emotional outlet.

As a matter of fact, George is in no way employed by the University. And he's not doing any of these things on his own time, either.

George is not a lion. He's just a good collie who has committed no campus offense which warrants the firing squad. He may have barked at a few people in his time, but he didn't really mean anything by it.

The University apologizes if they have not made it clear that dog-hunting is not among the extra-curriculars.

Here are the rules:

1. THIS IS NOT THE DOG-HUNTING SEASON.

2. NO LICENSES WILL BE ISSUED BY THE UNIVERSITY FOR THIS PRIVILEGE NOW OR IN THE FUTURE.

3. NO LICENSES WILL BE ISSUED BY THE LOCAL, STATE, OR NATIONAL GOVERNMENT FOR THIS PRIVILEGE NOW OR IN THE FUTURE.

4. PLEASE DO NOT SHOOT THE ANIMALS.

Attention all contributors to George's hospital bill: You are making it possible for George to pay off somebody's debt to society. Many thanks for your interest in getting George out of the dog house. He only needs seven more dollars, so keep the donations coming in.

Express Myself

Fascist Farber

Editor:

In his "Personally" column of the 15th, Mr. Farber advocates the immediate outlawing of the Communist Party, and the "deactivating" of its leaders. Mr. Farber like any hysterical Ku Kluxer puts forward a simple program to clear the way for fascism.

This suggestion would lead in actual fact to scuttling the Bill of Rights and depriving all citizens of their civil liberties. Hitler Germany put Mr. Farber's program in action. The Fascists there started by outlawing the Communist Party, then all opposition to the government was silenced, and finally World War II came and the killing of six million Jews. Hitler's storm troopers also effectively "deactivated" Communist leaders by such means as beating them to death and killing them in gas chambers. Don't be coy Mr. Farber, let's have your suggestions. Why does Mr. Farber suggest that we deport the constitution. He says that the Communists in this country say that capitalism has to go. Well, they never made any bones about the fact that they believe that capitalism has run amok and is driving this country to war and economic and social ruin. It's common knowledge that Communists advocate socialism as the ultimate answer to the ills of capitalism and that they offer a practical program of peace, Negro rights and better living standards as immediate measures. He asks, "Has anybody seen Czechoslovakia lately?" It would be embarassing for Mr. Farber to answer the rhetorical question because even he can't escape the fact that Czechoslovakia is flourishing economically and culturally and that the working people are running their country.

Mr. Farber is obviously an "advanced thinker" in his peculiar way. He is not satisfied that a climate of fear and intimidation is being created wholesale in this country. He is not satisfied with that same climate aptly described on this campus by Richard Murphy. Most native fascists are chortling with joy over the current "trials" of Communists. The Communist leaders are being accused, and tried for thinking, teaching and speaking.

Their crimes as charged in their indictments are:

Eleven indictments were for writing articles in the theoretical journal of the Communist Party, "Political Affairs."

Five are for writing articles in the Daily Worker.

Five are for attendance at public meetings.

Two are for attendance at committee meetings.

Two are for attendance at classes.

One is for leaving a building (35 East 12 Street, the headquarters of the C.P. nationally).

One is for becoming a party organizer.

Incidentally, because of increasing pressure of public opinion, the cases against two of these leaders, Simon Gerson and Isadore Begun have been dismissed by the trial judge.

If Mr. Farber were a liberal, instead of a pro-fascist demagogue, he would take his place alongside the truly fearless democrats who at present call on the President for amnesty for the Communist leaders now in jail, the ending of all the "trials" now in progress, and the repeal of the Smith Act.

Gladys Scales

Ed. Note

(For the benefit of those who came in late, Gladys Scales is the wife of Junius, self-avowed Communist and editor of the "Fighter For Peace" publication which was recently circulated among many students of the University.

I feel that this letter is another manifestation of Marxist delusion and deceit. Our Constitution was formulated to protect the rights and freedoms of American citizens—but not to serve as a shield for those whose expressed goal is the overthrow of the system which protects the rest of us.

Mrs. Scale's accusation that I am a Fascists stings me very deeply, as five of the six million Jews who drew their last breath on Hitler's gas were my close relatives. There's not a fascist corpuscle in my most perverted artery, which is precisely why I would like to see the Red barrier to freedom unceremoniously eradicated.

I reject the parallel Mrs. Scales draws between Nazi Germany and my "pro-Fascist demagogism." If you remember correctly, Hitler suppressed ALL opposition parties without regard to their character, beliefs, or political intentions. I seek to "de-activate" only that Party which, by its own admission, would suppress all others if they but had the chance.

I'm not the least bit embarassed to answer my own rhetorical question, "Has anybody seen Czechoslovakia lately?" I haven't. My application for a visa to travel through that "Workers' Wonderland" was categorically denied by the Communist "Bliss Boys." But you don't have to eat a bad egg to know it's rotten. If conditions in Czechoslovakia are so agreeable, Mrs. Scales, tell me why hundreds of gallant, democratic Czechs die impaled on the "Peoples'" barbed wire in a futile effort to escape. Those that do manage to reach western Europe tell us a story about Marxist oppression which runs somewhat incongruous to your own. The Czechs once had the greatest little democracy in eastern Europe ,until somebody realized that a swift coup d'etat could easily shatter the glass jaw of a complacent, unvigilant democracy.

That's why I would like to slap a congressional ban on the Communist Party—or the Fascist Party—or any other party whose aims were to reduce the population of our country to calculated slavery.

Many of my fellow Americans join me in my denunciation of Communism but would hate to see the Party outlawed straightaway because they feel that the C.P. is merely a frustrated amalgamation of rabid malcontents who present no clear and present danger to the foundations of our society.

I disagree. I advocate the immediate outlawing of the Communist Party without apologizing to anyone or ignoring a single facet of my liberal viewpoint. Look at Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Bulgaria, Romania. Do you sincerely believe, Mrs. Scales, that the Red regimes in those countries could survive a free democratic election?

I do not seek to suppress the ideas generated by the Communist Party, because they will wither upon exposure to the light of day. I merely urge that we make ourselves aware of the time-tested tactics of world Communism and face the threat promptly and realistically so that our freedom might be preserved long after Stalin lies smouldering in his grave.

Even a rat, by gnawing through a dike, can drown a nation.—Barry Farber)

John Taylor — Reviews And Previews

The Happy Time

For its first production of the season the Raleigh Little Theatre is presenting "The Happy Time," a comedy by Samuel Taylor, based on short stories by Robert Fontaine. The show will end its run this evening.

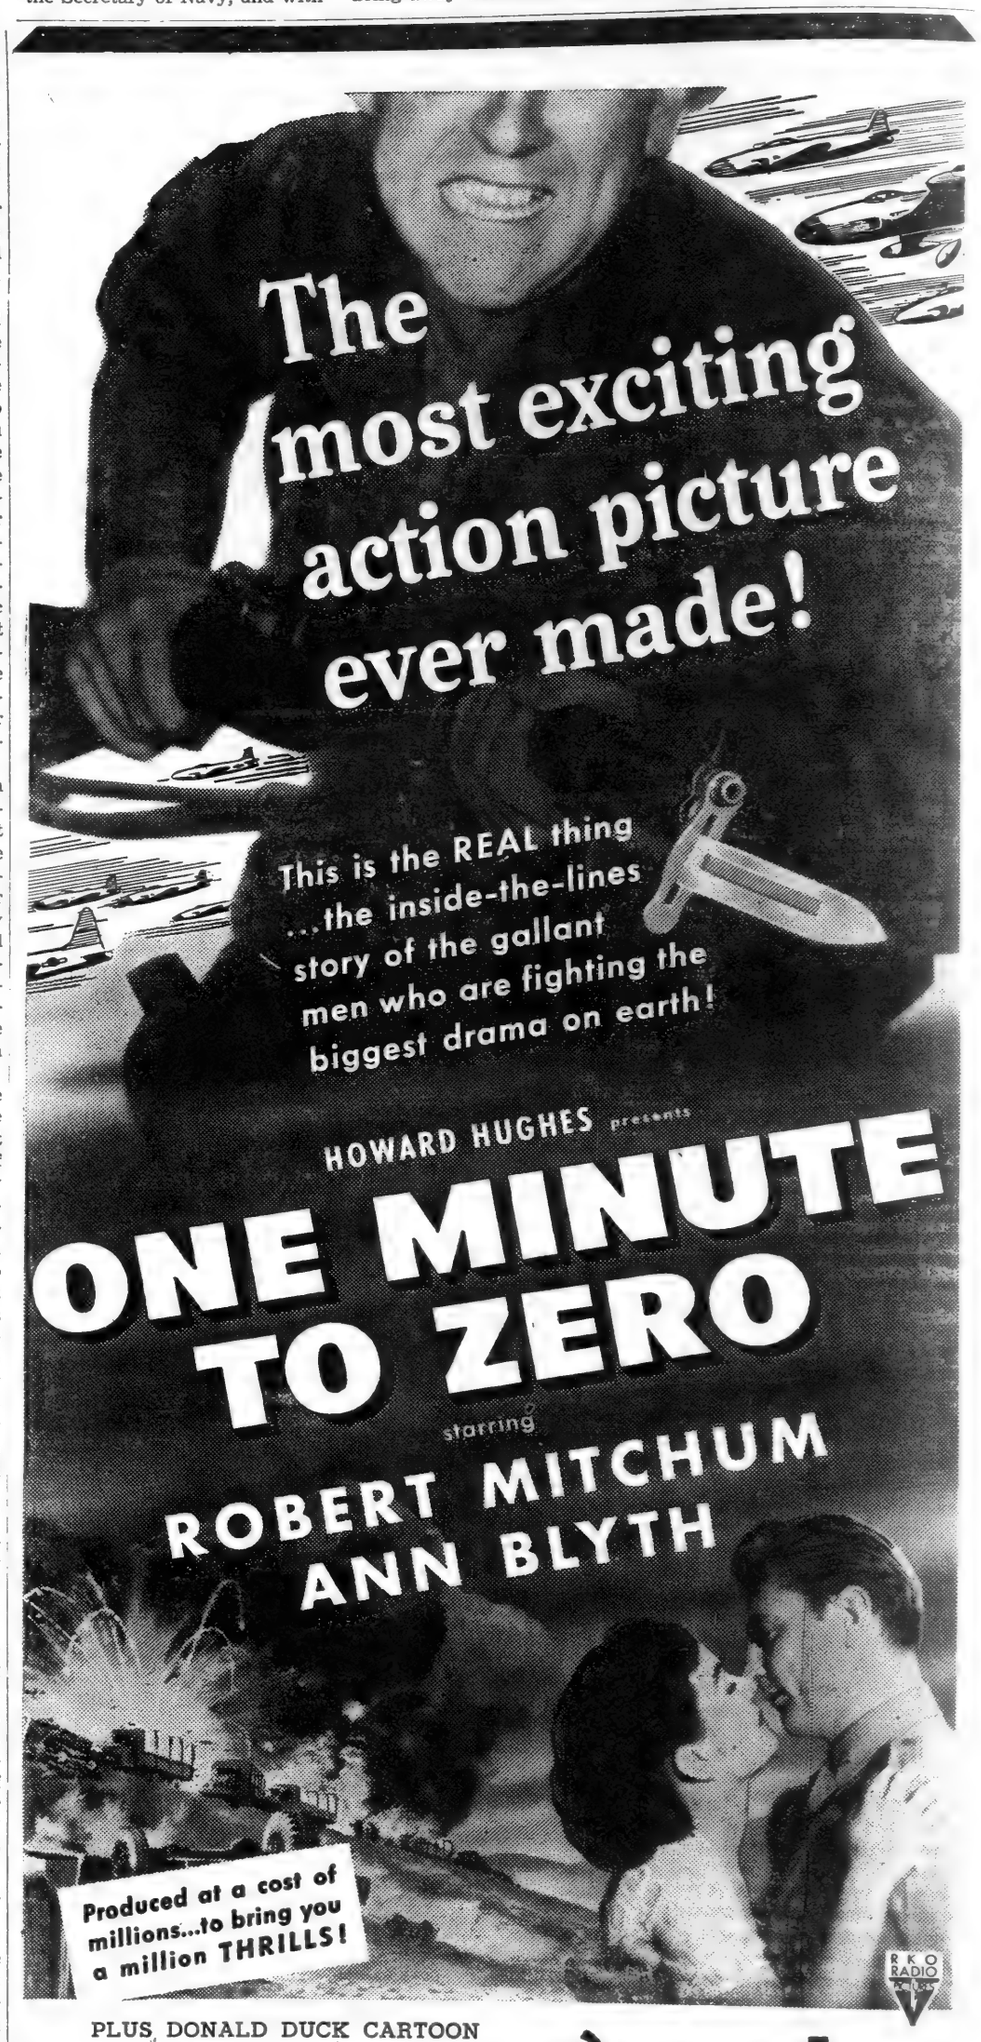
"The Happy Time" is the delightful story of the Bonnards, a very ingratiating, but thoroughly amoral family of French-Canadians, and of the effects of their varied and highly colorful escapades on Bibi, the adolescent offspring of the family. The playwright is obviously very fond of the Bonnards and understands them completely. He has brought them alive in a number of amusing incidents, sprinkled throughout the evening and has made them the basis of a thoroughly entertaining and heartwarming play.

The Little Theatre has given the show a more adequate production, although it is not up to their usual high standard. The acting ran the gamut from the very good to the very bad with most of the performances being in a class somewhere between the two limits. My nod for the best work would go to Charles Kahn, as Uncle Louis, the lovable drunkard of the family. Although he tended to overplay at times, he nevertheless gave a performance that left the audience in stitches. Running him a close second was George Hall, who had one of the most magnificent drunk scenes I have ever seen. As the other Bonnards, Richard Jackson, Mike Cannon, Don Vinnik, Bill Alspaugh, Bart Hickman, and Betty Dick all turned in generally able performances.

The entire production seemed to lack pace and to drag in many places. I think this can be attributed more to the inexperience of some of the actors than to the direction of Ainslie Pryor. Dick Snavely's sets depicting a cheerful, lived-in looking living room and a conventional school office added a lot to the atmosphere of the play.

I cannot give this production my unqualified recommendation —such as it is worth—but if you have nothing to do tonight, I think you might enjoy a visit with the Bonnards. The performance begins this evening at 8 p.m. The tickets, which can be obtained by phone and also at the box office, cost $1.20 for students and $1.80 for regular admission.

Al House — Young Democrats



Joe McCarthy, Chairman of the Senate Expenditures Committee; Joe Martin, instead of Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House. Bob Taft, Jenner and Judd, directors of the administration foreign and domestic policy and Richard Nixon presiding over the Senate. That is what will result from a Republican victory, and every vote for Eisenhower is a vote for these men whom he has endorsed and who will hold a high place in his administration.

How many of these so called "Eisenhower Democrats" have really thought of the consequences of their voting for the Republican candidate. This is no mayoralty campaign, where you of course just vote for a single man; this is a campaign where you vote for an entire administration to guide this nation for four years. A vote for Eisenhower is a vote for a Republican administration: a vote for Stevenson is a vote for a Democratic administration.A true Democrat will vote for the Democratic administration and to do otherwise is, in the words of Governor-nominee Bill Umstead, "poor judgment and political hypocrisy."

These facts of the campaign are a matter of record and cannot be refuted. Senator Bob Taft opposed the extension of the Soil Conservation Service, Social Security, the G. I. Bill for Korean veterans, 90% parity prices for farmers, federal aid to education, public housing projects and public power development. General Dwight Eisenhower said "I am in complete agreement with Senator Taft on domestic issues."

Is Eisenhower a symbol of the "new progressive" wing of the Republican party? Was he not nominated by the same wing of the party that nominated Dewey in 1944 and 1948. There is a disaffection in the Republican party that cuts deep and sensitive. They cry. "Change" "change to what?", a struggling elephant that goes down stream with its parts pulling divers ways. The Republican party platform states: "We aim at 90% parity for farmers." General Eisenhower says: "I am for 100% parity prices." Yet the Republicans in Congress have consistently voted against parity prices for farmers, and talk about a "sliding scale" of prices to be determined by a Republican Secretary of Agriculture. Whom shall we believe? General Eisenhower, the Republican platform, or the voting record of the Republicans in Congress. What are you receiving when you buy the Republican ticket in November, McCarthy, Jenner, Judd, et al included. Americans will think deeply before they turn to the party of reaction and fear. They hear them say" it's time for a change" but they answer back "a change to what?"

Americans can find in Adlai Stevenson a statesman of vision dedicated to good government. His accomplishments as governor of Illinois are praised by Democrats and Republicans alike. His service to the Agriculture Adjustment Administration, the Secretary of Navy, and with the United Nations show him to be such a statesman. A firm believer in integrity in government, he accomplished more in the clean-up of Illinois than any previous governor. He further believes that the price of freedom cannot be purchased at the doing away with taxes, but that economy in government can be realized. America looks forward with him "with a firm confidence in justice, fredom and peace on earth that will raise the hearts and hopes of mankind for that distant day when no one rattles a sabre and no one drags a chain.

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Dear John

FICKLED WAKE FOREST, after graciously wearing a Carolina victory pin for most of the game, delivered a final-minute "Dear John" letter on the toe of Sonny George that sent Carolina's gallant gridders back to the locker room to mend a broken heart and thousands of Tar Heel rooters back home still pining for the year's first win.

With the Tar Heels leading 7-6 and with the clock rapidly sending the minutes by, it seemed that we were home free with our first taste of victory under the split-T and an even one and one record for the year. But as a villainous fate has had it so many times in the past, we were foiled again.

The clock showed only three and a half minutes remaining in the game when quarterback Charlie Motta lost the handle on the ball and Wake Forest recovered on our 14. A quick opening play, bringing a first down on the four, put a lump in Tar Heel throats big enough to choke a horse. Then a five-yard delaying-the-game penalty put the ball back on the nine, from whence came the coup de grace. With a first down and goal to go the Deacons called for a field goal try. Why they tried is a perplexing question which may never be answered. It wasn't the logical play for the situation. But George stepped back and booted the ball. The referee raised his left arm. And that was it. Wake Forest had the ball game, 9-7.

A Good Defense

THE GAME WAS THE kind that could have gone our way just as well as theirs. But the fact remains that they still pay off on the final score. Chal Port made himself the Carolina hero on the second play of the last half by trotting 73 yards for our touchdown. But even that wasn't enough.

It has always been maintained that the best defense is a good offense but Coach Carl Snavely found a good substitute for it in his hard-charging defensive line. George, in his attempts to pass, got a bigger rush than a blue-eyed debutante by the Tar Heel line. Early in the first quarter the Deacons found themselves with fourth and 46 yards to go because of the losses they has sustained when George was dropped going back to pass.

Twice the Tar Heels made successful goal line stands, the first brought on by an offensive lapse. The third one seemed to be holding, too, until George gave the ball the boot. For George the field goal was all that saved him from being the goat of the ame. Because of the hard-rushing line he was thrown for a total loss of 56 yards and had one pass intercepted. Then after he had gotten the ball across from the half-yard line for the Deacon TD, he missed the extra point try, his first of the year. It looked for a long time that the one point would make the difference. And it would have made a difference had the game been three minutes shorter.

Looking Better

THE DEFENSIVE LINE was as good as will be seen this year and the Deacons' scoring opportunities came through no fault of its own. To illustrate—with 41 seconds remaining in the first half Marshall Newman fumbled on the three yard line. The Deacons ran three plays at the line before the half ended—and wound up on the three.

The offensive looked a little better than in the Texas game but is still a long way from home. The Tar Heels lost six fumbles and dropped the ball on numerous other occasions which cost them yardage. Both Newman and Motta, the only two quarters who saw action, looked good at times but neither had sticky fingers yesterday. Motta looked especially good on the option play when he ran. And Newman's long passes were things of beauty. In the closing minutes, with the Deacs ahead, he hit the strike zone on three long tosses, but two of them slipped from Tar Heel fingers and the third, complete to end Jeff Newton, was called back on a penalty.

But both boys still have to learn to hold onto the ball and both need a little more finese on pitchouts. Newman made the play right on Port's long run, holding the ball until he was hit before pitching out, and the play resulted in our only score. Port was followed down the field on that play by Tom Adler who added the final block that sent a Deacon chaser to the ground before he could catch Port. It was Adler's extra point kick that gave us our non-winning lead, too.

So like the bridegroom who was left at the altar the Tar Heels are left wondering wha hoppened? Why are we the ones to be left without the victory? We had the Deacons up to the altar steps but just couldn't get that ring on their finger.

Spirit High Despite Loss To Deacs; Rameses Back

New Rameses Makes Debut For Deacons

(Continued from page 1)

bedecked in a blue and white coat and sporting blue horns, obligingly posed for photographers. Appropriately, Rameses VIII disappeared during the last dark moments of the game.

Pregame extravaganza included Cherryville and Greenville High School bands, the NROTC Crack Drill Squad and a clever show by the NC band. The impeccable drilling of the NROTC outfit brought forth rounds of applause but the Carolina Band stole the show.

The Band show was built around a presidential campaign theme. A Democrat Donkey, escorting a pert majorette labeled Adlai, and a Republican Elephant, accompanied by an equally attractive majorette tagged Ike, were featured.

The elephant paraded in front of the ranks to the tune of "They-'ll Be Some Changes Made." The strains of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" brought on the donkey. The Democratic donkey drew the largest hand from the grid fans.

Two Deac jesters simulating football players heckled the band as it went through its show. One of these pseudo-gridmen had a long beard and was rather emaciated looking. The other sported awkward lumps in all the wrong places. Both were hilarious at first, then pests.

Another animal, a black and white bulldog who obviously mistook this for the Georgia game, got into the act too. During the game he ran out on the field necessitating the officials to call time. Later he promenaded back and forth in front of the cheerleaders. "It's a Wake Forest jinx," insisted one irate Tar Heel fan.

The snappy Wake Forest band embelished with seven shapely majorettes paraded around the field during the half to "Tzena, Tzena, Tzena." The card stunts were colorful and precise. Responsive cheers and boos could be heard as the Deacs viewed the card stunts.

Apparently the rigors of defeat hadn't set in on one afternoon alcoholic. He gayly shouted, "Anyoneone got a cocktail napkin?" No one did.

'I'm Proud Of My Boys,' Says Snavely

(Continued from page 1)

was to get dressed and get out to waiting girls and families. There were a few stragglers but most of the boys were showered and dressed within twenty minutes.

Most of the coaches' talk was of the fine play of the defensive platoon. Said Snavely about them, "I'm tickled to death with our defense. We had two freshmen in there and only two seniors and they really did a great job."

Commenting on the outcome of the game, Snavely said, "We played just as fine as we are capable of playing right now. All I can say is that I am mighty proud of our boys."

When asked if the layoff the team was forced to take due to the outbreak of polio hurt him much, he replied, "It is hard to tell. Naturally if we had been able to scrimmage our quarterbacks would have been able to iron out some of their mistakes. With this new system we are just quarterbacks develop before we going to have to wait until our can do much."

Coach Tom Rogers was smiling over the victory as would be expected. His comment was, "I don't think the layoff helped Carolina and inexperience at quarterback naturally hurt. I don't think this was our best game. Baylor was. But it was nice to win one the way that Baylor beat us."

It was nice to win one that way but no one seemed to know why a field goal was called from the 15-yard line on first down with two minutes remaining. Maybe Wake Forest just wanted to win one by a field goal after having lost one that way.

The end of the game today was reminiscent of the final two minutes of the game between these two schools the last time they played in Kenan Stadium two years ago. The score was tied at 7-7 and the Deacons completed a pass for a touchdown on virtually the last play of the game.

Final-Quarter Field Goal Gives Deacons 9-7 Victory

(Continued from page 1)

of fullback Joe Koch, who switched to quarterback occasionally when the Deacs needed a long pass. Koch's first four kicks averaged 50 yards from scrimmage and were all caught in the air by Carolina safety man Leonard Bullock, another standout.

The Carolina offense could never get rolling. The Tar Heels did not earn a first down in the first half, and were in Wake Forest territory only twice during the game. Quarterback Charlie Motthe six yard line.

ta came into the game in the fourth quarter and started the team moving, but after making four first downs Motta lost a fumble on the Wake Forest 25.

Fumbles beat Carolina. The Tar Heels lost six fumbles to the Deacs, and bobbled and recovered countless times. Wake Forest scored after recovering a ball that Port had lost on the Carolina 15, and George's field goal came after the Deacs had gained posession of Motta's fumble.

The last Carolina chance came with less than two minutes to play. Newman, who had been removed because of fumbling, threw three perfect long passes, but the Tar Heel receivers let them all fly through their outstretched arms.

The Carolina defensive team completely bottled up Wake Forest's offensive. In the first half, Wake Forest gained eight yards on the ground, Carolina 14. The teams punted 15 times in the first two periods, with Koch averaging 46.8 and Carolina's Bub Wallace 45.7.

Koch's kicks kept the Tar Heels with their backs to the goal during the first half, and Carolina was forced to kick in the early downs. The Deacons couldn't dent Carolina's defense, and Wake Forest threatened only once in the first half although the play never left Carolina territory.

On third down George got a pass off and hit Wake Forest captain and end Jack Lewis on the Carolina 17. Billy Churm bucked down to the 14, but on the next play center Junior Seawell intercepted George's pass on th esix yard line.

Bub Wallace took the second half kickoff on the Carolina 5 and ran to the 25. Newman ran a play to the 28, and then on the following play, when he was within inches of laying on the ground, he pitched out to Port. Port went through the hole off left tackle and sprinted towards the Wake Forest goal with end Tom Adler running interference. Adler threw a perfect block on the Deacons' 10, knocking out the last two men, and Port scored standing up. Adler added the extra point, giving Carolina a 7-0 lead with less than a minute gone in the second half.

Wake Forest came roaring back with their only offense-engineered scoring threat. After the kickoff, the Deacs ran for a first down on the 40-yard line. Koch took over the quarterbacking and threw to George on the Carolina 25. George raced to the one where Bullock stopped him with a desperate flying tackle.

The Carolina defensive line threw the Deacs for two losses back to the five, and then Deac Bruce Hillenbrand fumbled on the eight, Seawell recovering to stop the threat.

Bullock intercepted a long pass on the Carolina 10 that was thrown by Churm after an exchange of punts. On the first Carolina play Port fumbled on the fifteen yard line, and Ken Bridges recovered for the Deacs.

Hillenbrand ripped off tackle for 13 yards and a first down on the three. Carolina stopped a line buck, but George scored on a quarterback sneak. Left End Dick Kokornick crashed in and blocked the extra point to keep Carolina in the lead, 7-6, with five minutes left in the third period.

George kicked out on the Carolina 20-yard line just as the end of the quarter sounded. Motta went in at quarterback, and the Tar Heel offense started moving. Larry Parker, who replaced Port after an injury, reeled off a first down to the 40, and Motta got another to the Wake Forest 43. A pass from Motta to left half Bob White and another good run by Motta moved the ball to the Wake Forest 25-yard line.

Motta fumbled on first down and recovered, threw an incomplete pass, and then fumbled on third down, this time Wake Forest recovering on the 25 to stop the only Tar Heel sustained drive.

The Deacons were forced to punt, and time was fast running out with Carolina still in posession of a one point lead. The Tar Heels started running line plays from their 20, when Motta fumbled a pitchout and the Deacs recovered on the fifteen.

Spencer and Churm ran down to the five for a first down, and then Wake Forest was penalized back to the 10 for delaying the game. George decided to try for the field goal on first down instead of bucking the Tar Heel defense, and the Deacon quarterback made a perfect kick from the 22-yard line. Wake Forest took a 9-7 lead with one minute and 52 seconds to go in the game.

Newman went back in at quarterback for Carolina and started passing. After one pass was dropped, the Tar Heels got a first down on the 45 because of a penalty. Newman hit end Jeff Newton on the Wake Forest 27, but the play was called back for a holding penalty. Another Newman pass was dropped on the Wake Forest 30, and then George intercepted a pass on the Deacon 35. The clock ran out before another play could be completed.

The lineup:

WAKE FOREST
Left Ends: Ondilla, Stowers, Stocks;
Left Tackles: Gaona, Bartholew, Garrison;
Left Guards: Link, Finnance, Trentini;
Centers: Donahue, Zrakas;
Right Guards: Pickard, Santangelo;
Right Tackles: Bridges, Wagner, Turner;
Right Ends: Lewis, Ware, Simmons, Littleton;
Quarterbacks: George, Spencer;
Left Halfbacks: Hillenbrand, Frederick;
Right Halfbacks: Churm, Bland;
Fullbacks: Koch, Coker;

NORTH CAROLINA
Left Ends: Kocornik, Norris;
Left Tackles: Opitz, Higgins;
Left Guards: Foti, Neville, Gregory;
Centers: Mullens, Seawell, Bruton;
Right Guards: Patterson, Hursh, Marcinko;
Right Tackles: Yarborough, McCreedy;
Right Ends: Adler, Mainer;
Quarterbacks: Newman, Ridenhour, Motta;
Left Halfbacks: White, Bullock, Keller;
Right Halfbacks: Port, Lackey, Parker, Murray;
Fullbacks: Wallace, Cooke.

MURALS

Tomorow's Football

4:00—Field 2, Graham 1 vs. Law School; Field 3, Lewis vs. Graham 2; Field 4, Phi Delt 1 vs. DKE 2; Field 5, SAE 1 vs. DKE 1.
5:00—Field 2, Med School 3 vs. Alexander 2; Field 3, Connor vs. Med School 4; Field 4, Cobb 2 vs. Med School 1; Field 5, Med School 2 vs. Ruffin.

Tomorrow's Volleyball

4:00—Court 1, Beta 2 vs. Pi Lamb.
5:00—Court 1, Pike vs. Sigma Nu 2, Kap Sig 1 vs. Phi Kap Sig 1; Court 3, Chi Phi vs. Zetes 3; Court 4, Everett 2 vs. Joyner.
8:00—Court 1, Zetes 1 vs. DKE 2; Court 2, Kap Sig 4 vs. Phi Kap Sig Chi 1.
Courts, Pi Kap Phi vs. Sig Chi 3; Court 4, AK Psi vs. Sig Chi 1.

LaMarick's Cold Wave Special!

LaMarick Custom Creme Oil Cold Waves . . . Nationally famous professional permanent.
$12.50 Value
$5.95

LaMarick Deluxe Creme Oil Wave for softer, longer lasting permanent.
$15.00 Value
$6.95

LaMarick Super Deluxe Creme Oil Frigid Cold Wave . . . new, natural-looking permanent.
$25.00 Value
$9.95

MR. FRANK
IN OUR
RALEIGH SALON

Each Permanent Wave Includes
- Personality Hair Cut
- Shaping, Tapering, Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curls
- Oil Neutralizer
- Helene Curtis Creme Rinse
- Setting
- Free Consultation on All Work

We feature only professionally and nationally advertised products, or products by nationally known manufacturers such as Fashion-Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Breck, Clairol, Revlon, Flexa-Wave and LaMarick Frigid Cold Wave.

All permanents individually priced and opened before you. This is for your protection as our customers. Request this always in your beauty salon.

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
Phone Durham 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
Phone Raleigh 3-1726
LaMarick Shops

Not just "slacks" but . . . Mayfair SLACKS

$11.95

TOWN & CAMPUS

Be Sure You Get the Deal You Deserve!

☆ See us before you sign an order
☆ See the fine features that only Chevrolet offers
☆ Figure the savings that our prices provide

Naturally, you want to get the most you can for your money. Find out how much farther your money goes here. Check what you get in Chevrolet. Compare what you have to pay. Then you'll know why more people are buying Chevrolets than any other car. So come in and see us now for the deal you deserve!

CHEVROLET

The beautiful Bel Air. (Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.)

SEE WHAT YOU GAIN WITH THESE EXCLUSIVE CHEVROLET FEATURES

More Powerful Valve-in-Head Engine with Powerglide Automatic Transmission (optional at extra cost) • Body by Fisher • Centerpoise Power • Safety Plate Glass all around, with E-Z-Eye plate glass (optional at extra cost) • Largest Brakes in its field • Unitized Knee-Action Ride.

SEE WHAT YOU SAVE WITH THE Lowest-Priced Line in its Field!

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!

Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

What Goes On Here

Yack Artists

There will be a meeting of all artists, who are working on the 1953 Yackety Yack, at 7 o'clock Monday night in the Yack office.

★

Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Choral Room of Hill Hall.

★

Yacks Needed

The Yack needs 30 more 1952 Yackety Yacks. Anyone interested in selling their copy is asked to bring it by the Yack office on second floor Graham Memorial. A nominal price will be paid for books in good condition.

★

SS Interviews

Interviews for selection of a delegation to represent UNC in the State Student Legislature will be conducted Monday from 8 p.m. to 11 o'clock on Tuesday from 4:30 to 6 p.m., and on Wedensday from 8 p.m. to 11 o'clock.

★

Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan Club will present a movie and short program on Switzerland at 4 p.m. today in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

MARINE CAPT. Ted Williams, former outfielding great of the Boston Red Sox, says he probably will not return to baseball when he receives his discharge in 1953. He is undergoing intensive jet fighter training at Roosevelt Roads Naval Air Base in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and will probably go on to Korea later.—UP Telephoto.

Freshmen have ousted veterans at four positions on the West Virginia football team. They are Fred Wyant at quarterback and Eddie Dugan at left half on offense, Bruce Bosley at right tackle and Joe Marconi at left half on defense.

In Your Church

BAPTIST

A cursory glance at the book of Isaiah in the Old Testament can be deceiving to the eyes of a modern Western. He is liable to think it was written by one man who, pressed with an idea plus an eye for the best-seller lists, retreated to his quiet country home to write it. If asked why people still read the Book of Isaiah, though it is almost 3,000 years old, the average Western man is stumped. If he picks it up and reads it himself, he is apt to ask, "What on earth prompted anyone to write this and what is it all about anyway?"

Help is what he needs to introduce him to an Eastern mind, one quite different from his own—but a mind which has a profound insight into his problems if he knows how to open its interpretation. Assistance is what he will get if he spends one hour each Sunday morning at the Baptist Church with Dr. P. H. Epps, University Greek professor. Dr. Epps' long struggle with spiritual problems has made him a richly rewarding teacher.

At the beginning of the quarter, the Sunday School Class suggested several topics as possible subjects for a three months study. From these topics, the class voted to study II Isaiah (Chapters 40-66). To this point in their study, the class members have learned that the Book of Isaiah was written by two men, that it was written over a whole lifetime, that many of Isaiah's writings were assembled by others without regard to continuity, and that the book opens with the joyful message that Cyrus, King of Persia, has released the Jews from their long Babylonian captivity—and they are returning to their homes.

Students of all faiths are welcome to Dr. Epps' class, which convenes at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday.

Christian Science

Christian Science services, which conform with the ordered pattern set forth in The Mother Church Manual by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science, are held each Sunday at 11:00 a.m. in New West Lecture room. Included in each service are alternate readings from the Bible and from Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures, the denominational textbook, by Mrs. Eddy, which comprise the weekly Lesson-Sermon.

Readers in the local campus organization are Kay Kiser, First Reader, and Mrs. C. P. Spruill Jr., Second Reader. The Lesson-Sermon today is entitled "Doctrine of Atonement."

Episcopal

Dr. Claiborne Jones, associate professor of zoology, will speak at the regular meeting of the Canterbury Club tonight at the Episcopal Church. Dr. Jones will discuss the topic, "Why Are We Going to College?" A supper meeting in the Parrish House will open the session at 6 o'clock.

Presbyterian

The Rev. C. M. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will conduct the two Sunday morning services at the local Presbyterian Church. Mr. Jones is on a year's leave of absence to work with the Save the Children Foundation in Kingsport, Tenn., and does not fill the pulpit each Sunday. Next week Dr. Thomas D. Schafer of the Duke Divinity School will be guest minister.

Unitarian

The Unitarian Fellowship will meet tonight at 8:30 in Gerrard Hall. Charles Vickery, prominent member of the Unitarian Service Committee, will talk on "Germany's Displaced Children." He spent three years in Germany, working in the homes of the war-ravaged people, helping provide them with food, clothes, education and aiding in their resettlement.

Joe Marconi of Fredericktown, Pa., one of the nation's most highly sought schoolboy gridders this year, ran 30 yards for a West Virginia touchdown the very first time he carried the ball. He's a 6-2, 205-pounder who has won a regular job with the Mountaineers at defensive left halfback.

To Describe Work With DP Children

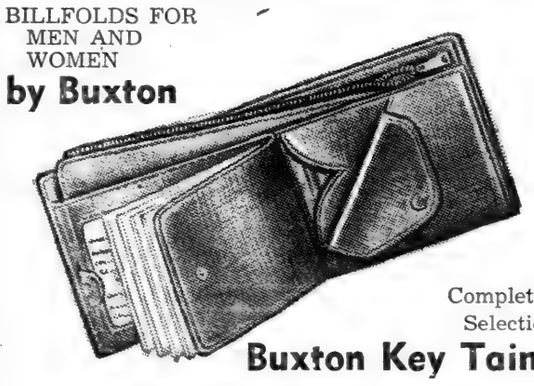
Charles N. Vickery of Chapel Hill, who spent three years with the Unitarian Service Committee in Germany, will tell about his work with displaced children at a meeting of the Unitarian Fellowship tonight in Gerrard Hall at 8:30.

Vickery's talk will be illustrated. His work was with teenage children in homes in the British Zone and included providing education and resettlement along with food and clothing. Children from six months to 18 years are cared for by the Service Committee.

Other work in Germany includes medical, dental, and education missions. Top U. S. professional men and women volunteer their services to give intensive training to German professional people. In Bremen, a model community center for all ages has been opened, of the American type. The Service Committee works here and abroad, in Israel, in the Orient, and in Southern France, among other places.

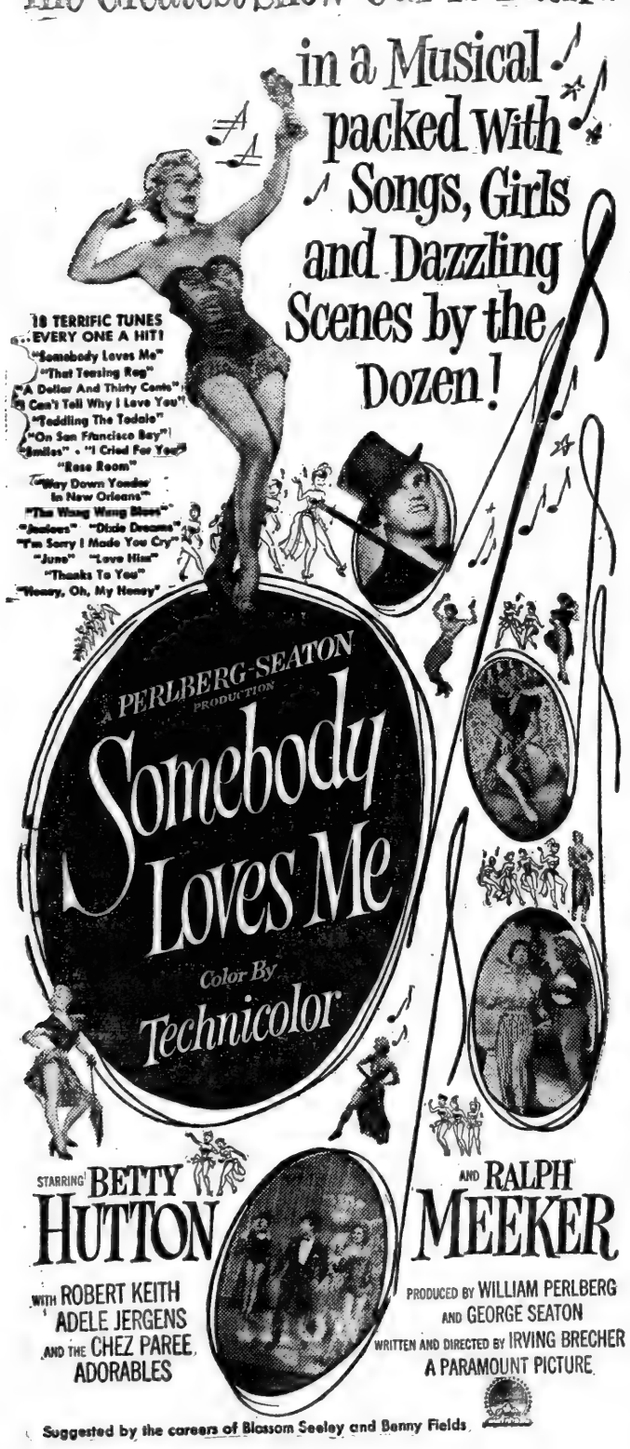
The meeting will begin at 8:30 and everyone is invited. Maurice Cobb, chairman, will preside.

Freshman Eddie Dugan of Uniontown, Pa., established an all-time West Virginia University record in only his second college game by racing 90 yards for a touchdown. Having beaten out two veterans for the left-halfback position, the 9.9-second dash man is currently the Mountaineers' leading ground-gainer.



CALIFORNIA'S GOV. WARREN AND his daughter, Virginia, had an unexpected suprise on their arrival in Minneapolis, when they met Vice President Barkley, right, who was leaving Minnesota after plugging for the other presidential ticket. Governor Warren and his daughter were on their way to northern Minnesota.—UP Telephoto.

For FLOWERS and GIFTS
University Florist
— Robbins Bldg —



WEEK-END
HOUSE CLEANING SALES
This week—Shopworn and overstock books in
RELIGION, HUMOR, PSYCHOANALYSIS and MUSIC
At Sharp Reductions
The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

BILLFOLDS FOR MEN AND WOMEN
by Buxton

Complete Selection of Buxton Key Tainers
LEDBETTER-PICKARD

"The Greatest Show" Gal Is Back... in a Musical packed with Songs, Girls and Dazzling Scenes by the Dozen!

STARRING BETTY HUTTON AND RALPH MEEKER
WITH ROBERT KEITH, ADELE JERGENS AND THE CHEZ PAREE ADORABLES
PRODUCED BY WILLIAM PERLBERG AND GEORGE SEATON
WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY IRVING BRECHER
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Suggested by the careers of Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields

Carolina
T-O-D-A-Y AND MONDAY

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE 6B

SUBSCRIBE TO THE DAILY TAR Heel. Get your football news $4.00 a year, $1.50 a quarter. See Carolyn Reichard—210 Graham Memorial. N.C. DTH

SIGNS—SHOW CARDS—DISPLAYS — W. B. Christmas, 204 Carr St. (1-c9462-1)

ONE ELECTROLUX GAS REFRIGERator. In good condition. One Coleman oil curculator heater with all attachments at bargain prices. W. S. Crawford. Phone 3322. (1-c9461-2)

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

NEW YORK TIMES ANNOUNCING a new service. You can now have the Daily New York Times delivered directly to your door. Also, be assured of your SUNDAY NEW YORK TIMES. Order now for Daily and Sunday. Write to: University Sunday Carrier Service; Box 655, Chapel Hill, N. C. Charge 2x1

North Carolina Authors On The Dollar Table

Debby — North Carolina's own Max Steele won the 1950 Harper Prize with this heart-warming novel. One of the finest books on our dollar table.

Jackson Mahaffey—The story of the taming of a whiskey-drinking, cock-fighting fool from the North Carolina back country, by Fred Ross.

The Horns of Capricorn, by Helen Topping Miller. A romantic novel of North Carolina at the turn of the Century, and mighty good reading for an off hour.

The Way of the South—A living biography of a people, by U.N.C.'s own Charles W. Odum. This belongs on your permanent shelf.

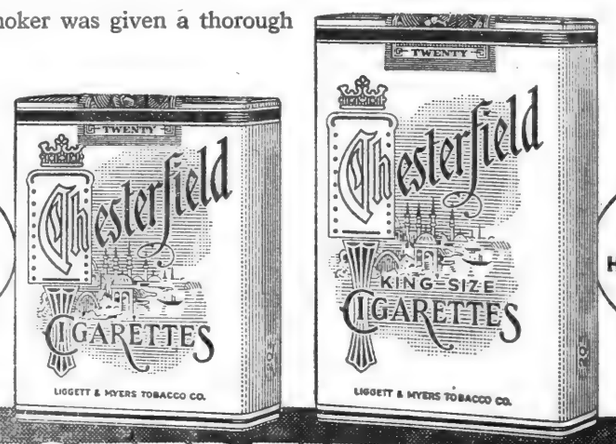
The Exciting World of Books Is Most Enjoyable In

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE



A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR CHESTERFIELD—EITHER WAY YOU LIKE 'EM

★ CONTAINS TOBACCOS OF BETTER QUALITY & HIGHER PRICE THAN ANY OTHER KING-SIZE CIGARETTE

Buy CHESTERFIELD—Much Milder

Copyright 1952, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Cold and windy today with 50 high. Yesterday's high, 65; low, 33.

The Daily Tar Heel

UN
The world organization is having its day here this Friday. See You in the UN, p. 1.

VOLUME XLI NUMBER 24 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Knight Praises Lofty Progress In Education

Cites Neglect As Cause For Modern 'Lost Generation'

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

RALEIGH, Oct. 20—Education in the United States during the last half century "has reached its most lofty quantitative triumphs and its expansion into the largest cooperative social effort in all human history has been almost bewildering."

This opinion was advanced by Dr. Edgar W. Knight, Kenan professor of education in the University of North Carolina at the annual meeting of the Wake County Phi Beta Kappa Association here tonight.

"But the swift quantitative growth of education in this country has been accompanied increasingly by some strange educational paradoxes or contradictions," he declared.

One of these contradictions, he said, is the "lack of proper education of teachers and another is the lack of proper attention by schools and colleges to gifted and talented students.

"How best to prepare teachers and managers of the schools has become a very acute issue on which there seems to be no common agreement among the professional educationalists," Dr. Knight said. "Competent studies have revealed and continue to show that those who enter in preparation for teaching and managing schools are not the ablest and most promising young people . . . So long as inferior students are taught by inferior teachers the promise of improving public education can not be very bright."

Dr. Knight said the "neglect of the able and talented pupils and students is making them the lost and forgotten educational generation. The obvious need for improving the educational opportunity of gifted young people is theoretically recognized but the extent to which the need is being met is not very encouraging. Courses in so-called special education in teacher-education institutions are generally intended to prepare teachers of the physically and mentally deficient.'

WC Chooses Top Leaders On Campus

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

GREENSBORO, Oct. 20—Only one senior in 55 at Woman's College was chosen by classmates as having contributed most to campus life and having demonstrated top leadership qualities.

Chosen for the honor were Trilby Boerner, Winston-Salem, president of student government; Carolyn Hayden, Asheville, Honor Board chairman; Rozelle Royal, Clinton, head of the Faculty Evaluation Committee and former class president; Sally Beaver, Albemarle, editor of The Carolinian; Pat Markas, Morganton, social chairman; Dorothy Kendall Kearns, High Point, member of the Judicial Board; Marion Sifford, Albemarle, vice-president of student government and Lydia Moody, Siler City, Senior Class president.

Interviews

Interviews for the selection of UNC's delegation to the 16th annual North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly are being held in the Men's Council Room on the second floor of Graham Memorial this afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock and tomorrow night from 8 to 11.

Twenty-one delegates will be chosen to represent Carolina at the three day assembly which is scheduled for Nov. 20-22, in the capitol at Raleigh.

ONE WILL VOTE AND ONE may not vote is the situation these two figures are involved in. Gen. George C. Marshall, 71-year-old soldier statesman (right), relaxes with his dog, Bones, at his Leesburg, Va., home. The former Secretary of State still refuses to say who he wants to be the next President, but indicated he will not even vote. At left, Sen. Wayne L. Morse (R-Ore.), is shown in his Washington office as he announced he is bolting the GOP and will vote for Stevenson. Morse said Ike "is not telling the truth" in his political campaigning.—UP Telephotos.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — More than 300, 000 soft coal miners stayed home yesterday in what apparently was the start of an "unofficial" nationwide strike. There was no formal order from John L. Lewis, but most of the United Mine Workers apparently felt that the government had canceled their contract by cutting 40 cents off their recently negotiated $1.90 daily pay raise.

★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The United Nations General Assembly yesterday received a plea from Peru to consider setting up a commission to break the prisoner of war deadlock in the Korean truce talks. The Peruvian proposal included supervision of the screeening and return to their homes of the Red POWs.

★

WASHINGTON — A government panel yesterday called the American Communist Party "a puppet of the Soviet Union" and recommended that it be required to register with the U. S. government and bare its membership roster and its finances. The recommendation came in a report by a two-member panel of the Subversive Activities Control Board, which had listened to more than 14 months of testimony.

★

STAMFORD, Conn.—Dwight D. Eisenhower's good-weather luck turned against him yesterday as he pushed his presidential campaign into New England in the midst of the season's first snowfall. But it didn't chill the enthusiasm of his supporters. At the first whistlestop here, where president Truman spoke on Saturday—several thousand turned out in overcoats and mufflers in spite of the snow. Eisenhower told the Stamford crowd, estimated at about 5,000, that the great issue of the day was peace.

★

SEOUL—Seven thousand fanatic Chinese Reds, backed by Russian-made "Katusha" rocket guns, smashed at Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge in a "win or die" assault yesterday and captured one peak of each. The South Korean defenders of Sniper Ridge bounced back, however, and recaptured the Pinpoint Peak in 10 hours of bitter and bloody fighting. But the Chinese at last reports still held Pike's Peak on American-defended Triangle Hill.

★

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The Alger Hiss case became a major campaign issue yesterday after supporters of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower once was linked with the convicted former State Department employe. Meanwhile, President Truman's criticism of Gen. Eisenhower on immigration policies was whipping up a swelling controversy yesterday over racial and religious issues. The controversy sprang up after a Truman statement Friday that Eisenhower "is willing to accept the very practices that identify the so-called 'master race.'"

NAACP Hits All Around At Confab

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

HIGH POINT, Oct. 20—A resolution reaffirming "unalterable opposition to all forms of racial segregation and discrimination" and rejecting "the separate but equal theory" was adopted at the state convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here over the weekend.

The association pledged the NAACP to see to it that Supreme Court decisions in respect to segregation and discrimination in interstate comrece, transportation, education and recreation are carried out to the fullest extent of the law.

The organization also voted to petition authorities to withhold all Federal funds for the support of the North Carolina National Guard "until the guard's policy of excluding Negroes is discontinued."

In other resolutions passed, the association:

1. Voted to make application for admission of Negroes to the graduate professional schools of the Greater University of North Carolina.

2. Urged citizens to register and vote, although the NAACP does not endorse any candidate or political party.

3. Condemned county, state and U. S. officials for allowing a year to elapse without an indictment in the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Moore at Miami, Fla.

Kelly M. Alexander of Charlotte was re-elected president. Other officers named were the Rev. L. W. Wertz of Hamlet, first vice-president; the Rev. A. D. Owens of Reidsville, second vice-president; N. L. Gregg of Greensboro, treasurer, and P. B. Price of Laurinburg, secretary.

(See NAACP, page 4)

Duke, Too

Students To Invest Ten Grand

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

DURHAM, Oct. 20—Students in investment courses at the University of North Carolina and Duke University have just been given $20,000 for investment trusts.

The unique gifts, $10,000 to each university, will afford students first-hand investment experience, launching a teaching technique of great practical value.

Duke University President Hollis Edens and UNC Chancellor Robert B. House made the joint anouncement here yesterday that Charles H. Babcock of Reynolds and Company, Winston-Salem, has established two "student investment trusts" at the universities.

Under the terms of the grants, Duke and Carolina students in investments and finance courses will have sole control of investing the money. They will analyze securities and plan the investment program in common with millions of other Americans.

Through first-hand experience, they will seek to build a group of investments bringing the highest yields with the maximum possible safety. In addition, the program will be expanded to give students practical experience in corporate management and procedure, in accounting and in investigating the financial structure, earning record, dividend record, management and other facts about American corporations.

Plans also call for cooperative and competitive relations between the two Student groups. They will meet during the school year to exchange experiences and will evaluate their comparative results at the end of each year.

Annual income from the investments will in each case be divided. Half will go to the Community Chest Funds in Durham and Chapel Hill, the other half will be added to the original $10,000 funds. Trust officers for both funds will be the Fidelity Bank of Durham.

Describing his reasons for es-

(See TRUST, page 4)

Deferred Rushing Di Topic Tonight

"Deferred Fraternity Rushing" will be debated by the Dialectic Senate tonight at 8 o'clock.

The bill calls for the postponement of rushing until the sophomore year. Under the proposed bill rushing will be held a week before classes begin and transfers, upperclassmen and sophomores would be eligible. The bill will be presented by Carl Williams.

The Di will meet in the Di Hall on the third floor of New West.

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE Adlai Stevenson (left) is greeted by former Vice President John Nance Garner after his arrival in Uvalde, Tex., home town of the former veep. This is the first time Garner has been active in politics since his retirement in 1940, and he and Speaker Sam Rayburn (center) are concentrating on keeping Texas on the Democratic side.
—UP Telephoto.

University Party Nominates Tonight

University Party nominations for Legislature seats begin tonight at 7 o'clock in Horace Williams Lounge at Graham Memorial.

Nineteen nominations will be made for Town Men's and Town Women's Districts. Party officials ask all interested students to attend.

University Party has 36 voting representatives in the party. Voting representatives must be backed by organizations of 25 or more, but representatives may join the party.

"Our party is in power for the first time in seven years and we believe it's definitely the young man's party. We would like to expand in order to have representatives for every group of 25 or more students on campus," said Chairman Sol Cherry.

Later meetings will include nomination of class officers. Student Council members. Honor Council members, and editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

Seats to be filled in Legislature are two Women's Dormitory seats, two Women's Town seats, five Men's Town District 1 seats, four Men's Town District 2 seats, and three Men's Town District 3 seats.

Cold Wave Due To Stay Another Day

Man it was cold last night!

And tonight will be just about as snappy, according to R. M. Evans of the U. S. Weather Bureau at the Raleigh-Durham Airport. He predicted today's high to be about 50 degrees, dropping to the 30s again tonight in the season's second cold snap.

The current frigidity is identified by Evans as "a normal cold wave from Canada, accompanied by fair skies and gusty winds." He said the weather should begin warming up by Thursday.

The North Carolina area saw some frost in the low places last night. There is cold air over the whole eastern two-thirds of the country. Some snow is falling along the New England and Great Lakes areas.

New York City was hit yesterday by what some observers described as a "snow storm".

Local service stations were flooded late yesterday by students and townspeople filling their auto radiators with anti-freeze in anticipation of the sub-freezing weather.

Mrs. Smith Given Post In Durham

Mrs. H. Shelton Smith, president of the Board of Directors of the Durham YMCA, yesterday announced the appointment of Mrs. Beth Okun of Chapel Hill as director of activities of the Young Adult Department.

Mrs. Okun succeeds Mrs. Kimsey King, the former Miss Jean Fisher who resigned the position upon her marriage in June.

Mrs. Okun received a B.S. degree from the North Texas State Teachers College and a master's degree in social service work from the school of social work at the University of Pittsburgh.

Prior to her present position she was employed by the Orleans Centers in New Orleans, La., and taught skills related to group work in the graduate school of social work at Tulane University.

Holiday Flights Being Booked

The travel agency in Graham Memorial has already made over 30 plane reservations for the Thanksgiving weekend, Gene Cain, office manager, said yesterday.

Planes to Washington, New York, Atlanta and Miami are filling rapidly, Cain said in advising students to make reservations early. The agency makes arrangements for students to travel via any of the usual forms of transportation.

The travel agency's phone number is 9-1882. Office hours are 2 to 4 o'clock, Monday through Friday.

Farber Exits; Neill Assumes Reins Of DTH

Burress, Baylor To Handle Most Of Edit Material

Barry Farber moved one step closer to U. S. khaki yesterday and Managing Editor Rolfe Neill took over complete management of The Daily Tar Heel.

Farber left Chapel Hill for New York City where he will visit friends and the last of the week take part in a panel discussion at the annual Associated Collegiate Press Convention. He is scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces next month.

In assuming the job as interim editor, Neill said the paper would continue to run as it was set up. This meant, he pointed out, that he would continue in the job as managing editor and leave the editorial page to Associate Editors Bev Baylor and Sue Burress. The two coeds will write the editorials and split the editor's salary as stipulated by the Publications Board, Neill said.

Neill said he understood his interim editor job, as outlined by the Publications Board, was to be responsible for The Daily Tar Heel contents but leave the editorial page mechanics as well as writing to the two coeds specified by the board.

Farber resigned this month after being called to the armed services. He was elected last spring for a term of one year.

PhD Seekers In Education Form Club

Herman Preseren, Chapel Hill, has been elected president of a newly-organized group at the University to be known tentatively as the Advanced Graduate Club.

The organization will be composed of students engaged in doctoral study in the University's School of Education. Its aim is to knit together the men and women in the School of Education who are pursuing courses and writing dissertations as candidates for the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Dr. H. Arnold Perry of the be faculty adviser.

School of Education faculty will

Officers in addition to President Preseren are John R. Peck, Chapel Hill, vice-president, and Miss Jean Love, McConnells, secretary-treasurer.

Thirty-seven eligible doctorate students, about one-half of whom are living in Chapel Hill, are members of the club.

Thirty-seven eligible doctorate students, about one-half of whom are living in Chapel Hill, are members of the club.

Phi To Debate FEPC At Meeting Tonight

FEPC will be on trial at 8 o'clock tonight when the Phi Assembly debates a bill favoring the passage of federal legislation guaranteeing equal opportunities for all workers.

Debate is not restricted and visitors are invited to attend and participate. Phi Assembly meets in the Phi Hall on the fourth floor of New East.

Certain Coeds

Senior coeds in Pi Beta Phi Sorority and Alderman, McIver, Carr and Smith Dormitories are asked to have their Yack pictures taken today.

Senior boys also are requested to continue having their pictures made. Boys should wear light jackets, white shirts and ties. Coeds will be draped. The time is 2 to 9 p.m. in the basement of Graham Memorial.

For Your Listening Pleasure

First Television, Now It's Radio For Ingenious Residents Of Cobb

By Tom Parramore

Cobb dormitory, already noted for its trail-blazing TV set, has made a serious bid for recognition in the radio field.

Three freshmen in Room 338 boast the only private student radio station on this and possibly any other college campus. They are Allen Sovitz, Ronnie Sommers and Gene McBrayer.

Allen, angel and technician of the whole business, says that the commotion first began when he and his roommates unwittingly began playing some records into their radio loudspeaker. They were soon informed that neighbors also were tuning in records and several boys came by with requests.

To their surprise, the boys found that they had been blocking out five stations. Some fast tuning followed until a clear spot was found on the dial, through which they could play their records. Then, in Allen's own words, "We brought a tape recorder into the room and several of us did a fake newscast similar to that of Orson Wells mars invasion of several years past.

"We predicted the closing of the University for the rest of the quarter due to the recent polio epidemic. A sociology professor was in the room at the time. Thinking it was a real broadcast he spread it through the dormitory and before long a real panic had spread.

Then we got the idea that if we were so good (pardon our modesty) we would like to broadcast to the residents in the dormitory. After that we got a phono-oscillator and 'souped it up' so that it would cover the dormitory. Our favorite programs are music and calling people to the telephone."

A little later the boys hit on the idea of tape-recording 'Our Best to You' an re-playing the requests of other Cobb residents.

One day five janitors who had been dropping by to hear the broadcasts, were invited to put on a skit. They responded with a program of jazz and spirituals which was an immediate hit.

At present, no broadcasts are originating from 338 due to technical problems. To quote Allen again "We are temporarily off the air due to a burned out 25 cent resistor. As soon as we can get up a collection to replace needed equipment ($2 worth) we will resume broadcasting transmission."

Allen says that no FCC regulations are being broken because the range of their station is localized to the Cobb area only.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Interim Editorial Board ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. Judy Levey | Soc. Ed. Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. Donald Hoge
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. Wallace Pridgen | dv. Mgr. Ned Beeker

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Capitolists Needed

The North Carolina State Student Legislature will meet at the Capitol in Raleigh, November 20-22 (adjourning in time for the Duke-Carolina game.)

To all students interested in the legislative aspect of state government, experience in parliamentary procedure and public speaking, and anybody who has some ideas that need to be heard, this government school of thought is your campaign for improvement headquarters. An organization which represents most of the colleges and universities in the state, SSL invites 21 delegates to represent this campus: three Senators from each school, and the rest in House membership on a population basis.

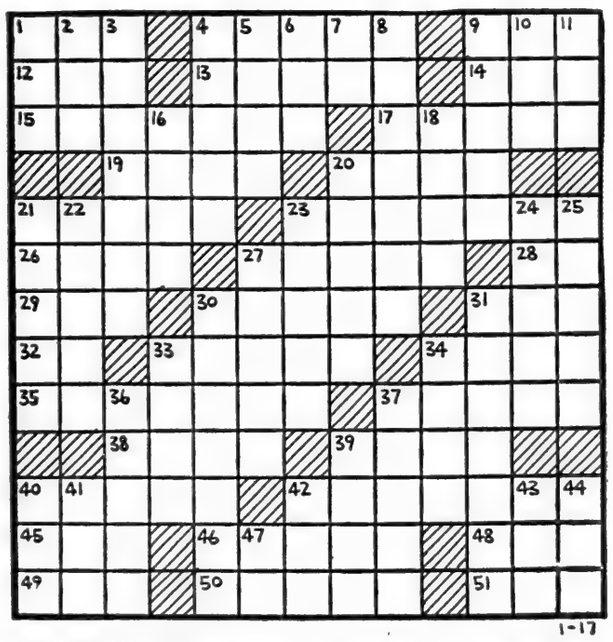
A Speaker of the House and President of the Senate are elected to preside. The executive branch is similar to the British Parliamentary system in that the President of the Interim Council (comparable to the parliamentary cabinet of ministers) is composed of members from either of the two houses, and Interim Council president is elected by joint session of both houses. The work of the Assembly is carried on between sessions by the Interim Council.

Every member school proposes two bills to be considered by both houses of the Assembly. Each delegation decides on its own bills which can be on student, state, national or international affairs.

University delegates will be selected today from 4:30 to six p.m., and tomorrow from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Men's Council Room at Graham Memorial.

Raleigh News and Observer

Going Backward



The statement of Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina, that he thinks the ban on "bowl" football games by members of the Southern Conference may be a "wrong approach" and that participating in post season games might well be left to each individual institution has grave implications.

Certainly, if this plan is carried out there would be few matters that could not be left to each institution and the usefulness, if not the existence, of the conference would be doomed.

President Gray led the movement to impose the ban. He also led the movement for presidents of member institutions to exert their influence in shaping actions of the conference. It so happens that the ban on "bowl" games is the only important recommendation of the presidents that has been adopted without material alteration, always on the side of laxity. Freshmen are still playing on Southern Conference "varsity" teams and even such a mild restriction as limiting squads for a single game to 40 players was interpreted to apply only to games involving two conference members.

If an intercollegiate conference is to abdicate jurisdiction over post season games, what jurisdiction can it logically claim? As a matter of fact the conference exercised jurisdiction and required institutions playing in such games to obtain permission of the conference long before the present complete ban was imposed.

If there is a retreat in this matter, the presidents instead of carrying the conference forward, will actually have carried it backward.

HORIZONTAL
1. extinct bird
4. transportation charges
9. small drink
12. entire amount
13. the white poplar
14. pedal digit
15. mobs
17. blood vessels
19. the Orient
20. gull-like bird
21. city in Vermont
23. waxlike ointments
26. prefix: before
27. absolves
28. note in scale
29. narrow inlet
30. cylindrical
31. deep hole
32. depart
33. programs
34. a kind of cement
35. heighten
37. declined gradually
38. being
39. willow shoot
40. devilfish
42. twining
45. bow
46. the thorax
48. beverage
49. golf mound
50. retains
51. sward

VERTICAL
1. smear
2. palm leaf
3. Canadian province
4. untrue
5. countenance
6. thing, in law
7. street railway (abbr.)
8. cut
9. serve scantily
10. electrified particle
11. foot-like organ
16. nude
18. epochs
20. adolescent years
21. freight boat
22. negative ion
23. immature
24. choicest part
25. glutted
27. coercion
30. pillage
31. learned Brahmans
33. threw
34. come ashore
36. therefore
37. necessities
39. small bundle of hay
40. small rug
41. land-measure
42. tiny
43. new: comb. form
44. son of Jacob
47. personal pronoun

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

A	M	U	S	E		E	R	I		T	A	B
P	O	N	E	S		L	O	T		E	R	R
E	A	S	E	S		A	U	S	T	R	I	A
		E	L	E	C	T	S		U	S	E	S
P	E	A	S		H	E	E	D	L	E	S	S
A	L	T		P	A	S	S	E	S
M	I	S	E	R				N	A	P	E	S
			D	I	L	A	T	E		E	V	E
I	N	T	I	M	A	T	E		S	L	A	W
M	O	R	T		B	O	N	I	T	O
P	R	E	S	T	O	N		D	O	R	I	S
E	S	S		E	R	E		O	P	I	N	E
L	E	S		A	S	S		L	E	A	S	T

1-17

Average time of solution: 26 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Ann Blalock

The You In U.N.

United Nations Day is this Friday. Its purpose is to help the American people appropriately observe the birthday of the United Nations. Behind this day's existence lies the work of the National Citizens' Committee for UN Day, set up by the United States Government in 1948 in response to a General Assembly resolution, and dedicated to the task of increasing knowledge about and understanding of the United Nations by the American Public.

On this campus UN Day will project its purposes through various media—through expressive films, through tradition and ritual, and through bringing together students, faculty, and townspeople, of differing national backgrounds for an evening of fellowship. More specifically, the program will include the showing of films Friday morning and part of the afternoon; a noon ceremonial; an international supper; an informal program at Hill Hall climaxed by a talk on "Nationalism and One World" by Paul Green. The entire program is open to all.

This observance is a symbol of our interest in the United Nations. Yet only a symbol. The rationalization follows easily that since we have satisfied this obligation, very little responsibility for continued interest remains. In this case the limitations of a one-day observance should be considered, for they are great. The observance of this day should be a part, and a part only, of a larger program. This program should be expressive of a continued, more permanent concern with the meaning of the United Nations in this country and abroad. Personal involvement, on the level of a continuing United Nations Committee or its equivalent, is necessary to a really comprehensive appreciation and understanding of the individual student's role in this important movement. The process whereby students come to accept, as a part of their own responsibility, the need to make a contribution to a larger cause than the paying of respect to such a cause for one day every year. The National Citizens' Committee for UN Day, sharing of this conviction, sees this specific observance as a means, the end objective of which is the stimulation of continued interest and participation in a world-wide effort.

Express Yourself

Barbed Accolades

Editor:

Congratulations on amazing improvements! And so early in the quarter, too.

Why, just this morning, twice as much space was given to Pogo. Great guns, at this rate, by the year's end, Pogo will multiply to cover the entire paper, which would neatly eliminate:

1. A columnist who is incapable of constructive criticism, and

2. An editor whose self-reference is as a liberal, but whose words signify reaction and egoism.

Let's see more of this good editorship. Only unsurpassed happiness to the hearts of all Pogo people will result.

Name withheld by request

(We had to double up on Pogo one Friday to catch up with a one day slack incurred upon contracting for the strip. As for the comments of our un-named correspondent, we remind him that a monument was never built to a critic—ED.)

To Mr. Nixon from the Daily Californian, University of California: "Barefoot boy with cheeks of tan, what have you done with 18 grand?"

* * *

The University of Alabama refused two Negro women admittance to the graduate school. The women plan to file suit against the University in Federal court, on grounds that their constitutional rights have been violated.

"Who Cares About Oil?"

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—It is an axiom of military strategy that the best defense is to attack. But in political strategy it it looks as if the best defense against income tax investigation is to charge that the government is full of Communists.

If you repeat that charge often enough and shout it loud enough, you can get away with all sorts of things as far as your personal taxes are concerned—or at least that seems to be the experience of Wisconsin's Senator Joe McCarthy.

This may be because government officials know that they raise the cry of "Martyr" and "Revenge" if they prosecute a critic who has attacked them.

It is a safe statement that the average newspaperman who kept financial records the way McCarthy does, and juggled his finances the way he does, would have landed in the jug sometime ago. However, it is a known though never officially admitted fact that Senators and members of the House of Representatives never have their tax returns too carefully scrutinized. This is the unwritten rule of the Burea of Internal Revenue.

The fact that McCarthy merits investigation and scrutiny, however, is indicated by the amazing fact that during the past six and a half years the Senator from Wisconsin deposited $24,185.44 to his bank accounts.

The average citizen does not deal in large amounts of cash. Cash is the medium of the underworld, where pay-offs and protection money must be concealed.

Even more amazing is the amount of money received by the Senator from Wisconsin from unidentified sources. Deposits turned up in the Senator's accounts with no record by the bank or brokerage firm as to where they came from.

For this and other reasons, McCarthy was able to parlay $70,490 of income during eleven years (1935 through 1945) up to stocks that cost him $180,000.

McCarthy did this long before he began his Communist campaign. But since he took up the Communist issue he has continued to gamble on the stock and commodity market. And though the public generally has the impression of a man dedicated to the cause of ridding the world of Communism, the Senator's bank accounts indicate that he is chiefly out to make something for McCarthy.

Public office seems to agree with McCarthy financially. For after he got into public office he really began to make money. In 1935 he earned only $777.81. And during the entire period from 1935 to 1942 he averaged only $4,163.32 a year in salary. Just one year later, in 1943, he reported income of $40,560.92 from the sale of stocks that he had bought. Just how he was able to acquire such valuable stocks when his income had averaged only $4,163.32 for seven years is difficult to say—especially since McCarthy was in the Marine Corps during part of this time.

McCarthy also had a strange habit of deducting from his income-tax returns disapropriate contributions to charities, one of them to a catholic charity in far-away Burma which actually did not exist. Finally tax officials in Wisconsin reminded him that this didn't look quite kosher, and in 1950 he stopped.

Another case involved the Appleton State Bank in Wisconsin. In 1946 it was dunning McCarthy for funds in order to cover a loan, when suddenly from a completely unidentified source a total of $38,045.72 was deposited to McCarthy's account.

One of McCarthy's financial schemes was a joint banking account with his office assistant Ray Kiermas. Mr. Kiermas has had an average annual income of about $6,500. Yet from sources best known to himself, Kiermas has made large deposits not only to his own account but has also deposited funds to the Senator's account.

It is possible that the Senator has banked through his office assistant in order to cover the source of certain people who have paid him. He has also apparently used his brother, William P. McCarthy.

On August 26, 1948, for instance, a commodity credit account was opened with Dan F. Rice and Company, Chicago grain traders, in the name of William P. McCarthy. Though in his brother's name, the $10,000 used to open the account actually came from Ray Kiermas to the extent of $6,223.72, while the balance was supplied by a draft on the Appleton State Bank which suddenly seems to have lost its records and cannot now identify the source of this money.

Three years later, March 8, 1951, the account with D. F. Rice was closed out, a check for $7,159 going to William P. McCarthy. This check was cashed and the cash was deposited ten days later back with the same D. F. Rice Co.

This time, however, the trading account was in the name of Julia Connelly, the maiden name of William McCarthy's wife.

In 1951, the date when the commodity account was closed out and then re-established under Julia Connelly's name, it so happened that the Senator from Wisconsin was beginning to come under the scrutiny of his fellow Senators for extra-curricular conduct.

This is just one chapter in the operation of a Senator who has set himself up in judgment over his fellowmen.

Express Yourself

Corny Campaign

Eritor:

I am sick and tired of professional politicians' ballyhoo concerning the current national elections. But, I am revolted and disgusted by would-be-directors of student opinion who write articles in The Daily Tar Heel which expressly and unequivocably prove that one political party is society's only remedy for the Fall of Man, whereas the other party instigated that fall. Such an article can be found in Sunday's issue, October 19, by Al House. I do not know Mr. House personally, but after reading his conclusive, profound, and irrefutable discussion of both political parties, I immediately came to believe that here was a Democrat from whom God was receiving daily guidance.

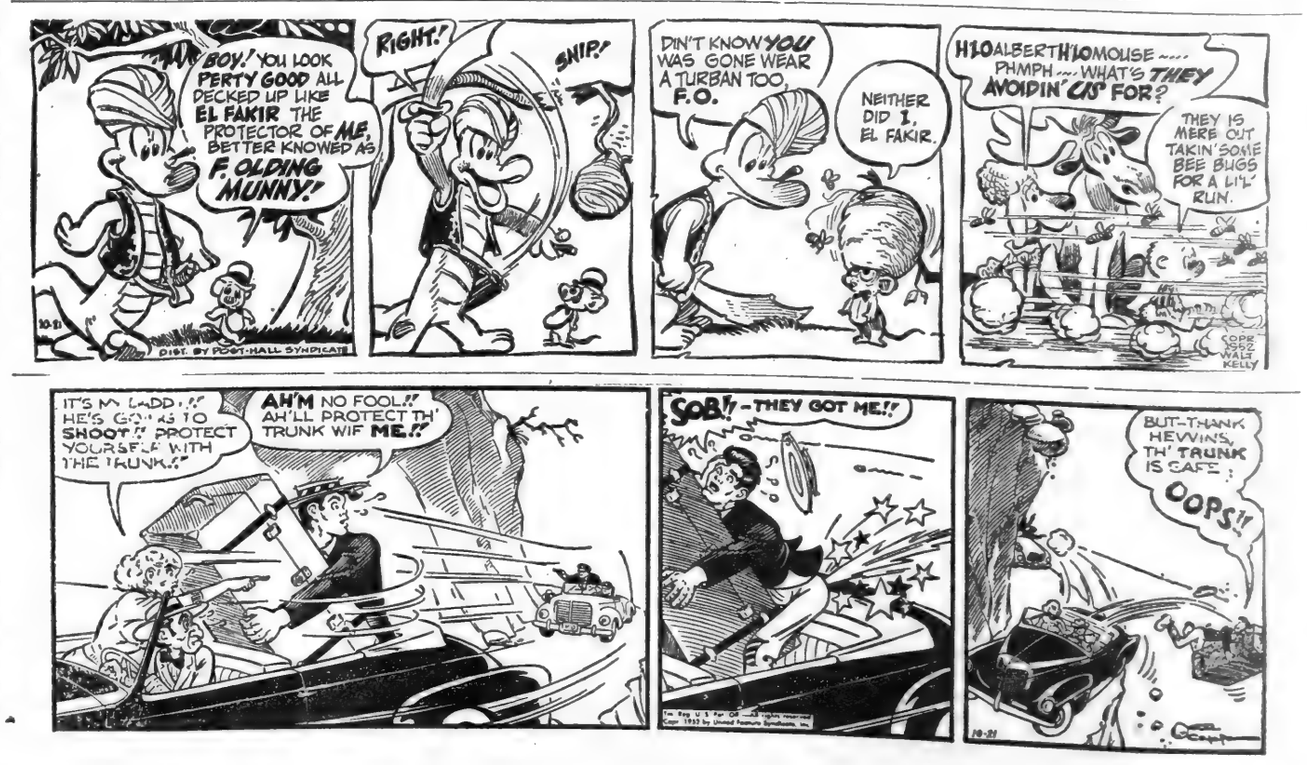
May I quote? "America looks forward with him (Stevenson) with a firm confidence in justice, freedom and peace on earth that will raise the hearts and hopes of mankind for that distant day when no one rattles sabre and no one drags a chain." Stuff!!! Are we thinking, rational humans or are we emotional jackasses who steadily follow the out-stretched carrot of words, cliches, and trite slogans which typify our present election?

This is not the answer of an irate Republican to Mr. House's biased article. I am not a member of any organized political party—I am a Democrat (copyright, Will Rogers). But party names and stereotyped sentiment are nothing compared to the principles and philosophies which lie behind the issues of of this election. It is these concepts and ideas of government which should be judged before placing one party or one candidate above another.

One of these issues is security. Man has searched for security from economic want and protection against personal disaster since his earliest recorded culture. Everyone wants to feel sheltered from the slings and arrows of an outraged economic system gone beserk. The most secure man in our society today is the convict serving a life term. His economic worry for the present and future is negligible. Yet, who among us would trade our freedom and liberty in exchange for the security which this man has unintentionally found? (pause for vehement refusal of penal security.)

Paradixically, however, it is my considered opinion that the Democratic party has offered security to the voting masses for the past twenty years—and that offer has been accepted, despite the obvious loss of personal freedom and liberty which is so manifest by Federal control and regulation today. To illustrate, Mr. House obligingly listed several Democratic measures which Taft (therefore, all Republicans) opposed. These are: Soil Conservation Service; Social Security; G. I. Bill for Korean Veterans; 90 per cent parity prices for farmers; federal aid to education; public housing projects; and public power development. Do these bills indicate the Democrats appeal for votes by the evident promise of security and the concealed promise of limited personal freedom of action? I think so.

This type of security is never to be found—not until the elements of chance, fate, and personal differences in ability are reduced to zero. Yet for twenty years, the majority of people in this country have gone to the polls and elected the party candidate which would give them the most false security. The effect of this voting is plainly evidenced by the federal strangle-hold on our economy and our decrease in personal initiative and ambition. "And, as you all know, security is mortals' chief enemy."



This article is not designed to negate Mr. House's statements or political views. (A man cannot be too careful in his choice of enemies.) I only wished to give an interpretation of his article in terms of ideas and concepts which are being overlooked in this orgy of political drivel.

A. B. Warren

Princeton University administrators discovered last week that two members of the 1952 graduating class forged their senior theses in "one of the most flagrant examples of plagiarism" ever attempted at Princeton.

Both men, members of the English and Modern Languages department were found to have submitted almost exact copies of master's theses stolen from the Columbia University library last winter. When faced with the evidence, both admitted the work as not their own, but denied outside help or having paid for the theses.

No disciplinary measure have been announced. Two years ago there were numerous reports of New York agents receiving up to $700 for the forging of theses for Princeton seniors.

Tar Heels Prepare For Notre Dame

On Other Fronts

A Heart Breaker

Dick Herbert, writing in the Raleigh News and Observer, comments on Carolina's operation of the split-T last Saturday.

For Carolina and Snavely it was a heartbreaker. When a team is on a losing streak it's a lot more difficult to accept the close ones that go against you. But the Tar Heels have no time for post-mortems. There's too much work ahead.

They have to polish the tricky and risky ball handling in the split-T, which is a fine system when fumbles are avoided. The Tar Heels, however, hadn't had enough experience to handle the ball with care against the hard rushing of a strong deefnsive team. And in the final minutes when they had victory in sight a careless play ultimately brought disaster. No one felt worse about it than Charlie Motta, whose bad pitchout enabled the Deacons to get possession on the Carolina with three minutes left to play. It was Motta's first varsity game at a difficult position. Mistakes can be expected under the circumstances.

Some Other Games

Smith Barrier, writing in the Greensboro Daily News, gives comments of all Big Four coaches on Saturday's games.

Tom Rogers of Wake Forest: "I knew he'd kick it, but even if he hadn't, I'd have stuck by my guns. I called it." He meant that first down field goal with 1:22 minutes to play.

Carl Snavely of Carolina: "It was a good maneuver. We were not certain even when they lined up for a kick. We figured they might pass." He talked about the same play.

Bill Murray of Duke: "Everything just went right. They're not that bad a ball club. We hit in the right spots and we can't do it that way in our own scrimmages." Duke scored the first six times with the ball.

Horse Hendrickson of State: "On defense I'll have to go along with Duke. Up until yesterday (Saturday) I thought Virginia's offense had a good chance, but now I don't believe they can do it. I figured Virginia's speed was superior, but not after Saturday." He was comparing Duke and Virginia, which State scrimmaged before the season.

Horner Horns In Again

Jack Horner in the Durham Morning Herald, takes Carolina to task for trying to get fancy.

The 12th and last fumble broke Carolina's back. The Tar Heels had the ball on their own 20 with less than four minutes to play and sported a narrow 7-6 advantage which loomed larger and larger on the scoreboard as the seconds ticked away.

They could run three plays to consume all the time possible and let big Bud Wallace stick his big toe into the pigskin and kick it deep into Wake Forest territory.

Then they could dare the Deacons to score in what little time remained on the clock.

But rather than play things safe and win by 7-6, the Tar Heels got fancy, tried some funny stuff, lost the ball and came away the victims by a 9-7 score due to George's three-point field goal with 1:16 left in the bruising battle.

It was a bitter defeat because victory-starved Carolina came so close to breaking its losing streak.

It also would have been a tough one for Wake Forest to lose after the dogged Deacons had come so close to scoring several touchdowns.

George's First Field Goal

Wilton Garrison, in The Charlotte Observer, has more comment on that now famous field goal.

Charles (Sonny) George, Wake Forest quarterback, is an old hand at extra-point kicking. But he had never kicked a field goal in a game. So when the Deacons got the ball on North Carolina's nine-yard line Saturday they decided the Tar Heel defense might be pretty rough to negotiate, although there were 76 seconds remaining, and decided on a boot. George kicked it high in the air and the officials finally signaled it was good, giving the Deacs a 9-7 win over Carolina. A quick shuffle through the records showed it was Wake's first field goal in eight years. George may never be as good at that art as another Deacon, Blainey Rackley, was in the 20's, but his was a big one Saturday.

Fumbles and mistakes of all kinds and grades marred the game and most fans came away with mixed feelings as to the real capabilities of both clubs. Carolina's defense was definitely sharpened up for the Deacs, particularly on the ends and against the forward pass. Wake passers George and Joe Koch, who alternated at quarterback, were tossed for minus 60 yards attempting to get passes away. George was thrown for 40 yards in losses on five attempts in the first half alone. However, the fact remains that the Deacs did complete 9 of 18 for 140 yards, and but for a couple of thumb-fingered receivers, would have connected on at least two more.

Snavely Is Quite Proud Of Carolina

By Tom Peacock

The North Carolina football team started on the girm task of perfecting its fumble ridden offense yesterday in preparation for its first game on the road against Notre Dame in South Bend.

The Tar Heels put a great defensive struggle last Saturday before Wake Forest beat them with a last minute field goal, but Carolina's offense made only six first downs while losing six fumbles.

Carolina Coach Carl Snavely said that he was proud of the game his team played against the Deacons. The large number of fumbles might easily be attributed to the fact that Carolina had missed two games and ten days of practice, and the layoff from contact loosened the boys up too much.

Snavely is still having trouble with the quarterback spot in his newly formed Split-T formation. Starter Marshall Newman lived up to all expectations as a passer, but the ground game never quite got moving behind the freshman. Charlie Motta started the backs moving, but costly fumbles set up Wake Forest's touchdown and field goal.

Carolina coaches can't be anything but happy at the exhibition the defensive unit made. Except for an occasional pass, the Deacons could barely move, gaining 51 yards on the ground. The Deacs were forced to punt every time they got the ball in the first half, and were held to eight yards rushing.

Fullback Bud Wallace made a strong bid for top honors in the nation as a punter. Wallace was ranked fifth going into the game with a 43.8 average, and the Tar Heel booter averaged 46.5 yards in the Wake Forest game. Spectators saw remarkable punting during the game, as Wake Forest's punts averaged better than 40 yards a try, and the Deac booters aimed for the sidelines on some of their kicks. Deac fullback Joe Koch averaged 50 yards a try on his first four kicks, and then fell to 49 yards on his fifth attempt.

North Carolina's contests with Notre Dame have always been marked by great players and great plays. The Tar Heels haven't won a game from the Irish in three tries but Tar Heel rooters feel that Carolina has always played the best game, even in the 42-6 Yankee Stadium rout.

Jamerson Invites Frosh Swimmers

All freshmen interested in trying out for the swimming team are asked to meet with freshman coach Dick Jamerson tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 in room 304 of Woollen Gym.

A freshman team will be carried this year, Coach Jamerson pointed out. He urged that all interested, experienced or not, come to the meeting.

Bargain

The Carolina Jayvees will play the Wake Forest Jayvees Friday night at 8 p.m. in Burlington.

Tickets are on sale for one dollar at the Gym. Tickets at the gate will be two dollars.

Rabb Makes Final Invite For This Fall

Coach Walter Rabb issued an invitation yesterday to all freshmen and any other interested persons to come out for the fall baseball practice.

Coach Rabb has stated that he would especially like to see the untried boys this fall as the coaches will have a much better opportunity to observe the players now than would be the case if they waited until the regular practice starts next spring. Then, of course, the pressure will be on the coaches to get a starting lineup for the opening game.

The 1953 edition of the baseball team has held informal practice sessions for the past three weeks. These sessions will continue through Thursday afternoon, when the fall practices will come to an end.

So far the workouts have been proceeding nicely and Coach Rabb is looking forward to the warm spring weather when he can really get down to business.

Since this is the last week of fall practice, this will be the last chance for new boys to perform The team meets at Emerson for the coaches.

Girls Play Tennis In W.A.A. Tourney

The W.A.A. tennis tournament starts today. First rounds must be played by Sunday, October 26. Please post your score at the Women's Gym.

All Golfers Meet

There will be a meeting of the varsity and freshman golf squad today at 5:00 in coach Chuck Erickson's office. All members are urged to come to this important meeting.

Four Intramural Football Squads Get Easy Victories

The Law School, Lewis, DKE and SAE walked away with victories in the four o'clock intramural tag football games yesterday afternoon.

Football weather—cold weather—set in for the first time as the eight teams battled for leads in the intramural program. Some players came out in shorts but for the first time were forced back in for warm up pants and shirts. As one of the referees put it, "The weather is nice for football but it sure is hard on us officials."

The closest game played at four o'clock was between Lewis and Graham 2, on field number three. Lewis came out on the big end of a 6-0 score in one of the closest games played thus far in the intramural program. Spencer scored the only touchdown of the day on a pass from Royal.

The Law School team broke loose in the second half to beat Graham 1, 14-0. Scoring the T.D.'s were White and Erb, who was described by a referee as "a one arm wonder." Byrd and Davis passed on the scoring plays. Extra points were made by Evans and Davis.

On field number four a replica of the Duke-State game Saturday took place as the DKE 2 defeated Phi Delt 1, 32-0. Phi Delt was forced to play under a handicap as they had only seven men to show up for the game. Maddrey, Webb, Holt, and Pillsbury tallied for the winners. Maddrey scored twice. Extra points were made by Lee and Skull.

The only other game played at four o'clock saw SAE 1 defeat DKE 1, 20-0 on field five. Wilcox, Crawford and Sherrill each scored touchdowns for the winners. Hutchins placed kicked two out of the three extra points.

MURALS

Tag Football

4:00—Field 2, Stacy vs Mangum; Field 3, Lamb Chi vs Sig Nu 1; Field 4, Sig Chi 1 vs TEP; Field 5, Phi Cap Sig vs ATO.

5:00—Field 2, Med. School 1 vs Emerson; Field 3, Everett 2 vs Med School 2; Field 4, Phi Delt Chi vs Zetes 2; Field 5, Chi Psi 1 vs Theta Chi.

In 1889 Carolina and Wake Forest College played two football games, the Tar Heels winning the spring and losing in the fall.

Spotters

Any students going to the Notre Dame game this Saturday that are interested in spotting are asked to please contact Jake Wade in his office in Woollen Gym.

Wade reports that three spotters are needed by the press and radio for the game. Spotters' seats are among the best in the stadium.

Larry Parker, Carolina right halfback, averaged 18.7 yards a punt return last season for the Tar Heels. He hauled in seven for 131 yards.

Rent—Buy—Brouse at the
BULL'S HEAD BOOKSHOP
ALDOUS-HUXLEY: THE DEVILS OF LOUDUN

Now O-P-E-N . . . To Serve YOU Your favorite American-Chinese food
HONG KONG
"Where food is Different"
Durham-Chapel Hill Rd. Chapel Hill

ANY BOOK FOR for 4 days reading 10c
All the Good New Literature
FICTION—NON FICTION—PLAYS
Just Ask Mrs. Valentine for Anything You Can't Possibly Find.
Bull's Head Book Shop
Basement U.N.C. Library Watch Our Ad Every Tues.

See Our COMPLETE Line of ARROW Men's FURNISHINGS
THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Arrow Underwear can't be beat for comfort
Arrow Shorts 1.45 up
Arrow Undershirts 1.00 up
ARROW
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTS SHIRTS

Soccer Team Plays Tomorrow

Coach Al Moore's soccer team is all set for its second game of the year, according to reports coming out of the Tar Heel practice camp.

The booters lost their opener last week, 1-0, to a hard-playing N. C. State College team. Coach Moore and his squad intend to reverse the decision when they meet Virginia here tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

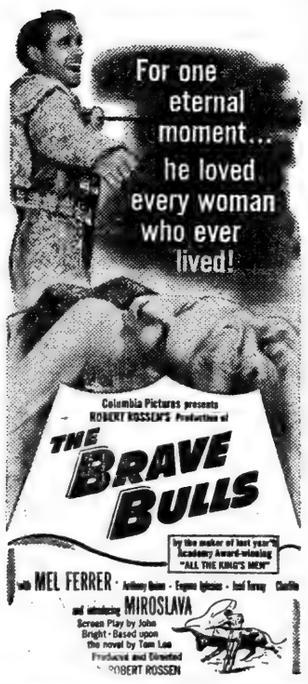
Despite the loss to State, Carolina's club played well in all phases of the game. Inside Left Renny Randolph played an exceptional game, as did Left Fullback Barry Kalb and Center Half Tommy Hopkins.

The Tar Heels will be trying to improve on last year's record of 4-4-1. Carolina started fast last season, winning its first four games, but not winning another the rest of the year.

The soccer team is not quite in top form now because of the cancellation of games during the athletic ban at Carolina.

Style Notes Worth Taking!
CORN YELLOW OXFORD SHIRTS for your flannels
Add a dramatic touch of color to your grey, blue or brown flannels and worsteds. . . . with muted corn yellow oxford. Neat button down collar as shown.
$4.50
BILLS MAILED HOME
THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Complete ARROW Line
Varley's MEN'S SHOP



Mrs. Nash Leads Dorm Discussions

"From Courtship to Marriage" will be discussed by Mrs. Arnold Nash tonight at the first of the Cobb Dormitory discussion series.

The session will be held at 7:30 in the west side social room in Cobb. It is the kick-off discussion in the series of bi-weekly sessions. Five or six other dorms will also participate in the discussion program.

A meeting of all dorm discussions representatives has been scheduled for tomorrow at 4 p.m. at the YMCA.

Coed Dance

The Independent Coed Board is sponsoring an informal dance Saturday night from 8 to 12 p.m. in the Pine Room in Lenoir Hall. McIver Dorm, is in charge of the decorations and Alderman will sponsor a date bureau. Everyone on campus who is interested is invited.

★

Women's Residence Council

The Women's Residence Council will meet at 4 p.m. today in the Grail Room in Graham Memorial. Presidents are asked to bring results of dorm elections. Elections and revisions of rules are main topics on the agenda.

★

Ice Show

Coeds are allowed late permission tonight to attend the Sonje Henie show in Raleigh, it was announced by the office of the Dean of Women and the Women's Residence Council yesterday.

★

Women's Glee Club

There will be a meeting of the Women's Glee Club at 5 p.m. today in Hill Hall.

★

French Supper Club

The French Supper Club will meet at 6 p.m. in the upper dining room of Lenoir Hall. Those wishing to speak French are invited to carry their trays to the second floor. Annual Pi Delta Phi dues will be taken tonight.

★

Student Party Legislators

There will be a caucus of Student Party Legislators at 4:15 p.m. tomorrow in Graham Memorial.

★

Reception Committee

The Reception Committee meets this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the SUAB office.

★

Presbyterian Luncheon

This afternoon at 1 o'clock there will be a Presbyterian Church meeting for faculty and students. It will be a luncheon meet with Ralph Rose, national director of "Job Opportunities Program" of the American Friends Service Committee. For reservations, cal lthe YMCA by 10 a.m.

★

Friendship Council

The Freshman Friendship Council Planning Committee meets today from 5:30 to 7:15 p.m. in the second floor dining room of Lenoir Hall.

★

Modern Dance Club

The Modern Dance Club will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Women's Gym.

★

Student-Faculty Committee

The Student Faculty Committee of the SUAB will meet at 5 p.m. today in the SUAB office.

★

Film Committee

There will be a meeting of the SUAB film committee at 4:30 this afternoon in the SUAB office.

★

Physics Club

The Physics Club meets tonight at 7:15 in Room 212 Phillips. All physics majors are asked to be present.

★

Rules Committee

The Rules Committee of the Student Legislature meets at 3 p.m. Thursday on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

★

Special Services Committee

All social chairmen of dormitories are invited to meet with the SUAB Special Services Committee at 4 p.m. Thursday in Roland Parker Lounge 2 of Graham Memorial. All others interested in coordination of campus activities are asked to attend.

★

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega meets today in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial at 7 p.m. President Joe Arnold asks all members to be present to discuss forthcoming fall events. Pledge committee members will discuss plans for rushing.

★

Dental Dames

The Dental Dames will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Exhibition Room of the Library. Dr. J. C. Lyons, professor of romance languages, will speak.

★

Golf Club

Women interested in golf are invited to attend a meeting of the Golf Club at Woollen Gym this afternoon at 4.

★

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Beta Phi Alumni Club Supper meeting will be held tonight at 7 at the home of Mrs. Kemp Jones, 104 North Boundary. All alumni are invited.

Mason Will Play At Hill Hall Tonight

Dr. Wilton Mason of the Music Department will give a piano recital tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall Auditorium. Admission is free.

The program will consist of Haydn's Sonata in G Major, Bach's English Suite in G Minor, the Sonatina, op. 13 no. 1 by Kabalevsky and Chopin's Sonata, op. 58.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

NEW YORK TIMES ANNOUNCING a new service. You can now have the Daily New York Times delivered directly to your door. Also, be assured of your SUNDAY NEW YORK TIMES. Order now for Daily and Sunday. Write to: University Sunday Carrier Service; Box 655, Chapel Hill, N. C. Charge 2x1

CHARLOTTE OBSERVER — HAVE the "Foremost newspaper of the two Carolinas" delivered directly to your door each morning before seven. For daily and Sunday home delivery, write to: James F. Dinsmore, 135 Mason Farm Road, Chapel Hill, N. C. (Charge 2x1)

RIDE TO NEW YORK OR VICINITY. Will share all expenses. Phone 5301. N.C.—Staff

SUBSCRIBE TO THE DAILY TAR Heel. Get your football news $4.00 a year, $1.50 a quarter. See Carolyn Reichard—210 Graham Memorial. N.C. DTH

FOR RENT

NICE ROOM IN QUIET HOME. Private Entrance. Two blocks from campus. Occupant leaving Oct. 20th for the Army. 127 North St. Phone 7661. (1-c9460-2)

LOST

ONE SET OF CAR KEYS IN BROWN leather case. Notify Jimmy Seay, SPE House or phone 2-6071. Charge

17th Century Maps

Handcolored maps by Speed, Blaeu, Jansson and Morden, 1633 to 1695. Countries: Africa, China, Mexico, English counties, New England, Virginia, the Carolinas, etc.
Gifts for all occasions and home accessories. Swedish, Danish, German and Italian stainless steel tableware.

PACE

Modern Home Furnishings—Glen Lennox Shopping Center

Stevenson Fund At $480, Half Way

Almost $500 has been turned in for the Stevenson fund here, Treasurer Julian Mason said yesterday.

Only a few people have turned in money, Mason said and asked that all money and books be turned in by next Sunday, if possible. The original goal was set for $500 but now has been raised to $1,000. Four hundred and eighty dollars has been raised.

—NAACP—

(Continued from page 1)

Workshops on the NAACP legal and political programs were conducted yesterday at the same meeting.

Alfred Baker Lewis of Greenwich, Conn., a member of the NAACP, spoke at a mass meeting Sunday.

—Trust—

(Continued from page 1)

tablishing the trusts, Babcock said, "Practically everyone today is a 'capatilist', directly or indirectly, even though some may participate only through taxes, social security, pension funds, life insurance and other savings media.

"I believe it is important that a broader knowledge of the various media of investment should be spread to everyone so that one can be more alert as to how his savings and taxes are handled," he added.

Specifically, he emphasized, "It is hoped that the investment trusts to be set up will serve as a useful teaching medium in the economics and finance courses at the two universities. They should bring realism and responsibility into the classrooms, thereby being of practical benefit both to the student and the professor."

The students will choose their own boards of directors and appoint their own committees. In order that as many students as possible may take part, some will investigate securities, other will study accounting procedures. Others will take part in the general program of determining investment policy, selecting student auditors, as well as purchase and sell securities.

Dr. Frederick C. Joerg, associate professor of economics at Duke, and Dr. John T. O'Neil, associate professor of finance in the School of Business Administration at Carolina, are the two faculty members directly concerned with the teaching aspects of the program.

Drs. Eden and House yesterday paid tribute to the "worthwhile and significent philanthropy of Babcock." Noting that "the students themselves will administer the funds," the two key officials stated, "this is the key to success of this program as an educational venture. We believe that in this field as in many others, our students can learn much by doing. Our universities are grateful for the generosity and wisdom of Babcock."

RUSSIA indignantly objected at the United Nations to a French proposal that would award special citations to UN soldiers in Korea. But, despite the protest of the Soviet's Andrei Y. Gromyko (left) the two-day-old General Assembly, inspired by French delegate Henri Hoppenot (right), approved the plan with a 12-2 vote, (Russia and Czechoslovakia) with Egypt Abstaining. —UP Telephoto.

Perky Putski Named To Elections Board

Perky Putski has been appointed to the Elections Board to fill the vacancy left by Syd Shuford's resignation, Chairman Jerry Cook said yesterday.

Miss Putski, junior from Washington, attended DePauw College before entering Carolina. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

"I am very interested in student government here and am glad that I can help," Miss Putski said.

If You Haven't Picked Up A Copy of Bill Hubbel's Map Of The Campus Stop In For Yours Today

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.

Open Evenings

Bumper Tape Still On Sale

Reflective bumper strips are still be on sale at local service stations.

Places selling Scotchlite tape are Glen Lennox Service Station, Pendergraft's Texaco Service Station, Poe Motor Company, Strowd Motor Company and Tyler's Esso Station.

Proceeds from the campaign will go into the club's youth and recreation fund, currently being used in renovating a cabin in Eastwood Lake for community use.

History Majors Asked To Meet Wednesday

Dr. Wallace E. Caldwell, chairman of the history department, has scheduled a meeting of all history majors for tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Room 312 Saunders Hall.

SHOE SALE

LIMITED TIME ONLY

Howard & Foster wing tip cordovans reduced from 20.95 to 13.99

Howard & Foster cap toe cordovan reduced from 19.95 to 11.99

Cordovan and black rubber soled cordovan shoes reduced from 18.95 to 13.99

White buck shoes reduced from 9.95 to 7.99

Oldmaine Handsewn Trotter loafers reduced from 10.95 to 7.99

Trampeze loafers reduced from 8.95 to 5.99

Howard & Foster 3 eyelet v-throat plain toe cordovan shoes, either leather or rubber sole—never before on sale—reduced from 18.95 to 14.99

Just received large shipment wing-tips and plain toe cordovans by Custom Originals, only 14.95

Martin's imported Albian grain shoes, in either plain toe or wing tip, fully leather lined 14.95

OTHER DISCONTINUED STYLES REDUCED

MILTON'S
Clothing Cupboard
163 E. FRANKLIN ST.

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-22-49

WEATHER
Fair and warmer with 58 high today. Yesterday's high, 48; low, 27.

The Daily Tar Heel

SSL
Your chance to be a parliamentarian. See edit on page 2.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 25 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

Schedule Released For UN Day Friday

International Festivities Include Movies, Two Presentations By German Students

A complete schedule was announced yesterday for the annual United Nations Day celebration here this Friday.

A panel forum-discussion, "The United Nations—Seven Years of Achievement" will be held tomorrow in the Library Auditorium (ground floor). The moderator will be Dwight Rhyne of the Extension Service. Participants will be David G. Monroe of the Political Science Department, J. E. Ingram of the Economics Department, John P. Gillin of sociology and anthropology and C. H. Pegg of the Department of History.

On Friday, three movies will be shown at Gerrard Hall. They are "We The People," "Seeds of Destiny" and "This is the United Nations." All three movies will be shown at 9 and 10 a.m. and 12:15, 1 and 4:30 p.m.

There will be a noon ceremony from 11:45 to 12:05 Friday on the steps of South Building. The ceremony will include the presentation by a group of German students from the University of Goetingen of a book from the Rector of their university to the Chancellor of UNC. Martha Shaefer will present a picture from the Mayor of Goetingen to the Mayor of Chapel Hill. Members of this group are Otto Vehrenkamp, Martha Shaefer, Dr. Fritz Hartmann, Eberhard Kindiger and Helmuth Deicher.

A group of students representing member nations of the UN will then present the UN Flag to be flown the rest of the day. This will be followed by the reading of a statement written by Oscar Hammerstein II, "More Than a Dream."

An international supper will be served in Lenoir Hall at 5:45. People are requested to go through the cafeteria line between 5:45 and 6:45 and take their trays into the north dining room. An international menu has been prepared which will include Danish meatballs, humita (Argentina), broccoli and cheese sauce (U.S.), French bread, pineapple (Hawaiian) salad, coffee (Brazil), and blueberry crisp pudding representing Canada. Total cost is 85 cents.

A program of international music and dancing will be included after the supper. Community singing of international folk songs will also be a part of the program. Several groups of students from different countries will present special entertainment. International students, faculty, and

(See UN DAY, page 4)

State Leader To Address Demo Group

Mayne Albright, prominent State Democratic leader, will address a campus "Stevenson for President" rally here next Monday.

Sponsored by the local Young Democrats Club, the rally will be held in Gerrard Hall at 7:30 p.m. Albright's talk is expected to deal generally with the "Advantages Offered by the Democratic Party to the Young Citizen."

Often mentioned as a candidate for governor in 1956, Albright is now practicing law in Raleigh. He was a principal in the 1948 election, but was defeated in the Democratic primary. A graduate of the University, Albright is also well known for his activities in the World Federalists movement.

Manday's rally will mark the beginning of intensified activities here by the campus YDC as the election campaigning moves into the homestretch. Headed by second year law student John Sanders, of Four Oaks, the club recently was singled out for recognition of its activities by the National Democratic organization.

Dorms May Be Liable For Lodgers

The Interdormitory Council Monday night passed a resolution to establish a committee to investigate the feasibility of holding dormitories responsible as a group for the actions of their residents.

If the recommendations of the committee are approved, dormitories may be subject to fines or suspension of social room privileges for infraction of IDC rules. Under present rules, individuals are held responsible for their actions.

Elected members of the IDC Court for this school year were Harry Faggart, Bud Moon, Wiley Kennedy, Gene Cain, Harry Pearsall and Mack Hoover. Jerry Cook and John Guilbert were elected alternates to the IDC Court.

The court has primary jurisdiction in cases envolving violation of regulations governing University residence halls.

Baxter Miller, Gerald Parker and Al Braxton were elected to meet with the Dance Committee for the purpose of selecting a person to represent the IDC on that committee.

Members were advised by IDC President Paul Somerville that the success of the court remained in their hands. Dorm presidents and IDC representatives as well as dorm residents are on the lookout for violations of IDC and dormitory rules.

The court can send a violation's case to the Men's Council if it thinks the violator warrants suspension from school.

Last Day

Interviews to select UNC's delegation to the annual North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly are being held toinght from 8 to 11 o'clock in the Men's Council Room of Graham Memorial.

Twenty-one delegates will be chosen to represent Carolina at the three day assemly scheduled Nov. 20-22, in Raleigh. Today is the last day for interviews.

JOHN KARSTVER, 65-year-old Pittsburgh man did not like taxes, so he burrowed himself a home under the sidewalk and there he's lived for the past 20 years, avoiding work and taxes. Shown at left is Karstver's underground home, and on the right he is shown at his latest address—the Pittsburgh jail.—UP Telephoto.

Students May Cheer Team By Telegram

Stay-at-home-students are being offered the chance to cheer the team at Notre Dame this weekend.

The University Club in cooperation with the Chapel Hill Western Union is sponsoring a drive to have group telegrams with member's signatures on them. Here's how the plan will work, as explained by John Seely, UC president:

The club will solicit dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses through Friday. The groups may word their own telegrams and a fee of five cents per signature will be charged.

Western Union will operate a direct circuit to Notre Dame and the telegrams will be transmitted and delivered to the team tied in blue and white ribbon.

Any group not contacted is asked to phone The Daily Tar Heel office at 9-3361 or 9-3371.

SP Chooses Nominees For Junior Class

The Student Party's nominations for Junior Class officers were announced yesterday by Chairman Ken Barton. Nominations were also announced for two legislature seats from Men's Dormitory District One.

Junior Class nominees are Wade Matthews, president, Ellen Wood, vice president, Bill Bullock, secretary, Martha Bridges, treasurer, and Jim Cocherham, social chairman.

Don Geiger and Bill Brown were nominated from the dormitory district. Representatives elected to temporarily fill vacancies pending the Fall elections were Allen Bader, Harold White, Baxter Miller, Skip Nelson, and Jim Haney.

Entry Deadline Nears For Yearbook Queens

Twelve girls will be selcted for the 1953 Yack Beauty section Nov. 20 in Memorial Hall.

Deadline for entries is Nov. 5. Each organization may sponsor as many entries as it wishes. Applications must be accompanied by a $5 fee.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders said yesterday nothing short of a "personal apology" to General Eisenhower will make amends for President Truman's "unfortunate attempt to introduce bigotry" into the election campaign. They rejected as inadequate the statement which Truman issued late Monday, denying that he called Eisenhower anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish. Truman described as "moral blindness" Ike's indirect support of the McCarran immigration bill.

★

WHISTLE - STOPPING WITH TRUMAN — President Truman yesterday described Republican claims that his administration has been soft toward Communism as an "outrageous falsenood." He said the Republican high command has uesd "every propaganda technique and huge sums of money" to try to put over this "big lie" on the American public. He said the government has been taking "concrete measures to fight communism at home and abroad" while General Eisenhower and his party have been trying "to sow false seeds of suspicion."

★

SEOUL — Two Chinese battalions charged Sniper Ridge through mud and driving rain last night, but the Reds failed to break through murderous streams of South Korean machine-gun and rifle fire. Rain concealed the some 1,500 Reds as they sneaked up the base of the central front mountain. However, they had indicated an attack was in the making by unleashing a heavy artillery barrage. The Reds did not succeed in getting to within hand grenade range of Republic of Korea 2nd Division defenders.

★

TAIPEH, Formosa — Chinese Nationalist leader Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek yesterday urged the United States to let his US-equipped troops invade Red China. Chiang told a press conference he agrees with the Koumintang party that such an invasion by his forces is the only means of halting Communist aggression in Asia.

★

WASHINGTON — Soft coal mine operators urged their striking miners to come back to the pits yesterday and end a mass protest walkout that mushroomed when the government chopped 40 cents off the workers' latest pay raise. John L. Lewis called the 200-man policy committee of his United Mine Workers union to a meeting today in Washington to discuss the "rank and file" strikes.

★

LONDON — A former Soviet Russian army colonel asserted yesterday that Premier Josef Stalin has abandoned a plan to go into semi-retirement because hi leadership and prestige are needed to carry out new Communist party plans.

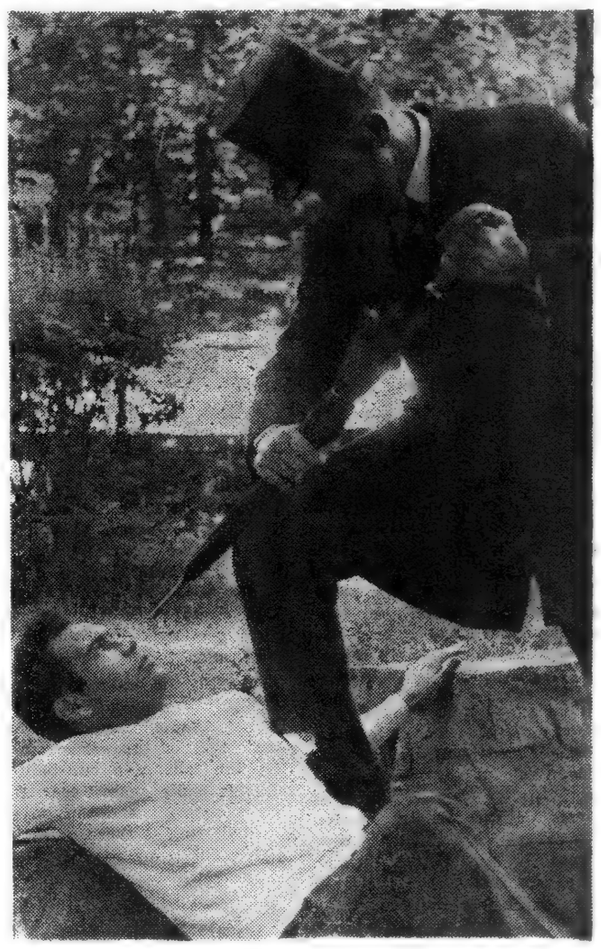
Playmakers To Open Tonight With 'Death Of A Salesman'

The Pulitzer prize-winning drama and Broadway hit, "Death of a Salesman" opens at the Playmakers Theater tonight at 8:30.

Arthur Miller's play is the story of an old, broken salesman's realization of his insignificance.

The play also opens the 1952-53 Carolina Playmaker's season. It will have a five night run ending Sunday. Thomas Patterson of the Playmaker staff is directing the production.

William Trotman, Winston-Salem, is cast in the role of Willy Loman, the salesman, and Mary Long, Chapel Hill, plays his wife. The parts of their sons will be taken by James T. Pritchett, Lenoir, and Donald Treat, Waterbury, Conn.



Other members of the cast are Milton Beyer, Alden, N. Y., as Bernard; Anne Miller, Albany, Ga., as the woman; Walter Creech, Chapel Hill, as Charley; John Bonitz, Jr., Greensboro, as Howard Wagner; Jan Carter, Washington, D. C., as Jenny; Paul Anisko, Elizabeth, N. J., as Stanley; Mary Helen Crain, Durham, as Miss Forsythe, and Judith Taylor, Laurenceville, N. J., as Letta.

William I. Long, Playmakers technical director, supervised the building of an entire two-story house on the stage. Long has been technical director here for several years and has had nine seasons with "The Lost Colony."

The lighting is being done by Norma Cartwright and Claude Garren.

Approximately 150 new students were admitted to the dress rehearsal last night.

Tickets are still available at Swain Hall and Ledbetter-Pickard, or after 7:15 at the theater.

BIFF, JIM PRITCHETT of Lenoir, recoils under attack from the umbrella of Uncle Ben, Harry Davis of Chapel Hill, in a scene from tonight's season opener by the Playmakers, "Death of a Salesman." Curtain time is 8:30 at the Playmakers Theater and tickets still are on sale at Swain Hall and Ledbetter-Pickard.—Photo by Kai Jurgensen.

Humor Mag About Ready

Tarnation, campus humor magazine, will be out for Germans weekend, Editor Tom Alexander said yesterday.

The 32 page campus comic publication will be chock full of cartoons, jokes, poems, photo features and comic advertisements. It will be full sized and have a two color cover.

"In order to keep the quality of the magazine up to par, we need more subscriptions," said Alexander.

Subscription blanks will be distributed to men's dormitories in an effort to increase subscriptions. Many Woman's College and St. Mary's students have subscribed to the magazine, Alexander said.

Constitution Copies Are Now Available

Copies of the revised constitution are available to all interested students, Attorney-General Phi Horton said yesterday.

The revised constitution contains all the amendments and is fully up to date.

Speakers Laud Ike As America's Last Hope

Asserting that this nation has moved faster and faster toward 100 percent Socialism and Communism under the New Deal and Fair Deal policies, Dean Malcolm McDermott of the Duke University Law School said in an address here Monday that only the election of General Dwight D. Eisenhower to the presidency can preserve the American system of free enterprise.

Dean McDermott was the principal speaker at a Citizens For Eisenhower meeting held in Gerrad Hall under the sponsorship of the local group of Eisenhower supporters.

The rally was attended by 150 to 200 townspeople, students and faculty members. Ham Horton Jr., Winston-Salem president of the student body, who is chairman of the local Eisenhower Club, presided. He said another rally would be held next week.

Other speakers, in addition to Dean McDermott, included Jesse Page Jr., Charlotte, State Chairman of Citizens For Eisenhower, Harold Young, State Chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower in New Hampshire, and Capt. (ret.) E. E. Hazlett, Chapel Hill, U. S. Navy.

Captain Hazlett, who said he has been a colse friend of General Eisenhower for 60 years, read part of a recent letter from the General in which Eisenhower said "I have always been guided by what, in my opinion, would be best for the nation as a whole, rather than by what might appear to be the most popular thing to do under any given set of circumstances."

Page declared that "the candidacy of General Eisenhower is the future hope of America. Our generation has darn near sold this nation down the river, and our young folks have become quite suspicious. We have let all sorts of wild economic dreams leads us away from our good ole solid Americanism for which so many of our forefathers fought and died. It we don't return our government back to the social, religious, and economic freedom, we will be lost.

"The Americans for Democratic Action and the CIO are playing for keeps."

Page, who said he had voted the national Democratic ticket all his life 1940, said that all indications now are that this state will give Eisenhower a majority Nov. 4. He said that "Senator Willis Smith is going to vote for Eisenhower, and in the final analysis, and when the curtain is behind him, Bill Umstead is going to vote for Ike."

Dean McDermott said that "I am a real Democrat—I learned my democracy at the feet of that great Democrat, Woodrow Wilson, and worked actively for him." He said that Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt had warned against the dangers of centralization, "such as we face today,"

(See IKE, page 4)

But Not For Long?

Marilyn Leaves Them Sitting In Phone Booth

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

STORS, Conn., Oct. 21—It all started when Lambda Chi brother, Robert van Hagen casually commented in the fraternity lounge, "Wouldn't it be something if Marilyn Monroe came to our winter formal?"

Within 20 minutes a group of 14 Lambda Chi's had pitched in from a nickle to a dollar and a half each and the coast-to-coast wires were humming with a call to the Hollywood star.

With the co-operation of a friendly operator, van Hagen called the 20th Century Fox movie studios and was referred to her agent, who gave her home number. After over two hours of phoning, he finally managed to deliver a message.

He stated that Miss Monroe had been elected sponsor of the Lambda Chi Frosty Ball to be held in December and he would like to know if she could make it. Then he waited as the message was delivered. . . .

Miss Monroe was making a movie and could not come to the phone. However she asked van Hagen to call the next afternoon and she would speak to him personally.

The latest development: van Hagen's meals will be served in the telephone booth until the call comes.

'Half-Grown Larva . . .'

Prof Solves Mystery Of News-Making Worm

By Jody Levey

The mystery of the worm turned yesterday.

Dr. C. D. Beers of the Zoology Department identified the news-making worm as the "half-grown larva of the yellow swallow-tail butterfly."

The query from Hamlet, which made the news last week, was addressed to the "Worm Department, UNC" and read, "Wish you would satisfy our curiosity and wonder why it was found in my house." Enclosed in the envelope was a slightly mashed worm.

Beers replied, "Occasionally a caterpillar falls to the ground. Such an individual might be carried into the house on clothing, cut flowers, or other objects. The striking coloration and peculiar markings of swallow-tail caterpillars almost never fail to attract special attention, so that your curiosity is quite understandable."

The letter and the worm landed on Mrs. Gustave A. Harrer's information desk in South Building Friday. She turned the request and Exhibit A over to Beers.

No Bum Steer

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

RALEIGH, Oct. 21.—Gordon and Bowman Gray had a lot of bull at the N. C. State Fair last week—enough, in fact, to win a blue ribbon award.

Brookberry Karl, a bull owned by the UNC President and his brother, took first place in the N. C. junior championship. Another of the brother's entries, Sawaga Improvements Nettie, won first place in the female guernsey division.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter, delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed ..... Judy Levet | Soc Ed ..... Deenie Schoenne
Sub Mgr ..... Carolyn Belchard | Circ Mgr ..... Donald Hoag
Ass't Sub Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher | Asst Sports Ed ..... Tom Peacock
Natl Adv Mgr ..... Wallace Pridgen | Adv Mgr ..... Ned Becker

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Tich Rodman.

Sports Staff—Verdy Buckalew, Eddie Starnes, Paul Chenev.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Shull, Joyce Jowdy, Judy Taylor.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Capitolists Needed II

Today's the last chance for interested students to try out for posts in that august collegiate assembly known as the State Student Legislature. The SSL offers those participating an opportunity to gain first hand knowledge of parliamentary procedure and debate. Times for the interviews to select Carolina's 21 delegates are carried elsewhere in this newspaper.

Be a political wheel and roll with the SSL bandwagon.

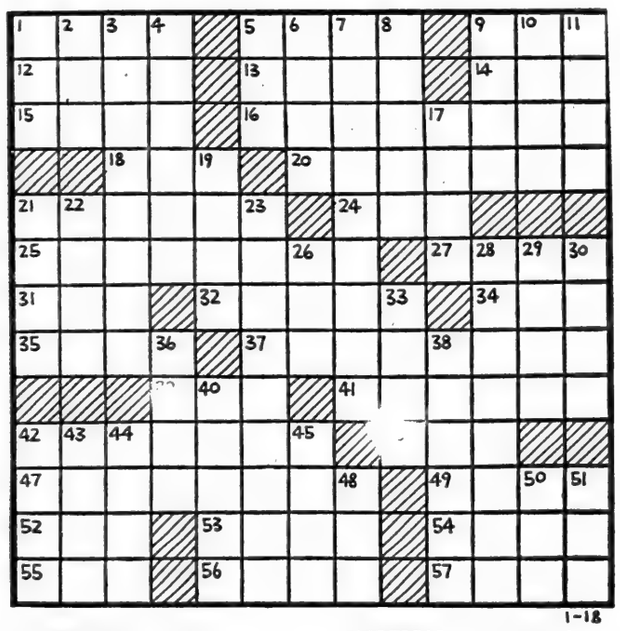
John Taylor

PREVIEWS

Let's take a look at the movies coming up this week. With the exception of three above average films, students are faced with a pretty mediocre selection for the next few days, so it seems that this week would be an ideal time to study or guzzle or whatever you do when there's nothing else to do.

The movies that do rate more than nominal attention are the following: "Madonna of the Seven Moons," at the Carolina on Thursday, "The World in his Arms," at the Varsity also on Thursday, and "The Brave Bulls," Friday at the Varsity. The rest won't offend you in any way, but don't risk flunking out of Carolina just to see them.

I can't really tell you anything about "Madonna of the Seven Moons" because frankly I haven't seen it, nor have I been able to find a review of it (it was issued about eight years ago). But I have been told by a number of unbiased people whose opinions I respect, that it is a superior picture and well worth seeing, so I suggest your trotting down to the Carolina come Thursday to take a gander at it and judge for yourself.



"The World in His Arms" is far from a great movie—it is not supposed to be. It is simply a hokum movie and as such, it is very enjoyable. Its stars are Gregory Pack and Ann Blyth, with Anthony Quinn and John McIntyre featured. The highlights of the picture are a race between two schooners—I forgot to mention that it is a sea adventure—and a scene in which Ann Blyth, wearing a filmy gown gets soaked to the skin. 'Nuff said.

Probably the best movie coming up this week is "The Brave Bulls." Adapted from the Tom Lea novel of the same name, the film tells of a bull-fighter and his battle against fear. All the excitement and tension of the bull ring is there, with its high point being the fierceness of the battle between man and beast in the arena. Mel Ferrer is fine as the matador; Anthony Quinn is racy and rugged as his manager and Miroslava is racy as a lady no better than she should be. Go see it.

And don't forget to see "Death of a Salesman," the play, which the Playmakers are presenting for five performances starting tonight.

Theh United Nations with its specialized agencies has aided 67 countries with its international program of technical assistance.

Dut to basic disagreements between the United States and the U.S.S.R. work for the control of reduction of armaments by the UN has been deadlocked.

1-18

HORIZONTAL
1. stupor
5. vipers
9. in favor of
12. topaz humming-birds
13. Italian coin
14. single unit
15. interdicts
16. definite sphere of action
18. small cask
20. turned inside out
21. steeples
24. artificial language
25. unusually gifted
27. Biblical mountain
31. house addition
32. weary
34. excavate
35. ring
37. small details
39. small shield
41. African fly
42. Sicilian seaport
46. prefix: three
47. awned
49. outer garment
52. soft metal
53. English school
54. grafted (her.)
55. mournful
56. rip
57. Chinese mountain range

VERTICAL
1. public vehicle
2. eggs
3. Spanish shawl
4. make certain
5. lofty mountain
6. father
7. economical
8. rescued
9. receptacle for baptismal water
10. one time only
11. musical pipe
17. press
19. inclination
21. short distance
22. pallid
23. spur
26. silkworm
28. published forms of literary works
29. prejudice
30. S-shaped curve
33. confusion
36. minus
38. triplet (mus.)
40. provide food
42. borders for pictures
43. operatic solo
44. fruit skin
45. solar disk
48. finish
50. mountain aborigine
51. decimal unit

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

M	O	A		F	A	R	E	S		S	I	P
A	L	L		A	B	E	L	E		T	O	E
R	A	B	B	L	E	S		V	E	I	N	S
		E	A	S	T		T	E	R	N
B	A	R	R	E		C	E	R	A	T	E	S
A	N	T	E		F	R	E	E	S		L	A
R	I	A		R	O	U	N	D		P	I	T
G	O		C	A	R	D	S		L	U	T	E
E	N	H	A	N	C	E		W	A	N	E	D
		E	S	S	E		W	A	N	D
M	A	N	T	A		W	I	N	D	I	N	G
A	R	C		C	H	E	S	T		T	E	A
T	E	E		K	E	E	P	S		S	O	D

1-18

Average time of solution: 23 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Allyn S. Norton

The You In U.N.

Despite different nationalities and languages, diverse backgrounds and living conditions, most people of the world seem to have a common meeting ground. That is in their sincere desire for world peace.

That fact was dramatized by the trip to the United Nations made in March 1951, by a group of students from 73 different colleges and universities, representing 18 different states. This group were all members of the Kappa Chi ministerial fraternity.

Although only in New York for a few days, this group made good use of their time. They saw a session of the Trusteeship Council. They heard from and asked questions of the United States delegation to the UN. They were told by such men as Benjamin Brown, deputy secretary-general of the U. S. Mission, and Ernest A. Gross, U. S. Deputy Representative, that there is a desperate struggle going on today—that what we are fighting for is not territorial gains, but rather men's minds.

The writer of this article left that day from New York, with this thought uppermost in his mind. These are times that try men's souls. Rational and peace-loving men are particularly tested as they face the scourge of Communism. All over the world the Communists are deliberately and wilfully sabotaging every honest effort toward international understanding. Everywhere they are spreading fear, coersion, violence and the unmitigated big lie. They are a group of international gangsters and racketeers wholly without conscience and character. When the true story of our generation is written, it will certainly show that the most divisive, the most corrupting influence of our day is the scurrilous, sinister hand of Marxism having its origin in the Kremlin itself.

It is obvious that the Communists would like nothing better than for the non-Communist world to lose its nerve, to act rashly and impetuously. It is apparent that they want nothing more than to plunge all mankind into a series of little wars, decimating both the material and physical strength of all countries, yet remaining outside the actual conflict as long as possible. Communism thrives best on poverty and bloodshed. War is its stock in trade. It was spawned on the battlefield.

The great struggle in the world today is ideological. The real battlefield is the minds of men. The issue lies deeper than all-out physical warfare with the Communists. It lies in the realm of the spirit. Some of the questions asked at the UN that lie at the heart of the struggle in our world. "Can we" they ask "harness science and the atom to moral and peaceful ends? Can we meet the social, economic and political upsurge of one and a half billion underprivileged peoples of Asia and Africa and elsewhere in a helpful, healing way? Can we face the challenge of world Communism in a democratic way, without losing our freedom at home.

Do we as God loving people have the courage to face the truth about ourselves, to purify our minds and hearts and to bear witness to the Great Galilean no matter what the cost?"

The words of Martin Luther come to the writer as he brings this article to a close. "I have held many things in my hands, and I have lost them all; but whatever I have placed in God's hands, that I still possess."

The United Nations was set up in 1945 at the San Francisco Conference for the purpose of establishing a world assembly for the discussion of common political, economic and social problems.

In addition to the six main bodies of the UN there are 10 specialized agencies.

The six main bodies of the UN consist of the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Social and Economic Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice and the Secretariat.

"Anybody Care What I'm Like?"

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON.—A meeting of midwest Ford automobile dealers was held in Omaha on October 10, at which they were told that a political emergency faced the nation and that each dealer would be expected to contribute to the Republican National Committee for use in the current political campaign.

The Omaha meeting was attended by Ford dealers from Nebraska and Iowa only. Earlier a meeting was held at Colorado Springs at which Allen Merrill, personal assistant to Henry Ford II, and Walker Williams came from Detroit to tell Ford dealers that the future of Ford depended on a change of administrations in Washington.

Unless there was a change of administrations, Ford dealers were told, big business in the United States, including the Ford Motor Company, was doomed.

Word of the Colorado meeting was brought to some of the Nebraska and Iowa dealers by Ed O'Shea of Lincoln.

The lowest assessment of any Ford dealer in the Omaha area was placed at $100, while one dealer, Walter Mahoney at Sioux City, was expected to pay $1,000. Dynamic Don Gell, the Ford dealer at Red Oak, Iowa, one of the top-notch dealers in the industry, was assigned to collect funds for Western Iowa. He advised fellow dealers to send checks to him at Red Oak, make them out to the Republican National Committee, but not make them on a company check.

This meeting follows a pattern set by Arthur Summerfield, now Chairman of the Republican National Committee, in Michigan in 1946 and 1948. At that time Summerfield was Republican National Committeeman for Michigan and still is the largest Chevrolet dealer in the world. His collection of GOP contributions from auto dealers was based upon the number of cars they sold and eventually led to the indictment of 20 dealers and the conviction of 18 for violation of the corrupt practices act.

This is probably why Ford dealers this year have been warned not to use company checks; since it was the fact that Michigan auto dealers did use company checks which led to their conviction.

Summerfield's money-raising scheme in Michigan is one reason why members of the Dewey wing of the Republican Party were surprised, to put it mildly, when Summerfield was made chairman of the Republican National Committee. They felt that his appointment took part of the punch out of the corruption issue against the Democrats.

One Republican especially surprised at Summerfield's appointment was the former Attorney General of Michigan, Eugene Black, who as a Republican had attempted to prosecute Summerfield and Michigan auto dealers.

In the end, Attorney General Black faced such tough opposition from members of his own party that he finally came to Washington and placed his evidence before the Justice Department.

Black's charge against Michigan auto dealers in May 1948 was that they were able to avoid paying the state sales tax in return for raising a huge campaign chest of $250,000 for the Republican party. Black gave full credit to Summerfield for cooking up the scheme and charged that the auto dealers were told that if they did not contribute to the GOP they would not get their normal quota of cars from the factory.

Black estimated that the state of Michigan was cheated out of $30,000,000 of sales taxes by auto dealers as a result of the Summerfield scheme.

Black's clean-up of Republican politics immediately brought vitriolic opposition and charges of "ingrate" from other Republicans. The Republican State Committee actually telegraphed Black: "You are a menace to good government, and we respectfully suggest that you immediately resign."

Governor Kim Sigler, also a Republican, even withheld from Black $35,000 which he needed to prosecute the auto dealers. And when Black dug up an unexpended balance of $12,498 left over by his Department from 1947, the GOP State Auditor clamped down an order that this money could not be used to probe Republican campaign funds.

It was at this point that the Republican Attorney General of Michigan went to Washington and turned over his evidence to a Democratic Administration.

The Justice Department, calling a grand jury in Detroit, under U. S. Attorney Thomas P. Thornton, not only indicted 20 dealers for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act, but subpoenaed the books of the now Republican National Chairman. Summerfield brough suit for the return of his books, but was not able to get his books back until the prosecution was over.

One witness, Mrs. Dudley C. Hay, former Republican Committeewoman, testified that auto dealers gave a dollar to the Republican treasury for every car they sold, and that they took this money out of "miscellaneous" expenses, which are tax deductable, rather than campaign contributions, which are not.

Among those who helped collect funds for Summerfield were such highup General Motors officials as W. F. Hufsteader, Vice President of Buick, and Harry Gault, General Motors attorney, both of whom served on the Michigan GOP Finance Committee.

It was suggested editorially at the time of this finance scandal that Ford and General Motors might want to drop some of their dealers who were convicted of violating the Corrupt Practices Act. The suggestion was not followed.

The fact that Ford officials in Detroit have now sent word to their dealers throughout the country to raise money for the 1952 Republican campaign indicates why the suggestion was not more favorably received.

Express Yourself

Editor:

The student body of the University of Notre Dame extends its most sincere compliments to you and your fellow students. It is our expressed desire to issue forth our finest hospitality to your team and it's followers for the contest to be held on our campus on Oct. 24, of this year.

This letter is, in a sense, an inquiry; an effort to learn whether any groups—students, band, alumni, or friends might be making the trip to Notre Dame for the game. If so, we would like them to contact us in order that we might aid them in any way possible in enjoying their stay. We offer acquaintance tours for those desirous, and we will assist any and all of your students in partaking in our post game social activities.

Should you have any groups desirous of our services please advise us of their schedule and we will send detailed plans for our welcome.

With best wishes to you and the students and friends of your University.

Eugene W. Howley
University of Notre Dame
Chairman, Welcoming Committee

Soccer Eleven Is Host To Cavaliers

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

The Gorey Truth

ALREADY GORED by Longhorns, sidelined by paralysis, and still suffering from an unexpected kick by Deacons our Tar Heels have little to look forward to this week. For on Saturday they must meet the Notre Demon, which after a two-year rest period in which it repaired its wounds, again threatens to rampage the country.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame have again established themselves as a football power, maybe not as consistent performers as they were three and four and more years ago, but still the kind of team you want to stay clear of. After being tied by Pennsylvania Texas with a great second-half performance and won, 14-3. Next to show that they are still not yet a top power, they fell to Pittsburgh. But then, to confuse things even more, Notre Dame upset ninth-ranked Purdue last weekend. Figure it out if you can.

But with all their inconsistency the fact remains that Notre Dame still has a potentially great team. They have a good passer in Ralph Guglielmi and to back him up at quarterback they have another good field general in Tom Carey. Their running offense is as good as usual with hard-running Johnny Lattner and Neil Worden pacing the attack.

No Rest For The Weary

SO IT LOOKS AS THOUGH the Carolina line, which played such an outstanding game against Wake Forest last Saturday, is in for another good workout. The line was probably Coach Carl Snavely's best pass defense against the Deacs, in rushing the passer as hard as it did. The same rushing will be needed against Guglielmi when we travel to South Bend Saturday, And to stop Lattner, Worden, and a host of other fast and powerful backs the Tar Heel forward wall will have to do the same good job it did against the Deacons.

But judging from the loss to Wake Forest 9-7 the question of defense will be the last of Coach Snavely's worries. The Grey Fox still needs to find a football with a handle on it or a quarterback with rubber-cement fingers. Both Charlie Motta and Marshall Newman looked good enough last Saturday running the split-T but fumblitis still haunts them. Coach Eddie Price of Texas told Coach Snavely that he found a team needed about three games under its belt before the split-T, minus fumbles, began to work well. This will be only our third game, thanks to Mr. Polio Melytis, and all we can do is hope that Coach Price is right about the third time being a charm.

Punting, Defense Figure

THE SOUTHERN CONFERENCE statistics released today, show what a boost Bud Wallace's punting is to our offense. He's way ahead of the field with 21 kicks averaging 44.6 yards and that extra yardage certainly has been a help. Then, too, the Carolina defense has pulled up to the second spot Conference rushing defense behind Duke and fifth in the total offense field.

Local Squad Looking For Initial Win

By Paul Cheney

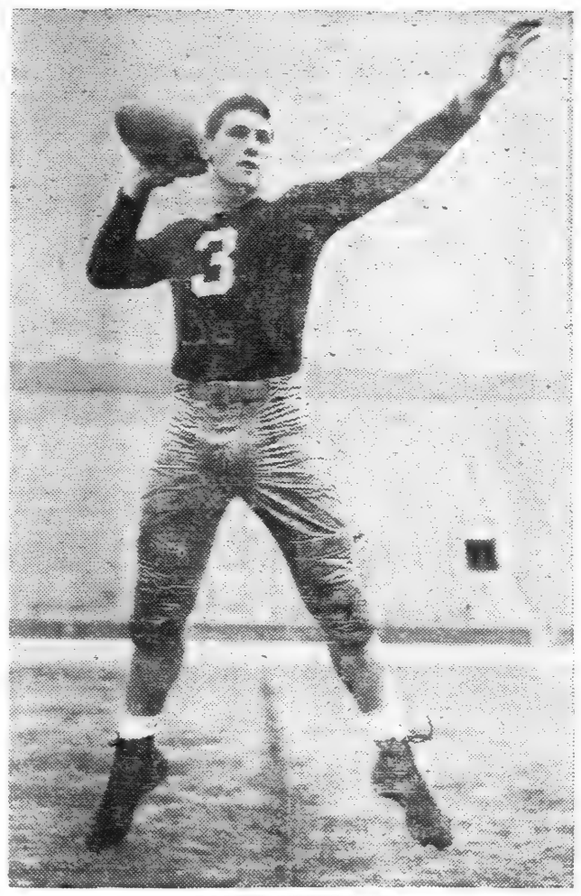
Carolina's soccer squad plays its second home game of the season today when it meets the booters from the University of Virginia on Fetzer Field. The game is slated to get underway at 3:30.

Coach Al Moore's starting lineup will have either co-captain Ben Tison or Buckets Gladstone at goalie. Co-captain Barry Kalb will be at left fullback, with either Ronnie Younts or Burnie Burnstan at the right fullback post. Burnstan has just returned to action, having been sidelined all season by a broken toe.

Either Buddy Barnes or Fletcher Green will fill the starters role at left halfback. Tommy Hopkins is at center halfback, with Dave Cole on his right.

Forward Wall

In the forward wall Rawleigh Tremain is at outside left while Rennie Randolph is the inside left. Gerry Russell, last season's high scorer, holds down the center forward spot. Inside right will be filled by Louie Patseavouras or Drew Patterson. Harry Pawlik or Tennie Elting will be at outside right.



The Virginia booters own a two and one record for the season. The Cavaliers opened their season with a victory over Roanoke, and followed it with a conquest of the Washington and Lee Generals. Virginia was then blanked by a strong Duke team, 4-0, at Durham last week.

In Fair Shape

The visitors will be led by Mounthino, a high scoring center halfback. Mounthino's brother was a teammate of Coach Moore in college.

The Tar Heels have been strengthened considerably by the return of Burnstan, as well as the arrival of Ham Hamilton. Hamilton was a reserve inside forward on last year's team, just barely missing his letter. He is expected to see plenty of action again this season.

Coach Moore reports the team is in fair physical shape. The only serious injury is that of Rennie Randolph, who was shaken up in the State game.

RALPH GUGLIELMI
. . . to quarterback Fighting Irish

Spartans, Terps Lead Grid Polls; Blue Devils Rated High

Michigan State found itself at the head of almost every national rating system after last Saturday's games and in most cases saw that it was Maryland providing most of the competition for first place.

Duke, which slaughtered N. C. State 57-0 at Raleigh Saturday, had the unenviable distinction of dropping one place in the Associated Press poll after such a convincing performance.

The Blue Devils are ranked sixth by the AP, seventh by the United Press and third by the Paul Williamson system.

The top eight teams in the UP poll and the top nine in the AP rating are undefeated, although Oklahoma has been tied once, in its opener against Missouri.

California and Oklahoma are battling it out for third place with the Sooners getting the AP nod and California ranked third by the UP.

Maryland moved up in actual number of voting points and ranks but 50 behind Michigan State in the AP poll and 54 in the UP. The other teams are well-ranked in ballots behind the top two.

The AP places Georgia Tech and Virginia, both future opponents of Duke, in the top ten with Tech rating fifth and the Cavaliers in the ninth spot.

MURALS

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Tag Football

4:00—Field 2, Pi Kap Phi vs. Chi Psi—2; Field 3, Sig Chi vs. SAE—2; Field 4, Delta Psi vs. SPE; Field 5, Kap Sig vs. Sig Nu—2.
5:00—Field 2, Cobb—1 vs. Med School—3; Field 3, Winston vs. Med School—4; Field 4, Beta—1 vs. Zetes—1; Field 5, ZBT vs. Kap Psi.

Volleyball

4:00—Court 1, Connor vs. Ruffin.
5:00—Court 1, Graham vs. English Club.

MONDAY'S RESULTS

Tag Football

Med School 1 def. Cobb 2, 1-0 (forfeit).
DKE 2 def. Phi Delt 2, 32-0.
Med School 4 def. Connor, 1-0 (forfeit).
Lewis def. Graham 2, 6-0.
Ruffin def. Med School 2, 6-0.
SAE def. DKE 1, 20-0.
Med School 3 def. Alexander 2, 10-0.
Law School def. Graham 1, 14-0.

Volleyball

Sigma Chi 1 def. AKPsi, 15-3, 15-10.
Phi Kap 1 def. Kappa Sig 1, 15-8, 15-12.
TEP 2 def. Phi Kap 2, 16-18, 15-13, 15-11.
Phi Kap 3 def. Kappa Sig 4, 15-4, 15-6.
Zete 1 def. DKE 2, 15-1, 15-8.
Chi Phi def. Zete 3, 13-15, 15-5, 15-8.
Pi Kap def. Sigma Chi 3, 15-4, 3-15, 16-14.
Joyner def. Everett, 15-12, 15-10.
Pi Lamb def. Beta 2, 15-12, 15-4.
Sigma Nu def. Pi Ka, 15-2, 15-9.

Spirit Runs High As Football Team Prepares For Notre Dame Saturday

By Vardy Buckalew

Spirit was high on Navy Field yesterday afternoon as the Tar Heels continued their preparation for Saturday's game with the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame.

Coach Jim Camp, back from watching the Irish give Purdue a 26-14 licking, had a raft of their plays, which the Jayvee team ran against the first string offense.

At the quarterback position in the Notre Dam plays was Charlie Motta and Ed Laughlin, a former prep school boy who throws passes with either hand.

Line coach Jim Camp directed the defense and they appeared to be in top form after the fine game they played last Saturday.

Leonard Bullock, who played a fine game in the safety position against Wake Forest, did not see much action in the practice yesterday due to a slight separation of the shoulder. He was dressed out however and will probably be in fine shape by Saturday.

In the defensive practice a lot of emphasis was put on pass defense as the Irish have an outstanding passer in Ralph Guglielmi and he can be expected to make a repeat of past performances.

With freshman Marshall Newman running quarterback, the offense team practiced long and hard in an effort to perfect their new system.

Newman, who looked good on passes but not so good on the option play in Saturday's game against Wake Forest appears to be gaining more confidence all the time. His ball handling was surer in yesterday's practice and his passes continued to be thrown with great accuracy.

Coach Barclay supervised the operation of the split-T and at times appeared to be well pleased. At times the blocking was fierce even though the temperature was in the low thirties just before dark.

Big Frances Federe, who did not dress out for the game against Wake Forest, was back in equipment yesterday and alternated running at offensive tackle. So far this year Federe has not lived up to the expectations of the coaches and has not seen much action so far.

Dick Kokornick and Tom Adler were playing the offensive ends and looked good in the workout. Ed Patterson and George Foti looked good at the offensive guards, a position which has not been too strong in games played to date.

The team will leave Friday morning for South Bend via chartered airliner. They will return to Chapel Hill immediately after the Saturday afternoon contest.

Frank McGuire, newly appointed University of North Carolina basketball coach, was a successful baseball coach in addition to his fame as a cage mentor.

Frank Wissman, ace Carolina passer last season, is in service now. He was a junior when called.

In Southern Conference

West Virginia Tops Offense, Duke Defense; Wallace Shines

Richmond quarterback Bobby Tyler, completing nine passes against Miami last week, took first place in Southern Conference passing over idle Johnny Gramling of South Carolina, according to current statistics released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau in New York.

Another South Carolinian, Clyde Bennett, lost his hold on pass-receiving honors because the Gamecocks did not play. Wake Forest's Bob Ondilla, even though he nabbed only one pass against North Carolina last week, gained the lead with 15 catches.

Only Changes

Those were the only changes in individual Conference departments. Ed Mioduszewski of William and Mary maintained his lead in total offense, Randy Broyles of Washington and Lee in rushing and Bud Wallace of Carolina, punting.

Mioduszewski, held to 33 yards rushing and passing by Navy the previous week, burst loose for 167 yards against Boston U. to stretch his lead over Richmond's Tyler to 135 yards. On the other hand, Broyles—held to a mere 23 by West Virginia—remained comfortably ahead of the field in rushing.

In passing, Tyler led Virginia Tech's Johnny Dean in completions 35 to 33, but Dean held the edge in yardage with 477. Worth Lutz of Duke continued his amazing record of no interceptions for five games and eight touchdowns in 19 completions. He throws a TD pass once in every four attempts and has connected on nearly 60 per cent of his tosses.

Most Mileage

While Ondilla of Wake Forest leads the very close race in pass-receptions, Jimmy Byron of Virginia Military has gotten the most mileage for his catches—265 yards on only 10 catches. Howard Pitt of Duke leads pass-receivers in scoring with five touchdowns.

Wallace of Carolina averaged 47 yards against Wake Forest last week to increase his punting lead over Paul Chapman of The Citadel, 44.6 to 42.2.

West Virginia leads all offensive departments, Duke all defensive categories in the Conference team statistics. The situation remained exactly the same as last week, with Carolina also retaining its lock on punting honors.

While the Mountaineers suffered statistically even in trouncing Washington and Lee 31-13 last Saturday, they still lead the Conference in rushing with 255.5 yards per game, in passing with a 120-yard average and overall offensively with 375.5 yards per game. W. & L. is runnerup in rushing and total offense, Richmond second in passing.

Duke's unbeaten Blue Devils, who trounced North Carolina Statet last week, kept first place in rushing defense with a 112.6-yard average allowance, pass defense with a 60.2-yard average and total defense with 172.8 yards allowed per game. Carolina, Virginia Tech and West Virginia trail in these respective phases.

Carolina, getting back into action against Wake Forest after a two-weeks' idleness, averaged 47 yards per try last week to increase its league-leading punting average to 45.2 yards per kick.

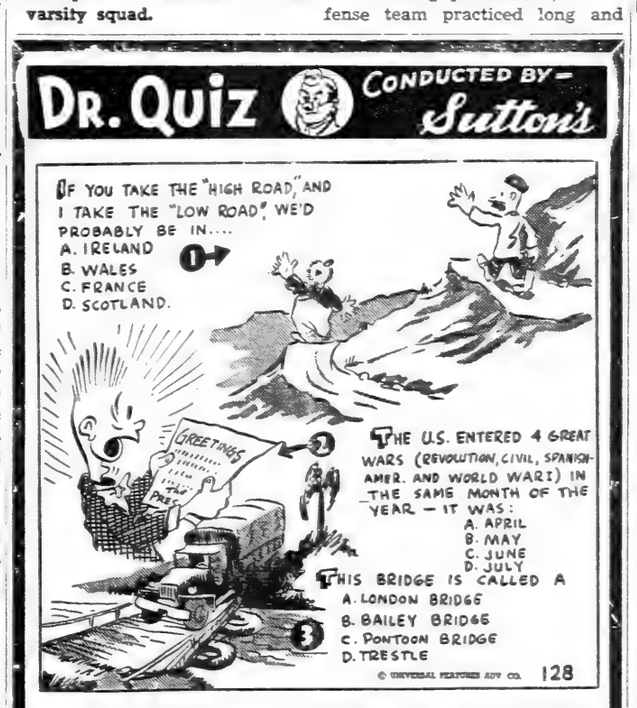
Total Offense	Yds. per Game
1. West Virginia	375.5
2. Washington & Lee	336.4
3. William & Mary	327.2
4. Duke	321.6
5. Furman	296.8

Rushing Offense	Yds. per Game
1. West Virginia	255.5
2. Washington & Lee	253.2
3. Duke	248.8
4. William & Mary	229.8
5. George Washington	189.0

Passing Offense	Att.	Comp.	Avg.
1. W. Virginia	65	27	120.0
2. Richmond	110	42	114.4
3. Furman	64	34	113.5
4. S. Carolina	82	40	113.5
5. W. & M.	74	27	97.4

Punting	No.	Avg.
1. N. Carolina	22	45.2
2. The Citadel	34	42.2
3. V. P. I.	38	40.5
4. Wake Forest	40	39.1
5. Richmond	34	38.9

Total Defense	Yds. per Game
1. Duke	172.8
2. West Virginia	244.5
3. South Carolina	268.5
4. Virginia Tech	279.8
5. North Carolina	288.5



Rushing Defense	Yds. per Game
1. Duke	112.6
2. North Carolina	122.0
3. West Virginia	129.8
4. Wake Forest	160.2
5. South Carolina	175.5

Pass Defense	Att.	Comp.	Avg.
1. Duke	69	27	60.2
2. V. P. I.	71	36	69.5
3. G. Washington	67	28	80.8
4. V. M. I.	74	31	88.4
5. Davidson	52	21	91.3

Frosh Swimmers

Coach Dick Jamerson has called a meeting this afternoon at 4:15 for all freshmen interested in trying out for the swimming team. Students are asked to report to room 304 of Woollen Gym.

Jamerson pointed out that a freshman team will be carried this year in addition to the varsity squad.

There's no doubt about SUTTON'S DRUG STORE'S line of sick room supplies and accessories . . . They're the finest. Buy at our store and save. There's no doubt about the answers above . . . they are Scotland, April and Pontoon Bridge.

THE TAR HEEL'S DRUG CENTER — Sutton's DRUG STORE — Rx SPECIALISTS

COSMETICS—MEN'S TOILETRIES — SCHOOL SUPPLIES
5531 — COMPLETE FOUNTAIN SERVICE—JUST ACROSS FRANKLIN

If You Haven't Picked Up A Copy of Bill Hubbel's Map Of The Campus Stop In For Yours Today

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.
Open Evenings

Headquarters FOR FLANNEL SUITS

THE Sport SHOP

Now O-P-E-N . . . To Serve YOU Your favorite American-Chinese food

HONG KONG

"Where food is Different"

Durham-Chapel Hill Rd. Chapel Hill

TRAILWAYS THRU-LINERS

- Friendly smiles, little courtesies make you feel "at home" to enjoy your trip.
- More thru buses to more places than any other bus system. Means less changes and baggage worries.
- Outstanding Safety record, plus air conditioned comfort.
- Lowest travel cost, less than cost of driving.

SAVE UP TO 25% THRU TRAILWAYS LOW FARES

Chapel Hill — To:	1-Way
Greensboro, 14 departures daily	$1.25
Asheville, 7 trips, 6 thru liners	$6.15
Norfolk, 5 departures daily	$5.00
Washington, D. C., 8 trips, choice of routes	$6.65
Charlotte, N. C., 14 departures daily	$3.60

(Plus Fed. Tax)

UNION BUS TERMINAL
312 W. Franklin St. Phone 4281

TRAILWAYS
THE ROUTE OF THE THRU-LINERS

Summer Platoon Class To Move To Quantico

Commencing with the summer of 1953, the Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class Junior Course will no longer be conducted at the Marine Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S. C., but at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

The senior course summer training and the officer candidate courses will continue to be conducted at Quantico.

Maj. F. C. Caldwell, USMC, local Marine Procurement Officer, said yesterday that as a matter of procedure, applicants will be notified of the dates at the time their approval letter is mailed to them from headquarters.

They will be asked to indicate which of two increments for the junior course they wish to attend.

It is estimated that candidates enrolled before April 1, 1953, will be assigned in accordance with their choice. Thereafter it will be necessary to make assignments as necessary to balance the increments.

without advertising

you would not know about the many new products available to you!

What Goes On Here

Special Services Committee

All dormitory chairmen are invited to attend the SUAB Special Services Committee at 4 p.m. tomorrow in Roland Parker Lounge 2. Others interested in co-ordination of campus activities are asked to attend.

★

Coed Dance

The Independent Coed Board is sponsoring an informal dance Saturday night in the Lenoir Hall Pine Room from 8 to 12 p.m. Alderman Dormitory will sponsor a date bureau. McIver Dormitory is responsible for the decorations. Anyone interested on campus is invited.

★

Student Party

A caucus of Student Party Legislators will meet this afternoon at 4:15 in Graham Memorial.

★

Rules Committee

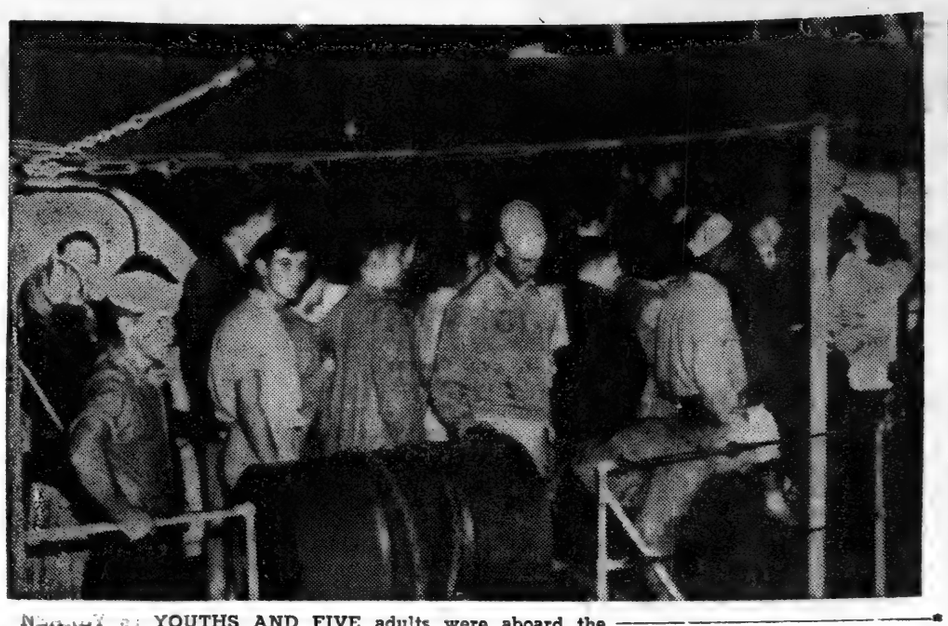
The Rules Committee of the Student Legislature will meet at 3 p.m. tomorrow on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

★

Bible Study Committee

The Bible Study Committee of the YWCA will meet at 5 p.m. today in the Y. Dr. Bernard Boyd will lead the discussion. All interested are invited to attend.

★



Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet today at 5 p.m. in the Choral Room of Hill Hall.

Table Tennis Play Deadline Is Tonight

The deadline for the first round of play in the SUAB Table Tennis Tourney is tonight at 11 o'clock when the GM information office closes.

All matches in the preliminary and first rounds of play must be completed by that time or the players become liable to forfeit. Players must make their own appointments to play. A table is provided for Tournament play in Roland Parker Lounge 3 on the second floor of GM.

NEARLY 50 YOUTHS AND FIVE adults were aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Nemesis when it returned to its base at St. Petersburg, Fla., after rescuing members of a Lutheran Church party. The party was returning from Bradenton, Fla., when the boat, Ranger III, went aground at the mouth of the Manatee River. The party was stranded for six hours before the Coast Guard completed the rescue.—UP Telephoto.

Exam Deadline Set By Service

Application deadline for the Civil Service junior management assistant examination is Nov. 13, it was announced yesterday. The exam will be given on Dec. 6.

Twenty major federal agencies employ junior management assistants with beginning salaries ranging from $3410 to $4205. Students interested in careers in government are asked to take the examination so they may be eligible for positions.

Further information can be obtained at the Placement Service or the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington.

USMC Society Meets Tomorrow

The University chapter of the Marine Corps Semper Fidelis Society will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Naval Armory.

The meeting will be a business meeting and will consist of the presentation of the society's constitution, election of the year's officers and discussion of the society's plans for the current year.

The meeting will be the deadline for NROTC Marine Candidates, PLC's, OCC's and Marine Reserve students who desire to be considered charter members of the society.

WASHINGTON — GI's who were due to be rotated home from Korea this month have been given the bad news that they will have to sweat it out a little longer. The Army said a manpower squeeze, which has been developing for months, made it necessary to raise the October "rotation score" from 36 points to 38 points. That means that enlisted men must put in from two weeks to two months more time overseas to become eligible for a return to the United States.

Snapshots Needed

More snapshots are needed for the Yackety Yack. Snapshots should be brought or mailed to the Yack office in Graham Memorial.

English Club Will Hear Duke Prof

Dr. Benjamin Boyce of Duke will speak to the graduate English Club tonight on "The Lives of Richard Savage: A Speculation upon Secret History, True History and Romance."

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 in the assembly-examination room of the library. English faculty members will be guests of the club.

Boyce received his Ph.D from Harvard and has taught at Northwestern, University of Omaha and Nebraska. His publications include "Tom Brown of Facetious Memory" and "The Theophrastan Character in England to 1642."

–Ike–

(Continued from page 1)

on many occasions. Franklin Roosevelt, he said, had emphasized that "the good of the country rises above the party."

"The Fair Deal is nothing but a steal," Dean McDermott said. "All this talk about civil rights and civil liberties is nothing but insidious propaganda. The ADA never committed a greater distortion of truth than when they called themselves 'Liberals'. Everything the ADA stands for is the antithesis of liberalism."

Dean McDermott said the experience of England where socialism began to take a hold in 1864, "has shown what happens to a nation when creeping socialism is not stopped."

–UN Day–

(Continued from page 1)

townspeople are urged to wear their native dress.

At 8 p.m. an informal international program will begin at Hill Hall. The program will feature songs and dances from international students. Chancellor House will be master of ceremonies. To climax the evening, Paul Green will speak informally on "Nationalism and One World." Green is a Chapel Hill author, playwright and representative on UNESCO.

Also to be presented on UN day is a film at Memorial Hall. It is "The Magic Horse," a color cartoon feature based on one of the favorite Russian folk tales.

Many local stores will be closed for a half hour in order that employees may attend Friday's noon ceremony. Literature and exhibits will be on display in the library, YMCA lobby, Graham Memorial and Lenoir Hall.

Chairman for the town and campus UN Day planning groups is John Riebel, associate secretary of the YMCA. Chairman of the campus committee is Nancy Shand, graduate student in sociology.

The campus committee is composed of Dwight Rhyne, for the films, Fred Cleveland, of the Political Science Department, for the noon ceremony, Sue Fink, freshman, for the international supper and evening program and Mrs. Ann Blalock, publicity.

Members of the UN Day committee are Judy Alexander, John Faust, Tom Wakefield, Purabi Bose, Tom Witty, Helmuth Deicher, Dr. Hartmann, John McLendon, Otto Vehrenkamp, Ken Barton, Al Mendoza, Janice Masters, Allyn Norton, Leslie Eason, Sue Shuff and Stewart Jones.

Student-Faculty Reception Today

The second student-faculty reception of the year will be held this afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The reception, sponsored by the Student Union Activities Board, is particularly for those General College students whose last names begin with E, F, G or H. However, all students and faculty are invited, Chairman Mary Lilla Browne said yesterday.

A reception for faculty and students of the History and Political Science Departments is scheduled for Sunday.

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

NEW YORK TIMES ANNOUNCING a new service. You can now have the Daily New York Times delivered directly to your door. Also, be assured of your SUNDAY NEW YORK TIMES. Order now for Daily and Sunday. Write to: University Sunday Carrier Service; Box 655, Chapel Hill, N. C. Charge 2x1

CHARLOTTE OBSERVER — HAVE the "Foremost newspaper of the two Carolinas" delivered directly to your door each morning before seven. For daily and Sunday home delivery, write to: James F. Dinsmore, 135 Mason Farm Road, Chapel Hill, N. C. (Charge 2x1)

RIDE TO NEW YORK OR VICINITY. Will share all expenses. Phone 5301. N.C.—Staff

SUBSCRIBE TO THE DAILY TAR Heel. Get your football news $4.00 a year, $1.50 a quarter. See Carolyn Reichard—210 Graham Memorial N.C. DTH

FOR RENT

NICE ROOM IN QUIET HOME Private entrance. Two blocks from campus. Occupant leaving Oct. 20th for the Army. 127 North St. Phone 7661. (1-c9460-2)

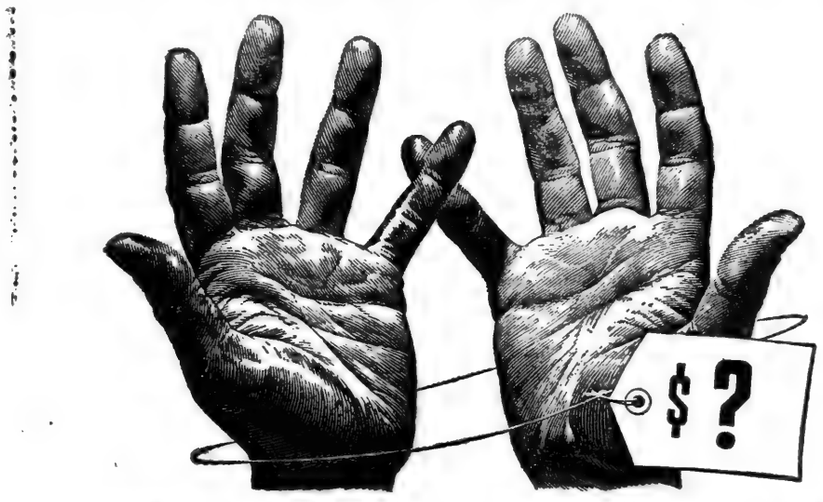
LOST

ONE SET OF CAR KEYS IN BROWN leather case. Notify Jimmy Seay, SPE House or phone 2-6071. Charge

HELP WANTED

MOTHER'S HELPER NEEDED SUNdays—9-6, light duties and baby sitting. Congenial mature male or female. Mrs. Ernest Craige, [illegible] 417 Whitehead Circle. (1-c9464-3)

FOR SALE



FOR SALE: TUXEDO. EXCELLENT condition. Size, about 36 long. $16 Call 9-6952. (1-9465-2)

LAST TIMES TODAY

Varsity

Due to so many requests from so many students we proudly announce the return of this movie—

FRIDAY!

THESE HANDS ARE PRICELESS!

They protect the American way of life . . . our homes, our freedoms, our future.

These Hands, sensitively trained to respond acutely to the commands of an alert mind and courageous heart, are the hands of a United States Air Force Pilot.

The skilled touch of these hands attunes the blasting speed of modern jet aircraft to effective missions in discouraging any enemy. These hands are supremely capable of flying and fighting these machines with devastating effect.

These Hands belong to young, spirited American men (not supermen) who desire to live unmolested in a free America . . . who want to enjoy the same rights and opportunities open to all real American people.

These Hands belong to our sons—yours and mine. Youths who must decide today how they can share in defense of our nation and also better themselves. To insure greater chances of their success, today's college men should be encouraged to complete their education and then serve their country best by enlisting as Aviation Cadets in the U. S. Air Force.

Theirs is the choice of becoming either a Pilot or Aircraft Observer. After graduation as Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force, they wear the silver wings of flying executives and begin earning nearly $5300 a year.

These Hands represent a man ready to qualify for this tremendous task because he is between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in excellent physical condition, especially eyes, ears, heart and teeth. He possesses at least two years of college and the inherent urge to fly.

These Hands shape the destiny of America... the difference between our survival and oblivion.

The U. S. Air Force needs the hands, the minds and the hearts of young Americans who desire to make the American way a greater way of peace and happiness for all.

WHERE To Get More Details

Visit your nearest U. S. Air Force Base or write direct to Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force Washington 25, D. C.

PILOT AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

U.S. AIR FORCE

Complete Selection To Choose From VAN HEUSEN TOWN & CAMPUS

Van Heusen's new

Van Gab

...completely,

completely,

COMPLETELY WASHABLE

Tub it, scrub it—you can't wash out the rich, luxurious look of your Van Heusen Van Gab Gabardine. It's America's favorite rayon gabardine sport shirt . . . because it's completely washable in any and all suds. You'll like the comfortable collar that looks great open or closed . . . with or without a tie. And Van Heusen's Van Gab is styled in a host of washable new campus colors.

$4.95

Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Sunny and warmer today with 72 high. Yesterday's high, 68; low, 35.

The Daily Tar Heel

EXTRA
Some profs are fudging by taking extra minutes, says the editorial. See page 2.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 26 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Eli Law Prof Will Deliver Weil Lectures

Author To Speak On 'Freedom In Special Situations'

Dr. Zechariah Chafee Jr., distinguished professor in the Harvard University Law School, will deliver the annual series of Weil Lectures on Citizenship here next January 20, 21, 22. He has been Langdell Professor of Law at Harvard since 1938.

Established in 1914 thruogh the generosity of the families of Sol and Henry Weil of Goldsboro, these lectures have been given almost every year since that time. Inaugurated by then ex-President William Howard Taft, they have been delivered by such notables as Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School, Charles A. Beard, Harold J. Laski, Justice Felix Frankfurter, Henry A. Wallace, Herbert Agar, Dorothy Thompson, Dr. Clarence Dykstra, Senator J. William Fulbright, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The general subject of Dr. Chafee's lectures is "Freedom in Special Situations".

Announcement of the series was made yesterday by Dr. Alexander Heard of the Political Science Department, chairman of the University's Committee on Established Lectures. Other members of the committee are Profs. Milton Heath of the School of Business Administration, D. P. Costello of the Department of Zoology, Frank W. Hanft of the Law School, Harold McCurdy of the Psychology Department, Alfred Engstrom of the French Department and Arnold Nash of the Religion Department.

Dr. Chafee received his A. B. degree from Brown University in 1907 and his LL.B. at Harvard in 1913. Honorary degrees have been conferred on him by Brown University, Boston University and Colby College.

He was associated with Builders Iron Foundry, Providence, R. I., from 1907-10 and since 1944 has been Chairman of the Board of Directors. He practiced law with Tillinghast and Collins in Providence from 1913-16. He was consultant to the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement from 1929-31.

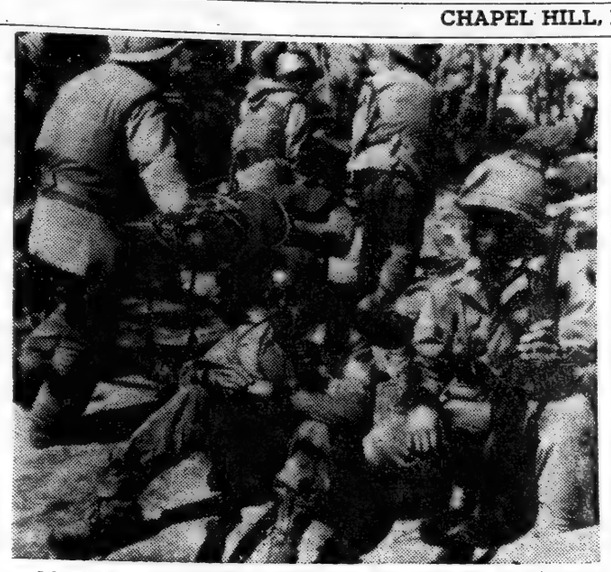
He is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Philosophical Society, Colonial Society of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Historical Society, Alpha Delta Phi and Phi Beta Kappa. He was a member of the Commission on Freedom of the Press from 1943-47.

Dr. Chafee is the author of "Freedom of Speech", "America Now", "The Inquiring Mind",

(See AUTHOR, Page 4)

GC Freshman Class Names '52 Officers

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL



GREENSBORO, Oct. 21—Jane Cocke of Asheville recently was named president of the freshman class in elections held at Greensboro College.

Other officers include, Peggy Ballard of Charlotte, vice-president; Nancy Frances of Waynesville, council representative; Betty Bishop of Asheville, treasurer, and Mary Lee Wells of Greensboro, secretary.

Alumnus Overseas

Norman MacLeod, a native of Olivia, who is an alumnus of the University, has received an overseas assignment with the American Red Cross.

MacLeod, who is assistant field director in the American Red Cross Services to the armed forces program, will report to San Francisco November 4 for processing, prior to sailing for an assignment in the Far Eastern Theater of Operations. During his undergraduate days he was captain of the track team.

AS DEAD ARE TAKEN OUT and new supplies are brought into Triangle Hill, Pfc. Regnal Raflaes, Milton, Fla., and Cpl. Ted Lotz, Coffeeville, Ky. (right), watch the grim scene. Communist commanders who sacrificed more than half a division in eight days of bitter fighting for Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge, have reduced their efforts to light jabs at UN positions all along the 155-mile Korean battlefront.—UP Telephoto.

Recital Scheduled By Newman, Alden

Edgar Alden, violinist, and William S. Newman, pianist, both members of the music faculty, will give a recital of sonatas for violin and piano in Hill Hall Tuesday night at 8:30.

Their program will include sonatas by Mozart, Brahms and the contemporary Czech composer, Bohuslav Martinu.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

Formerly concert master of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra and of the Mozart Festival Orchestra of Asheville, Prof. Alden has had extensive experience in solo, chamber and orchestral music. His chief interest is in chamber music, and, as first violinist of the Raleigh String Quartet, the University String Quartet, the University Trio and the Alden String Trio. He has appeared in many localities in the Carolinas and Georgia. He assisted in the organization of the Raleigh Chamber Music Guild and served for a number of years as its musical director.

Prof. Newman is noted not only as a pianist but as an author. Among his publications are "The Pianist's Problems", "Keyboard Sonatas by the Sons of Bach" and "Understanding Music." He makes annual lecture recital tours in various parts of the country and has appeared often as soloist with orchestras and as recitalist in Boston, Cleveland, New York, Chicago, Washington and other cities.

Halifax Children First To Get UNC Dental Aid

The first busload of North Carolina public school students were examined, given X-rays and emergency treatment in the clinics of the new School of Dentistry here yesterday.

The group included 25 elementary and high school students from Roanoke Rapids and Halifax County.

Arrangements for transportation to Chapel Hill and dental service costs were made by the Halifax Health Department, Dr. Robert F. Young, county health officer, the Roanoke Woman's Club and the Roanoke Kiwanis Club.

Dean John C. Brauer of the School of Dentistry announced that a bus load of patients will arrive in Chapel Hill to stay for the day every other Tuesday. Dental treatment will be given to both white and Negro students.

Arrangements already have been made with the Laurinburg schools and Health Department, through A. B. Gibson, to have 40 elementary and high school students arrive on alternate Tuesdays, when the Roanoke Rapids-Halifax County students are not scheduled. Plans are underway for the scheduling of additional groups from other counties.

Dean Brauer said, "It is the objective of the School of Dentistry to cooperate in every way possible with health and social service agencies in the rendering of treatment for patients designated or cleared by these agencies."

The students' first visit to the dental clinic permits a complete examination, including x-rays and any emergency treatment, which may be necessary, Dean Brauer explained. "In all instances, it is the plan to follow through on a complete dental treatment plan for every patient, and those requiring additional services after the first appointment will be reappointed for futher visits until all treatment is completed."

Children under 12 were examined and treated in the Children's Clinic, equipped with 10 junior dental chairs which is headed by Dr. William W. Demeritt. Students with at least three years of predental training and two additional years of preclinical training gave the treatment under close supervision of the faculty.

English Prof To Give Talk At Fellowship

Dr. Raymond W. Adams, professor of English at the University, will be principal speaker at a meeting of the Duke University Unitarian Fellowship Sunday night.

The public is invited to hear Dr. Adams speak on "The Well-Rounded Fellowship" at 6:30 in the ballroom of the Woman's College Union at Duke.

Known for his work on Thoreau, Dr. Adams founded the national Thoreau Society and has served as president and in various editorial posts of the organization.

He is now assistant bibliographer of American Literature for the Modern Language Association, secretary-treasurer of the Archeology Society of North Carolina and is a former president and vice-president of the N. C. Teachers of English. He has been a member of the UNC English faculty since 1924.

Russian Cartoon Showing Tonight

"Magic Horse," a Russian color cartoon, will be shown tonight in Memorial Hall at 8 o'clock.

The film is the fourth in a series of art films sponsored by Student Union Activities Board. It is based on a Russian folk tale and the story of a little boy and his tiny horse with magical powers.

"Magic Horse" is open only to those holding series memberships. No tickets will be sold.

Dean Brandis Makes Speech On UN Action

Korea Great Point In World History, Says UNC Prof

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

RALEIGH, Oct. 21—The United Nations "must be strengthened to the point where it can deal with threats to world peace before they reach the stage of large scale military aggression."

This view was expressed here yesterday by Dean Henry Brandis Jr. of the Law School of the University of North Carolina, who addressed approximately 1,200 members of the State College freshman class.

Dean Brandis told the freshmen, "I am fully aware of the fact that there are men in this audience who, if the war continues, will find themselves in the front lines in Korea."

He urged them to particularly consider the fact that to date in Korea the military aggression has been stopped. "It was the communists—not the United Nations—who sought territorial and political aggrandizement," he added.

"Korea is potentially one of the great points in world history," Dean Brandis continued. "If in the future a final appraisal of the Korean war is negative, it will be because of mistakes that we and the other members of the United Nations make in the future—not because of anything we have done up to this time."

"We must also realize," Dean Brandis said, "that while it is currently a necessity, we cannot expect a lasting peace if we rely solely on opposing an aggressive army with a defensive army."

Dr. Cadmus Talks About Med Costs

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

DURHAM, Oct. 22—Dr. Robert A. Cadmus, superintendent of the new University of North Carolina Hospital, was the speaker at today's meeting of the Durham Lions Club.

Reminding his audience that one out of each eight persons will be a hospital patient during the year, Dr. Cadmus devoted much of his talk to hospital finances. Hospital costs seem high, he said, because people forget that they should expect illness and fail to prepare for it.

He compared the cost of hospital care, 88 cents per hour, with other costs of living.

The training of health workers will be an important function of the recently opened Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill, Dr. Cadmus said. This training will include social sciences as well as the biological sciences.

Legislature Candidates Named By UP

University Party nominees for Legislature representing town districts and the women's dormitory district were announced yesterday by party officials.

The nominees are Tom McDonald, Dave Clinard, Steve Trimble, Jack Stilwell and Al Sally from Town Men's District 1; Bod Grimes, Fred Hutchins, Gordon Battle and Toby Haynesworth from Town Men's District 2; Bob Glenn, Charles Yarborough, Jake Roundtree, Carroll Brady, Seymour Bane and Jim Warren from Town Men's District 3; Julia Shields and Gertie Nelson from Town Women's District 1, and Toley Randolph and Jean Williams from Women's Dormitory District 1.

(See LEGISLATURE, Page 4)

Legislators Skeptical Over Appropriations

Bills Will Be Studied Tonight, Include Student Entertainment

Appropriation bills totaling over $1,000 will come before the Legislature tonight at a regular session in Gerrard Hall at 7:15.

A bill to amend the General Elections Laws also will be considered. It consists of minor changes rather than any major revamping of the existing laws. According to legislators, its purpose would be to simplify the present law.

Appropriations to be considered are $600 to the Student Entertainment Committee, $500 to the Carolina Quarterly, $450 to the Carolina Forum and $55 to the Consolidated University Student Council for a page in the Yackety Yack.

Legislators of both parties were skeptical over most of the proposed bills. The concerns was that the bills would take too large a portion of the Legislative's unappropriated $2,500.

Proposal of a bill to correct descrepancies in the General Elections Laws, as pointed out by the Student Council, is expected. The descrepancies gave rise to the controversy over the redistricting bill passed recently and reviewed by the Student Council.

Legislators particularly have cited the bill appropriating funds to the Student Entertainment Committee. This, they said, is an organization that directly serves every student.

How To Vote For Your Top Choice

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

RALEIGH, Oct. 22.—The State Board of Elections Tuesday sent local elections officials instructions on how ballots should be marked and counted in the Nov. 4 general election.

The instructions emphasized that the only correct way to vote for president and vice-president is to mark an "X" in either the Democratic or Republican circle at the top of the Presidential ballot.

There is no way for a voter to choose the presidential candidate of one party and the vice-presidential candidate of another. The Board of Elections said to attempt this "would void that ballot."

North Carolina law also does not allow Democrats who wish to vote for Eisenhower and Nixon to do so without marking their "X" in the Republican circle on the presidential ballot. The Attorney General of Texas recently ruled that if voters there should strike out Stevenson and Sparkman and write in Eisenhower and Nixon on the Democratic side of the ballot, the votes would be counted for Eisenhower and Nixon. However, this cannot be done in North Carolina.

The Board of Elections said the state law allowing write-in votes does not apply to the presidential ballot. "Any write-in on the Presidential ballot voids that ballot as there is no way for it to be counted."

For ballots other than the Presidential ballot the law allows three different ways to mark it:

(1) If the voter wishes to vote his ticket straight, he simply marks his "X" in the circle at the top for the party of his choice. This means he is voting for all the nominees of that party and he does not have to mark each name individually.

(2) If the voter wishes to vote the ticket straight with a couple of exceptions, he can mark his "X" in the circle of one party and then place an "X" beside the names of the nominees of the other party for whom he wishes to vote. This means he is voting for all the nominees of his party except those of the other party that he has marked individually.

(3) If the voter chooses, he can disregard the party circle at the top and place his marks beside the name of each candidate for whom he wishes to vote.

On all ballots except presidential, the voter can "write-in" names of candidates in cases where he does not care to vote for the nominee of his party nor the nominee of the other party. The voter can also write in a name in a race where his party does not have a nominee entered.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — The "milk money" strike of 350,000 soft coal miners appeared almost to be inevitable yesterday. Government and industry leaders saw little chance that United Mine Workers' president John L. Lewis would call off the shutdown. Still haggling with the Wage Stabilization Board for the 40 cents which the board lopped off the $1.90 a-day raise Lewis had negotiated, the UMW president said the board was trying to "filch milk money from (the miners') purse."

★

TOKYO—Frontline soldiers in Korea who have 36 points will be rotated at the end of October, General Mark W. Clark said yesterday. Soldiers elsewhere in the Far East Command will need 38 points for rotation, he added.

★

WASHINGTON—A complaint that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) has misused his franking privileges is being investigated by the Post Office Department. Officials declined to give further details.

★

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson told a Notre Dame University audience here yesterday that it is "high time the leaders of the Republican party . . . start realizing that their opposition to the programs of social justice in America is opposition to the building of our strongest defenses against communism."

★

WITH TRUMAN—A Republican victory in November will "drive labor back to slavery," President Truman told a whistle-stop audience in Wilkesbarre, Pa. yesterday. He told the crowd, including delegations from the coal, steel and garment industries, to "elect people who will stand up for the rights of labor."

★

NEW YORK CITY—Speaking in Harlem yesterday, General Dwight D. Eisenhower made a plea for "a deeply religious faith" in this country "if we are to make our Constitution live." He renewed his promise that "if anyone has a complaint he won't have to go to a third or fourth clerk," but will be able to consult with Eisenhower himself.

★

IN NORTH CAROLINA—California's Gov. Earl Warren stopped in Charlotte yesterday to kick-off a five day Southern tour in behalf of the Republican Party. In Rocky Mount, natives were still talking about the hit Nancy Kefauver, wife of Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver, made Tuesday night when she substituted for Veep-nominee John Sparkman after he was forced to cancel a speaking appearance there due to laryngitis.

Badminton Club To Hold Tourney

A single elimination badminton tournament in two divisions will be held by the Badminton Club in Woollen Gym Monday night.

The open division will be for faculty members and advanced players, and the closed division will be for students only. Deadline for entries in both singles and doubles is Friday. Entries can be made by calling the intramurals office, and times of matches will be posted in The Daily Tar Heel.

Coordination Council Holds Meet Today

The Coordination Council is having its second meeting of the year today at 4 p.m. in the Grail Room. The President of each campus organization is invited to represent his group.

The council found so much to discuss in relation to scheduling and cooperating on programs for the campus that it found it necessary to call today's meeting rather than wait until next month, officials said.

The Coordination Council was established by SUAB on the recommendation of last year's State of the Campus Conference. Ken Penegar, President of SUAB, has said that the council is concerned with the coordination of campus-wide student activities in an effort to bring more students into direct participation in campus activities and at the same time to eliminate conflicts in the scheduling of events and the overlapping of organizational programs.

The Calendar Committee of SUAB will issue a calendar for each month showing the activities reported by the Coordinating Council. Harry Phillips, chairman, invited all groups and individuals to submit activities of general interest to him at the SUAB office, Graham Memorial, or by phoning 5614. Deadline for entries for the November-December calendars is noon Saturday.

Shake A Leg Tonight At 7

Newcomers still will be accepted in the Freshman Dance Class tonight from 7 to 8 in the Men's Gymnasium.

Sponsored by the Freshman Friendship Council and the Student Union Activities Board, the class is open to all students, and coeds are asked to attend. Miss Ruth Price will instruct and all dance steps, rhumbas and tangos included, will be taught.

Dance instruction was begun last year under the sponsorship of the Y after girls at dormitory meetings expressed a desire to learn.

Extension

Seniors yesterday were granted a four hour extension in order that the '53 Yack have as many pictures as possible.

Pictures will be taken between 2 and 6 o'clock this afternoon. Boys should wear light jackets, shirts, and ties. Girls will be draped.

The University Dance Committee, and the German Club will have their pictures taken between 6:30 and 9 o'clock tonight. There will be no senior pictures taken between 6:30 and 9.

Pictures are being taken in the basement of Graham Memorial.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. .....Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. .....Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. .....Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. .....Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. .....Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. .....Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. .....Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. .....Ned Beaver

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Tish Rodman.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Shull, Joyce Jowdy, Judy Taylor.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Biff Roberts

Wages Of Education

Thinking of cutting that 8 o'clock class today?

We don't mean to alarm you by waking you up to the facts this suddenly, but every hour you spend in class is worth $30.

This figure comes from a recent issue of the New York Times. It is based upon the extra income earned by those with a college education. They estimate that the college graduate averages between $5000 and $6000 annually as opposed to approximately $3000 earned by the noncollege man or woman.

Assuming that the average student spends about 2500 hours in class during his four years in college, and assuming that he can look forward to 40 years of employment after his graduation, one arrives at the value of one hour spent in class—approximately $30.

What this campus needs is a good five-cent class, or student compensation policies for the spendthrifts.

Five Minutes More

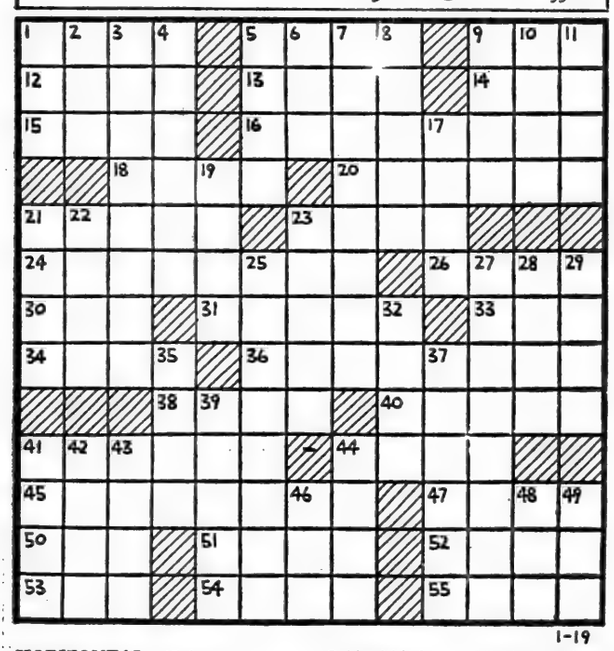
With unaccustomed vitriol we herewith launch our campaign against the handful of instructors who habitually overrun the fifty minutes allotted for a class session. The class is in their hands, they reason, until they see fit to dismiss it. However, the three or four minutes extra they take to bring the lecture to a polished close often means that several students will draw a tardy in the next class, particularly if the two classes are at opposite ends of the campus.

We do not advocate the removal of class bells in favor of starting guns; students should be expected to wait out the completion of a thought sequence.

But, logically, it is no more inconsiderate for a member of the class to come in a few minutes late than for the instructor to lecture over into the period intended for the changing of classes.

V For Veterans' Club

The Vets Club has been a veteran for a long time. Out of action since 1950, the club behind Lenoir Dining Hall has served as a foxhole for spiders and a storage room for furniture to be used in the new commerce buildings.



The club was closed because of lack of member support; the vets moved out and sold their equipment to the University.

Now, the battle cry has been raised by vets who want to start a campaign to drive out the spiders and move back in.

According to Col. F. C. Shepard, veterans adviser, the interest accumulating on the funds left by former vets is being awarded yearly to the Scabbard and Blade for the organization of a University Veterans Association.

With these things in mind, THE DAILY TAR HEEL would like to know whether or not the veterans on campus would like for the club to be opened again, and whether the money in the bank could serve as a starter fund for that purpose. Let us hear from you.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

HORIZONTAL
1. gone by
5. sister of Ares
9. legal science
12. poker stake
13. Finnish poem
14. palm leaf
15. appearance
16. internal
18. olfactory organ
20. effaced
21. mother-of-pearl
23. formerly
24. bearded
26. cicatrix
30. wire measure
31. entertain
33. Anglo-Saxon money
34. otherwise
36. small, speckled herons
38. French coins
40. hurry off
41. assault
44. distress
45. heap together
47. huge
50. prior to
51. type of collar
52. solar disk
53. stitch
54. exploit
55. cozy retreat

VERTICAL
1. knave of clubs
2. blackbird
3. pattern sheets
4. singing voices
5. city in Pennsylvania
6. go swiftly
7. concern
8. foretellers
9. feminine name
10. plant of lily family
11. custody
17. rodents
19. bristle
21. title
22. accessory seed covering
23. cases for small articles
25. walk about
27. crown
28. river in Italy
29. grate
32. feminine name
35. Jacob's brother
37. Armenian town
39. lubricated
41. high cards
42. positive
43. small merganser
44. await adjustment
46. pedal digit
48. distress signal
49. high explosive (abbr.)

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

C	O	M	A		A	S	P	S		F	O	R
A	V	A	S		L	I	R	A		O	N	E
B	A	N	S		P	R	O	V	I	N	C	E
		T	U	B		E	V	E	R	T	E	D
S	P	I	R	E	S		I	D	O
T	A	L	E	N	T	E	D		N	E	B	O
E	L	L		T	I	R	E	D		D	I	G
P	E	A	L		M	I	N	U	T	I	A	E
			E	C	U		T	S	E	T	S	E
M	A	R	S	A	L	A		T	R	I
A	R	I	S	T	A	T	E		C	O	A	T
T	I	N		E	T	O	N		E	N	T	E
S	A	D		R	E	N	D		T	S	I	N

1-19

Average time of solution: 25 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Al House — Young Democrats

"To every action there is a contrary reaction." The typical Republican reaction to the Democratic campaign seems to be vindictive personal atttacks on individuals. When they can find nothing in the records of Adlai Stevenson and John Sparkman, when they cannot dispute the facts, they assail persons who discusses the campaign. McCarthyism is their weapon, clean-up their defense, corruption their charge, but a consumptive thirst for office is their campaign.

Their's is the campaign based on emotion; their's is the campaign in which they ask you to vote for a label, "I like Ike," without thinking about the administration that will come with Ike. They ask you to disregard parties, at least until the election is over, and just vote for a single man. There is no such thing as a President separate and apart from his party. His party nominated him; his party will run the administration and control the patronage. A vote for Eisenhower is a vote for a Republican administration dominated by Robert A. Taft, Joe McCarthy, Bill Jenner and the GOP Old Guard who seem to have won ascendency in the Republican campaign. A vote for Eisenhower is a vote for a Republican platform which does not guarantee to Agriculture 90% of parity, which rejects Roosevelt and the New and Fair Deal, and which would wreck a foreign policy designed to aid the Free World today to prevent an atomic war of tomorrow.

Dwight Eisenhower, the great General who helped execute that foreign policy has now turned against it and succumbed to the Taft-MacArthur view on foreign policy. As Wayne Morse said: "the Eisenhower I supported for the nomination is not the Eisenhower who is dangling and dancing from campaign platforms at the end of political puppet strings being jerked by some of the most evil and reactionary forces in American politics."

General Eisenhower began his campaign to win the nomination as a great "crusade" to win from Taft and the Republican Old Guard. His great "crusade" ended with Taft as they "tinkled coffee cups on Morningside Heights and the great crusade became the great surrender." From that conference of Taft and Eisenhower at the love-seat at Columbia University came the "joint statement" which Taft admitted he dictated. Who has changed; who has won ascendency in the Republican campaign? People who know Taft know that he hasn't changed. Taft, the cunning political craftsman and the Old Guard have control and that is the "dangerous and reactionary" force which Senator Morse fears.

But it is not the record of Taft alone that thinking Americans need to examine. How about the Republican record in Congress? Eighty per cent of the House Republicans voted against the extension of Social Security, 79% voted to cut soil conservation funds, 64% voted to cut flood control funds, 56% voted against the continuation of 90% parity for Agriculture, and 79% to end inflation controls. How about foreign policy? They voted against sending aid to South Korea in 1949, something designed to prevent the war that followed. They voted to send aid once the North Koreans attacked, but now they bitterly criticize our stand against Communism there. They voted against sending any aid at all—military, economic, or technical—to our allies to strengthen themselves against the threat of Communism. And yet they shout so much today about Communism.

The housing shortage at Michigan State college has its compensations. One of the dormitories there is now housing students of both sexes. Oldtime students are saying they "never had it so good."

Amsterdam students want to start their own gas station with the help of the Shell company. The station will be run exclusively by students. Amsterdam already has a student-run movie house, the Criterion, which has an excellent reputation.

"Feel Anything Yet?"

Drew Pearson — The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders put all sorts of pressure on GOP Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon to keep him from bolting to Stevenson. Shortly before Morse issued his statement deserting the Republican ticket, Senator Fred Seaton of Nebraska, who has been close to Morse in the Senate, telephoned him from New York, inviting him to travel on the Eisenhower train. Morse declined.

For more than a month prior to this, however, a succession of Republican leaders, including ex-Governor Stassen of Minnesota, had come to see the Senator from Oregon. One of them dropped in on Morse just after Eisenhower had endorsed Senator Jenner in Indiana.

"The General didn't want to make that endorsement," he explained. "After he saw Jenner he came back to his hotel and said, 'That—I'd much rather have punched him in the nose'."

This made Morse even less enthusiastic.

"That shows him up more than ever as a hypocrite," he exploded. "At the same time he said that, he also stood up and told the American people to vote for Jenner.

"He did the same thing at the surrender of Morningside Heights to Senator Taft."

"That was no surrender," replied the Eisenhower emissary. "That was arranged to save Taft's face."

"What!" exclaimed the Senator from Oregon. "Why Eisenhower wasn't even given the courtesy of being at the press conference where Taft announced the terms of the surrender."

The emissary argued that the General was merely trying to bring unity in the party. He said he had to appease some of the Old Guard and bring about a united front. "But," he continued, "You will be the man he'll call to the White House for consultation after he's elected."

"On the contrary," replied Morse, "If you read that Taft statement issued after the 'surrender,' you'll see that Eisenhower agreed not to discriminate against Taft people, and you know what that means. That means the Taft people will be running the party.

"I happen to have been the first Republican to come out for Eisenhower," Morse continued. "But this is not the Eisenhower I know. I can't be for this Eisenhower. Reach over and punch the cash register: 'No sale'."

First efforts to keep Senator Morse in line occurred prior to Labor Day, when Eisenhower leaders wanted the Oregonian's help to swing the American Federation of Labor over to Eisenhower, or at least keep them from endorsing Stevenson. To this end, Governor Stassen, who wrote the General's speech delivered at the AF of L convention, came down to Washington and spent two and one-half hours with Morse. However, he made no headway.

"This man compromises with his principles," argued the Senator. "He has deserted the liberal wing of the Republican Party in order to get elected. And that's what you did too, Harold."

Stassen passed over this reference to the fact that he was once leader of GOP liberals. He urged that Morse come to New York and sit on the platform with Eisenhower when he addressed the AFL. But Morse said no.

"That would just show that I was giving my blessing to something I didn't agree with," he replied. "It's too late for me to advise you on the General's speech anyway. I've just been invited by Bill Green to answer it."

At this, Stassen nearly jumped out of his chair. After he returned to New York, however, another Eisenhower emissary came to Washington to urge Morse not to differ with Eisenhower in the AFL speech he was to make the following day.

"This is the hardest job I ever had to do," said the emissary.

"I'll make it easy for you," replied Morse. "Go back and tell headquarters that I've agreed not to change a single line of my speech. I had planned to rewrite it and make it ten times tougher, but in view of your visit I won't change it."

The speech as written and later delivered, of course, was much tougher than Eisenhower leaders wanted.

Senator Morse's final decision to bolt the Republican Party was made after Eisenhower toured New Jersey.

"When I read those speeches in New Jersey," Morse explained to friends, "and saw the General's claim that he hadn't deserted his principles, I couldn't stand it any longer. I told my wife I was going to sleep on it, then get up next morning and take myself completely out of the political picture. Next morning I felt the same way I did the night before.

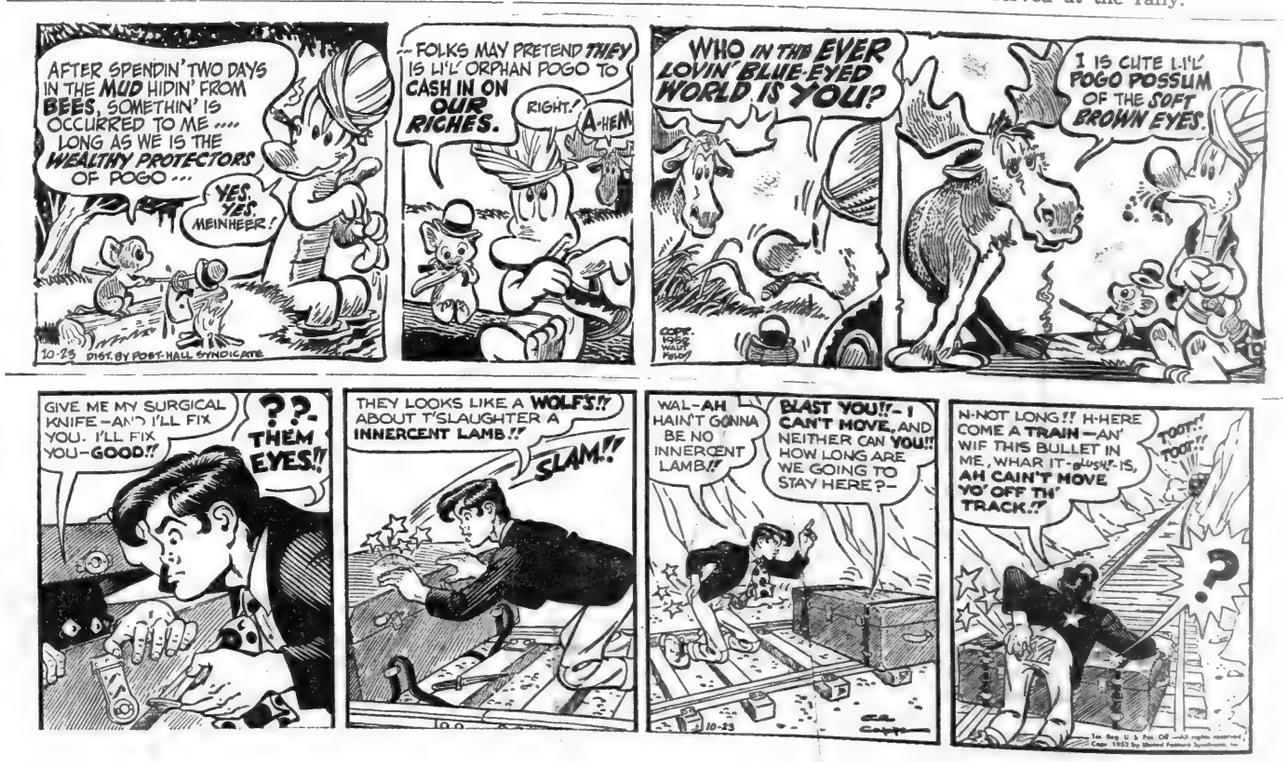
"It's political suicide, I know," concluded Morse, "but I've got to live with myself no matter who's elected."

GOP National Chairman Arthur Summerfield blinked his eyes, then grinned broadly when an employee of the Hotel Washington needled him at a Republican rally:

"Better be careful. You're in enemy territory. This hotel is a stronghold of good Democrats. The help around here is solidly for Stevenson."

"I'll bet one or two drinks would change your minds," countered Summerfield.

The hotel employee, who was about to go off duty, was almost ready to test out Summerfield's theory until he learned that cider was the only beverage being served at the rally.



The You In U.N.

More than a wish, more than a pretty ideal of well meaning philosophers, the United Nations is a going concern. It is six years old. It has not attained permanent world peace, or freed every part of the world from hunger, or accomplished perfect international understanding—not in six years. But in this time it has taken longer steps toward the realization of these aims than any other agency in the history of mankind.

In Palestine, Kashmir, Indonesia, Iran, Syria, Lebanon, Berlin, Greece and Korea—wherever international conflict has threatened the peace of the world the United Nations has explored every method for preventing war: by active mediation; by orders to stop fighting; by persuading disputing nations to negotiate directly and finally, in the case of Korea, by calling upon the armed forces of its member states to combine and halt an aggressor. This great and growing congress of nations has fought flood, famine and sickness. It has sent missions of experts around the globe to provide technical assistance to countries that needed it. It has taken steps to curtail illegal production and distribution of narcotics. It has sent food and relief to distressed children. Its charter provides the best hope for future world-wide unity of nations and people.

The United Nations is now costing each American about sixty cents a year. Do you think it's worth the money? It needs your sixty cents. But, above all else, it needs your faith. Believe in it with all your heart. Work for it, give to it. Nothing will repay you more. The health and progress and peace of the world are the richest dividends you can reap. No other dividends are worth anything without these.

Contributed by Oscar Hammerstein II to the National Citizen's Committee for United Nations Day.

Soccer Team Staves Off Virginia To Win By 3-2

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

On Publicity Directors

IT'S ALWAYS INTERESTING to look over the football brochures of our prospective opponents and see how the sports publicists rate their teams. Some go out on a limb and pick great things for the loyal sons of old Podunk. Others are more truthful, building up the strong points and pointing out the weak. And on the other extreme there are those which flood the pages with tears of remorse for their po' li'l boys who will be lucky to make it off the field after every game.

Notre Dame, whose fine coach Frank Leahy has long been a member of the crying-towel school, has put out a brochure that faces the situation realistically. It's not too full of enthusiasm nor shackled with pessimism. You get a pretty good picture of the fighting Irish by reading it.

To begin with the Irish have 31 lettermen back from last year's team which won seven, lost two, and tied one. Such stars as Jim Mutscheller, Bob Toneff, John Pettibon, Billy Barrett, Johnny Mazur, and Paul Burns are no longer around. Of course, the vast number of lettermen returning can be contributed in part to the use of the platoon system, but still they have 31 to our 21 returning for duty.

Questions and Answers

BEFORE THE SEASON started the Notre Dame question marks were at end, tackle, and quarterback. Coach Leahy has had his quarterbacking problem eased, however, by the work of Ralph Guglielmi. Guglielmi has sparked the Irish to two wins (Texas and Purdue), one narrow loss (Pittsburgh), and a tie (Pennsylvania). He is only a sophomore but his generalship and passing have eased Leahy's situation tremendously.

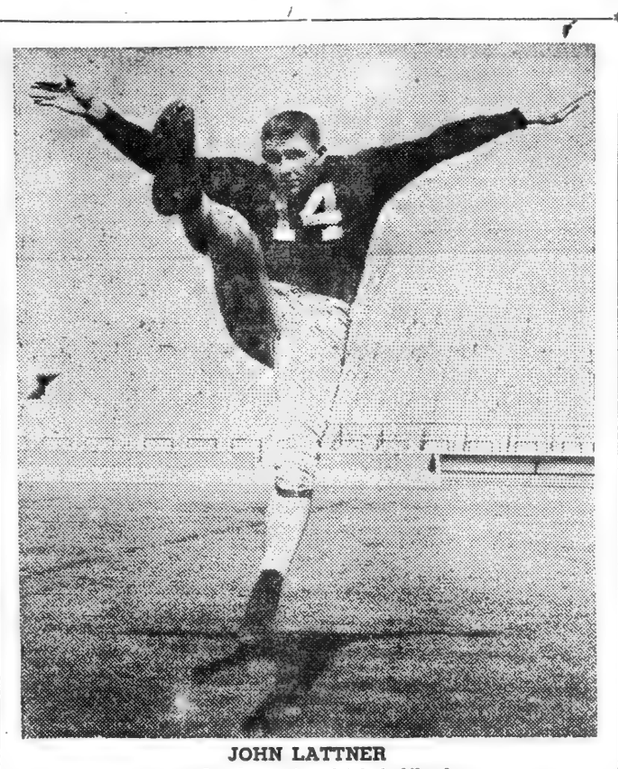
The end problem seemed so acute last spring that Art Hunter, the regular offensive center last year, was switched to the wing post. The greatest loss was that of Jim Mutscheller, a great pass catcher, who caused us so much damage in our games with Notre Dame last year and in 1950. The tackles too, offered a little worry. Leahy had big men to put into the position, but all were green. His answers have come from such behemoths as 212-pound Fred Poehler, 203-pound Joe Bush, another 203-pounder, Bob Kelly, and 208-pound Bob Ready.

The guard positions are pretty well handled with team captain Jack Alessandrini, Tom Seaman, and Virgil Bardash well experienced. With Hunter shifted from center to end the pivot position was left fairly well open. Jim Schrader, on offense, and Dick Szymanski on defense, have turned out to be Leahy's top men there, however.

Backing the Backfield

THE BACKFIELD, with Guglielmi pleasing so well at quarterback, hasn't bothered Leahy too much. Neil Worden, who was last year's high scorer and leading ground gainer, is back at fullback. At right halfback the Irish have one of their most powerful runners in 190-pound Johnny Lattner and also a good reserve in Paul Reynolds. The left half offers more of a problem because of inexperience but Frank Paterra and Joe Heap are both capable runners.

Most of the players are young, so even with 31 lettermen returning the Notre Dame boosters still like to point out that they are building for future years. Admittedly they are but, as has been a pleasant surprise to Leahy and company, they haven't done at all bad this season.



The schedule is one of the toughest in the country and although the Irish have done well thus far the worst is yet to come. After meeting the Tar Heels, they still must face Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iowa, and Southern Cal—hardly a breathing schedule.

Reverse English

NOTRE DAME has come along well in the early stages of the season with their players performing better than expected. The Irish have shown their chlorophylic complex in some of the games, especially in the loss to Pittsburgh and the first half play in the Texas game when they didn't get into Longhorn territory until the third period. But they have also shown that they have what it takes in the way they beat Texas in the second half and almost rallied to take Pitt before bowing, 22-19.

But before the season started the brochure predicted a not-too-bright picture for the Irish. The schedule was too tough and the season was called what "could be the worst of modern times." Because of the Irish's surprising play little has been done to fulfill this prediction. It seems that if it is to be true then the Notre Damers will have to be headed in the other direction—say sometime this Saturday.

Send The Daily Tar Heel Home

JOHN LATTNER
. . . hard-running Irish halfback

Football Team Works Long And Hard In Last Practice

By Tom Peacock

North Carolina's football team worked long and hard yesterday in its last rough practice before meeting powerful Notre Dame at South Bend in one of the country's leading intersectional battles.

The Notre Dame-Carolina contest will be the first game between a midwestern and southern team. The Tar Heels have played Texas, a southwestern school, and Wake Forest has played Baylor so far this year, and both Big Four teams came out on the short end of the score.

Notre Dame is a heavy favorite, but if results of previous years mean anything, the Tar Heels will give the Irish as hard a fight as they have had all year. Notre Dame beat Texas, 14-3, the week after the Longhorns came to Chapel Hill and took Carolina in its opener, 28-7. The Irish have been tied and have lost one this year, however.

Carolina's offense is working much smoother since last week's narrow defeat by Wake Forest. Freshman Marshall Newman has concentrated on line plays, and this week's practice plus last Saturday's game should give the former single wing star the experience he needs at split-T quarterback.

The North Carolina defense continued to work on Notre Dame plays that line coach Jim Camp brought back from a scouting trip. Leading the defense was tackle and last week's game captain, Tom Higgins, who was nominated by a screening board as a candidate for All-America. Higgins is considered by Carolina head coach Carl Snavely as the best man on the field in the Tar Heel-Wake Forest game.

Carolina's pass defense went through a thorough drill in preparation for the excellent passing of Notre Dame's quarterback, Ralph Guglielmi. The defensive secondary had a few lapses last week, allowing the Deacons to get a first down on the Carolina one yard line once, but is expected to be ready for the Irish.

Swimming Practice

Swimming Coach Dick Jamerson has announced that 30 boys reported for the Swimming team meeting yesterday. Practice begins at 3:45 today in Bowman-Gray pool. Anyone who missed the meeting and would like to come out is invited.

Randolph, Russell Star For Carolina

By Paul Chaney

The Carolina soccer squad staved off a fourth quarter rally by the Virginia Cavaliers to take a well-earned 3-2 victory yesterday afternoon on Fetzer Field. The Tar Heels scored once in the second period and twice more in the third stanza, before the visitors from Virginia came up with two tallies in the final quarter.

After a scoreless first period, Carolina got their first marker late in the second stanza. Center forward Gerry Russell, high scorer on last season's eleven, made the score, with the aid of a neat assist by inside left Rennie Randolph.

Shortly after the half Randolph added the second Tar Heel tally. A moment later Rawleigh Tremain racked up a goal to give the local booters what seemed to be a comfortable lead.

Virginia got its first score midway in the fourth period. Nils Trulsson scored it on a penalty boot. With less than five minutes left to play in the game, Trulsson added a second goal to narrow the Tar Heel lead to one point.

Randolph, Tremain, Russell, and Harry Pawlik all played well in the Carolina forward wall. Co-Captain Barry Kalb did some outstanding defensive work from his left fullback spot. Goalie and Co-Captain Ben Tison played well also. He shut the Cavaliers out for the first three periods.

Trulsson was the whole show offensively for the visitors. Until he got hot in the last quarter the Tar Heel defense held the Cavaliers at bay. Goalie McGinley, and fullbacks Blanchard and Vest were outstanding on defense for the losers.

This is the first victory of the season for Coach Al Moore's Tar Heels. They dropped a 1-0 decision to State in the season's opener last week.

This is Virginia's second loss of the season. The Cavaliers were shut out by Duke, 4-0, at Durham last week.

Carolina takes to the road next week. Leaving Chapel Hill Sunday they journey to Virginia to meet Roanoke College on Monday and the Washington and Lee Generals on Tuesday. The Tar Heels return here for a scrimmage against the Cherry Point Marines on Oct. 30.

Virginia		Carolina
McGinley	G	Tison
Vest	LF	Kalb
Hutchinson	RF	Younts
Caskee	CH	Cole
Dudley	RH	Hopkins
Moutinho	OR	Barnes
Mundee	IR	Tremain
Krusen	C	Pawlik
Trulsson	IL	Russell
Lederer	OL	Randolph

Score by Quarters:	1	2	3	4
Virginia	0	0	0	2	2
Carolina	0	1	2	0	3

MURALS

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Tag Football

4:00—Field 2, Steele vs. Alexander-1; Field 3, Everett-1 vs. Mangum-1; Field 4, Beta-2 vs. Chi Phi; Field 5, PiKA vs. Phi Gam-2.

5:00—Field 2, Aycock vs. Emerson; Field 3, Manley-1 vs. Joyner-1; Field 4, Pi Lamb vs. Phi Gam-1; Field 5, KA vs. Phi Delt-2.

Volleyball

4:00—Court 1, DKE-1 vs. TEP-1; Court 2, Graham-1 vs. Old West.

5:00—Court 1, ZBT vs. Delta Psi; Court 2, Stacy-2 vs. Everett-1.

TUESDAY'S RESULTS

Tag Football

Emerson def. Med School-1, 18-0
Chi Psi def. Theta Chi, 33-0
Zetes-2 def. Phi Delt Chi, 21-0
Phi Kap Sig def. ATO, 6-0
Sigma Chi-1 def. TEP, 34-0
Med School-2 def. Everett-2, 1-0
Sigma Nu-1 def. Lamb Chi, 12-0

Like Good Food? Then You'll Certainly Like . . .
MICHAEL'S GRILL

"JOCKEY" On Sale At Town & Campus

We Carry A Large Selection Of Jockey Products
Jack Lipman
"Serving the College Man Since 1924"

Herodotus Q. Verdigris, revered professor of Greek, says

"Be sure Jockey is Sparta your wardrobe!"

"You really Odyssey these wonderful Jockey brand Shorts," puns Dr. Verdigris with almost unbearable good humor. "If Euclid just Troy a pair, you'd find them wonderful for fit and for comfort. Do it today, just for the Hellespont!"

Enjoy the smooth, snug fit that is exclusively Jockey's!

Yes, Jockey brand Shorts are tailored to fit . . . and have four exclusive features to insure extra comfort:

13 separate contoured pieces carefully crafted into one smooth-fitting garment.

Newly-developed heat resistant rubber in waistband outlasts other leading brands by 40%.

No sag or bind around the legs.

Unique Jockey no-gap front opening.

all underwear gives you coverage best only Jockey® gives you full comfort!

Made only by Cooper's® Kenosha, Wisconsin

JANTZEN SWEATERS OF WASHABLE KHARAFLEECE WITH THE LOOK AND FEEL OF COSTLY CASHMERE!

pullover 11.95

Looks so rich, feels so soft, cloudlight, luxuriously warm! Thrives on soap-suds, keeps its vibrant new colors, shrugs off wrinkles! You'll want more than one in silver, navy, golden, camel, sky, and russet. Sizes 36 to 46.

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

TRY IT

See how you can get a Quicker, Closer shave in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry

Sunbeam SHAVEMASTER

JUST THE GIFT FOR CHRISTMAS
Factory Rep. In Our Store
Thurs.—Oct. 23
Friday—Oct. 24

SLOAN DRUG CO.

starring PHYLLIS CALVERT STEWART GRANGER PATRICIA ROC with PETER GLENVILLE JOHN STUART NANCY PRICE REGINALD TATE JEAN KENT
TODAY
ALSO COLOR NOVELTY CARTOON
Carolina

Yes, We Handle JOCKEY Shorts
Berman's Dept. Store

Complete Line Of "Jockey" At THE Sport SHOP

Villagers To Discuss Playground Petition

A meeting of interested residents in Victory Village is scheduled for 6 p.m. today to discuss petitioning the University for playground facilities.

Plans for construction of a nursery and playground area will be discussed. The meeting will be held outside of the village office.

UNC Professor Urges Development Of Play

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 21.—Local and state agencies to foster and develop recreational programs were urged by Dr. Harold D. Meyer, of the University of North Carolina, this week, at the banquet for the seventh annual Industrial Recreation conference meeting at Purdue University.

"Recreation takes its place with religion, education, health, and work as the five essential factors molding individual personality and affording people a more abundant living," Dr. Meyer said.

He compared recreation to a football team and listed the 11 most pertinent needs for the advancement of recreation as interpreting the importance and significance of recreation, planning for immediate and long range guidance, research, trained leaders, a balanced program, effective areas and facilities, a sound financial program. Composing the "backfield" would be a local managing authority, state agencies, a federal office of education, and a strong professional organization.

The conference opened Sunday evening wiwth about 65 industrial representatives from eleven states and Canada in attendance. The opening program was provided by the Purdue Folk-a-Whirlers, the Zouaves, and the Good Fellow Carollers, of the United States Steel Company, Gary.

Dr. Frank C. Hockema, vice-president, welcomed the group to the campus. Monday morning. W. H. Edmund, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, led a panel discussion on "Developing a Balanced Program." Four Purdue graduate students reported on "Research Needs in Employee Recreation."

Tuesday morning there was a panel discussion on "Music Activities" and a "Problems Clinic."

Residence Hostesses

Coeds have late permission to attend "Death of a Salesman" tonight.

What Goes On Here

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club will meet at 6 o'clock tonight in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir. Enrique de Ezcurra of Argentina will speak on the comparison between Argentine and United States college students.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega Pledge Committee will meet in the social room of Joyner dormitory at 10 o'clock tonight.

Square, Folk Dance Club

Square and Folk Dance Club will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Women's Gym.

International Students Tea

A tea for international students will be given by the Women's Missionary Society at the Baptist Church Sunday at 3 p.m. All international students at the University and other interested residents of Chapel Hill are invited.

BSU

Girls from the Woman's College will be entertained by the Baptist Student Union Saturday. A treasure hunt is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Supper will be served at the Baptist Church. All Carolina students are invited.

Student Audit Board

The Student Audit Board will meet Monday at 5 p.m. in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Dance Class

The Y Freshman Friendship Council and Student Union Activities Board dance instruction class will be held at 7 o'clock tonight. Students are reminded that the classes have shifted to the main floor of Woollen Gym so there will be enough room for the whole group.

Elections Board

The Elections Board will meet at 4 p.m. today in one of the Roland Parker Lounges of Graham Memorial. Chairman Jerry Cook asked all members to be present.

Pharmacy Wives

An organizational meeting of pharmacy wives will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Roland Parker 1 in Graham Memorial.

—Legislature—

(Continued from Page 1)

Jimmy Adams and Nancy Ripple were appointed to the Bi-Partisan Selection Board for honor council candidates. Betty Lou Wannamaker was appointed to fill a UP vacancy on the Elections Board.

—Author—

(Continued from Page 1)

"Cases on Equitable Remedies", "State House vs. Pent House—Legal Problems of the R. I. Race Track Row", "The Constitutional Convention that Never Met", "Free Speech in the United States", "Weathering the Panic of '73", "Reissued Notes on Bill and Notes", and "Government and Mass Communications." He was editor of Brannan's Negotiable Instruments Law (fourth edition, 1926).

CLASSIFIEDS

ANNOUNCEMENTS 1

CHARLOTTE OBSERVER — HAVE the "Foremost newspaper of the two Carolinas" delivered directly to your door each morning before seven. For daily and Sunday home delivery, write to: James F. Dinsmore, 135 Mason Farm Road, Chapel Hill, N. C.
(Charge 2x1)

RIDE TO NEW YORK OR VICINITY. Will share all expenses. Phone 5301.
N.C.—Staff

SUBSCRIBE TO THE DAILY TAR Heel. Get your football news $4.00 a year, $1.50 a quarter. See Carolyn Reichard—210 Graham Memorial.
N.C. DTH

LOST

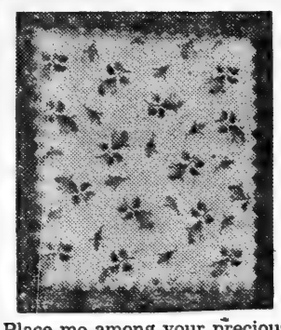
ONE SET OF CAR KEYS IN BROWN leather case. Notify Jimmy Seay, SPE House or phone 2-6071.
Charge

LOST: 1 GREEN LEATHER WALLET —Cornelia Major—need it by Friday—McIver Dorm.
(1-9466-1)

HELP WANTED

MOTHER'S HELPER NEEDED SUNdays—9-6, light duties and baby sitting. Congenial mature male or female. Mrs. Ernest Craige, 9-8731, 417 Whitehead Circle. (1-c9464-2)

FOR SALE



FOR SALE: TUXEDO. EXCELLENT condition. Size, about 36 long. $16. Call 9-6952. (1-9465-2)

Rent Your Formals At . . .

Tuxedo Junction

601 East Trinity Ave. Durham, N. C.

Place me among your precious sweaters and woolens. I banish odors and give a scented freshness to all clothes I come in contact with. Moths don't like me because I am made of HERBS. Ideal for dresser drawers and closets. Try this and it will soon become Campus Talk.

KING SIZE FLOWERED CHINTZ SACHET 8x8
$1.25 ppd. GAY GIFTS
175-5 Ave. N. Y. 10, N. Y.

WEEK-END
House-Cleaning SALE

Each Saturday Through Monday
This Week—Shopworn and Overstock Books in ART, BIOGRAPHY and FICTION—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

for "FOOD That Is Different Drive Out To HONG KONG
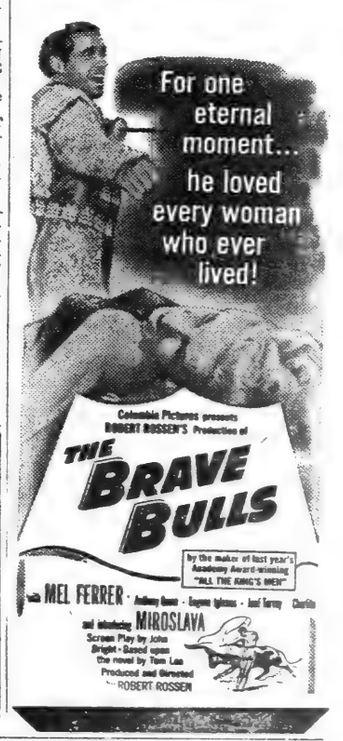
On Durham-Chapel Hill Rd.
Chinese American Food

Flowers For Your Every Occasion
CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP
Just See Us

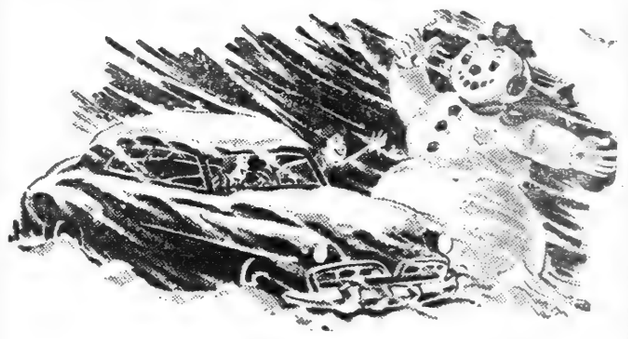
without advertising

you would not know about the many new products available to you!



The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

T-O-D-A-Y



Universal-International presents
GREGORY PECK
ANN BLYTH
in Rex Beach's
The WORLD IN HIS ARMS
COLOR BY Technicolor

Varsity
FRIDAY

Columbia Pictures presents
ROBERT ROSSEN'S Production of
THE BRAVE BULLS
by the maker of last year's Academy Award-winning "ALL THE KING'S MEN" with MEL FERRER
and introducing MIROSLAVA
Screen Play by John Bright • Based upon the novel by Tom Lea
Produced and Directed ROBERT ROSSEN

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR MR. WINTER WITH OUR EXPERT REPAIR

HAZZARD MOTOR COMPANY

Luncheon and Dinner A La Carte

THE PINES

Where Particular People Eat

DELICIOUS MEALS
FOR YOUR DINING PLEASURE
Food At Its Best At All Times

RALEIGH ROAD PHONE 9-5539

HELP US CELEBRATE!

BE THE SPECIAL GUEST OF YOUR DODGE DEALER OF CHAPEL HILL

The All-New, Brand-New '53 Dodge

ON DISPLAY TODAY!

"THE CAR for ACTIVE AMERICANS"

Powered For Action! Styled for Action! Engineered for Action!

- New Red Ram 140-h.p. V-Eight Engine
- New "Center-Balance" Steering
- New Luxury-Lounge Interiors
- New Low, Lithe Styling
- New Stabilizer Suspension
- New-Jet Air-Flow Hood

And Dozens of Other Exciting Features!

CASTON MOTOR COMPANY
Dodge—Plymouth
W. Franklin Phone 9421

U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N.C.

WEATHER

Continued sunny and mild with 72 high today. Yesterday's high, 74; low, 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

HAUSER

Chuck is back. Don't miss Tar Heel at Large, page 2.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 27 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

DWIGHT AND MAMIE EISENHOWER enjoy a breakfast of donuts and coffee with a group of Negro choral singers at the Hotel Theresa in Harlem. The meeting marked the GOP candidate's first visit to Harlem in the current campaign.
—UP Telephoto.

Campus To Honor UN Today

World Banner Will Fly Here Until Sundown

Worldwide Menu Is Scheduled For Banquet In Lenoir

The seventh annual United Nations Day will be celebrated here today with a noon ceremony the most prominent feature on the varied program.

The midday service will take place on South Building steps from 11:45 until 12:05. It will feature a presentation of a book from the Chancellor of the University of Goetingen, Germany, to Carolina's Chancellor Robert B. House. German students Otto Vehrenkamp, Martha Shaefer, Dr. Fritz Hartmann, Eberhard Kindiger, and Helmuth Deicher will present the book.

The UN flag will be presented by costumed students representing the UN member nations. It will be flown for the remainder of the day. The reading, "More Than A Dream" by Oscar Hammerstein II, will conclude the noon program.

Three movies "We The People", "Seeds of Destiny" and "This is the United Nations" will be shown at Gerrard Hall. All three will be shown at 9 and 10 a.m. and 12:15, 1, and 4:30 p. m.

An international supper will be served in Lenoir Hall beginning at 5:45. Trays should be taken through the cafeteria line before 6:45 and to the north dining room. The cost of the international menu is 85c.

The program will include international music and dancing, community singing of folk songs and special entertainment by students from foreign countries. Guests are asked to wear their native dress.

Songs and dances by international students will highlight the Hill Hall program at 8 p. m. Chancellor House will act as master of ceremonies. Paul Green's informal talk, "Nationalism and One World", will climax the evening. Green is a UNESCO representative, and Chapel Hill author and playwright.

Literature and exhibits are on display in the YMCA lobby, the library, Graham Memorial and Lenoir Hall.

'And Lead Us Not Into Temptation'

My Thoughts As A German

By Fritz Hartmann

Today the freee world celebrates the birthday of the United Nations.

Certainly this is not a day of pure joy, and it would be dishonest to conceal that we do celebrate this birthday with some insecure feelings. Even men's birthdays are not always pure joy. There are days of consideration, days of gratefulness with reference to the past, days of sorrow and hope with reference to the future. Therefore we should not give up to enthusiasms—the present situation of the world does not encourage one that way—and enthusiasm dulls the weapon of the intellect as well as the weapon of faith.

But we will need both of them during the coming year of the UN more than the weapons of battlefield. I do say we, and this includes all men who are not content to know delegates in New York, but know that the peace of the world is the consequence of the peace everyone should have within himself, within his family, his community, his country. This is what we should take into consideration today. And we should remember that this peace of the world can only be the realization of the peace which God is willing to make with us every time.

My thoughts as those of a German naturally are influenced by the fate of my country in its recent history. Writing down these thoughts I do it because of my belief that nothing in the world happens without reason, that everything has its sense. The example of the German nation shows the entire meaning of a nation surrendering its power and release it to misuse.

With the institution of the UN, mankind has created an immense concentration of power and possibilities. Nobody can judge whether it was fear or intelligence which made after the last war the idea of a world government so popular. But after seven years, this institution has become a picture of real human existence.

We do not know how this child will develop —for good or bad. Like everything human, it should be given to us to act likewise. We should ask for patience, moderation, and humility for us and for all the men and women who will speak in New York. We should remember at this very day that we cannot keep two records for our thoughts and acts, that we cannot enter at one time into the book of reason, and at another time into the book of faith. It exists only on one account, the account before God. Where there is no peace with God, there is never peace with men. Where there is no relationship to God, there is never a relationship between men.

Never before has the world had such a chance to make peace for all men; never before have men had such power as now in the assembly of the nations. Right or wrong use is in our hands.

Let us not be afraid of this task, but facing this task which is a proof for all mankind, we should remember the sixth petition of the Lord's Prayer: "And lead us not into temptation."

Solons Grant Agencies Only Half Of Funds

Appointments Get Legislative OK; SEC Given $300

By Louis Kraar

The Legislature last night dipped into its reserve till of $2,500 in unappropriated funds and shelled out $577.50—half of what was requested—for student activities.

They took action on:

1. A bill requesting $600 for the Student Entertainment Committee, which was amended to appropriate $300 and passed.

2. A request from the Consolidated University Student Council asking $55 for a page in the Yackety Yack, of which $27.50 was granted for a half page.

3. A bill allocating $450 to the Carolina Forum, which was amended to appropriate $250.

4. A bill for appropriatiing $500 to the Carolina Quarterly, which was withdrawn.

"Unappropriated funds are not just for anyone who asks for them. They are for emergencies," said Wade Matthews (SP-UP) in supporting the amendment to the bill concerning the Student Entertainment Committee.

SEC President Bob Simmons, who spoke for his group, said, "More funds are needed for fully cultural entertainment." He added later, "SEC wants to educate as well as entertain."

Jack Stilwell (UP) received legislative appointment to the Publications Board. Phinn Horton, recently appointed Attorney-General, was officially approved by the Legislature for the post.

The session moved more quickly than previous ones and Parliamentarian Joel Fleishman (SP) cited the group for "an excellent session."

New members sworn in were Mike Brown (UP), Harold White (SP), Skip Nelson (SP), Allan Bader (SP), Baxter Miller (SP) and Jim Hainey (SP). These members were appointed to serve until Fall elections.

Absent legislators were John Ammons (SP), Don Carroll (UP), Fletcher Green (UP), John Ingram (Independent), Blake Ingram (UP), Jim Parlser (UP), Nancy Ripple (UP), Jake Rountree (UP), Ed Stevens (UP), Dot Smith (UP) and Lou Southern (SP).

Fraternities Pledge 338 New Members

Fraternities wound up their fall rush period this year by pledging 338 boys of the more than 1,000 who went through the program.

The pledges' names were released yesterday by Ray Jefferies, assistant to the Dean of Students. They follow:

(Due to space limitations, the first three fraternities, ATO, Beta and Chi Psi were not run today. They will be run tomorrow.)

Chi Phi

J. B. Ashe, Charlotte; Rufus R. Hackney, Durham; John Davies Hallett, Lake Wales, Fla.; Charles B. Hastings, Burlington; Roger Gordon Herbert, Portsmouth, Ohio; Al Hough, Charlotte; Blake Carlyle Hunter, Charlotte; Al Laughinghouse, New Bern; Jack Little, East Point, Ga.; Henry Woodward Middleton, Sunter, S. C.; John Norwood, Greensville, S. C.; John F. Price, Elkin; John W. Ragsdale, Raleigh; Dave Smoot, Wake Forest; Michael Soper, Charlotte; Benedict Valentine, Bronxville, N. Y.; William J. Warwick, Wilmington; James D. Wites, Hampton, Va.; Harvey Smith, Greensboro.

Delta Kappa Epsilon

Frank L. Adams, Edenton; Martin Carstarphen, Tarboro; Thomas Harrison Dunlap, Asheville; Bruce Gustafson, Washington, D. C.; James A. Haggerty, Tarboro; Robert E. Mason, Charlotte; Stephen Owen Jr., Cedarhurst L. I., N. Y.; Tommy Shores Asheville; E. C. Smith, Preston, Cuba; Peter H. Sprague, Bryn Maur, Pa.; Richard Todd, Rye, N. Y., and Zack Waters, Salisbury, Md.

Delta Psi

Norman Riddle, Burlington; Chaloner Schley, Eccleston, Md.; Thomas G. Sphin, Morristown, N. J.; Jack Spooner, Darien, Conn.; Liang Yee Soo, Hong Kong, China Ted Tawes, Philadelphia, Pa.; Hampton Teague, Chapel Hill; John Tice, High Point; Tom Witty, Thomasville and William E. Wood III, Sparhill, N. Y.

Kappa Alpha

Al Bader, Louisville, Ky.; Karl Barkley, Raleigh; Karl Bardin, Jacksonville, Fla.; Bob Bursley, Washington, D. C.; Dick Crouch, Salisbury; Harry Easterling, Bennettsville, S. C.; Earl Garrett, Danville, Va.; T. C. Homesly, Cherryville; Coy Kiser, Charlotte; Bill Le Stourgen, Los Angeles, California; Jerry McBrayer, Reidsville; Bob Peek, Winston-Salem; Phil Roberts, Charleston, S. C.; Al Savitz, Abbeville, S. C.; Scott Spradley, Shelby; Pete Waggoner, Salisbury; Bob Wynn, Greenville, S. C., and Roger W. Argstadt, Charlotte.

Kappa Sigma

Ed Bizzell, Goldsboro; Ed Borden, Goldsboro; Bill Carter, Pinehurst; Hazzard Grindstaff, Asheville; John Lambert, Portsmouth, Ohio; Jim Lewis, Asheville; Bobby Little, Wadesboro; Dick Mason, Gastonia; Johnny Medlin, Benson; Bill Morris, Asheville; Charlie Norwood, Goldsboro; Jimmy Tyler, Kinston; Henry Walker, Kinston; Gaither Walser, Lexington, and Charlie Wickham, Kinston.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Hiram Adolphus Berry, Fayetteville; William Ray Elam, Candor; Alex Richard Granholm, Metuchen, N. J.; Charles Summerell Howard, Charlotte; James Thomas Howard, Charlotte; Thomas Alfred Parnell, Lumberton; Russell Roland, Asheville; Samuel Sanders, Lancaster, Ky.; William Sellars, Burlington; Christopher Staton, Hendersonville, and Frank Williams, Morganton.

Phi Delta Theta

Pete Cahonas, Compost, Ala.; John Cauble, Hickory; Henry Cheny, Florence, Ala.; Jim Diffee, Washington, D. C.; Jim Durham, Durham; Tom Fergerson, Sylva; Will Frye, Hickory; Fred Hooper, Burlington; Bill Joyner, Summit, N. J.; Pete Knight, Tampa, Fla.; Wendy Lig-

(See PLEDGES, page 4)

NEWS IN BRIEF

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Secretary of State Dean Acheson was expected to "open the whole book" on the Korean war before the United Nations yesterday and make some disclosures that will be news to the world, a United States spokesman said. American delegations sources said the secretary would wind up with a resolution urging the General Assembly to approve the armistice terms of the UN Command at Panmunjom and to appeal to the Communists to accept those terms without further delay.

★

EN ROUTE WITH STEVENSON—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said last night in Buffalo that his Republican opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, has been "captured" by a GOP Old Guard intent on blocking all progressive programs. In his bid for the state's 45 electoral votes, Stevenson was given a howling welcome in the upstate city before he doubled back to Ohio for a major speech tonight in Cleveland.

★

WASHINGTON—Soft coal industry leaders feared yesterday that John L. Lewis' final price for settling the nation-wide coal strike may be even higher than the $1.90-a-day increase which was disapproved by the Wage Stabilization Board. The Board ruled last week that $1.50 a day was the most the United Mine Workers could get in straight pay hikes under stabilization rules. But government officials have hinted broadly that Lewis could get the remaining 40 cents "legally" if it was included in the contract in the form of "fringe benefits as his terms for signing a new contract. See picture in column five.

Roberts Off

Sports Editor Biff Roberts leaves with the football team this morning on its flight to South Bend, Ind., where Carolina will meet Notre Dame tomorrow.

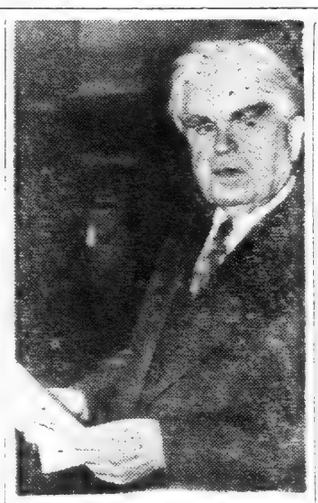
Roberts will file his game story and other color stories to Chapel Hill via special Western Union wire.

Yack Pix Completed; Good Year Foreseen

No more pictures are being taken for the 1953 Yackety Yack.

With almost two-thirds of the student body having had their pictures taken, Editor Hugh Gale said that it looked like a good year for the Yack.

Negro Joins Di Senate On Condition



A Negro law student has been admitted to the Dialectic Senate as one of 33 conditional members.

Major S. High of Zebulon, a first year student in Law School here, is the first Negro to be admitted to this group. He is the second Negro to be admitted to a campus debating society, another having been taken by the Philanthropic Assembly last fall as a conditional member.

The Di released the names of 33 new conditional senators yesterday. They are James Rufus Warren, North Charleston, S. C.; James Reginald Turner, Winston-Salem; Lynn Chandler, Morrisville; Charles Parker Wolf, Chapel Hill; Richard Beverly Webb, Greensboro; David Edward Reid, Asheville; Ben Wilkins West, Asheville; Carl Harris Williams, Charlotte; Michael Soper, Charlotte; Claude Edwin Pope, Dunn; Robert Hayes Moore, Durham.

Terry Chronaki, Durham; Clyde Smith, Jr., Greensboro; David LaFayette Moose, Greensboro; Charles Hill Yarborough, Louisburg; John Rose Faust, Salisbury; Charles Fisk Hyatt, Waynesville; Robert Hunter Tate, Wilmington; Wallace Tate Hanchey, Carolina Beach; Eugene Robert Buyer, East Orange, N. J.; James Dixon Wiles, Hampton, Va.; Fred Jay Lipman, Washington; Stephen

(See DI, page 3)

JOHN L. LEWIS, president of the United Mine Workers, holds a copy of a letter he sent to Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators, indicating that the nation's soft coal miners will not go back to work until they are paid their full $1.90 a day pay raise. The Wage Stabilization Board chopped 40 cents off the negotiated wage increase. See story in News in Brief, column one.
—UP Telephoto.

Halloween Celebration For Children Slated

The Jaycees will sponsor a Halloween celebration for the town's youngster's again this year, a week from tonight.

The affair will include a costume contest, prizes and refreshments and a parade down Franklin St. to be led by the high school band. Last year about 1,800 children attended this celebration.

Coeds Elect New Members To Councils

A complete list of new coed officers was released yesterday. It follows:

Those elected to House Council in Carr Dormitory were Mary Ruth Linville, Betsy Wood, Eleanor Addison, Lib Moore, Mary Lowry and Diana Darley. Emily Cook was elected representative to Woman's Residence Council and Mary Ruth Linville is social chairman.

In McIver those elected to House Council were Mary Jane Bumpous, Claire Frauly, Nancy Burcham, Lib Patterson, Patsy Upchurch and Mary Buscam Cook. The social chairman is Ann Hurtzeg and bulletin board chairman is Ann Scott.

Those elected to House Council in Smith Dormitory were Bernie Hileman, Nancy Horne, Lane Buckly and Jennie Lynn. The social chairman is Nancy Horne.

In the nurses' residence, Gwen Huss was elected president, Bumell Hulken, vice-president, Sara Blaylvely, parliament, Bette Davis, treasurer. Gloria Huss was elected representative to Woman's Residence Council. Those elected to House Council were Mac Hylken, Gwen Hum, Winnie Williams, Sara Blaylvely, Landen Lewis, Jane King, Bette Davis and Jess Carnaway.

Those elected to House Council in Spencer Dormitory are Alice Hicks, Nancy Reese, Barbara Braxton, Phyllis Forrest, Betsy Norwood, University Club, Alice Chapman and Woman's Residence Council, Lois Perry.

Margaret Jonston, Beverly Chalk, Jayne Adams, Evelyn Octtinger, Sarolyn Bonowitz, Susan Hemstreet, Franky Allen, Grace Gordon and Diane Dewey were elected to the House Council of Chi Omega Sorority.

On Pi Beta Phi House Council are Jean Gould, Ann Osborn, and Eunice Saunders.

Shirley Gee, Jo Lewis, Norma Whell and Dot Beals are on the Alpha Gamma Delta House Council.

Alpha Delta Pi House Council members are Gertie Nelson, Jackie Owen, Sue Carter and Rosemary Scovil.

Jackie Anderson, Mary Ellen Jones and Dot Smith compose the Delta Delta Delta House Council.

SEOUL—South Korean infantrymen chopped their way to the crest of Iron Horse Mountain in the central front yesterday while UN fighter-bombers unleashed a large-scale attack on Communist targets deep in North Korea.,

N.C. Registration Closes Tomorrow

Tomorrow is North Carolinians' last chance to register for the coming elections.

To register one must appear personally before the registrar in his home precinct. Registrars will be at the polling place in each precinct all day Saturday.

Students who consider Chapel Hill their residence may register here. The registrars will be at the Town Hall and at the Cole House, which is on the high school grounds, all day tomorrow.

There will still be time to vote by absentee ballot if one is already registered or if he registers Saturday.

UN Schedule

Here is a schedule of activities in today's United Nations Day observance:

11:45—South Building ceremony.

9, 10 a.m., 12:15, 1, and 4:30 p.m.—UN movies in Gerrard Hall.

5:45—International supper at Lenoir Hall.

6:45—Singing, dancing and entertainment in north room of Lenoir.

8 p.m.—Program at Hill Hall, featuring Chancellor House and international students.

All Roads Lead To Exasperation

Dr. Palmatier And Associates Find Patriotism Comes Hard

By Tom Parramore

"Go west, young man," said the adage and the AEC, so Dr. E. D. Palmatier of the Physics Department here did just that.

Not only he, but his wife and daughter, Dr. Langdon Berryman, also of UNC, J. T. Meers and W. G. Johnson, grad students, and Dr. W. W. Brown and family of Duke.

The beckoning finger was not Horace Greeley's, but that of the Atomic Research Commission.

The destination was White Mountain in California and the object was to secure data on the peculiar workings of the cosmic ray. So, late in June, when the weather was right, the group loaded seven and a half tons of equipment on a van and set out.

A week later, the safari reached California and the worst seemed about over. But here the problems began to multiply. To get 10,600 feet up White Mountain turned out to be the catch. Dr. Palmatier's Ford simply couldn't negotiate the steep mountain grades, and a brand new hired truck could pull no more than a ton of the equipment per try.

In desperation, a huge Navy 10-ton, 6-wheeler was secured and the job was done—with the loss of another week.

Melting snow had made what the folks out west call "roads" almost impassable.

Fortunately, the situation on the mountain was ideal for scientific study, but the location in which the group was to stay had no power, no water and no heating arrangement.

A mere 400 feet below the research site was a camp operated by the University of California which supplied power and water. Next catch was that the water couldn't be carried up the trail, but had to be hauled around a winding two-mile "road" which a good jeep could manage with a little luck.

The group lived in trailers and the duties of the scientists were to get their apparatus going and keep it going. They went down the mountain only when necessary and otherwise just "hiked around or went arrow-head hunting", according to Dr. Palmatier.

The group returned here in September.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered, $5 and $2.25 per quarter

Interim Editorial Board ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor BIFF ROBERTS
News Ed. Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. Donald Hoga
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. Ned Beeler

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Bish Rodman

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Shull, Judy Taylor, Joyce Jowdy, Bozy Shugg, Nancy Perryman.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Happy Birthday?

The United Nations is seven years old today. And once again the birthday of the organization for peace will be observed by various salutes—among them, a million-gun blast in Korea.

Trygve Lie said on October 4, 1945, "most of the world's peoples, through their governments, launched the greatest effort in history to work together for lasting peace and for the economic, social, cultural, and humanitarian work, the progress of dependent peoples and the building of a system of world law."

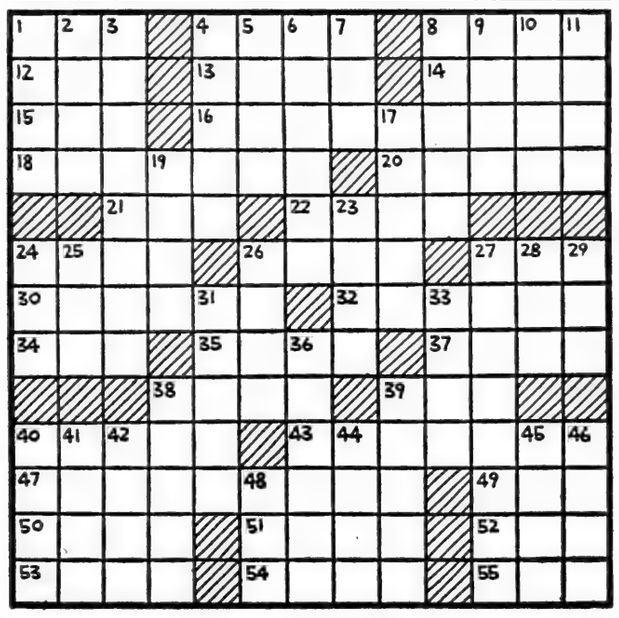
Certainly the agencies of the UN have provided nourishment in several veins to many parts of the world.

The International Children's Emergency Fund has fed millions of starving people. The World Health Organization has prescribed for the medically unaided from Palestine to Korea. The International Labor Organization has given world labor standards a hypodermic, and the Food and Agricultural Organization, the International Refugee Organization, the Postal Union, the World Meteorological Organization, the International Civil Aviation Organization, the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, and the International Monetary Fund make us wonder how the world ever revolved without them.

Martial wars in Greece, Indonesia and Kashmir which might have evolved into much bigger wars have been squelched by the Uniter Nations.

In fact, all of the satellites of this world peace movement seem to be traveling in the right orbit, yet we are still light years from our destination. With a mishandled veto power in the hands of a country which manhandles freedom, UN inability to keep the peace will continue. What good will it do to send a rescue squad to those in need if they are to be annihilated? We need an organization with enough power to veto those who wish to halt the peace drive.

It is our hope that the next UN birthday will see the boys in Korea giving a 21-gun salute on U. S. ground.



The Daily Dartmouth

Absent Votes

The trouble with democracy is that too often it comes in percentages. The latest percentage compiled on a democratic right is 78 per cent. It is arrived at by dividing 48, the number of States, by 37, the number of States that provide absentee ballots for student voters. Eleven other States don't.

The average student has enough intelligence to put an X in a □ or a V on a —. He can probably afford the postage. So, if he's of age,it' s un-American, subversive, and a violation of States' Rights to disenfranchise him because he happens to be a resident of Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, New Jersey, New Mexico, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and New York.

CROSSWORD - - - By Eugene Sheffer

HORIZONTAL
1. undermine
4. Jewish month
8. pierce with pointed weapon
12. note in Guido's scale
13. religious ceremony
14. vocal inflection
15. male offspring
16. concerns
18. hide
20. allays
21. thing, in law
22. slender
24. legal claim
26. solar disk
27. Tibetan gazelle
30. click beetle
32. Belgian seaport
34. street railways (abbr.
35. portion
37. snow vehicle
38. tree trunk
39. call of sheep
40. mountain nymph
43. warded off
47. quells
49. wrath
50. soon
51. mail
52. nothing
53. deprivation
54. insects
55. lamprey

VERTICAL
1. soap frame bar
2. plant of lily family
3. bodily organ
4. sign of zodiac
5. force
6. bear witness
7. female ruff
8. vaporized water
9. throw about
10. poker stake
11. diminutive of Elizabeth
17. checks
19. lease
23. plunder
24. shelter
25. wretched
26. Russian inland sea
27. soluble jellylike substance
28. single unit
29. annex
31. species of lyric poem
33. Russian ruler
36. motive
38. farm buildings
39. outwits
40. spoken
41. city in Nevada
42. epopee
44. waistcoat
45. Great Lake
46. glen
48. health resort

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

Average time of solution: 22 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Lt. Chuck Hauser — Tar Heel At Large

(With some genuine nostalgic tears, we welcome back to this space, old-timer Chuck Hauser, one of the most colorful and most incisive writers ever on The Daily Tar Heel. Now working as an artillery lieutenant with his Uncle Sam at Ft. Bragg, Chuck has consented to knock out a couple of columns a week for us. Good shooting, lieutenant.—Ed.)

LATE: The Jones Sausage airplane at Saturday's game. The bantam B-29 buzzed overhead at exactly 3:20 in the afternoon, which wasn't even during the first half. But maybe the pilot was tipped off that it would be a little slow until the third quarter.

After the half, however, things began to pick up like Marilyn Monroe at a USO dance. The defense had improved 100 per cent over the Texas game, Bo Thorpe made up in enthusiasm what he lacked in technique, and the coed sitting behind me quit spilling whisky and coke down my back.

The one thing marring the afternoon was the rude, crude and unmannerly scum sitting a half dozen seats away who provoked a fight with the gentleman sitting in front of them and then proceeded to try to beat the daylights out of his date as well. There were two of them, for your information, and drowning in Chapel Hill's sewer system would be too good for them. Although, come to think of it, they might feel right at home there.

★

FOR THOSE folks who can remember back to the "old days," meaning when I was in school, The Daily Tar Heel at one time carried two columns called "On the Carolina Front" and "Tar Heel at Large." I wrote the former, and the latter was turned out by a master of the Smith-Corona named Bob Ruark, of the Wilmington Ruarks, another Carolina alumnus.

This journal was the only newspaper in the country which tagged Ruark's daily diffraction "Tar Heel at Large," and I hereby serve notice, Bob, that ol' Indian-giver Hauser is taking back the tag he invented, and putting it to his own use. You see, I'm at large these days, too.

★

I LOVE the story they tell about Adlai Stevenson when a reporter asked him if he was surprised when he got the Democratic nomination. "Was I!" Adlai exclaimed, "I was so surprised I dropped my acceptance speech twice!" . . . And talking about politics, I read where President Truman says Eisenhower's just a babe in the woods, and Taft owns the woods . . . Latest inflation note: A can opener's still five cents.

★

IT LOOKED like Army-Navy recruiting poster number 23D walking down Franklin Street Sunday afternoon. I was in uniform, beside me was Daily Tar Heeler Bev Baylor and on the other side of her was former Sports Editor Billy Carmichael III, now a Navy JG, also in uniform. We stopped in front of the Pharmacy and I said, "Lend me a nickel, Bill, I want to call up a friend." Rising to the occasion and the old punch line, Billy snapped back, "Here's two nickels, Chuck, call both of them."

★

IT WAS Barry Farber who always used to say, at a high point in the party, that he was having more fun than a pigeon with a Norden bombsight . . . And it was Marilyn Monroe who, when asked her opinion of sex, replied, "I've never given it a second thought." The hell with the second, kid, what was the first?

Off Campus

When Don Beran, sports writer for the Drake University Times-Delphic, realized that his football game predictions were anything but dazzling, he turned to William Allen White for consolation: "Doctors bury their mistakes; journalists publish theirs."

"Who Needs Coal?"

Express Yourself

Editor:

I do most solemly protest the charging of Graduate Students $2.00 for the privilege of having their pictures taken for the "Yack." No, its not the fee; its the principle of the thing.

Of course, one might say that the yearbook is an intergraduate affair; then, one only has to look at an issue that has taken up a good deal of space with the faculty and the canine population of Chapel Hill to disprove this assumption.

Name With held by request

Editor:

We want to take it on ourselves to say something that, I am sure, most of the students feel. That is simply thanks, team. You really played yourselves a ball game Saturday. None of you, or us, have anything to be ashamed of. The defense played a great game, and although the offense was not perfect, it showed promise, and was greatly improved over the Texas game.

Clegg Herrin
James Berryhill

John Taylor — REVIEWS

If Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman", the Carolina Playmakers' first production of the new season, is indicative of what is to follow, then there are great things in store for Carolina this year. That is not to say that the performance is perfect—it is far from that—but it is, nevertheless, one of the best productions that this reporter has ever seen here.

It is in essence the story of a man's struggle to stay in his own little dream world of false values, while the outside world relentlessly crushes him with realities much too strong to be fended off by his pitiful delusions of grandeur for himself and for his two mediocre sons. Willy Loman is a "little man", and "Death of a Salesman" is the tragedy not of this one individual, but of the entire, tremendous category of "little men"; that is why it rings so universally true.

The presentation afforded the prize-winning play was a very compelling one. Bill Trotman, at twenty-two, gave a masterful interpretation of the exhausted, sixty-three year old saleman. Never for a moment did you doubt that he was approaching the end of a pitiful and fruitless existence. The main criticism of his characterization was that even in the dream sequences, which cover a span of many years in Willy's life, he remained an old man. This, however, is a minor point in what was on the whole a very effective performance.

Mary Long, in the role of Willy's patient wife Linda, complemented Trotman's portrayal beautifully. Here was a Linda that was warm, understanding, and, in her small way, noble. But here too was a woman made of steel under her mild and meek exterior—a woman who would fight all who dared to destroy the illusions of the man she loved. Her final speech in the requiem at Willy's grave was the highlight of a fine, well-rounded characterization.

Willy's two sons are good foils for each other. Biff, the elder, realizes what he is, whereas Happy, the younger, happy-go-lucky brother believes, as does his father, that some day he will be a leader of men. He is really the tragic figure of the play, for he will be quite obviously follow right in Willy's footsteps. The performances of Jim Pritchett and Don Treat, as Biff and Happy respectively, make this delineation quite clear. Pritchett was much better in the emotional than in the quiet portions. The powerful scene in which he faces Willy with the truth about the both of them was one of the high spots of the evening.

LATE SHOW SATURDAY — SUNDAY — MONDAY

Carolina

M-G-M EXCITEMENT!
TODAY AND SATURDAY

PLUS
TOM AND JERRY CARTOON
SPORTLIGHT—LATEST NEWS

Carolina

Morning Matinee Sat.
Doors Open 9 a.m.
ADULTS
44c
CHILDREN
20c

Carolina

JV's At Burlington Tonight; Harriers Meet Terps Here

Carolina's win-happy Junior Varsity goes up against what will probably be one of its toughest opponets of the season tonight when it takes on the Wake Forest Jayvees in Burlington.

The Tar Heels have won their first two starts of the season, trimming Virginia, 31-14, last Friday and edging out Fort Bragg 7-0 earlier in the season. Carolina is expected to be in good physical condition for the rugged Big Four contest.

Tickets for tonight's Carolina-Wake Forest jayvee game at Burlington can be obtained at Woollen Gym for $1. Tickets at the gate will cost $2.

Quarterback Ernie Liberati paced a comeback for the Tar Babies in the Virginia contest, scoring one touchdown and passing for another as Carolina overcame a 7-6 first quarter deficit. Besides Liberati, backs Flo Worrell, Billy Hawkes, Al Long, and end Van Weatherspoon each gathered in scoring jaunts during the fracas. All in all, the Tar Heel offense compiled 235 yards during the game, the most impressive of the two games played thus far.

Carolina's defense has also come in for its share of praise. It held Virginia to a low rushing total and time after time halted Fort Bragg's strong service team dead in its tracks for no gain.

Kick-off time is slated for 8 p. m.

Carolina's cross country team, with it's season opening delayed for two weeks by the polio ban, will finally get its first chance this afternoon at 1:30 when it meets Maryland at Fetzer Field.

With last year's most consistent runner, Bob Barden, out of the hospital after having the disease but still not ready to run, the Tar Heels are expected to have a tough time against the Terrapins.

Co-captains Bob Webb and Morris Osbourne will lead the Carolina runners against Maryland which has always been noted for its good long distance runners.

The Terps are reported not as strong as usual however, having lost many of their top men by graduation. Gone are such stars as Tyson Creamer and Al Beuhler who carried the Terps to the Southern Conference crown last year.

Fighting Irish Tops At Recovering Fumbles By First Four Opponents

The North Carolina football team, beaten by fumbles last week, will meet one of the most alert, fumble recovering teams in the nation tomorrow when it takes the field against Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana.

The Irish beat powerful Purdue last week by recovering six fumbles, and have recovered 16 out of 22 fumbles made by their opponents this season. The Tar Heels fumbled 12 times last week, losing six.

Notre Dame has always been favored in the past, but it barely squeeked out 14-7 and 12-7 victories over Carolina in the last two years, coming from behind in the final period in both games.

The Tar Heels are in the best physical shape they have been in all season, and spirits are high in the Carolina camp. Halfback Billy Williams will be back with the Tar Heels after missing three weeks because of an ankle injury, and tackle Francis Fredere is also back out after having missed the Wake Forest contest.

The team will leave here by air at 1:30 this afternoon, and reach South Bend in time for a light workout.

Guessing Games

The Student Union Activities Board presents another contest this weekend for those who like to try their hand at selecting Saturday's winning teams.

Entry blanks may be obtained in the main hall of Graham Memorial. Prizes are a carton of cigarettes and two tickets to the Carolina Theatre.

—Di—

(Continued from page 1)

Andrew Moss, Kintersville, Pa.

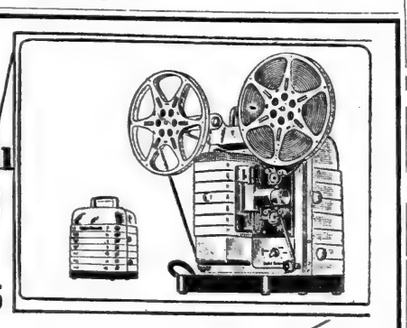
Zack James Waters, Salisbury; David Bruce Garmise, Lawrence, N. Y.; Johnny Green Haves, Hampton, Va.; Roger Gordon Herbert, Portsmouth, Va.; Edward Holder Nelson, Washington; Jay Zimmerman, Jr., New Paltz, N. Y.; Marc Joel Gittleman, Newark, N. J.; Raymond Anthony Burke, Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., and Freeman Augustus Grant, Bethesda, Md.

WEEK-END
House-Cleaning SALE

Each Saturday Through Monday
This Week—Shopworn and Overstock Books in ART, BIOGRAPHY and FICTION—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

SPORT SHIRTS!!



THE TOWN AND CAMPUS has a selection of over 25 different SPORT SHIRT styles in many colors and sizes from 14-14½ to 17-17½.

ALL LONG SLEEVES

Drop by today for YOUR pick of the finest Sport Shirts in town.

THE TOWN AND CAMPUS

THIS is the new Bell & Howell HOME-MOVIE PROJECTOR

Only $99.95
Traditional B&H Quality

THROWS
MORE LIGHT ON THE SCREEN THAN ANY OTHER 8mm PROJECTOR WITH A 500-WATT LAMP!

The new, ultra-modern 221 projector features BRIGHTER PICTURES . . . EASIER OPERATION . . . FULL 30-MINUTE SHOW.

Let us give you a personal demonstration of the unusual features of the 221. Entire projector in attractive, self contained, two-tone carrying case.

Liberal trade-in allowance. Convenient payments arranged.

Foister's Camera Store Inc.

OUT TODAY!

BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS'

SECOND STORY BOOK

A collection of the world's greatest and best-loved stories and poems for children—produced with the color and good taste that made the Better Homes and Gardens First Story Book your favorite on the children's shelf yast year. Price $2.95.

Like all the good new books, it's yours to look through at

The Intimate Bookshop
205 E. Franklin St. Open Evenings

Outwit the weather—in an all-weather Alligator

There's extra economy in the coat that gives you EXTRA UTILITY... keeps you comfortable in bad weather AND smart looking in any weather. Choose NOW the Alligator coat that best meets your needs . . . in type, style and price.

Gold Label
$39.75
Other ALLIGATOR Topcoats
$27.75 to $48.75
Columbia St.

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

BERMAN'S BIRTHDAY ALL 38TH Anniversary

SALE

for the MEN---

Every dress suit and coat reduced. Magazine advertised prices . . .
ONE GROUP 10% off
ONE GROUP 20% off
ONE GROUP $5.00 each

COOPER ARGYLE SOX ..... $1.50 reg.
all nylon argyle sox (irreg.) ..$1.00 sale

CRESCO CORDUROY JACKETS AND SPORT COATS ..... Special $15.38

WINDBREAKERS AND ALL WOOL SPORTCOATS up to 17.50. On sale for $5.00 while they last.

Men's sport shirts and regular shirts, white and colors, reg. and fr. cuff, plain and button down $2.98

FRUIT OF THE LOOM
Shorts and "T" Shirts ..... 69c each
Athletic Shirts ..... 49c each

First Quality Men's Sox .... 3 pr. for $1.00

New Shipment of ARROW SHIRTS with par collar, regulars and fr. cuffs. ARROW dart, gordon, fenway, and dover

MEN'S DRESS SHOES and plain brown oxfords up to $9.95 Sale $7.65
Brown and Black $5.00
Odds and Ends $3.98
Extra Pair $1.00

Crosby Square Shoes $10.00 to 17.95
10% off

Fine Leather Sole Slipper Sox $1.98 and up

Etchinson Hats ..... good $7.50 Fur Felts
On Sale $4.98

for the LADIES--

Fine Feather Hose, 51 & 60 ga. .. $1.00 up

Teen-ster Heavy Combed Sox in white ribbed top at 50c

SPECIAL—Nylon slips, bedjackets, rayon pajamas; slightly irregular $2.98

EXQUISITE FORM AND PERMA-LIFT BRAS FOR YOU TO CHOOSE FROM

SHOES . . . NEW "FLATS," BALLERINAS, (In green, brown, black suede)

QUADRICA and FRUIT OF THE LOOM PRINTS AND SOLIDS 50c

NEW SHIPMENT of
SAMSONITE LUGGAGE, NEW CHRISTMAS WRAPPED

Lay Away Now While Stock Is Complete.

Small Deposit Will Reserve 'Till CHRISTMAS

Bedspreads by Bates and Monument $1.00 off

SHEETS ..... $1.00 and up
Pillow Cases ..... 79c running for 59c
Bed Pillows as low as ..... $1.39 and up
BLANKETS—all kinds and prices $1.48 to $10.95

ON ONE TABLE

F-R-E-E PRIZES ! ! !
1st, 2nd, and 3rd
You do not have to be present to win.
—NOTHING TO BUY —

ON ONE TABLE

DAN RIVER CLOTH SPECIAL
Kitchen Prints, Denim, Draping—up to 46 & 48 inches wide 58c

BERMAN'S DEP'T. STORE
"OPEN ALL DAY WEDNESDAY"

—Pledges—

(Continued from page 1)

on, Durham; Al Long, Washington, D. C.; Bill Marshburn, Greensboro; Sherwood Smith, Jacksonville, Fla.; Phil Thomas, Roxboro; Clawson Williams, Sanford; Tom Williford, Wilson, and Bill Wilson, Durham.

Phi Gamma Delta

Kenneth Anderson, Kinston; Hugh Barwick, Clinton; Bobby Bryan, Goldsboro; Erle Craven, Lexington; Claude Efird, Wilmington; Roy Forbes, Elizabeth City; Sutton Flythe, Fieldale, Va.; Bobby Grubb, Lexington; Bobby Hackler, Washington, D. C., Eric Haste, Edenton; Jimmy Hill, Wilson; John Hoyt, Washington; Melvin Lang, Ayden; Joe Lamb, Elizabeth City; Ted Lynch, Wilmington; Frank McCain, High Point; Marshall Newman, Clinton; Jimmy Prescott, Elizabeth City; Bob Smith, Farmville; Charles Swain, Winston-Salem; Paul Sylvester, Richlands; Bob Tate, Wilmington; Dick Williams, Laurinburg; Frank Warren, Snow Hill and Jack Woods, Danville, Va.

Phi Kappa Sigma

Bob Byrum, Elizabeth City; Hartwell Conklin, Durham; John Dawes, Roxboro; Charles Erdman, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Jack Heard, Charlotte; William Koman, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dick Nixon, Charlotte; Al Norberg, Bayside, N. Y.; Clinton Rogers, Durham; Ronald Sales, Winston-Salem; Jimmy Smith, Durham; Jimmy Sykes, Philadelphia, and Barry Winston, Chapel Hill.

Pi Kappa Alpha

James B. Allen Jr., Troy; Bruce Robert Anderson, High Point; Archie Hill Barksdale, Clinton; Leslie S. Barnes, Columbia; Joseph Everett Beamer Jr., High Point; Dean Bray, Mt. Airy; Duncan G. Coker, Hartsville, S. C.; John Fitzgerald Conner, Greensboro; George Baxter Coston Jr., Asheville; John Hires Dickson, Wilmington; Lenard John Flynn, Asheville; John Campbell Haigh, Fayetteville; Edward Flynn Harris, Charlotte; William J. Isenhour, Hickory; James Kennedy, Jacksonville; Lynn Long, Asheville; Edward W. McCurry Jr., Shelby; John A. Martin, Wilmington; Claude E. Pope, Durham; Haywood G. Simpson, Roxboro; Julian White, Hertford, and James S. Wilkins, Shelby.

Pi Kappa Phi

Bud Amburn, Booneville; Bill Everhart, Lexington; Bob Ferrell, Charlotte; Tommy Gardner, Chapel Hill; Johnny Huggins, Lumberton; Nick Marcopulous, Rye, N. Y.; Rudy Paquette, Elkhart, Indiana; Dewey Pate, Bayboro; Sam Poole, West End; Bill Roberson, Clinton; Bobby Sessoms, Lillington; Winfred Taylor, Lumberton, and Fritz Thurstone, Chapel Hill.

Pi Lambda Phi

Herman S. Fleishman, Fayetteville; Barry Fogel, Augusta, Ga.; Dan Kurtz, Rock Hill, S. C.; Bob Polan, Winston - Salem; Norman Steinberger, Statesville, and Don Warren, Kernersville.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Billy Armfield, Greensboro; Bill MacDonald, Greensboro; Tommy Moore, Winston-Salem; Arthur Newcombe, Charlotte; J. K. Norfleet, Winston-Salem; G. Farrar Parker, Asheville; Eddie Pell, Charlotte; Samuel Reeves, Thomaston, Ga.; Penn Sandridge, Winston-Salem; Broadus Thompson, West Columbia, S. C.; Peter Van Story, Greensboro; Bobby Wellons, Charlotte; Lou Woodbury, Wilmington, and Charles Yarborough, Louisburg.

Sigma Chi

Jim Babb, Charlotte; Henry K. Brannon, Greensboro; Paul David Brown, Greensboro; Micky Chamblee, Greensboro; Bill Ford, Charleston, S. C.; Jim Fountain, Fountain; Sam Hemby, Charlotte; Dick Hensel, Winston - Salem; John Hodgkin, Greensboro; Joe Hudson, Spartanburg, S. C. Freddy Heath, Sumter, S. C.; Tommy James, Elkin; Eric Jonas, Charlotte; Jim Melvin, Greensboro; Galin Moses, Burlington; Tommy Osbourne, Hendersonville; Erwin Potts, Charlotte; Doug Roberts, Charlotte; Rufus Sherill, Hendersonville; Mike Simpson, Charlotte, and John Wescott, Richmond, Va.

Sigma Nu

Lewis Bass, Tarboro; Turner Bass, Tarboro; Pete Brumley, Statesville; Henry Carpenter, Albemarle; Sidney Dixon, Wilson; Buddy Harper, Snow Hill; Lee Holmes, Fayetteville; Bob Kimzey, Brevard; Jim Boyette, Wilson; Jack Markham, Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla.; Jim Marlowe, Walstonburg; Jim McCreedy, Upper Montclair, N. J.; Jack Moore, Wilson; Alex Nichols, Rocky Mount; Ben Phillips, Winston-Salem, and Ray White, Columbus, Ga.

Tau Epsilon Phi

Martin Alpert, Lawrence L. I., N. Y.; Joe Leon Berkoff, Jamaica, N. Y.; Steve Bernard, Oceanside, N. Y. Ira Lewis Davis, Bayonne, N. J.; Gerald Einhorn, Norfolk, Va.; Robert Garfield, Bridgeton, N. J.; David Garnise, Lawrence, N. Y.; Marc Gittleman, Neward, N. J.; Richard Kushensky, Toms River, N. J.; Robert Kushner, Danville, Va.; Fred Lipman, Washington, D. C.; Ben Lubin, New York, N. Y.; Ben Marks, Roanoke Rapids; Larry Marlow, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Burnet Mendolsoln, Charleston, S. C.; Bob Paller, Atlanta, Ga.; Leroy Pearlman, Norfolk, Va.; Steve Ross, East Rockaway, N. Y.; Jerry Roth, Bronx, N. Y.; Steve Schaman, Lumberton; Donald Schneider, East Rockaway, N. Y.; Harold Schwartz, Jacksonville; Elliott Solomon, Greensboro; Calib Steinberg, Raleigh; Stanley Stern, Bradley Beach, N. J.; Alan Swersky, Norfolk, Va., and Marshall Waldman, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Theta Chi

Arden Ashley, Greensboro; Bill Johnston, Fayetteville; Donald Monroe, Seagrove; Al Swann, Pelham; James Taylor, Charlotte, and John M. White, Raleigh.

Zeta Beta Tau

Howard Reiss, Maplewood, N. J.; Jay Cohen, Atlanta, Ga.; Paul Gartzman, Waterberry, Conn.; Jay Goldberg, Augusta, Ga.; James Goldenberg, Lawrence, N. Y.; Edward Holder Nelsen, Washington, D. C.; Allan Resnick, Ithaca, N. Y.; Fred Rosenberg, Troy, Ala. and Louis Kraar, Atlanta, Ga.

Zeta Psi

Charles Aycock, Washington, D. C.; William H. Cozart, Wilson; Charles Pat Eldridge, Raleigh; Ed Loughlin, Henderson; Senbury Thorp, Rocky Mount; Irvin Watkins, Henderson, and Robert Young, Henderson.

CLASSIFIEDS

RIDE WANTED

RIDE TO NEW YORK OR VICINITY. Will share all expenses. Phone 5301. N.C.—Staff

LOST

ONE SET OF CAR KEYS IN BROWN leather case. Notify Jimmy Seay, SPE House or phone 2-6071. Charge

SECOND BIG WEEK! A&P's 93rd ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

A&P Is a Good Place to Get Good Food Buys!

Featuring Many Outstanding Food Values Throughout The Store

Come See At A&P

Facial Tissues 200 Sheets
KLEENEX - - 2 Boxes 29c

Iona Golden Cream Style
CORN - - - 2 No. 303 Cans 25c

Waldorf
TOILET TISSUE 4 Rolls 29c

Peas
GREEN GIANT 2 No. 303 Cans 37c

Iona California Sliced or Halves
PEACHES 2 No. 2½ Cans 49c

Golden Maid
MARGARINE 1-Lb. Pkg. 19c

Special Offer
64 OUR OWN TEA BAGS for the price of 48 only 39¢
You Save the Price of 16 Tea Bags!

Your Best Buy Today! A&P Quality Meats

Super Right Choice Western Beef
Regular Pre-diced Boneless Stew --- Lb. 63c
Regular Fresh Ground Beef --- Lb. 49c
Super Right—Center Cut Pork Chops --- Lb. 65c
Wilson's Corn King Sliced Bacon --- 1-lb. Pkg. 49c
Swift All Meat Premium Franks -- Lb. Pkg. 53c
Neese's Pork Sausage --- Lb. Pkg. 57c

Rib Steak Boneless 7 in. cut, lb. 99c

Morrell Pride Smoked Short Shanked HAMS
Half or Whole—Lb. 59c
Butt Portion—Lb. 55c
Shank Portion—Lb. 49c

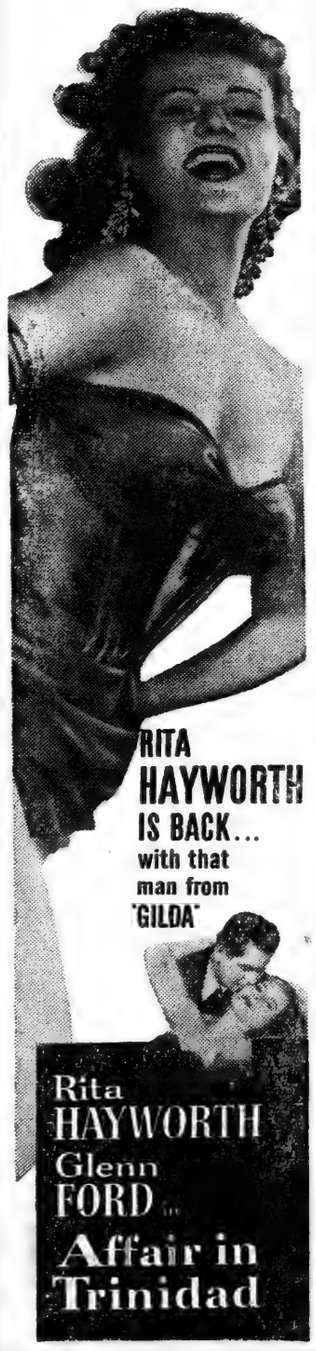
—Libby's Canned Meats—

Corned Beef Hash	16-Oz. Can	37c
Vienna Sausage	½-Size Can	19c
Deviled Ham	¼-Size Can	19c
Corned Beef	12-Oz. Can	49c
Potted Meat	½-Size Can	15c
Tripe	No. 2 Can	27c
Roast Beef	12-Oz. Can	55c

Dreft	Lge. Pkg.	29c	Gt. Pkg.	69c
Cleanser Sunbrite			13-Oz. Pkg.	8c
Lux Toilet Soap	3 Reg. Bars	23c
Lux Toilet Soap	2 Bath Bars	23c
Swan Soap	2 Lge. Bars	27c
Swan Soap	3 Reg. Bars	23c
Surf			Lge. Pkg.	29c
Silverdust	Lge. Pkg.	28c	Gt. Pkg.	55c
Spry	1-Lb. Can	31c	3-Lb. Can	85c
Tuna Fish	Chicken Of The Sea		½-Size Can	33c
Peanut Butter	Peter Pan		12-Oz. Glass	37c

White House
Evaporated Milk — 3 Tall Cans 39c
Ann Page Fancy
Tomato Ketchup — 14-Oz. Bot. 19c
A&P's Own Vegetable Shortening
dexo — 1-Lb. Can 28c — 3-Lb. Can 75c
Mild and Mellow
8 O'Clock Coffee — 1-Lb. Bag 77c
Swift
Jewel Oil — PT. Bot. 29c — QT. Bot. 57c
Jane Parker Cellophane Wrapped
White Bread — 1-Lb. Loaf 14c
Ann Page Blended
Syrup — 24-oz. Bot. 39c

Really Fresh Fruits & Vegetables



Melons 9's-12's
Honey Dew ..... Each 59c
Long Island Snoball
Cauliflower ..... Head 29c
Juicy
Tokay Grapes 3 Lbs. 29c
Firm Ripe
Tomatoes ..... Ctn. 19c
California Bartlett
Pears ..... 2 Lbs. 29c

A&P Super Markets
THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

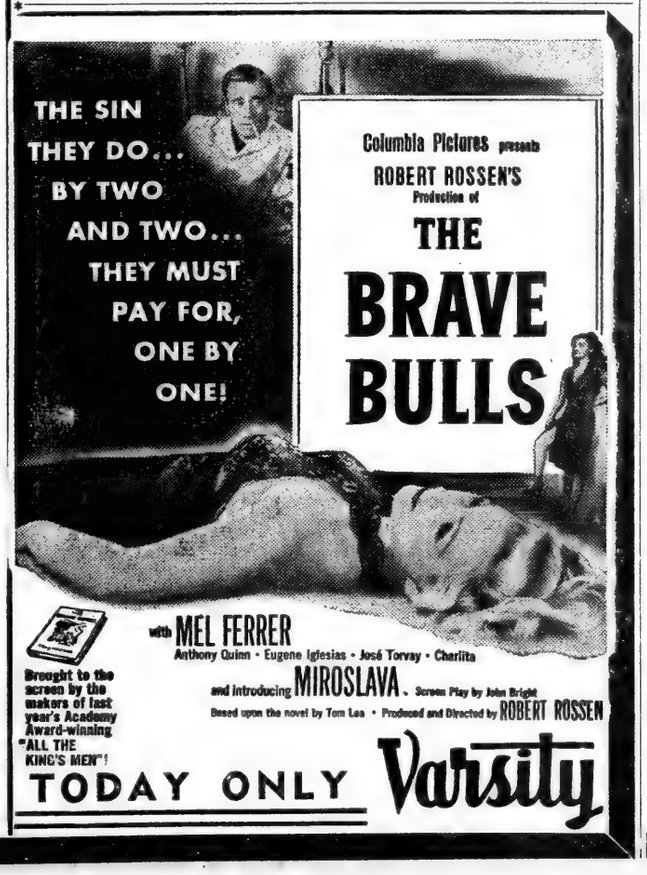
These Prices Effective Thru. Sat. Oct. 25th.

Planters Cocktail Peanuts 8-Oz. Can 35c
Ivory Soap 2 Lge. Bar 27c
Ivory Soap 3 Med. Bars 23c
Oxydol Lge. Pkg. 27c Gt. Pkg. 65c

LATE SHOW T-O-N-I-T-E 11:15

For The Weekend Trip

You Will Need...



A New Shirt... Pajamas
Shoes... Hat... Sox
Suit or Topcoat

YOU HAVE A LARGE VARIETY TO SELECT FROM

at

Jack Lipman's

"Serving the College Man Since 1924"

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER

Sunny and mild today with 75 high. Yesterday's high, 78; low, 40.

The Daily Tar Heel

SOCIAL

Campus society makes the news, see page 4.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 28 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

WIN-HUNGRY TAR HEELS TO FACE IRISH TODAY

NEWS IN BRIEF

AROUND THE NATION—Politically wise, everybody was calling everybody everything. There was no change in anything, just a few re-worked cliches.

★

WASHINGTON — The government is making secret attempts to settle the nationwide soft coal strike and prevent it from spreading to the anthracite fields. However, the United Mine Workers John L. Lewis said only the $1.90-a-day raise will settle the strike. The WSB has lopped 40 cents off the pay raise.

★

SEOUL—Terrier South Koreans and die-hard Chinese grappled in the dim recesses of caves and trenches yesterday for the shell-pocked northern tip of Sniper Ridge on the central Korean front. Twenty miles to the west, South Koreans and Chinese hugged opposite slopes of Iron Horse Mountain while thunderous artillery barrages from both sides churned the crest into a deadly no-man's-land.

★

MANILLA — Typhoon "Trix," the most destructive storm to hit the Philippine Islands in recent years, killed 415 and another 200 were reported missing. Weather experts said a new typhoon was forming 1,600 miles east southeast of the islands in the same area where "Trix" originated.

★

PUSAN—Nine prisoners of war were injured yesterday in a camp near here when they defied orders to form work details. The UN believed the prisoners balked because several of their leaders had been sent to another camp in a "routine transfer."

★

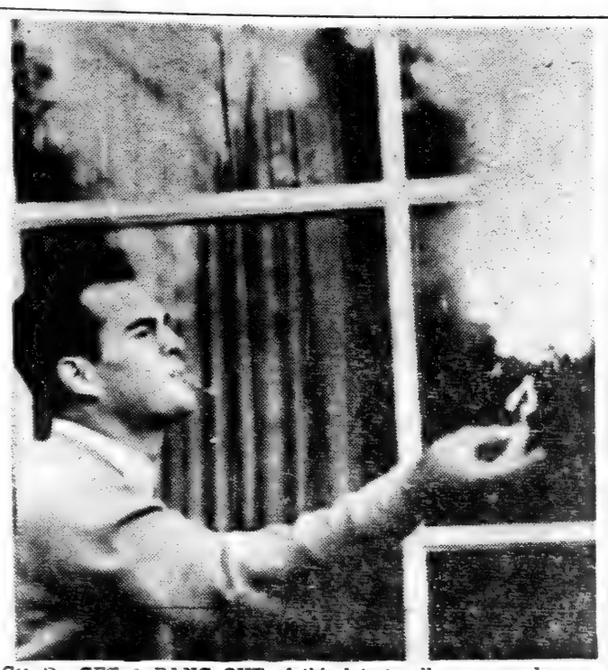
WASHINGTON — The government yesterday reported a drop in the cost of living for the first time in six months. The index declined two-tenths of one per cent between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15.

★

MIAMI—A hurricane packing winds of 165 miles per hour, a drastic jump over previous reports, hit a small island south of Cuba yesterday, heading northward and posing a dangerous threat to the Florida coast. There was a good chance that the main fury of the tropical blow would pass northward off the Florida coast, but bring gale winds to the land.

★

VASALIA, Calif.—Actress Susan Peters, whose fight against paralysis brought a living story of courage to Hollywood, lost her battle yesterday. The attractive 31-year-old star whose spinal cord damaged in a hunting accident seven years ago, died while visiting her brother here. Her death was attributed to complications arising from the 1945 accident.



★

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Some 20 countries joined the United States yesterday in sponsoring a United Nations resolution calling upon Communist China and North Korea to agree to a Korean truce providing for non-forcible repatriation of prisoners. Britian, Canada and most of the Alies in the Korean War aligned themselves with the Amercians. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, originally scheduled to "open the whole book" on the Korean conflict at Thursday's session, made his speech yesterday afternoon. It lasted two hours and 39 minutes.

Interested

Jerry Reece, campus chairman of Red Cross, yesterday called a meeting of all interested to organize Red Cross campus activities, such as bloodmobile, hospital entertainment and the like.

The meeting will be held Monday at 4 p.m. in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial.

COEDS GET A BANG OUT of this latest college caper demonstrated by Herman Hill, Ohio State University junior, whose fiery act puts goldfish swallowing to shame. He takes some lighter fluid in his mouth, lights a match, holding it at arms length, then blows. The result in this newest college fad can easily be seen.—UP Telephoto.

Eastern Students Will Lead Debate

Following a successful Cobb Dormitory discussion, Connor Dormitory yesterday slated its first in a series of YMCA sponsored discussions.

The topic in Connor Monday night at 10 p.m. will be "Kashmir and the Future of the Subcontinent."

T. V. Narayana, student from Madras, India, and Razak Ajam Jee, from Karachi, Pakistan, will serve as resource leaders for the Connor discussions.

Connor and Cobb, together with Graham, Winston, Joyner, and Aycock Dormitories, have all had discussions or are planning to get them underway in the next two weeks.

Any dormitory wishing to take part in this YMCA series is asked to contact Bill C. Brown in order to tie them in with the campus-wide program immediately.

The discussions are planned to bring topics of interest into the various dormitories using subjects selected by the dorm residents and speakers from the University and surrounding communities.

Ohio Prof Will Address Math Meet

Prof. Henry B. Mann of the Department of Mathematics, Ohio State University, will be guest speaker before the Statistics Colloquium of the Department of Mathematical Statistics here next Friday at 4 p.m. and on Saturday at 10 a.m.

He will present the results of his recent research "On the estimation of parameters determining a stochastic process."

"The science of stochastic processes is a comparatively recent and rapidly growing branch of mathematical statistics, which has already found important applications in such diverse fields as insurance, economic times series, and research by physicists in cosmic radiation and random motions of minute particles," explained Dr. Harold Hotelling, head of the Department of Mathematical Statistics here.

All interested in statistical methods are invited to attend. The lectures will be held in room 206 Phillips Hall on the University campus.

Professor Mann was born in Vienna, Austria, in 1905 and received his doctorate from the University of Vienna in 1935. He left Austria as the Nazis entered it in 1938 and came to the United States, where he continued his researches in the theory of numbers.

In this field he succeeded in solving a centuries-old problem and received special recognition for this by the American Mathematical Society.

In 1939 he decided to go into mathematical statistics, and with the help of a grant from the Carnegie Corporation, worked for two years at Columbia University with Dr. Hotelling.

Dr. Mann taught in Barnard College, Columbia University, until he went to Ohio State University. He is the author of a book, "Analysis and Design of Experiments," and of many research articles in mathematical, statistical and economic journals. He has completed a new book on stochastic processes, to be published soon under the auspicies of the National Bureau of Standards. During the war he was engaged in military research for the government.

Nine Named By Horton For Board

Student appointments to the Advisory Committee of the Student Welfare Board were released by Ham Horton, president of the student body, yesterday.

The purpose of the committee is to advise faculty members of the Student Welfare Board on student problems and complaints and suggest solutions to these problems.

The appointed were Jim McLeod, vice-president of sutdent body: Ed Gross, secretary-treasurer; Ted Frankel, chairman of Student Council; Carman Nahm, chairman of Women's Council; Fred Crawford, speaker of the Phi Senate; Jim Maynard, speaker of the Di Senate; Virginia Hall, chairman of Women's Residence Council; Bill Acker, president of IDC, and Jake Froelich, president of IFC.

Horton will serve also on the Advisory Committee.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—The "maniac's marauders," a fast-striking three-man gang of thieves and kidnapers, abducted their 19th victim in three days in the wilds of the Cumberland Mountains.

Union Plans Get Approval Of Authority

"The Administration has gone to bat for the students in proposing a new Student Union to the State Advisory Budget Commission and the University Trustees," Ken Penegar said to members of the Coordination Council Thursday.

Twenty-five of the council members met in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial for their weekly meeting. Discussion centered around proposed plans for a new student union.

Penegar said interested students and the Administration have long seen need for a new, larger and more centrally located student activities center. It was decided that each organization head would retire to his group and encourage discussion of the new student union, its benefits and whether students would be willing to support its maintenance with additional fees.

Support of the new student union will be discussed in the ensuing weeks by the Student Legislature, Dialectic Senate and Philanthropic Assembly. Both student political parties have voiced active concern over the proposed new student union. It is hoped by the council that this support will be forthcoming in the next few weeks.

18 Delegates Selected For SSL Meeting

The selection board for choosing a delegation to represent the University at the State Student Legislature yesterday named 18 delegates and 8 alternates. The assembly will meet in the State Capitol in Raleigh Nov. 20-22.

Approximately 25 North Carolina colleges and universities take part in this inter-racial, mock, state assembly. It is patterned on the bicameral basis of the real legislature. UNC is entitled to three senators and 15 representatives.

The membership of the delegation is Bob Pace, Don Sherry, Ben James, Ken Barton, Ham Horton, Julian Mason, Gene Cook, Joel Fleishman, Dale Ryon, Wade Matthews, Henry Lowet, Charles Yarborough, David Reid, Kathy Holmes, John Faust, Nancy Horne, Al Bader and Lew Southern.

Alternates are Charles Hyatt, Wanda Philpott, Jack Stilwell, Max Ballinger, Jody Levy, Herb Cohn, Dayton Estes and Sol Cherry.

The first meeting of the entire delegation, including all alternates will be Wednesday at 9 o'clock in the Grail Room.

THE UNIVERSITY of Georgia football team boasts the nation's most beautiful sponsor and honorary cheerleader, Miss America, Neva Jane Langley, 19-year-old green-eyed brunette who won Miss Georgia laurels before being crowned Miss America at Atlantic City.—UP Telephoto.

NEIL WORDEN
. . . Irish Fullback

Scientific Art Book Given Group Here

How modern medical and pharmaceutical science can enrich the world of fine arts was shown yesterday when a unique addition was made to the University Art Department collections.

Director John Allcott, head of the Department of Art, was presented a leatherbound volume containing the 1950-51 Lederle Bulletins published by Lederle Laboratories Division of American Cyanimid Company

The scientific journals are colorfully illustrated with what critics term "some of the finest examples of the graphic arts produced in this country."

For a number of years Lederle has won praise from doctors and art authorities alike for the outstanding use of art work in its publication. Color drawings of portions of the human body have been recognized as among the best ever done. The covers feature reproductions of art masterpieces, and there are numerous examples of high quality commercial art.

Two Meetings Slated Here Next Week

The regional meeting of the Association of Public School Systems, of which the University is a member, will hold its second meeting in Chapel Hill Monday and Tuesday.

At the same time representatives of the schools in this area participating in the Citizenship Education Project will begin a meeting to continue through next Friday.

Both organizations will meet in Peabody Building, home of the School of Education, and will work jointly during the two days.

Local sponsor this year for the Citizenship Education Project (CEP) is the Wake County school system. The University is sponsoring the APSS conference.

APSS delegates will register from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Monday. After a brief joint session of the two organizations, APSS enrollees will dismiss to discussion groups from 10:30 to 12:30. Subject of the discussion will be "Changing Character of the Job of the School Board Member."

Leaders will be Dean Guy B. Phillips, Dan Drummond, Wilmer M. Jenkins, and others. The afternoon session will be for superintendents and board members and will be concerned with workshop developments. National APSS representative, Dr. Norton Beach, and Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt of the School of Education will be in charge.

Carolina Team Is Underdog By 19 Points

Struggling UNC Still Attempting To Get 'T' Going

By Biff Roberts
Daily Tar Heel Sports Editor

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 24—Victory-less Carolina, still seeking the solution to the split-T offense, meets inconsistent Notre Dame here tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in one of the nation's top intersectional games of the day.

Already burdened by two defeats and the cancellation of two other games because of polio, the Tar Heels will be ranked 19-point underdogs when they run into the Fighting Irish at Notre Dame Stadium.

With their split-T offense having accounted for only two touchdowns so far this season, the Tar Heels will base their hopes on a strong defensive line—and a prayer that the offensive T will come to life.

The Irish in four games have compiled a two win, one loss, and a tie record. The only basis for comparing the two teams would be Texas, whom the Tar Heels lost to, 28-7, and whom Notre Dame beat, 14-3.

In the two games in which the Irish were favored they were beaten by Pittsburgh, 22-19, and tied by Pennsylvania, 7-7. The other victory came against Purdue where, as was the case in the Texas game, the Irish were underdogs, but came out on top, 26-14.

For the Tar Heels the road has been tougher. After bowing to (See FIGHTING, page 3)

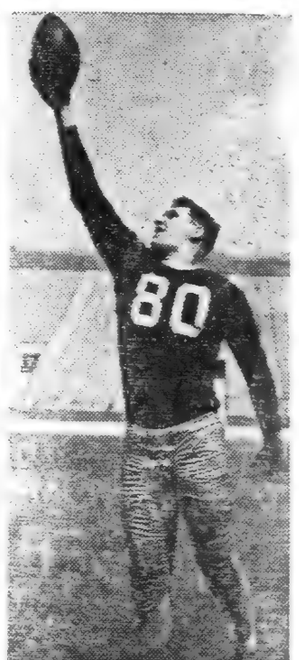
61 Stations Carry Game

University football fans will be able to listen to the Tar Heels' game with Notre Dame today at South Bend over at least 61 radio stations throughout the state and four in South Carolina.

The stations carrying the game on various networks include Raleigh, WPTF, WRAL; Wilson, WVOT, WGPM; Rocky Mount, WCEC; Greensboro, WFMY, WCOG; Winston-Salem, WTOB, WSJS, WAIR; Kinston, WFTC, WELS; Tarboro, WCPS; Morehead City, WMBL; High Point, WMFR, WHPE; New Bern, WHIT; Roanoke Rapids, WCBT; Ahoskie, WRCS; Washington, WRRF; Roxboro, WRXO; Greenville, WGTC; Fayetteville, WFAI, WFNC; Sanford, WWGP; Clinton, WRRZ; Laurinburg, WEWO; Lumberton, WTSB; Wilmington, WGNI; Burlington, WBBB, WFNS; Durham, WTIK; Wadesboro, WADE; Albemarle, WABZ; Lexington, WBUY; Charlotte, WSOC, WIST, and Salisbury, WSAT, WSTP.



Lowenstein Due Monday For Rally

Al Lowenstein, national director of the Students for Stevenson organization, will speak at the "Stevenson for President" rally Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall.

Carolina graduate Lowenstein was president of the National Students' Association in 1950-51. He was the first Carolina student ever to hold this position, which is now filled by another UNC graduate, Richard Murphy.

Lowenstein also worked with former U. S. Senator Frank Graham.

Mayne Albright will give the main address for the rally, sponsored by the Young Democrats Committee.

ART HUNTER
. . . Notre Dame End

Dr. Aycock Lauds Work Of Graham

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

RALEIGH, Oct. 24—The work of Dr. Frank P. Graham as United Nations representative for India and Pakistan during the past 18 months was lauded here last night by Prof. William B. Aycock of the Law School at the University of North Carolina.

Professor Aycock's speech was given at a banquet sponsored by the North Carolina State College YMCA. The speaker was introduced by Tom McDaniel of Charlotte.

Students from both Meredith and State College attended the event, which was held in connection with the observance of "United Nations Week".

Prof. Aycock said the former president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina had made "a fine contribution" toward the settlement of the dispute over the accession of the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

"On October 10, 1952," Professor Aycock said, "Graham was able to report to the Security Council progress on all points in the dispute."

The speaker pointed out, however, that Dr. Graham realizes there are "wide differences between the two parties on the issue of the number of troops to remain on each side of the ceasefire line at the end of the period of demilitarization envisaged by two United Nations Resolutions."

Carolina Grads Get Ensign Rank

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 24—Among the 880 men recently receiving reserve commissions from the Navy's Officer Candidate school in Newport, were five Carolina graduates.

They were Wallace Hugh Mitchell, Fuquay Springs, a '52 graduate in business administration; James Conrad Kilcher, Ashland, Ohio, a '51 graduate in personnel management; John Hardin Council, Boone, a '51 graduate in political science; John William Zarker of Lancaster, Penn., who received his M.A. in classics in '52, and George Dee Smith, Winston-Salem, a '51 graduate in chemistry.

Reception

The student-faculty Committee of the Student Union Activities Board will sponsor a reception tomorrow afternoon from 4 o'clock to 5:30 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The reception is particually for the history and political science departments, but all interested students are invited.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter delivered $8 and $2.25 per quarter

Interim Editorial Board ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. Deenie Schoeppe
Sub Mgr. Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. Ned Beale

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Tish Rodman.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Sull, Judy Taylor, Joyce Jowdy, Bozy Sugg, Nancy Perryman.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Registration Finale

If you don't register today, your vote is as good as dead. This is positively your last chance to make a reservation for the November 4 election. Reserve the right today so that you can be sure of a box.

To all non-registered students who can possibly get home this week end, we urge you to get there by sundown and put your name in the ring. Whatever your belief, whoever you are, whatever your prediction, your vote will not be wasted unless you fail to put an X in the square. Remember that an unmarked ballot is a mark against Democracy.

Express Yourself

On Tuesday night, a discussion on the campaign from A to Z will be sponsored by the Y in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The Y.W.C.A. Campus and Public Affairs Committee will present President Ham Horton, and John Sanders, president of the Young Democrats, in a political parley designed to stimulate student cognizance of campaign issues.

All students are invited to express themselves on the candidates following discussion by the main speakers.

If you are one of those who are still "on the fence," Tuesday night at 7 p.m. is your gateway to decision. We hope all of you who are interested in enlarging your political focus, all who need a chance to let off smoke-filled thoughts, will attend this important campaign confab.

The Smithfield Herald

Graham For Secretary

It is an old story that the United States can win wars, but lose its shirt in diplomacy. In the international field we seem to be without a solid friend. Political forecasters hint that if Eisenhower wins, the new Secretary of State will be either John Foster Dulles or Governor Dewey of New York. Both favor "strong" policies. Foreign nations seem to fear that either one or the other would lead matters close to war.

The Herald's belief is that the next Secretary of State ought to be a nationally known figure, a man whom each nation can trust and a citizen of the highest character. Our nomination would be Frank P. Graham, former president of the University of North Carolina, former United States Senator and most lately the American envoy who has tried to make permanent the peace between India and Pakistan.

Graham has the experience, the seasoning, the firmness, the tact and the knowledge that qualify him for such a post. He has the poise, the grace and charm of a great personality, but being of convenanter blood, he will fight to the end for what he believes is right. The United States in this hour needs exalted men in exalted posts. We hope the next president, be he Democrat or Republican, wil have the great good sense to name Frank P. Graham as Secretary of State.

you would not know about the many new products available to you!

Express Yourself

The Question

Editor:

I would like to say something in regard to Mrs. Gladys Scales' article of the 15th.

First of all, Mrs. Scales, I would like to answer the so-called "rhetorical question" which, as you have stated, would embarrass Mr. Farber. I agree one hundred per cent with Mr. Farber's fight against Communism. I have seen Czechoslovakia in the past five years and I have found it to be anything but a flourishing country which is run by the people. True, it is run by a few people, but they take their orders from the Kremlin.

Secondly, I have had the opportunity of seeing Communism in action and it is my opinion that there isn't a more rotten party anywhere in the world today. The works of the Communists are comparable to those of the Nazis, which I also have had the displeasure of seeing in action.

The people of the United States have the most wonderful nation in the world. I have seen thirteen different countries, but none of them compare to this nation in any way. The people of the U.S. have some of the most cherished possessions in the world among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I certainly hope they are not led astray by a few Communist propagandists who spread nothing but lies. I hope students of this University are not taken in by all the fancy talk and pictures which the Communists spread around.

I am not yet a citizen of the U.S., Mrs. Scales, but I shall become one in December of this year. When I do, I'll have so much more reason to fight Communism and I'll certainly do it as every loyal American should do. I came to the U.S. to escape tyranny and oppression. Well, I have found here everything I could hope for and more. And anything that I can do to stop the Communists from corrupting this University and country I will do very gladly and willingly.

Harry Pawlik

100%

Editor:

Congratulations on your reply to Comrade Gladys Scales. It was 100 per cent American. I hope it will silence the tongues and pens of "Uncle Joe's" nepews and nieces here in Chapel Hill and Carrboro, but I am afraid it will not as these betrayers of the Constitution and Declaration of Independence will not cease their anti-American propaganda and malicious lies until Communism is wiped off the face of the earth. I pray that day is in the near future, and I know that millions of other Americans are praying for the same thing.

In reply to Mrs. Scales' letter, I can say this which comes from the bottom of my heart: May this great country of ours continue to have this government of the people, for the people, and by the people.

Robert Rhodes

Off Campus

Students who are residents of East Berlin but who are going to school in West Berlin will not be allowed to visit their families in the future. The "People's Police" took passports away from a large number of students who went home from West Berlin during vacation.

So, students were even brought into court on the charge of "illegal entry" and sentenced to prison.

Theology students at school in West Berlin were forbidden by the Soviets to attend school any more. At the same time they have not been allowed to enroll in the East Berlin theological seminary.

A friend of our was recently describing in a philosophy paper, the meaning of transmigration of souls. Exhausted with long involved and detailed explanations, she said, "all it really means is to be kind to your web-footed friends, for the duck may be somebody's mother."

Weather Clear, Track Muddy

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Some Republicans have blamed Sen. Cabot Lodge for putting Robert Cutler, the busybody Boston banker, aboard General Eisenhower's train. Cutler is the would-be speech-writer who demanded that other Eisenhower ghost-writers get up at 4 a.m. to write another speech when they had hit their berths only after midnight.

However, Senator Lodge is in no way to blame. The man who put Cutler on the Eisenhower train, believe it or not, is none other than Justice Felix Frankfurter of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Only a few know it, but Frankfurter, who is considered a product of the new deal, and who was elevated by FDR to the highest court in the land, has been flirting with the Republicans. In fact, he's been more than flirting.

Never happy unless he has his finger in politics—despite his position on the Supreme Court—Felix has been an expert in putting his men in key positions in government. And following this pattern, he put his man on the Eisenhower train.

Frankfurter's flirting with Eisenhower came about largely through the fact that two of his key friends—Kenneth Royall, former Secretary of War; and Jack McCloy, former Commissioner to Germany, are now working for Eisenhower.

Note—some Republicans fear that Frankfurter's dabbling in the Eisenhower campaign will boomerang. They recall that he not only testified for Alger Hiss, but was the man who brought Hiss to Washington in the first place.

Ford auto dealers aren't the only ones who have been ordered to ante up for the Republicans. And the Midwest, as recently revealed in this column, isn't the only place where the squeeze is being put on.

Despite what happened in Michigan in 1948 where 18 auto dealers were convicted for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act, word now has been passed down by both Ford and General Motors to Michigan dealers to go all out for Congressman Charles Potter, the GOP candidate against Sen. Blair Moody.

The money collections follow somewhat the same patterns as that put across in earlier years by Arthur Summerfield, now Chairman of the Republican National Committee. This time, however, the political collections are not based on the number of autos sold, but on cash quotas. Bigger dealers are told they must contribute around $1,000. Smaller dealers are given quotas nearer $200. And it is made clear that the number of cars they receive in the future will depend on the gifts they give to the GOP now.

Details of the money raising are left to branch managers. However, John Bugas, right-hand man to Henry Ford II, has been contact man for the branch managers, while Harry Anderson, Vice-President of General Motors, has been doing the same for G.M.

Harlowe Curtice, Executive Vice-President of General Motors, and the man expected to take over the G.M. Presidency, is close to Arthur Summerfield, who in addition to being national chairman is the biggest Chevrolet dealer in the world. Summerfield is sometimes described among Michigan politicians as Curtice's messenger boy, and it was General Motors that switched him from Taft to Ike just before the Chicago Convention.

Politicians are mystified as to why Senator Taft should have let a confidential memo critical of Eisenhower's supporters leak to the press at this time.

The memo was written by Taft to his backers right after he lost the GOP nomination, and in it he blamed his defeat on New York financial interests and the pro-Eisenhower press. The memo was given to a few newspapermen, and states:

"First, it was the power of the New York financial interests and a large number of businessmen subject to New York influence, who had selected General Eisenhower as their candidate at least a year ago.

"Four-fifths of the influential newspapers in the country were opposed to me continuously and vociferously," Taft declared, "and many turned themselves into propaganda sheets for my opponent. . .

"The control of the press enabled the Eisenhower people to do many things which otherwise could not have been done," Taft continued bitterly. "The making of a moral issue out of the Texas case was only possible because every internationalist paper sent special writers to blow up a contest which ordinarily would have been settled fairly by the National Committee and the Credentials Committee."

Taft added that the Eisenhower strategy was to reverse the convention rules and garner enough votes "to steal all the contested delegates." He claimed that he would have been "glad to (withdraw) in favor of some other candidate holding my own general views," but that he could not bow out in favor of Gen. Douglas MacArthur before the first ballot, because this would have been "a surrender of principle and a betrayal of thousands of workers and voters who supported me."

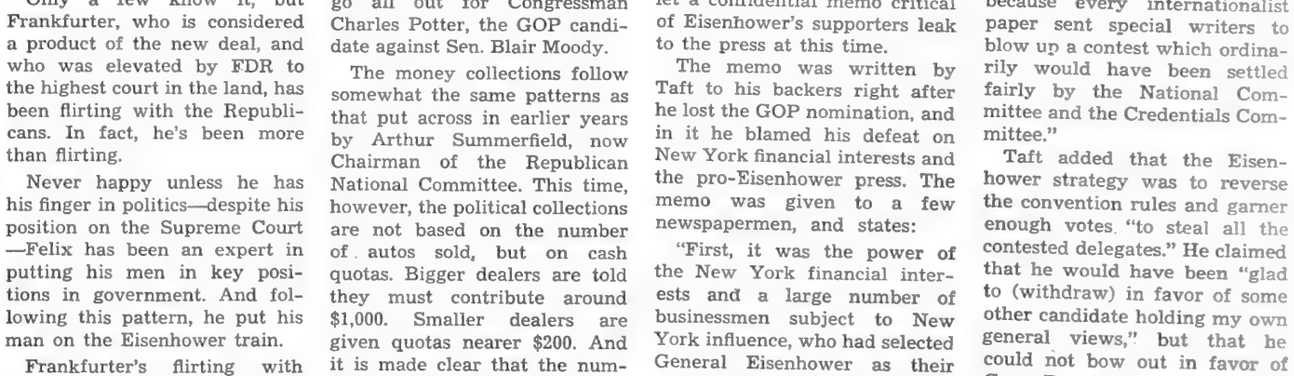
Taft also had a barb for Republican governors.

"Like the editors, he complained, "the majority of Republican governors were sold on Eisenhower support."

Alvaro Mendoza

The You In U.N.

(Alvaro Mendoza is a politicacl science major from Caracas, Venezula.—Ed.)



The celebration of a new anniversary in the life of the United Nations may be regarded as embodying the joining together of nations, which in the face of present-day suspicion and confusion, manifest good will by supporting the noble principle and ends of world organization. Equal rights form the fundamental basis for the development of friendly relations, through a system of international co-operation in solving the problems pertaining to peace and the security of people all around the globe.

Simon Bolivar, one of the great visionary men in the cause of freedom and better relations between nations, declared while in Jamaica in 1815 "Some day we may have the good fortune to convene . . . in an August assembly of representatives of republics, kingdoms, and empires to deliberate on the high interests of peace and war with the nations of the other three quarters of the globe."

Nine years later Bolivar became head of the Peruvian government, and called upon the other American Republics to come to an assembly in order to decide the future relations of these respective nations in carrying out international equality and justice. He forsaw correctly that posterity would long remember this assembly which he called in Panama.

Out of this body representing different nations, a permanent assembly was created to serve as "a council in alleviating the conflicts between these nations, and also to interpret treaties and conciliate differences arising from them."

In reality, the foundation for a new era in international community relations was coming into being. The seed spread, manifesting itself in the Pan American Union, which became an effective organization in 1889. Next year (1953) the Pan American Conference will be held in Caracas, the birthplace of Simon Bolivar. Out of Bolivar's visions have come the League of Nations, and today the United Nations—a great stride towards world peace and co-operation.

Maryland Shuts Out Carolina Cross Country Team

Tar Heels Looking For First Win Against Fighting Irish

Fighting Irish Favored In Fourth Game

(Continued from page 1)

Texas in the season opener, the Carolina team was forced to cancel both the Georgia and N. C. State games. Then when it tried to start the season anew last weekend, Carolina dropped a tight one to Wake Forest on a final-minute field goal, 9-7.

With a host of high-powered backs confronting them the Tar Heels will have to depend on the hard charging defensive line which almost brought them the victory over the Deacons.

The Irish have two powerful runners in fullback Neil Worden and Johnny Lattner. Worden was Notre Dame's top scorer and ground gainer last year and Lattner is rated by many as one of the finest halfbacks in the country. He weighs 190 pounds, heavy for a halfback, but still has the speed required of a good halfback.

The Tar Heels will base their offensive hopes for success on the same backfield which went against Wake Forest last Saturday. That would put freshman Marshall Newman at quarterback, Bob White and Chal Port at halfbacks, and Bud Wallace at fullback.

Port provided the only offensive threat of the Wake Forest game when on the second play of the last half he took a pitchout from Newman and dashed 73 yards for a touchdown.

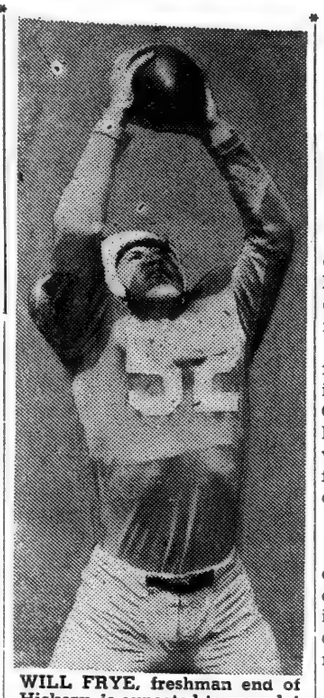
If the Carolina line can contain the Notre Dame backfield, then Coach Frank Leahy will have to depend on the arm of Ralph Guglielmi, a sophomore quarterback whose passing has accounted for one touchdown and led to many others.

Guglielmi has completed 28 out of 61 passes for a 46 per cent average and a total of 279 yards.

The Tar Heels may be in for a hard day of it if they fumble as much as they did in last week's game. Notre Dame has recovered 16 of its opponents 22 fumbles while losing the ball nine times on 20 miscues of its own. The Tar Heels dropped the ball 12 times against Wake Forest alone and lost the ball on six of these occasions.

One definite edge Carolina will have is in the punting department where Wallace ranks second in the nation. The Carolina fullback has averaged 44.5 yards in two games. Lattner does the punting for the Irish and has an average of 36.8 for 26 punts.

Lattner and Worden are tied for the Notre Dame scoring lead having scored three times apiece. The other Irish TD's have been scored by left halfback Joe Heap, with two, Guglielmi, and tackle Joe Bush.



The game will be the fourth in the series for the two teams and the Irish are favored to take their fourth straight win. In the series opener at Yankee Stadium, New York in 1949 the National Champion Irish won, 42-6, but the score was only 13-6 with 20 minutes left in the game.

The past two games have been closer with early fumbles beating the Tar Heels, 14-7, here at Notre Dame in 1950 and the Fighting Irish winning again last year at Chapel Hill, 12-7.

The Tar Heels had a morning workout in Chapel Hill today before flying from the Raleigh-Durham Airport. They arrived at South Bend late this afternoon but are staying at Elkhart, Ind., 20 miles outside of Notre Dame.

The team will fly back immediately after the game and will arrive in Chapel Hill late tomorrow night.

NOTRE DAME		N. Carolina
Name	Pos.	Name
Don Penza	LE	Dick Kocornik
Tom Murphy	LT	Steve Opitz
Tom Seaman	LG	George Foti
Jim Schrader	C	Dave Mullens
Jack Alessandrini	RG	Ed Patterson
Joe Bush	RT	Ken Yarborough
Bob O'Nell	RE	Tom Adler
Tom Carey	QB	M. Newman
Joe Heap	LH	Robert White
John Lattner	RH	Larry Parker
Neil Worden	FB	Bud Wallace

WILL FRYE, freshman end of Hickory, is expected to see a lot of action today in Carolina's contest with Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Frye has turned in outstanding performances in the Tar Heels' two previous games.

Groat Plays With Stars

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

CHICAGO, Oct. 24—A front line trio averaging 6 feet 9 inches in height will be the collegian's hope tonight in stopping George Mikan in the 13th annual all-star basketball classic.

The game, sponsored by the Chicago Herald-American, is expected to attract a capacity crowd of 18,000 fans at Chicago Stadium.

The hand-picked college squad tangles with the professional championship Minneapolis Lakers led by the giant Mikan.

The pros and collegians have each gained six victories to deadlock the series but the campus heroes have been unable to win for the last three years.

Phog Allen, veteran University of Kansas coach and head man of the all-stars, will start a front line of Mark Workman of West Virginia and Don Meineke of Dayton at forwards, and Ray Felix of Long Island U. at center.

Notre Dame's Leroy Leslie and Dick Groat, the Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop who scored 2,087 points in three years at Duke, are probable starters at guard.

Mantle Takes Third Physical Exam

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

FORT SILL, Okla., Oct. 24—Army doctors completed a third medical examination of Mickey Mantle today and then announced that any report on the New York Yankee baseball star's fitness for military service must come later from the Oklahoma City Recruiting Office.

Mantle prepared to leave for his home in Commerce, Okla., immediately after the examination was completed today.

Officials at the Oklahoma City Recruiting Office said it probably will be two days before the medical results will be announced.

Mantle, taking his third physical in less than two years, arrived here before noon accompanied by two members of the Recruiting Office.

Tibbetts Wins On New Course

By Tom Peacock

The University of Maryland dedicated the new North Carolina cross country course yesterday by taking a clean sweep in its match with the Tar Heels.

John Tibbetts took the lead from the start and held it, finishing 200 yards in front of Ben Godo and Ray Horsley of Maryland who tied for second. The whole Terp team, eight of them, finished before a Tar Heel crossed the final line.

First Winning Time

Tibbetts ran the three and seven tenths mile course in the excellent time of 19:53. Although it is the first winning time record on the track, it may stand as a record for a good while.

Morris Osborne ran ninth and was the first Carolinian to finish, running the course in 21:49. Behind Osborne for Carolina was Bob Webb and Bill Higgins, Webb crossing the line at 22:02 and Higgins one second behind him.

Swafford Fourth

Fourth place went to Joe Swafford of Maryland, Ken Thornton and Don Goldstein tied for fifth. Larry Faass was seventh, and the last Terp in was Gerald McGhee who was seven seconds in front of the ninth place Osborne.

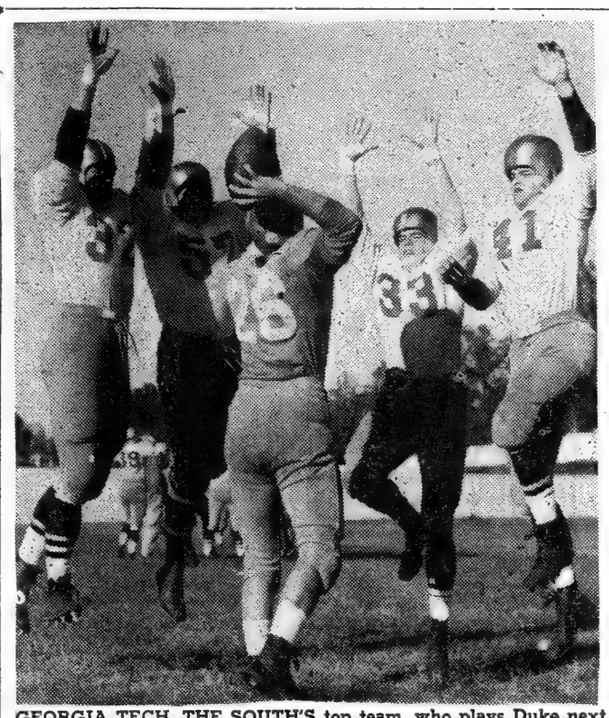
Al Marx of Carolina took twelth, Boyd Newman was seven seconds behind him in thirteenth place, and Ed Vogel and McGee brought up the rear for the Tar Heels.

Carolina coach Dale Ranson was not completely discouraged with the showing his charges made. "We're behind in practice and we're out of shape," Ranson said. "Most people realize the situation we are in. We got beat by a good team, in good shape. You can't run four miles when you are out of condition."

Kehoe Pleased

Maryland coach Jim Kehoe was highly pleased with the agressive race his team had run. Kehoe said "Carolina did very well under the circumstances. It hurts a team to lose all that practice, and then the loss of Bostian and Barden really set it back."

Kehoe wasn't optomistic about the Conference championship, that the Terps lost to State last year. "After all, we lost our top three boys, while State has about the same team that beat us last year," remarked Kehoe.



The summaries:

1—Tibbetts (M), 19:53; 2—Good (M), Horsley (M), 20:23 (tie); 4—Swafford (M), 20:36; 5—Thornton (M), Goldstein (M), 20:59 (tie); 7—Faass (M), 21:25; 8—McGhee (M), 21:42; 9—Osborne (UNC), 21:49; 10—Webb (UNC), 22:02; 11—Higgins (UNC), 22:03; 12—Marx (UNC), 22:23; 13 — Newman (UNC), 23:30; 14—Vogel (UNC), 23:32; 15—McGee (UNC), 24:13.

Destroyed

Sid Gordon and Ferris Fain have destroyed the myth that night baseball is advantageous to the pitcher by leading their leagues in night hitting with a much higher average than in regular ball. Gordon hit .331 at night, while Fain racked up 369.

Over 40 NU member countries and four non-member countries have offered assistance in the Korean War.

GEORGIA TECH, THE SOUTH'S top team, who plays Duke next week in Durham, prepares for Vanderbilt and their ace passer, Bill Krietemeyer. Here, Tech's guards and tackles practice pass defense. Left to right they are Bob Sherman, Roger Frey, Orville Vereen, and Bill Thaden. Bucky Shamburger plays Krietemeyer role.—UP Telephoto.

Duke Meets Virginia Today In The South's Top Contest

With Carolina in South Bend this weekend for an intersectional game with Notre Dame, the interest of most Tar Heel football fans will be centered on what will probably be the best game in Dixie this weekend when the unbeaten forces of Virginia and Duke meet in Charlottesville today.

The outcome of this one is definitely a toss-up with most of the experts giving Duke a slight six-point edge.

Virginia has one of the best teams in its history and if it can get by this one, will probably have an undefeated season and the reward that usually awaits unbeaten teams, a bowl bid.

Duke is also bidding to finish the season unscathed but after today's big test they will have what figures to be their toughest game when they meet the also unbeaten forces of Georgia Tech next week.

The Ramblin' Recks will make the trip to Durham with the sole purpose in mind of making wrecks of the Blue Devils and they will probably be favored to do so.

Tech has many returning lettermen from last year's Orange Bowl championship team and have ripped through four opponents so far this season. The closest contest they have yet to engage in this season was a 14-0 win over Tulane. Last week they mauled hapless Auburn 33-0.

The Blue Devils, on the other hand, have one of their best teams in recent years and will get a good chance today to prove just how good it really is.

So far this season Duke has wins over two important teams. They beat Southern Methodist 14-7 by scoring a touchdown on the last play of the game, and they marched up and down the field against a good Tennessee team but could only win by a 7-0 score.

The other Duke victories were just track meets as they ran over Washington and Lee, South Carolina, and the very pitiful representatives from N. C. State, all by big margins.

Virginia has not had a real test of their strength yet with Vanderbilt being probably the toughest team they have played to date. Vanderbilt, along with George Washington, VMI, and VPI fell before the speed of the Cavalier backs and Virginia's very strong defense which at the present time is leading the nation.

The game will feature a duel between two sophomores, who will be running their respective teams from the split-T quarterback position.

For Virginia it will be Mel Roach from Richmond who was out of the first three games with a shoulder injury but who starred in last week's rout of VMI.

He will be leading an explosive type of offense which scored four touchdowns in the last quarter last week after going into that quarter on the short end of a 7-6 score. It was the same Roach who last year engineered four touchdowns in the final quarter against Duke in exactly the same situation.

At quarterback for Duke it will be Worth (A Million) Lutz of Durham who will carry most of their hopes for victory. Lutz has been outstanding so far in his sophomore year both as a runner and passer.

Duke also has Jerry Barger, another sophomore, who ran Duke's offense last season as a freshman. He lost his starting position to Lutz when he was hurt at the beginning of the season, but should anything happen to Lutz, Barger is a very capable replacement.

They are selling standing-room tickets for this one and the crowd will probably be the largest ever to see a football contest in the state of Virginia.

Last year when Virginia humbled Duke 34-7 it was homecoming day in Durham. Ironically, today is homecoming day in Charlottesville and no doubt the Blue Devils will have this in mind.

Looking elsewhere in the Big Four this weekend we see that Wake Forest, last week's conquerors of Carolina, have an off day.

N. C. State, after last week's massacre at the hands of Duke, will be more in their class when they play the forces from Florida State University of Tallahassee. FSU is building in an attempt to become another of the South's football powers, but they should still be in State's class tomorrow.

Four Teams Get Wins, Two Forfeits In Games

Four shutouts and two forfiets marked Thursdays intramural tag football play, the last day of play this week.

At 4 o'clock, the Chi Phi's blanked Beta-2, 13-0, behind the steller play of George Marshall Crowell. Everette dorm forfieted to Mangum.

In the five o'clock games, Kappa Alpha, under the direction of Randy Watson, shut out the Phi Delts, 14-0. Watson and Coy Kaiser scored, and Cheek and Griffen added the extra points.

The Phi Gams eeked out a 6-0 win over Pi Lambda Phi, with Pondon giving the Phi Gams the only score. Manley romped over Joyner to score the most points for the day, winning 21-0. Byrd, Moody, and Roberson all scored, while Malpass, Carpenter and Cranford added extra points.

Jayvees Whip Deacs In Last Half, 13-7

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

BURLINGTON, Oct. 24—Carolina's Jayvees came from behind after the half to whip Wake Forest's junior varsity, 13-7, here tonight.

Carolina trailed 7-6 at halftime but a Ernie Liberatti to Van Weatherspoon pass in the fourth quarter took the game for UNC. Charlie Poindexter kicked the extra point.

Carolina's first touchdown was scored in the second quarter when Billy Johnson went over from the 10 yard line.

COMPLETE LINE of MANHATTAN
MEN'S FURNISHINGS

JACK LIPMAN'S
"Serving the College Man Since 1924"

FOR A LONG TIME we've suspected that today's college man would no longer "gladly die for dear old Siwash." Neither does he play ukuleles and sing "Alma Mater" at the drop of a beanie.

We believe, too, that when it comes to sportshirts the college man is no different from his older brother in town. He doesn't go for fads and screwball styles. But he does go for smartness, good workmanship . . . and above all, value.

That is why we believe you'll like the new selection of sportshirts by Manhattan®. For they have all these qualities, plus a distinctive air that sets them above the ordinary shirt.

So ask for Manhattan . . . the college man's sportshirt.

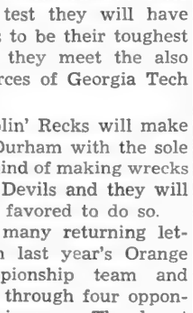
Manhattan®

Shirts, neckwear, underwear, pajamas, sportshirts, beachwear and handkerchiefs



LATE SHOW TONIGHT—SUNDAY—MONDAY

Carolina

HERE IT IS!

"A WILD RIDE INTO A WORLD OF UPROARIOUS FANTASY!" —Sat. Review of Lit.

ALEC GUINNESS in "The Lavender Hill Mob"

with STANLEY HOLLOWAY

A. J. Arthur Rank Org. Presentation

NEXT TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY NIGHTS

PARKVUE DRIVE IN THEATRE
Greensboro Road
5 Minutes from Chapel Hill

UP FROM THE BENCH or you can't buck that line unless you break into the line-up

A third-string quarterback named Witherspoon had a Laudable Ambition. He wanted to be first-string quarterback. Particularly to start the opening game under the Admiring Eyes of his Number One Girl. Unfortunately the coach was a Hard Man to Convince. So our hero, undismayed, uncorked a Master Plan.

Two weeks before the opening game, the coach got a Telegram. Message—"Ten reasons why Witherspoon should be first-string quarterback. First, Witherspoon is resourceful. Witness this approach." Each day the coach received a similar Telegraphic Tribute to the Sterling Qualities and Gridiron Prowess of Witherspoon, ending on the tenth day with "Witherspoon knows the T-formation to a T. Incidentally, his father is considering endowing a new gymnasium."

Who started Saturday? Our boy, naturally. Did very well, too. Played all season. "Just one of my Finds," the coach murmurs modestly, when found in the New Athletics Building.

Nothing puts a point across as convincingly as a Telegram . . . whether you're trying to get a "Yes" out of a Coach, a Chick or that Checkbook at home. (Fact—when it comes to prying Pesos out of a Recalcitrant Parent, a Telegram is just about the world's Best Crow-bar). Whatever your message, it'll Mean More when it goes on the Yellow Blank.

North Columbia Ave.
Telephone 8681

ATO, Chi Psi, Beta Pledges Are Announced

ATO, Beta and Chi Psi fraternities were omitted from yesterday's pledge list due to lack of space. Following are the names of their pledges:

Alpha Tau Omega

Richard B. Alexander, W. Palm Beach, Fla.; Richard H. Baker Jr., Greensboro; William H. Beebe, Lewis; Thomas A. Bradford, Washington; Edward T. Campbell, Wilson; Fred Diefferbach, Teraffy, N. J.; Robert Henry Green, W. Palm Beach, Fla.; Phil Johnson, Raleigh; Peter Kelley, Savannah, Ga.; Robert Linker, Chapel Hill; Dan Luke, Terry Town, N. Y.; Glenn Lynch, Forest Hills, Long Island; John W. McAllister Winnetka, Ill.; Frank Reinecke, Louisville, Ky.; Donald Thompson, New York, N. Y.; Perry B. Veazey, Raleigh; Tom Wakefield, Toronto, Canada; Richard Webb, Greensboro; Edward Whitmore, South Orange, N. J. and Frank Yates, Asheboro.

Beta Theta Pi

Mike Boyatt, Cincinnati, Ohio; Eugene Bray, Reidsville; William P. Calvert, Charlotte; Owen Cook, Fayetteville; Thomas E. Fesperman, Greensboro; Charles Froelich, High Point; John Patter Hazzard, Chapel Hill; David Hill, Winston-Salem; John B. Hussey Jr., Shreveport, La.; Thomas Dupree Kemp, Charlotte; Frank Leak, Rockingham; Robert Edward Lee, Salisbury; Robert Litaker, Charlotte; Charles Macy, Morehead City; Paul Monroe, Fayetteville; Roy Morris, Charlotte; Charles Lewis Neaves, Elkin; Jack Parks, Fayetteville; Robert Ratcliffe, Reidsville; Dick Reynolds, Winston-Salem; Julian Rogers, Wilmington; Jack Skinner, Coral Gables, Fla. and Florenz Worrell, Wilmington.

Chi Psi

Edwin Robert Barroff, Chevy Chase, Md.; Dewey W. Chapple, Jr., Winston-Salem; Joe Barbour, Burlington; Silas Coley, Raleigh; Richard Ethridge, Bailey; Don Hunington, Spartenburg, S. C.; Kason Keigh, Winston - Salem; Larry McLeroy, Marshall; Bob McQueen, Graham; Noel Petree, Fayetteville; Paige Stout, Burlington, and Herb Stephenson Wentz, Salisbury.

AKPsi Pledges Students, Profs

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, officially pledged seventeen students and two faculty members on October 22.

The new faculty members are Frank L. Hendrix of Chattanooga, Tennessee and John P. Maggard, Jr., of Hyden, Kentucky.

The student pledges are James C. Berryhill, James W. Claiborne, Thomas Hoover, Jr., and Earl M. Yandle, Jr., all of Charlotte.

Bob Bruton and John C. Manos, Asheville; J. C. Bryan, Pittsboro; C. Coleman Cover, Hagerstown, Md.; Eddie Haire, High Point; A. Cecil Harris, Raleigh; Johnny G. Hayes, Hampton, Va.; Jimmie Hutchins, Winston-Salem; Robert Jones, Columbus, Ohio; Charles Lewis Mack, Mooresville; Lonnie Mangum, Jr., Creedmore; Lester B. Parham, Tabor City; and John A. von Oesen, Wilmington.

Ferguson Will Lead Commerce Fraternity

Sherrill Ferguson, Thomasville, is the new Headmaster of Alpha Lambda chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, national commerce fraternity.

Harold Rhodes, Raleigh, has been elected Jr. Warden.

Faculty members J. C. D. Blaine, G. A. Barrett, C. Heer, H. D. Wolf and faculty advisor R. P. Calhoun met with Delta Sigma Pi brothers and pledges this week to discuss "Ways to Improve the Fraternity Program for the coming year.

Five Elected To New Spencer Council

Spencer dormitory has elected new members to the House Council.

They are Dottie Law of Greenville, S. C.; Phyllis Forrest of Hillsboro; Betsy Norwood of Bennetsville, S. C.; Ann Harless of Edenton; and Barbara Braxton of Whiteville.

Also elected were Alice Chapman of Welch, West Virginia as representative to the University Club and Lois Perry of Windsor representative to Women's Resident Council.

CAROLINA CAROUSEL

By Deenie Schoeppe

Carolina parties will be all the way from South Bend to Florida this weekend, New York and Washington included.

Sigma Chi's have gone to the U. Va. game, and AKPsi will have a cocktail party and dance at their district convention in Washington tonight.

Not to be outdone, the St. A's went to W & L's homecoming.

And the Deke's are going to have a party in Tarboro tonight.

For all those new pledges the Phi Delt's had a formal banquet followed by a beer party Wednesday night.

Kappa Sigs also had a party at the house in honor of their pledges.

Alpha Gam Mary Anna Glod of Wilmington is now pinned to AKPsi Jim Brown, also of Wilmington and a '52 grad.

Speaking of '52 grads, saw a lot of familiar faces last weekend and thereabouts. ADPi alums Mary Nell Boddie, LeNeve Hodges and Faye Culpepper have all been back for visits. At the KD house, Diane McComb and Martha Nash were here for the Wake Forest game.

There won't be any lack of parties here this weekend either. Sigma Nu's will have a barn party at Brother Jake Roberts' to celebrate Al Poppleton's birthday. Happy birthday Al.

Tri Delt Sandra Jamieson of DeLand, Fla., will marry St. A. Dave Edens, Lumberton, this Christmas.

Another Christmas marriage will be that of Chi Omega Midge Ward, The Hague, Belgium, to KA grad Fred Munns, Washington, D. C.

Lambda Chi's also honored their pledges with a party Wednesday night. New initiates into Lambda Chi is Charlie Watts, Asheville.

Well here's one for the books. "Flash" Gordon Hamerick of track fame, has pinned Duke coed Dottie Horton, KD from Concord. "Flash" is a Pika from Shelby.

Pika Gordon Battle has given his pin to Ann White, student at WC. They're both from Greensboro.

Chi Omega's will be entertained by the Lambda Chi chapter next Thursday at the new "Hong Kong" restaurant.

Chi Psi's will have a Halloween costume party for the Pi Phi's next Thursday at the lodge.

A pledge banquet and party were held Wednesday for all new St. A. pledges.

Again tonight the Chi Phi's will take over Perry's cabin for a party. Mr. Roy Armstrong, Dean of Admissions, was guest speaker at their pledge banquet Thursday night.

Alpha Gam pledges were honored with a party last night. Fraternity members were invited.

The ZBT's will have one of those great campus-wide cocktail parties after the Virginia game. They're giving plenty of advance notice so everyone will come. ZBT's are also having a birthday party tonight in Greensboro.

Theta Chi's will have most of the chapter here this weekend for partying at the house.

TEP pledges had a party given them at the house Wednesday, with much beer.

Sigma Chi pledges were given a cocktail party Wednesday afternoon and a party at Watts' Grill that night.

Well. Fifty WC girls will be entertained at the Pi Lam house this afternoon. Last night they had a beer party at the house.

Here's some summer news from the Delta Psi house. Pinned were Sherrill Ferguson, Thomasville and Rilma Harrelson, Cherryville. Also Kent Taylor and Peggy Riddle, both of W-S. Newly engaged couples are Bill Acker, W-S and Cherie Ficker, York, Pa., and Francis Trogdon, W-S and Ruth Hughes, also W-S.

Phi Gams tell us that high stepping Wake Forest majorette was dating at the Phi Gam house last weekend.

Bill Quarles, Phi Gam graduate, came back for a visit last weekend.

Beta District Chairman Mr. Chalmers Davidson and their National Vice-President Mr. Clem Holden were honored guests at the Beta pledge banquet Wednesday night.

Formal pledge ceremonies followed a banquet given by the Pika's for their pledges. After that came a "fabulous" beer party.

Pi Phi pledges and transfers will be honored tomorrow at a coffee for all fraternities. It will be given at the house from 4 to 6 p.m.

Tri Delts will also honor their pledges with a coffee from 7 to 9 at the house.

That winds it up for this time, and here's hoping the team brings us back a victory.

Carolina Band Elects; Polio III Flutist Back

Names of UNC band officers for the current school year were recently released. They are Betty Vickery, secretary, Lewis Mack, business manager, Charles Cronkan and Otto Henry, librarians, and Benny Stewart, publicity manager.

Flute player, Lee Bostian, who contacted polio three weeks ago is again attending band practice, Lewis Mack, business manager reported.

Heritage Group Meets Here This Weekend

A training meeting of the American Heritage Discussion Group leaders in North Carolina will be held in Swain Hall this weekend under sponsorship of the University's Extension Division and the State Library Commission.

Miss Ida Goshkin, Chicago, training director of the American Library Association, will direct the meeting which opened yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and continue through noon Sunday. Miss Goshkin comes to North Carolina from Denver, Colo., where she has just completed the training of a similar group of discussion leaders.

The American Heritage Discussion Group program is under the Ford Foundation.

WASHINGTON—The Marine Corps said yesterday it has offered an extra five days leave to any recruit who signs up a buddy. The offer applies only to recruits on leave after boot training, the first chance they get to show off their new uniforms to the folks back home. The offer is limited to only one five-day extension regardless of how many new recruits the new Marine lines up.

The veto power was included in the UN charter because it was felt that all five major powers would have to agree on the solutions of all major problems.

The United States, the U.S.S.R., United Kingdom, Nationalist China and France are all members of the UN Security Council.

Tri Delt, KD Pledges Elect

Pledge classes of Delta Delta and Kappa Delta sororities have elected their officers.

Jean Williamson, Asheville, has been elected president of the Tri Delt pledge class. Other Tri Delt officers include Sandy Donaldson, Wilson, vice-president; Elinor Wrenn, Greensboro, secretary; Mary Frances Allsbrook, Roanoke Rapids, treasurer; Virginia Whiteman, Atlanta, Ga., social chairman; and Di Bourne, Bronxville, N. Y., W.A.A. representative.

Mary Jane Harrison, Montgomery, Ala., will preside over the Kappa Delta pledges. Edith Rogers, Wilmington, was elected vice-president; Hilda Simpson, Buie's Creek, secretary; Connie Major, Hendersonville, treasurer; Catherine Marks, Wilmington, activities chairman; and Lib Suddreth, Raeford, scholarship chairman.

KD Founding Is Celebrated

Kappa Delta sorority celebrated the 55th anniversary of its founding on October 25.

Founded by four college girls at the Virginia State Normal School, now known as Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, the sorority has grown to 32,538 members. Traditional ceremonies were observed by the 81 college chapters and 228 alumnae associations of Kappa Delta. The national president of Kappa Delta is Mrs. Julia Fuqua Ober of Norfolk, Virginia.

Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Delta, established in the spring of 1951, celebrated Founder's Day with ceremonies on Thursday night, October 23, at the chapter house.

On Sunday, October 26, a tea will be held in celebration of Founder's Day and in honor of Mrs. Ernest Graham, the new housemother. Invited guests include alumnae, patronesses, sorority and fraternity presidents, university administrators and other campus housemothers.

New Germans Officers Announced For Season

Officers for the German Club this year were announced by President Bryant Hare, Phi Gamma Delta.

Besides Hare, the new executive committee includes Alec McMillan, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, vice-president; Jim Schenck, Delta Kappa Epsilon, treasurer; and Gordon Taylor, Sigma Nu, secretary.

Representatives are Jack Borden, Phi Gamma Delta, Henry Wilson, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Jake Rountree, Pi Kappa Alpha, John Baldridge, Beta Theta Pi, Roger Kingsbury, Alpha Tau Omega, Pat Sammonds, Phi Delta Theta, Wallace Pridgen, Sigma Nu, Tommy Ruffin, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Skippy Roddey, Sigma Chi, Jones York, Kappa Sigma, Swain Stephenson, Zeta Psi, Billy Yates, Kappa Alpha, and Eddie Gross, Delta Psi.

Students, Profs Plan Barbecue

The Student-Faculty Activities Committee of the School of Education is planning a big get-acquainted barbeque on next Thursday, for both students and faculty of the School of Education.

Scheduled to get underway at 5:30 p.m. the affair is the first of a program of faculty-student events being worked out for the Scchool of Education.

Mrs. Maude Hollingsworth of the Education faculty, and chairman of the Faculty Activities Committee, announced the program yesterday afternon.

Inccluded on the program will be a team of clown tumblers, barbershop harmony by a quartet of faculty men, an exhibition ping-pong match between Dr. A. M. Jordan and an unnamed opponent and group singing.

A group of German teachers now visiting the University will sing folk-songs from their native country.

Cost for the evening's meal will be $1.25 per plate. Professor Walter Rabb of the Physical Education faculty said he is expecting 250 picnickers.

N.C. Press Women Here Tomorrow

Members of the North Carolina Press Women, representing news departments of daily and weekly papers throughout the State, will gather here Sunday, October 26, for their semi-annual meeting.

The session will be held at the Carolina Inn under the joint sponsorship of the School of Journalism and the University News Bureau.

Events will start at 12 noon. After a luncheon a program will be presented with Phillips Russell of the School of Journalism as the principal speaker. Other speakers will be Dean Oscar J. Coffin and Walter Spearman of the School of Journalism and Director Robert W. Madry of the News Bureau.

Later in the afternoon the members will view the current Planetarium demonstration, "Rocket to Mars."

Officers of the NCPW are: Valerie Nicholson, Southern Pines, president; Frances Griffin, Winston-Salem, vice-president; Elizabeth Blair Charlotte, secretary-treasurer; Theresa Thomas, Lumberton, eastern district chairman; Mildred Huskins, Statesville, Piedmont district chairman, and Zoe Kincaid Brockman, Gastonia, western district chairman.

What Goes On Here

Student Audit Board

The Student Audit Board will meet Monday at 5 p.m. in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

BSU

Girls from the Woman's College will be entertained by the Baptist Student Union today. A treasure hunt is scheduled for the afternoon and supper will be served at the Baptist Church. All Carolina students are invited.

International Tea

A tea for international students will be given by the Women's Missionary Society at the Baptist Church tomorrow at 3 p.m. All international students at the University and other interested residents of Chapel Hill are invited.

SUAB

All members of the SUAB Reception Committee are requested to help with the student-faculty reception scheduled for tomorrow from 4:30 until 6 p.m. in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Committee members are asked to be on hand at 4 p.m.

Freshmen

The Freshmen Friendship Council is sponsoring a "boy-meets-girl" excursion to W.C. on Saturday night. Though limited to 30 there are a few places left. Those interested should contact the Y this morning.

Young Adult Group

The Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church is holding its first meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Wesley Lounge of the church. Coffee and cookies will be served, after which, Brooks Patton, former Wesley Foundation Director, who has just returned from serving 18 months as chaplain in Korea, will speak on "The War and Its Relation to the Current Practice of Christianity in Korea." A discussion will follow.

Cosmopolitan Canceled

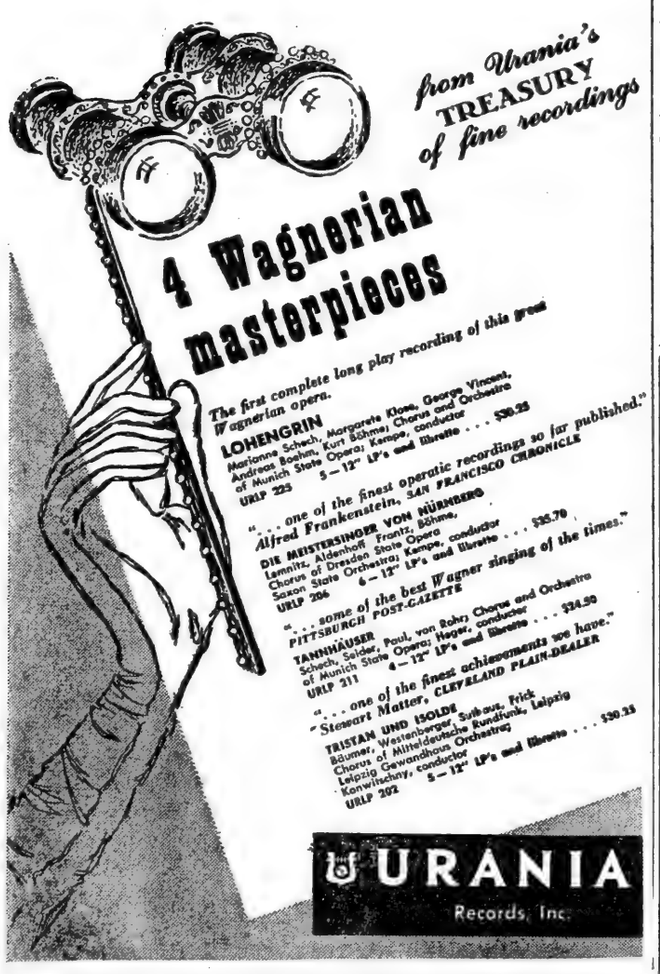
The Cosmopolitan Club will not meet tomorrow because members are invited to a tea by the Baptist Student Union at the church at 3 o'clock.

Informal Dance

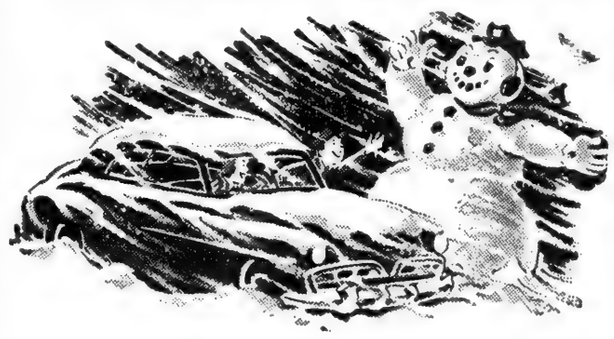
The Independent Coed Board will sponsor an informal dance tonight from 8 o'clock until midnight. All interested are invited. There is no charge.

Dean Carroll Attends New York NAM Meet

Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the School of Business Administration attended a meeting of the Educational Advisory Council of the NAM, of which he is a member, in New York City this week.



Dean Carroll will serve as chairman of the finance committee of Beta Gamma Sigma, honor society in commerce, for the 1952-53 academic year.



CLASSIFIEDS

FOR RENT

FOR RENT—4-ROOM COTTAGE nicely furnished. Formerly the T. A. Hudson estate. Located in Westwood on Dogwood Dr. near hospital in Chapel Hill. Call C. E. Stevens Raleigh 31040.

WEEK-END
House-Cleaning SALE
Each Saturday Through Monday
This Week—Shopworn and Overstock Books in ART, BIOGRAPHY and FICTION—
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR MR. WINTER WITH OUR EXPERT REPAIR
HAZZARD MOTOR COMPANY

LATE SHOW T-O-N-I-T-E
All Fire! All Innocence! All Woman!
"THE WILD HEART"
In Technicolor
Starring
JENNIFER JONES
DAVID FARRAR
Varsity

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
RITA HAYWORTH
GLENN FORD
in
"You weren't the first... and you won't be the last!"
Affair in Trinidad
with Alexander Scourby • Valerie Bettis • Torin Thatcher
Screen Play by OSCAR SAUL and JAMES GUNN • Produced and Directed by VINCENT SHERMAN • A BECKWORTH CORPORATION PRODUCTION
T-O-D-A-Y Sun.-Mon.
Varsity

U N C LIBRARY
SERIALS DEPT.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER
Sunny and mild today with a high of 75.

The Daily Tar Heel

CHURCH
The news of the church is on page 4.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 29 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

FIGHTING IRISH SWAMP CAROLINA BY 34-14

Miss Reed Named For Library Post

MISS SARAH REED

Miss Sarah Reed has been appointed assistant professor in the School of Library Science of the University. She comes here from the Graduate Library School of the University of Chicago where she was Librarian and Supervisor of Induction Training.

She will offer the courses formerly given by Miss Elaine von Oesen, who left in June to become Field Librarian for the State Library Commission.

Miss Reed holds the degree of A.B. from Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and the B.S. in Library Science and M.S. in Library Science from the University of Illinois. She is at present a candidate for the degree of Ph.D. in library science at the University of Chicago.

Miss Reed has taught in the public schools of Illinois and Iowa, and last summer was a visiting faculty member at the School of Librarianship at the University of Denver. She is co-author with Dr. L. R. Wilson and Mrs. Mildred H. Lowell of "The Library in College Instruction," published in 1951 by the H. W. Wilson Company of New York.

Cash Offered By Publisher For Writings

An annual award of $2,000, to be known as the Putnam Prize, is being offered this year for the first time by G. P. Putnam's Sons, publishers, through the English Department, for the best manuscript written by an undergraduate student of any of the three divisions of the Consolidated University.

Manuscripts, either fiction or non-fiction of general interest, may be offered, it was pointed out, not only by students in the Woman's College at Greensboro, State College at Raleigh, and the University at Chapel Hill but by students enrolled in the University's Extension Division.

It is emphasized that works of a strictly scholarly or highly specialized interest are not to be submitted. To be eligible for the contest a manuscript must consist of at least 40,000 words with a detailed synopsis of the unwritten parts of the book.

Half the prize will be an advance on royalties and the other half an outright award.

Three judges are to be selected each year, one chosen at the University, one by G. P. Putnam's Sons, and the third to be agreed upon mutually by the English Department here and by the donors of the prize. The latter will be a distinguished author or critic. This year's judges are to be announced on January 1.

Deadline for this year's contest (1952-53) will be June 1, 1953. In subsequent years, the award is expected to be made in June, at the end of the academic year.

Miss Jessie Rehder of the University English Department, in announcing rules for the contest, said the publishers are to have an option on their usual terms on any book submitted, as well as the winning manuscript. Secondary prizes will be awarded when and if the quality of the material warrants it, she said.

The publishers reserve the right to divide the prize if several manuscripts appear to be of equal merit, she explained, and not to award the prize if no worthy manuscript appears.

Further information on the Putnam Prize may be obtained by writing Miss Jessie Rehder, Box 350, Chapel Hill. Manuscripts may be submitted to her from now until June.

Reception

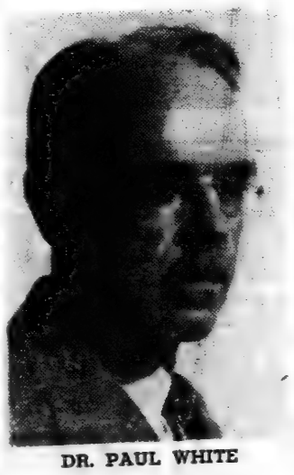
The Student-Faculty Committee of the Student Union Activities Board will sponsor a reception today from 4 o'clock until 5:30 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

The reception is particularly for the History and Political Science Departments, but all interested are invited.

Phi Debates GOP Expiry On Tuesday

Tuesday night the Phi Assembly will debate a bill calling for the disbandment of the Republican Party and the formation of a party that will help preserve the two party system.

The bill which, was introduced by representative Bob Pace, would place the Phi on record as favoring the disbandment of the "present corrupt, reactionary isolationistic Republican Party" and urge the formation of a party to be led by such "outstanding republicans as Wayne Morse, Earl Warren and Margaret Chase Smith."



The bill also would place the Phi on record as supporting Gov. Adlai Stevenson for the presidency.

Invitations are being sent to John Sanders president of the YDC and Curt Ratledge president of the YRC to be present and to participate in the debate. Prof. E. J. Woodhouse of the Department of Political Science also has been invited.

SP Meets Tomorrow At 8:30 To Nominate

The Student Party will meet tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Roland Parker Lounges of Graham Memorial to nominate legislators from women's dormitory, women's town and men's dormitory districts. Freshman class officers also will be nominated.

Medical Panel To Have Boston Heart Specialist

DR. PAUL WHITE

Dr. Paul White of Boston, internationally known heart specialist, will address several groups in Durham and Chapel Hill during the coming weekend.

He will speak informally to the doctors at the Duke University Hospital at a luncheon session Friday. After that he will come to Chapel Hill and serve as moderator at a panel discussion on "Coronary Atherosclerosis" in the ampitheater of the North Carolina Medical Hospital. This session is sponsored by the Durham-Orange County Heart Association and will be the first meeting to be held in the new auditorium. Dr. White will be introduced by Dr. W. Reece Berryhill, dean of the University School of Medicine.

Football SCORES

Duke	21	Virginia	7
N. C. State	13	F.S.U.	7
South Carolina	6	Clemson	0
Alabama	42	Mississippi State	19
Florida	30	Georgia	0
Kentucky	13	Cincinnati	6
Maryland	34	L.S.U.	6
V.M.I.	20	George Washington	20
V.P.I.	27	W & L	34
Miami	20	Marquette	6
Navy	7	Pennsylvania	7
Princeton	27	Cornell	0
Harvard	26	Dartmouth	19
Penn. State	19	Brown	14
Syracuse	20	Holy Cross	19
Purdue	40	Illinois	12
Northwestern	23	Indiana	13
Iowa	8	Ohio State	0
Kansas U.	26	S.M.U.	0
Oklahoma	48	Kansass State	0
Michigan	21	Minnesota	0
U.C.L.A.	20	Wisconsin	7
Boston College	14	Fordham	13
Tennessee	50	Wofford	0
Mississippi	34	Arkansas	7

Edwardians Exhibit On In Morehead

"The Edwardians," a photographic exhibition prepared by the editors of Life Magazine, has been opened at the Morehead Building and will continue through November 15.

Historically this exhibition completes the series based on Life's "History of Western Culture." It is both a climax to the earlier chapters and a preface to new ones whose paragraphs have yet to be written.

During the astonishingly brief years of Edward VII's reign — 1901-1910 — England experienced a burst of optimistic vigor in striking contrast to the mood of the late Victorian era. The Edwardians were extravagant, "fast," and determined to get the fullest enjoyment out of the prosperous world they inherited. But they were also progressive in their outlook, and intensely interested in social improvement. Living amid peace and plenty, they were full of hope for even better things to come.

A glimpse of their exuberant world is like a tonic to our generation which has seen the "Edwardian "peace and plenty" destroyed by wars and the resultant austerity of post-war living. It gains added interest at this particular moment, when elaborate preparations are already under way for the coronation of England's beloved new queen, great-granddaughter of Edward VII, who was called the Peacemaker.

The exhibition has three main sections. The first sets the stage with pictures of the royal family, the fashionable world, and the pleasures common to all society. This section includes a panel of portraits by the American painter, John Singer Sargent.

The second part deals with the more serious side of life: new movements for social reform—the Fabians, suffragettes and great philanthropists—politics at home and diplomacy abroad. The final section takes up new developments in science and literature, with a glimpse of the contemporary theatre reflecting the ideas and tastes of the period.

NEWS IN BRIEF

NEW YORK—Dwight D. Eisenhower sought to impress upon the voters yesterday that if he is elected president, he will act fast in the war in Korea. He promised to go to Korea personally after the election to see "how best" he can work out "an early end" to the fighting which he said could have been avoided in the first place. Included on the Republican nominee's schedule for yesterday were a reunion at Columbia University, part of the Army-Columbia football game and a civil rights speech in Margem during the late afternoon.

★

ABOARD STEVENSON SPECIAL—Adlai Stevenson launched a series of bitter attacks on Gen. Eisenhower yesterday in what was hinted as an attempt to puncture the prestige of his GOP opponent in the closing days of the presidential campaign. Yesterday Stevenson moved from New York State into Massachusetts in a trail of speeches at Pittsfield, Springfield, Worcester, Framingham, and Boston. His schedule also called for him to breakfast with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park then visit the Roosevelt memorial for a brief wreath laying ceremony.

★

SEOUL, Korea—Scrappy South Koreans, knocked off the highest peak on Sniper Ridge by 1,000 screaming Chinese, went right back up yesterday and literally blasted the Reds off the height with demolition bombs. The victory gave the United Nations complete control of the dominating central front ridgeline. In the air Allied Sabre jets shot down two Communist MIG-15 jets 45,000 feet over North Korea near the Yalu River.

★

PARIS—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, said yesterday he believes Russian and possibly German pilots are flying Communist MIG-15 jet fighters against the United Nations in Korea. He made the comment at a press conference when asked the latest "estimate" of the nationalities of pilots flying the speedy MIG's.

★

NASHVILLE—Federal and state officers here yesterday arrested one member of a three-man gang of marauders who robbed and kidnapped 20 persons, and police in all Southern states maintained a close watch for the other two. FBI Agent Alfred Means announced that Virgil E. LeMay, teen-aged Nashville youth, was picked up at the home of a friend in East Nashville shortly after dawn yesterday.

★

WASHINGTON—Economic Stabilizer Toger L. Putnam appeared yesterday to intervene in the stalemated coal dispute in an effort to end the strike of 350,000 miners. Informed sources said Putnam unexpectedly had called a meeting of the public members of the Wage Stabilization Board yesterday to settle the dispute.

★

PANMUNJOM—The chief of the Communist truce delegation protested yesterday the injuring of nine Red prisoners of war at a United Nations stockade at Pusan.

★

NEW YORK—United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie says he will not "resort to lynch law and smear" in dealing with disloyal American employees of the U.N. Secretariat. Lie said that he was taking "such orderly and legal measures as are available."

★

WASHINGTON—President Truman, in the last Armistice Day proclamation he will issue as Chief Executive, called on Americans to devote themselves anew to the "tasks of promoting a permanent peace among all the people of the earth."

Notre Dame Dominates Play; Newman Passes For Scores

By Biff Roberts
Daily Tar Heel Sports Editor

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 25—That mist of football misfortune continued to hand heavy over the head of Carolina this afternoon and the Tar Heels, still seeking that first vistory, dropped their third game of the season 34-14 to the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

With their offense improved over the past two games, the Tar Heels were strong contenders in the first half, trailing 14-7, at the midway mark after being tied 7-7 up until the final 16 seconds of the first half.

But the Irish came back in the second half with the throttle wide open while the Tar Heels seemed to have run out of gas. Notre Dame grabbed a 21 point lead in the third quarter and held on from there for the victory.

Carolina quarterbacks Marshall Newman and Charlie Motta turned to passing in an attempt to pull the game out before this near capacity 54,338 people crowd in Notre Dame Stadium but it was no good.

The two threw a total of 29 passes but completed only 11 for 123 yards. Both Carolina touchdowns came on passes by Newman, however.

The Irish found the solution to the Carolina defense which ranked second in the Southern Conference before today's game. Breaking their backs repeatedly on pitchouts and handoffs the winners romped for a total of 301 yards on the ground.

It was this running attack which made the difference. Although moving the ball better than they had anytime this year, the Tar Heels still could only muster 32 yards on the ground.

The play in the opening minutes made it look as though the game would produce a scoring deluge. Both teams scored with only three minutes and 45 seconds gone in the first period.

The Irish struck first, crossing the Carolina goal with only 1:40 gone. Billy William's opening kickoff was taken by Paul Reynolds on the eight and returned to the 24. Johnny Lattner fumbled on the first play from scrimmage but recovered for a five yard gain.

Quarterback Tom Carey then flipped for 14 yards to end Art Hunter, putting the ball on the Notre Dame 43. Then came the play that sparked the score.

Left halfback Joe Heap took the ball on a pitchout from Carey and, cutting to the east sideline, tore 50 yards to the Carolina eight before Dick Lackey, cutting across field, could knock him out of bounds.

But Lackey's tackle did little good. On the next play fullback Neil Worden took another pitchout and cracked over tackle for the score. Bob Arrix kicked the extra point and it was Notre Dame, 7-0.

But before the Notre Dame fans could finish their cheering, the Tar Heels came back to tie the score. After taking Arrix kickoff and being held on downs, Bud Wallace punted for Carolina from his own 34.

Joe Heap gathered the ball in on the Notre Dame 20, stepped off two yards and fumbled when he was tackled. Dick Kocornik recovered on the Notre Dame 22 to give the Tar Heels the ball deep in Irish territory.

On the first play Wallace dropped a yard on a hand off. But Newman made it up the next time he got the ball by rifling to end Tom Adler on the two yard line from which point Adler stepped over the goal line.

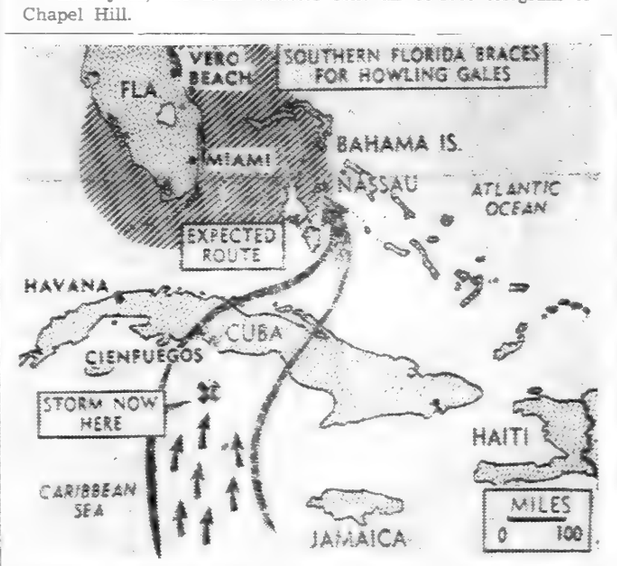
Adler added another point to his personal total by making the extra point kick good and the game was tied, 7-7.

The score stayed that way un-

(See IRISH, page 3)

'Bookies Say No, We Say Go' Wire Students

The University's football team had words of encouragement yesterday from nearly half of the stay-at-home student body.



Those who found the 1,000 mile journey too far for them, sent their encouragement in the form of telegrams which were presented the gridsters on the field just before the game. The messages were rolled up and tied with blue and white ribbon. Nearly 2,500 students signed the various telegrams.

The mass movement of long distance spirit was mainly the work of five people, Tom Sully of the University Club, John Earnhardt, Western Union messenger as well as a UNC student, and three Western Union telegraphers. The big task was completed at 12:30 Friday night when the last name moved over the special circuit to South Bend.

Also included among the well-wishers were patrons of various business firms downtown who signed the lists on display by the merchants. One, sent by the Porthole Restaurant, said, "Scramble the yeggs and bring back the bacon."

Some of the other messages were: "The bookies say no but we say go," Pi Kappa Sigma Fraternity; "Go Tar Heels and win the game, this will be your claim to fame," Chi Omega Sorority, and "Show those boys in South Bend how the South can bend the backs of the Irish," Cobb Dormitory.

Last year, the Irish backers sent an 80-foot telegram to Chapel Hill.

NEWSMAP SHOWS ROUTE OF hurricane "Fox" approaching Cuba with mighty winds of 125 miles an hour. The weather bureau said the hurricane was now located about 60 miles from the Cuban city of Cienfuegos and was expected to hit the mainland shortly. Meanwhile, southern Florida braced itself for any expected damage.—UP Telephoto.

A HOPEFUL TV actress, Eleanor Benveniste, showers after being the object of a "honey and feathering" publicity gag. To publicize National Honey Week and the record "Wild Honey," three gallons of honey were poured over her head and handfuls of feathers thrown on her body.—UP Telephoto.

Tax Meeting Slated Here On Nov. 16-18

A number of well known authorities in several fields have accepted invitations to address the 13th annual Symposium on Accounting and Taxation to be held at the University and Duke University Nov. 16-18.

Plans for the symposium, sponsored by the North Carolina Association of Certified Public Accountants with the cooperation of the University of North Carolina and Duke University, were announced yesterday by Raymond R. Rains, Chapel Hill, executive secretary.

Registration is scheduled to begin at the Carolina Inn at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16, and that night there will be a reception and buffet dinner in the Morehead Building, after which there will be committee and board of directors' meetings at the Inn.

Full day sessions, including addresses and tax panels, will begin Monday, November 17, at 9:45.

The annual banquet will be held Monday night, and the meeting will adjourn Tuesday afternoon, November 18.

In conjunction with the regular sessions, there will be on Monday a special program for junior accountants in the School of Business Administration. Those participating will join with the senior accountants for several of the major sessions, including the banquet.

Time Marches On In Double Time

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—Time got ahead of itself this week.

The popular weekly newsmagazine revealed today that an undetermined number of its current issues got out with the wrong cover. Two covers had been prepared for Time's election issue next week; and one with Gov. Adlai Stevenson ended up on this week's cover. Time's publisher James A. Linen attributed the error to a "mistake in our bindery."

Housing

Students who recently pledged fraternities and plan to move into fraternity houses are asked to check by the Housing Office in New East Annex.

Housing Officer James Wadsworth said his office needs the information to accommodate the many students living in dormitory basements, who want dormitory rooms.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter, delivered, $6 and $2.25 per quarter

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. .....Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. .....Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr .....Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. .....Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. .....Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr.....Wallace Pridgen | dv. Mgr. ..... Ned Beck

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Krasr, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn Tish Rodman

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Sull, Judy Taylor, Joyce Jowdy, Bozy Sugg, Nancy Perryman.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Louis Krasr

Bundles Of Thanks

During the scramble of examinations and their resulting lengthy hours, the Inter-Faith Council last year sponsored a clothing drive. The results were good, though the students approached were not to the point where intensive study would drive them to give away half of what they owned.

None the less, the Inter-Faith Council proposed to collect these clothes to aid others in areas of desperate need. Clothing was collected in all dorms and fraternities; then the bundles were transferred to the "Y" where stacks grew to the proportions of four carloads.

At the close of the drive, the donated clothing was turned over to the American Friends Service Committee, which graded and packed them for shipment overseas.

A recent letter from Russell Branson, of the American Friends Service Committee, Southeastern Regional office, with headquarters in Greensboro, informed Inter-Faith chairman David Johnson, that these shipments of clothing were divided among relief areas of Southern Italy, India and Europe.

Branson concluded his report to Chairman Johnson with "Again, our very grateful appreciation to you and all the (UNC) contributors of this clothing."

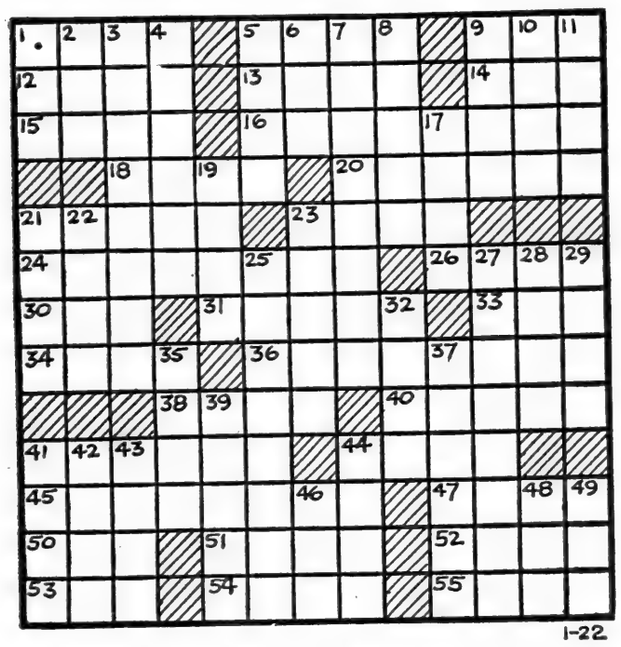
Post Script: Try again this year—perhaps after exams, Dave—maybe even better results may be netted then.

Tom Neal

Express Yourself

Editor:

If our anonymous complainer, would use his (her) time in asking rather than writing, he (she) would be told the facts of life.



We in the Yack office have been very happy to explain the $2.00 fee assessed Graduate Students for their Yack pictures to all who dropped by and will again present the reasons for all the others who harbor homicidal thoughts.

Each undergraduate pays a block fee of $5.00 per quarter; each graduate student's block fee amounts to $3.85. The $1.15 difference is a class fee which goes toward paying for the undergraduate class section pages in the Yackety Yack.

To make up the deficit in the graduate schools, the Law School, Med School, Dent School etc. pay, through their individual school organizations, $55.00 per page for their school section pages plus the cost of photography. Since the Graduate School has no organization, the financial burden falls upon the shoulders of the Graduate Students themselves to pay both the printing and photography costs directly to the Yack instead of in the form of a fee to their individual school organization.

It is our hope that this will clear all doubts in the mind of our anonymous friend and others in the Graduate School.

Russ Cowell

HORIZONTAL
1. particle
5. bark-cloth
9. away
12. formed into a fabric
13. a gem
14. Tibetan gazelle
15. lack
16. dweller
18. a cereal grain
20. circular in cross-section
21. entire
23. ice cream shell
24. servile flatterer
26. a barrier
30. the heart
31. of the cheek
33. bitter herb
34. large plant
36. to make (for or against)
38. officer of college
40. document
41. lean
44. Chinese wax
45. of a main channel
47. fruit
50. extend
51. South American Indian
52. presage
53. denary
54. first Garden
55. rod

VERTICAL
1. beard of grain
2. nose of golf club
3. offer
4. middle
5. rent
6. simian
7. of shepherds
8. foreign
9. molding
10. source
11. destiny
17. attracted
19. a shell fish
21. diplomacy
22. smell
23. bobwhite
25. tropical tree
27. South American pikelike fish
28. a cement
29. annealing oven
32. mature
35. sidle
37. sheep-fat
39. unearthly
41. brewing material
42. first Canal in U. S.
43. solar disk
44. devise
46. jot
48. chess pieces
49. outcome

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

S	A	P		A	D	A	R		S	T	A	B
E	L	A		R	I	T	E		T	O	N	E
S	O	N		I	N	T	E	R	E	S	T	S
S	E	C	R	E	T	E		E	A	S	E	S
		R	E	S		S	L	I	M
L	I	E	N		A	T	O	N		G	O	A
E	L	A	T	E	R		O	S	T	E	N	D
E	L	S		P	A	R	T		S	L	E	D
		B	O	L	E		B	A	A
O	R	E	A	D		A	V	E	R	T	E	D
R	E	P	R	E	S	S	E	S		I	R	E
A	N	O	N		P	O	S	T		N	I	L
L	O	S	S		A	N	T	S		E	E	L

1-22

Average time of solution: 27 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Ben Toledano

Citizens For Eisenhower

If McCarthy and Jenner are the only objectionable senators that the Socialists can complain about, then we might assume that the great majority of Republican or Democratic representatives are very high principled. I use the terms Republican and Democrat interchangeably because both of these terms stand for freedom loving, self-respecting Americans. The Socialist-Labor party, whose candidate for the presidency is Adlai Stevenson, is hiding behind the much-respected title of the Democrats. The question confronting the American people at present is one of freedom versus slavery. I might add that freedom, in contrast to a statement of Dean Acheson's, is not "rather vague."

Since the foundation of the Socialist party is made of concrete ignorance, it is not difficult to understand how their lies and vilifications can solidify. All that is necessary is for them to print that Senator Robert A. Taft is an isolationist who is "dangerous and reactionary" and thousands of the exploited masses immediately condemn him as such. Never do they base such accusations on facts and never do they explain these character assassinations to the people: Mr. Taft is considered dangerous because he is a thoughtful, brilliant, and well-informed citizen. Contrary to the many distorted views released by the Socialist-Labor party, Dwight D. Eisenhower is running on the American ticket and not Senator Taft. It would be a likely analogy to say that Estes Kefauver is running on the "New Deal, Fair Deal, Raw Deal" ticket, and not Adlai Stevenson.

Being a native Louisianian, I, as all interested Southerners, am very concerned with the platform planks which directly affect us. First and foremost, the Republican Democratic party "believes that it is a primary responsibility of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions." The Socialist-Labor party believes that the Federal government should dictate concerning such local problems as civil rights.

I can hardly conceive the idea that a small centralized group of administrators in Washington is better able to cope with State problems than are the administrators of the concerned section, who are undoubtedly familiar with the pending local situations.

It is not necessary to give an account of the Truman-Stevenson farm program for we are only too familiar with their policy. The Republican platform states: "We favor a farm program aimed at full parity prices for all farm products in the market place . . . commodity loans on non-perishable products, 'on the farm' storage, sufficient farm credit, and voluntary self-sufficient farm credit and voluntary self-supporting crop insurance. We favor a bipartisan . . . commission to review the policies and administration of our farm program. We support the principle of bona fide farmer-owned, farmer-operated cooperatives and . . . further development of rural electrification. We support a constructive and expanded soil conservation program."

After reading and understanding these proposals, it is impossible to honestly maintain that the Republicans are the "enemies of the farmer."

Don't be blinded by fancy pseudo-intellectual terms and a stuffed Brooks Brothers shirt. Vote for the one American who can pull us out of this dangerous movement toward socialism, Communism, and complete devastation. The world owes us nothing, and we owe everything to God. A vote for Eisenhower is a vote for common decency, fair play, and a peaceful and prosperous United States.

Since most of these assigned positions are in isolated parts of East Russia, the majority of students like to stall the proceedings as long as possible. However, if students don't accept the assigned work or if they leave the position early, they must accept heavy penalties.

"He's taking an awful beating, folks."

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Here is a rough idea as to how the cabinets of the two presidential candidates will stack up if elected:

THE EISENHOWER CABINET: Secretary of State—Thomas E. Dewey. The Governor of New York went around the world to get up to date on foreign affairs, has been conferring with Acheson on foreign policy and has his heart set on this post. Since he was the best brain in putting across the General's nomination, he will probably get his reward.

Secretary of the Treasury—Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase National Bank. Brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller and a power in GOP politics, Aldrich has been one of the key men behind Ike.

Secretary of Defense—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge. The original Eisenhower campaign manager, Lodge faces likely defeat in his Massachusetts race for re-election. He served in the Army and on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Attorney General—Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Secretary of Agriculture—Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, now one of Eisenhower's closest advisers.

Secretary of the Interior—Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado; helped lead the fight at Chicago for Eisenhower's nomination.

Secretary of Commerce—Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania, one of the earliest Eisenhower supporters.

Secretary of Labor—Ex-Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota; wrote Eisenhower's Labor day speech.

Postmaster General—Arthur Summerfield, now Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

THE STEVENSON CABINET: Secretary of State—Averell Harriman, former Ambassador to Great Britain and Mutual Security Administrator. Harriman's withdrawal from the race at Chicago insured Stevenson's nomination, and he could probably have the important State Department post if he wanted it. If not, William Fulbright of Arkansas, one of the Senate's best brains on foreign affairs, would have second call.

Secretary of the Treasury—Dwight Palmer, head of the General Cable Co., one of the big businessmen vigorously behind Stevenson.

Secretary of Defense—Tom Finletter, a Wall Street attorney now Secretary for Air.

Attorney General — Senator Kefauver of Tennessee.

Secretary of Agriculture—Some Stevenson advisers have suggested Milton Eisenhower, brother of the General, who served with Stevenson in the Agriculture Department under Henry Wallace. Milton also served under Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. A more likely possibility is Roy Turner, former Governor of Oklahoma.

Secretary of the Interior—Oscar Chapman of Colorado or Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

Secretary of Commerce—Phil Wrigley, the Chewing-Gum King of Chicago, a Republican who has been a personal friend of Stevenson's.

Secretary of Labor—Wayne Morse, GOP Senator from Oregon.

Postmaster General—Stephen Mitchell, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The Ford Motor Company campaign to collect from every dealer for the Republican campaign fund is continuing throughout the nation but is having rough sledding with at least a few Democrats.

Most Democratic Ford dealers have kicked in for fear of incurring disfavor with Detroit. But in Cedar Falls and Hudson, Iowa, Henry Stoka and David Keith were exceptions.

Several days ago Emil Wheeler of the Wheeler Motor Company in Waterloo, one of the top Ford dealers in Iowa telephoned David Keith of Hudson, together with other dealers, to inform them that a meeting had been held at Des Moines where it was decided the larger Ford dealers should pony up $1,000 each to the Republican National Committee and the smaller dealers $200.

Wheeler made it clear that this campaign contribution was related to the future allotments of Ford cars. In brief, a dealer who did not contribute might not get sufficient allotments in the future.

In Cedar Falls, however, the firm of Weisbord and Stoko split. Frank Weisbord is a Republican and paid $200, but Henry Stoko, a Democrat, refused. He said that Ford could go jump in the Mississippi River as far as he was concerned. Also, David Keith of Hudson replied: "You're not getting any money from me."

Note—In 1948, 18 Ford and General Motors dealers were convicted in Michigan for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act when Arthur Summerfield, now Chairman of the Republican National Committee, put across political assessments with auto dealers.

Ken Barton

UNESCO

An attempt at presenting the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization in all of its endeavors in this column is an impossible task. However, I would like to introduce the Organization to you and explain the important role that it plays in the world today because too few people understand its work and too many people are quick to criticize its efforts. The anti-UNESCO forces are making headway because the people who are falling prey to their propaganda are actually ignorant of its work.

To begin with, UNESCO is composed of over 62 member nations whose main purpose is to work within the frame work of the United Nations toward the maintenance of peace. Most of the member nations have commissions that operate within each nation to further the work of UNESCO. Specifically in the United States we have a National Commission composed of 100 members, 40 of whom are outstanding individuals in related fields, and 60 of whom are nominated by national non-governmental organizations. This group takes responsibility for UNESCO programs and advises the Department of State.

So much for the framework. Let us look briefly at the broad aims of the commission work in the member countries. In Educational areas, programs are centered around the theme of teaching the illiterate part of the world to read and write and in general take steps toward a raising of their standards of living. Another aim is the elimination of prejudices. Through the use of press, films, radio, universities, and schools throughout the world, programs of this type have been furthered. Also a promotion of a better use of the world's natural resources and the control of disease is tackled. Finally an attempt at an exchange of ideas based upon the heritage of the individual countries is promoted in a hope for a better understanding among the peoples of the world. That in its briefest and most general form are some of the ideas of UNESCO. There is not the space to go into the actual work that has been done.

Unfortunately those people who look with suspicion upon the work of international organization jump at every opportunity to discredit the work of this sincere and hard-working group. I would not attempt to evaluate without complete study the good or evil in the programs so far attempted, and I would certainly not feel right in standing in the way of progress that has been shown. I also feel that the students of the United States should take a particular interest in the programs of UNESCO as it will be our task to work with these programs in the years to come.

At the moment the students of the United States are represented through the National Students Association on the National Commission which meets once a year. Richard Murphey, former Carolina student, is serving a three year term as NSA representative on this board. UNESCO realizes the need of bringing in the opinions of the younger generation.

Tar Heels Still Winless Afer Game With Notre Dame

Irish Backs Are Too Much For Overpowered Defense

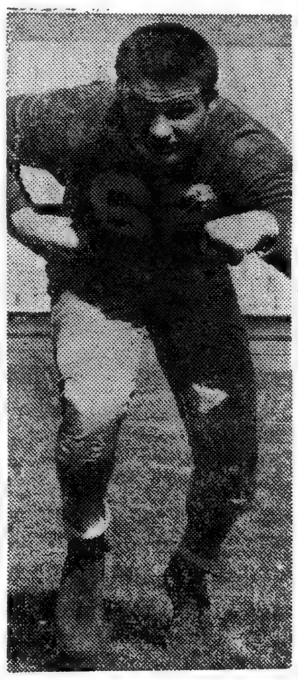
(Continued from page 1)

til the final minutes of the second period with neither team able to do much with the ball. Most of the half was played near mid field with Notre Dame having somewhat the better of the play but still unable to get the ball deep into Carolina territory.

But then with only a few minutes left in the half, the Irish applied the heart breaker. A Wallace punt out of bounds had given Notre Dame the ball on its own 25.

After Dan Mainer had spilled alternate quarterback Ralph Guglielmi back to the 21, the home team began to move.

With Guglielmi's passing leading the way, Notre Dame moved to the Carolina 34 yard line in eight plays. After an offside penalty had set them back to the 39 the Irish renewed the march.



Guglielmi hit Heap on the 20 yard line and the Notre Dame halfback spun away from two tacklers and stumbled to the 10. Then the chunky quarterback ran to his left, spotted big Art Hunter in the end zone, and let the ball fly. Hunter made a diving catch to haul the ball in for the TD.

Arrix also made his second try good and with just 16 seconds remaining the Irish had clinched a 14-7 half time lead.

Carolina made the mistake of coming out one play too early in the second half. Williams kicked to open the period and Heap grabbed the ball on his own 16. Cutting to the east sideline, Heap outran the Carloina team 84 yards for a touchdown. Only 10 seconds had elapsed in the half.

Arrix made good again and it was 21-7, Notre Dame.

The Tar Heels looked as though they might pull the same stunt which had carried them to their first period score. After taking the kickoff, Newman passed to Keller on the Carolina 36. A long pass to Adler carried the ball to the Notre Dame 20 and perked up the few Carolina fans in the stadium but a penalty on the play made their joy premature.

Not to be denied, however, Newman got Larry Parker loose on a good pitchout play and the Carolina halfback, executing some exciting broken field running, danced to the Notre Dame 33 for a 34 yard gain.

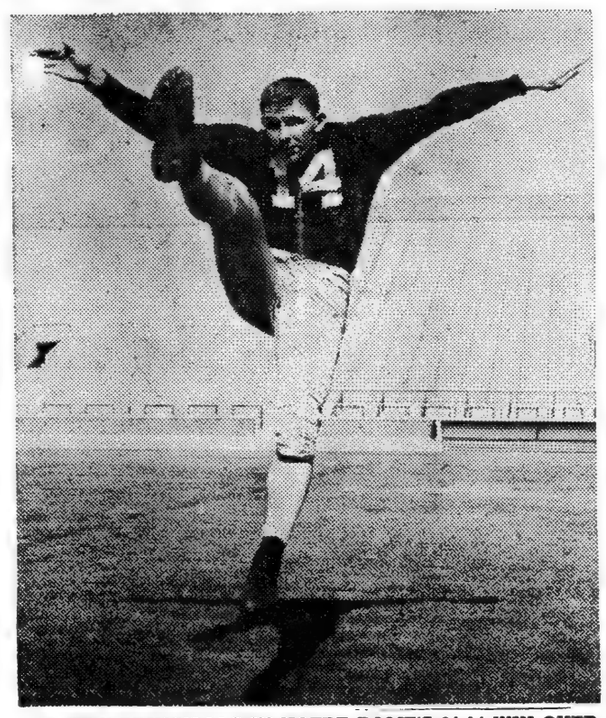
A penalty for illegal use of Notre Dame hands moved the Tar Heels 15 yards closer but then Newman's arm went erratic and after three straight pass plays failed the Irish took over on downs.

The Notre Dame running attack opened up full force then and with Lattner and Paul Reynolds pacing the drive the Irish moved to the Carolina 13. From there Carey hit Lattner on the three. But then it seemed the Tar Heels might hold.

The Carolina line knocked Tom McHugh back to the five only to have an offside penalty put the ball on the one. Carey tried to sneak it over and lost a half yard. Lattner got that back, but no more, on the next play, and on another try at the line got no gain.

But with fourth down and one to go McHugh cracked over right tackle for the fourth Notre Dame score. Arrix's kick was wide this time, however, and the Irish lead stood at 27-7 with 6:20 left in the third period.

Notre Dame kicked it up to 34-7 shortly after the start of the fourth quarter. Lattner intercepted a Newman pass on the first play of the final period and returned it to the Carolina 40.

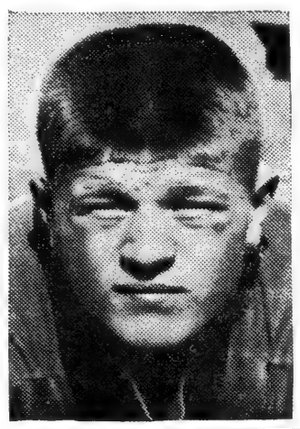


Reynolds cracked to the 30 and two more plays brought another first down on the 15. After a penalty had dropped the Irish back to the 20, McHugh took a handoff and sliced through the line 20 yards for the last Notre Dame score. Arrix's kick made it 34-7.

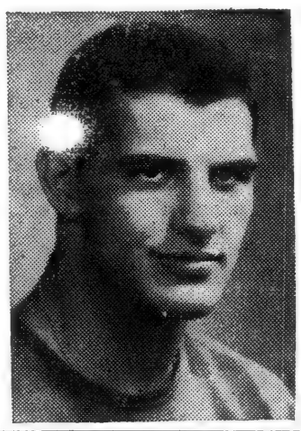
The second and final Carolina score came in the same fashion as the first. Lattner lost a Wallace punt in the sun and it bobbled off his shoulder into the arms of Bill Kirkman.

With the ball on the 16, Newman aimed at Ken Keller but missed. On the next play, however, the Carolina quarterback hit Benny Walser, standing on the one, and he stepped over for the score. Adler made good again, keeping his record perfect for the year and that ended the scoring, 34-14.

The rest of the game found open substitution and neither team was able to move with consistency. The Irish, in substituting, were penalized frequently for delaying the game and their penalties added greatly to their final total of 140 yards.



Carolina lost but one fumble all afternoon, a great come down from last week's game in which the Tar Heels lost six to Wake Forest. But the team was still unable to match the Irish in strength. The Carolina offense was a little better than before, but the Notre Dame attack was still even better than that.



A FEW PRINCIPALS IN NOTRE DAME'S 34-14 WIN OVER CAROLINA—Above left to right, is Notre Dame's speedy back, John Lattner, and Carolina's freshman star, Ken Keller. Lattner had a field day against the Tar Heels from his right half spot and at safety. To the left are two Notre Dame guards that proved to be a thorn in Carolina's side all afternoon. At the top is Tom Seaman, left guard who has been mentioned for All-America, and underneath him is the Irish captain, Jack Alessandrini, who also is All-American material. Below, left to right, is tackle Virgil Bardash, center Dick Szymanski, and tackle Joe Bush. Bardash and Bush, the "Big B's", have had excellent success at stopping opponents line plays, and were largely responsible for the Tar Heels being held to 32 yards rushing. Szymanski is one of the best centers in the Midwest. He was named on a good many all-opponent squads of teams that the Irish played last year, and is a stalwart in the middle of the line for Notre Dame this year. With such a conglomerations of stars, it is no wonder that the Irish swamped inexperienced Carolina.

STATISTICS

	Notre Dame	North Caro.
First Downs	21	7
Rushing Yardage	301	32
Passing Yardage	168	123
Passes Attempted	24	29
Passes Completed	15	11
Passes had Intercepted	1	1
Punts	7	12
Punting Average	31.1	38.9
Fumbles Lost	4	1
Yards Penalized	140	87

LINEUPS:

Notre Dame—
Left Ends: Penza, O'Neil, Cabral, Weithman.
Left Tackles: Varrichione, Palumbo, Poehler, Murphy.
Left Guards: Seaman, Lee, Taylor.
Centers: Schrader, Szymanski, Frasor.
Right Guards: Alessandrini, Mavraides.
Right Tackles: Bush, Ready, Pasquesi, Bardash.
Right Ends: Hunter, Kohanowich, Matz, Mangialardi.
Quarterbacks: Carey, Guglielmi, Martin.
Left Halfbacks: Heap, Flood, Whelan, Joseph, Galardo.
Right Halfbacks: Lattner, Stephens, Reynolds, Psterra, Morrisey.
Fullbacks: Worden, Arrix, Shannon, McHugh.

North Carolina—
Left Ends: Kocornik, Norris, Newton.
Left Tackles: Opitz, Higgins, Fredere, Perdue, Marcinko.
Left Guards: Fott, Gregory, Seawell, Neville.
Centers: Mullens, Hursh, Bruton, Kirkman.
Right Guards: Patterson, Alexander.
Right Tackles: Yarborough, McCreedy, Fure.
Right Ends: Adler, Mainer, Frye, Walser, Starner.
Quarterbacks: Newman, Bullock, Motta.
Left Halfbacks: White, Deweese, Gravitte, Keller.
Right Halfbacks: Parker, Lackey, Williams, Port, Ridenhour.
Fullbacks: Wallace, Cooke, Wallin.

Scoring summary:

Notre Dame	7	7	14	7
Carolina	7	0	0	7

Notre Dame—McHugh (2), Heap, Worden.
Carolina—Adler, Walser.

Soccer Team Takes Trip Tomorrow

The University of North Carolina soccer team, fresh from a good 3-2 victory over Virginia last week, take to the highways tomorrow and Tuesday for an invasion of Virginia.

The Tar Heels face Roanoke College in Salem on Monday and travel over to Lexington, Va., on Tuesday to meet Washington and Lee. The Generals have a strong team, while the Tar Heels will be favored over the Salem squad.

Coach Alan Moore's team opened the campaign two weeks ago with a 1-0 defeat from N. C. State, but rebounded to take the Cavalier match. Renny Randolph, a local boy with no previous soccer experience, has paced the Tar Heels with superlative play.

Rawleigh Tremain, Gerry Russell, Dave Cole, Barry Kalb, Tommy Hopkins, Harry Pawlik, Ben Tison, Don Gladstone, Lou Patseavouras, Drew Patterson and Ronnie Younts have been other standouts.

The Tar Heels return here for a practice match with the Cherry Point Marines next Monday.

Badminton Tourney Held Tomorrow

The Badminton Club sponsored badminton tournament starts tomorrow night in Woollen Gym at 7. Everyone is asked to be prompt as the courts are available from 7-9 only. Those who haven't already entered may do so at the gym office tomorrow night. Courts will be available for people wishing to play but not interested in entering the tourney.

Every treaty signed at the UN must be brought before the U. S. Senate for approval.

The UN helped Indonesia to achieve her independence.

MURALS

Tomorrow's Football

4:00—Field 2, Connor vs Graham-2; Field 3, Alexander-1 vs Everett-2; Field 4, Everett-1 vs Stacy; Field 5, Cobb-1 vs Law School.

4:50—Field 2, AK Psi vs DKE-1; Field 3, SAE-1 vs Delt Sig Pi; Field 4, Graham-1 vs Med. School-3; Field 5, Med School-4 vs Lewis.

Tomorrow's Volleyball

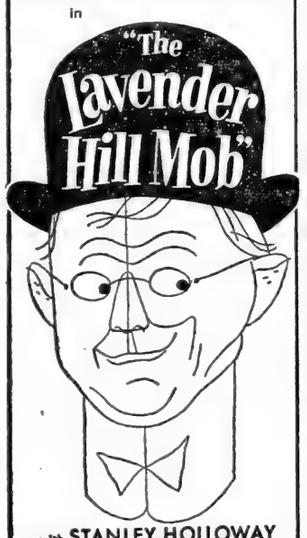
4:00—Court 1, Theta Chi vs Beta-I.
5:00—Court 1, Chi Psi-4 vs KA.
7:00—Court 1, Med School-2 vs Stacy-1; Court 2, Winston vs Med School-5; Court 3, Lamb Chi vs Phi Kap Sig-1; Court 4, Phi Delt-2 vs Phi Kap Sig-3.
8:00—Court 1, Phi Delt-1 vs Zeta Psi-2; Court 2, Phi Gam-3 vs SPE; Court 3, Phi Gam-2 vs Chi Phi; Court 4, Pi Kap Phi vs Chi Psi-1.

Individual citizens can be helpful to the UN by writing to their Congresman.

Congress must approve all appropriation and implementing bills passed in the UN.

Chess Club Holds Tourney Tomorrow

A chess tourney sponsored by the chess club will be held tomorrow night immediately after the 7:30 meeting in Woollen Gym. All chess players are invited including entries from both A and B flights. Secretary Robert Hubbard will register entries at the 7:30 meeting.



CLASSIFIEDS

FOR RENT

3 ROOM APARTMENT with refrigerator, stove, heat, hot water furnished. Private bath. Available Saturday Oct. 25. 426 Whitehead Circle. (1-c9467-2)

HERE IT IS!

Meet the Boss!
ALEC GUINNESS
in
"The Lavender Hill Mob"

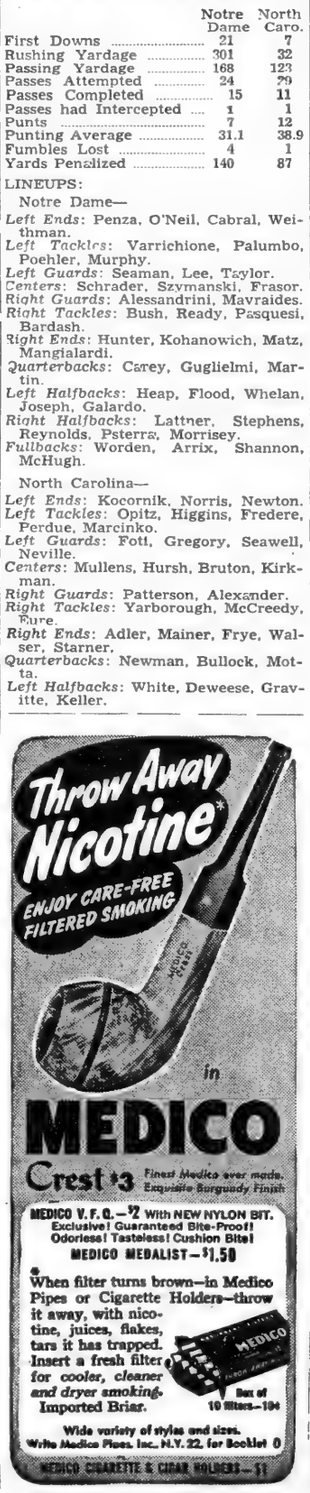
with STANLEY HOLLOWAY
Produced by Michael Balcon
A J. Arthur Rank Organization Presentation
A Universal-International Release

NEXT TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY NIGHTS
PARKVUE DRIVE IN THEATRE
Greensboro Road
5 Minutes from Chapel Hill

FLOWERS IN ALL THEIR FALL GLORY
GIFTS FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD
THE BEST OF BOTH
FOR YOUR SELECTION
AT
UNIVERSITY FLORIST
"Robbins Bldg."

Opportunities in Optometry

Optometry is a profession offering special advantages to ambitious young men and women. Its scope is constantly expanding. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millions depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision. There is a shortage of optometrists in many States.



The Doctor of Optometry possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders an essential service to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice.

U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

The Doctor of Optometry degree can be earned in three college years by a student having sixty or more semester hours of Liberal Arts credits. Such students will be admitted at mid-year by Chicago College of Optometry.

Chicago College of Optometry is centrally located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is nationally accredited and is splendidly equipped. Clinical facilities are unsurpassed.

For catalog, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 2307 No. Clark St., Chicago 14, Ill. Adv.

We're headquarters for
THE EYELET SHIRT
Styled for a distinctive appearance, fashioned for comfort! This flattering collar has two perfectly placed pin-holes that assure a neat, well-dressed lok ayways!

Shown in white oxford, including pin $4.50

THE Sport—SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

N. Y. POST EDITORIAL SAYS:
"She does a Calypso Dance, wearing only what the Hays Office insists is the minimum necessary to keep celluloid from catching fire."

Bible Speech Slated Here By Dr. Davies

Dr. A. Powell Davies, one of the country's leading liberal ministers, will speak in Chapel Hill on the night of Nov. 13, on the topic "The Danger of Preaching from the Bible."

The meeting will be held in Hill Hall at 8:30. Dr. Davies is minister of All Souls Unitarian Church in Washington.

Dr. Davies' address here will be in connection with a series of meetings for the Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Durham. Fellowships Meetings will be held in Durham each night from Nov. 9 through Nov. 13, and Dr. Davies will alternate with Dr. Frederick May Eliot of Boston, president of the American Unitarian Association.

The two Unitarian ministers will conduct a joint service in Durham Sunday evening, Nov. 9. Dr. Davies will preach on "America's Real Religion," and Dr. Eliot on "The Great Tradition." The meetings will be at Clyde Kelly Chapel. Other topics are Nov. 10, "The Religion We Find in the Bible," Dr. Davies; Nov. 11, "The Positive Substance of Unitarian Belief," Dr. Eliot; Nov. 12, "What Is A Religious Person?" Dr. Davies; Nov. 13, "The Liberating and Creative Power of the Unitarian Faith," Dr. Eliot.

They also will speak at civic club luncheons and on the air, with an afternoon meeting for Duke students.

What Goes On Here

Student Audit Board

The Student Audit Board will meet tomorrow at 5 p.m. in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

International Tea

A tea for international students will be given by the Women's Missionary Society at the Baptist Church today at 3 p.m. All international students are invited. Because of the tea, the Cosmopolitan Club will not hold its regular meeting.

Men's Glee Club

The Men's Glee Club will meet tomorrow at 5 p.m. in the Choral Room of Hill Hall.

Cosmopolitan Canceled

The Cosmopolitan Club will not meet today because of a tea for international students. (See item above entitled "International Tea.")

Fashion Show

The Law Wives Association will hold a fashion show Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial. The fashions will be by the Little Shop of Chapel Hill and make-up and hairstyles by the Carolina Beauty Shop. There is no admission charge.

CPU

The Carolina Political Union will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial to discuss "Political Slander." Interested students are invited and the union at present is accepting membership applications.

In Your Church

Baptist

In less than two weeks, Americans will have elected the city, state and national government heads. Hundreds of thousands will go to the polls, many for the first time. But how many of this vast throng will vote intelligently? All too few. Some will vote merely because they feel that voting is the duty of every patriotic citizen; some because of personal gain, and others because they feel that one candidate or candidates is or are superior to his or their opponents.

What factor should one consider prior to voting. To the end of answering this question, Dr. R. L. McMullen, retired Presbyterian minister and former president of a Chinese university, will speak tonight at 6 o'clock in the Baptist Church.

Members of all denominations are welcome at a brief devotional period Monday at 1 p.m. The service will be held in Gerrard Hall.

Sunday school convenes at 9:45 a.m., with Dr. P. H. Epps, of the University Greek Department, continuing his instruction on II Isaiah.

Christian Science

The topic of the Lesson-Sermon in the Christian Science service this morning at 11 o'clock in New West Lecture Room, is "Probation After Death".

Religious Society of Friends

At the meeting of Quakers this morning at 11 o'clock in Graham Memorial, Janet Carter, discussion leader, will speak on the subject, "Who Are Quakers?"

Inter-Faith Council

Stuart Jones of Winston-Salem unanimously was elected ereasurer by the Inter-Faith council, at its meeting Thursday night. Jones is one of the Presbyterian representatives to the council.

An estimated 7-speaker budget was adopted by the council, submitted by George Worth and Paul N. Somerville. The budget calls for contributions from member-organizations on a par of Baptist, $75; Hillel (Jewish), $25; Lutheran, $25; Methodist, $75; Newman Club (Catholic), $10; Presbyterian, $50; U. S. F. (Congregational Christian), $25; YMCA, $100; and YWCA, $50. Worth explained that some groups may not be able to meet this par, but that other groups may oversubscribe to the general pro-rata figure to meet such a deficit.

Reports from the Aservatham Committee, delegated to planning of the program for Dr. Eddy Aservatham's appearance in Chapel Hill, were heard. Dr. Aservatham will be in Chapel Hill Nov. 14-17 under the auspices of the Inter-Faith Council. Plans are being made now for a conference at Camp New Hope, where Dr. Aservatham will direct his major addresses. He will speak on campus in classrooms to political science classes in addition to special groups.

Himself a world-known figure in political science circles, Dr. Aservatham is head of the Theology Department at Boston University. His topics will be "One Who Knew Ghandi", "Religious Faith in the Atomic Age" and "Requisites for Peace."

Congregational-Christian

Among the activities of the United Student Fellowship, is a Sunday morning discussion hour led by Dr. George Nicholson. Since its initial meeting in September, there have been discussions on the concepts of God, Publicity Chairman Edgar Lynch says.

The group will sponsor a Halloween party tonight at the regular Sunday night supper hour, 6 o'clock.

Wesley Foundation (Methodist)

The study of Genesis will be continued this morning with the discussion of the story of Cain and Able and of the great flood. As usual, cocoa and donuts will be served from 9:45 to 10 a.m., when the class meets.

Supper will be served at 6 o'clock, followed by a program centered around the life of Andy Bershak, former All-American football man at Carolina. The game room, where checkers or ping-pong may be played is open Sunday evening early, and the Wesley chorus meets at 5:00 p.m.

DR. ROBERT J. McMULLEN

Dr. McMullen New Pastor

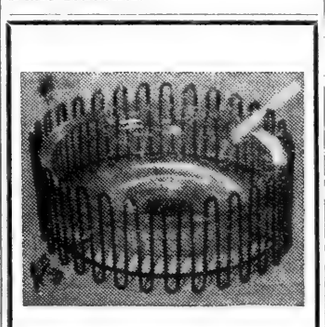
Dr. Robert Johnston McMullen, retired minister and educator who moved here a year ago this month, has been named acting pastor of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church.

He began his duties this week, after a call to the post from the church congregation was approved by Orange Presbytery's Commission on the minister and his work. As acting pastor he will assume all the duties of the regular minister except that he usually will not be preaching the sermon at the Sunday services.

Dr. Thomas Schaeffer of the Duke University Divinity School will preach most of the Sunday sermons and the regular church pastor, the Rev. Charles M. Jones, now on a year's leave, will return once a month to conduct the services. At frequent intervals ministers from other parts of the state also will be called in to preach.

Dr. and Mrs. McMullen have leased the M. B. Garrett house at 208 Vance St. They have five grown children, all of whom are either Presbyterian ministers or married Presbyterian ministers.

Dr. McMullen said he would be glad to go out to visit any persons who are members of the local church or are interested in joining it. He added that he'd be glad to meet anyone at his home also, by appointment, telephone 8591.



The McMullens came to Chapel Hill from New York City, where he was executive secretary of the United Board for Christian Colleges in China since 1946. For two years before that he was president of Centre College in Danville, Ky.

"It's a little out of the way, but they put lots of Angostura* in the Old-Fashioneds!"

ANGOSTURA®
AROMATIC BITTERS
MAKES BETTER DRINKS

*P.S. Without Angostura to marry the flavors, it's not an Old-Fashioned — and that's true of many another cocktail, too! Angostura is the dash you put in — to make the flavor come out!

Treat yourself and your pals to a good looking ash tray, that will eliminate the use of saucers. floors and avoid burning desks, books and clothes. Holds many lighted cigarettes. It has an easily removed 6" glass insert. Made of heavy wrought iron. Also ideal for the folks back home. $4.00 ppd. GAY GIFTS 175-5 AVE., N. Y. 10, N. Y.

LaMarick's Cold Wave Special!

MR. ANGELO IN OUR DURHAM SALON

LaMarick Custom Creme Oil Cold Waves . . . Nationally famous professional permanent.
$12.50 Value
$5.95

LaMarick Deluxe Creme Oil Wave for softer, longer lasting permanent.
$15.00 Value
$6.95

LaMarick Super Deluxe Creme Oil Frigid Cold Wave . . . new, natural-looking permanent.
$25.00 Value
$9.95

Each Permanent Wave Includes

- Personality Hair Cut
- Shaping, Tapering, Thinning
- Reconditioning Shampoo
- Scientific Test Curls
- Oil Neutralizer
- Helene Curtis Creme Rinse
- Setting
- Free Consultation on All Work

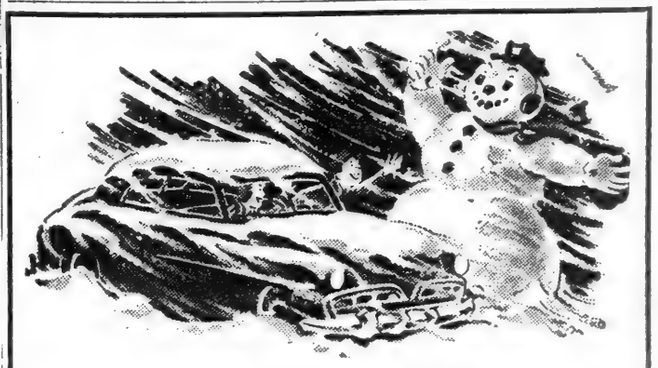
We feature only professionally and nationally advertised products, or products by nationally known manufacturers such as Fashion-Wave by Helene Curtis, Roux, Breck, Clairol, Revlon, Flexa-Wave and LaMarick Frigid Cold Wave.

All permanents individually priced and opened before you. This is for your protection as our customers. Request this always in your beauty salon.

BELK-LEGGETT BEAUTY SALON
Phone Durham 29201

HUDSON-BELK BEAUTY SALON
Phone Raleigh 3-1726
LaMarick Shops

without advertising



you could not shop with the ease and confidence you do now!

SPONSORED BY O.G.M.I.

WEEK-END
House-Cleaning SALE

Each Saturday Through Monday
This Week—Shopworn and Overstock Books in ART, BIOGRAPHY and FICTION—

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR MR. WINTER WITH OUR EXPERT REPAIR

HAZZARD MOTOR COMPANY

"I got me a new friend," KEARNY SAID. "It shoots straight and fast. Any of you boys like an introduction?"

THE GIRL—THEN THE GUN—THEY MADE ONE MAN THE EQUAL OF FIVE!
WARNER BROS. TELL THEIR STORY WITH BULLET-SHATTERING IMPACT!

ALSO STARRING PHYLLIS THAXTER · DAVID BRIAN with PAUL KELLY SCREEN PLAY BY CHARLES MARQUIS WARREN & FRANK DAVIS
DIRECTED BY ANDRE DeTOTH MUSIC BY MAX STEINER

TODAY AND MONDAY
Carolina

ALSO COLOR CARTOON—NEWS

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Sunny and mild with 72 high today. Yesterday's high, 71; low 41.

The Daily Tar Heel

VISIT
Down in Front was at South Bend and the sports editor talks turkey on page 3.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 30 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

Committee Is Established By Local YDC

Will Disseminate Information About Campaign, Voting.

The Young Democrats Club announced yesterday the organization of a campus Democratic Organization Committee.

Vice-President Al House said the committee is composed of one member from each dormitory, fraternity and sorority. House, who is also the chairman of the committee, said the purpose of the organization is to supply information on the presidential campaign and stimulate interest in the election.

Its members are:

Sorority division—Anne Mackie, chairman; Chi Omega, Carmen Oastler; Tri Delt, Ann Bell; Pi Phi, Bish Fox; Alpha Delta Pi, Letitia House; Alpha Gam, Emily Patton and Kappa Delta Biddy Schaeffer.

Women's Dorms — Kathy Holmes, chairman; Alderman, Virginia Hall; Carr, Rene Norris; McIver, Wanda Philpott and Spencer, Toni Kelly; Smith, Daphine Ledford.

Men's Dormitory Division—Jim Wiles, chairman; Alexander, Doug Dodson; Aycock, Dave Forester; BVP, Gerald King and Gary Fulghram; Cobb, John Poindexter, Harry Heilig, and Tom Mauldin; Connor, Wade Brannan; Everett, Bob Barlowe; Grimes, Leslie Hummel; Joyner, Andre Evans and Ken Youngblood; Old West, John Sanders; Old East, Julian Mason; Mangum, Jimmy Wilkinson; Manley, Richard Nixon; Lewis, Howard Tickle; Stacy, Gary Sluder; Ruffin, Joe Davis; Winston, Al Braxton and Mack Greech; Graham, John Humber and Emerson Stadium, Bill Lore.

Fraternity Division — Jules Rousseau, chairman; ATO, Bob

(See YDC, page 3)

Prof. Terrill To Be Pledged By AKPsi

W. A. Terrill, assistant professor in the accounting department of the School of Business Administration will be pledged to Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional fraternity in business administration. The formal ceremony will take place at the chapter house at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Terrill holds a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois and his C. P. A. from the state of Illinois. He joined the UNC faculty in 1951.

Immediately following the pledging of Terrill, the members of Alpha Kappa Psi will go to the Faculty Lounge of the Morehead Building to hear Dr. L. K. Sillcox, executive vice-president of the N. Y. Air Brake Company, speak on "Freight Car Facts," at 7:30. The public is invited.

A business session at the chapter house will follow Dr. Sillcox's lecture at which Walter Lowe, assistant executive secretary-treasurer of Alpha Kappa Psi national, will report on his annual inspection of the local chapter.

Full War

In its weekly session tonight at 8 o'clock the Dialectic Senate will debate a bill calling on the United Nations to wage a full scale war in Korea.

The bill points out that the U.N. cannot withdraw from Korea without considerable loss of prestige and that any withdrawal will constitute a denial of basic U.N. principles of international order. It further states that the Communist forces are gaining strength during the lull of the truce negotiations and that by waging a real war against the aggressor in Korea that the Asiatic conflict would be conclusively ended.

Thursday Is The Last Day

Final Exam Schedule

Edwin S. Lanier, director of Central Office of Records, yesterday released the final examination schedule for the fall quarter.

No student may be excused from a scheduled examination except by the Infirmary, in case of illness, or by his General College faculty adviser or dean.

The schedule:

All 1 p.m. classes—Saturday, Dec. 13, at 8:30 a.m.

All 12 noon classes—Saturday, Dec. 13, at 2 p.m.

All 2 p.m. classes—Monday, Dec. 15, at 8:30 a.m.

All 8 a.m. classes—Monday, Dec. 15, at 2 p.m.

All 9 a.m. classes—Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 8:30 a.m.

All 3 p.m. classes and Bus. Adm. 71 & 72 Chemistry 1 and all classes not otherwise provided for in this schedule—Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 2 p.m.

All 10 a.m. classes—Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 8:30 a.m.

Common Examination (All French, German, & Spanish courses numbered 1, 2, 3, & 4)—Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 2 p.m.

All 11 a.m. classes—Thursday, Dec. 18, at 8:30 a.m.

GOV. ADLAI STEVENSON (left) takes time out to admire a toy donkey presented to him by an admirer during his stop in Cleveland, Ohio, where he made a major speech which may have been a turning point in the campaign. On the right, General Eisenhower leaves for the station after his speech in Buffalo, N. Y., to continue his whistle-stop tour of the country.—UP Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis yesterday ordered striking soft coal miners to go back to work at once. After a Sunday night White House visit, the chief of the United Mine Workers messaged all union district officers that it was his opinion work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of whether the miners may have a $1.90 a day pay increase which the industry has agreed to. The Wage Stabilization Board trimmed the rise to $1.50, holding that a higher boost would violate the government's anti-inflation program.

★

WITH EISENHOWER — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, opening his final drive on the election campaign, said yesterday he will not be turned aside by any criticism from the view that South Korean troops should man the major portion of the battleline in Korea against the Communists. He told a Philadelphia crowd jammed into the big concourse of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 30th St. Station that he holds this view "entirely aside from any political considerations."

★

NEW YORK—A statement by Walter Winchell that President Truman had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan in Missouri in 1922 brought an immediate denial from the White House yesterday. Winchell said in his radio and television broadcast Sunday night that he had affidavits from seven men, five of them Klan officials, stating that Truman took the oath of admission to the Klan in a Kansas City hotel in June, 1922, and later attended and spoke at a Klan meeting lit by burning crosses in an Independence, Mo., cow pasture. Presidential Secretary Irving Perlmeter told reporters in Washington, "The President has authorized me to say categorically he was not a member of the Klan."

★

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27—Hattie McDaniel, 57, the "Beulah" of radio and television and an Academy Award-winning movie actress, died yesterday of cancer. Illness forced her retirement from the "Beulah" show more than a year ago. The show continued on radio through use of transcriptions of her voice. The jovial actress took part in some 300 movies, beginning her film career in 1931. She was born in Wichita, Kan., one of 13 children, and went to school in Denver, where she decided to become an entertainer.

Independents Get Lowdown On Election

The nominating procedure for independent candidates wishing to run for the various campus offices on Nov. 18 was explained yesterday by Chairman Jerry Cook of the Elections Board.

Any students of the University may become a candidate for anl office provided he submits a petition signed by 25 qualified voters and by himself. All nominations for office shall be made in writing and shall be presented to the Elections Board not later than eight class days prior to the established date for elections. The deadline is 6 p.m., Nov. 6.

Petitions may be turned in to Cook at 26 Steele Dormitory the Sigma Chi House, or at the student government office. The petitioner must turn in his grade qualifications as certified by the Dean of Students Office with the petition for the nominations to be considered. Freshmen students who started school this fall need no scholastic report.

Offices to be filled in the fall elections are freshman class officers; junior class officers; three junior seats on the Women's Council; two junior, one sophomore, and one freshman seat on the Men's Council; three men's seats on the Student Council; Daily Tar Heel Editor, and 38 Legislature seats from all the districts.

SUAB Decides To Continue Calendar Issue

Proposal To Post New Large Type Calendar Defeated

Students at the University will continue to get the monthly activities calendar, the SUAB calendar Committee decided last week.

The calendar is sponsored and printed by the Student Union Activities Board to give students a schedule of events of interest on the campus.

There was a move made at the meeting to discontinue printing the usual 5,000 calendars. A larger type was proposed to be posted in dormitories, fraternity houses, sorority houses, and in University owned buildings. The move was defeated.

It was pointed out by one of the members that the calendars had been dumped in the men's dorms in piles and had been disregarded by the great majority of the occupants.

One coed member of the committee said on the other hand that the girls in general were delighted with the calendars. "It's just what they wanted," she said.

Chairman Harry Phillips of the Calendar Committee attributed the piling of the information sheets in the dorms to a lack of organization of distributors. "Next month the circulation of the calendars will be more efficient," Phillips said yesterday.

Herb Cohn, a member of the committee felt that the students' lack of interest in the calendars will be overcome as soon as they realize how helpful they are in planning their budgeted time. "Organizations will be able to plan non-conflicting meetings with just a glance at the list of events," Cohn stated.

The Coordinating Council of the SUAB which is made up of leaders of some 40 organizations on the campus is working with the calendar committee on preventing conflicts of activities. Information is obtained also from the Dean of Students Office and the student government office, two major outlets.

Groups planning events of general interest to the campus are invited to turn information in to the Calendar Committee by phoning 5614 or by writing Box 30, Chapel Hill.

Debate Team Victor In Weekend Tourney

The UNC affirmative debate sent to the novice debate tournament at Wake Forest last Saturday came in first. Bill Zuckerman of UNC was chosen best speaker of the tournament.

Other members of the winning Carolina affirmative team were Al Levine, Don Sherry and Fred Crawford. Anne Scott, Charles Yarbororugh, Beverly Webb and Marc Gittleman were members of the UNC negative team.

'Dook' Parade Is Set

Imprudent Stars Told 'Put Your Undies On'

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — Pert Terry Moore took a startled look at her curvaceous sisters of the movies and warned them they'd better put their undies back on, if they want to be considered sexy.

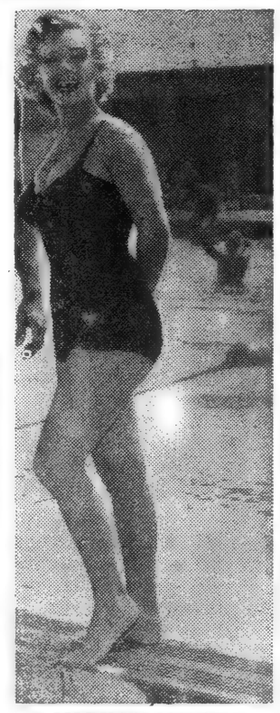
Miss Moore levelled a slim finger at such sirens as Marilyn Monroe, who recently confessed she never wears a stitch under her dresses, Vanessa Brown, who reported she was shopping for an offer to pose in the nude for a 1953 calendar, and Corine Calvet, who confided she had to leave notes on her dressing table reminding herself to put on a bra.

"I'll take up the moral angle later," Miss Moore declared in warming to her subject. "First, let's consider my main suspicion that girls who wear no underwear are the 'have nots' of the cheesecake world."

Miss Moore declared she was firmly, and amply, enrolled on the side of the 'haves' and explained her feminine attributes were so feminine she positively had to wear girdle and bra under her sweaters and skirts. She held an impromptu style show in her hotel suite to demonstrate her points and certainly built up a great case for her argument.

"I've been reading the statements from these 'no underwear' girls with astonishment," she said. "It's bad enough being a 'have not' but they don't seem to realize they're advertising the facts."

A lady who has been blessed with more than her ample share of curves just can't pass up restrainers, Miss Moore emphasized. Large sections of the nation have the illusion that girls like Miss Monroe and Miss Calvet are exceptionally ornamental, but that's created by tricks of photography. "They're made to look ripe and sexy with certain props and by positions in posing figured out for them by talented photographers," Terry said. "A lot of those lensmen are veterans of 25 years and can make something wonderful out of practically nothing."



Miss Moore said some of her classmates at UCLA could give the j'no underwear' girls cards and spades in any contest of curves and win in jig time. The generously endowed movie star said she had no reason to fear how she, herself, would fare in such a battle.

"My cup runneth over," she said. "It would be impossible for me to go anywhere without underthings. I'd overflow past the danger point."

Miss Moore charged Marilyn Monroe with using self-deflating tactics on still another level or curve by revealing she wore no pants. Most men, she argued, consider such remarks entirely too blatant, even from the prettiest girl.

Terry had no such strong

(See UNDIES, page 3)

MARILYN MONROE

Donors Shell Out $1,058 For Adlai

Local supporters of Adlai Stevenson are backing up their words with their wads and drawing praise from the Democratic National Headquarters by doing so.

The Chapel Hill group's first contribution of $410 was noted in a national newsletter from the now aiding Ruml in the Democratic Headquarters. Beardsley Ruml, originator and head of the $5 certificate drive for Stevenson finances, mentioned the work at UNC in a national broadcast. So far UNC has gathered $1,058.

Julian Mason, local chairman, received a personal phone call from Leon Henderson on Sunday. Henderson, former Office of Price Administration boss, is now aiding Rumy in the Democratic campaign. He congratulated the local organization and suggested it attempt to inspire similar work at Duke University.

Marine Club Meets Again, Elects Heads

The newly formed Semper Fidelis Society held its second meeting last week in the Naval Armory.

The business session was devoted to reading and discussing the constitution which was presented to the society by the steering committee. Officers for the coming year were elected according to the constitution.

Col. John Poindexter was made president; Lt. Colonel Check Goodin was elected vice-president; Maj. Harvey Bradshaw named secretary; Capt. Ned Beeker chosen publicity officer; Capt. Charles Seabrook elected social officer; Capt. Wallace Pridgen named treasurer, and Capt. Howard Tickle became chaplain.

This society has the distinction of being the first such society to be formed in the nation. The purpose of the society is:

"To promote good fellowship and the cultivation of the social virtues among its members, and to stimulate interest concerning current Marine Corps policies and doctrines among its members and the dissemination of such pertinent Marine Corps matters as deemed necessary by the society to the student body for the protection and advancement of the highest ideals of the U. S. Marine Corps."

Coed Beauties, Floats Set For Nov. 21 Show

PiKA's Sponsor Pre-Game Fanfare For Fifth Year

The fifth annual "Beat Dook" parade, sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, will roll on the streets Nov. 21, Chairman Clayton Jackson said yesterday.

The float competition will be held the day before the Duke-Carolina game. Trophies for the winning floats in the four divisions will be awarded during halftime ceremonies at the game. The four groups are women's dormitory, men's dormitory, sorority and fraternity.

Floats will be judged first on beauty and second on originality and effectiveness of idea, Clayton said. The theme of each float must pertain to beating Duke. There is no entrance fee and no limitation on cost of the floats.

The float parade queen and her court of six coeds will be chosen Nov. 18. Any organization entering a float is eligible to enter a coed as its candidate for Float Parade Queen. The identity of the queen will be announced the day of the game.

Chi Omega Kit Armstead was chosen Float Parade Queen last year. Top honors in the float competition went to McIver, Stacy, Kappa Sigma and Pi Beta Phi.

Entry deadline is Nov. 16. All applications should be turned into Jackson at the PiKA house.

Student Play 'Pink Circus' Opens Soon

The first of the 1952-53 series of new plays by Carolina students will appear at the Playmakers Theater Thursday and Friday when the Playmakers present "The Pink Circus", a drama of matricide by Gonzalo Estrada of Modesto, Calif.

Entirely student-produced, the play, which takes place in a Mexican labor camp in the California desert, is directed by John Clayton, with Hal England in the leading role of Jimmie. Others in the cast include Bill Waddell as Bush, Buck Reynolds as Eddie, Nancy Green as Jimmie's mother, Manly Wade Wellman as Uncle Carlos, Betty Vickery as the Girl, Frances O'Neal as Pomposa, Jane Kottmeier as Jeannie, Carl Williams as Jimmie's father, William Casstevens as the Man, John Riordan as Clancy, and the boys and girls of the camp: Richard Burton, John Taylor, George Spence, Martha Ann Boyle, Martha Davis, Peggy Caldwell, Florence Williams, Lundie Lenoir, Rose Marie Raymer, Betty Fay Lentz and Neta Whitty.

The set was designed by Richard Epler, with lighting by Anne Edwards, costumes by Jeannette Pratt and makeup by Edgar Daniels.

Roundtable

The comparative merits of the presidential candidates, their campaigns, qualifications, and platforms wil be discussed tonight at 7 o'clock by Ham Horton and John Sanders in Graham Memorial.

The president of the student body wil state the case for Ike, and Sanders, chairman of the Young Democrat Committee, will present the facts for Adlai. An informal period of questions will follow.

The Campus and Public Affairs Committees of the YWCA are jointly sponsoring the discussion.

'How Do You Like This Color?'

Trotter Gallops Along On New Motel Project; Got Start Here

By Louis Kraar

Bing Crosby's jovial musical director, John Scott Trotter, traded his baton for a paint brush last week to lead a band of workmen renovating an old boarding house here.

The music master "gladly" took time out for a chat filled with jolly laughter and many memories of Chapel Hill. Sitting on the front steps of the old Bryan Motel, which he recently has purchased, Trotter told of his days at the University, where he got his first start in music.

"Carolina sure has grown," he remarked looking at the thick traffic along Franklin Street. He reminisced about his short, but happy, stay at the University in 1925. After a week on campus, frosh Trotter met with Hal Kemp and organized the now legendary Kemp aggregation. Before long the group was playing one night stands in Rock Hill, Durham and other nearby towns on weekends. During the week they avidly rehearsed in Gerrard Hall.

It was one of these weekends that "lasted a little longer than we expected" that Trotter took the decisive step of hitting the road with the Kemp group instead of returning to school. The rest is musical history. The Kemp group clicked, mainly because of the distinctive Trotter arrangements, and skyrocketed to fame.

Vacationing in Hollywood in 1936, Trotter was asked by tunesmith Johnny Burke to arrange some songs for a movie starring Bing Crosby, "Pennies From Heaven." Six months later Trotter went to work for Crosby as his musical director and has "been with him ever since," as Trotter himself says.

Trotter does all the musical conducting and arranging for the nonchalant crooner Crosby.

(See TROTTER, page 4)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter delivered. $6 and $2.25 per quarter

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. .....Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. .....Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. .....Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. .....Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. .....Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. ..... Ned Beebe

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Krasr, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Tish Rodman.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Sull, Judy Taylor, Joyce Jowdy, Bozy Sugg, Nancy Perryman.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Rolfe Neill

Express Yourself

Editor:

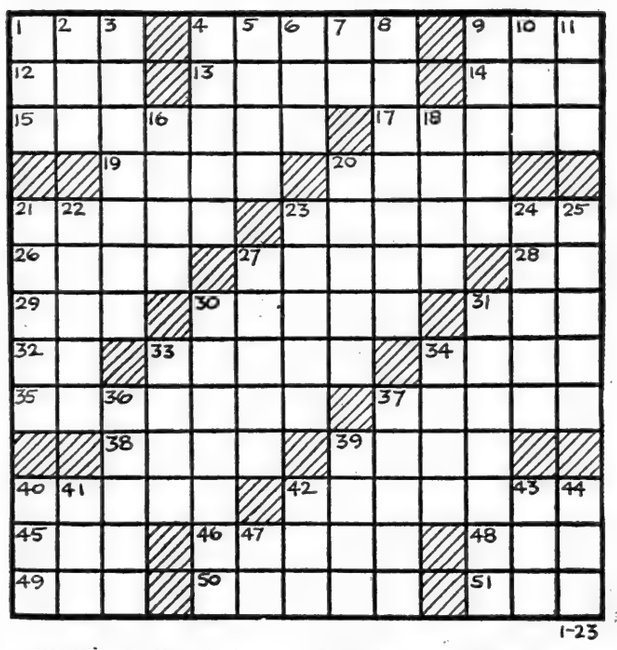
"Death of a Salesman" was so powerful a play and so well acted that not until later did I realize that I had almost become accustomed, by its frequency, to hearing the names of the first and second persons of God "taken in vain." This practice would probably be justified on the grounds of realism. Surely the realism of life without God to give it true meaning and value was portrayed starkly enough without using that highly questionable method! It may not have been possible to delete these references, as I understand was done in the screen version. If not, it becomes a choice of values. Is there any value higher or more worthy of being preserved than reverence? No value can be kept without willingness to sacrifice lesser values for it, if need be. Would it not be better to forego even so great an experience as "Death of a Salesman" rather than to violate the reverence enjoined by the Third Commandment and in the first petition of the Lord's Prayer?

If it should be contended that the theatre has no responsibility to preserve values but only to portray life as it exists in all of its aspects, that raises even more important questions. Not even the people who present plays, and values. By necessity, in the process of selection, they will operate according to some standard of values that they hold. Realism is not an ultimate standard. The questions are, what sides of reality, and how, and why? For what purpose and to what end? These are the very issues raised by the play, and they can not be evaded on either side of the footlights.

David W. Yates

Off Campus

In a nationally circulated one paragraph news story, the Syracuse Herald-Journal reported the following item.

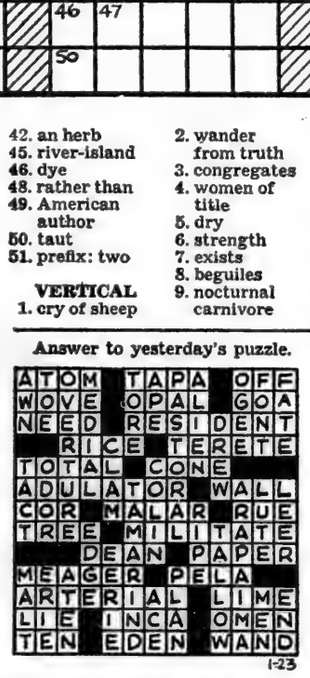


A Harvard freshman, only son of a New York advertising executive, vanished today after leaving his Cadillac touring car in a garage. (The 18-year-old student) left four notes indicating he was irked at restrictions imposed on first year students.

We don't know this fellow personally and we hope he doesn't plan to come here, but we know what kind of chap he must be and feel sorry for him.

If you're one of those students who can't take a few college restrictions, we feel sorry for you, also.

After all, it isn't your fault. If you were brought up in a family that let you run wild whenever you wanted to, then you would also object to the discipline of college life. You may also find it practical to "up and run away" one of these days.



But if you do decide to take off, by all means, don't leave your Cadillac behind you. You can go much faster in a car.

HORIZONTAL
1. supplicate
4. slayer of Goliath
9. Gypsy
12. macaw
13. get up
14. blackbird
15. sister of Apollo
17. more recent
19. sped
20. fop
21. Hebrew measures
23. makes turbid
26. uncommon
27. country roads
28. exclamation
29. bitter vetch
30. functions in trigonometry
31. masculine name
32. three-toed sloth
33. coterie
34. invariably
35. lament
37. leaf of grass
38. moos
39. prefix: half
40. rank
42. an herb
45. river-island
46. dye
48. rather than
49. American author
50. taut
51. prefix: two

VERTICAL
1. cry of sheep
2. wander from truth
3. congregates
4. women of title
5. dry
6. strength
7. exists
8. beguiles
9. nocturnal carnivore
10. single unit
11. Russian local community
16. independent Ireland
18. annexes
20. sand hills
21. mountain nymph
22. feminine name
23. parsonage
24. allayed
25. portion
27. prevaricators
30. most tardy
31. sufficed
33. lump of earth
34. shade trees
36. dish
37. capital of Switzerland
39. raised platform
40. breach
41. city in Brazil
42. woodland spirit
43. silkworm
44. affirmative
47. symbol for tellurium

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

1-23

Average time of solution: 23 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

John Taylor REVIEWS

Last week someone got an itchy trigger finger with the clipping shears, and so the final third of the "Death of a Salesman" review was cut. Herewith follows a Reader's Digest version of what was omitted on Friday. Don Treat, Harry Davis, Anne Miller, Milton Beyer, Paul Anisko, Mary Helen Crain, and Judy Taylor all turned in extremely able performances. Tom Patterson's direction had good pace and pointed up the many powerful scenes. Bill Long's set accomplished the minor miracle of convincingly getting a complete set on the small Playmaker stage. The lighting, by Norma Cartwright, was good in some places, but failed to indicately clearly the transition between the scenes dealing with the present and the flashback scenes.

This week should be proclaimed Marilyn Monroe week in Chapel Hill, for she can be seen in three different films within the course of five days. In contrast to last week this is very definitely the time to go to the movies.

Miss Monroe will first grace Chapel Hill with her presenece on Tuesday when she will be appearing on the screen of the Carolina as part of the all-star cast of "O. Henry's Full House," in which she is playing—what else—a streetwalker. On the order of the Somerset Maugham pictures, it is a collection of O. Henry short stories. The group is comprised of the folowing: "The Cop and the Anthem," starring Miss Monroe, Charles Laughton, and David Wayne; "The Clarion Call," with Richard Widmark and Dale Robertson; "The Gift of the Magi," starring Jeanne Crain and Farley Granger; "The Last Leaf," with Anne Baxter, Jean Peters, and Gregory Ratoff; and "The Ransom of Red Chief," starrring Fred Allen and Oscar Levant. There is some question as to whether the last-named episode will be presented here, because it has been omitted in some places, but whether it is or not, "O. Henry's Full House" remains a film that should please everybody, and you are very strongly urged to see it.

Monroe is also cavorting around in "Don't Bother to Knock" at the Varsity, on Tuesday in which she proves she really can act, as if anyone cared, and on Sunday and Monday at the Carolina in "Monkey Business," an amusing nothing about youth elixirs co-starring with Cary Grant and Ginger Rogers.

The Monroe-less films that are worth recommendation this week are the following: at the Varsity, "The Desert Fox" on Wednesday and "Red River" on Friday; at the Carolina, Jose Ferrer's "Cyrano de Bergerac" on Thursday.

The Russians are now claiming that they, and not Abner Doubleday, invented the game of baseball. A Soviet youth magazine told its readers that "beizbol" is not American but just a distortion of the Russian village sport called "lapta," which was played centuries before there was an America on the map.

American baseball, said the youth magazine, is a "beastly battle, a bloody fight with mayhem and murder."

It said also that the players are slaves who are bought and sold like sheep. Then, when the players are worn out and usually crippled as a result of injuries suffered on the playing field, they are thrown out on the streets to die of starvation.

The Moscow newspaper, Iswestija, is greatly disturbed because so many graduate students have postponed taking their final exams. No student can get a degree unless he has passed this exam, but he can't take the exam until he has served for three years in a position designated by the state.

Ohio State's 1953 yearbook, The Makio, will be heard as well as seen.

In each yearbook there will be a 15-minute phonograph record of some of the sounds most familiar to Ohio State students —the chimes, the marching band, school songs and excerpts from speeches by campus leaders.

Home of The Brave

Drew Pearson
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Little was published about it nationally but, while Senator McCarthy has been scattering guilt-by-association charges around the country, some legal depositions have been taken in Wheeling, W. Va., regarding the all-important question of whether Senator McCarthy tells the truth.

McCarthy's first charge of Communism in the State Department, which so startled the nation, was made at Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 9, 1950, when he said 205 Communists were in that vital agency which conducts our foreign affairs. Since then, and due perhaps to the fact that no Communists have been found in the State Department, McCarthy has been trying to deny that he ever used the figure "205." He has claimed he was misquoted, misunderstood, unfairly dealt with.

However, here is the testimony of witnesses at Wheeling, W. Va., who saw McCarthy on that day and heard him speak.

WITNESS NO. 1 — News Editor James Whitaker of Station WWVA identified a copy of the script McCarthy used on Feb. 9, 1950: testified that he was present when McCarthy spoke; said he used the script to check the speech while making a tape recording; that both the tape and the script contained the following statement by McCarthy:

"While I cannot take the time to name all the men in the State Department who have been named as active members of the Communist party and members of a spy ring, I have here in my hand a list of 205 — a list of names that were made known to the Secretary of State as being members of the Communist party, and who nevertheless are still working and shaping policy in the State Department."

WITNESS NO. 2 — WWVA program director Paul A. Myers testified: he read over McCarthy's script on the afternoon of Feb. 9 and it contained the above language. On Feb. 10 he read an account of the speech in the Wheeling Intelligencer quoting this language. Later that morning he got the tape recording and played it back to make sure if this language had been used. It had been.

WITNESS NO. 3—Frank Desmond, reporter for the Wheeling Intelligencer testified: He wrote the news story appearing Feb. 10 concerning McCarthy's speech which contained the above language regarding 205 Communists. He received copy of script from McCarthy en route from airport, and it contained this statement.

WITNESS NO. 4—WWVA assistant manager Paul J. Miller testified: He examined the McCarthy script on the afternoon of Feb. 9 and heard the figure 205 used in listening to the broadcast later that night. He also identified a photostat of the script which contained the language.

In contrast McCarthy swore on April 24, 1950, before a Senate committee that he had not used this language. He stated in a Senate speech Feb. 20 not only that he hadn't used this language but that he hadn't used a written speech. (Witness Whitaker testified under oath he had seen McCarthy reading from a written speech, while four witnesses identified copies of McCarthy's script.)

On Sept. 7, 1951, McCarthy, interviewed by the U. S. News and World Report, said that at Wheeling he had referred to a 1946 letter from Secretary of States James Byrnes to Congressman Sabath. But all four witnesses stated that at Wheeling he said no such thing.

Thus McCarthy has put himself in the position of giving at least three different versions of what he said at Wheeling in order to alibi the fact that actually there were not 205 communists in the State Department, and that, despite prolonged investigation since his speech, not one communist has been discovered by the Loyalty Board.

Note—The State Department loyalty check, which began about three years before McCarthy's first charges, most of the time has been under a Republican from New Hampshire, Brig. Gen. Conrad E. Snow, appointed to the post in the recommendation of the Senate Republican leader, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

Pent-up feelings over a wage increase for striking coal miners almost exploded into fistcuffs between two prominent members of the Wage Stabilization Board—Elmer E. Walker, an AFL member, and Robert C. Bassett, a Chicago attorney serving as an industry member.

The altercation occurred at a closed-door session shortly before the WSB approved a compromise mine pay boost of $1.50 a day instead of the $1.90 raise agreed to by John L. Lewis and the mine operators.

Labor members, led by Walker, vigorously opposed the compromise, but were outvoted by industry and public members.

"We on the Labor side feel that the $1.90 increase is equitable, justified by higher living costs and not out of line with the stabilization program," declared Walker. "In fact, we could approve as much as $2.15, using the standards the board itself has set in the Aluminum, Tungsten and Northwest Lumber cases.'

Industry members, led by Bassett, hotly dissented, contending that Walker was making irresponsible statements and that he was trying to force a vote without sufficient discussion. The AFL official replied that he was acting within "sound parlia-

(See PEARSON, page 3)

Express Yourself

Editor:

No one has ever said that the military service has a monopoly on democracy. That belief will find salvos of support from the ROTC students here on the Carolina campus.

Of course, when a young man pledges himself voluntarily into the unit he is expected to abide by the codes and mores existing in that unit or disassociate himself with that group. However, there are certain basic principles which respect and common decency demand.

Nothing which is compulsory is usually met with love—especially when the compulsion pertains to the payment of fees. The AROTC students and the NROTC students were forced to pay three and five dollars respectively for social fees or receive demerits as a penalty. As a ROTC student myself, I had no intentions of joining the unit for social whims and military balls. With close to three thousand dollars about to be collected from both groups I can rightfully believe that the money could be better spent for other things than beer and pretzels. But why compel its payment in the first place?

Another disgruntled group complains that having to march at the Duke vs. Carolina football game is a little short of despotism on the part of the high brass. Only excuses of emergency are accepted for absence and an unexcused absence spells expulsion from the unit. Somehow, boys feel that Saturday afternoon is their free time to go to the game or not, to wear what they want, or to sit at the game where they please. And whereas the groups were planning beer parties they were also forbidden drinking at the football game. (An atroscity)

While some beat their chests in disapproval of these regulations another group observes injustice elsewhere. In the AROTC no man is permitted to wear gloves unless they meet with the demands of the officers. On a cold day he may wear gloves which meet specifications and which he himself had to purchase. Those perplexed fellows feel that the military should furnish the uniform or allow boys to wear their own clothing where the uniform is lacking.

Perhaps they have a point worthy of consideration by the brass.

Name Withheld by Request

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Cancellation Catastrophe

JUST HOW MUCH the cancellation of the Georgia and N. C. State games has hurt the Carolina football team becomes more evident with every game the Tar Heels play. When the polio outbreak forced us to call off the two tilts most experts knew that it would hurt the Tar Heels. But I don't think anybody realized just to what great extent it would.

The Notre Dame game at South Bend last Saturday showed just what kind of spot we're on. We were playing our third game of the season while the Fighting Irish were going into their fifth, and when you're trying to get a new offense started, as we are with our split-T formation, then the difference in the number of games means a lot. That was the main distinction between the two teams Saturday.

The Carolina team was more than ready to play the Irish and most of the players had a feeling that they could win, despite the fact that they were rated three-touchdown underdogs. For awhile it looked as though they might fulfill their hopes but then that extra bit of playing time that the Irish held started to show and the Tar Heels, apparently snake bitten as far as getting a victory goes, bowed again.

Only 26 Seconds More

AS WAS THE CASE in the Wake Forest game when the Deacons kicked a field goal with only 1:22 left in the game to win, 9-7, the Irish broke our hearts and our backs with two quick scoring plays. They hit us before we knew what happened, when with 16 seconds remaining in the first half Notre Dame quarterback Ralph Guglielmi hit end Art Hunter in the end zone for the second touchdown. And then on the opening kickoff of the second half left halfback Joe Heap gathered the ball on his own 16-yard line and ran the rest of the way for another TD. Only 10 seconds had elapsed by the time he crossed the Carolina goal. Add the two together and you get a meager 26 seconds—but not enough time to get a coed from Spero's to Alderman—but try to get the Irish to give those few seconds back to us. Knock off the 26 seconds and the two touchdowns and you get Notre Dame, 20-14, a little more respectable score.

The Carolina offense looked better than it has anytime before but still it lacked that little something it takes to score with consistency. The two Tar Heel touchdowns were set up by recovered Notre Dame fumbles. It looked at times that we might get a sustaned drive going but every time a fly in the disguise of a Notre Dame lineman got in the ointment. Quarterback Marshall Newman looked good on some of his passes but on other occasions his arm was erratic. After directing the Carolina drive down to the Notre Dame 17-yard-line, he missed three straight passes and the Irish took over on downs.

Pitchouts Prosper

NEWMAN WAS MUCH BETTER in the way he handled the ball, however, and should improve more every game. We lost but one fumble the entire afternoon while pulling in four of the Notre Dame bobbles ourselves. When we did get our running attack going it usually resulted from pitchout plays. We hadn't used these plays much in either the Texas or Wake Forest games but they worked well against the Irish. The pitchout is the most threatening of any split-T play and it was good to see the Tar Heels trying them. The attack just won't go unless they are used. Handoff plays and cracks at the center resulted in very little for us and contributed mostly to our loss of yardage.

Even though Newman did look better in his passing and handling of the T he was rushed many times on his plays and some of his erratic passing can be attributed to his forced haste in getting the ball away. He was tackled for losses several times before he could get the ball away by the fast charging Notre Dame line.

The defensive line looked as good as ever in the first half but the second stanza found the Irish getting loose repeatedly. Heap, Johnny Lattner, Neil Worden, and Tom McHugh were consistent in their gaining in the last half. The main trouble for the Tar Heels seemed to be their tackling—with high tackles losing men where low ones would have brought the runners down.

Telegramatic Inspiration

IT WAS A COLORFUL occasion despite the loss with most of the 54,338 fans enjoying a good day of it from start to finish. The Notre Dame marching band put on a colorful pre-game show, forming an NC and saluting the Carolina side with Hark the Sound. Led by six bagpipers dressed in appropriate Scottish regalia, the band of over 100 then formed the traditional Notre Dame and greeted the Irish rooters with the familiar fight song. Halftime entertainment found the crack Navy drill team from Pensacola, Fla., performing and although the Notre Dame Air ROTC had presented a fine performance before the game, the Navy team approached near perfection in its half-time presentation.

The most inspiring moment of the day for the Carolina team was the arrival of the countless telegrams from Tar Heel well-wishers who couldn't make it to the game. Plastered up by adhesive tape, the best-of-luck messages covered an entire wall and certainly added inspiration to the players. From their voices and their faces you could sense that they knew they could beat the Irish. They gave it all they had—but that extra bit of work that the Irish have had and that extra 26 seconds had it otherwise. After the game the team had nothing to look forward to except a long plane trip home—and another game with Tennessee this Saturday.

You too can have a summer summer vacation . . .

WHEN?

The week end of the Carolina-Miami game at the . . .

FLORIDIAN

Send Reservations Now

The FLORIDIAN offers you the European plan with prices at . . .

$3 to $5—Single

$4 to $6—Double

See Spero Dorton at The Goody Shop for further information.

OFFICIAL!!

Air Force

Oxford Cloth

SHIRTS

by

Manhattan

At

JACK LIPMAN'S

"Serving The College Man Since 1924"

Tar Heels Have Three Backs Ailing

Bob White Will Be Out Two Weeks

North Carolina's football luck next weekend against powerful University of Tennessee may depend on injuries, as three leading backs in the Tar Heel lineup are sidelined at least for the present.

Bob White, first string offensive right half, suffered a broken cheek early in the Notre Dame game last Saturday, and won't see action for at least two weeks. White was outstanding against Texas this year, and has played consistantly good ball. He was carried home from South Bend on a stretcher.

Billy Williams, Carolina safety man is still out from an ankle injury sustained in the Texas game, and an eye injury against Notre Dame. Sonny Ridenhour, one of his leading substitutes, was knocked out in the Notre Dame game, and isn't able to suit up in heavy clothes as yet.

Carolina Coach Carl Snavely reverted to fundamental conditioning in the early part of yesterday's practice as an aid in getting the Tar Heels in shape for the perrenially rugged Volunteers. Snavely is determnied to have his team at a peak as it enters the second half of its schedule with no breather in sight.

The last part of practice was devoted to a rugged scrimmage, with both first string offensive and defensive units seeing action. Both regular units worked against the Jayvees which used Tennessee formations.

The Carolina ground offense, improving each game, got the most attention from the coaches as they worked feverishly at getting the Split-T running smoothly. With Ernie Liberatti back at his old spot as single wing tailback in a simulation of the Volunteer offense, the defensive team worked on pass patterns.

The defensive unit played an excellent first half against the Irish, holding them to a 7-7 tie until 16 seconds left before the end of the second quarter. Two quick Notre Dame scores, one in those last 16 seconds and another in the first ten of the second half broke the Tar Heels backs and broke the game wide open.

The Tar Heels were unable to stage a sustained drive, their worst fault since the start of the year.

Ad in the UCLA Daily Bruin: "Will the blonde young lady who wore sun glasses Thursday morning (besides other things) be in the cafeteria between 11 and 12 a.m.?"

Vol Ducats Still Available

Tickets for the Carolina-Tennessee game at Knoxville Saturday can still be obtained at the ticket office in Woollen Gym from 9-4:30 every afternoon before Thursday. They are priced at $4.00.

Students and faculty will be admitted free to Friday's junior varsity game with William and Mary by presenting their pass books at gate two. Other spectators may purchase tickets for $1.

Law School Tops Cobb Dorm, 28-0

The Law School, with a strong offense, swamped Cobb-1 yesterday, 28-0, in the only 4:00 game. All other games scheduled at 4:00 were forfeited.

Scoring eight points in the first half on a good passing attack, the winners held Cobb scoreless to build up a big lead. Tailback Culberts passed to Danis for the touchdown. The other two points were scored on a safety.

In the second half the Lawyers continued to build up their lead, scoring three more touchdowns and adding two extra points. Right end Evans kicked two extra points and scored a touchdown to lead the winners.

Left end White scored twice for Law School with back White scoring the other. The Law defense also stood out during the game.

The forfeits went to Graham over Connor, Stacy over Everett-1, and to Alexander over Everett-2.

—Undies—

(Continued from page 1)

views about male underwear. She just completed a movie, "Come Back Little Sheba," in which she spent a good deal of the time acting with a muscular athlete attired in nothing but a pair of shorts. Miss Moore conceded the gent lost nothing by the scantiness of his basic costume.

—Pearson—

(Continued from page 2)

mentary procedure" and added:

"Every time the working man asks for a wage increase to meet higher living costs, he is accused of encouraging inflation and socialism. But the same people who make this charge say nothing about inflation and socialism when business gets government handouts through rapid amortization and other tax benefits.

"It seems to me that you are taking a cavalier attitude toward a very serious problem—that of maintaining a stabilized economy," snapped Bassett.

"I am not any more carefree about this than you are," shot back Walker, bristling. "I'll give you an opportunity to repeat your accusation outside after this meeting is over."

The two men, both hefty redheads—though Bassett is taller and about 10 years younger than Walker—were all set to slug it out in the corridor as the conference broke up. Bassett repeated his "cavalier" charge, and Walker, laying down some papers, started to take off his glasses.

Board colleagues immediately intervened, however, and both men later agreed to forget about the flare-up.

Duke Meets Tech Saturday At Durham; Tickets Remain

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

Durham, N. C. Oct. 27—Duke's Blue Devils return to action in Duke Stadium Saturday after playing three straight games away and the opposition they find there to meet them is enough to drive them away again.

It's the homecoming clash against Coach Bobby Dodd's Georgia Tech outfit, one of the nation's undefeated teams of last year which has ranked high nationally again this season.

The Rambling Wreck, which has played some of the most thrilling games in the South in its long series with Duke, is led by a host of hard-running backs, a stout defensive forward wall and a hard-charging offensive line.

The Engineers rolled over Southern Methodist, Florida, Kentucky, LSU, Auburn, Vanderbilt, Virginia Military, Alabama, Davidson and Georgia last year, being held to a 14-14 tie by the underdog Blue Devils. Tech later defeated Baylor, 17-14, in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

Offensively the Engineers have been paced this season by backs Leon Hardeman and Billy Teas, ends Buck Martin and Jeff Knox. Teas will actually be "coming home" at Duke's homecoming Saturday; he's a sophomore from Andrews, N. C.

Other veterans on the Tech offensive team include end Dave Davis, a potent punter; tackles Hal Miller (co-captain with linebacker George Morris) and Matt Lyons; guards Ed Gossage, Bill Banks and Jake Shoemaker; centers Pete Brown and Dick Inman; halfbacks Chappell Rhino, Dick Pretz and Larry Ruffin; fullback Glenn Turner and quarterback Pepper Rodgers, the extra point and field goal specialist.

Tickets still remain for this important clash Saturday, but fans are urged to get them early this week because Duke officials expect a sellout crowd Saturday.

—YDC—

(Continued from page 1)

Mason; Beta Theta Pi, Buddy Trexler; Chi Psi, Dick Proctor; Chi Phi, Ed Hatch; Herbert Thorp, DKE; Tom Bulla, Kappa Alpha; Ken Penegar, Kappa Sigma; Bob Aldridge, Lambda Chi; Steve Tremble, Phi Delt; Phi Gam, Bill Brewer; Phi Kappa Sigma, Tom Payne; Pi Kappa Alpha, Fred Deaton; Pi Kappa Phi, Bob Thomas; Pi Lamb, Steve Sutker; SAE, Jid Thompson; Sigma Chi, Sid Hoots; Sigma Nu, Lynn Bond; SPE, Joe Parker; St. Anthony, Charlie Kuralt; TEP, Dick Schwartz; Theta Chi, Henry Lewis; ZBT, Alan Heilig, and Zeta Psi, Alex Barnes.

Town Division—Gene Oberdorfer, chairman; Roger Guthrie and Bill West, and Victory Village, Dowd Davis, Nancy Blocksldige, and Connie DeLancey.

MURALS

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Tag Football

4:00—Field 2, Cobb 1 vs. Law Scool; Field 3, Emerson vs. Cobb 2; Field 4, PiKA vs. Beta 1; Field 5, Sae 1 vs. AK Psi.

4:50—Field 2, Joyner 1 vs. Everett 1; Field 3, Med School 2 vs. Steele; Field 4, Ruffin vs. Everett 2; Field 6, Med School 1 vs. Aycock.

Volleyball

4:00—Court 1, SAE 1 vs. Chi Psi 2; Court 2, Sig Nu vs. Kappa Sig 3.

5:00—Court 1, Delta Sigma Pi 2 vs. Pi Lamb; Court 2, Emerson vs. Med School 6.

SPECTACULAR PURCHASE!

MEN'S CHARCOAL GREY FLANNELS

Regular 14.95

ONLY $10.95

- Quality Tailored From America's Finest Mills!
- The Most Spectacular Slack Value In All America Today!
- Real Savings on the most wanted Color and Fabric!
- Choose from waist sizes 28 to 44!

THE Sport SHOP N. COLUMBIA ST.

Test CAMELS for 30 days for Mildness and Flavor

CAMELS are America's most popular cigarette. To find out why, test them as your steady smoke. Smoke only Camels for thirty days. See how rich and flavorful they are — pack after pack! See how mild CAMELS are — week after week!

AKPsiHonored Nationally In Ration Contest

Alpha Tau Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration, has won national recognition in an efficiency ration contest.

The contest was held in Washington, Oct. 24-25 and was conducted by the grand chapter. The award, an embossed scroll given to college chapters reaching 100,000 points, was presented to the local chapter by Dr. B. O. Miller, professor of economics at George Washington University and deputy councilor of the Mid-East District. He praised the Carolina chapter as being one of the finest in the nation.

The local delegation, representing the University, had as its members, Jesse V. Noland, Asheville, Taylor O. Teague, Mooresville, Jean M. Souweine, Brussels, Belgium, John W. Austin, Charlotte and L. R. Jordan, Smithfield.

The chairman of the delegation, L. R. Jordan, delivered one of the major student addresses at the Friday morning opening session. His topic was "The Acquisition and Maintenance of a Fraternity House."

Alden And Newman Concert Is Tonight

Violinist Edgar Alden and pianist William S. Newman will give a recital of sonatas tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall.

Three sonatas representing the classical, romantic and modern periods of musical style will be on the program. They are Mozart's "Sonata in E Flat", Brahms' "Sonata in G, Op. 78" and "Sonata No. 3" by the contemporary Czech composer, Bohuslav Martinu.

There is no admission charge.

for "FOOD That Is Different Drive Out To HONG KONG
On Durham-Chapel Hill Rd.
Chinese American Food

FROM HIS MOST POPULAR STORIES...COME O. HENRY'S MOST BELOVED AND INCREDIBLE PEOPLE!
FRED ALLEN
ANNE BAXTER
JEANNE CRAIN
FARLEY GRANGER
CHARLES LAUGHTON
OSCAR LEVANT
MARILYN MONROE
JEAN PETERS
GREGORY RATOFF
DALE ROBERTSON
DAVID WAYNE
RICHARD WIDMARK

O. Henry's FULL HOUSE
Produced by ANDRE HAKIM
Directed by HENRY HATHAWAY, HOWARD HAWKS, HENRY KING, HENRY KOSTER, JEAN NEGULESCO
Screen Plays by RICHARD BREEN, WALTER BULLOCK, IVAN GOFF, BEN ROBERTS, LAMAR TROTTI
Also Color Novelty Today and Wednesday
Carolina

UNITED NATIONS DELEGATES to the Political Committee are shown voting on the USSR proposal to bring N. Korean representatives to the UN to discuss the Korean War. The resolution was defeated. Voting against it are Sec'y of State Dean Acheson (3rd from left), and Selwyn Lloyd of England (4th from left). Russia's Vyshinsky (5th from left) keeps his hand lowered, as does the Ukranian delegate (2nd from left). The Assembly did decide to invite the S. Korean government.—UP Telephoto.

Upcoming

A weekly calendar of events will be printed by The Daily Tar Heel each week in cooperation with the Student Union Activities Board calendar committee. Items in the calendar pertain to the entire student body.

This week's schedule follows:

Tuesday

4 p.m. YMCA "House To Study" group. 103 Peabody.

8:30 p.m. Violin and piano recital by Edgar Alden and William S. Newman. Hill Hall.

Wednesday

7:30 p.m. "Translating the Bible", lecture by Dean L. A. Weigle. Gerrard Hall.

Thursday

4 p.m. YMCA "How to Study" group. 103 Peabody.

5:30 p.m. YMCA supper forum. Lenoir Hall.

7 p.m. FCC-SUAB "How to Dance" group. Men's Gym.

7:30 p.m. "Pink Circus" Playmakers.

8 p.m. SUAB film series. "Lucrezia Borgia."

Friday

2 p.m. JV football vs. William and Mary.

7:30 p.m. Pep Rally, Memorial Hall.

7:30 p.m. "Pink Circus", Playmakers.

—Trotter—

(Continued from page 1)

Asked about the singer, Trotter explained, "All the real work with Bing is during rehearsals. The shows themselves are fun. Bing gives the appearance of being so relaxed simply because he is that way. He is one of the best organized persons in the world."

"That Gary has the Crosby touch too," he pointed out. Speaking admirably of Bing's singer son, Trotter said that Gary "has all it takes to put over a song well."

"How do you like this color?" he asked this reporter with a laugh, pointing to a pattern book of colors. Trotter is altering the motel to a tourist home tentatively named "The Hill House." At present he is unable to manage the new tourist home because of musical duties in California, so he has arranged for Barney Cornwell, brother of Dr. O. K. Cornwell, Chairman of Athletics and Physical Education here, to take over the management.

"Sure, I'll be back to Chapel Hill soon," he said smilingly. But not permanently yet," he added suggesting that the Hill may be his home someday. Right now it's California and Crosby for the jolly maestro until this summer.

Send PHOTO GREETINGS

They're really Personal
Just bring in your favorite snapshot negative, and select the card design you like best. Prompt service on all orders.
Foister's Camera Store, Inc.

Children Of Veterans Offered Scholarships

Each year many scholarships are offered as educational advantages for children of World War veterans. These scholarships originated after World War I and were extended to include children of World War II veterans.

Handled by the North Carolina Veterans Commission, these advantages are offered to (1) any child whose father was killed or died as a direct result of service connected disability, (2) ten children (in each school year) whose fathers are suffering from or who suffered from 30% or more service connected disability and (3) fifteen children (in each school year) whose fathers are suffering from or suffered from 100% disability whether service connected or not.

Considered eligible are children of such a veteran who was a legal resident of North Carolina at the time of entrance into the Armed Forces and a veteran's children who were born in North Carolina and have lived here continuously since birth.

(These qualifications are briefly stated. Any interested persons should get full information from J. M. Caldwell, Director of the North Carolina Veterans Commission, Education Building, Raleigh.)

The choice of any state supported institution is given and approximately twenty-eight recipients of these scholarships are attending the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill during the present school year.

The maximum offering is four academic years for any one child, not necessarily consecutive and not necessarily in undergraduate work.

Free tuition, room and reasonable board allowance, and other items and institutional services such as matriculation fees, special fees and the charges required to remain in the institution and pursue the course selected are included.

"Far as I can figure," Garland Green of Louisburg, N. C. said, "it pays for everything except my laundry, books and spending money. And it has certainly meant a lot to me." Green, an average student at Laurinburg High School would not have been able to attend college without this assistance. Now he looks forward to a future in Business Administration.

North Carolina will probably have better medical care in the future because of these advantages. Peggy Parks Needham of New Bern, N. C., attending her second year on the scholarship, is presently enrolled in the School of Nursing, but her future plans include an M.D., possibly in obstetrics or surgery.

Another sophomore in the School of Nursing is Sally Perkins Winn of Henderson, N. C., who is interested in Public Health work.

John Bard Tyndall of Cherokee, N. C. is taking a pre-med course. Only a freshman, Tyndall has had much varied experience before coming to the University. At the high school division of Warren Wilson Junior College in Swannanoa, N. C. he worked in the print shop. This past summer he was an Indian dancer in the production of "Unto These Hills," the outdoor drama at Cherokee.

These are only a few of the students who are taking advantage of these scholarships. One hundred one students have attended the University of North Carolina under the provisions of the Educational Advantages for Children of World War Veterans since its inception in 1937.

CLASSIFIEDS

FOR RENT

3 ROOM APARTMENT with refrigerator, stove, heat, hot water furnished. Private bath. Available Saturday Oct. 25. 426 Whitehead Circle.
(1-c9467-2)

HELP WANTED

NEEDED RIDE TENOR MAN for steady working band. Must be free for weekend work. Call Ron Levin at 4011 or 5336. If not there, leave name or number.
(1-9469-2)

FOUND

FOUND IN LADIES ROOM of Graham Memorial — 1 cigarette lighter and change purse containing money. Call 9-3361.
N. C. Staff

FOR SALE

GERMAN HOHNER ACCORDIAN. Verdi II. 80 Bass. New, ivory and black with case. Excellent condition. $99.50 (regular prise $154.50) German music free. L. L. Noell, 146 Bagley Dr.
(1-9468-1)

LOST IN KENAN STADIUM DURING Wake Forest game—1 pair of old binoculars, Sentimental value. Reward. Call Jim Schenck. 9-3371.
N. C. Staff

Psst! We now have our Christmas Cards displayed, and we'll guarantee that nobody gets a worm, especially the early birds—Intimate Bookshop.

Fashion Show

The Law Wives Association will hold their fashion show tomorrow night in the Rendezvous Room at 8 o'clock. The Little Shop is doing the fashions; makeup and hair styles are by the Carolina Beauty Shop. There will be no admission charge for the show.

Old Yacks

The Yack still needs more good copies of last year's book. If yours is for sale bring it to the Yack office on the second floor of Graham Memorial between 2 and 6 p.m. any weekday. Yacks of '52 vintage are bringing three dollars each.

Horton and Sanders Speak

Tonight at 7 o'clock Ham Horton and John Sanders will be speakers in a round table discussion on the qualifications and platforms of the two presidential candidates. This discussion to be held in Graham Memorial is sponsored by the Campus and Public Affairs Committees of the YWCA. The public is invited to participate in the forum.

APO

Alpha Phi Omega will meet tonight in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial at 7 p.m.

UP

The University Party meets tonight in the Horace Williams Lounge of Graham Memorial at 7 o'clock.

GM Barber Shop

The Graham Memorial Barber Shop reopens today with barbers to serve students from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

SL Rules Committee

The Student Legislature Rules Committee meets this afternoon at 4 o'clock upstairs in Graham Memorial.

Supper Club

The French Supper Club meets tonight in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall at 6 p.m. Anyone desiring to speak French is invited to carry their supper trays to the second floor.

Golden Bear

The Order of the Golden Bear will meet tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Shack.

Phi

The Phi Assembly will meet tonight in Old East at 8 o'clock. The topic for discussion is "The Disbandment of the Republican Party."

State Student Legislature

A meeting of delegates and alternates to the State Student Legislature will be held tomorrow night at 9 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Y Senior Cabinet

The Y Senior Cabinet will have a supper meeting tonight at 6 o'clock in Lenoir Hall. The Yack picture will be taken.

FFC

The Y Freshman Friendship Council Planning Committee will have a supper meeting tonight at 5:30 on the second floor of Lenoir Hall.

UN Day Committee

UN Day Committee will meet today at 1 o'clock in the Y Cabinet room to review and evaluate last Friday's program.

Golf Club

All girls interested in forming a golf club are asked to meet at the Women's Gym today at 4 o'clock. Transportation will be provided to the golf course.

On Vacation

Miss Isabel MacLeod, executive secretary of the Dean of Women's Office, is now on vacation at her home in Lumberton. She will return to the University on Nov. 3.

RECORD BUYERS! SAVE 25% ON ALL 33-1/3 L.P. RECORDS
L.P. CATALOG FREE WITH FIRST ORDER
112 PAGES OF GREAT ARTISTS — ORCHESTRAS
Select Records Desired
• OPERA • SYMPHONY
• BALLET • JAZZ
You determine price yourself. Deduct 25% from the established list price.
For catalog only—Send 25c to cover cost of mailing. (Refunded with first order.)
Address Dept. U.N.C.
RECORD SALES CO.
203 W. Wacker Drive
Chicago 6, Illinois

SHOE SALE

Howard and Foster's Cordovan wing tips, full leather linings, reduced from 20.95 to 13.99.

Howard and Foster cap toe cordovans reduced from 19.95 to 11.99.

Many other styles drastically reduced.

JUST RECEIVED—Large shipment Brooks Cut Button Down shirts with the unlined collar, button in the back, and box pleat—special opening price—3.95.

Milton's not only give you scoops at fashion, but back it up with their low prices.

Milton's Clothing Cupboard
163 East Franklin St.

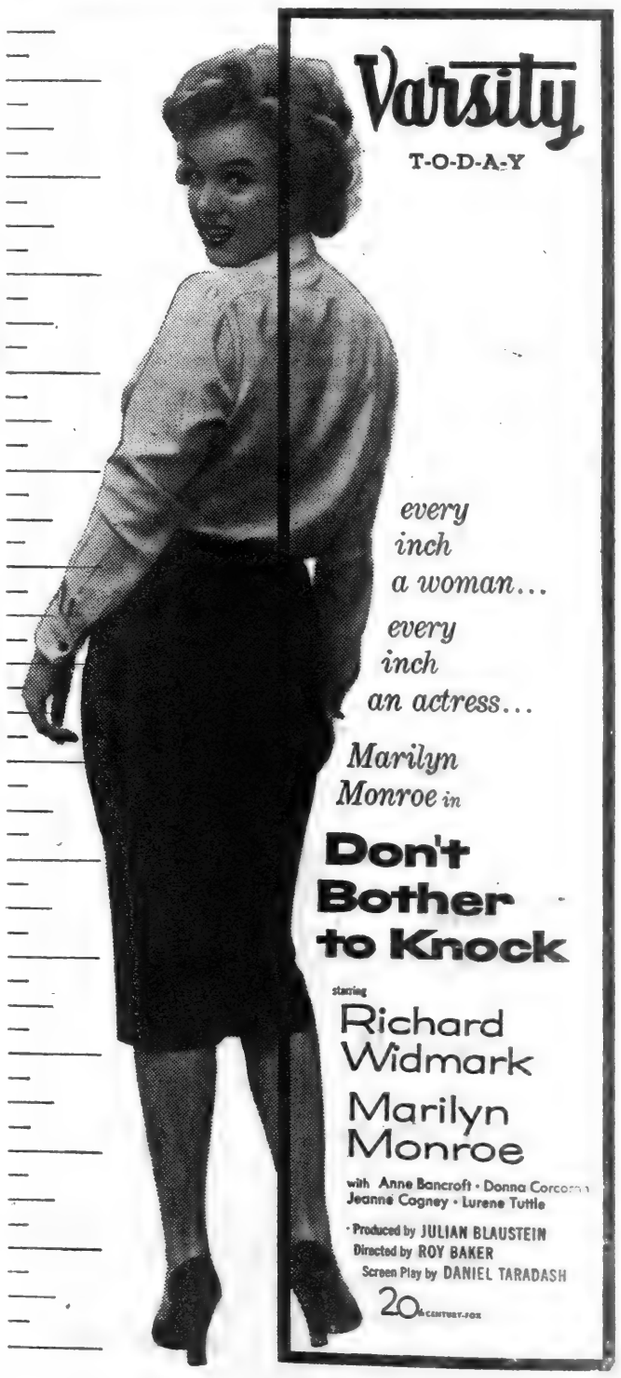
Rent—Buy—Brouse at the BULL'S HEAD BOOKSHOP
ALDOUS-HUXLEY: THE DEVILS OF LOUDUN

"A Wise and Witty Book." Clyde Brion Davis, whose latest winner is "Mr. Thudbury."

"Stands out of the run-of-the-mill welter of books on adolescent problems."

Alexandra Adler, M.D., Clinical Neurologist at New York University. (Formerly at Duke Univ.)

JUNIOR CITIZEN
By Louis DeJean



"Study groups will find themselves uplifted under the leadership of this spicy publication."

From Review by Dr. Carroll D. Champlin, Penn State College professor of Education." (See jacket flaps, front and back.)

At your bookshop $3.00

"A SUPERIOR CONCOCTION OF WIT AND FARCE!" —Time Magazine
ALEC GUINNESS
versatile star of "Kind Hearts and Coronets" in
"The Lavender Hill Mob"
with STANLEY HOLLOWAY
TONIGHT & WED. NIGHT
PARKVUE DRIVE-IN THEATER
Greensboro Road
5 Minutes From Chapel Hill

Varsity
T-O-D-A-Y
every inch a woman... every inch an actress...
Marilyn Monroe in
Don't Bother to Knock
starring Richard Widmark, Marilyn Monroe with Anne Bancroft · Donna Corcoran · Jeanne Cagney · Lurene Tuttle Produced by JULIAN BLAUSTEIN
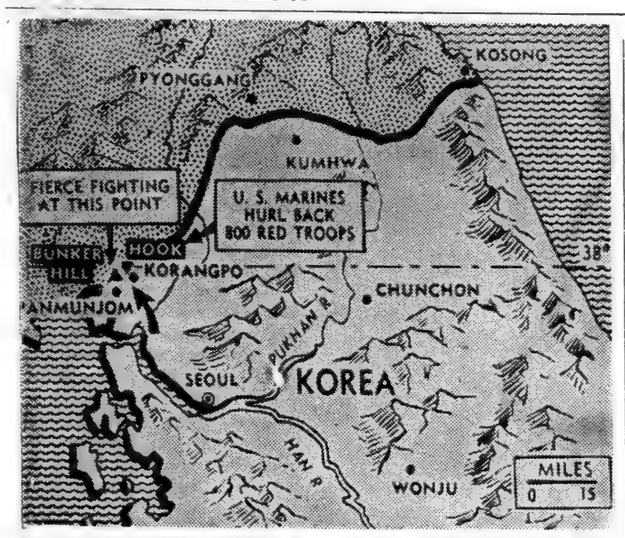
Directed by ROY BAKER
Screen Play by DANIEL TARADASH
20th CENTURY-FOX



U N C Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.

WEATHER
Windy and cooler with 58 high today. Yesterday's high, 70; low, 38.

The Daily Tar Heel

CHANGE
It is time for a change, and not political. See editorial on p. 2.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 31 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWSMAP SHOWS WHERE U. S. Marines hurled back 800 Chinese Communists who tried to crack UN defenses at the "Hook" on the western front northwest of Korangpo. Fierce fighting continued in the vicinity of Bunker Hill with UN units still in command of this vital point.—UP Telephoto.

NEWS IN BRIEF

MENARD, Ill.—About 300 rioting convicts demanded to speak to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson yesterday and prison officials warned they would "go in shooting" if seven captive guards were harmed by the prisoners. The rebellious prisoners let it be known they wanted to present their grievances about the state prison here directly to Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate. When the convicts were told Stevenson was on a campaign trip in the East, they said: "If he can fly there he can fly back here." Warden Jerome J. Munie said he would do nothing to endanger the guards' lives but would go in shooting if any of them were harmed.

★

SEOUL—U. S. Marines recaptured all lost vital hills guarding Seoul Monday after destroying a full Chinese regiment of more than 2,000 men in 36 hours of bloody fighting. Attacking in heavy fog, the Leathernecks mopped up "The Hook" and seized the outpost hills Frisco, Ronson and Warsaw by 8:40 a.m. Monday against little opposition. The Reds captured the heights in a human sea assault Sunday night.

★

SEOUL—One North Korean prisoner died of injuries and 75 others were hurt Sunday when United Nations guards broke up a military drill staged by Communist prisoners of war on Koje Island, the UN announced yesterday. The UN prisoner of war command said the incident was an example of "intentional harassment." No UN troops were hurt. Thirteen of the injured prisoners, all North Koreans, required hospital attention. One of them died.

★

NEW YORK—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson aimed his political arguments on New York City and New Jersey yesterday after a wild and emotional greeting in Harlem which possibly indicated where much of the city's big Negro vote will go in the election next Tuesday. The Democratic presidential candidate was given the biggest, noisiest reception in all his campaign when he stopped in Harlem at the end of a day of hard campaigning in New England.

★

CHICAGO—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy charged Monday night that Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for president, has given "aid to the Communists cause." McCarthy, speaking on a nation-wide television and radio hookup financed by a privately sponsored $50 a plate dinner, said the issue in the current presidential contest is: "Will Communism win or will America win?"

★

NEW YORK—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said yesterday "I

(See WORLD BRIEFS, Page 4)

Freshman Proofs

Freshmen who have not selected their proofs for the 1953 Yackety Yack should come by the basement of Graham Memorial and make their selection. Some 200 still have not come.

ACTRESS MARLENE Dietrich helps UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie blow out the seven candles on the United Nations' birthday cake at the United Nations ball in New York. The ball climaxed local celebration of UN Day which marked the seventh year of operation of the world organization.—UP Telephoto.

Young Demos Begin Anew To Aid Adlai

With one fund-raising drive still in progress, the Young Democrats Club here is launching another to aid the national collegiate effort to sponsor a major television and radio broadcast by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Carolina's Young Democrats, along with Columbia, lead the nation in collegiate contributions. The total collected from campus and town is now over $1,100.

College students throughout the U. S. have been asked to raise $65,000 for the Stevenson telecast. The local YDC chapter has set its goal at $1,000.

Those desiring to contribute are asked to leave contributions at the Young Democrats Club booth in the Y or contact John Sanders, Julian Mason, John Harris, Leslie Hummel, Cathy Holmes or Al House.

Ike Backers Here Have Unique Item

Carolina's Citizens For Eisenhower have started something new in the way of campaigning on a college campus, according to officials of the group.

A truck displaying visual campaign material on film strips is being paraded along Franklin Street this week. The films deal with scandals, taxes, Korea, creeping Socialism and other GOP grievances against the present administration.

"This is the first time this device has ever been used here, and, as far as we know, the first time it has been employed on any college campus," said Ham Horton, chairman of the Citizens For Eisenhower group here.

Duke University will display the truck next week.

Atom Scientist Says Political Advance Short

Dr. Alyea Offers Four-Point Plan To WC Audience

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

GREENSBORO, Oct. 28—A natural scientist concerned about the effect of atomic energy on the world future yesterday tossed a challenge to the political scientists.

Dr. Hubert Alyea, Princeton University chemist who has attracted national attention by his lectures on the implications of atomic energy, said the chief problem at hand is to learn how to make safe the world in which there are atomic bombs. He spoke at Woman's College.

Despite the three-ring circus atmosphere he created with many explosions, a trick popgun and unexpected clowning, the doctor left a sober challenge with his audience.

"Political scientists," he said, "should get as busy about their side of the problem as the natural scientists have been in making the bomb. Their every waking hour should be devoted toward making a workable plan.

"For every dollar spent in making bombs, a dollar should be used by the political and social scientists in bringing about this safe world. The more there are working on it, the sooner the answer will come."

Dr. Alyea gave his collegiate audience a simplified demonstration of the workings of nuclear physics and the processes of radioactivity. The peacetime uses of radioactive rays in business, in industry and in medical research have vast potentialities, he said.

Yet, he pointed out, the threat of the atomic bomb is a realistic one. He offered a four-point solution:

1. Irrespective of the position of Russia, an international code of living must be established by nations of the world. This great undertaking presents many problems to be worked out, but this must be done.

2. International legislation will be necessary to change this code as the world economic positions shift.

3. There must be an international judiciary to pass on necessary problems, such as the determination of agressors.

4. An international army must be maintained to use bombs to maintain the peace.

"Political scientists act as if they have all the time in the world. Actually time is what they have the least of. It is quite possible that in a decade Russia may outproduce us in atomic weapons. They began hydrogen bomb research before we did.

"However, with an international code of living arried at and an efficiently operating international machinery realized, atomic weapons will enable us to maintain the peace.

It is no secret, Dr. Alyea said, that the critical elements in an atomic bomb are two masses of materials the size of a pair of fists. The trick—and the big secret—is to bring these masses together in a 1,000,000th of a second to make the explosion, he pointed out.

Dr. Alyea was introduced by Dr. Anna Joyce Reardon, chairman of WC's Physics Department.

German Officials Will Visit UNC

Ten public health officials of Western Germany will arrive on the campus here tomorrow to spend six days observing the work of the School of Public Health, participating in a number of seminars with University officials, and inspecting the entire Division of Health Affairs.

Now on a tour of the United States, the doctors will visit a number of schools of public health and last week they were guests of the American Public Health Assocication in Cleveland.

Campus FM Station Starts Broadcasting This Monday

Local Smog Result Of Big Forest Fires

By Punchy (Bill) Grimes

Raging forest fires dotting the Asheville area, sent smoke 8,000 feet into the air yesterday and covered the entire state with a mile thick layer of smog which almost blotted out the sun.

Chapel Hillians gazed into the murky atmosphere, saw Old Sol reduced to a small glow of orange, and wondered at the cause. Sam Duke of the U. S. Weather Bureau office at the Raleigh-Durham airport said that nearly 100 persons called yesterday, some asking "when will the eclipse be over?" Others, he said, knew that the fires were responsible, and some were just curious.

The fires in the western part of North Carolina are only a few of many that are sweeping across the entire nation. Frustrated firefighters prayed for rain but none was in sight. Thousands of acres of valuable timberland in 20 states are infernoes calling, in some sectors, for the use of National Guard forces.

One of the reasons given for the fact that the blazes are spreading is that, due to the smoke, spotters are not able to see new fires until they are large enough to be out of hand.

Foresters battling the blazes near Asheville studied evidence yesterday, that at least one fire was deliberately started. Authorities are conducting further investigations to determine whether or not warrants will be sworn out against suspected persons.

The smog, which was reported in all sections of the state, was spread by a cool north westerly wind. Weather officials said that the lowering temperatures were a result of this wind rather than of the smoke.

Housing Shortage In Dorms Easing

The Housing Office yesterday asked boys who have not yet been assigned to dormitory rooms to come by this week for their assignments.

A number of boys have moved from dormitories to fraternity houses, easing the situation considerably. A special appeal was made for those now residing in basements to come by, since the basements are to be closed this weekend.

The boys who have moved from dormitories to fraternities also should come by the Housing Office, located in Old East annex.

Weigle To Speak On Revising Bible

Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of Yale University Divinity School, will speak about his experience with the committee responsible for the New Standard Revised Version of the Bible tonight at 7:30 in Gerrard Hall.

The talk is entitled "The Task in the Modern Translation of the Bible". Dr. Weigle has been chairman of the committee for the past 17 years.

Dr. Weigle received an MA and LLD from Gettysburg College, Ph.D and DD from Yale, and DD from Boston University. From 1928 to 1949 he was dean of the Yale Divinity School.

As a member of World Council of Churches and education committees Dr. Weigle has traveled in Europe, the Near East and China. He is author of several publications concerning religious education, the family and New Testament history and philosophy.

All the Yale alumni in this area have ben invited to have supper with Dr. Weigle in Lenoir Hall at 5:45. Members of the local host committee are the Rev. Richard Jackson, Maurice Kidder, Claude Shotts, Dr. William Poteat, Ram Singh and John Riebel.

The UNC Religion Department is responsible for Weigle's visit. His schedule in this area includes a talk at Women's College this afternoon, and a late departure for Raleigh tonight.

Draft Test Applications Due Saturday

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

Washington, Oct. 28—Selective Service officials today reminded college students that the deadline for submitting applications for the December 4 Selective Service College Qualification Test is midnight Saturday, and that applications postmarked after that time cannot be considered.

Local draft boards have an adequate supply of test application blanks on hand for draft-eligible students. Students are to mail their completed applications to Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey.

To be eligible to apply for the college deferment test a student must (1) intend to request deferment as a student; (2) be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction; and (3) must not have previously taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test.

Another test will be held April 23, 1953 but Gen. Lewis Hershey emphasized that increasing manpower demands make it important that each draft-eligible student who has not taken the test do so as soon as possible.

Students whose academic year will end in January 1953 have been urged to take the December 4, 1952 test so they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards will reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be deferred as students.

The present criteria for deferment as an undergraduate student are either a satisfactory score (70) on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or specified rank in class (upper half of the male freshman class, upper two thirds of the male sophomore class, or upper three fourths of the male junior class).

Students accepted for admission or attending a graduate school prior to July 1, 1951 satisfy the criteria if their work is satisfactory. Graduate students admitted or attending after July 1, 1951 must have been in the upper half

(See DRAFT, Page 4)

Million Vets Now Taking GI Training

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 28—On the basis of estimated figures by the Veterans Administration on GI training, more than a million veterans are taking this type of training this fall.

Approximately one-third of the number, the VA said, are attending colleges and universities, while two-thirds are in other types of training below the college level. Included in the two-thirds are veterans attending trade schools and business schools and those taking on-the-job and on-the-farm training.

The number of World War II veterans in GI training has fallen off steadily and the number of World War II men now in training is estimated at approximately one-half of the number one year ago. Their deadline for commencing GI bill training generally fell in the middle of 1951.

Nearly 200,000 of the present number of GI trainees, or approximately 20 percent of the total, are young veterans who have served since the beginning of the Korean conflict. Their training is under the so-called Korean GI Bill, applying to veterans who served in the armed forces anywhere in the world since June 27, 1950.

It can be reasonable to expect, the VA said, that the number of World War II veterans in training will show a continued decrease, while Korean veterans will enroll in training programs in increasing numbers as they are discharged from military service.

Air-Brake Executive Speaks Here Tonight

Dr. L. K. Sillcox, executive vice-president of the New York Air Brake Co. will speak tonight on "Freight Car Facts" at 7:30 in the Faculty Room of the Morehead Building.

Interested students are invited to the meeting, sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity.

WUNC On Air For 3 Hours Every Evening

Young Manager; Staff Of Students To Consist Of 35

By John Jamison

Radio station WUNC, the University's venture into educational broadcasting, will go on the air Monday, Station Manager John Young announced yesterday.

With the exception of Young, the FM station will be manned entirely by students of the Department of Radio. WUNC is a project of the University Communications Center and will operate under authority of the University itself.

The station has been assigned a non-commercial frequency of 91.5 megacycles, operating with 1,450 watts. It should be heard clearly on FM receivers in Raleigh, Durham, Burlington, Pittsboro and other nearby communities as well as in Chapel Hill, Young said.

Programs will be broadcast from 7 to 10 p.m. each day. News, music and dramatic programs will make up each day's schedule. Special events such as speeches, concerts and recitals will be aired from time to time. The station will broadcast every night.

Kent Jackson, promotion manager, described the aim of the educational station: "We will represent the University—trying to exhibit its resources to the public."

Funds for the operation of the station come from the budget of the Communications Center. No special appropriation has been made by the University.

A construction permit and a program testing permit have been granted by the Federal Communications Commission. The University has applied to the FCC for license to operate a non-commercial station.

The music to be broadcast will range from light classics and folk music to symphonies and opera. Some programs of show tunes have been tentatively scheduled.

The station will present a news program each evening at 10. Initially the news matter will be provided by the University News Bureau, Duke News Bureau, Woman's College News Bureau and the State College News Bureau. The news department will subscribe to a wire service when it becomes financially possible to do so.

Student officials of WUNC are Tom Carroll, assistant manager and news director, John Hill, transmitter engineer; Buck O'Neal, studio engineering manager; Kent Jackson, promotion manager; Mike Healy, program manager; Bill Tally, special events director; Tish Coley, traffic director; Flosie Rigg, music librarian; Tom Ashcraft, continuity director; and Gene Birke, production director.

'Just Like Eating Mother'

Walt Kelly Would Not Have A Possum Dinner

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

DARIEN, Conn., Oct. 28.—Pogo's papa, Walt Kelly, shocked fans of the lovable swamp crittur that romps daily in THE DAILY TAR HEEL with the statement: "I don't care for real possums any more than anyone else does."

His obvious disaffection would probably have made Pogo speechless for the first time in his life. But Kelly isn't really heartless about the plight of possums. When questioned about the possibility of having a possum dinner, the athletic-looking cartoonist replied, "Why, I wouldn't dare. It would be just like eating Mother."

Kelly's one burning ambition has been to create a new kind of fairy story for kids. "Most of the stories children are fed originated in the Orient, Europe, Scandinavia or Greece. I've tried to write an up to date modern fable," Kelly said. Still, adults are his biggest fans.

To Kelly, Pogo is almost as real as his own three children. "He's no pen-and-ink thing to me," he said. "I believe in him and I think of him as alive. But of course I'd keel over if he walked in."

Actually the creator of the beady-eyed comic strip star had been drawing Pogo for five years before he ever saw a real live possom.

Since animals started earning a living for him, Kelly has given up hunting. He thinks there's no point in shooting something that can't shoot back. "And if animals could," he says, "there'd be a heck of a scarcity of hunters."

Miami Reservations

Tar Heels taking in the Miami game can get special group rates on the Silver Star train, the Graham Memorial Travel Agency said yesterday.

Round trip fare for reserved seats will be $41.63. The special rate is available for groups over 25. The train will leave at 7:03 p.m. Nov. 26 and will reach Miami at 10:55 a.m. the next day. Return trip reservations can be made at 12:05 p.m. Nov. 29 or Nov. 30.

All tickets will be handled by the Travel Agency.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter delivered $6 and $2.25 per quarter

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. .....Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. .....Deenie Schoeppe
Sub Mgr. .....Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. .....Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ....Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. .....Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr.....Wallace Pridgen | dv. Mgr.....Ned Beeker

Night Editor for this issue: Louis Kraar

Take Care Of Our System

Today's rushing system is a thorny problem. It can be said to be effective, adequate, compact. It can also be said to be unfair and plagued with bad timing.

The fact that it is unfair is a dilemma about as easily solved as the Southern Negro question, but the time factor could be more readily improved.

Rushees and fraternity members are expected to shake hundreds of hands, memorize a seven-day supply of conversation keynotes, remember everybody's name, and decide who should associate with whom for two or four years—all in one week. Here's the worst part: this frantic social schedule has to be combined with the classroom schedule with the result that failures are at a peak and the infirmary has a full house. Nobody should be expected to go through this pointless-five program and come out with his head above average.

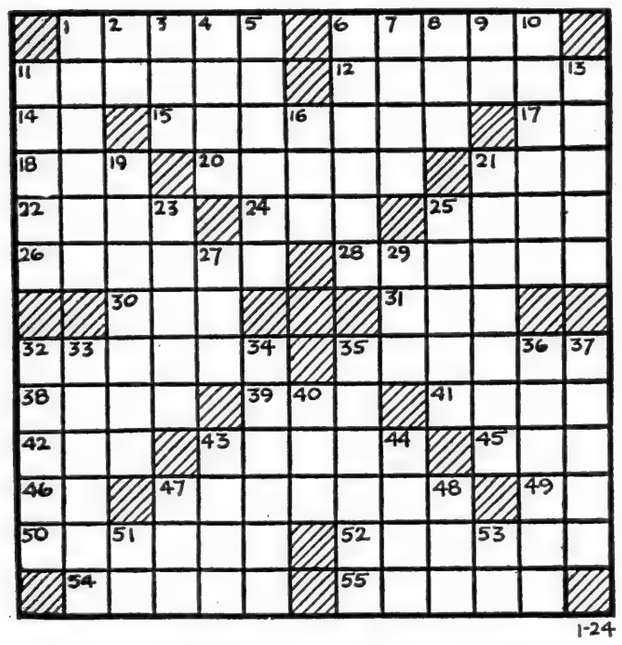
Perhaps some of this rush could be alleviated, thereby wiser decisions and wiser grades made, if sorority rushing were added to orientation week and fraternities waited until winter quarter to pledge new members.

There are those who will argue against the orientation addenum on the grounds that the new girls wouldn't have a chance to meet the seniors; therefore, how could any intelligent sorority choice be made? Well, the truth of the matter is this: nobody knows anybody anyway since old coeds are not allowed to exchange anything but the most scanty greeting until after rushing. And since delayed rushing would be impractical in sororities because of the two-year membership, why not kill two problems with one week—orientation during the day and rush parties at night? This might eliminate a great deal of classroom claustrophobia later in the year.

In the case of fraternities, a freshman needs at least three months to assimilate college life without the interference of any outside force. And because he must belong to a fraternity for four years, a more prolonged period for consideration is necessary. This extended rush system would also eliminate the double burden of studies and rushing crammed into one week. Intermittent rush sessions throughout the fall quarter are the answer to better fraternities and students.

Express Yourself

Editor:



I was shocked, to say the least, by Mr. Toledano's article Sunday written under the titile, CITIZENS FOR EISENHOWER, in which he refers to the Democratic Party as being socialist, led by pseudo-intellectuals.

Rightly, the present campaign is concerned with a question about which every "Red-blooded" American should examine his conscience: the question, freedom versus slavery. Being a native white Southerner, a North Carolinian, I also am as concerned as should every Southerner be, with the platform of both parties. First and foremost, it has been the belief of both parties that each state should handle its domestic policies. Most Southern states have made extreme progress from legal slavery towards equal rights, but what about those states in which paranoids happen to control? What about those few states in which illegal slavery is still practiced—must we not protect those persons, at least from torture, who are bound by shackles?

We do, as Mr. Toledano states, owe everything to God . . . even the protecting of human life from those who desire to extinguish it, just because the skin of that body happens to be of a different color from our own.

May I say that if the alternative of CITIZENS FOR EISENHOWER is voting for a "Socialist" party that is concerned with humaneness, then I am proud to call myself a socialist. In this way, I feel that I have setled the question: Freedom versus Slavery.

Dayton Estes

HORIZONTAL
1. unaccompanied
6. lost color
11. demonstrates
12. peaceful
14. note in scale
15. lack
17. International language
18. Luzon Negrito
20. rescues
21. nourished
22. experiment
24. affirmative
25. confront
26. catches sight of
28. characteristics
30. writing fluid
31. suffer
32. severed
36. strip covering from
38. land-measures
39. Greek letter
41. street railway
42. variety of lettuce
43. explosive nasal sound
45. complete
46. exist
47. portrayed
49. symbol for tellurium
50. salty
52. football team
54. glutted
55. natives of Denmark

VERTICAL
1. sharp mountain spurs
2. behold!
3. eggs
4. beaks
5. theme papers
6. keenest
7. bows
8. river in Scotland
9. printer's measure
10. aim
11. prattle
13. laws
16. twilight
19. longs for
21. neglect
23. hues
25. dim
27. piece out
29. Scottish explorer
32. South American rodents
33. scents
34. contradicted
35. moved swiftly
36. fictional hero
37. Prussian seaport
40. unit of heavyweight
43. rational
44. web-like membrane
47. deep hole
48. lair
51. note in scale
53. Odin's brother

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

B	E	G		D	A	V	I	D		R	O	M
A	R	A		A	R	I	S	E		A	N	I
A	R	T	E	M	I	S		L	A	T	E	R
		H	I	E	D		D	U	D	E
O	M	E	R	S		M	U	D	D	L	E	S
R	A	R	E		L	A	N	E	S		A	H
E	R	S		S	I	N	E	S		A	S	A
A	I		C	L	A	S	S		E	V	E	R
D	E	P	L	O	R	E		B	L	A	D	E
		L	O	W	S		D	E	M	I
G	R	A	D	E		P	A	R	S	L	E	Y
A	I	T		S	T	A	I	N		E	R	E
P	O	E		T	E	N	S	E		D	I	S

1-24

Average time of solution: 26 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

John Sanders

Young Democrats

Examine the Republican record. No wonder American have consistently rejected the G.O.P. for the past two decades. But no, the Republicans don't want you to look at what they have done in the past; they ask you to forget about '31 and their last administrations. How else can the American public know what to expect from a Republican administration except by examining what they have done in the past.

Realizing that they couldn't win with a staunch Republican, the G.O.P. sought out a great military hero (and anyone who reads "Crusade in Europe" will attest to this military ability) and brought him from the glamour of Paris to the stockyards of Chicago. There after a bitter battle in which Taft was even accused of stealing delegates corruption in state machinery, and wanting to return to isolationism the scepter of the Republican party was handed to Eisenhower. For the second highest position they chose Richard Nixon, a "fine" senator from California (whereelse can you find a "finer" senator for $18,000).

When the Nixon fund was exposed by the Los Angeles Times "poor" Richard gave a Johnny Ray routine on TV, in which he praised his wife and family, told of how hard it was for him to get along on his salary, and wound up with a stout defense of his dog "Checker". He then called on Stevenson and Sparkman to reveal their income tax returns which they did, but "poor" Richard declined to reveal any more. When they called upon him to finish his striptease, to "take it off, take it off", he replied "I'm not going to show any more." Recently a second Nixon fund of $11,000 was revealed. These "expenses" were shown to have gone for such things as sending out 25,000 Christmas cards, and entertaining his constituents at dinners. These things he said he didn't want to charge the taxpayers with. Does he think that he has a charge account in Washington to use taxpayer's money? Why didn't "poor" Richard do as John Sparkman did; that is, put his wife to work to help run the office and meet his expenses. His answer was "I didn't want to keep some other poor secretary out of a job."

This is the man whom the Republicans offer for the second highest position in the nation. If you don't question his integrity for accepting these "expense" funds, do you not question the judgment of this thirty-nine-year-old Senator from California.

Americans will think seriously before they turn to the Republican ticket. They remember too well the Republican record. They have seen the General embrace William E. Jenner of Indiana, the man who stood upon the floor of the Senate and under Congressional immunity call George Marshall a "traitor and a living lie." They have seen Eisenhower endorse Joe McCarthy, the man who recklessly accused over 200 government employees of being Communists under Congressional immunity and then did not prove a single case. The have seen Eisenhower welcome "poor" Richard Nixon in West Virginia after his Johnny Ray routine and say "that's my boy."

Americans will find it difficult to turn to a party offering such candidates, and such a record. In the Democratic party, which has existed since the birth of this nation and has furnished its greatest leaders, Jefferson, Jackson, Wilson and Roosevelt, the record is one of pride. There is a fundamental difference in the philosophies between the two parties and thinking Americans know them.

In The Bag

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — The other day in St. Paul, I was sitting in the Minnesota club waiting for some friends when I noticed a portrait of Frank B. Kellogg on the wall.

Sitting there under that portrait set me thinking — about Kellogg's great ambition to outlaw war, about the problems confronting General Eisenhower, and about the desire uppermost in the minds of most Americans to avoid another war.

It makes me feel a bit old to look back on it, but I was a young newspaper reporter covering the State Department when Kellogg was Secretary of State under Calvin Coolidge. I thought he did rather a bad job in Nicaragua and Mexico, but he warmed my heart and that of millions when he negotiated the treaty to outlaw war.

And when he went to Paris to sign his treaty, I persuaded the New York Times to send me with him. En route home, Kellogg's aides cooked up a scheme to keep the treaty out of partisan politics. In this I played a small part.

I sent a radiogram from the SS Leviathan to the Editor of the Times asking him to query me as to whether the anti-war treaty would be claimed as a triumph for the Republican party or would be considered the bipartisan product of both parties. The Times complied, I showed the query to Kellogg, and he growled that he certainly was not going to let his newly signed treaty become a football of politics.

The statement was important; because Herbert Hoover, then warming up for his election campaign against Al Smith in the late summer of 1928, was looking around for political ammunition.

In fact, it was more important than even I realized, for two days after we landed Kellogg sent for me.

At first he seemed sore.

"Just what did you say in that story you radioed from the ship?" he asked.

I had a copy in my pocket and showed it to him. He read it and grunted.

"The Secretary of Commerce," he explained, referring to Herbert Hoover, "raised hell with me at cabinet meeting.

"However, he added, with a wink, "I'm glad you did it."

What he had in mind, of course, was the fact that he needed Democratic support to obtain Senate ratification of his treaty. That support was given. Democratic Senators supported him 100 per cent; a few Republicans opposed; the treaty was ratified.

Kellogg died a few years later, a broken-hearted man — broken-hearted because he knew the great goal he set for mankind, peace, was about to smash on the rocks of Axis greed.

But before he died, he came to Washington many times to help and encourage his successor, another great Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson. Both Kellogg and Stimson, of course, were Republicans, both believed in a bipartisan foreign policy both were men of principle, and I was lucky in knowing them both.

Later I traveled with Stimson to London where he did his best not only to limit dangerous rivalry of armament, but to persuade Europe to sign a consultative pact.

This pact merely pledged that the United States would "consult" with other nations in case war threatened. There was no other obligation. Nevertheless, a "scoop" which I cabled the Baltimore Sun that such a pact was to be signed, caused President Hoover to issue a special denial.

Simultaneously, his Secretary of State in London was holding a press conference stating that such a treaty would be signed.

These two conflicting press conferences illustrate the basic foreign-policy cleavage within the Republican party—a cleavage that still continues.

It plagued and harassed Stimson all through the Hoover administration. Stimson saw the true goal of the Japanese war lords in Manchuria in 1931, and did his best to stop what he knew was to be the conquest of China. He tried to stop it by using the peace machinery of the League of Nations and the Nine-Power Pact.

But Republican isolationists held up their hands in horror. So did Mr. Hoover privately. In deference to the White House, Stimson even had to recall the American Consul General at Geneva from acting as an "observer" at the League sessions on Manchuria.

Eventually, Stimson gave up. But when he retired from the State Department and passed the reins on to the Roosevelt administration, he came to Washington for various conferences with FDR and Cordell Hull. His ambition was to preserve a continuous bipartisan foreign policy.

Express Yourself

Editor:

The reference made to the execution of 6 million Jews in the recent exchange of letters between Mrs. Scales and Mr. Farber brings a case to mind. I am referring to the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, two Jewish people who were tried for espionage in an atmosphere of press hysteria which undoubtedly made it difficult, if not impossible, for a jury to render a fair decision.

Many Jewish people feel that this case can set a precedent to deprive them of their civil liberties and their very lives. Even conservative Jewish national publications have expressed their alarm at the severity of the sentence. The Jewish Day urged that either Supreme Court action or Presidential clemency be exercised to spare them, while the Jewish Daily Forward termed the death sentence "horrible."

It is not only that they were tried in such an atmosphere and as Jews, but that for this alleged crime they are sentenced to die.

Never before in our history has a civil court given a death sentence for espionage (the charge against the Rosenbergs is for conspiring to commit espionage). Axis Sally and Tokyo Rose were given ten years for their crimes and the 8 Nazi saboteurs have already been set free and sent back to Germany.

The many discrepancies in the evidence lead to serious doubt that they are guilty at all. The prosecution based its case almost exclusively on the uncorroborated testimony of a free lance spy, who by involving the Rosenbergs managed to secure for himself a 15 year sentence which might otherwise have been a death penalty. Further evidence presented was (1) a Spanish Refugee Appeal collection can be found in the Rosenberg apartment; and (2) a nominating petition signed in 1941 by Ethel for Peter Cacchione, successful Communist candidate for New York City Council (50,000 other New Yorkers also signed this petition).

Moreover Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, Dr. Harold G. Urey and others testified in 1945 that there existed no basic atomic secrets, and that any nation could produce an atomic bomb. Actually the information which the Rosenbergs are charged with selling was of such a crude and scanty nature (as Scientific American and Life Magazine pointed out at the time) that it would be of no use to anyone.

Surely such inconclusive evidence warrants a new trial and a new chance for life for these people, who, if killed, will leave behind them two children, robbed of both parents at a single blow! Unless something is done within a week this is exactly what will happen.

Jerome Van Camp

Varsity, Jayvees Both Prep For Games

On Other Fronts

Bad News From Virginia

Carlton Byrd of the Twin-City Sentinel quotes Rube McCray, former William and Mary football coach, after seeing the Duke-Virginia game Saturday at Charlottesville.

"I DIDN'T THINK any team in the country could do this to Virginia," said McCray, who now has an automobile dealership at West Point, Va., "Virginia has a great defensive team. The records before today's game will bear me out on that statement, I believe, but Duke didn't have any trouble running through their line. And have you ever seen a finer defensive line than Duke's?

"I've never seen a Duke team equally as strong on offense and defense as this Duke team. That defensive line is something. They're big enough to hold straight ahead stuff and they're fast enough to move laterally. I just haven't seen another Duke team this good—and I've seen Duke teams for a long time."

Five For Five

Bob Brooks, discussing Carolina's loss to Notre Dame Saturday in the Raleigh News and Observer.

AN INDIANA SPORTS EDITOR MADE a shrewd pre-game estimate of the situation at Notre Dame Saturday. Joe Boyle of the South Bend Tribune said to a visitor from North Carolina:

"I don't want to discourage you but this is the way it's been: in their first game the Irish scored one touchdown and were tied by Penn; against Texas in their second game they scored two touchdowns and won; in game No. 3 against Pitt they scored three times but lost; a week ago in game No. 4 they scored four touchdowns and beat Purdue. Carolina is No. 5 on their schedule."

So Frank Leahy's Irish scored five touchdowns and licked the Tar Heels, 34-14.

. . . This much at least can be said on the credit side of the oft-beaten Tar Heels: they aren't losing to patsies. Few clubs in the country are tackling a tougher schedule. Saturday they play Tennessee at Knoxville and after that comes Virginia at Chapel Hill.

Moanin' Low

Dick Herbert talking with a dejected Art Guepe, Virginia coach, after his team's loss to Duke Saturday.

GUEPE, PRIOR TO THE GAME, had said that the season up to that point had indicated Virginia was stronger on defense than it was a year ago. After the loss to Duke, he commented: "They found our weakness and took advantage of it." He was referring to the right side of the Virginia line.

"I didn't think they could run outside on us the way they did," Guepe continued. "We showed they couldn't run up our middle, but we didn't sacrifice strength to the outside for strength in the middle. But they hit our right side for the big gains which ruined us.

"Duke has a fine football team which is better this season because of its passing game, yet if we played again tomorrow I don't believe I would bet on Duke."

Guepe is of that rare species of coaches who expresses confidence in his team and believes in what it can do. He and the Cavaliers were greatly disappointed, for they had figured on a victory. "Now we have to forget about Duke and start over again," said Art. "From the way our boys feel now," he ccontinued, "I think they will be spitting fire next Saturday when we play South Carolina."

There are many here who believe the depth of the Duke squad was the biggest difference. "We try to play three men on both offense and defense," says Guepe," and you just can't get away with that. We had a linebacker at defensive tackle." Duke didn't have any double duty men, but it didn't use any more players than the Cavaliers. Each coach sent 31 men into the contest.

Guepe Groans Again

Guepe again, this time discussing and cussing his loss with Jack Horner of the Durham Herald.

"I WOULDN'T WANT to take anything away from Duke's victory," explained the popular little head coach of the classy Cavaliers, "because they beat us. Coach Bill Murray has a fine ball club, one which will give Georgia Tech plenty of anxious moments next Saturday, and Lutz is a very capable quarterback who makes the team click.

"But I can't help but believe our boys were over-anxious. They wanted to win so bad they didn't play their best game. We felt like the boys would be keyed up so we tried not to wind them up too tight.

"They were too eager to win. This accounts, in part, for those very costly offside penalties early in the game," added Coach Guepe,

"We got off to a bad start," admitted Coach Guepe," or it might have been a different story. This is no sour grapes but if we played again next Saturday we might win. I know our boys can play better ball."

Jayvees To Meet Indians

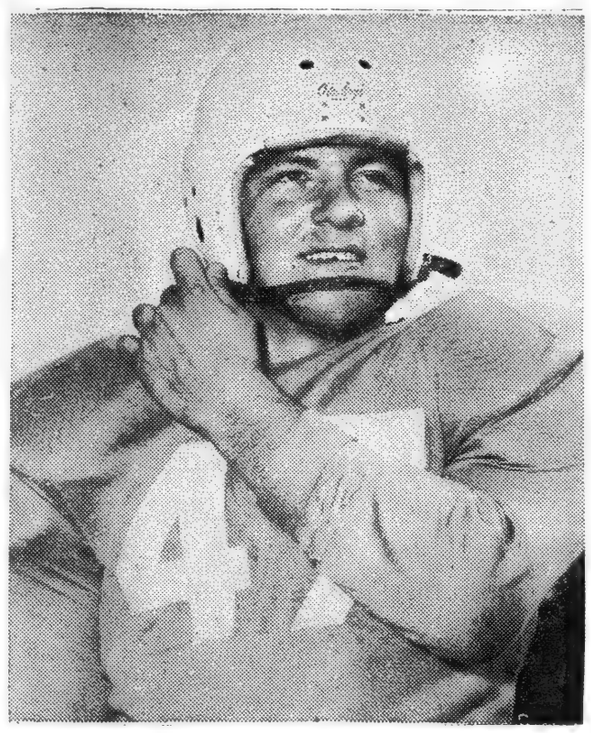
North Carolina's varsity and Jayvee squad continued to knock heads in scrimmage yesterday as both teams prepared for tough games coming up this week.

The varsity is on the road for the second straight week, meeting the University of Tennessee at Knoxville in one of the country's top inter-conference battles.

The jayvees, undefeated for the second straight year, play William and Mary's jayvees at 3:00 Friday in Kenan Stadium.

Hazelwood Warns

Coach Ted Hazelwood made his report to the varsity after extensive scouting of the powerful Volunteers. Hazelwood was much impressed by the strong Tennessee single wing, and its almost inpenetrable defense. The Tar Heels coach warned the team that the Vols were one of the best teams Carolina meets this year.



Tennessee seems to be gathering momentum after a slow start early in the season, and hit its peak last Saturday in a 50-0 rout of Wofford. Tackle Doug Atkins, at 239 pounds, is the backbone of the tight defensive line, and is almost a sure bet for All-America honors.

Besides All-America Andy Kozar at fullback, the Vols will be supported by the return of tailback Jimmy Wade to the lineup after a three week layoff because of injuries. Wade is the triple threat destined to take the place of Tennessee's great Hank Lauricella who led the 27-0 rout of Carolina here at Chapel Hill last year.

Little Known

Little is known about the William and Mary jayvee squad, but the Tar Heels will probably be slightly favored on the strength of their winning record alone. Carolina knocked off Wake Forest, Duke, Virginia, and other prominent squads last year while compiling a perfect record, and has won three contests so far this season.

The varsity continued to work out against single wing plays, which are strange to Carolina for the first time in history. Tennessee is the first single wing team on Carolina's schedule this year, and poses some special defensive problems that head coach Snavely and his staff are trying to solve.

HALFBACK BOB WHITE will be lost to his Carolina teammates for at least two weeks it was disclosed Monday after it was discovered he had suffered a cracked cheek bone in a second-quarter play against Notre Dame Saturday. White had been playing first string up until the time of his injury.

W&L, VMI, Blue Devils Head League Statistics

Washington and Lee gained rushing honors and Virginia Military passing honors in Southern Conference statistics this week despite West Virginia's amazing 16-0 upset of Pitt. The Mountaineers were able to hold onto their total-offense lead in the Conference, while Duke kept first place in all defensive departments.

W. & L., defeating Virginia Tech 34-27 last Saturday, upped its rushing average by nearly ten yards to 262.3. Duke and William and Mary also gained while West Virginia dropped to fourth in this department.

VMI, passing furiously to achieve a tie with George Washington, came from nowhere to take the Conference lead in passing with 127.2 yards per game. West Virginia fell off only slightly and is runnerup this week. Overall offensively, the Mountaineers retained enough of a margin for first with 361.8 yards per game, while William and Mary supplanted W & L in second place.

Whipping previously undefeated Virginia, Duke's Blue Devils remained fairly constant to keep all its defensive leads—overall with 173.3 yard allowance, in rushing with 114.2 and in passing with 59.2 yards.

North Carolina's terrific punting average slipped nearly three yards to 42.9 per kick but still was ahead of The Citadel, Virginia Tech and Wake Forest.

A pair of Washington and Lee stars—halfback Wes Abrams and end Bob Thomas—took over the lead in the Conference rushing and pass-receiving this week, Abrams ousting teammate Randy Broyles and Thomas edging idle Bob Ondilla of Wake Forest.

Otherwise the SC honors individually remained unchanged. Ed Mioduszewski of William and Mary kept his total-offense lead with 926 yards, Richmond's Bobby Tyler stayed ahead in passing with 44 completions and Bud Wallace of Carolina remained the top punter with 42.5 average per kick.

Broyles gained well last Saturday against Virginia Tech with 69 yards, but teammate Abrams did even better with a 164-yard pickup to make his season total 537. Three William and Mary backs—Tommy Koller, Bruce Sturgess and Bill Bowman—trail immediately behind, with the Indian's fourth backfield star, Mioduszewski, occupying seventh spot.

Mioduszewski, who ranks second in passing yardage with 624, leads the Conference in total offense with an accumulation of 926 yards. Bill Brehany of VMI, ahead by far in passing yardage with 744, is second in total offense with 761.

Tyler threw nine strikes against William and Mary last week to bring his Conference-leading completion total to 44.

Duke Defenders To Face Tough Foe In Engineers

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

Durham, Oct. 29—Duke University's fine defensive team, one of the top in the nation, comes up to its biggest job of the season when the Blue Devils face razzle-dazzle Georgia Tech here Saturday.

Duke's defenders have weathered the previous storms in sensational fashion as Duke has campaigned to six consecutive victories but they haven't faced any of the kind of hipper-dipper stuff they'll see when they line up Saturday.

Old timers around Duke are comparing this defensive crew to the famous "Iron Dukes" of 1938 who were undefeated, untied and unscored on until the final 40 seconds of the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena. There are many who think this club might have the same record if they were playing in that day but all agree that it's hard to compare clubs of different eras and different styles of football.

The Blue Devil defenders really play as a unit. It is practically impossible to single out any individual star. In fact, every man on that defensive club has been a star in one or more of the games this season.

Coach Bill Murray simply will not single out any player either on offense or defense. "Ours have all been team victories," he says, "and all of the boys should share in the credit."

The sports writers are divided in picking out stars. They select them from game to game. Asheboro's Bobby Burrows, unquestionably one of the nation's great guards, has been a stand-out in every game played. He has been all over the field in the six victories.

Other sports writers like Ed Meadows, Tank Lawrence, Red Leach, John Carey and so on down the line.

Naturally, several of them have gone unnoticed. The midget Dickie Sommers has been terrific all year at safety as has Bill Lea at halfback. Lloyd Caudle was shifted to defense when Nick McKeithan was injured and he has played on both offense and defense and turned in great performances.

John Carey and Johnny Palmer have been consistently brilliant at the linebacker jobs. Palmer was a sensation against SMU and Virginia. Carey has played great ball all the way.

Joe Hands and Elbert Whitley, the sophomore ends, have come through in far better manner than expected and in some games they have surpassed their usual steady play and have been truly outstanding.

Many words have been written about the middle of the Duke line where Burrows, Leach, Meadows, and Lawrence hold forth. Any yardage that has been gained down the middle on Duke has been given up grudgingly and most of it has been gained after Duke has gotten an early lead.

Tar Heel Soccer Eleven Downs Roanoke Club, 2-1

Special to The Daily Tar Heel

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 28—Carolina's soccer team edged Roanoke College here yesterday afternoon, 2-1, scoring in the last eight minutes of the game for its second win of the year.

With the game nearing a finish Gerry Russell took a pass from Harry Pawlik and booted the ball through the goal for the winning score.

Roanoke had taken an early lead in the game scoring in the second quarter. Pawlik knotted things up a few minutes later, however, and the game stayed tied until Russell scored in the fourth period.

Outstanding players for the Tar Heels besides Pawlik and Russell, were Barry Kalb, Clarence Greenway, Rennie Randolph, Tommy Hopkins, and Ronny Younts.

The Carolina team left here after the game for Lexington where the Tar Heels were to meet Washington and Lee in a game this afternoon. They will return home after meeting the Generals.

Game Tickets

Carolina students going to the Tennessee game at Knoxville Saturday can still get their tickets at Woollen Gym. They sell for $4.

Students and faculty who want to see Carolina's junior varsity, undefeated in two years, against William and Mary Friday need only to present their passbooks at gate two of Kenan Stadium for admission. Other tickets will sell for $1.

SAE Scores Easy Victory Over AK Psi In Top Game

SAE-1's powerful offense was too strong for the AKPsi team as it ground out a 19-0 victory in the featured 4 o'clock contest yesterday. The Betas defeated the PiKA's 6-0 in the only other game played.

The SAE offense was slow getting started, scoring only six points in the first half. Right half McMillan scored the only first half touchdown to give his team its winning margin.

The second half started with the winners opening strong. The SAE team scored early in the period and then added another later in the game. Ends Spangler and Whitter scored the last half touchdowns. Huchins added one extra point to the cause.

In the only other game played, the Betas edged the PiKA's, 6-0, in a close ballgame that could have gone either way. The winning margin came in the first half.

Right End Sparah scored the game's only points when he crossed the goal to give the Betas their victory. The game was featured throughout by the defense of both teams.

The game between Cobb-1 and Law School was canceled. The only other scheduled game went to Emerson, 1-0, over Cobb-2 in a forfeit.

WAA Tennis

Second round matches in the WAA tennis tournament must be played by next Monday, it was announced yesterday.

Participants should check at the women's gym to find their opponents. All scores should be posted there after each match.

MURALS

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Tag Football

4:00—Field 2, Graham 1 vs. Alexander 2; Field 3, Lewis vs. Winston; Field 4, Pi Lamb vs. Chi Psi 1; Field 5, Everett 1 vs. Manley 1.

4:50—Field 2, Zeta Psi 1 vs. Phi Gam 2; Field 3, Ruffin vs. Alexander 1; Field 4 Cobb 2 vs. Aycock; Field 5, Zeta Psi 2 vs. Chi Phi.

VOLLEYBALL

5:00—Court 1, Sig Chi 1 vs. SAE 2.

TUESDAY'S RESULTS

Tag Football

AK Psi 6, DKE (1) 0.
Med School (4) 26, Lewis 6.
SAE (1) 21, Delta Sig Pi 0.
Med School (3) 29, Graham 0.

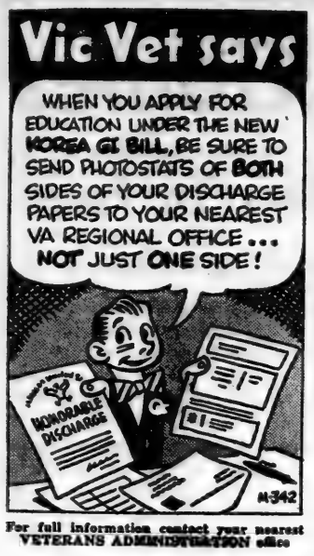
VOLLEYBALL

Phi Gam def SPE 12-15, 15-4, 15-7.
Winston def Med School 10-15, 15-6, 15-12.
Zeta Psi def Phi Delt (1) 15-9, 15-7.
Chi Psi def Pi Kappa Phi 15-2, 15-2.
Phi Kappa Sig (2) def Phi Delt (2) 15-7, 15-7.
Phi Kappa Sig (1) def Lambda Chi 15-8, 15-9.
Phi Gam (2) def Chi Phi 15-6, 15-10.
Beta (1) def Theta Chi 15-6, 15-5.

T-O-D-A-Y
THE DESERT FOX
Starring
JAMES MASON
Varsity
LATE SHOW
FRIDAY NITE
SATURDAY-SUNDAY
MONDAY
Ride 'em cowpoke!

WALD-KRASNA Productions present
SUSAN HAYWARD
ROBERT MITCHUM
ARTHUR KENNEDY
ARTHUR HUNNICUTT
in
"THE LUSTY MEN"

HERE IT IS!
"A WILD RIDE INTO A WORLD OF UPROARIOUS FANTASY!" —Sat. Review of Lit.
ALEC GUINNESS in "The Lavender Hill Mob"
with STANLEY HOLLOWAY
LAST TIMES TONIGHT
PARKVUE DRIVE IN THEATRE
Greensboro Road
5 Minutes from Chapel Hill



Carolina
TODAY
FRED ALLEN · ANNE BAXTER
JEANNE CRAIN · FARLEY GRANGER · CHARLES LAUGHTON
OSCAR LEVANT · MARILYN MONROE
JEAN PETERS · GREGORY RATOFF · DALE ROBERTSON
DAVID WAYNE · RICHARD WIDMARK
O. Henry's FULL HOUSE
ALSO COLOR NOVELTY

Bills mailed home

THE Sport SHOP
N. COLUMBIA ST.

ITALIAN FOODS
Spaghetti or Ravioli
Plus
A FREE glass of beer or wine of Your choice
PIZZA PIE
SERVED DAILY AT THE Rathskeller
DOWN AMBER ALLEY

For full information contact your nearest VETERANS ADMINISTRATION office

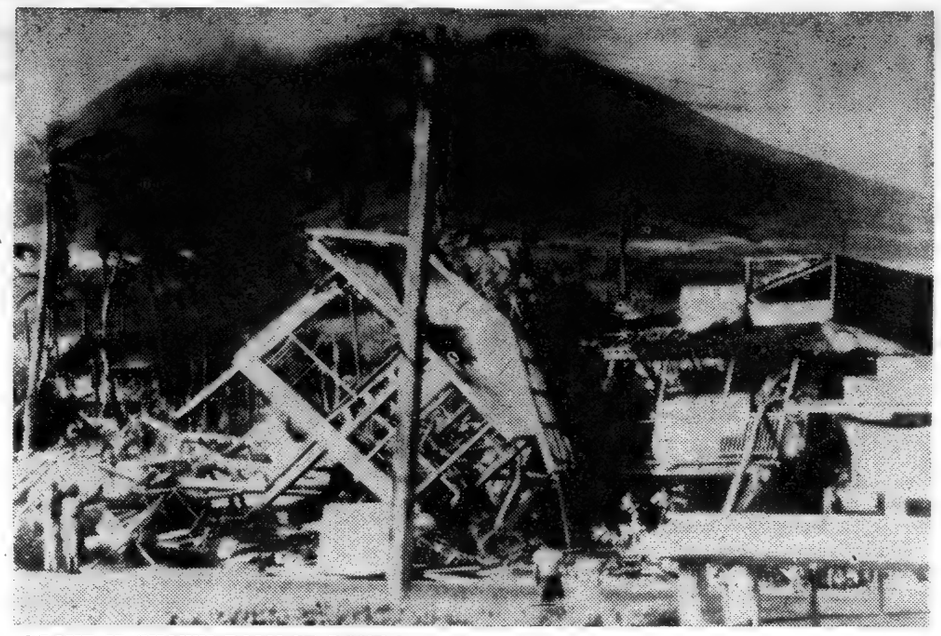
—World Briefs—

(Continued from Page 1)

have changed in no way" since the presidential campaign began. He added that his views and convictions on national issues are the same as they were four years ago, despite his opposition's charge to the contrary. The general made the statement at Queens Borough Hall as he began a three-day swing through New York City and the surrounding metropolitan area in quest of New York State's 45 electoral votes.

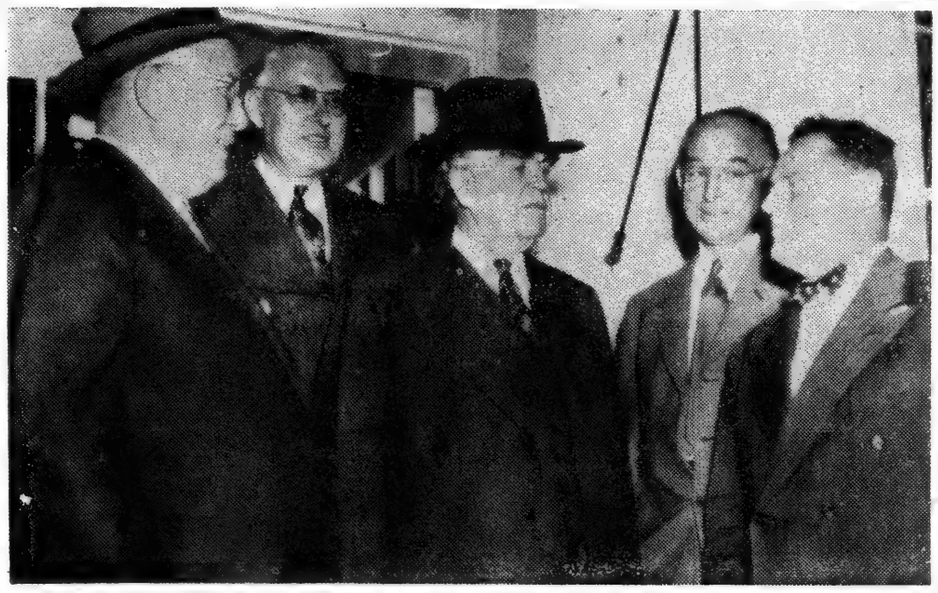
Pi Sigma Alpha

The Pi Sigma Alpha political science fraternity will meet tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in Lenoir Hall.



Forms Ready On Teachers' Examinations

Special to The Daily Tar Heel



PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 28—The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 200 testing centers throughout the United States, February 14, 1953.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the common examinations, which include tests in professional information, general culture, English expression and Non-verbal Reasoning; and one or two of eight optional examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught. The college which a candidate is attending, or the school system in which he is seeking employment, will advise him whether he should take the national teacher examinations and which of the optional examinations to select.

Application forms and a bulletin of information describing registration procedure and containing sample test questions may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the ETS office during November, December, and in January so long as they are received before January 16, 1953.

ABOVE IS SHOWN DAMAGE DONE by typhoon "Trix" which crashed through the Philippine Islands, leaving close to 1,000 persons dead or missing. Red Cross workers are shown viewing some of the damage on Legaspi Island. A new typhoon, with winds up to 155-miles-an-hour, is reported roaring toward the central Philippines.—UP Telephoto.

JUST BEFORE LEAVING on his whistle-stop tour, President Truman summoned UMW Pres. John L. Lewis and Bituminous Coal Operators' Pres. Harry Moses to a White House Conference, in an effort to end the nation-wide coal walkout. The Chief Executive said he received Lewis' assurance that he would try to end the walkout. Left to right at White House door are: Moses, John Steelman, Lewis, Federal Mediation Chief David Cole and Roger Putnam.—UP Telephoto.

Prof. Stern To Lecture On Genes

Prof. Curt Stern of the University of California will present a lecture to a joint meeting of the North Carolina and Duke Chapters of the Society of Sigma Xi Monday at 8 p.m. in the Chemistry Lecture Room of Venable Hall.

Prof. Stern's lecture, "Two or Three Bristles, or the Gene In Development," will be cconcerned with the problem of why the cells of an embryo develop into different tissues and organs instead of forming a mass of identical cells.

Prof. Stern is a noted research investigator in this field of biology. In the role of Sigma Xi national lecturer for the current year, he will deliver lectures at 19 university and research centers in the southeast. His lecture is open to the public.

Inglis Fletcher Speaks Tomorrow

Mrs. Inglis Fletcher, North Carolina author, whose new novel, "Queen's Gift," has just been published, will be guest speaker at a Bulls Head Bookshop tea in the Assembly-Exhibition Room of the Library tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The public is invited to attend. Mrs. Fletcher will discuss her latest work which is the last in a series of seven volumes on North Carolina from its beginning through the days of the American Revolution.

Film Tomorrow

"Lucrezia Borgia" will be shown tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Student Union Activities Board. The French film stars Edwige Feuillere, Gabriel Gabrio and Josette Day. Only holders of film series memberships will be admitted.

SP Continues Legislature Nominations

Student Party nominations for Legislators from men's and women's dormitory districts were announced yesterday by party officials.

Nominees were David Young and Gerald McBrayer from Dormitory One; Baxter Miller, Walt Gerley, Allen Bader and Manning Muntzing from Dormitory District Two, and David Reid, Ed Nelson, Morris McLendon and Norman Allen from Dormitory District Three.

Nancy Horne and Jerry Snyder were nominated from Women's Dormitory District and Freshman class presidential nominee was Hartwell Conklin.

University Party nominations will continue tonight at 7 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounges. Dormitory representatives will be nominated.

Canceled

The meeting of the SUAB Reception Committee scheduled for this afternoon has been canceled, It will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the SUAB office.

What Goes On Here

Social Chairmen

Social chairmen of dormitories, farternities, sororities, the YWCA Recreation Committee and the Special Services Committee of SAUB will meet today at 5 p.m. in Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial. Plans will be made for a campus-wide celebration of Sadie Hawkins day. Interested persons are invited.

Bible Study

The Bible Study Committee of the YWCA will meet at 5 p.m. today in the Y with Dr. Bernard Boyd. The topic under consideration is the book of Corinthians I.

Transportation

Dr. L. K. Sillcox, Executive Vice-president of the New York Air Brake Company, will speak on the topic, "Freight Car Facts," tonight at 7:30 in the Faculty Room of Morehead Planetarium.

State Student Legislature

A meeting of delegates and alternates to the State Student Legislature will be held tonight at 9 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Fashion Show

The Law Wives Association will hold its fashion show tonight in the Rendezvous Room, Graham Memorial, at 8 o'clock. The Little Shop is doing the fashions. Make-up and hair styles are by the Carolina Beauty Shop. There will be no admission charge for the show.

—Draft—

(Continued from Page 1)

of their classes during their senior year or make a score of 75 or better on the test. It is not mandatory for local boards to follow the criteria.

General Hershey has emphasized many times that the criteria are a flexible yard stick and that the standards may be raised anytime necessity for manpower demands.

The two forthcoming administrations of the College Qualification Test represent the eighth and ninth testing dates of the program. In the first series of tests 64 per cent of the students achieved a score of 70 or better. In the second series 58 per cent of the students made 70 or better. The tests in all three series are equivalent in difficulty.

Use of tests by the Selective Service System, along with class standing, was originally based on recommendations of the six Scientific Advisory Committees appointed in 1948 by General Hershey. The committees' report, presented by Dr. M. H. Trytten, chairman, was made in the fall of 1950. After a subcommittee had prepared general specifications for a suitable test of scholastic aptitude, Educational Testing Service was designated as the testing agency to carry out the construction of the test and its nation-wide administration.

Independent Coeds

The Independent Coed Board will meet today at 5 p.m. in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

Psst! We now have our Christmas Cards displayed, and we'll guarantee that nobody gets a worm, especially the early birds—Intimate Bookshop.

NO BETTER STEAKS ANYWHERE IN N.C.

CHARCOAL BROILED
—OMAHA STEAKS—
—SHISKEBAB—

FOR A MEMORABLE EVENING FOR TWO OR A CLOSED PARTY OF TWO HUNDRED DINE AND DANCE AT THE

RANCH HOUSE

Airport Road — Chapel Hill
Open 5:30-12 P.M. — Closed Mondays
FOR RESERVATIONS CALL 9-6091

"Helps people of many nations understand each other,"

says ANDRÉ MAUROIS
Author, lecturer;
Member of the French Academy

"I congratulate you on excellent international work. You have helped people of many languages and nations to understand each other. You also gave them good reasons to believe in mankind, in freedom and in themselves."

Each month, Reader's Digest editors comb through more publications than any one person could read in two years, and select whatever seems of outstanding interest.

Each article is carefully condensed to preserve both its content and flavor. The wide range of subjects stimulates new interests, encourages a further search for knowledge.

In a real way, Reader's Digest helps continue the education of millions of readers in America and all over the world.

★ ★ ★

In November Reader's Digest, you'll want to read Meaning of the Hiss Case—Senator Nixon's inside story of the famous case; How to Argue—Stuart Chase describes a proven technique for winning arguments; 13-page book condensation: Postmarked Moscow—Mrs. Alan Kirk's (wife of our ex-Ambassador) story of life in Moscow today.

RECORD BUYERS! SAVE 25% ON ALL 33-1/3 L.P. RECORDS

L.P. CATALOG FREE WITH FIRST ORDER

112 PAGES OF GREAT ARTISTS — ORCHESTRAS

Select Records Desired
• OPERA • SYMPHONY
• BALLET • JAZZ

You determine price yourself. Deduct 25% from the established list price.
For catalog only—Send 25c to cover cost of mailing. (Refunded with first order.)
Address Dept. U.N.C.

RECORD SALES CO.
203 W. Wacker Drive
Chicago 6, Illinois

FLANNEL SUITS!!

OXFORD GREY, OXFORD BROWN, TAN FLANNEL
LIGHT GREY FLANNEL AND MEDIUM GREY FLANNEL
$50.00

TOWN & CAMPUS

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

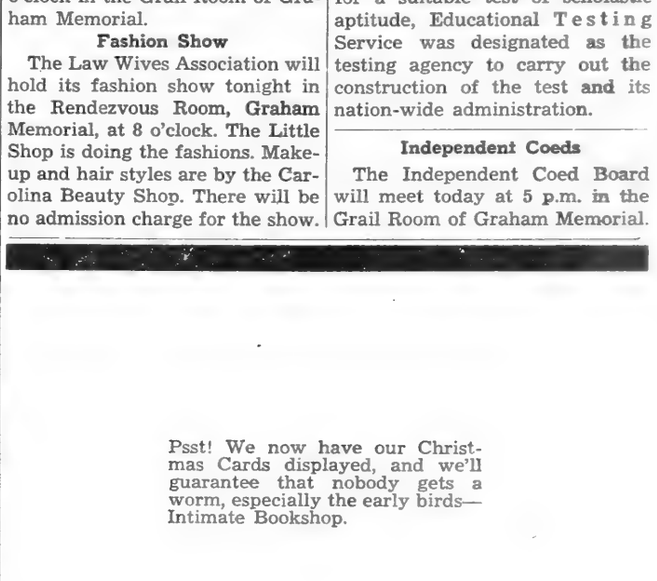
NEEDED RIDE TENOR MAN for steady working band. Must be free for weekend work. Call Ron Levin at 4011 or 5336. If not there, leave name or number.
(1-9469-2)

FOUND

FOUND IN LADIES ROOM of Graham Memorial — 1 cigarette lighter and change purse containing money. Call 9-3361.
N. C. Staff

LOST

LOST IN KENAN STADIUM DURING Wake Forest game—1 pair of old binoculars. Sentimental value. Reward. Call Jim Schenck. 9-3371.
N. C. Staff



ANNOUNCEMENTS

STUDENTS, UNICORN BOOKSHOP over Suttons has used copies of Latin and French Grammars, also sheet music at half price. Dial 9-6137.
Charge 1x1

WANTED TO BUY

ACCORDION: MUST BE IN GOOD condition and reasonable price. Mrs. A. R. Davis, phone 6-5661, Durham, N. C. charge 1x1

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-49

WEATHER

Fair and cold with 58 high today. Yesterday's high, 53; low, 27.

The Daily Tar Heel

REPLY

The editors say whoa to Mr. Anonymous. See page 2.

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 32 CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1952 FOUR PAGES TODAY

NEWS IN BRIEF

AROUND THE COUNTRY—With time running short, 11 top candidates yesterday shot the works with a killing pace of personal appearances and radio-television addresses arguing issues ranging from peace to prosperity, Korea to Communism. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential candidate, and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, a major supporter, were keeping the Korean War in the forefront. Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Eisenhower's Democratic opponent, and Pres. Truman, Stevenson's leading backer, were talking of prosperity for the Little Man, and predicting a Democratic victory six days hence.

★

ABOARD STEVENSON SPECIAL—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson opened his bid yesterday for Pennsylvania's important bloc of 32 electoral votes by labeling the Republicans obstructionists in the fight for social gains. Stevenson stood bare-handed in a raw wind that whipped snow flakes around him as he told thousands at Scranton that "The Democrats have proved their concern for the average man through legislation such as the minimum wage law." "This was done in spite of the Old Guard Republicans," he added.

★

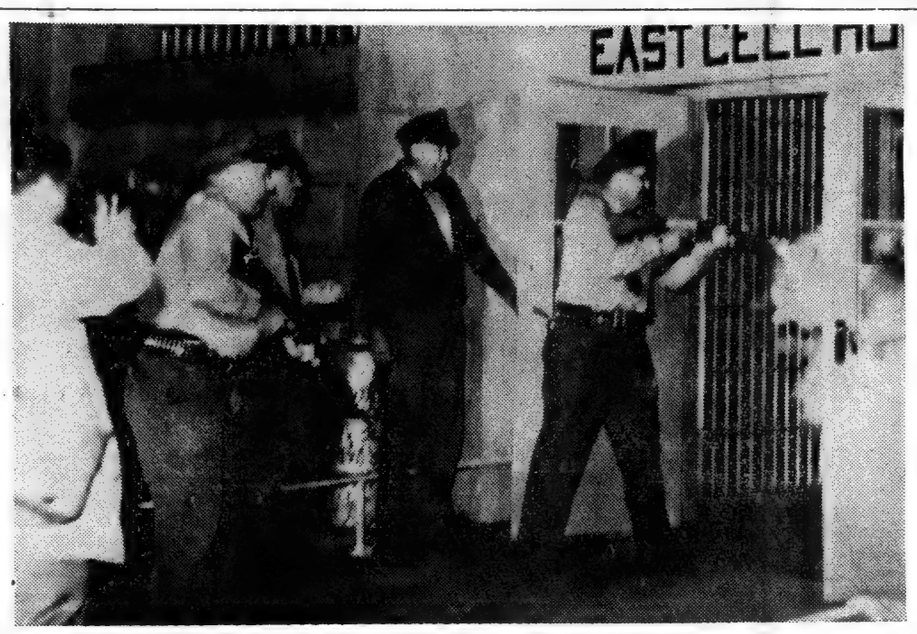
NEW YORK—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pointing a powerhouse drive at the big voting centers around New York City, says a "top secreet document" on Korea is being used against him by his political enemies. He did not identify the document other than to describe it as "a top secret document of the American Defense Department." In a radio broadcast he said, "This morning, there was a very significant item in the paper. It was this: There was quoted a top secret document of the American Defense Department. How it got there, we will never know, probably."

★

HOLLYWOOD—Dixie Lee Crosby, wife of crooner Bing Crosby and mother of four sons, was near death as she lay in a coma yesterday. Her husband and children were at her bedside, Larry Crosby, brother of the world famous Bing, said Mrs. Crosby's condition was "highly critical." She has been ill for several years. Mrs. Crosby, a singing and dancing star who gave up her own film career to raise a family, suffered a relapse Sunday while recuperating from a serious operation.

★

SEOUL—United Nations troops, on the alert for another "human sea" assault on Pinpoint Hill, forced 1,000 Chinese forming east of Sniper Ridge to dispense last night under a deadly rain of artillery fire. The barrage hit the Communist formation about 7 o'clock, but it was too dark to tell how many casualties were inflicted. Allied infantrymen captured Pinpoint Hill yesterday in an attack that began at dawn in near-freezing weather. They reached the crest at 10:30 a.m. and began herding the Reds down the northern slopes with grenades, bayonets and rifle fire.



★

THROUGHOUT STATE—Fresh forest fires spread across widely scattered sections of the Carolinas yesterday, threatening thousands of acres of valuable woodland. Cold winds, which shot the mercury down to freezing, fanned the costly blazes and the weather man could promise no rain to ease the work of the weary firefighters. Forest fires, helped by a long dry spell, crackled in several areas yesterday from the mountains to the coast of both states and a heavy pall of smoke reduced visibility.

New Deal

Students got a new deal offered them yesterday.

Those planning to attend the Miami game in Coral Gables, Fla. over Thanksgiving may go by train at the roundtrip price of $39.62. This also includes meals enroute and a bus trip from Chapel Hill to and from the train station.

ABOUT 300 CONVICTS AT THE STATE PRISON in Menard, Ill., have rioted and taken seven guards hostage. This same prison was the scene of a 27-hour uprising five weeks ago. The above picture shows officers firing tear gas after they were called in to quell the September riot in the same East Cell House. The convicts threatened to throw their seven hostages from a 40-foot gallery if gunfire were used to subdue the rioters.—UP Telephoto.

Di And Phi Also Support New Union

Tuesday night the two oldest extra-curricular organizations on campus passed resolutions in support of the administration's request for funds to build a new, larger, more centrally located student union building.

For the past year a group of interested students, faculty members and members of the administration have been working up the case for a new union building. Last spring it was put into a formal proposal to the Board of Trustees and subsequently to the Advisory Budget Commission, where the proposal is now being considered. The Budget Commission will make its recommendations to the State Legislature after the first of the year.

In other action Tuesday night the Dialectic Senate defeated a bill calling for all-out war in Korea, after which a resolution was introduced calling on President Truman to draft General Dwight D. Eisenhower and send him to Korea for high level observation and supervision. This resolution was referred to the Ways and Means Committee for further consideration.

The Philanthropic Assembly sent back to committee a bill calling for the disbanding of the Republican Party and the acclaiming of Adlai Stevenson as president.

Tom Lloyd, conditional Di Senator, was sworn into full membership in the Dialectic Senate.

Bruce Crater was accepted into conditional membership in the Senate.

Panel To Discuss Eastern Situation

A panel of four speakers will discuss the social and economic situation in Pakistan and India at 5:30 today in the second floor dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Speakers for the supper forum, sponsored by the YMCA World Relatedness Commission, are Abdul Raszak Adamje, Pakistan; K. V. Ramachandran, India; Dr. B. A. Sreenivasa Iyangar, India, and K. C. Sreedharan Pillai, India.

The forum is open to all who are interested and those attending should go through the cafeteria by 5:30 p.m., Les Eason, temporary chairman of the committee said yesterday. The panel discussion will begin at 6 o'clock.

Dr. Iyangar, who is in charge of the Public Health Department for the government of the state of Mysore, India, will speak briefly on "Public Health in India". He will answer questions from the audience.

Pillai, who received the M.A. degree in Mathematical Statistics from Madras University, is working on the Ph.D here. He studied for one year at Princeton University.

Adamje is majoring in business administration and has studied previously at Babson Institue in Massachusetts. Ramachandran is working on a Ph.D in mathematical statistics.

In addition to the forum, there will be an exhibit of pictures, maps and literature from Pakistan and India.

NO WINDSHIELD WIPER

The British say they've developed a moisture-proof glass for windshields. A thin transparent sheet of metal oxide between two plates of glass does the trick. The metal oxide conducts electricity, heating the glass and drying up the moisture.

Radio Series On America Slated Here

The Communication Center will produce a series of 13 one-hour radio shows entitled "American Adventure."

The series is made possible by a grant of $5,000 given by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters and the Ford Foundation's Fund for Adult Education.

Forty-five institutions applied for grants in the field of radio and the University received one of the seven awards given.

"American Adventure" will explore the "heritage of values of Western civilization as these values affect the lives and strengthen the souls of individuals in crisis," Earl Wynn, director of the Communication Center, explained.

The series will be written by John Ehle and directed by John S. Clayton.

The only other Southern institution to receive one of these grants is the University of Alabama. The Alabama project is entitled "Document Deep South" and will be undertaken by two graduates of the UNC Department of Radio, Walter Whitaker and LeRoy Bannerman.

'Pink Circus' By Playmakers Opens Tonight

Story Of Labor Camp In Mexico; Admission Free

"The Pink Circus," a psychological drama of a Mexican labor camp, will be given tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 by the Carolina Playmakers.

"The Pink Circus," by Gonzalo Estrade of Modesto, Calif., is the first of a series of new plays by University students. Entirely student-produced, the play is directed by John Clayton. Hal England plays the lead. Others in the cast Nancy Green, Manly Wade Wellman, Betty Vickery, Frances O'Neal, Jane Kottmeier, Carl Williams, William Casstevens, John Riordan, Richard Burton, John Taylor, George Spence, Martha Ann Boyle, Martha Davis, Peggy Caldwell, Florence Williams, Lundie Lenoir, Rose Marie Raymer, Betty Fay Lentz and Neta Whitty.

The set was designed by Richard Epler, with lighting by Anne Edwards, costumes by Jeannette Pratt and makeup by Edgar Daniels.

Referring to the play, Student Director John Clayton said, "It's good theater, but . . ." Thomas Patterson, who advised the writing of the play, termed it "a psychiatrist's nightmare." Foster Fitz-Simons, staff adviser, emphasized that "this is not a play for children."

There is no admission charge.

Flight Time Is Reduced

On Saturday Eastern Air Lines will inaugurate the fastest flight schedule ever operated between Raleigh-Durham and Atlanta.

Silver Falcon Flight 587 will make the first 105-minute flight when it leaves Raleigh-Durham Airport at 5:30 a.m. and arrives in Atlanta at 7:15 a.m. The two cities now are linked by five flights daily.

It will replace the last DC-3 flight out of Raleigh-Durham, as these planes have been replaced with faster Silver Falcons. Reservations for this or any other flight or form of transportation may be made free of charge with the Graham Memorial Travel Agency, located on the south mezzanine.

MORE ENGINEERS

During World War II, there was one engineer for every 25 production workers in the aircraft industry; today there is one for every six.

James Gray Dies Of Heart Trouble; Long-Time Trustee

Was Prominent In UNC Activities And '08 Graduate; Was Gordon Gray's Uncle

Heart failure at noon yesterday took the life of James A. Gray of Winston-Salem.

He has been for many years a University Trustee, serving as chairman of the Finance Committee, chairman of the Development Council and a member of the committee on Health Affairs. He was 63.

The following telegram to Mrs. Gray was dispatched yesterday by William D. Carmichael Jr., controller of the University:

"The consolidated University of North Carolina has lost its staunchest trustee and all of us in the University administration have lost a Godfather.

"For 40 years James Gray served the University as a Trustee. His faith in the University is a constant inspiration to everybody who works for it and his works for it have contributed invaluably to the University's spiritual, cultural and physical development. He will live forever in the daily life of his University and in the hearts of North Carolinians who love the University.

"May God strengthen you and your children.

"Always, Billy Carmichael."

Mr. Gray, an uncle to University President Gordon Gray, graduated from the University in 1908. He was prominent as a student in campus affairs and continued his interest in many phases of University life as an alumnus. He was chairman of the Board of Directors of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. He has been active as a Methodist layman and an educational benefactor.

Mr. Gray's aim was to give every student in the University at Chapel Hill an opportunity to study the Bible. He provided that the income from an endowment fund (amounting to approximately $250,000) be paid annually to the University, for use in "the establishment and maintenance of a Chair of Instruction in the Bible, and as to any surplus of such income remaining after the fulfillment of that purpose, for use in instruction in related fields of religion."

Campus Vote On President Set Monday

As this campus goes, so goes the nation?

An effort will be made Monday to determine the trend of student opinion by straw vote in regard to the presidential election. The nation will answer its side of the question on Tuesday at the official polls.

A straw ballot, sponsored by the Public and Campus Affairs Committees of the YWCA, will be held in the lobby of the Y between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday. Booths will be set up so interested students may vote for the candidate of their choice. Faculty members are also asked to come by and express their opinions.

Mase Chapin of the Campus Affairs committee has been appointed chairman of the voting.

Students must present their ID cards before voting in order to insure against ballot-box stuffing. Results will be announced Tuesday.

The ballot is a follow-up on last Tuesday night's discussion by John Sanders (He likes Adlai) and Ham Horton (He likes Ike) in Graham Memorial.

Members of the Campus Affairs Committee include Chapin, Jeff Gantt, Alice Jane Hinds, Sara Moore, Mary Helen Crain, Ann Hartzog, Mary Frances Allsbrook, Lois Collins, Dottie Law, Snookie Stone, Nancy Davis, Harriet Maynard, Jean Ratliff and Janie Carey.

Rally Tomorrow As Team Leaves

Students are asked to attend an early morning pep rally tomorrow to cheer the team off to Knoxville and the Tennessee game.

The rally will be held at 8:30 in front of the Monogram Club. Head Cheerleader Bo Thorpe asked all students who do not have classes at that time to attend the short rally.

Mars Rocket Still Makes Nightly Trip

Sinse her maiden voyage on October 7, the Morehead Planetarium's simulated rocket ship has made 46 successful round trips to Mars, the red planet of mystery.

Last weekend nearly 1,500 passengers mentally made the one hundred million mile flight of educational entertainment, without mishap.

A light year of distance is compressed into an exciting 50-minute program of factual fun.

When on Mars, a highlight of the performance is the panoramic view of the "Mars-scape," which suddenly becomes apparent after the launching of the sub-rocket cruiser, which constitutes the entire nose of the great space ship.

More than 200 running feet of specially hand-painted scenery has been installed behind the huge Planetarium dome to create this singular effect.

Flights leave the Planetarium every evening at 8:30 and in the afternoons on Saturday at 3 and 4 o'clock and on Sundays at 2, 3 and 4 p.m.

The program will continue through Nov. 10.

Class Rings

Senior Class rings will be on sale today in the Y Lobby from 2 p.m. until 4:30.

The Order of the Grail is the only campus agency officially authorized to sell the rings.

Imports Be Warned

Svelte Coeds To Look Their Cotton Best For Germans

FOR THAT GAME, FOR traveling, for any occasion, a coed can't have too many corduroy suits. Pictured on the left is a Juillard striped corduroy in the new boxy silhouette. At right is a wide-wale corduroy raincoat design by Bonnie Cashin for Main Street Fashions.

By Deenie Shoeppe

With a big weekend such as Germans, topped off with Homecoming, the Carolina coed is giving much thought to her wardrobe so she may look her stylish best.

Featured this year are many new cotton fabrics such as the woven cotton "tweed" used for lightweight suits and dresses. This fabric has all the appearance of tweed, and combines many new colors with the soft lightness of cotton.

New corduroys, pin wale and wide wale, plaids and checks are on campus and in leading fashion magazines as well. Corduroy has gone dressy too with rhinestone studded date dresses made of the fabric. These will be good for those after-the-game parties.

That all-time favorite velveteen is a cotton fabric that will make its appearance at Germans. Its vibrant colors and soft richness make it flattering to the wearer.

Whatever the occasion, cotton will be there.

IT'S GLAMOROUS VELVETEEN for the smart set of separates on the left by Greta Platiry. The portrait bodice tops a wide quilted and gold-embroidered skirt. The suit pictured at right is of the new light weight textured cotton suiting and designed by Esther Reifer.

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. ..... Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. ..... Deenie Schoeppe
Sub. Mgr. ..... Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. ..... Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. ..... Tom Peacock
Natl. Adv. Mgr. ..... Wallace Pridgen | Adv. Mgr. ..... Ned Beeler

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Tish Rodman.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Sull, Judy Taylor, Joyce Jowdy, Bozy Sugg, Nancy Perryman.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: Biff Roberts

Whoa . . .

Although we disagree with part of the writer's logic, a letter appearing elsewhere on this page today expresses many of our thoughts on the obligations of Carolina men enrolled in the military programs here. There are a few, however, we'd like to add—including a strong protest to the AFROTC.

What do the NROTC and AFROTC do for their members? In every case, they supply monthly subsistence the last two years; they furnish most of the uniform; they provide a way to compete a college education before going into service, and they guarantee a commission to qualified graudates. Both units encourage intra-unit activity such as sports, newspapers, band and the like.

What do they demand? They require a curriculum to include subjects basic to the respective service; a two-hour drill period each week; some summer training, and loyalty to the unit. Certainly it is a bargain on any market today.

Now comes the question of a fee. The AFROTC charges $3 per year and the NROTC collects $5. In both units, these fees are set by a committee of cadets or midshipmen who are elected from among their own ranks. Fair enough, we say. (Actually, social fee is a misnomer since the money goes to support unit activities other than socials, such as pages in the Yack and a newspaper.)

The Navy asks men who refuse to pay the small assessment or cannot because of financial difficulties, to submit their reasons in writing. Those failing to do this are given demerits for not following an order. They are never forced to fork over the money.

The Air Force on the other hand, and this is where THE DAILY TAR HEEL takes issue, automatically gives demerits to to cadets who refuse to pay. As cadets, the men should abide by the decision of their elected committee representatives, and this means support the projects of the committee. However, if the cadets do not feel such a duty, the Air Force is not going to impress them with it by demerits—particularly demerits the Air Force has no right to assign. There should be no coercion in the collection of these fees.

And to the fortunate members of these military outfits, we suggest they spend more time straightening out such affairs among themselves, and less time in writing anonymous letters to the student body.

Letterquette

Anonymous letters are not worth a penny and need to be stamped out.

Every American has a right to defend himself if accused of a crime. It is therefore un-American to send in your accusations without a signature, thereby ruling out the possibility of cross-examination.

These three-cent cowards who proceed to make some defenseless person, thing, or situation the object of their wrath, distorted humor, or any other emotion they seek to evoke, ought to be sealed in a sturdy envelope and mailed to some out-of-the-way place.

John Mason Brown once said, "The most scurrilous letters of attack always come from people who lack the courage to sign their name. They are like hit-and-run drivers."

Letters are a pretty accurate gauge of a person's character and intelligence. No matter how true blue the ink, an unsigned tirade is as yellow as anything we know of. And since we are not a medium for yellow journalism, we will print no anonymous letters to the editor. We will withhold a signature upon request, but we prefer to publish all names. Whatever your grievance, praise, or belief on any subject, back it up with your endorsement. Otherwise we will consider it a counterfeit note, unfit for publication.

PLAN TO VOTE NOV. 4

Lt. Chuck Hauser — Tar Heel At Large

MY NAUSEA is becoming acute as Election Day approaches, and I watch the candidates and the campaigning skid to the abysmal depths of deceit and half-truth. One candidate, I feel, has remained more or less above the slime-pitching, while some of his cohorts and the other side smear each other with direct lies and innuendo. Right now, I feel that he is the man I will vote for, but I cannot publish his name in this space, because it is not considered kosher for members of the armed forces to express their political views in print.

So if anybody asks, just tell them I go Pogo . . .

★

DON'T OFTEN make predictions, since Drew Pearson's 88 percent gives my crystal ball an inferiority complex, but I've got my money riding on this one: At the end of the present football season, Maryland will graciously consent to appear at the New Year's party held in one of the major bowls of the country, and will jilt the Southern Conference irreverently and irrevocably, forever and ever, amen.

Just what good does the Southern Conference do for a school like Maryland, or for North Carolina, for that matter? It can offer them real classy intraconference opponents such as the University of Richmond, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and North Carolina State College. It can give them the prestige of belonging to the football conference with the largest percentage of weak sisters in this football-happy nation.

Yes, my friends, Maryland is due to take a powder at the end of the year. And if the Southern Conference persists in trying to steal away all incentive for its members to play first class football, we may be singing a quick dirge with three choruses for the Conference before too many more football season suns have settled behind the hills of Western North Carolina.

★

EVER THOUGHT about the ridiculous situation the United Nations finds itself in, proclaiming its organization as the only hope for lasting world peace, and yet with a civil war of thoughts raging in the confines of its halls? And on the other side of the world, a real war is raging, and the two instrumental powers on the opposing sides are the two prominent powers of the United Nations.

United States troops are dying in Korea, and their cause is justice itself, and yet we sit in the halls of the UN and the tents of Panmunjom and play international tiddlewinks with the very men who are behind their deaths.

The United Nations was set up as an instrumental organization to prevent wars and settle disputes in sensible, adult manner, instead of hurling bombs and rockets at one another until the very earth itself is destroyed.

The UN does not work because the Russians will not permit it to work. When we boot them out on their red behinds, and all their party-lining puppets along with them, then maybe the United Nations could go about doing some good and restoring peace to a world hungry for security.

★

PERSONAL MEMOS: To Brookberry, my most heartfelt congratulations . . . To Pogo, I love you, kid . . . To the football team, my sincerest wishes for continued improvement and a whale of a season from here on out.

Express Yourself

Editor:

I have just waded through the letter written by a person who doesn't think his statements are valid enough to sign his name—I agree, they are not. Here is my paragraph answer to Cadet "Sour Grapes."

Granted, the services are not the strong hold of democratic principles so far as everyone doing as he pleases. The Army, Navy, and Air Force are not retained for sterling examples of how democracy works, but for the sole purpose of keeping the United States just that—United States of America, with a free government—free of vermin such as has received mention in The Daily Tar Heel a week or so ago.

In Mr. Sour Grapes' letter he referred to common decency in his second paragraph, then in the third he objected to a three dollar fee for social activities. It would seem to me that if the majority of a group was in favor of social activities it would only be common decency to concede and pay the social fee to insure the success of the social program. What will the cadet think when he is commissioned and required to join an officers' club at three to five dollars a month?

Mr. Sour Grapes is most fortunate indeed to be able to receive a commission as a officer in the service in exchange for two hours drill a week for four years, plus a small amount of class time. It is therefore showing no "common decency" to the Air Force, or to the Air Force Corps of Cadets at Chapel Hill to gripe about having to march at one game, in uniform, and sober—all three coming on the same day! In the regular AF he is paid as an officer for 24 hours a day, seven days a week—his pay as a basic cadet is the deferment from the draft; and as an advanced student he is paid according to present AF regulations. The same AF regulations, I might point out, clearly define the penalty for being intoxicated on duty.

Cadet Sour Grapes finds it practically an act of the devil himself when he is required to buy one pair of gloves—would hate to see him when he has to pay for all his uniforms as an officer. Besides, uniform means just that—all the same. The corps would appear very military if some showed up with yellow, blue, gray or red gloves.

In short the AF did not run out to capture Mr. Sour Grapes dead or alive; he signed up on his own free will. Also, there are some of us taking ROTC who are aiming at commissions and we would get more out of ROTC if the draft dodgers and those who wish to do nothing but malign the service would stay out of ROTC. When Mr. Sour Grapes writes letters in the tone of the last, and calls his superior officers despots—I say he is not psychologically adapted to the services as an officer.

R. A. Wolfe

Genuine Engraved Letterheads
FREE DESIGNING
FREE PROOF
FREE DIE
$15.00 FOR 1000
THE COLONIAL PRESS
PHONE 3336 - CHAPEL HILL

STUDENT HELP WANTED
To Work Part Time In Clothing Store
Apply Mgr.
THE SPORT SHOP
North Columbia Street

When It Comes To Good Food,
Everyone Comes To Us.
Join the crowd and bring your date, your family, and your friends out for a delicious meal cooked to perfection and served graciously.
THE PINES
Raleigh Road
Phone 9-5539

Express Yourself

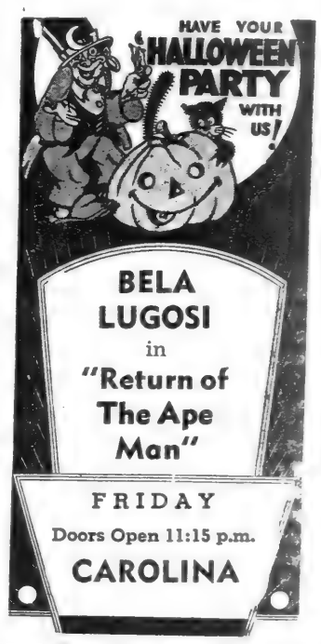
Editor:

Congratulations on your recent editorial efforts to tip the scales against the Communists.

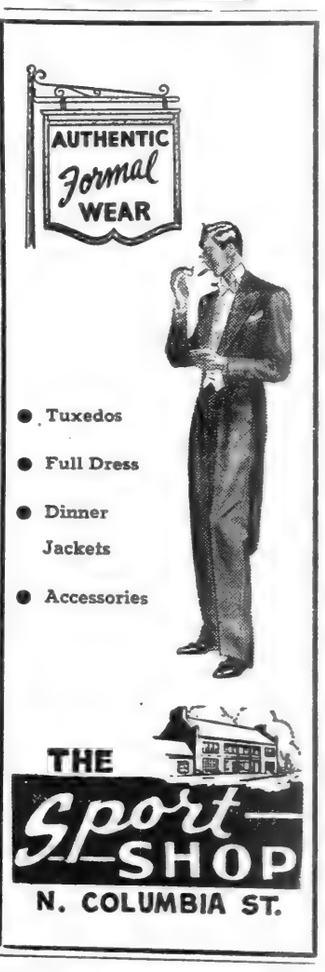
Personally, I think they're all a little unbalanced.

Here's hoping you will always keep the DTH out of the Red by stomping on those of a similiar color.

Jimmy Hutchinson

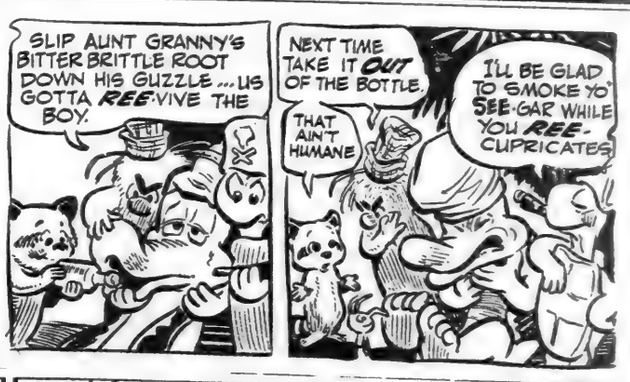


John Taylor — REVIEWS



On Thursday and Friday nights the Playmakers will present their first experimental production of the year. It is a full-length drama by Gonzalo Estrada called "The Pink Circus."

Mr. Estrada, who was a graduate student here last year, is a Mexican who has lived in California for a good part of his life and so he is qualified to write about a family of Mexicans who have made California their home.



The play concerns seventeen-year-old Jimmie Romero, whose father has died of tuberculosis, and whose mother, Florencia, is his uncle's mistress, as well as several other people's. Jimmie's Mexican sense of honor is enraged by his mother's actions, particularly since her affairs are a widespread topic of conversation throughout the entire camp. Sensitive and emotionally immature, Jimmie, in the sight of manhood, goes to pieces because of his mother's betrayal of his dead father. Ater witnessing an abortion done on her, he is too weak and distressed to fend off the advances of a nymphomaniac from a neighboring camp and is himself seduced. Through all the unsavory occurances, he has a child's desire to go to a circus with the sweet young daughter of one of the men in the camp. As part of the startling climax, he fulfills this ambition—in his imagination.

Although dealing with a subject that can be described only as raw, the playwright has made a sensitive, revealing, and highly imaginative show. The sex is there, but it is intelligently enough portrayed, so that it will offend no one. The play is similar to "Death of a Salesman" in its use of the flashback technique, a tricky problem to master and one which Estrada has used very effectively.

Tar Heel Booters Upset Generals, 1-0

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Another Team

CAROLINA FOOTBALL fans who won't be making it to Tennessee this weekend will still get a chance to see a good game here tomorrow when the Carolina junior varsity plays William and Mary in Kenan Stadium. Whereas their varsity counterparts have had trouble getting the split-T formation going this year the jayvees have found it extremely to their liking, so much so, in fact that they have won their first three games of the season and now have an unbeaten string which stretches over a two year period.

A junior varsity team rarely gets any recognition even when it compiles a record as enviable as the one the Carolina squad has. Its main job comes on the practice field where the jayvee members take the part of the coming Saturday's foe and knock heads with the varsity players. The backs imitate such players as Gib Dawson, Sonny George, T. Jones, Tom Carey, and a host of others during the fall in an attempt to acquaint the varsity players with the plays of their upcoming opponents. You don't get press notices for that.

One Moment, Please

BUT THE JAYVEES have their moments, too, and during the past two years those moments have been glorious. Last season, after going undefeated up until the final game, the Tar Babies scored a phenomenal 51 points to beat Duke, 51-41 in the annual Thanksgiving Day game with the Blue Imps.

They've continued to look impressive in their three games this year. The junior varsity opened the season at Fort Bragg by edging the older and more experienced soldiers, 7-0, when George Wallin plunged over from the two-yard line, in the fourth quarter. The next game found the Tar Babies traveling to Charlottesville, Va. to play Virginia and they promptly swept the streets with the Cavayearlings, 31-14. Their last game, against Wake Forest in the annual Elks Bowl at Burlington last Friday night, provided a tighter binding for the Tar Babies but they finally tore away to win 13-7.

The team is made up of both freshmen and boys who have had a good bit of action in their days here at Carolina, with the freshmen holding the heavier end of the balance. A number of stars have been produced—several different ones in each game, in fact. Probably the most notable have been George Wallin and Will Alexander, who now, because of their good play with the jayvees, have moved up to varsity positions. Wallin crashed over for the only score in the Fort Bragg game and Alexander, who played an amazing game for the varsity against Tennessee last year, was as immovable as a lamp post while at guard for the Tar Babies. Both boys saw action against Notre Dame last week.

Half And Half

THE PRESENT BACKFIELD is sparked by two veterans and two freshmen. Ernie Liberrati, a senior from Philadelphia, handles the quarterbacking and has done a good job in keeping the offense moving. The scoring has been paced by Billy Hawkes and freshman Flo Worrell, both of whom had their best games against Virginia. Billy Joe Johnson rounds out the backfield. It was his 10-yard run that accounted for the first touchdown against Wake Forest.

Coaches Ted Hazlewood, Walt Pupa, and Julian King have two good ends in Van Weatherspoon and Bob Lee. Weatherspoon scored the clinching TD against the Deaclets last Friday night on a pass from Liberrati and also hauled one in to score against Virginia.

The defensive backfield has done a lot to ease the minds of the coaches and has allowed only 21 points in the three games. Al Long made probably the best show there when he ran back a Virginia punt 60 yards for a score. Charlie Poindexter has also looked good as a defender and has kicked the extra points for the Tar Babies.

Take A Look

YOU COULD GO ON down the list picking out the ones who have performed well during the season and by the time you finished you'd have the whole team listed. For the most part the victories have been team victories and when the players bid a short farewell to the practice field tomorrow afternoon and change their guise from that of Tennessee volunteers to that of Carolina jayvees they'll be hard to hold against keeping that undefeated record clean. For those who can't make it to Tennessee, their battle with William and Mary ought to supply plenty of entertainment along with another victory. Take a look down at Kenan Stadium about three o'clock tomorrow afternoon and see what I mean. It's free, too.

Russell Scores Final-Minute Goal For Win

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 29—Center Gerry Russell, taking a pass from wing Drew Patterson, kicked in a goal with only three minutes and 55 seconds remaining here yesterday afternoon for the lone score of the day to give his Carolina team a 1-0 upset victory over Washington and Lee.

The Tar Heels, on a two-day tour of Virginia, had gone according to schedule by beating Roanoke College Monday, 2-1, but their win over the General was unexpected.

The two wins for the Carolina team brings the season record to three wins and a loss with the single blemish coming at the hands of N. C. State in the opening game of the season when the Wolfpack upset the Tar Heels, 1-0. The other victory came at the expense of Virginia.

The two teams made a hard game of it on the cold and windy field and it looked for awhile that there might be an overtime. But then Russell booted in the goal and the Tar Heels held from there for the victory.

It was the second straight day that Russell had brought the winning score. Monday against Roanoke with the score tied, 1-1, he took a pass from Harry Pawlik and scored with only eight minutes remaining in the game.

Outstanding for the Tar Heels along with Russell and Patterson were Renny Randolph, Tommy Hopkins, Burnie Burnstan, Pawlik, and Ben Tison.

The lineups for Carolina were Goalie, Tison; Left fullback, Kalb; Right fullback, Burnstan; Left halfback, Barnes; Center Halfback, Hopkins; Right halfback, Cole; Outer Right, Tremain; Inner Right, Pawlik; Center, Russell; Inner Left, Randolph; Outer left, Greenway.

MURALS

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Tag Football

4:00—Field 2, Graham-1 vs. Alexander-2; Field 3, Lewis vs. Winston; Field 4, Pi Lamb vs. Chi Psi-1; Field 5, Everett-1 vs. Manley-1.

4:50—Field 2, Zeta Psi-1 vs. Phi Gam-2; Field 3, Ruffin vs. Alexander-1; Field 4, Cobb-2 vs. Aycock; Field 5, Zeta Psi-2 vs. Chi Phi.

Volleyball

5:00—Court 1, Sig Chi-1 vs. SAE-2.

TUESDAY'S RESULTS

Tag Football

SAE (1) 19, AKPsi 0
Betas 6, PiKA's 0
Med School (2) 6, Steele 0
Joyner (1) 13, Everett (1) 7

Volleyball

Sig Nu def Kap Sig, 15-10; 15-5.

Tar Heels Run Through Final Rough Scrimmage

Carolina head coach Carl Snavely put his charges through their last rough scrimmage yesterday in preparation for the Tar Heels' second straight game on the road, against Tennessee in Knoxville this Saturday.

Snavely continued to work the defensive unit against the varied single wing plays of Volunteer coach General Bob Neyland. The Vols are the first team that Carolina meets this year to use the single wing, and for the first time in Tar Heel history the power formation used by Neyland is strange to Carolina.

Snavely switched to the split-T last year after a long and successful career as a single wing coach. So far this season the Tar Heels have met some of the best T teams in the country, and Saturday they will face what is generally regarded as the greatest of the single wing formation teams.

The Carolina offense, stopped on the ground by their opponents, continued to work out against the jayvees in an attempt to iron out the kinks. Marshall Newman, freshman quarterback who has passed for three of Carolina's four touchdowns, is steadily improving on the tricky pitchouts and option plays involved in the split-T.

Tennessee looms as one of the tougher teams on Carolina's schedule, which is recognized as one of the hardest of any school in the country. Scouting reports state that Tennessee has a defense far superior to those of previous Carolina opponents, and the offense is becoming stronger with each game. The Vols swamped Wofford 50-0 last Saturday.

Tennessee has been hurt by the loss of its sopohmore sensation tailback, Jim Wade, who has been out for the past three games because of an inpury. Wade will be back in the lineup Saturday against Carolina, and his running mate at fullback is All-American Andy Kozar.

SUAB Grid Contest

Only one entry is permitted for each contestant.

Put a check beside each team you think will win. Write "TIE" in each blank where tie is predicted. Prediction must be made for all 20 games or entry will be disqualified.

Predict score of Carolina-Tennessee game.

Blanks must be placed in the entry box in the main hall of Graham Memorial by Saturday Noon, Nov. 1.

Prizes will be awarded to the winner of the contest.

The prizes will be:

One carton of cigarettes and two tickets to the Carolina Theater.

.....Ga. Tech	.....Duke	.....Tex. Chris.	.....Baylor
.....Alabama	.....Georgia	.....UCLA	.....California
.....Mississippi	.....LSU	.....Washington	.....Oregon St.
.....Penn	.....Penn State	.....Florida	.....Auburn
.....Yale	.....Dartmouth	.....W. Forest	.....N. C. State
.....Mich. St.	.....Purdue	.....Miami	.....Kentucky
.....Notre Dame	.....Navy	.....Columbia	.....Cornell
.....Michigan	.....Illinois	.....Iowa	.....Minnesota
.....Texas	.....SMU	.....Indiana	.....Pitt
.....Wisconsin	.....Rice	.....Missouri	.....Nebraska

Pick the score:

.....North Carolina .....Tennessee

Name .....

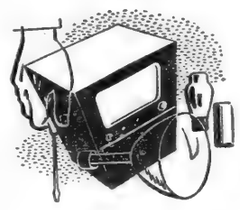
Address .....

Tar Babies To Meet William And Mary At Kenan Stadium Tomorrow Afternoon

Carolina's undefeated junior varsity eleven puts its perfect record on the line here tomorrow afternoon against the William and Mary Jayvees at Kenan Stadium. The kickoff is scheduled for 3:00.

Coach Ted Hazelwood will field practically the same starting defensive and offensive units as he did in the first three games of the season. However, the reserves will be much thinner than in the earlier contests. A number of players have been moved up to the varsity to plug holes created by injuries in the Notre Dame game.

Veteran Van Weatherspoon and freshman Bob Lee will be the starting offensive ends. Ralph Beaver and Ray Crahen are slated to open at offensive tackle, with Bill Giles and Tom Maultsby at the guards. Bill Koman will be at center.



Quarterbacking the Tar Baby split T attack will be rookie Ed Laughlin. Flo Worrell and Billy Hawkes are the halfbacks, with Billy Joe Johnson at fullback. Hawkins, a junior from Mount Airy and freshman Worrell were leading ball carriers in the 31-14 victory over Virginia.

Bill King and Norman Lane will open at defensive ends. Don McCormick and Dick Frucci are the tackles, while Barry Pruss and Bill Prothro are the defensive guards. Paul Reeves and Baxter Mangum will back up the line.

Defending against Indian aerials will be Terry Lawrence and (See JAYVEE, Page 4)

Lettermen Meet

The Monogram Club will meet at 7:15 tonight in the club room to discuss important business. Plans are to be made for the selection of a beauty queen to reign at the annual Dixie Classic basketball tournament in Raleigh Dec. 27-29.

For The Finest In TV and Radio Repair, Let Our Experts Handle YOUR EVERY NEED

Emerson – RCA

HARRIS & WILSON—Radio & TV

504 W. Franklin Ph. 9-6906

Psst! We now have our Christmas Cards displayed; and we'll guarantee that nobody gets a worm, especially the early birds—Intimate Bookshop.

38th ANNIVERSARY SALE CONTINUES THROUGH NOV. 3rd

If you Haven't Registered for our prizes YOU CAN STILL DO SO with no obligation and NOTHING TO BUY . . .

Prizes are Displayed in our window . . .
1st 2nd 3rd

BERMAN'S DEPT. STORE

—Open All Day Wednesday—

WHAT A WONDERFUL FEELING . . . To Know that your car is ready for "Anything" that winter can throw at you.

Let Our Expert Service Dept. Check Your

- Battery & Complete Ignition
- Check Radiator & Install Anti-freeze
- Check Heater & Defroster

HAZZARD MOTOR CO.

151 W. Franklin—Your General Motors Dealer—Ph. 9491

Like Good Food? Then You'll Certainly Like . . .

MICHAEL'S GRILL

Week-End

HOUSE-CLEANING SALE

Saturday Through Monday

This Week—Shopworn and Overstock Books In CRITICISM, ESSAYS and USED SETS.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

Flowers For Your Every Occasion

CAROLINA FLOWER SHOP

Just See Us

Don't Be Caught With "NO" Clean Tux or Tails When German Weekend Rolls Around . . .

See Us TODAY

NU-WAY—DRY CLEANERS

Carrboro Ph. 9-3498

T-O-D-A-Y O-N-L-Y

Varsity

TRICK or TREAT Sundae . . .

Made With Chocolate, Vanilla and Orange–Sherbet

Let Us Help You Celebrate HALLOWEEN

The Dairy Bar

Adlai Money

Julian Mason yesterday asked those still having money and Stevenson contribution books to turn them in to him at 34 Old East as soon as possible.

Commissioned

Phil V. Harrell, a 1951 graduate with a degree in chemistry, recently graduated from the Naval Officer Candidate School in Newport, R. I. as an ensign.

The ORIENTAL
Air-Conditioned
CHINESE & AMERICAN
Open Daily 11-9:45
Sunday 12-9:45
116 E. Parrish St., Durham

CLASSIFIEDS

LOST

LOST—Four-skin mink scarf between Carolina Inn and parking lot, across street from Inn about 6 o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, October 26th. Finder please phone 3336.

LOST IN KENAN STADIUM DURING Wake Forest game—1 pair of old binoculars. Sentimental value. Reward. Call Jim Schenck. 9-3371. N. C. Staff

WANTED TO BUY

ACCORDION: MUST BE IN GOOD condition and reasonable price. Mrs. A. R. Davis, phone 6-5661, Durham, N. C. charge 1x1

FREE—Two carbon copies! Your material typed and accurately at only 40c per 1000. Please query on academic work. H. Baker, 50 Fairmount, Hampstead, Md. (1-c9470-3)

TOWN & CAMPUS
INVITES YOU TO FIND OUT FOR YOURSELF
how you can get a Quicker, Closer shave in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry

Skip your next shave and visit our store with a good 24-hour beard. We'll be glad to have you try the sensational new Sunbeam. There's none of this "30-day trial period" necessary—none of this much-talked-about "breaking in".

Factory Representative In Our Store . . .
Thursday, Oct. 30
Friday, Oct. 31
from 1 to 5 P.M.

TOWN & CAMPUS

NOW AT POPULAR PRICES
JOSÉ FERRER
ACADEMY AWARD WINNER ...because... dueling for life or love—the greatest swordsman of them all!

TODAY
Carolina

Photography Club

Anyone interested in forming a photography club should meet tonight at 7:30 in Roland Parker Lounge, Graham Memorial.

Spanish Club

A speaker will highlight the 6 p.m. supper meeting of the Spanish Club today in Lenoir Hall's upstairs dining room.

Chess Club

The Chess Club will give instruction tonight to those interested in the game. The meeting will be held at 7:45 in Room 301-B of Woollen Gym.

Film Tonight

"Lucrezia Borgia," fifth in the Student Union Activities Board art film series, will be shown tonight at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. The French film stars Edwige Feuillere, Gabriel Gabrio and Josette Day. Only holders of film series memberships will be admitted.

Elections Board

The Elections Board will meet today at 4 p.m. in the vice-president's office in Graham Memorial Those who cannot attend are asked to contact Jerry Cook at 3031 or 9-7091.

Charlotte Club

The Charlotte-Carolina Club will meet today at 7 p.m. in Room 103 Bingham. All Charlotte students are invited to attend.

Square, Folk Dance

The Square and Folk Dance Club will meet at the Women's Gym today from 4 p.m. until 6 o'clock. Those interested are invited.

Card Board

The Card Board will meet in Roland Parker Lounge 1, Graham Memorial, tonight at 7:30.

SUAB Committee

The SUAB Reception Committee will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the SUAB office, Graham Memorial.

Psycho Prisoners Release Guards

MENARD, Ill.—Rioting prisoners from the psychiatric section of the state prison yesterday released three guards held as hostages after Lt. Gov. Sherwood to a guard turret. It appeared that the lieutenant governor and other officials had been successful in dealing with 38 mentally-disturbed convicts who had held three guards in a kitchen of the north cell block.

Dixon agreed to hear their complaints, but 300 other rioting prisoners still held seven guards. Dixon acted swiftly to end the mutiny after the convicts in the east cellblock tossed makeshift torches of burning paper, soaked in oil, in an attempt to set fire

—Jayvee—

(Continued from Page 3)

Charlie Poindexter at the halves and Albert Long at safety. Poindexter will also kick extra points.

The Tar Babies have defeated Fort Bragg, Wake Forest, and Virginia so far this season. This will be the first home game of the year for the local jayvees.

Admission price will be one dollarlar. Students and faculty members will be admitted with their ticket books at gate two.

BEST WISHES TO DALE FAIRLESS
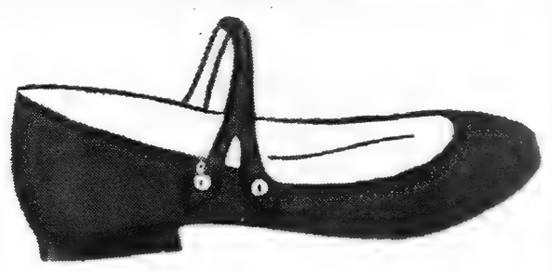
TOY-MART
WELCOME To GLEN-LENNOX
Modern Home Furnishings
PACE
Glen-Lennox Shopping Center

THIS Christmas SEND...
Photo Greetings
We'll Make Them From Your Own Snapshots!



Stop in now and look over our wide selection of the 1952 card designs. We have them to accommodate all popular sizes of snapshot negatives. All cards are supplied with matching envelopes. Prices are based on cards being made from one negative.

10 Cards	$ 1.50
25 Cards	3.00
50 Cards	5.75
100 Cards	11.00

Foister's Camera Store, Inc.

ROBBINS

Adds another famous name in footwear to its galaxy of "Campus" shoe styles.

Capezio's
by capezio
THE DANCER'S COBBLER SINCE 1887

THIS IS THE SHOE---
Capezios Famous two button shell that you have heard all your friends raving about. Come try a pair, and we know you'll want both colors, Black and Navy Kid—10.95

---Since 1887?
That's a lot of experience. And it is experience and expert "hand-made" craftsmanship that have made Capezios America's No. 1 Casual.

Robbins of Chapel Hill

MUSIC FOR EVERYONE

Grand Opening!
DALE FAIRLESS

"Where It's Fun To Shop"

TOY MART

Gifts and Toys for Girls and Boys — Records — Hallmark Cards — Books and Stationery
Your favorites on Records by Decca, Columbia, RCA, Mercury, Dot, Capital, London, Coral

Visit Our Private Record Listening Room—LARGE Enough for a PARTY!

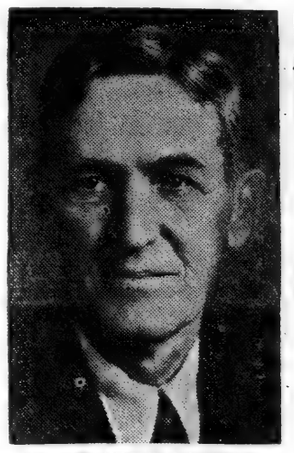
Music For Everyone

Open Every Night Until 9:00 For Your Convenience

U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
8-31-4[illegible]

WEATHER

Fair and warmer today with 70 high. Yesterday's high, 60; low, 29.



The Daily Tar Heel

VOLUME XLI—NUMBER 33 | CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1952 | FOUR PAGES TODAY

BOWL

Other editors have things to say about post season games. See p. 2

Last Rites For Gray Are Slated Today; Dr. Lawson's Services Held Yesterday

DR. ROBERT B. LAWSON

Funeral for Dr. Robert Baker Lawson, former Medical School professor and long-time figure in athletics here, was held yesterday at the grave.

Burial was in Chapel Hill cemetary with Masonic rites conducted by University Lodge No. 408, A.F. and A.M.

Dr. Lawson, who was 77, died Tuesday night in Watts Hospital in Durham following a long illness. Survivors include his daughter, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, famous golfer. His wife, the former Estelle Adelaide Ward, Chapel Hill civic leader, died in 1949.

In addition to his duties in the Medical School and Department of Physical Education, Dr. Lawson also served the University as athletic director, baseball, football, track and gymnastics coach and trainer for athletic teams. He retired three years ago.

He taught his daughter most of the golf she knew and coached her to the national women's amateur golf championship. A native of Lynchburg, Va., Dr. Lawson was educated at the University of North Carolina and University of Maryland, where he took his M.D. degree in 1902.

JAMES A. GRAY

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 30—Funeral for James A. Gray, chairman of the board of directors of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and prominent University of North Carolina trustee for 40 years, will be held Friday at Centernary Methodist Church.

Dr. Mark Depp will conduct the service with burial in Salem Cemetery.

Mr. Gray died Wednesday at noon in the Baptist Hospital of a heart attack. He was 63.

Mr. Gray, an uncle of Consolidated University President Gordon Gray, was born in Wsinston. He received his A.B. from the University in 1908 and an honorary degree in 1941. He was known for his philanthropies, and in 1947 established a $1,700,000 endowment fund, the income from which goes to 11 N. C. colleges.

He is survived by three sons, James A. Jr., Bahnson and Howard and three daughters, Mrs. Norwood Robinson and Miss Aurelia Gray of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. John Gallaher of Charlotte.

Politics Hot As Mock Vote Day Nearing

As election day loomed near, Y court political activity gained momentum yesterday as Democratic and Republican workers made last minute bids for support of their candidates in the Monday YWCA Straw Ballot.

The straw ballot, sponsored by the Public and Campus Affairs Committees of the YWCA, will be held in the lobby of the Y between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Monday.

Mase Chapin, chairmen of the voting said yesterday that ID cards will be stamped to prevent stuffing of the ballot boxes.

The Monday straw ballot is an effort to determine the trend of student opinion to the presidential election. On Tuesday, the nation will give its choice of candidates.

Has Reached Goal, Author Tells Group

By Tom Parramore

"I think I have done what I set out to do."

So said Mrs. Inglis Fletcher, the noted author, before a group of some 200 people yesterday in the Bull's Head Bookshop. She spoke in connection with the latest and last in her series of seven novels dealing with the history of North Carolina.

Mrs. Fletcher's new book, "Queen's Gift," is now on sale and completes her story which has its beginnings in North Carolina's earliest history and goes through the signing of the North Carolina constitution.

In discussing the making of "Queen's Gift," Mrs. Fletcher said, "In writing a book, one must first know in which direction it is going." She explained that she begins a novel by reading all that she can find on the particular period with which it is to deal. She picks her characters directly from historical records. As a result, Mrs. Fletcher finds that she has become somewhat of a geneologist, being besieged by letters from people who either are or think they are relatives of her characters.

In the beginning, Mrs. Fletcher said that she planned to start her characters off in North Carolina and have them migrate west, but "I've never ben able to get my characters out of North Carolina," she said.

Mrs. Fletcher went on to describe some of the hardships of turning out a novel. "The business of writing is work," she said. In elaborating on this, she ex-

(See AUTHOR, page 4)

Defense Meeting

A civil defense meeting will be held at the Town Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Purpose of the meeting is to encourage home defense volunteers, Colonel Thomas F. Taylor, civil defense director, said.

NEWS IN BRIEF

BERLIN—The Russians refused yesterday to let the United States Army ship tanks to Berlin on the Army train which runs through Soviet-occupied territory from West Germany. The Russians passed six Patton tanks on the army train two weeks ago, but last Saturday they started to interfere with Army supplies by refusing to pass 18 Army buses on the train from Berlin to the West. It was not immediately clear whether the Russians were merely making a new move in their harassment campaign or actually sought to prevent the United States, Great Britain and France from sending new battle-ready equipment to Berlin.

★

CHICAGO—Seven masked and armed bandits terrorized and robbed 150 persons at a charity card party yesterday and escaped with jewelry, furs and cash worth from $75,000 to $100,000. The men, each flourishing a .45 caliber automatic pistol, forced their way into the party, ripped the blouse from one woman, slugged an elderly man with a pistol butt, stripped the guests of their valuables and escaped into the darkness.

★

SEOUL—Counter-attacking UN infantrymen drove three Chinese Communists off Pinpoint Hill yesterday for the sixth time in 14 hours of fighting for Sniper Ridge Peak. The allies failed in three attempts to drive the Reds from tunnels and bunkers at the northwest edge of the central front ridge.

★

WASHINGTON—A Democratic National Committee official has been fired for allegedly helping negotiate a $9,000,000 government contract while working for the committee. Col. Lawrence Westbrook, who has served as liaison man between the committee and members of Congress, said yesterday that there was "nothing wrong" with the contract or his negotiations. The New York Herald Tribune called it "the biggest 5 percenter deal ever exposed in Washington." It said Westbrook and two other men stood to share a $450,000 commission.

★

NEW YORK—Korea was providing the fuel yesterday for the last-lap spurt in the presidential derby. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pledging in speech after speech to seek an end to the Korean conflict, just as consistently was being accused by Gov. Adlai Stevenson and President Truman of playing politics with peace to win votes.

Miami Trip Made Easy For Students

Students wishing to make train reservations for the Carolina-Miami game should do so now.

Reservations for individuals and groups may be made through the Graham Memorial Travel Agency. Efforts will be made to send groups together according to requests received.

The all-expense price of $39.62 includes bus transportation (Chapel Hill to Raleigh, and return), rail transportation (Raleigh to Miami and return) with reserved seat both ways, breakfast on the streamliner Silver Star going and dinner returning.

It will not be necessary for students to work up their own groups, since requests are being consolidated by the Travel Agency. Transportation may be purchased at the Travel Agency beginning Nov. 10.

Here are the schedules:

Leave Chapel Hill (Graham Mem.) Special bus 5:45 p.m. Nov. 26

Arrive Raleigh 6:30 p.m. Nov. 26.

Lv. Raleigh Silver Star 7 p.m. Nov. 26.

Ar. Miami 11 a.m. Nov. 27.

Lv. Miami Silver Star 12:05 p.m. Nov. 29.

Ar. Raleigh 3:43 a.m. Nov. 30.

Lv. Raleigh Special bus 3:45 a.m. Nov. 30.

Ar. Chapel Hill (Graham Mem.)

(See MIAMI, page 4)

Internationals May Be Feted Thanksgiving

UNC's 96 international students will now have an opportunity to spend Thanksgiving in the comfort and plenty of American home rather than in an empty dorm, thanks to the services of the University YWCA.

Members of the World Relatedness Committee of the Y, under the chairmanship of Jane Kottmeier, Orlando, Fla., have written rectors of churches in North Carolina, Virginia and South Carolina inquiring about accommodations in homes for the students who represent 33 nations. Hosts are asked also to assume transportation partly or wholly, if at all possible, as many of the students are on very limited fines.

This project was tried on an experimental basis last year by the Y Koffee Klatsch Committee which endeavors to help international students and American students to get better acquainted. Betty Anders, Hendersonville, chairman of the Koffee Klatsch committee says the students are very enthusiastic over the idea.

International students are attending the University on a variety of scholarships. Some are here on government aid either from their own country or the U. S., while many others are students under various scholastic reciprocal agreement.

Halloween Festival For Children

A Halloween festival for children will be staged at the parking lot of Fowler's Food Store tonight at 7 o'clock.

Main feature of the Jaycee-sponsored event will be a costume contest, with prizes being donated by Jaycee merchants. Refreshments will be given to everyone and it is hoped that a parade down Franklin St. to the post office will be held after the costume judging.

Parents will be asked to walk across the stage with their children before the judges. The competition will be divided into two classifications—for children up to five years of age, and from five to nine.

No Connections

Texas Gal Corrupted In Politics

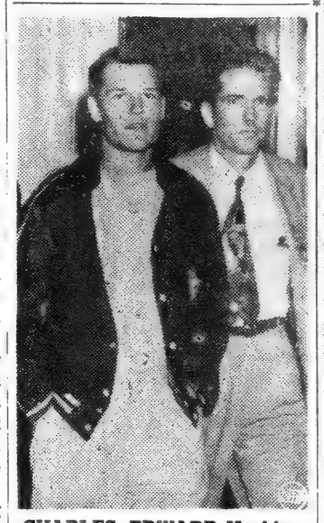
Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 30 — On the campus of the University of Houston they take such matters as special political funds seriously. In fact they take politics so seriously down this way that even candidates for beauty queen are feeling the heat of the 1952 campaign.

Pretty Marion Stafford, a well known campus politico with quite a platform, was ruled off the ticket running for homecoming queen because she spent more than the maximum allowed for campus campaigning. Marian was bounced for spending more than the $15 that the Student Election Council ruled "an average Joe without connections" could spend on a campaign.

Marian is a shapely art major and a seasoned office holder on the campus. She has served as ROTC sweetheart, year book beauty, junior class secretary and vice-president of the sophomore class.

When she ran for homecoming queen, she felt about it the way presidential candidates feel about the White House. It was the one contest she'd "rather win more than any other in the world." She was doing fine, too, until a couple of days before election. Then the roof fell in. The Election Council totaled up accounts and said Marian was out.



GM Is Outdated, Legislators Agree

Ken Penegar (SP) Introduces Resolution To Support Bid For New Union Building

By Louis Kraar

The Legislature sounded off last night on the need for a new Student Union Building. The request, legislators agreed, rang true with student opinion.

Ken Penegar (SP) proposed a resolution supporting a move for the new building and it was unanimously accepted. In effect, the Legislature reaffirmed a request to the Board of Trustees made earlier by a small group of students and faculty members. The resolution seemed to appropriately underline the students plea.

CHARLES EDWARD Hopkins, 21, was arrested by FBI agents as he left the Jacksonville, Fla., post office on charges of kidnapping, assaults and armed robberies. The young desperado was a member of a three-man gang that terrorized the Southeast, and is the second of the trio to be caught. Hopkins is shown leaving the Federal Bldg., with an FBI agent.—UP Telephoto.

The present Student Union building, Graham Memorial, was constructed in 1932. The enrollment at that time was only 2,000. "We've quite outgrown our old building," said Penegar. He pointed out that Graham Memorial is in a inconvenient location since it is away from the heart of campus.

A bill was passed which provides for the Legislature to meet at Phi Hall as of the next session.

Absent legislators were Al Ballard (SP), Dee Breslow (UP), Don Carroll (UP), Blake Ingram (UP-SP), Jane Kottmeier (SP), Tom McDonald (UP), Jim Parker (UP), David Spenser (UP), Ann Street (UP), and Margaret Thompson (SP).

Pentagon Report Says War Casualties Higher

Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The Pentagon reported today the highest seven-day toll of American casualties in Korea in almost a year, then added:

Americans may expect almost twice as large a number next week.

Today's summary, the last to be issued before the elections, contained 1,278 U. S. casualties. This put the total for 28 months of war at 123,395 men killed, wounded or missing. The war now has has taken the lives of 21,471 U. S. servicemen. Of these, 19,267 were killed in action, 19,997 died of wounds and 207 are among the 12,868 listed as missing.

The grim compilation released today is the largest since Nov. 9, 1951, when 1,721 casualties were reported. It was 300 above last week's announcement.

The Pentagon also flatly denied that it is purposely waiting until after the election to make such a heavy toll public. They declared they are sticking to the usual reporting methods—politics or not.

GEORGE BOBOT, Jr., seven-year-old St. Clairsville, Ohio boy who is stricken with a critical kidney disease than is only helped by eating watermelon, smiles gleefully as a newspaper appeal resulted in hundreds of offers of watermelons. — NEA Telephoto.

U.S. College Straw Ballots Indicate Ike

If the nation goes as most college students go, Dwight D. Eisenhower is a cinch for President.

The ACP national poll of student opinion asked students from all parts of the country: Which candidate do you want to win the presidential election? The results show a large majority for Eisenhower. Eisenhower: 57 percent; Stevenson: 33 percent; Undecided: 9 percent; Other: 1 percent.

Despite Eisenhower's popularity, there are almost as many Democrats as there are Republicans. Thirty-two percent of those polled claim to be Democrats, 36 percent Republicans and 30 percent independents.

Only on some of the southern campuses does Stevenson have a majority. In Texas and Oklahoma, though, students call themselves Democrats but favor Ike. At the same time, it seems impossible to tell which party leans toward from the candidate he favors. There is the gradute student at the University of California who says he will vote for Stevenson but calls himself "a Taft Republican."

Seniors and graduate students, while they still favor Ike, give him a much smaller majority than do other students.

Perhaps the dilemma of those students still undecided is best summed up by a sophomore at Northeast Missouri State Teachers college. He says, "Either candidate will probably send my friends and myself to the army."

UP Chooses Legislature Candidates

Legislature candidates from men's dormitory districts were nominated this week by the University Party.

The nominees are Gaither Walser, Bob Little, Dave Brown and Al Savitz from Dormitory District 1; Jimmy Babb, Bev Webb, Don Cheek and Dave Spencer from district 2; Bill Sanders and Tom Osborne from district 4, and Zack Waters, Dick Granholm, Bruce Pruitt and Bill Greer from district 5.

Mason Hawfield was nominated to fill the Legislature seat vacated by Joe Parker from district 1.

At the next meeting on Nov. 4 nominations for four Student Council seats, freshman and junior class officers, and The Daily Tar Heel editorship will be made.

Candidates To Be Named

The Bi-Partisan Selection Board will meet Monday to select candidates to run in the fall elections for Men's and Women's Councils.

Candidates will be chosen for the three junior seats on Women's Council and two junior, one sophomore, one freshman and one graduate seat on Men's Council.

The board will meet at 7 o'clock Monday night in the Men's Council room in Graham Memorial. Other meetings will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The time will be announced later.

The Selection Board is made up of two representatives from the Men's Council, Women's Council, Student Party and University Party. It was formed by the two parties in an effort to keep partisan politics out of the councils.

Deadline Thursday

Deadline for all nominations for fall elections is next Thursday at 6 p.m., Elections Board Chairman JerryCook said yesterday.

All nominations and petitions from parties, independents and the Bi-partisan Selection Board may be turned in before then to Cook at 26 Steele, the Sigma Chi house or the Student Government office.

An Elections Board member will be in the vice-president's office in Graham Memorial between 4 and 6 p.m. Thursday to receive nominations.

It's Time For A Change

New Bible Changes Language, Not Doctrine, Says Dr. Weigle

By Walt Dear

It's time for a change—biblically speaking.

A change of phraseology, not doctrine, and a change encompassing new truths in the language discovered in more ancient documents than those used for the King James Version of the Holy Bible.

So declared Dean Luther Weigle in a talk here Wednesday night at Gerrard Hall. Dean Weigle is chairman of the committee that compiled the Revised Standard Version of the Bible which recently went on sale.

The committee's job was to revise the English translation of it, Dean Weigle pointed out. While the King James Version is aptly called the noblest monument of English prose, it has serious defections, he said. The New Testament as translated for the English in 1611 is based on a few medieval manuscripts, while the committee had 450 Greek manuscripts to consider, of which 200 were drawn up in the sixth century or before.

"We were better prepared for the translation, more so than translators of any other ancient text," Dean Weigle said. About 200 manuscripts are available for Homer dating back to the ninth century, he noted.

Copying errors have created misinterpretations throughout the Old and New Testaments as well as Elizabethan phraseology. In Acts 17:3 where Peter was "alleging" that Jesus was the savior of mankind, "alleging" meant "proving the case"

(See BIBLE, page 3)

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publications Board of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where it is published daily, except Monday, examination and vacation periods, and during the official summer terms. Entered as second class matter at the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates mailed $4 per year, $1.50 per quarter; delivered $6 and $2.25 per quarter.

Interim Editorial Board.....ROLFE NEILL, BEV BAYLOR, SUE BURRESS
Managing Editor ..... ROLFE NEILL
Business Manager ..... JIM SCHENCK
Sports Editor ..... BIFF ROBERTS

News Ed. .....Jody Levey | Soc. Ed. .....Deenie Schoeppe
Sub Mgr .....Carolyn Reichard | Circ. Mgr. .....Donald Hogg
Ass't. Sub. Mgr. ..... Delaine Bradsher | Asst. Spts. Ed. .....Tom Peacock
Natl Adv Mgr..... Wallace Pridgen | dv. Mgr. .....Ned Beaty

News Staff—Bob Slough, John Jamison, Punchy (Billy) Grimes, Louis Kraar, Jerry Reece, Tom Parramore, Alice Chapman, Dixon Wallace, Tony Burke, Jennie Lynn, Tish Rodman.

Sports Staff—Vardy Buckalew, Paul Cheney, Melvin Lang, Everett Parker, Charlie Dunn.

Society Staff—Peggy Jean Goode, Janie Bugg, Alice Hinds.

Advertising Staff—Buzzy Sull, Judy Taylor, Joyce Jowdy, Bozy Sugg, Nancy Perryman.

Photographers—Cornell Wright, Bill Stonestreet, Ruffin Woody.

Night Editor for this issue: John Jamison.

Opinion Poles

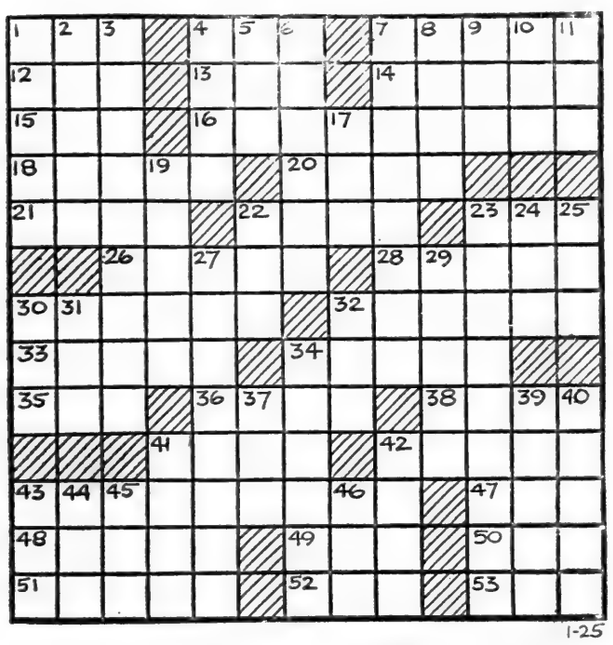
Two universities, one northern and one southern, met the racial problem recently in exactly opposite ways.

New York University announced it was striking questions of race and religion from its application forms.

The University of Alabama refused two Negro women admittance to the graduate school. The women plan to file suit against the University in federal court, on grounds that their constitutional rights have been violated.

The Crimson-White, student newspaper there, sided with the administration. It declared in an editorial, "We maintain there is no race hatred among the vast majority of southerners. Certainly we segregate our schools, busses and social meetings. It's only good sense. . . . Equal rights for all can never become a reality until we all feel it, and want it, and think we can live together without hating each other . . ."

But the editorial granted that "Those Negroes do, technically, by the Constitution of the United States . . . have the right to enter the University. A court will confirm it we are sure."



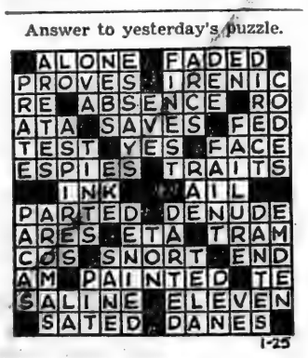
Chapel Hill Weekly

Bowl Battle

That the bowl games at New Year's are an unwholesome growth, that they constitute outrageous overemphasis on football, has long been recognized by everybody except persons whose devotion to the game is so fanatical that it paralyzes their concern for decent standards in education.

The number and influence of these persons is tremendous. They are capable of exerting, and do exert, powerful pressure on college authorities.

A year ago the Southern Conference decided that its member institutions should not engage in bowl games. President Gordon Gray of the University of North Carolina was a leader in this reform. Recently he has said that he is not sure that a Conference ban is the right approach to the problem, that maybe the decision as to whether or not a college should let it's football team play in a bowl at New Year's should be left to the college itself. I believe this would be a bad procedure. It would produce a chaotic situation in Southern Conference football and soon the bowl games would become again the evil barnacles on education that they were before. President Gray is giving the matter new study. I (Editor Louis Graves) hope his new study will lead him to hold to his first stand.



1-25

HORIZONTAL
1. head
4. aged
7. swiftness
12. wander from truth
13. by
14. shield
15. American humorist
16. critical praise
18. calyx leaf
20. writing implements
21. epochs
22. peruse
23. chart
26. is conveyed
28. feeble-minded
30. glories
32. critical moments
33. Finnish poems
34. military school pupil
35. incite
36. narrated
38. curtail
41. Italian coin
42. weave rope
43. Oriental
47. unit of heavyweight
48. evergreen tree
49. prefix: wrong
50. grampus
51. lose blood
52. toper
53. organ of vision

VERTICAL
1. desist
2. command
3. making ready
4. iridescent gem
5. headed
6. peaches
7. flag
8. caressive touches
9. silkworm
10. personality
11. lair
17. meadow
19. stage whisper
22. thing, in law
23. evergreen parasitic shrub
24. malt drink
25. foot-like organ
27. fated
29. female relative
30. prefix: before
31. floor covering
32. despicable person
34. alleges
37. worthless scrap
39. dentine
40. pennies
41. wash
42. remainder
43. tennis stroke
44. house addition
45. compete
46. island of Cyclades

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

1-25

Average time of solution: 22 minutes.
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Express Yourself

Editor:

One score years ago, our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new administration, conceived in fear and dedicated to the proposition that all men like a handout. Now we are engaged in a great election, testing whether this administration or any administration, so conceived and o dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of this election. We have dedicated a portion of our income to a final resting place: the pockets of those who have given mink coats that their wives might live. It is not altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. And, in a larger sense, we cannot endure, we cannot tolerate, we cannot submit to this farce. The misguided Democrats, living and dead, who struggled here, have not placed the situation beyond our power to add or detract. The voters will greatly note and long remember what we say here, for they cannot forget what Harry Tuman did in Washington. It is for us, the voters, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work that the Republican Party has so far nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these betrayed Americans we take increased devotion to that cause for which the Republican Party is giving its full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that this party has not labored in vain; that this nation, under Dwight David Eisenhower shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the White House.

Kenton Creuser

ROTC, again

To "Name Withheld by Reguest":

In regard to your letter on Tuesday of this week, I am sure it must have caused great sympathy in the hearts of those who read it.

No doubt those "lucky" wounded and fatigued boys in Korea would weep bitter tears for you, were they able to hear your sad tale and compare troubles; a tale which even topped that of the Harvard freshman who left his Cadillac touring car and wealthy home because he was irked at the restrictions imposed upon freshmented and confused Mexican same soldiers had no chance to become a member of a college R.O.T.C. outfit enabling them to enjoy their four years of college free from draft and combat fears. How they would feel sorry for you being able to wear cashmeres and "bucks" ONLY six days a week, being required to march at the Carolina-Duke game on a SATURDAY AFTERNOON and also being prohibited from drinking at that game which you called "atroscity."

I think it only fair to say that I, too, am a member of a R.O.T.C. unit on this campus and I am remaining anonymous also, but for a different purpose. I do not wish to be accused of . . . shall we say "apple polishing"? I suppose I should apologize for writing such a sarcastic reply, yet it was hard to hold back since you sounded so indignant and outraged and filled with self-pity.

Name Withheld by Request, also.

Thoughts we doubt ever got thought

(From Greensboro Daily News)

Success in serving a foreign food specialty depends usually upon a gourmet touch in preparation. Not that anything in them is so difficult. But each can be either delicious if properly flavored or terribly uninteresting if not. Herbs and MSG are flavor flatterers which should be used much more than they are.

Once you become sensitive to food flavors, including a full appreciation of herbs, it's fun to try to duplicate what you eat. Once you do that it means waking up in the middle of the night thinking, "Onion! That is what it needed! A little grated onion!"

"Got to Keep Those Old Teeth Clean"

Drew Pearson

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Walter Winchell has just made public affidavits alleging that Harry S. Truman was a member of the Ku Klux Klan in 1922. Most significant thing about these affidavits is that they were obtained in October, 1944, when Harry S. Truman was running for Vice-President.

However, they were not published by Winchell at that time. If so, the voters would have had an opportunity to pass on their validity when they could have influenced an election, not eight years later when the question of Truman's background is purely academic.

Various editors have complained since 1944 that the press did not properly report on many other activities of the man then running for Vice President, now the President. They argued that the job of Vice President can be just as important as that of President, and that Veeps are usually unknown men, picked by a handful of party bosses during the hasty closing days of a convention.

In view of this, and in view of the fact that Senator Nixon was not only handpicked but relatively unknown either to Eisenhower or to the public, here are more little-known facts in the record of a man who could be President.

First, let it be said that Senator Nixon has been approached for comment on these facts, but has not made himself available. His press-relations officer has stated not only to this column but repeatedly to the press that Nixon will not answer further questions on his finances nor publish his tax returns. He has refused to hold press conferences.

However, here are some further facts on which the public is entitled to clarification:

1. Loan From War Contractor—During the closing days of the war, Nixon, an attorney in the Navy was given the job of renegotiating the contract of ERCO, at Riverdale, Maryland. This was an assignment which could mean money saved for the taxpayers. The renegotiating officer sat as virtual judge and jury, empowered to decide on a rebate to the government or a rebate to the contractor.

While negotiating the ERCO contract, Nixon let drop the fact that he wanted to go back to California to run for Congress and borrowed money from ERCO to pay his expenses home. Later he repaid the money. It may have been purely coincidental, but ERCO received a refund from the government on its war work.

ERCO officials confirm the above facts. Senator Nixon was not available for comment.

2. Office Expenses—In making his radio report to the nation, Nixon stated that he had used his $18,000 expense fund to pay office and travel expenses, thus saving the taxpayers money.

Despite this, the Senator claimed $1,294.05 in deductible office expenses in 1951 beyond his $2,500 tax-free allowance. Part of this was a claim of $600 for taking constituents to lunch.

In 1950 he also claimed a deduction of $1,471 for office expenses, part of which was $260 for constituents' lunches.

Yet the price, Waterhouse Audit of his $18,000 expense fund for the same years listed "meetings and luncheons at California hotels $410" also "meals, taxicab fares and parking charges paid for visitors, $382.52."

Obviously the price, Waterhouse Audit and the Senator's own expense deductions which were charged to the taxpayer conflict.

3. Tax Exemption—In March, 1951 Mrs. Nixon filed on behalf of herself and husband a sworn statement in California that their joint property did not exceed $10,000. This was to enable them to take advantage of a California tax reduction whereby a veteran in reduced circumstances is given a tax exemption of about $50.

In July of that same year, Nixon purchased his $41,000 house in Washington, making a down payment of $20,000. Earlier that year he had acquired a smaller house in Whittier, Calif.

If he lacked $10,00 in March of 1951, where did he get the $20,000 in July? This is a question the public has a right to ask of any candidate for office.

4. Veterans Record—The best way to judge a Senator's record is by his work on committees. Nixon belongs to the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, an important group because it handles the Taft-Hartley Act, labor legislation, health, education.

Out of 18 full committee meetings during the last session, however, Nixon attended only four.

He is also a member of the Subcommittee on Veterans Affairs, which investigated the Veterans' Medical Care Program, found it bogged down and inadequate. Thanks to painstaking work by this committee, the Veterans' Medical Care Program was completely reorganized and revitalized.

However, this was done with no thanks to Nixon. Though a member of the American Legion and publicly active at Veterans' rallies, he had the worst attendance record of any member of the subcommittee. When

(See PEARSON Page 4)

"Pink Circus" REVIEWS

Last night the premiere performance of Gonzalo Estrada's "The Pink Circus," the Playmakers' first experimental production of the year, took place at the Playmaker Theater.

A fine cast of veteran Playmakers and promising newcomers was assembled for this equally fine play by student director John Clayton.

In the difficult leading role of Jimmie Romero, the tormented and confused Mexican boy, was Hal England. Although this is only Hal's second year in Chapel Hill, he has distinguished himself as 302 in "Darkness at Noon," the Radical in "Winterset," and the Bowling Champion in the experimental, "Liberty Flats." The role of Jimmy fits England like a glove, for his fort is heavy emitional acting.

Nancy Green essayed the very dramatic role of Florencia, Jimmie's straying mother. This role was a complete about face for Miss Green, who is remembered for her performance as Coretta, the delightfully carefree country gal in last year's "Spring for Sure" and for her work in many other light comedies.

Manley Wellman played the conniving Uncle Carlos, with whom Florencia is having an affair. Wellman too is another veteran, having appeared in "Ten Little Indians," "Marilyn, My Marilyn," and a number of other productions.

As Jimmie's two friends, Bush and Eddie, we had Bill Waddell and Alan O'Neal. Waddell is a comparative newcomer to the Playmakers, and everyone hopes to see more of him. O'Neal was seen last year in "The Shining Dark." His wife, Frances, is appearing as Pomposa, the wierd mid-wife in the abortion scene. Although last year was only Mrs. O'Neal's first with the Playmakers, she is an experienced performer having appeared in "Spring for Sure," "Blithe Spirit," "Liberty Flats," "The Shining Dark," and "Marilyn, My Marilyn."

Also appearing in important roles were Jane Kottmeier, Betty Vickery, Martha Morris, Carl Williams and Jim Riordan. The large supporting cast included Betty Lentz, Martha Boyle, John Taylor, Martha Davis, Dick Burton, Rose Marie Raymer, Florence Williams, and William Casstevens.

In addition to John Clayton, director, the production staff included Dick Eppler, set designer, Anne Edwards, lighting designer, and Jeannette Pratt, costume designer.

Tar Babies Play William & Mary In Home Opener

Down In Front

By Biff Roberts

Fixers No Scholars

IT LOOKS AS IF the smart boys never learn. With all the publicity and scandal which arose from the basketball briberies which finally got taken out for an airing last winter, you'd think the gamblers would hibernate, at least until the corps of Kefauver layed down that clean-sweeping broom.

But wire reports yesterday brought out the fact that players from the University of Maryland had been offered up to $1,400 to keep the score down in their game with LSU last weekend. The Terps were favored by 21 points and the student who approached quarterback Jack Scorbath, center Tom Cosgrove, and Frank Navarro, wanted to keep the point spread 20 points or under. The trio reported the bribe to co-captain Ed Fullerton, who in turn told athletic director and football coach, Jim Tatum. Then the Maryland team went out and trounced LSU, 34-6, a margin of 28 points.

A point has been brought out that perhaps it was the work of, as Tatum put it, "just a young punk showing off." But $1,400 is a good bit of money for a "punk" student to be flipping around so lightly. There had to be something else behind it. But on the other hand, it seems rather silly for the smart boys to try anything of the kind with the heat of the cage fixes still warming the nation.

Crime Shouldn't Pay

REGARDLESS OF WHETHER it is a local setup, envolving this lone student and perhaps two or three cohorts, or whether it is another fix envolving a more national setup, the penalty that is imposed on the offenders can't be too stiff. To me, one of the most disgusting newspaper pictures ever printed was one of the fat Mr. Solazzo, who was an important cog in the basketball fixes, being taken into court—apparently un-perturbed by the fact that he had help wreck the lives of a dozen boys. I don't think I would get an argument when I say that most college students feel the financial pinch right often during the year. The fixers take advantage of this lack of funds and capitalize. Too often the players, seeing only the green in front of them and not the black circumstances which may result from the cutting down of the point spread, take the bribes, spend the money, and then are forced to battle with their consciences the rest of their lives.

The three Maryland players did a commendable thing in turning down the money and reporting the attempted fix. Center Cosgrove could have benefitted especially, for he was offered $1,000 for himself. Now that they have the go-between in the case, the police will evidently round up the rest of the crew, whether it be just students or a larger ring. And whatever penalty is imposed can't be too heavy. The penalty the fixers place on boys who are talked into taking the money for lowering the point spread is far greater than any jail sentence they may receive.

Here We Go Again

WE'RE OFF AGIN tomorrow for our second game in a row away from home, leaving with the main hope that this fourth game, down in Knoxville, Tennessee, can produce better results than our three other attempts at winning a game this season have. From the reports of things and looking at the record Tennessee has compiled so far, it looks as though we're in for another tough time of it.

The Volunteers have a rugged defensive line, one which has allowed but three touchdowns in five games. They've lost but one game, that to Duke, 7-0, earlier in the season at Durham. It doesn't look as if our running offense, unless we can get the pitchouts working, will get us much ground against their rugged line. But don't give up hope. We have a chance against the Vols, and that chance may come on the arm of Marshall Newman. The Tennessee pass defense is far from perfect having allowed 26 completions out of 63 tries by the opposition for a completion average of 41.2. If Newman, who has passed for three of Carolina's four touchdowns, can hit his receivers, then the 20 points which the smart boys are giving us won't mean much.

Then, too, there's no reason why our running game can't lend a hand. The Vols have given up an average of 160 yards a game on the ground. We seemed to have learned the value of the pitchout against Notre Dame last weekend and those pitchouts can be of great value against the Volunteers. Then you have to consider that the Volunteers have played Chattanooga and Wofford, and a mediocre Mississippi State in compiling their offensive and defensive records. It's not hard to look good against competition like that.

So take off that coon skin hat and put away that hawg rifle. We might get over the mountains yet.

Harriers Meet Tennessee In Race Tomorrow Morning

The North Carolina cross country team, shut out in its opener against Maryland last week, will be out to break into the win column tomorrow against Tennessee at 10 a.m. in Knoxville.

The team lost two weeks of practice early in the season and was out of shape when it met the Terps, but it is getting closer to top shape every day.

Bobby Barden, freshman sensation who led the harriers last year, is still out because of after effects from a light seige of polio. Barden is expected to begin working out some time next week, but will not be able to run against the Vols.

Morris Osborne has turned in the best performances for the Tar Heels so far this year, leading the Carolina agregation in the Maryland meet. Osborne heads a young but promising team, that should improve greatly over the season.

Cross country coach Dale Ranson was disappointed at the showing of the Tar Heels last week, but was by no means dismayed, and is hoping for the best tomorrow. Other outstanding team members are Bob Webb, Bill Higgins, Al Marx, Boyd Newman, Ed Vogel, and Pete McGee.

Jayvees Go After Fourth Straight Win Of Season

By Melvin Lang

Carolina's undefeated junior varsity makes its home debut here this afternoon as it goes up against the jayvees from William and Mary. Kickoff time for the contest is scheduled for 3:00 p.m. in Kenan Stadium.

With a few exceptions, the same players that started in the Tar Babies' first three games will be in the opening lineups against the Virginians this afternoon. Back George Wallin and end Will Alexander, regulars on the squad up until the Notre Dame game, have been promoted to the varsity and will travel to Knoxville for the Carolina-Tennessee clash.

Leading the split-T attack for the Carolina jayvees, who have now won eight straight contests over the last two seasons, will be quarterback Ed Laughlin. Ernie Liberati, a part-time varsity performer, will back up Laughlin at the under-center spot. This combination has the newly installed formation working to perfection so far this season.

Worrell To Play

Coach Ted Hazelwood will probably round out his starting offensive backfield with halfbacks Glo Worrell and Billy Hawkes, and Billy Joe Johnson at the fullback post. Worrell has been one of the most consistent ground gainers all year, while he and Hawkes have paced the team scoring.

Johnson scored the initial touchdown last Friday night as Carolina edged Wake Forest, 13-7, in Burlington. Halfback Stan Porginski and fullback Nick Marcopulos will be ready to go in, giving the offensive backfield plenty of reserve strength.

The offensive line will have Van Weatherspoon and Bob Lee at the terminals, and Ralph Beaver and Ray Crahen at the tackles. Starting guards will be Bill Giles and Tom Maultsby, and Bill Koman will handle the center duties.

Weatherspoon is the leading target for Liberati and Laughlin's passes. The big fellow hauled in a toss from Liberati to score the clincher against Wake Forest, and also scored on a pass against Virginia.

Rugged Line

The rugged defensive line has been one of the strong points of the talent-loaded Tar Babies all season, with such standouts as ends Norman Lane and Bill King, tackles Don McCormick and Dick Frucci. Guards Barry Pruss and Bill Prothro team to make the center of the line almost unmoveable for opposing teams. Paul Reeves and Baxter Mangum have been outstanding as linebackers in the previous games, and will get another chance to show their talents against William and Mary.

Terry Lawrence and Charlie Poindexter at the halves, with Al Long at safety, take care of the passing attack for the opposing teams. Long is one of the fastest players on the squad, while Poindexter also handles the point after touchdown chores.

Little Known

Very little is known about the William and Mary squad, as the jayvee opposition is not scouted. On the basis of its all-winning record, Carolina will enter the game as a definite favorite to take its fourth victory of the year.

Students and faculty will be admitted to the contest upon presentation of their identification cards at gate two. Admission for the general public will be one dollar.

In its previous contests, Carolina white-washed Fort Bragg, 7-0, slugged Virginia, 31-14, and edged past Wake Forest, 13-7.

Wrestlers Wanted

Wrestling coach Sam Barnes has called a meeting of all students interested in trying out for the team tomorrow morning from 9:30 - 12:30.

Experience is not necessary, Barnes said, and both varsity and freshman aspirants are asked to report.

Winston Comes From Behind To Win

Winston scored 12 points in the last half to come from behind and defeat Lewis 12-6 in the top four o'clock contest yesterday afternoon.

Lewis scored first on a neatly executed pass play which sent Charles Pittard into the end zone for the touchdown. The extra point was missed. Both teams were sparked by their defense for the remainder of the half.

Behind, Winston opened fast to score a quick touchdown, but missed a chance to go ahead when their try for the extra point failed. However midway of the last half Barry Pate slipped through the Lewis secondary to score the winning points for Winston.

Using a combination of good defense and a strong offense, Manley-1 edged Everett-1, 13-7, in a game that was close all the way. The winners staved off a late rally by Everett and then went on to score the winning touchdown with less than three minutes left in the game.

The winning tally for Manley was scored by Carl Gregory and the extra point was added by Bill Robinson. Back Bob Randall scored the only touchdown for Everett. Center Bill Roberson scored also for the winners in the first half.

In the defensive battle of the day, the Pi Lambs lost to the Chi Psi-1 team, 1-0. The game was decided in a sudden death playoff after it ended 0-0 in regular time.

Both teams missed numerous oportunities to score during regular time as the defense stiffened each time the opposition neared its goal. The Chi Psi's had a chance to win the game in regular time but missed their big opportunity when the alert Pi Lamb secondary intercepted a pass.

With less than a minute to go in the game a Pi Lamb lineman blocked a kick to give his team possession of the ball on the Chi Psi 18 yard line. But this scoring chance was stopped when a wild pass was intercepted.

In the only other 4 o'clock game scheduled Alexander - 1 scored a 1-0 forfeit victory over Graham Dormitory.

Football Team Chooses Lackey, Walser Co-Captains Against Vols

By Tom Peacock

The North Carolina football team elected Dick Lackey of Shelby and Benny Walser of Lexington co-captains for tomorrow's game with Tennessee before finishing practice in Chapel Hill with a light workout yesterday.

Lackey has been a standout all year as left halfback on the defensive squad, and will direct the team while on defense, but Walser will be in the unique position of being offensive captain in the first game in which he starts.

Walser caught a touchdown pass for one of Carolina's two scores against Notre Dame last week, and has been notably gluefingered in practice, but has never gotten the starting nod from coach Snavely before as he is on the smallish side.

Stellar Play

The little end's stellar play both in practice and in the actual contests couldn't go unnoticed too long by either his teammates or his coaches, so he was voted co-captain by the team as soon as it was announced that he was a starter.

Lackey is still remembered by Tar Heels for his interception of a Maryland pass last year, and his subsequent 80-yard runback that almost resulted in breaking up the ball game. Lackey has been one of the most dependable of the Carolina defensive backs this year, and has already made long runbacks after interceptions.

The Tar Heels leave Chapel Hill today, taking off for Knoxville shortly after noon on a chartered plane. They will run through a brief workout upon reacing the Volunteers' field.

Tickets Left

Carolina will be a two touchdown underdog when it takes the field tomorrow at 2:00 for the game. The Vols started slow this year, but have improved with every game, while Carolina has yet to score a win in three contests. Tennessee's only blight is a 7-0 loss to mighty Duke.

Earlier in the week, a 30,000 ticket advance sale had been reported from Knoxville, but very few tickets for the game have been sold since then, especially here in Chapel Hill. Plenty tickets are available for the game in Knoxville, for supporters who wish to attend the game but were too late to purcase one here.

The Tar Heels' chances for an upset tomorrow will rest largely on the ability of the offensive unit to move the ball on a sustained drive. The four touchdowns that Carolina has scored this year all came on breaks, three on passes set up by fumbles, and the fourth was set up by a 70 yard off-tackle play.

The Carolina offense has improved steadily with each game, but Tennessee has one of the leading defenses in the country. The Vol defense held a high scoring Duke team to 7 points, blanked Wofford, and staved off Alabama to give Tennessee an upset victory.

The Vols defense is led by 239 pound tackle Doug Atkins, an outstanding candidate for All-America, and a host of experienced linemen schooled in the rough and ready style of Tennessee head coach General Bob Neyland.

Tenessee is paced on offense by Andy Kozar, standout in the Southeastern Conference at fullback for three years, and sophomore tailback Jimmy Wade. The Vols are the first team that Carolina has met this year to use the single wing.

—Bible—

(Continued from Page1)

to 11th century Englishmen, Dean Weigle said.

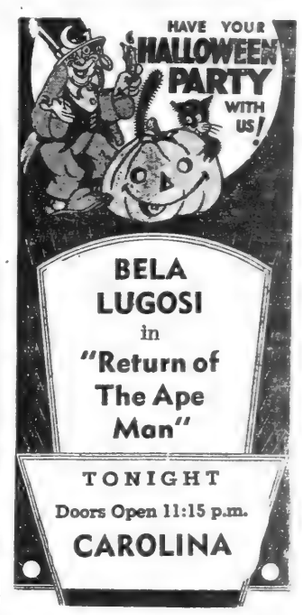
Even Webster's New International Dictionary incorrectly uses the King James Version to illustrate that allege means "assert without proof," according to Dean Weigle. The Revised Standard Version, going back to the early Greek texts, clears up the problem by substituting "proving" for "alleging."

"The Revised Standard Version is not a literary curiosity. It is the committee's hope that it will be used for worship in churches everywhere," Dean Weigle said.

One of the major points in the Protestant faith is that the word should be plain and simple. The new version states the record of Christ's life and work far more truly and clearly than the King James Version and for that reason, undergirds the Christian faith far better."

Dean Weigle has chaired the committee for the last 17 years. He served as dean of the Yale Divinity School frob 1928 to 1949.

MURALS



Wednesday's Results

Tag Football

Kap Sig 16, ATO 0
Phi Gam (1) 33, Theta Chi 7
KA 12, Pi Kap Phi 0
Phi Delta Chi 22, Beta (2) 0
Sig Nu (2) 12, Phi Kap Sig 8
DKE (2) 26, Lamb Chi 0

Volleyball

Law School def Med School (3), 15-4; 15-4.
Emerson def Med School (6), 15-11; 15-7.

Stationery—Books—Greeting Cards—Gift Shop
Esterbrook Pens—Picture Frames and Picture Framing
Thomas Book Store
Cor. Corcoran & Chapel Hill Sts., Durham
Phone J-2331
Shaeffer Pens—Kodaks & Supplies—Desk Lamps
L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters—Desk Pads
Expert Repair on all makes of Typewriters

WHAT A WONDERFUL FEELING . . . To Know that your car is ready for "Anything" that winter can throw at you.

Let Our Expert Service Dept. Check Your

- Battery & Complete Ignition
- Check Radiator & Install Anti-freeze
- Check Heater & Defroster

HAZZARD MOTOR CO.
151 W. Franklin—Your General Motors Dealer—Ph. 9491

Week-End
HOUSE-CLEANING SALE
Saturday Through Monday
This Week—Shopworn and Overstock Books In CRITICISM, ESSAYS and USED SETS.
THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP
205 E. Franklin St.—Open Evenings

ORDER YOUR Christmas PHOTO GREETINGS HERE!
They're really Personal
Your own snapshot is printed as part of each card. All you need to do is give us the picture negative and select the card design you want. Prompt service on all orders.
FOISTER'S CAMERA STORE, Inc.

Quick Safety Tape Application

A special station for applying Scotchlite safety tape on automobiles will be set up at the intersection of Franklin and Columbia Streets downtown tomorrow morning by the Jaycees.

Cass Johnson, in charge of the project, said that drivers would be able to pull alongside the curb at a booth in front of the University Service Station, where a crew of Jaycees will apply the tape, and drive away in less than a minute. A five-foot strip of the red reflective tape will be put on the front or rear bumper of an auto for a dollar.

We Invite You
To Use Our Convenient
Checking Service

For real convenience plus safety, handle your expenses and pay your bills by check. All accounts are welcome regardless of size. Open your account today. The cost is so very small. Make our bank your "banking home away from home."

FOR THAT NEXT TRIP CARRY SAFE. SPENDABLE TRAVELERS CHECKS— ONLY 75c PER $100

The Bank of Chapel Hill
CHAPEL HILL CARRBORO
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

BLAZING IN ITS ACTION— THUNDERING IN ITS DRAMA— STIRRING IN THE SWEEP OF ITS MAGNIFICENT PRODUCTION . . .

YES— IN 25 YEARS ONLY THREE... "COVERED WAGON" "CIMARRON" and now...

HOWARD HAWKS' GREAT PRODUCTION "RED RIVER"

Monterey Productions presents HOWARD HAWKS' "RED RIVER" starring JOHN WAYNE · MONTGOMERY CLIFT WALTER BRENNAN · JOANNE DRU

T-O-D-A-Y O-N-L-Y Varsity

MAKES MOVIES REALLY LOOK BETTER! NOW! Better Vision from EVERY Seat with our Amazing NEW CYCLORAMIC SCREEN No Glare! No Eye Strain! IT'S EASY ON THE EYES!

LATE SHOW T-O-N-I-T-E

Ride 'em cowpoke!

Here's the real low-down on Big-Time Rodeo... the Wildest Show on Earth!

WALD-KRASNA Productions present SUSAN HAYWARD ROBERT MITCHUM ARTHUR KENNEDY ARTHUR HUNNICUTT in "THE LUSTY MEN" with FRANK FAYLEN · ELEANOR TODD

What Goes On Here

Cheerleaders

Bo Thorpe asks all cheerleaders to meet with him today at 4 p.m. at Memorial Hall.

Variety Show

The Campus Red Cross Activities Committee will meet Monday at 4 p.m. in the Grail Room, Graham Memorial, to organize a student varieties show to be staged for the Veteran's Hospital, Ft. Bragg. Students interested in the show are invited to Monday's meeting.

GM Board

The Graham Memorial Board of Directors will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Grail Room.

Calendar

The Nov.-Dec. issue of the student activities calendar will be distributed Monday. It will be run in Sunday's DAILY TAR HEEL.

Methodist Halloween

A halloween party will be held at 7:30 tonight at the Methodist Church. Interested students are invited.

Firebug Is Sought By Forest Officials

ASHEVILLE — A pyromaniac was being hunted here yesterday as officials reported more than 20 forest fires were deliberately started in the area. District Forester B. H. Corpening said that he had "few clues and little or no time to investigate" since all efforts must go into keeping the present fires under control. He added that the situation has eased up slightly since Tuesday, "but is still worse than serious."

—Author—

(Continued from Page 1)

plained that she "sat many times for a day without writing hardly a word." In order to know more of her settings, Mrs. Fletcher also attended a class in history here at UNC.

